HOME TOWN Talk

By R. C. THOMAS

Like Topsy, it "jest growed," did the Annual Firemen's Barbecue, held on the evening of the third Thursday of August for many years. It began as a small affair, for family members of the Winters Volunteer Fire Department, and for ex-firemen. Then other people were invited, and then others, and others—until, finally, the entire community could be found at the barbecue on that particular Thursday evening.

At first, the barbecue was cooked on pits built next to the city jail, and then last year, bigger pits were built on a vacant lot in the Sunlawm Addition. Members of the Volunteer Fire Department serve as cooks.

At first, and for many years, there was enthusiastic competition among individuals and business firms to provide the meat for the barbecue, and the firm's were donated by various people. Sometimes, it would be known who would provide the beef for the barbecue a couple of years in advance. It was almost a "bid" proposition. There most always was a waiting list, as people sought ways to express their appreciation to the firemen for their services, and to help promote the barbecue.

Then circumstances began to change. The price of beef, and the amount needed to feed the large crowds, became big factors, until finally the cost to one individual or firm became prohibitive. Then, the cost was spread among several firms or individuals who made donations and the crowds grew and grew.

Then it occurred to the sponsors—the firemen—that those who attended the barbecue would be glad to help out with the expenses, if they were only asked—and a new organization was formed around the Volunteer Fire Department, called the Firemen's Association. The members of this organization would have an opportunity to take part in the promotion of the barbecue, and the cost of the affair would be spread thinner. The firemen do not plan to restrict attendance, but only give everyone a chance to help promote the barbecue.

Membership in the Association is only $5 per family, and this entitles every member of the immediate family to attend the barbecue. Members of the Volunteer Fire Department, who have contributed a lot of talent and muscle over the years in promotion of the annual barbecue, feel that the new method of financing the event will work, if the people are given the opportunity to take part.

So if you have not joined the Firemen's Association, you still have a few days to do so—or you can pick up that membership card on the night of the barbecue.

We feel as do the firemen, that this method of financing one of the biggest annual affairs of the entire community will meet the approval of most everyone in the community. Many times many people have felt they would like to help in this project, if they had only been asked to do so. This will give them an opportunity to help, and the cost to any one individual will not be prohibitive.

Just think about it for a moment—you can take your whole family out for an evening and a good meal of the some of the finest barbecue ever to be prepared—and the cost is low. You can't hardly beat this kind of deal any place.

Ellis Moore handed us the following clipping from The American Legion Magazine:

Point of View: Two shoe salesmen went to Africa to open up new territories. Three days after their arrival the first salesman sent a cable: "Re-

Firemen Association Looking For Members

For many years, the third Thursday of each August has been set aside for the annual Firemen's Barbecue, sponsored by the Winters Volunteer Fire Department. If you've attended one or many of these barbecues in past years, you know what's in store—plenty of good barbecue and fellowship—and you'll want to go again this year.

There's still plenty of time to become a member of the Winters Firemen's Association, the new loosely-organized group formed to sponsor the annual event.

Membership in the Association costs only $5.00, and a membership card entitles the bearer and his immediate family to attend the barbecue. Membership fee may be paid by contacting the Fire Chief, Marvin Bedford, at Hoppe's Texaco Station, or from any member of the Volunteer Fire Department.

In past years, meat was provided by one or several individuals for each barbecue. For the last few years, business firms and individuals have been solicited for donations to be used in purchasing the meat. This year, for the first time, according to members of the Volunteer Firemen, arrangements have been made to give everyone an opportunity to help in this endeavor, by organizing the Firemen's Association to promote the barbecue. Admission to the barbecue, which will be held in the Winters Community Center, will be by invitation card or Association membership card.

Membership cards may also be obtained at the Community Center on the night of the barbecue, it was stated by the firemen.

Baptists Stir Memories As Plans Are Made To Tear Down Old Church

Memories flew thick and fast and emotions were stirred as members of the First Baptist Church went across the street Sunday night to worship in the "old building" for the last time, before it is razed to make way for more educational space and church offices.

There was one member who as a five-year-old remembered climbing the steps of the building then under construction and spelling out the letters above the door, "God Is Love," and asking what they meant.

Others recalled courtship days carried on at the church, and perhaps a wedding; some remembered revivals and some had memories of taking a loved one there for the last time. The building was erected in 1915 and served as the church until a modern sanctuary was erected across the street in 1958. The building was then used for Sunday School departments and offices.

The First Baptist Church was organized March 22, 1890, in the one-room school house, just two months after citizens met to name the town. The Rev. J. W. George was the first pastor, preaching twice monthly. The group met in the school building until 1906 when a frame building was constructed where Mrs. Ella Seals now lives, on Pierce Street.

April 21, 1906, was set for members to meet and put up hitching posts on the church grounds. The church was dedicated in May, and work was begun on a parsonage, built by volunteer workers.

In 1910 gas lights were discarded and electricity was installed. In 1913, a lot at the crossing of Main Street and Truett was bought for $750. In June, 1915, the active deacons became the building committee and before the beginning of another year members were in the new church. The old building was sold for $750.

