Jones explains budget process

by KRISTIE DAVIS
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

With a Title IX investigation looming in the near future for Texas Tech's athletic department, Athletic Director T. Jones maintains that the department does not discriminate against its women's teams when it comes to distributing money.

Football just makes it look that way, Jones says.

"When you're dealing with numbers and talking about things like this, when you have football it skews the figures," he said. "It always has, it always will."

"What we really need to do nationally is to take football out of the picture and then look at everything else and put it on an equal basis," Jones said.

Jones said about 64 percent of the athletic department's budget comes from revenue generated by the football team and about 11 to 12 percent comes from revenue the basketball teams generate, primarily the men's team.

During the 1992-93 academic year, the expenditures on athletics for men (not including scholarships) were $2,116,506 and the expenditures for women (not including scholarships) were $593,860.

There were about 172 football players, including 82 walk-ons, last year and a total of about 81 female athletes, a total that includes 21 walk-ons in seven women's sports. The men's athletic teams, aside from the football team, had a total of about 122 participants, a number that includes 44 walk-ons.

"There's no way that any other men's sports could equal football (in generating revenue) and certainly not any of the women's," Jones said.

"Whatever product or products that are the leading income producers of revenue for a corporation, they are going to put their sales and marketing and advertising emphasis right back into that because that's where it's making the profits."

The NCAA sets the number of scholarships the university can offer student athletes, and scholarships are about equal between male and female athletes, with the exception of football.

New state treasurer takes office today

AUSTIN (AP) — Former Longview Mayor Martha Whitehead, Gov. Ann Richards' pick as the state's new treasurer, will be sworn into office today.

Ms. Whitehead, who was Longview's mayor since 1991, has promised to make the Treasury more efficient and says she will run for the office in 1994.

"We're going to do what the treasury does best, which is the management of the state's investments," Ms. Whitehead said.

Richards appointed Ms. Whitehead, 52, a Democrat, on June 18 to succeed Republican Kay Bailey Hutchison, who was elected June 5 to the U.S. Senate.

"She is a dynamic leader," Richards said. "As the mayor of Longview, she has proven that she knows how to make government work."

A native of Pittsburg, Texas, Ms. Whitehead is a Phi Beta Kappa graduate of Southern Methodist University with a master's degree from East Texas State.

She was elected to the Longview City Council in 1987 and 1990.

She has served as vice president of the Good Shepherd Medical Center, and on the East Texas State board of regents.

Ms. Whitehead's appointment gives Democrats six of the seven top statewide offices. She said she will seek election to a full, four-year term as treasurer next year.

"I believe that cost-cutting measures can be enacted, duplication of services can be eliminated and greater efficiencies can be achieved," Ms. Whitehead said, following her appointment.

Ms. Whitehead said a grand jury investigation of possible political misuse of the Treasury under Mrs. Hutchison will not distract her when she takes office.

"I don't think it's going to be a hindrance at all," she said. "My objective is to ... be as open and honest and as cooperative as I possibly can be with the district attorney and the grand jury."

Canadian man razes girlfriend's house

QUESNEL, British Columbia (AP) — She locked him out of the house. So he tore it down with his bulldozer.

Mildred Stychyshyn said her boyfriend, an unemployed bulldozer operator, was mad because she wouldn't let him in when he came home drunk. So he started up his bulldozer and smashed her wooden house to pieces, she said.

"He told me that if he couldn't live in the house, neither could I," Stychyshyn said.

Police arrested 50-year-old

Leon Roger Hetu on Friday night after he leveled the house in Quesnel, 260 miles north of Vancouver, police Constable Paul Collister said. He told police he couldn't stand Stychyshyn's nagging any more, Collister said.

It wasn't the first time Hetu went after Stychyshyn's house with his bulldozer. One of the conditions of his probation was to rebuild that section of the house, but instead, he apparently decided to finish off the razing job, Collister said.

Floods continue to rise along Mississippi River

PERUQUE, Mo. (AP) — People fled farm homes Monday as the relentless force of the Mississippi River punched a hole through another levee, this one about four miles inland of the river's usual bank.

More rain upstream threatened to prolong the inundation. Additional storms were forecast at least through the end of the week.

A part of the levee at Peruque was breached about 4:30 a.m. and 11 rural homes had to be evacuated. At midday Monday, small rapids still showed at several spots as the river poured over the structure's remains, rushing farther out of its bed.

