Cablevision Expected By First of Year

Some Winters television viewers may be watching cable-transmitted programs around the first of the year, it was learned this week, and cable television probably will be available to everyone a short time after that.

Frank Settle, general manager of Texas Cablevision Co., of San Angelo, told The Enterprise Monday that construction crews are scheduled to begin stringing "strand" or support cable in early October. This primary work will be followed by stringing of transmission cable throughout the city. Utility poles of the West Texas Utilities Co. and the City of Winters Electric Department will be used for the cables.

A microwave receiving tower, which will be installed on land already acquired by the company, has been contracted for and erection will begin as soon as all component parts are assembled and delivered, Settle said. All equipment which will be used here will require "bench testing" after delivery from manufacturers, Settle said. Some of the equipment already has been received. The cable company's general manager said that most viewers are expected to be "on the line" within 90-120 days after cable installation is started.

Settle said the system will require about 18.5 miles of cable, offering service to about 1166 homes and businesses. There will be six video channels available, in addition to a weather channel.

Settle said the company will have a representative-service manager "on the scene," following completion of the system. Jim Jennings of Ballinger will serve in this capacity, he said.

Texas Cablevision Co. has a franchise agreement with the City of Winters to provide cable television service. This franchise was obtained several months ago, and it had been hoped that the system would be in operation within a short time, it was indicated. However, several complications prevented an earlier start on construction.

Police Chief Now "Permanent"

Winters City Council Monday night approved appointment of Luther (Doc) Smith as full time and permanent police chief.

Smith has been acting Police Chief for several weeks, succeeding Joe Stevens, who had resigned. He has completed serving a period of probation, and has now been officially named to head the local police department.

School Starts August 11

The 1975-76 school year will begin Wednesday, August 13, for students.

Teachers will report Monday, August 11, for a two-day work session prior to the opening of school.

School principals will make announcements within a few days concerning registration times for students who have not pre-registered. Also, heads of the band and athletic departments, as well as other departments, will make announcements regarding practice sessions.

Band Boosters Meet Monday

Winters Blizzard Band Boosters organization will meet Monday, July 28, at 7:30 p.m. in the Band Hall, in a called meeting.

In addition to other business, members will discuss purchase of an ice machine to be used in the concession stand at the stadium.

All members have been urged to be present.

POST-VACATION BLUES—Ray Alderman, general manager of Alderman-Cave Milling & Grain Co., looks dolefully at the pile of mail the staff piled on his desk while he was on vacation. Mr. and Mrs. Alderman returned home during the weekend, and at the time this picture was snapped Monday morning, he was courting an impulse to chuck it all in the "round file," and departing on another trip.

First Baptist Plans Picnic

Winters First Baptist Church is planning a churchwide picnic, to be held at the L. B. Watkins place, beginning at 2 p.m. Sunday, July 27.

Recreation activities will begin at 2, and a picnic lunch will follow at 6 p.m. Sunday evening services will be held at 7 p.m., with an "old camp meeting" theme.

Annual Coleman Co-op Meeting

The 1975 annual meeting of the Coleman County Electric Cooperative will be held at the rodeo grounds in Coleman, Friday, July 25, with registration to begin at 7 p.m.

AF Building To Be Auxiliary Field House

A frame building formerly used as an office building at Goodfellow Air Force Base, San Angelo, will become an auxiliary field house for the athletic department of Winters schools.

The school acquired the 25 by 70 building from the Air Force at no cost. The only expenses involved were the cost of moving the building from the base to Winters, and cleaning up the grounds at the base. This was only about $950, according to the school business office.

Winters Students Attended Workshop

Eight students of Winters High School members of the Student Council, and their sponsors, were among 230 students from 35 schools attending the student council workshop in Austin during the week of July 13-18, sponsored by the Texas Association of Student Councils.

Winters students at the workshop were Christy Spraberry, Donna Carroll, Kevin Hall, Marvin Moore, Cheryl Colburn, Craig Gehrels, Melinda Hill and Susan Williams.

Sponsors attending were Mrs. Lee Harrison, high school counselor, and Jake Joyce, high school principal.

BOOKKEEPER—Mrs. Ellis Zane Moore operates a new Burroughs bookkeeping machine which was installed recently at the City Hall, as Mrs. Walker Tatum and Mrs. Edwin Hart look on. The new machine, which cost about $10,000, according to City Secretary Buford Baldwin, will be used for all the City's bookkeeping, preparation of the payroll, utility billing, tax records and billing. The machine, in reality a computer, also is programmed with the current budget, and at any give time information regarding the budget can be printed out. The many different types of information are programmed on tapes, and upon insertion of the tapes, the machine reads the information and prints it. It has a memory bank, and will calculate taxes and utility billing information.

