31 killed in South African elections

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Black factional fighting spread to the heart of South Africa's main city for the first time Monday when a march by Zulu nationalists set off gunbattles, stabbings and beatings that killed at least 31 people.

Gunfire echoed off skyscrapers and shattered windows around a park near city hall where thousands of Zulus carrying spears rallied to protest the all-race election next month. Several blocks away, guards fired on more Zulus outside offices of the rival African National Congress.

Leaders of the ANC and the Zulu-dominated Inkatha Freedom Party accused each other of starting the violence.

Gonzalez defends Whitewater hearing cancellations

WASHINGTON (AP) — Contending Republicans planned to "create a donnybrook," the chairman of the House Banking Committee on Monday defended his cancellation of what would have been the first House Whitewater hearings.

"I'm not interested in protecting anyone ... only in preserving the integrity of the committee," Rep. Henry B. Gonzalez of San Antonio told a news conference, adding that he never talked to the White House about the hearings.

Gonzalez' action has no impact on the broad, Whitewater hearings the House voted to hold if the bipartisan leadership agrees on a time and format.

The law requires the Banking Committees in each house to review operations of the Resolution Trust Corp. — the savings and loan cleanup agency — twice a year, but Republicans had planned to turn the session into Whitewater hearings.

Officer suspended after drug test

DALLAS (AP) — A Dallas policeman was temporarily suspended this month, after a meal seasoned with poppy seeds misled a doctor reviewing the officer's drug test.

The unidentified officer was placed on leave after a random drug test apparently showed high levels of morphine in his system. But after two days, the officer learned the doctor who reviewed the test had made a mistake. The results were caused by the meal laced with poppy seeds, the ingestion of which can cause higher morphine levels.

Dallas police said the officer's record has been cleared. Since the department began random drug testing, 2,265 officers have been screened, with the tests revealing no serious drug abuse. However, four officers had taken prescription medications belonging to friends or relatives, officials said.

P.E. requirement removed from 1994-95 catalog

by JENNIFER GILBERT
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

The physical education requirement will be eliminated from the General Education curriculum effective 1995-96, according to a memo sent from Vice President and Provost Don Haragan to several academic entities.

"The General Education committee recommended some time ago that the P.E. requirement be eliminated," Haragan said. "The Faculty Senate approved it and the Provost Council voted unanimously to delete it."

Haragan said he made the final decision, and said physical education was not philosophically considered to be a part of General

Students under earlier catalogs not exempt from requirement

Education requirements.

He also said that different departments can require physical education courses.

"This in no way reflects my opinion that proper exercise is not good," he said. "It is the individual's prerogative to participate in physical activity and should not be a part of the university to require physical education."

Haragan also said the P.E. elimination was not an opportunity to add a multiculturalism course to the General Education curriculum.

"Right now, it is being discussed about how to go about counting some courses for multiculturalism, but we're not developing a specific course," he said.

Elizabeth Hall, health, physical education and recreation associate professor, said her department will probably make changes in the curriculum offerings and will probably reduce the number of courses offered.

Department officials also will conduct an assessment about how this has affected other institutions, she said.

Hall said the elimination only will affect freshmen entering in the 1995 fall semester and does not have any bearing on current Tech students.

"Students are expected to comply with the requirements under the catalog in which they entered," Hall said.

Hall also said her department's primary concern was the impact such legislation would have on students.

"Students who need information through the physical education requirement probably won't elect to take P.E. courses," she said.

"We are really concerned about the health and wellness of students," she said.

"It's a very difficult position to be in."

Hall also said that if the elimination has negative ramifications on the department's graduate program, it might impact the regular and tenured faculty.