A little downriver, where the also-swollen Missouri River flows into the Mississippi, volunteers slapped sandbags atop levees protecting West Alton, which lies between the two rivers.

Upstream, the Mississippi appeared to have crested at 22 feet in Davenport, Iowa, site of some of the worst damage to date along the river. That level was unchanged from Sunday and half a foot short of the record set in a 1965 flood.

More evacuations were underway in Illinois.

The levee in Peruque (pronounced peh-rook'), north of St. Louis, is about four miles across pancake-flat land from where the river usually runs.

Weekend violence in South Africa claims lives of 70 people

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Police put up cordons in two black townships near Johannesburg on Monday as cars and houses were set afire in political violence that killed more than 70 blacks nationwide in three days.

Police said areas in the township of Tokoza were "practically besieged" Monday as sporadic gunfire pierced the air, cars burned and bodies were recovered in the streets.

Police found 20 bodies Monday in Tokoza and Katlehong townships, bringing the toll in the townships to at least 44 since the beginning of the weekend.

Like previous clashes that have plagued the townships since the 1980s, the current fighting appeared to pit residents who back the African National Congress against Zulu migrant workers who live in hostels and support the Inkatha Freedom Party.

Running battles continued into the night with police reporting sporadic gunfire, burning barricades in the street and cars and houses being burned in the tense townships.

Two hostels were cordoned off after Zulus threatened on Monday to attack township residents, police said. In the eastern province of Natal, at least 28 deaths were recorded during the weekend.

Many of the deaths in Natal appeared linked to the ongoing ANC-Inkatha feud. In several instances, entire families were slaughtered.

Political violence has killed more than 10,000 blacks since 1990. It has periodically slowed the black-white talks on ending apartheid, but on Friday, negotiators set April 27 as the date for the country's first election including the black majority. With the current level of violence it would be difficult, if not impossible, to hold fair elections. In areas controlled by either ANC or Inkatha supporters.

ball team 88 athletic scholarships for the 1993-94 academic year.

The men's basketball team was allotted 13 scholarships and the women's team was allotted 15.

The men's golf team was allotted four and one-half scholarships and the women's golf team was allotted six.

The men's tennis team was allotted four and one-half scholarships and the women's team was allotted eight.

The men's track team was allotted 12.6 scholarships and the women's team was allotted 16 scholarships.

The baseball team was allotted 11.7 scholarships and the volleyball team was allotted 17.

The men's basketball and football teams and the women's basketball, tennis and volleyball teams offer full scholarships.

The other teams offer scholarships that may be divided up according to the coach's preference. Some may be full and some may be partial scholarships.

Jones and Assistant Athletic Director and Business Manager Edwina Fisher are responsible for establishing Tech's athletic budget.

"We do talk to our coaches and they come to us about needs that they may have — maybe it's in travel, it might be in recruiting, whatever area that they're having trouble with," Jones said. "When we look at this, then we make those decisions — do we have the funds to pay for this?"

The athletic department is considered an auxiliary to the university and does not receive state funding. Therefore, the department must generate its own revenue.

"Whatever we do, we've got to pay for it ourselves," he said. "That's where our limitations come from.

"Our coaches understand the financial constraints we're under. You can be sure that if a coach has a problem with the budget he or she is under, they will let me know," he said.

Revenue comes from ticket sales, a proportional share from other Southwest Conference schools, fund raising from the Red Raider Club and a percentage of the Student Services Fee.

If Tech or another SWC school attends a bowl game, additional revenue is raised.

"Our student fan base continues going up and up and up," he said. "The support from the students is getting better."

Jones said the previous year's ticket sales are taken into consideration when dividing the budget between Tech's 15 athletic teams.

"The Lady Raider Basketball team has generated more income this year than in the history of women's basketball," Jones said. "They still have got a long way to go, and so do the men. We need to fill Jones Stadium and we need to fill the Coliseum."

Additional revenue also is generated when the athletic teams appear on television.

When the Tech and Oklahoma football teams played on national television last fall, Tech received an additional $10,000.

"It's important that we take our football inventory and try to get national as much as we can," Jones said.

Athletic department officials will divide $9 million between 15 athletic teams during the 1993-94 academic year.