Elm Creek District To Sell Bonds

The board of directors of Elm Creek Water Control District Friday night approve issuance of $300,000 in tax bonds, and officially set the tax rate for the district.

The $300,000 will be used to acquire easement rights-of-way for flood retarding structures on Elm Creek and its tributaries within the control district, which is located partly in Runnels and partly in south Taylor counties.

Voters of the district in November, 1972, overwhelmingly approved the tax bond issue, by an almost 3-to-1 majority.

The board set the tax levy at .25 cents per $100 valuation, at 33 1/2 percent of actual value. Twenty cents will be earmarked for payment of the bonded indebtedness, and .05 cents will be designated for maintenance.

Bonds will be sold to The Columbian Securities Corporation of Texas, San Angelo office, and will be for 10 years at 6 1/2 percent interest. Assessed valuation of the area within the Water Control District is approximately $24,000,000, according to district spokesmen.

Survey parties and planning crews have been in the district for some time, preparing topographic maps of the area, which will be used for locating structure sites. No sites have been designated at this time, however, it was pointed out by district board members. One survey crew has been working on the project, and an additional crew reported several days ago, in order to speed up the work, it was said. Soil Conservation Service spokesmen indicated that the survey planning will be completed by December of this year, after which dam sites will be designated.

District board members said that although it will be some time before actual purchase of rights-of-way will be made, the district must be ready when the time comes, so that work can progress on the project. Otherwise, lack of ready funds to begin easement procurement would set the project back many more months, they pointed out.

Elm Creek Water Control District property evaluation is the same as Runnels County evaluation, directors said. Taxes will be collected by the Tax Collectors of Runnels and Taylor counties, and credited to the District.

Members of the board of directors of the water control district include David Ledbetter, chairman; J. E. (Buck) Smith, vice chairman; Charles Hambrick, secretary; and members, Wilma (Bud) Davis, Walter Spill, Charles Clifton, Noble Fabuion and Malcolm (Swede) Holiday.

Oil Production Has Important Impact On County Economy

The production of crude oil and natural gas in 1974 continued to have a significant impact on the economy of Runnels County, with the estimated value of the county's production, royalty payments, and state severance taxes reaching new highs.

Oil and gas developers and producers spent an estimated $4.9 million drilling 73 wells in the county last year, with 60.5 percent of that figure lost in 53 dry holes. The total drilling yielded 16 oil wells and four gas wells. The exploratory effort in the county included the drilling of 50 wildcat wells seeking new oil and gas fields.

According to the Texas Employment Commission, 181 oil and gas industry employees worked in the county in 1974 and shared a payroll totaling $1.4 million.

Three Wounded During Violent Weekend Here

Last weekend was marked by violence in Winters, as one man was stabbed and two men received gunshot wounds, in two separate incidents which occurred shortly after midnight Friday.

And two men the first of the week were in Runnels County jail in lieu of bond, charged with aggravated assault with deadly weapons.

Joe Ivey of Winters is in West Texas Medical Center in Abilene, suffering from stab wounds he received about 12:15 a.m. Saturday.

Tuesday morning of this week, Terry Stanfield of Winters was charged with aggravated assault with a deadly weapon in the stabbing incident, and was in Runnels County jail pending bond.

The first of the week, Rickey Calcote was in Dyess AFB Hospital at Abilene, and Wymon Burson Jr. was in an Abilene hospital, with bullet wounds. Calcote, of Winters, who is in the U.S. Air Force, and is stationed at Dyess AFB was in the base hospital with a leg wound. Burson, also of Winters, received severe bullet wounds in the calf of his right leg, according to officers.

Rito Luna Raymon, 36, of Winters, was being held in Runnels County jail in lieu of $10,000 bond on each of two counts of aggravated assault with a deadly weapon.

In the stabbing incident, Runnels County Deputy Sheriff Johnny Wilson said a private party in the Reeves Addition on the southeast edge of Winters, which is not within the Winters City limits, was the scene of the trouble. Ivey received stab wounds in the upper left chest, and elsewhere about the body. Stanfield was charged with this assault.

The shooting incident occurred at the Gulf Service Station on South Main Street, according to Winters Chief of Police Luther (Doc) Smith. He said this incident had no apparent connection with the stabbing incident. He said the shooting took place about 12:30 a.m. Saturday, a .22 caliber pistol was the weapon used, he said. The service station was closed at the time, he said, and the men apparently had been in an argument. Raymon was arrested about 1 p.m. Saturday, and charged with the shootings.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights
by Lyndell Williams
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN — The House of Representatives may be returning to Austin before September 1 to consider the first impeachment proceedings in more than 40 years.