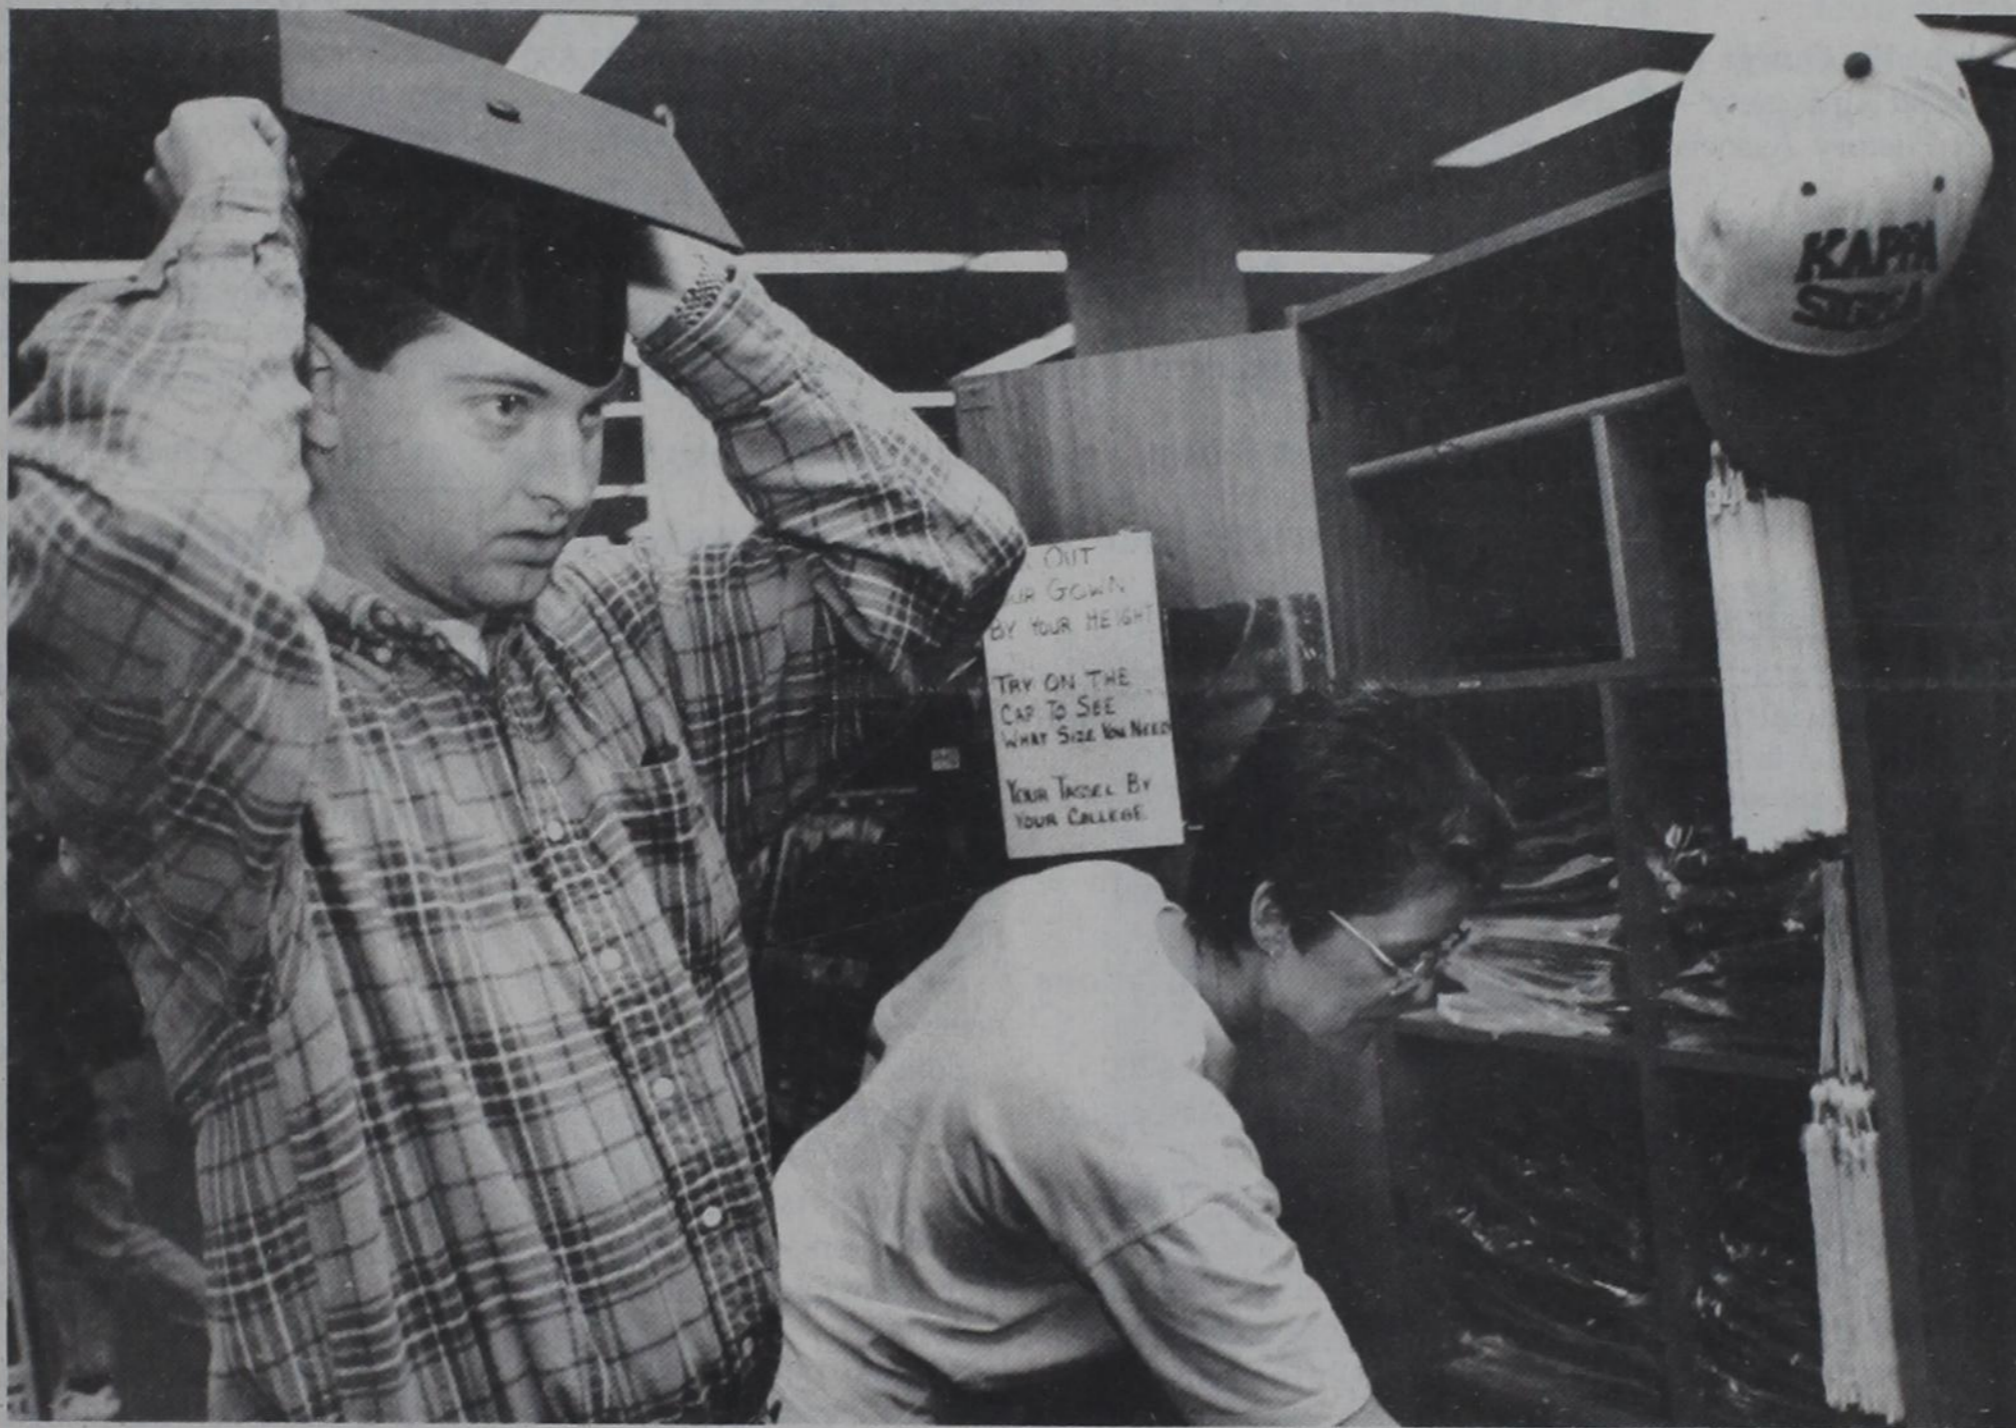

Student Senate President Jay House said he was not aware of the elimination, and said he questions the possible ulterior motives behind the elimination.