San Antonio residents want parolee moved out-of-state

SAN ANTONIO (AP)— Angry San Antonio residents protested Monday in front of the residence of convicted child-killer Raul Meza, and one state official said he was working to have Meza moved out of the area and hopefully the state.

About 100 people demonstrated against Meza, who was released from prison in June after serving 11 years of a 30-year sentence for raping and killing an 8-year-old Austin girl in January 1982.

"The system is broken ... and we won't tolerate it," said T.C. Calvert of the Southwest Community Empowerment Center.

Calvert led the crowd in chanting, "Hey, hey, ho ho, Meza's got to go!"

San Antonio lawyer Allan B. Polunsky, who serves on the Texas Board of Criminal Justice, said Monday he is attempting to have Meza relocated outside San Antonio and maybe out of Texas.

"This decision is flawed and needs to be reversed," Polunsky said. "He should not be in San Antonio very long, maybe until the end of the week. Whatever it takes to remove him from our community, I will do."

Protesters carried signs and walked single file; some stopped in front of Meza's house to taunt him.

Officials of the state Pardons and Paroles Division last week placed Meza, 32, in a house purchased by his mother in San Antonio. Meza's mother lives in Austin.

Efforts to place Meza in El Paso and in Uvalde after his release were dropped because of protests from the cities.

Protesters chanted that Meza should be housed next door to members of the Pardons and Paroles Board.

Meza, who is under electronic monitoring, is confined to his house unless he is on official parole business, said Jesus Zapata, regional supervisor of the Pardons and Paroles Division office in San Antonio.

Meza also must attend sex-offender counseling and is subject to random drive-by checks by parole officials, Zapata told the San Antonio Express-news. The state had no choice but to release Meza on parole, Zapata said.

"My sons (9 and 13 years old) don't come out to play alone anymore," said Adela Espitia, 38, who lives next door to Meza. "My son had a back bedroom but now he sleeps in the living room."

Traffic on the normally quiet Hays Street has increased since Meza moved in, Espitia said.

Zapata, who did not attend the rally, said he understands the community's concern, but that Meza "has our support and encouragement."

After the hourlong protest on Hays Street, the rally moved inside Antioch Baptist Church.

Organizers said they plan to rent a bus and go to Austin to protest before the Pardons and Paroles Board.

"We all know government can't solve all our problems, but sometimes it adds to our problems," Bexar County Judge Cyndi Krier said.

Blind sheik finds prison life unappealing

NEW YORK (AP) — Stripped of his traditional Muslim garb and surrounded by "insensitive" guards, Sheik Omar Abdel-Rahman is finding life behind bars a frustrating ordeal, an associate said Monday.

The radical Muslim cleric, whose followers are blamed for the city's recent wave of terrorism, also has been denied medication for his diabetes and "is in very bad shape health-wise," contended Mohammad T. Mehdi, secretary general of the National Council on Islamic Affairs.

Officer Matthew Barber, spokesman for the federal prison at upstate Otisville, would not comment on the sheik's treatment.

"They don't realize he is like the Muslim pope," said Mehdi, who has talked to Abdel-Rahman by telephone. "The whole Muslim community takes this as an insult."

Abdel-Rahman, 55, gave himself up to federal agents Friday. The surrender ended a cat-and-mouse game with immigration officials that intensified when his followers were linked to the Feb. 26 bombing at the World Trade Center, which killed six, and an alleged plot to bomb other major sites in New York.

His followers also are accused of conducting a violent crusade to overthrow Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak's secular government, which on Saturday requested Abdel-Rahman's extradition.

The blind sheik was not accused of participating in either New York City plots, but the Immigration and Naturalization Service decided to take him into custody while he appeals a deportation order issued in March.

Mystery illness linked to death in East Texas

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Department health officials say preliminary reports show the death of an East Texas woman may have been caused by the mysterious illness that has killed several people in the Southwestern United States.

Dr. Jeff Taylor, of the TDH, says the East Texas woman, who was middle-aged, died in June of unexplained respiratory failure. TDH officials have since diagnosed her death as the result of hantavirus, which is caused by contact with droppings from infected rodents.

If hantavirus, which brings on muscle aches, fever, shortness of breath and pneumonia very quickly, is confirmed as the cause of death, it will be the first such case reported in Texas, Taylor said.

TDH officials say hantaviruses are rarely diagnosed in the United States, but human cases have been reported in New Mexico, Arizona, Colorado and Utah.