A select House committee already has directed its staff to draft several articles of impeachment against 229th District Judge O.P. Carrillo of Duval County.

Committee members rounded out their examination of the record in their inquiry into allegations against Carrillo last week in closed-door session.

They will vote in open session on the proposed articles.

If a majority of the 11-member panel vote to press any of the articles, the House must be called into session to consider them on the third Monday following the committee report.

The constitution further provides that the Senate must try impeachment charges brought by the House against certain state officials, including district judges.

A two-thirds vote in the Senate is required to convict.

Fewer than a dozen serious impeachment proceedings have been brought in a century. Only one of these—the 1917 case against then Gov. James E. Ferguson—actually resulted in a removal from office.

Raid Continue

Comptroller Bob Bullock led more raids against sales tax-delinquent firms in the Dallas area which, he said, owe more than $200,000 to the state and city.

The Comptroller's agents locked a restaurant, closed a concrete manufacturer, took inventories and equipment from a photo shop, appliance shop, air conditioning firm and microfilm service company.

Property seized will be sold at public auction to satisfy tax claims unless owners pay up, Bullock said.

He scheduled an auction July 21 in San Antonio for nearly 15,000 cases of whiskey, wine and beer taken from three discount liquor houses whose owner owed $405,000 in delinquent sales taxes.

Highways in Trouble

Texas Highways and Public Transportation Department cancelled August contract lettings because of inflated costs and declining gasoline taxes.

REDDY'S HELPFUL FREEZER TIPS

- Defrost promptly—frost build-up of more than 1/2" makes cooling units work harder—they use more energy and wear out faster.
- Prepare food for refrigeration by letting hot dishes partially cool before refrigeration or freezing.
- Keep it full—but without overcrowding. A half-empty freezer uses more energy, because air is harder to keep cold than chilled foods and liquids.
- Check gaskets to help prevent energy-wasting air leaks. Close door on a heavy piece of paper. If it pulls out easily, gaskets may be worn.

In fact, the average rate in cities on the Lone Star Gas Company system in Texas ranks among the lowest general service gas rates in the country for residential and commercial customers.

These rates are based on a recent comparison by Lone Star Gas. The rate you see listed for the Lone Star Gas system is based on the average of all general service rates in the 410 incorporated cities and towns we serve in Texas, and are based on 10-thousand cubic feet of natural gas used by residential customers on June 1, 1975.

Your town may have a general service rate above or below the average rate listed above. Rates differ in all the towns we serve, because each town has a unique gas distribution system and has different revenue requirements.

We know your gas bills have been rising steadily in the past year or two, and they'll continue to rise. The average price Lone Star has had to pay for gas supplies has risen more than 250 per cent during the past three years, and some of this increase has been passed on to our customers.

Lone Star has been consistently able to supply our customers with natural gas. Other parts of the country are having severe problems in obtaining adequate supplies of this premium fuel, and we're working hard to prevent those problems here in our area.

KRUEGER'S KOLUMN

By CONG. BOB KRUEGER
21st Texas District

One of the most vexing economic problems facing our nation is the combination of inflation with recession. Among the many explanations for this problem, I'd like to offer my perspective.

When this country was founded, settlers moved into an area, cleared it, planted and grew crops, and then moved on to new locations when the land was ruined. Toward the end of the century, our abundant lands began to play out, and we turned increasingly to technology to allow the continued improvement in our standard of living. By the time of World War II, our extraordinary industrial capacity and our unified labor force allowed us to create and mobilize an immensely powerful force, and to emerge from the war undisputedly, the world's industrial and economic leader.

Since that time, however, the output per person in the U.S.A., which had for a number of years greatly exceeded that of any other country, has begun to decline. The reason, I believe, is that we have put too much into immediate consumption and not enough into planned investment and capital formation—the ingredients for a healthy economy for the next generation. The early settlers knew that they could not consume all of their corn at the table; they had to have seed corn in order to plant for future years. The need is no different today.

During the Great Depression, we stimulated the economy by stimulating consumption; an economic theory urged by Keynes. But any economic theory has its limits, and we need to recognize that simply stimulating consumption is not enough to deal with the needs of future generations.

One reason that we have combined inflation and recession (especially unemployment) is that our plant capacity is not sufficient to absorb our full work force. If enough capital is not invested in the future, then our productivity does not rise as fast as it should, and shortages occur. We now see shortages in areas such as steel, energy, mining, and many sectors of manufacturing. The American government, by consistently over-spending (our government has run deficits in 14 of the last 15 years), has dried up our capital markets and has discouraged investment for future generations.

Japan currently invests twice as much as does the United States, and its gross national product grows at twice the rate of ours. Further, the growth in productivity of the Japanese worker has been three times as great as that of the American worker in the past thirteen years. Merely stimulating consumption will do nothing for long-term economic growth unless a significant portion of spending is directed toward increasing the productive capacity of the nation.