Some of the better known pastors were the Rev. Jeff Davis, 1915-1917. He was followed by J. C. Stillion and the Rev. C. H. Riddle became pastor in 1919.

The decade from 1920-30 was full of interesting events. In April the church was free of debt. In 1921 the basement was used as a primary public school due to the crowded situation in the schools.

In 1923, the Rev. H. H. Stephens became pastor. It was voted to have a church bell to ring on Sunday mornings. The budget plan of finance was adopted. The next year property west of the church was bought for a parking lot.

Dr. George W. Truett held a revival meeting in April, 1926, with B. B. McKinney directing the music in a tent furnished by Harley Sadler, late comedian and tent show producer. There were 42 additions to the church membership.

In the next three-year period, lights were installed on all four sides of the outside of the building in an effort to stop theft of cars tires and accessories. The church and parsonage were piped for gas, and now Sunday School rooms were built. A kitchen was added and adults divided into two departments. The Rev. Stephens resigned and the Rev. W. T. Hamor became pastor.

In the period between 1940-45, five young men of the church gave their lives for their country. They were Nelson Crockett, Truman Jeffries, Kenneth Henslee, Rex Gardner and Davis Rodgers. The Rev. L. L. Trott became pastor on Jan. 1, 1945, after the resignation of the Rev. Hamor. The Rev. B. T. Shoemaker succeeded the Rev. Trott, coming to Winters Nov. 19, 1950.

In 1948, a Latin American mission was built and continues to be sponsored by the church. On May 28, 1950, Sunday School classes were moved into the new educational building. In the latter part of that year, the property south of the church, across the street, was bought, which is the site of the new sanctuary.

In 1953, the Southside Mission was sponsored and in 1956 a new church was built for them. The mission is now an independent church.

In 1964 all the church property was improved. The parsonage was remodeled and more educational space added at the Latin American Mission. The church also sponsors a Negro church. Upon the resignation of the Rev. Shoemaker in 1963 to accept a call to Spearman, the Rev. Harry Grantz became pastor.

Clear Road Seen For Elm Creek Work After Public Hearing Tuesday Night

Another important milestone on the long road to development of the Elm Creek Watershed project was reached Tuesday night, as another public hearing produced no opposition.

W. M. Hays, chairman of the board of directors of Elm Creek Water Control District, said the way now seems clear to go ahead on the project.

Hays said a survey team from the Soil and Water Conservation Field Office in Waco will be in the watershed within a few days to begin more detailed studies which are needed before the project is continued.

The Tuesday night hearing was a necessity in order to meet Federal requirements for the project to be granted planning authority by the SCS. The hearing was conducted even though the planning authority has already been granted.

Kenneth Schrank of the SCS reviewed objectives of the proposed plan for the crowd of about 100 interested people. Objectives include flood protection, a municipal water supply for Winters and Ballinger, and creation of recreation facilities.

Hays said it is anticipated that from 11 to 13 water retention dams will be constructed before the project is completed. Additional studies, however, will be necessary before exact sites can be designated, and final number of structures determined.

Winters Blizzard Coaching Staff Complete, Workouts Start Monday

The coaching staff in the Winters Schools has been completed, coaching assignments made, and pre-school workouts with the Blizzards varsity football team will begin next Monday, August 13.

First workouts will be without pads, for conditioning, with first stringers donning equipment Friday, August 17. Practice scrimmages have been planned for August 23 and September 1. Head coach and athletic director Chili Black is returning for the seventh year, and Bill Cathey is beginning his second year as a coach.

Bud Buser, who has coached in past years, but has been off the coaching staff for the past year or two, is returning as a coach.

Newcomers to the Winters coaching lineup will be Jimmy Stubblefield and Mike Unger. Stubblefield, a graduate of Ballinger High School, and Texas Tech University, has nine years coaching experience. He comes from La Vega High School in Waco.

Unger, of St. Louis, Mo., is a graduate of Abilene Christian College.

Coach Black will handle offensive and defensive backs on the Blizzards team; Stubblefield will coach offensive and defensive lines. Unger will assist as offensive line coach and Junior Varsity. Buser will handle the cornerbacks and the 8th and 9th grade teams. Cathey will tutor Blizzards linebackers, and 8th and 9th grade teams.

Coach Black indicated that intensive training will be the key to this year's football action, with only 12 lettermen returning to the scene from last year. There will be only one defensive starter back, he said, although some of the others started in some of the games during the last of the 1972 season.

The Blizzards will meet Comanche in a practice scrimmage session August 23 at 7:30, at Comanche, and Eastland will come to Winters September 1 for a scrimmage at 7:30 p. m.

Some Test Cutting of Milo Locally

Although the main start of harvest of the 1973 milo crop in this area is at least three weeks away—perhaps two weeks in some cases—some growers already have made test cuttings in early plantings. Heavy cutting is not expected to begin until after September 1.

Quality of grain in the first tests is reported to be good, also.

All things seem favorable for milo growers this year, and production in this area is expected to be better than usual. Some grain men are expecting an average of a ton per acre yield.