"The real question is whether they plan to replace it with something," House said.

"The only stand the Student Senate took was to keep the technology requirement," he said. "The majority of the Senate believed elimination of P.E. was not bad."

He also said any college student probably would not take physical education courses if they were not required to do so.

Fire not considered criminal act

by LESLIE WEEKS
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

The Texas Forest Service decided not to file a case against Texas Tech range and wildlife students after concluding an investigation of the Bird Creek Fire.

"Our law enforcement officer did investigate the incident," said Bobby Young, head of the fire control department for the Texas Forest Service in Lufkin. "It didn't warrant filing a case because of the equipment and manpower they had."

Young said the Forest Service looked at a copy of the burn plan, and said the plan lists items such as the water prescription called for, the adequate number of personnel on the scene and the adequate amount of equipment on the scene.

Young said damage to the land and fences was minor compared to the cost and effort it took to put the fire out.

Costs included the money state agencies spent on helicopter use and the money the volunteer fire departments spent, he said.

The wildfire, which developed March 19 after a prescribed burning by Texas Tech range and wildlife students went out of control, burned about 35,000 acres.

"What they did was definitely a bad deal," Young said.

"We are hoping that people will realize the volatile nature of the fuels."

Young said if the landowners or any of the volunteer fire departments required monetary compensation, it would be a civil matter.

"We don't offer any kind of damage assessment, we enforce the penal part of it," he said. "We don't have any control over that."

However, he said the landowners did not seem too concerned about the damage.

"Our law enforcement officer told me that they didn't seem too upset," he said.

Young said he was not sure how the fire could have been prevented.

"Every time you go out to do a prescribed burning, every day is different," Young said. "Prescribed burning is a lot more than lighting a match and letting it rip."

Terrain and wind direction has a tremendous impact, Young said. "It is an exact form of science," he said. "There are a lot of things that can be done to minimize the risks."

"Perhaps it is going to take more equipment, more manpower, wider lines or more accurate weather," he said.

Henry Wright, Horn Professor of range and wildlife management, said the students spent more than 100 hours preparing for the burn.

Coliseum integral part of Hub City's history

Renovations put on hold with talks of new arena at hand

by JAYSON BALES
AND NY LYNN NICHOLS
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

The Lubbock Municipal Coliseum may not be a historical landmark like the Alamo, but to many people, the coliseum has a great history.

Athletic events, concerts and other entertainment events have taken place at the coliseum for the past 37 years, but talk of building a new multipurpose arena in Lubbock may put an end to the coliseum's legacy.

The City of Lubbock commissioned the location of the coliseum on the Texas Tech campus May 25, 1953.

By 1955, construction of the coliseum was under way and, in July 1956, the coliseum opened.

L.H. Kirby, of Haynes and Kirby, was the chief architect in the design of the coliseum, and BHFP Construction Company built the coliseum.

The coliseum also is nicknamed "The Bubble."

Chris Harmon, deputy director for customer services at the Lubbock Civic Center, said the coliseum was built on the Tech campus partly because of the land cost.

"The state of Texas deeded the land to the city for $1," Harmon said.

Some renovations have been made to the coliseum, such as the addition of dressing rooms, but major renovations have never taken place, he said. The coliseum is outdated and renovations need to be made to utilize the facility and to comply with federal regulations, Harmon said.