If there is a moral for us in our experience of combined inflation and recession, it is that we must give attention to seed corn as well as table corn. We cannot simply live for today and for ourselves without thinking of the needs of our own future and that of our children. Not only must the government cease spending more than it takes in, but it should follow tax policies that encourage thrift, discipline, and hope, all values that immigrants who settled this country cherished very dearly.

Our pending shortages of natural resources such as oil, iron, aluminum, copper, mean that we must continue to invest in improved technology in order to pay for the natural resources which we will have to import. If we confront this task openly, with a sense of responsibility, both to ourselves and to the next generation, and if both citizens and political figures are willing to act in the interests of the long-run rather than the short-run, we will be able to work together toward an attitude of responsible statemanship that seeks to combine foresight, experience, hope, and courage. Investment in the future need not be an instrument to setting class against class, or of using the values of the rich at the expense of the poor. Rather, it requires a responsible attitude toward both the present and the future.

Oil Production -

Runnels was one of 197 counties—an increase of four from 1973— which produced oil and gas valued in excess of $100,000 in a year which saw the total value of state production jump from just over $6.7 billion to almost $11.4 billion.

The county ranked 12th in the state in the total value of petroleum produced—$10.6 million—with $10 million of that coming from the sale of 1.4 million barrels of crude oil; $562,000 from the sale of 1.9 million MCF of natural gas.

This study by the Texas Mid-Continent Oil & Gas Association shows also that the county's petroleum production last year resulted in the payment of $1.3 million to royalty owners.

"These figures, whether considered statewide or individually in almost 80 percent of Texas' 254 counties, emphasize the importance of a healthy petroleum industry in the nation's No. 1 energy state," said Sherman Hunt, a Dallas independent oil man who is president of Texas Mid-Continent.

"In the face of declining production in Texas, it is significant that this increased return to royalty owners and producers came from crude oil and natural gas which is free from restrictive federal price controls. But there are at this time proposals in Congress which would place all of Texas' petroleum production under federal price controls, with predictable disastrous consequences for the industry, as well as the whole economy of the state," Hunt said.

The survey also shows that the State of Texas received $503,000 in production taxes from county wells, with $461,000 coming from crude oil output and $42,000 from natural gas production.

Name Changed For County Historical Survey Committee

The Runnels County Historical Survey Committee has had a change in name. The group now will be known as the "Runnels County Historical Commission," pursuant to a new state law.

The historical commission met at the county courthouse in a regular bi-monthly session Saturday, and were notified of the change in the name of the committee.

The Historical Commission made plans for the dedication of the Sweet Home School marker, at the site between Rowena and Miles. The dedication was set for Sunday, September 7, at 2 p.m.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kikeska of San Angelo, sponsors of the marker, were present to help make plans.

Frank Jenkins reported on historic material he had copied for the Ballinger and Winters public libraries, and the San Angelo State University library. He also introduced his new book, "Runnels County Pioneers."

A volunteer subscription fund was set up for the purchase of historic books for local libraries. David Ledbetter, Arnold Allcorn, Neuman Smith and Jenkins were appointed as a committee to supervise this phase of the work.

Smith and Allcorn reported they were progressing on the project of locating historic sites and buildings in the county.

John Key, Ledbetter and Jenkins also reported on the project of locating graves in the county cemeteries, and classifying the information. Work is also progressing on plans for the restoration of Walthall Cemetery.

WD Director Post To Be Filled At Election

Cone J. Robinson Sr., chairman of the board of directors of Runnels Soil and Water Conservation District, said this week that the directors will wait until the next director election to fill the vacancy on the board created by the death of Arthur Eggemeyer.

Although the board is authorized to appoint a new director to fill the vacancy, Robinson said that the board felt that the landowners involved should have an opportunity to elect a director of their choice.

Robinson said that considerable interest is being shown by landowners in Zone II concerning the filling of this vacancy on the board. Zone II is all the land in Runnels County east of US Highway 83 (Ballinger-Paint Rock highway) and south of the Colorado River.

The election is tentatively scheduled to be held sometime during the first two weeks of October, Robinson said. Eligible voters in this election are all people over 21 years of age who own land in Zone II and live in Runnels County.

VA Teacher To Get Tenure Award

Stanley Blackwell, vocational agriculture teacher in Winters High School, will be among many Texas vocation agriculture teachers to receive 15 year tenure awards during the annual in-service educational workshop for vo-ag teachers in Houston July 28—August 1.

Albert Timmerman Jr., of Rockdale, president of the Vocational Agriculture Teachers Association of Texas, announced the award winners and plays for the in-service workshop.