This week's opening price also was good, at $4.25, and this is expected to hold, or become better, putting a lot of money into the local economy, according to grain men. Last year's price was around $2.25.

There has been some insect damage in local milo, but most of this has been brought under control, it was reported.

For combine operators, indications are that there will not be a serious shortage of fuel locally, as has been reported in some areas within the past few weeks, and as was reported during the wheat harvest.

All things considered, according to grain men, this year promises to be a good one for milo producers.

Harrison's Auto Parts Celebrating 25th Anniversary

Harrison's Auto Parts of Winters is holding a month-long 25th anniversary celebration. The celebration will continue through August 31, with special activities and customer recognition.

Harrison's Auto Parts was organized by P. L. Harrison and Jack Harrison, as a partnership. Jack Harrison retired in 1970, and the business was acquired by P. L. Harrison.

Mrs. P. L. Harrison has been managing the business for some time because of Mr. Harrison's illness. Their son, Phil, has been assisting, and will become full time manager about September 1, following his graduation from Angelo State University.

For many years, the auto parts firm has had a truck route covering a large area of West Central Texas, delivering parts and supplies to garages and shops. Andy Bundas is the present driver-salesman on the truck.

Cecil Scott, who for many years was on the truck route, now is a salesman in the store, located in the 100 block of South Main in Winters.

Harrison's Auto Parts has invited all their friends and customers to drop in during their month-long anniversary, and have coffee.

City Council Approved Budget For Next Year, Okeyed Water Bond Issue

Winters City Council Monday night, in a regular meeting, approved the budget for all departments of the City for the next fiscal year, and authorized issuance of $150,000 revenue bonds for the water department.

Little change in the budget from the present budget was noted, except for slight increases in operating expenses for every department. The budget was approved following an announced public hearing and reading. Some discussion regarding the budget was held with residents who attended the meeting, but no objections to the proposed budget were forthcoming.

Following a discussion with George Buscher of Abilene, who has been acting as a financial advisor for the Council, issuance of $150,000 junior lien revenue bonds were authorized. The money will be used for construction of a new water storage tower to replace an old one which was torn down when Main Street was widened. The City will pay only interest on the bonds until 1981, when present water bonds are paid off, and then will begin paying on the principal, it was stated.

The Council also Monday night received a petition from Harold Spence for closing of part of Willow Street, located in the northeast section of Winters. The street has not been used for many years, it was stated. Spence had asked that a part, 60 x 140 feet of the unused street, which is a dedicated street on the records of the city, be officially closed, to be used for residential purposes. The Council took no action on this petition Monday night.

Teachers Back To School Monday

All faculty members of Winters Public Schools will return to work next Monday, August 13, with classes scheduled to begin for students on the following Monday, August 20.

The faculty for all schools of the Winters system has been completed, with hiring of a teacher for the Title I program this week.

Faculty members will attend a two-day in-service training session next Monday and Tuesday, in Ballinger. The two full days of training will be held in the Ballinger High School auditorium, beginning at 9 a. m. Area schools participating in this in-service training program, required by State regulations, will be Ballinger, Winters, Christoval, Miles, Olfen and Wingate.

The new Plan "A" comprehensive education program, which will be inaugurated this year, will be stressed during the meetings at Ballinger.

Next Wednesday, a reading workshop for elementary and junior high school reading teachers will be held in the elementary building, with other teachers attending curriculum guide sessions, and studying testing programs.

A general faculty meeting will be held at 9 a. m. Thursday, followed by building principals' meeting in the elementary and high schools.

On Friday, August 17, special grade level meetings will be held in each school for work on curriculum guides.

Saturday, August 18, has been set aside for room preparation by the teachers. Some of the teachers already have made necessary preparations, and have received books and other supplies ready for issue to students on the first day of school, Monday, August 20.

Mexican-American Group Protests Appointment of City Councilman

A group of about 40 Mexican-Americans—some of them reportedly from Ballinger—met with the Winters City Council Monday night, and protested the recent appointment by the council of E. E. Vaughan to a place on the council, to fill the unexpired term of an alderman who had resigned.

Vaughan was appointed by the council to complete the term of Lloyd Gilbert, who resigned when his company transferred him from the city. Gilbert was elected to the post in April.

Mike Zuniga Jr., of Winters, served as spokesman for the group Monday night, and presented the council with a petition asking that the recent appointment of Vaughan be set aside, and that the Council appoint Salvador Esquivel to the vacancy.

Esquivel had been an unsuccessful candidate for alderman in the city election in April. In that election, two places on the council were filled. Woodrow Watts received 138 votes for reelection, Gilbert received 95, and Esquivel received 67. Two other candidates for the two places were Monroe Dodd and Mrs. W. H. Lockhart.

Vaughan, who had served as a councilman for six years, did not seek re-election in the April voting.

City officials said some of those who spoke at the meeting Monday night were from Ballinger and were not residents of Winters. They also entered into the discussion of the city's budget, which was adopted after a publicized public hearing.

The petition handed to the council Monday night stated that the signers felt that the appointment of Vaughan "was not in the best interest of the people of Winters. It was not in good faith and most of all, it was pure discrimination against the Mexican-American people," said the petition.