Summer Jazz Festival today at UC

by JULIE HARRIS
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

Texas musicians will be jazzing it up at the 10th Annual Lubbock Summer Jazz Festival at 7 p.m. today in the Texas Tech University Center's Allen Theatre.

Featured will be the Tech Summer Big Band, directed by Alan D. Shinn, with guest saxophonist Tom Braxton.

Braxton, a Lubbock native and graduate of the Texas Tech School of Music, lives in Dallas and plays with his band, the Tom Braxton Group, in Dallas, Austin and other areas of the Southwest.

His recent CD recording, "Your Move," is receiving nationwide airplay.

"Basically, this year's jazz festival will be centered around Tom," Shinn said.

Braxton has performed with jazz artists Cab Calloway and Kirk Whalum, as well as with Philip Bailey of the group Earth, Wind & Fire. He formed the jazz group No Compromise while at Tech.

"He has a great CD out, and he has recently toured with Luther Vandross," Shinn said.

The festival will open with the Band's renditions of "Makin' Whoopee," "Birdland," "Train Blues," "Peasant's Lullaby," "I Got News for You" and "Secret Love."

Other performers include Tech students Mary Benner on trumpet, Chris Branagan on trombone, Darren Mann on guitar and Jeff Zinn on bass. The second set will feature Braxton on saxophone, Arlington Jones of Dallas on keyboards and Shinn on drums, along with other local musicians.

"We have quite a few vocalists performing, which will be very entertaining," Shinn said.

The last set will feature Braxton, the Big Band and Tech jazz vocalist Carla Helmbrecht collaborating on "Fly Me to the Moon," "Please Send Me Someone to Love" and composer Chuck Mangione's "Children of Sanchez."

Other vocalists include Audrey Scott, Mary Brenner, Teresa Ward and Darryl Robbins singing various jazz numbers.

The concert will last from two and one-half to three hours, Shinn said. General admission tickets will be sold at the door and cost $3 for Tech students and $5 for the public.

"We're trying to raise money to cover the cost of having guest artists," Shinn said. "But, we are also hoping to raise scholarship money with the event."

Professor to speak on Russian space program

Nikolai A. Anfimov, a corresponding member of the Russian Academy of Sciences, will lecture on the inner workings of the Russian space program today at 2 p.m. in the Lankford Laboratory in the Electrical Engineering Annex.

Anfimov will discuss the challenges faced by the Russian manned space program after the disintegration of the Soviet Union.

His lecture, "The Past, Present and Future of the Russian Space Program," is a part of the Halliburton Distinguished Lecture series in the College of Engineering.

Anfimov is the first deputy director of the Central Research Institute Machine Building which coordinates the Russian manned space program, including the MIR space station. The Central Research Institute is the leading rocket and spacecraft research institution in Russia.

Lotto ticket sales break another record

AUSTIN (AP) — Texas Lottery officials say the Fourth of July brought fireworks in terms of sales of Lotto Texas tickets as players anticipate Wednesday's $50 million drawing.

Sales of Lotto tickets climbed past $722,000 Sunday, breaking the previous record for ticket sales on a Sunday of $363,664 on Nov. 8, said Texas Comptroller John Sharp. The previous record was set on the first Sunday of the Lotto's existence. "Sunday's sales continue a trend set last week, which came in with sales topping $33.5 million," Sharp said.

Lottery officials say retailers have stocked up with extra pencils and playslips, but they are recommending players get out early to avoid long lines as Wednesday's drawing nears.

Amateur fossil hunters braving Badlands to find dinosaur remains RHAME, N.D. (AP) — While millions pack air-conditioned theaters to watch fictional dinosaurs in "Jurassic Park," amateur fossil hunters are braving the elements in North Dakota's badlands to find the real thing.

Merle Clark, 55, a rancher, and Dean Pearson, 36, a feed mill operator, are part of a group of Bowman County volunteers working carefully to unearth a Tyrannosaurus rex skeleton.

They may be amateurs, but they've had special training and get guidance from paleontologists on finding the extinct creatures.

Only 13 other specimens of the meat-eating giant have been found.

This particular Tyrannosaurus, which died some 65 million years ago, is entombed in part of the Hell Creek rock formation in North Dakota's southwest corner.

The adult Tyrannosaurus was usually 20 to 23 feet tall and 40 to 45 feet long.