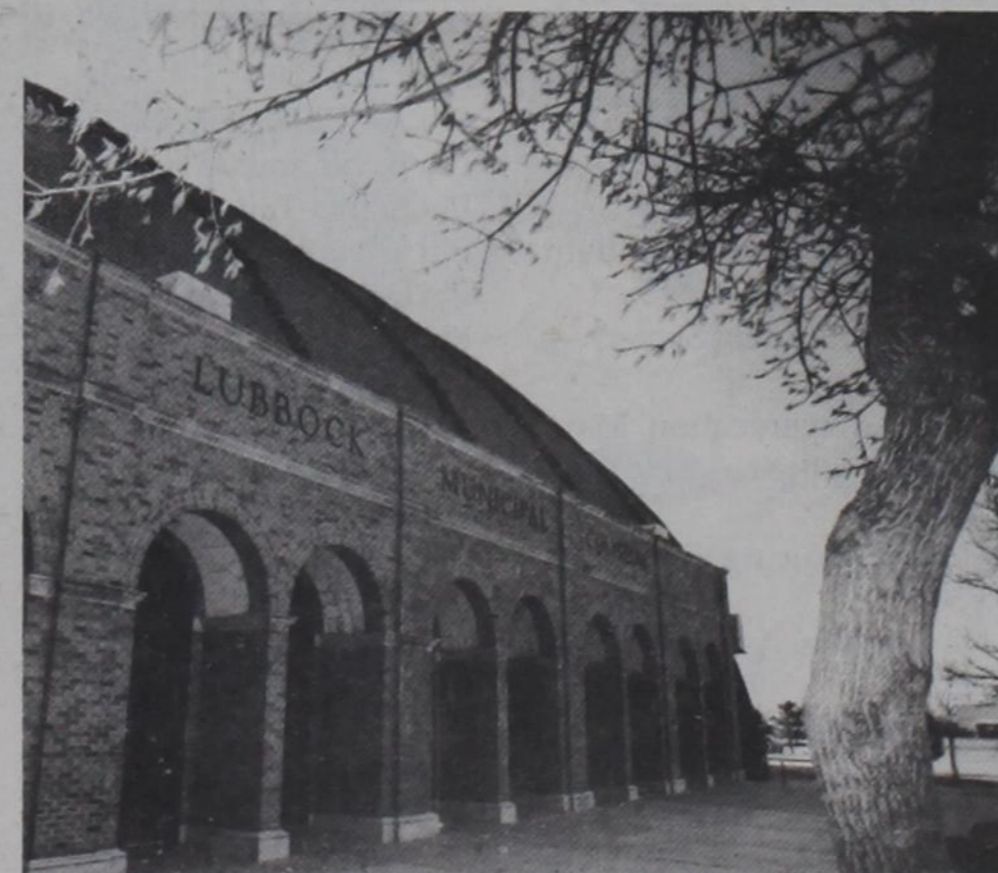

The coliseum does not comply with the Americans with Disabilities Act because it lacks proper facilities for people who are physically handicapped, he said.

"It was a good building 37 years ago," Harmon said. "It was probably the most state-of-the-art facility in the state."

Tech Assistant Athletic Director Gerald Myers, who was a basketball player at Tech during the late 1950s, said the coliseum was a great facility at the time.

"In the beginning, the coliseum was a great asset for recruiting," Myers said. "It was one of the first with that dome-shaped design. It was the best in this part of the country."

Myers also coached the Red Raider men's basketball team from

SHARON M. STEINMAN: THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

1970-1990.

During the 1970s and 1980s, other cities and universities began building new arenas while the coliseum was getting older, he said.

"The coliseum is a great place to play basketball," Myers said. "The problem was not just the atmosphere and playing in there, it was everyone else getting new (facilities), and it wasn't easy to sell new recruits on."

The coliseum is outdated when compared with new facilities in other cities, he said.

"Going into this new (Big Eight) conference with the way other people have improved their facilities, (the coliseum) is outdated for its time," Myers said.

Lubbock City Council members agreed at their March 24 meeting to postpone renovations to the coliseum because of the possibility of building a new arena in the Hub City.

How the SA distributes your money

ERIC D. SANCHEZ

Did you know that each year close to $140,000 dollars of your Student Service Fees is given out to various Tech student organizations and that the Student Senate votes whether or not certain groups should obtain more or less funding than others?

If you didn't know these facts — don't despair. There are quite a few Tech students who don't care how the Student Association spends their money. But if you are interested, the following is a list of University registered Student organizations that received funding for the fiscal year 1994-1995:

- American Advertising Federation — $1,500
- Agricultural Communicators of Tomorrow — $4,150
- Agricultural Economics Association — $2,200
- Agricultural Economics Graduate Student Association — $720
- Agronomy Club — $1,500
- Amateur Radio Society — $150
- American Association of Petroleum Geologist — $350
- Association of Chinese Students Scholarship — $300
- American Home Economics Association — $1,700
- American Institute of Architecture Students — $3,000
- American Production and Inventory — $100
- American Society of Civil Engineers — $2,860
- American Society of Landscape Architects — $800
- American Meteorological Society — $350
- American Society of Microbiology — $400
- Angel Flight — $1,700
- Anthropological Society — $1,190