The petition contained 171 signatures, allegedly all residents of Winters.

The petitioners indicated they felt that Esquivel should be appointed to the council, because he "was runner up in this election (in April), therefore you should have shown fairness, good faith, and good intentions in appointing him as City Councilman." They said they hoped "that (the Council) will move to correct this injustice committed by you all."

Mayor Homer Hodge told the group that the appointment had already been made before the petition had been presented, and there was doubt that the action could be set aside at this time. Most council members entered into the discussion, and assured the protesters that there had been no act of discrimination or thought of preventing the Mexican-American community from having a representative on the council; that it was the council's belief that the appointment of Vaughan to the post was to the best interest of the people of Winters, because of his past experience. The group also was reminded that there will be an election next April when three places will be filled on the City Council.

Those present at the meeting stressed that the session was conducted in an orderly fashion, and all present were given an opportunity to be heard, and were invited to hear deliberations on the proposed city budget, which was adopted during the meeting.

New High School Students Asked To Register

High school students who are new in the community, and who have not registered, are requested to do so any time next week. Jake Joyce, high school principal, said this week.

Students may register at any time during the week, from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Students who attended Winters Junior High School last year, and those who will come from Wingate School to high school have already been registered.

"Wettest" July In Ten Years, Total Rainfall Now Almost To Average

July, 1973, was a "wet" month, compared with the same month of the previous 10 years, according to rainfall records, most of which are "official." And the year's total to August 1 lacks only 8.50 inches to reach the annual "average" for the previous 10 years.

Total rainfall for Winters proper during July, 1973, was 5.48 inches—official, and the total for 1973 now stands at 21.51 inches. Not since July 1967 have the gauges registered as much as 4 inches during the month—4.20 was gauged in '67.

Dry weather has been the usual for July during the period—1963-1972—with records showing that no rain was received at all for two of the years, 1963 and 1970, and only 0.05 for the same month in 1969. In the year preceding the 10-year period—1962—8.70 inches of rainfall was recorded for the month of July. 1973's total through July lacks only a little to reach the total received all during 1972, when 24.68 was the official annual total. For the 10-year period, average has been 29.91.

Figures available at The Enterprise are "official" since August, 1965, when the U. S. Weather reporting station was moved in to Winters. At that time, Roy Rice became the official observer. Prior to that, figures were taken from an unofficial gauge.

The Paint Industry

By Babson's Reports Inc., Wellesley Hills, Mass., August 9, 1973. Growth in the paint industry over the past decade or so has not been spectacular but has been quite steady. With the exception of the recession year of 1970 and the bad-weather of 1967, industry expansion has generally been around 5 percent to 8 percent annually. Currently the paint business is enjoying a strong upsurge in demand as a result of the high level of economic activity and increased usage by the do-it-yourself market. In spite of the likelihood of a slowdown in residential construction this year and prospects of additional costs from new regulations, paint manufacturers should find 1973 another year of moderate gains in both sales and earnings.

New Technologies

Beginning with the development of synthetic resin-based paints in the 1920s, the industry has brought forth "latex" (water-thinned) paints, acrylic paints, epoxy paints, polyurethane resins, chloride-vinyl acetates, and a number of other processes and products for use in coating a wide variety of surfaces. The traditional base of linseed oil and white lead is largely being displaced, as manufacturers and users seek more durable coatings and more efficient application techniques. Effective December 31, 1973, household paints containing more than a trace amount of lead will be banned by the FDA to eliminate potential health hazards to children.

Paint Substitutes

Spurring the effort toward new paint technologies has been an increase in the use of building materials such as aluminum, asbestos and vinyl siding, and other nonlumber products that require little or no finishing. The eventual impact of these substitute materials on paint sales is a source of substantial concern to the paint makers. For the present, however, substitute materials will have only a limited impact on sales since much more paint is used to refinish old houses than for new construction. To meet the long-range challenge of substitute materials, it can be expected that in the future more paint is used to refinish old houses than for new construction. To meet the long-range challenge of substitute materials, it can be expected that in the future more paint producers will be widening their product base, and paint making will become just one aspect of a broader materials coating business.

BLACKWELL

County Agent's Column

LAWNS, SHADE TREES CAN CO-EXIST

The old complaint that you can't have shade trees and an attractive lawn is not necessarily true. The keys to maintaining a good lawn and good shade trees are adequate moisture, soil fertility and proper pruning, says County Extension Agent Parker.

Proper pruning methods can provide the light and ventilation needed for the growth of healthy, disease-resistant turf and plants. Even St. Augustine, our most shade tolerant grass, needs some light, which can be provided by judicious pruning to open up heavy canopies and by removing some low hanging branches.

Careful pruning, as well as the removal of a few unnecessary trees or shrubs, will also improve air circulation and help eliminate conditions conducive to the spread of disease.

As far as moisture and fertility are concerned, it is usually the shallow rooted "surface feeders" that cause most of the problems with lawns. Siberian elm, hackberry, silver or soft maple, willow and white poplar, all planted for quick shade, are the worst offenders. These plants compete with the lawn for soil nutrients and in late summer and fall, use enormous quantities of water at the expense of the lawn.