The group began digging last fall, after Pearson found a single fossilized bone sticking out of a steep hillside.

He took it to the Museum of the Rockies at Bozeman, Mont., to find out what it was.

"We thought we had a leg bone, but it was nothing like we'd ever seen," Clark said.

He showed it to John Horner, a well-known paleontologist at the museum and a technical adviser to the hit movie "Jurassic Park."

Horner "took one look at it and said 'T-rex,'" Pearson said.

"Everybody's pretty excited about it," he added. "The stuff is pretty well-preserved."

The desolate site, kept secret by the group, is surrounded by a snow fence and posted only with a sign warning "No Admittance."

"We're not trying to hide anything," Pearson said.

"We're trying to preserve the security of the site and prevent damage."

It's hard to imagine anyone moseying by. The site is three-quarters of a mile off a little-used gravel road, shielded by the badlands' jagged buttes, towering hills and deep gullies.

"We're assuming the site was not scavenged, but until we get more uncovered we won't know for sure," Pearson said.

The Denver Museum of Natural History and the North Dakota Geological Survey have been providing expert advice.

Thirty-six residents have gone through hours of paleontology training on their own time.

Whatever bones are uncovered at the site are destined for the new Pioneer Trails Museum, a small volunteer-run operation in nearby Bowman with an undinosaur-like annual budget of $750 and plenty of space for new exhibits.

Clark said about 15 volunteers make up the core of the group and others help when they can. No one is paid.

"A lot of people do it for money. There's more to it than that," said Laurie Oakland, who ranches and digs for fossils with her husband, Jeff.

"I enjoy it," she said, her boots caked with a gooey clay known locally as "gumbo."

"Something 65 million years old is in there and we're going to be the first humans to see it."

Oakland, Cleveland split doubleheader

OAKLAND, Calif. (AP)—Mike Aldrete's two-run homer broke a sixth-inning tie and extended the Oakland Athletics' winning streak to seven games with a 6-5 victory Monday in the first game of a doubleheader.

With the game tied at 4-4, Troy Neel led off with a single. After Dave Henderson struck out, Aldrete hit his second homer this season, a drive off Dennis Cook (5-5).

Vince Horsman (1-0) allowed one hit in one inning for the victory. Three-consecutive two-out singles, the last by Kenny Lofton, brought Cleveland within a run in the eighth. Dennis Eckersley pitched a perfect ninth for his 19th save in 25 chances.

Rickey Henderson hit leadoff homers in both games.

In the second game, Belle hit his 21st and 22nd homers, and Felix Fermin added a two-run shot, his first since April 1990.

Belle hit a solo homer in the second and a two-run blast in the eighth after Carlos Baerga singled.

Clark (4-3) pitched five shutout innings, striking out a career-high six in six-plus innings. He scattered six hits and walked two. Jeremy Hernandez pitched three innings for his fifth save.

Curt Young (1-1) lasted only 4 2-3 innings before leaving with soreness in his left shoulder, the injury that put him on the DL.

He allowed four hits, including a two-out double to Kenny Lofton in the fifth.

Lofton then scored on Wayne Kirby's single to give the Indians a 2-1 lead.

White Sox top East-leading Blue Jays, 4-3

TORONTO (AP)—Frank Thomas hit his 18th home run and Lance Johnson tripled twice as the Chicago White Sox beat Toronto 4-3 Monday night, the Blue Jays' fifth straight loss.

Johnson's two triples, which give him a major league-leading nine, came in support of Wilson Alvarez (8-4), who allowed two runs on six hits in 7 1-3 innings.

Burkett becomes first 13-game winner

MONTREAL (AP)—John Burkett became the first 13-game winner in the major leagues and Barry Bonds hit his National League-leading 22nd home run Monday night as San Francisco beat the Montreal Expos 10-4.

Will Clark homered for the Giants, going 3-for-5 with three runs scored. Willie McGee went 4-for-5, keying a five-run first inning with a three-run double.

Burkett (13-2) won his fifth consecutive start, allowing all four runs

Roberto Hernandez pitched the ninth for his 16th save. The Blue Jays scored against him on a triple by Ed Sprague and a throwing error by shortstop Ozzie Guillen. Hernandez finished by striking out Turner Ward and getting Roberto Alomar to line out with runners on first and second.

Pat Hentgen (11-3) gave up four runs on 11 hits.

and scattering 10 hits in seven-plus innings.