- Alpha Phi Omega — $2,000
- Arnold Air Society — $1,350
- Art History Association — $100
- Asian Education Student Organization — $200
- American Society of Interior Designers — $300
- Association of Japanese Students — $100
- Association of Biologists — $2,000
- Beta Alpha Psi — $2,900
- Business Graduate Students Society — $1,100
- Block and Bridle — $1,230
- Cafe du Monde — $250
- Chi Epsilon — $50

BRADY BILL PROTECTS AMERICANS' RIGHTS WHY THE FUSS OVER A FIVE-DAY WAITING PERIOD?

To the editor:

This editorial is in response to Razor Dobbs' article pertaining to guns and denial. I once supported gun control laws such as the Brady Bill until I looked at both sides of the story. I then realized that having the gun control laws and taxes were against honest American gun owners and not criminals. The criminals don't purchase guns through the gun dealers. Instead, they buy it through the black market.

The answer to the problem isn't gun control laws and outrageous taxes on guns. There needs to be tougher laws on the criminals who commit the crimes.

Unfortunately, the politicians, who are supposed to represent us are trying to "brainwash" the American society into believing that honest gun owners are a threat to society. Many people do not realize that they are trying to take away one of our most precious freedoms and the natural right to protect ourselves.

It's time to stand up against these "gun-hating politicians," but more importantly, against the rapists, murderers, carjackers, and the rest of the parasites of society.

Pong Anderson

To the editor:

After reading Razor Dobbs' column on the Brady Bill, I decided to write The UD in order to find an answer to a question that has bothered me. This was not written to offend anyone; I am only curious.

Why is it such a big deal for someone to wait less than a week to buy a gun? I understand innocent and honest people are insulted for having to go through a security check, but is it really that much of a hassle?

I agree with some of the things Mr. Dobbs had to say, especially stricter punishment for crimes and longer jail sentences and I am not against citizens owning guns for protection.

However, unless you just have to be protected with a gun (which very well might be true) or you're going on a hunting trip and you forgot your gun, I don't understand what the fuss is all about.

Sorry if I am completely ignorant on the subject, but that is why I wrote: For a simple, intelligent answer. And if principle is the main reason for the NRA's outcry, then much of their anguish is wasted breath.

AROUND THE STATE...

Victoria Advocate on new hazardous waste regulations:

The Clinton administration has taken a welcome approach to a shameful practice of exporting hazardous waste, primarily to Third World countries. ...

Carol Browner, Environmental Protection Agency administrator, struck the right tones when she said at a press conference on the new policy: "Citizens in other countries should not be asked to bear the burden of U.S. pollution."

The administration has broken with the policies of the Reagan and Bush administrations by agreeing to ask Congress to pass a law that would ratify the 5-year-old Basel convention on exports of hazardous waste.

This is the kind of policy change that should help Americans realize that no longer will it be acceptable for their country to ship the effluent of their affluent lives to countries too poor to say no. ...

Such a change should be healthy news for this country. It should help to create new technologies while safeguarding the environment at home and abroad.

The Clinton administration deserves praise for wanting to make American business a more responsible member of the world community.

San Angelo Standard-Times on casino gambling:

The horses haven't been running for long. The lottery is still a bit of a novelty. And now Texans may be getting ready to decide whether to allow casino gambling in their state. ...

Proponents emphasize the economic benefits. They have a point: Texans spend more than $1 billion a year in Las Vegas, and newly available riverboat gambling in Louisiana draws 70 percent of its business from Texas.

Much of that money could stay here, backers say, and tourism could be boosted, if Texas offered casino and riverboat gambling.

But supporters should be careful about promoting casino gambling as an economic savior.

Gambling revenues are not stable or dependable, and much of the money casinos would bring in would simply be taken from a different gambling pocket — which is why horse racing interests will be spending money to defeat casinos.

If Texas does allow casino gambling, it should be strictly limited. While a sound argument can be made that it would add to the attraction of certain tourism spots, particularly along the coast, the idea of slot machines in airports and blackjack dealers in motels throughout the state is hardly thrilling.

Residence halls offer expanded living options

by JENNIFER GOOCH
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

Texas Tech's Housing and Dining Services is offering guaranteed rates and specific living arrangements to students wanting to live on campus next year.