Parker advises thinning or even replacing these shallow-rooted trees with better species where lawn maintenance has become a problem. Where the lawn and trees must compete, additional water and fertilizer should be provided.

SUMMER CARE FOR CREPE MYRTLE

Crepe myrtle provide an abundance of flowers during the summer months in Texas. Proper fertilization and pruning usually result in a long display of flowers of three months or more, points out Parker.

Fertilize according to soil test recommendations. A general recommendation of six pounds of actual nitrogen per 1000 square feet of root area per year is sufficient for most trees and shrubs. Several applications should be made, one in the spring just before new growth begins. Determine the number of square feet in the root area by the branch spread of the tree.

Pruning is best done in late winter before new growth begins. Only dead and twiggy

Pick Up Band Records Before September 1st

Those persons who ordered records of the Winters High School Blizzard Band, and who have not picked them up, should do so by September 1, Band Director Kirke McKenzie announced.

McKenzie may be contacted at the swimming pool until next week, and then may be contacted at the band hall.

IN STANLEY HOME

Visitors in the home of Mrs. Laura Stanley last week were Mr. and Mrs. Terry Day and daughter Tammy of Bloomfield, N. M.; Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Sawyer and daughters Melissa and Tricia of Denton; Mr. and Mrs. Lee Sawyer of Haskell; Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Stanley of San Antonio; and Mr. and Mrs. Bud Eoff and Mrs. Dessie Fisher of Winters.

growth should be removed to expose the sculptural character of the trees. For dwarf varieties or in shrub borders where crepe myrtles may be grown only for their blooms, severe pruning will help insure larger and more prolific flowers.

The agent suggests pruning faded and seedy blossom heads during the summer to promote more and better blooming late in the season.

For something different in your landscape, try some of the dwarf type crepe myrtles in tubs or pots on the terrace, adds Parker.

Short Takes

Fireballs

In astronomy, fireballs are bits of stone or metal that rain from the sky at all times of the year. A fireball is a brilliant meteor. Any piece of fragment that survives the flight and impact is called a meteorite.

Trundle Bed

A trundle bed, popular in the 18th and 19th centuries in England and America, was a low frame bed designed to roll under a larger bed when not in use. It was sometimes called a truckle bed.

Success Story

Asa Griggs Candler studied medicine, became a pharmacist and developed a prosperous wholesale drug business before purchasing the formula for Coca-Cola in 1887 and selling the business in 1919 for $25 million.

Ups and Downs

Camels can lose up to 25 percent of their weight by dehydration without ill effects and regain their loss in 10 minutes by drinking up to 25 gallons of water.

First Comics

The first Sunday comic section in an American newspaper was published by the New York World in 1893. Richard Outcault made the drawings for the comic strip, which featured a humorous set of characters known as "Hogan's Alley."

Austin — Rewriting the nearly century-old Texas constitution is turning out to be a stickier job than many figured.

The Constitution Revision Commission went into overtime at a recent three-day meeting near here, but still failed to complete its agenda and slated another August 10-11 cleanup meeting.

Meanwhile, legislative planners for the 1974 Constitutional Convention, at which lawmakers proposed a revised constitution, disagreed on routine stage-setting.

House members suggested a new voting machine (which was later ordered) and new desks for delegates. Senate planning committee spokesmen indicated they would be satisfied to bring their own desks over from across the capitol rotunda and set them up in the House middle aisle.

The revision panel agreed: —To keep the provision for real property taxation in the constitution for state purposes, but leave it to the legislature to write separate laws governing personal property taxation.

—To retain the state highway users gasoline tax, with three-fourths of the revenue earmarked for highway building and one-fourth for public schools. A provision was made for abolishing the highway fund levy on statewide referendum with support of two-thirds of the legislature.

—To keep the Permanent University Funds in the constitution. The university fund would be altered somewhat to include present and future branches of the University of Texas and Texas A. & M. University.

—To add to the constitution a guaranteed "equitable" financial support for all schools and districts rich and poor.

—To retain as constitutional elected members of the executive branch only the governor, lieutenant governor and attorney general, with the legislature empowered to decide if the comptroller, treasurer, secretary of state, land commissioner and railroad commission should be elected or appointed by the governor.

AG OPINIONS

A national bank does not come under definition of governmental bodies or institutional which are required to comply with the new open records act, Attorney General Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

—A Laredo fireman injured in Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, while on duty is entitled to benefits under the state Firemen's Relief and Retirement Law.

—State government branches and their services (excepting political subdivisions but including hospitals and colleges) are covered under the Texas Unemployment Act.

—Subordinated capital notes of the Harlingen National Bank are part of its indebtedness and are not to be considered capital in determining values of shares for taxation.

—School trustees are authorized to purchase insurance to cover cost of litigation and award damages growing out of official acts.

—The Amusement Machine Commission has power to promulgate regulations to cover the number of machines by the holder of a permit to sell alcoholic beverages for on-premises consumption.