He struck out four and walked two. Kevin Rogers got out of a bases-loaded, no-outs jam in the eighth, and Jeff Brantley pitched the ninth.

Expos starter Mike Gardiner (1-3) was tagged for five runs and five hits in one inning.

Rangers take win over Brewers

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Juan Gonzalez was looking for a pitch to hit, and that's exactly what James Austin threw him.

Gonzalez hit Austin's 2-0 offering for a two-run home run in the eighth inning Monday, leading Texas to its third straight victory, 5-4 against the Milwaukee Brewers.

"I'm looking for a good pitch in the zone," said Gonzalez.

"The pitch was right down the middle," said Austin. "It was a bad pitch. I didn't do my job."

The score was tied 3-3 in the eighth when Rafael Palmeiro singled with one out off Graeme Lloyd (2-1). Austin came on to face Gonzalez, fell behind 2-0 in the count and then grooved one. It was Gonzalez's 21st home run, but only his second in 14 games and first since June 30.

Mike Schooler (3-0) pitched 1 1/3 innings for his third victory in the last five games. Bob Patterson, the sixth Texas pitcher, struck out the only two batters he faced in the ninth inning for his first save of the season.

"I felt better today than I have in a long time," said Schooler, who saved 63 games in 1989 and 1990

I'D LIKE TO SEE US GET A GROUNDBALL DOUBLE-PLAY BALL THAT GOES OVER SOMEBODY'S HEAD. THAT'S THE FRUSTRATION. IT'S NOT ANY ONE PARTICULAR GUY OR ANY ONE PART.

Brewers manager Phil Garner for Seattle before shoulder surgery in 1991. "I threw the ball where I wanted to with good stuff on it."

The victory was the fourth in five games for the Rangers, who opened their 11-game road trip by winning three of four in Detroit.

Milwaukee overcame a 3-0 deficit with single runs in the fourth, fifth and sixth innings, tying the score in the sixth on Robin Yount's RBI single off Todd Burns. With the bases loaded and two outs, Schooler got Tom Brunansky on a pop fly to shortstop.

Texas took a 1-0 lead in the second on a bad-hop RBI double by Mario Diaz over shortstop Dickie Thon. It was the kind of hit the last-place Brewers haven't had in a season that's growing increasingly frustrating for manager Phil Garner.

"I'd like to see us get a groundball double-play ball that goes over somebody's head," said Garner, whose club has lost 8 of 10 games. "That's the frustration. It's not any one particular guy or any one particular part."

The Rangers added two unearned runs in the fourth after an error by third baseman B.J. Surhoff and a wild pitch by Angel Miranda. Butch Davis followed with an RBI triple and Jon Shave singled home a run.

John Jaha hit an RBI double in the fourth and Thon doubled in a run in the fifth.

The Brewers cut the lead to 5-4 on a two-out RBI single by Yount in the eighth.

Football season tickets on sale at Ticket Office

Texas Tech football season tickets are on sale at the Ticket Office at the north end of Jones Stadium. The office opens at 8:30 a.m.

Prices are $105 for all sideline seats, $80 for adults and $40 for Guns-Up Club members in the south end zone and $40 for adults and $35 for high school age and under in the grass north end zone.

The Guns-Up Club is available only to high school age and under. The membership consists of a reserved seat ticket to each home game, a Guns-Up Club T-shirt, an official Texas Tech football poster and other items.

The Ticket Office also has started taking reservations for individual game tickets.

This year's home schedule consists of the following games: Sept. 4 vs. Pacific, Oct. 2 vs. Texas A&M, Oct. 9 vs. North Carolina State, Oct. 16 vs. Rice and Nov. 6 vs. Texas Christian.

The Ticket Office can be contacted by calling 742-3341.

Floydada runner signs with women's track team

Middle distance runner Tian Younger of Floydada has signed a national letter of intent with Texas Tech, Red Raider women's track coach Liz Parke announced.

Younger finished fourth in the 800 meters in Class 3A at this year's state track meet. She competed in the state meet three years and at the state cross country meet once while being named to the Texas All-State Track Team. She also competed in the hurdles.

Younger was a member of the National Honor Society while graduating seventh in her class. She is the ninth track signee by Parke this year.

"Tian's a tremendous young talent and a very welcome addition to our team," Parke said.