"I think our biggest seller is convenience," said Stacy Reding, coordinator of marketing and customer service. "We are as close as you can get to your classes. You can sleep in while all of your classmates are driving to class, looking for a parking space and walking 15 minutes to class."

Spring sign-ups began Monday and will continue until April 8.

Current residents and off-campus students are invited to sign up for guaranteed room and board rates for the next four consecutive years, Call Waiting, meal preparations, substance free and study intensive floors, cable television hookup and laundry facilities.

"If students sign up and plan to stay for two to four consecutive years, we will guarantee that their room and board rates will not increase," Reding said. "That makes it easier for parents wanting to budget."

Reding said another benefit of on-campus living is specialty floors.

"We offer a lot of specialty floors for those students looking for certain things in their life," Reding said. "We have increased the number of non-smoking floors from nine to 21 and our study intensive floors from six to 11."

Reding said Housing and Dining Services also added honors floors for students enrolled in the Tech Honors Program.

Reding said living on campus can be less expensive and more convenient.

"We only have one bill for the whole semester, including food, living expenses, office staff, phone and cable hookups," she said. "We think you just can't beat that."

Students who wish to remain in their same room can sign up in their respective residence hall lobby or office today.

Students who want to remain in their same residence hall but would like to change rooms can sign up Thursday and Friday in their hall lobby or their hall office.

Students wanting to live on special floors or halls, such as substance free, non-smoking or study intensive, can sign up Tuesday and Wednesday.

April 7 and 8 sign ups will be for students wanting to change residence halls completely.

After spring sign ups and until the end of the semester, off-campus students can sign up in the Housing and Dining Office in Doak Hall.

Housing and Dining also offers a security system in every hall with an identification card entrance system. Aside from lobby entrances, exterior doors are locked 24 hours a day.

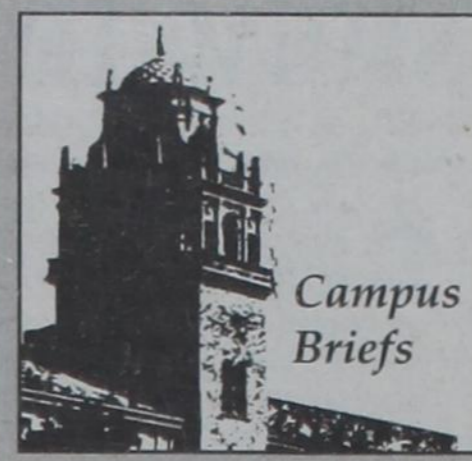

International theme lines featuring Italian, Mexican, Oriental, Southwestern and deli foods complement six of the dining halls.

Chitwood and Weymouth halls are open only to freshmen and students new to Tech.

Coleman is a co-ed hall open to students of a sophomore standing or to students at least 20 years old, and Doak Hall is for upperclassmen only.

Gates Hall will house men next year instead of women.

All of the other hall's make up will remain the same, Reding said. All visitation and escort policies also will remain the same.

Texas Tech student Darrel Morrison was walking from calculus class at noon Monday when he found sociology professor Walter Cartwright in a car. Morrison and registered nurse Pam Gougler helped Cartwright from the car, took his jacket off and placed it under his head. Gougler checked his vital signs. Cartwright was not breathing, nor did he have a heart beat. Gougler ripped open Cartwright's shirt and Morrison and Gougler performed CPR. It took three minutes to revive Cartwright, while other students directed traffic in the area. Cartwright was taken from the scene at about 12:12 p.m. by Emergency Medical Services and is recovering at Methodist Hospital. He was in stable condition Monday night.

UC talk show to focus on women's protection issues

by MICHELLE ELIZARDO
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

Domestic violence will be the subject of a talk show at the Texas Tech University Center today.

Panelists will discuss current statistics, types of violence and ways women can protect themselves at 7:30 p.m. in the UC's Coronado/Matador Room.

Anyone from the Tech community is invited to attend the free panel and discuss the focus issues.

"I think (discussion) really has the potential to make a great impact for the people," said UC adviser Ceci Lou.

The talk show will be hosted by KLBK-TV Channel 13 reporter Lois Waraskevich and panelists include Robin Brewton, health education coordinator at Thompson Hall, Kelly Whitman from the Lubbock Rape Crisis Center and Susan Schroeder, a psychotherapist who deals in domestic violence.