—Qualifications for Texas Air Control Board membership are set up by Article 4477-5, Vernon's Civil Statutes. Conduct in office will be governed in part after January 1 by provisions of the 1973 ethics law, and members could be removed from office for violations.

—The State Commission for the Blind is not authorized to require employees to deposit with it salary warrants issued to them or to charge a fee to employees for making the advances.

—A district attorney can be removed only under special statutes and not by an ex parte order of district courts. A county attorney (in some counties) will serve during temporary disqualification or absence.

—A court reporter who prepares the narration of the facts from a hearing on a writ of habeas corpus is entitled to be compensated for preparation by the state or county.

Some People On Social Security May Get Increase

The San Angelo Social Security Office is now taking applications for supplemental security income payments, a Federal program scheduled to start in 1974 that will establish an income floor for people in financial need who are 65 or over, or blind, or disabled, according to J. M. Talbot, social security manager.

But, people already getting State old age assistance or State aid because they are blind or disabled don't have to apply, he said. They'll be getting more information later this year about how the program will help them.

"The first monthly payments under the Federal program will be made in January, 1974," Mr. Talbot said. "Until then, State and local public assistance offices will continue to make payments in the usual way."

People not getting public assistance now who think they may be eligible for the new Federal payments should call or write social security to find out if they should apply, according to J. M. Talbot.

"Federal supplemental security income payments will be made by the Social Security Administration," Mr. Talbot said. "But, the program will be financed by Federal general revenues—not by social security contributions from workers and employers. It's not the same as social security."

The aim of the new program is to provide supplemental payments in cases of need so that people 65 or over, or blind, or disabled will have a basic cash income of at least $130 a month for one person and $195 a month for a couple.

"This doesn't mean that every eligible person or couple will be getting that much from the Federal Government every month," Mr. Talbot said. "The amount of the Federal payment any person gets will depend on how much other income he has."

"Eligibility for Federal payments will depend not only on the amount of income people have, but on the value of their assets," Mr. Talbot said.

"If you're single—or married but not living with your husband or wife—you can own things worth up to $1500 and still get Federal payments," he said. "A couple can own things worth up to $2250 and get payments, not everything you own has to be counted toward your total assets, however."

"A home of reasonable value will not be counted as an asset," Mr. Talbot said. Personal effects and household goods won't count in most cases. Insurance policies or a car may not affect eligibility either, but it will depend on their value.

Certain income also will be disregarded in deciding on an application for supplemental security income. The first $20 a month of income generally won't affect the Federal payment at all, Mr. Talbot said. "In addition, people who are working part time should know that the first $65 a month of earnings won't be included in counting their income and only half of the rest of their additional earnings will be counted," he said.

Apart from earnings, other income above the first $20 a month generally will reduce the Federal payment. "This includes social security checks, veterans payments, workmen's compensation, pensions, annuities, and gifts," Mr. Talbot said. "And, if you live in someone else's household, your basic Federal payment will be reduced by one-third before other income that may affect your payment is deducted."

...about your SOCIAL SECURITY

This year an additional 13,000 people—disabled children and their mothers—may be eligible for social security benefits totaling about $17 million dollars.

For more information, contact your Social Security Office at 3000 West Harris Avenue (P. O. Box 3808) in San Angelo, Texas. The telephone number is 949-4608. "Even though payments cannot start until January, 1974, we're starting to take applications now so we can process them ahead of time and avoid delays that might occur if there's a rush of applications right at the end of the year," Mr. Talbot said.

according to J. M. Talbot, social security manager.

These additional payments are due to a change in the social security law relating to childhood disability benefits, Talbot said. The 1972 amendments permit the payment of childhood disability benefits when the disability begins before age 22, rather than before age 18 as under the old law. Life styles have changed so that many children do not have regular earnings until their early twenties. Disabilities occurring in this age group usually force the child's dependency on his parents for support. This new provision gives childhood disability beneficiaries protection that has been much needed.

If you are one of the Americans who expects to continue working after he becomes 65, a recent change in the social security law will increase your social security benefits for each year you continue working on your job and operating your business and defer receiving a social security check.

Between the ages of 65 and 72, your benefits will be increased by one percent each year up to a total of 7 percent. This increase is in addition to any other cost of living or other increase that may be passed on.

For more information, contact the Social Security office at 3000 West Harris Ave (P. O. Box 3808) in San Angelo, or see the representative when he is in your area. Persons who are unable to meet with him are encouraged to call the office in San Angelo. Residents of Winters may call toll free by dial-

COUNTY AGENT PARKER'S COLUMN

ANAPLASMOSIS MAY INCREASE IN CATTLE

Texas cattle owners should be on the alert for cases of anaplasmosis in their herds due to the increasing numbers of mosquitoes and horseflies which spread the disease.

Anaplasmosis is an infectious blood disease of cattle and deer, says County Agent Parker. It is caused by a one-celled parasite which attacks and destroys red blood cells, causing anemia and sometimes death.

Cattle affected by anaplasmosis frequently stand alone, away from the rest of the herd. Early symptoms of the disease include lack of appetite, weight loss, and lowered milk production. Advanced symptoms include anemia, yellow skin and mucus membranes, difficult breathing and constipation.

If the disease is detected before the onset of advanced symptoms, animals can be effectively treated.

Since the disease symptoms are similar to those of other cattle ailments laboratory testing must be done to determine if the anaplasmosis parasite is present.

Parker advises herd owners to contact their veterinarians for testing must be done to determine if the anaplasmosis parasite is present and treatment recommendations. Measures such as vaccination or low-level feeding of antibiotics may be used to prevent the disease—depending upon the recommended practices in a particular area.

Man, through carelessness during such operations as dehorning, castration and vaccinating, also spreads the disease. Ticks are a possible source of infection as well but the disease is not spread through contact of wastes of sick or carrier animals. Humans are not infected by the disease.

THE WINTERS ENTERPRISE
Winters, Texas
Friday, August 10, 1973

Anaplasmosis is responsible for 50,000 to 100,000 cattle deaths a year in the U. S. Death losses may average 10 percent and can reach as high as 50 percent in affected herds where the disease is left uncontrolled, says Parker.

AUGUST CROP REPORT DUE

Producers of feedgrains should be on the lookout for the August Crop Report. This report is taking on more than its usual economic importance because of the nature of the Phase 4 economic program.

Parker says the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture Crop Report will be released August 9 and will contain the first production forecasts for 1973 grain sorghum, corn and soybean crops by the Crop Reporting Service.

Production projections that were published following the July Crop Report were based only on historical yield data. Actual crop conditions are surveyed for the first time as of August 1st.

The report should assist producers in planning the marketing of their crops at harvest.

There was a lot of inverse reasoning in the grain markets following the rather favorable July crop report. The record crops projected appeared to relieve the threat of export controls of new crop grains and markets rallied to new highs. The August forecast of feed supplies will give an idea as to whether stronger export restrictions are likely.

HOW TO BUY JELLIES AND PRESERVES

Remember the peanut butter and jelly sandwiches you used to take in your lunchbox to school? Now you probably enjoy jam on toast, muffins with marmalade, and jelly omelets.

A liking for jellies and jams seems to span a lifetime. In a single year, approximately one billion jars of jellies, jams or preserves and marmalades are produced in this country. That's about five jars for each one of us Americans.

When a specialty product is this popular, there is likely to be lots of competition. You will find on your store shelf jellies, jams, preserves and marmalades in all sorts of fruit flavors and at all prices. And if you are a calorie counter, you can find jelly, jams and preserves made with non-nutritive, low calorie sweeteners.

To avoid confusion, remember that all of these products are made from two basic ingredients—fruit or fruit juice and sweeteners. In addition, pectin generally is added to aid in gel formation, and edible food acids are added for flavor balance when natural acids are low.

The differences in the various types are largely a choice of fruit ingredients and accepted usage, dating back to when grandmother made these delicious specialties in her kitchen. The manner in which the fruit is prepared and the texture or gel strength of the finished product account for these different kinds of fruit spreads.

Jelly—is made from filtered fruit juice, has a firm gel that holds its shape when turned out of the jar, and is sparkling clear.

Jams or preserves, made from crushed or lured fruit, but gel texture is not as firm as in jellies and is not clear. Many jams or preserves consist of whole or large pieces of fruit dispersed in a gel that is thick but not stiff. By definition, both jams and preserves are made from either whole, large pieces, or pureed fruit.

Marmalade—is a tender jelly with small pieces of fruit, generally sliced citrus peel, evenly dispersed throughout the gel.

Quality in such a specialty product depends on many complex factors. Processed fruit experts in the U. S. Dept. of Agriculture's Agricultural Marketing Service developed grade standards in cooperation with the preserving industry. The standards—available for fruit jelly, fruit jams or preserves, and orange marmalade—provide for two levels of quality: U. S. Grade A (or U. S. Fancy) and U. S. Grade B (or U. S. Choice). These standards are based on such factors as consistency, color, flavor and degree of freedom from defects. Trained inspectors with years of experience and training check jams, jellies, preserves on a numerical scale of these factors.

The top quality, U. S. Grade A or Fancy, is best used for desserts such as cheesecake or ice cream topping, where highest quality and appearance are important. U. S. Grade B or Choice quality is good on sandwiches or in jelly rolls or omelets.

LOCALLY PRODUCED FOODS OFTEN GOOD BUYS

If you're on a budget, but want to give your family nutritionally-balanced meals, keep in mind that fruits, vegetables, and other foods produced on small farms and gardens within neighboring areas are often good buys.

Everything grown locally—like corn, lettuce, peaches, and strawberries—are usually available in farmer's markets, roadside stands or even in your supermarkets. Since transportation costs are less, prices are often better than those charged for foods shipped in from distant areas. Another big plus is the fact that the locally grown produce is marketed more directly from the field at the peak of flavor.

Senior Citizens Meeting Friday

Present were Ann Grenwelge, Martha Sellers, Olga Minzenmayer, Celia Ortegón, Emma Kiefer, Lucy Melendez, Margarita Guevara, Claudia Pounders, Ida Bates, Dama Lohman, Ethel Hill, Ophelia Lopez and grandchildren Allan and Debbie Arroyo, Norma Collazo and chil-

Or serve some other corneal goodies like hush puppies, fritter, pancakes, and even pizza! Zestful eating is to be had too in pan-fried fish or chicken, rolled in a corneal mixture before frying.

Most everyone likes pizza—it doesn't take too long to make, and you can eat it on the run. Why not try this interesting recipe for pepperoni pizza enhanced with corneal? It makes one pizza—how many it serves is up to you!

Take 1½ c. sifted flour, ½ tsp. salt; ½ tsp. baking powder; one-third c. shortening; ½ c. cold water; one 8-oz. can pizza sauce; one 4-oz. can mushroom stems and pieces, drained; sliced pepperoni; grated Mozzarella cheese.

Sift together flour, corneal, salt and baking powder. Cut in shortening until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Add the cold water, a tablespoon at a time, stirring lightly until mixture can be formed into a ball (if needed, add another tablespoon cold water to make dough hold together).

Turn out on lightly floured board. Knead gently a few times. Roll to form a 15x12 inch rectangle. Place on ungreased cookie sheet. Turn up edge 1½ inch; flute; prick bottom with fork. Bake in preheated hot oven (425 degrees) 10 to 12 minutes.

Spread baked crust with sauce and sprinkle with mushrooms; pepperoni and cheese. Bake 5 minutes longer or until cheese is melted. Serve immediately.

Box Pellets With Cartridge
Some shooters who have fun with the CO2-gun find it advantageous to store pellets, 40 or 50 at a time, in plastic capsules, or pill bottles, of just sufficient size to accommodate that number.

Reason for such method of transportation is that that quantity, which exact amount they pre-determine, is about the number of shots one can get from a gas cartridge, effectively. So, when the capsule's contents are used up the cartridge is discarded.

Why discard it if not completely "shot"? Well, there is danger of clogging the chamber anytime pressure is not sufficient to at least propel the ammo out of the gun.

A penny matchbox also makes a handy pellet container. Experiment until you find out the number of pellets your particular gun and your particular cartridge can handle effectively then package them accordingly.

Some pellet gun shooters "package" both the pellets and a cartridge together in the same box, which isn't a bad idea either. It does keep them together and with some 45 to 50 pellets packaged with each cartridge it's mighty handy too. However, it does call for a larger and stronger container... possibly one made of wood or metal.

Photographing Your Catch

If you like to photograph your fish, here are some tips for better pictures of your catch. These tips apply to fresh-water fish and to the small sizes of salt water varieties.

First, dip your stringer of fish up and down in the water a few times, to remove any dirt or grime that may be on them... and, to give them that fresh-caught, glossy look.

Then arrange them on the stringer so that the larger fish are "up front" where possible. Also see that they are displayed with their backs or sides toward the camera. Needless to say, the all-white underbody doesn't make an impressive photo.

If you want to be different with your pictures, spread the fish out (still on the stringer) across the side of a boat, with you or your fishing buddy seated in the boat directly behind the stringers and holding the largest bass by its lower lip... or better yet with one hand under its body to "display" it in a horizontal position.

Some anglers hold the fish far forward, with arms outstretched toward the camera. This makes the fish look larger than it actually is... especially if the camera is focused on the angler rather than the fish.

We don't recommend such a photo. In the first place the catch is magnified beyond reason and it is not a true and honest picture. To hold the fish in front of you, depicting the angler admiring his catch is one thing, but to hold the fish at arms length directly in front of you solely to exaggerate its size is misrepresentation.

A direct give-away as to what was done is evident to any experienced photographer simply by observing the jumbo, unnatural size of the fingers and hands of the person holding the fish.

Interest On Land Bank Loans Takes Increase

Herbert Loeffler, assistant manager of the Federal Land Bank Association of San Angelo, has announced that the billing rate of Federal Land Bank farm and ranch variable interest rate loans is being increased from 7 percent to 7 3/4 percent, effective August 1, 1973. The rate on rural residence loans is being increased from 7 1/2 percent to 8 1/4 percent. The variable interest rate loan plan which was introduced by the Houston Bank in July, 1969, lets the rate "float" over the variations in the money market.

"Continued high interest rates in the money market have made it necessary for the Bank to take this action. Interest rates have risen rapidly since early 1973 and the Bank has delayed action until this time in order to determine whether or not these rate increases were temporary," Loeffler stated. The Bank recently marketed an issue of bonds which sold at an average effective 7.6 percent. "It now appears that present interest levels will probably not change materially until the end of the year."

The Federal Land Bank of Houston makes long-term real estate loans on farm and ranch land and rural residences throughout Texas and now has more than 775 million dollars in volume of loans outstanding. The local association makes services loans in six counties. Officers of the association are James Cowser, manager, and Herbert Loeffler, assistant manager.

She was featured on drums and xylophone during a performance at the Buccaneer Band Festival in Corpus Christi, when the band received a One rating and named Outstanding Band.