"They will give a broad overview of the problem in Lubbock of domestic violence, sexual assault and random assault," said project leader Michelle Gould, a senior marketing major from Eunice, N.M.

The statistics are staggering: one in every four women will be the victim of rape or attempted rape in her lifetime, and on average, a woman is raped every six minutes, Gould said.

"As we come across the statistics, we have all been amazed and startled," Lou said.

"These are problems people are

It is just as important for men to be there because the victims can be their sister or girlfriend. They need to know how to deal with these kinds of situations.

Group bringing hillbilly harmonies to Lubbock

by JULIE HARRIS
THE UNIVERSITY DAILY

A new and improved version of country music band McBride and the Ride will perform at 10:30 p.m. today at Midnight Rodeo.

Tickets for the show cost $6 and can be purchased at Midnight Rodeo, Dollar Western Wear, Doc's and Ralph's Records and Tapes.

Original members Ray Herndon and Billy Thomas left the band in November to pursue solo interests, and three musicians have since replaced them.

"I am thrilled to be able to work with these guys," lead singer Terry McBride said. "I have admired the work of each in the past."

Joining McBride and original members Gary Morse (steel guitar) and Jeffrey Roach (keyboards) are guitarist Kenny Vaughn, drummer Keith Edwards and bassist Randy Frazier. Vaughn has played with country performers Patty Loveless and Sweethearts of the Rodeo, and Edwards has performed with country musician Ricky Skaggs and pop artist Amy Grant.

The group recently made its movie debut in "8 Seconds," the story of Oklahoma bull rider Lane Frost. In the movie, McBride and the Ride performs its hit, "No More Cryin,'" from the "8 Seconds" soundtrack.

The group's publicist, Jennifer Dunn-Simon, said the band will release a new album, its fourth, in September.

McBride and the Ride has earned two Academy of Country Music nominations for Vocal Group and two nominations for the Country Music Association's Vocal Group of the Year.

Tech takes third game from Bears

Raiders move into second with 4-1 victory against Baylor

WACO (Special) - The Texas Tech baseball team took advantage of six Baylor errors to defeat the Bears 4-1 Monday at Ferrell Field.

Tech won the series, which began Saturday, and moves back into second place in the Southwest Conference with a 4-2 record and a 27-9 overall mark.

Two Tech pitchers, starter Travis Smith and Eric Newman, gave the Raiders a scare when they walked the bases loaded in the bottom of the ninth with the winning run at the plate. Jeff Peck finished the game and picked up the save by striking out Baylor's Marty Crawford.

Smith picked up the win and is still undefeated with a 6-0 record. He pitched eight and 1/3 innings for the Raiders, giving up 10 hits, one run, three walks and struck out three.

Tech scored one run in the third inning and one in the fourth to pull ahead 2-0.

The Bears attempted to rally by hitting two singles in the sixth inning. Second baseman Mike Bohny then bunted into a fielder's choice where Smith made the throw to third baseman Clint Bryant for the out.

Bohny stole second base and moved to third base on a wild pitch by Smith. Catcher Robin Harriss saved the Raiders a run on the pitch by tossing the ball to Smith for the out at the plate. Bohny scored when right fielder Mark Martin singled, making the score 2-1.

Harriss

The Raiders scored two runs in the eighth with shortstop Saul Bustos making it to second base on an error by Martin. Bustos moved to third when Bryant was hit by a pitch.

Left fielder Marshall Bennett singled in Bustos and Bryant scored on an error by third baseman Jason Walton, making the score 4-1.

Baylor outhit Tech 10-4.

Tech's only extra base hit came from Harriss, who hit a double and went two for four on the day.

The Raiders will take a break from SWC play this weekend, taking on Oklahoma in Norman Friday and Saturday.

The road trip will continue against Wichita State next Tuesday.

Men should have banner 1994-95 year

JAMES DAVID

The campaign is over, temporarily.

For the Texas Tech men's basketball team the season is over. The 17-11 campaign was good enough to tie Texas A&M for second place in the Southwest Conference in the regular season.

Not quite as good as last season's 18-12 performance and SWC Tournament Championship, but it sure was better than the fifth-place finish the preseason coaches poll indicated for the Raiders. If a couple of games had gone the other way, Tech would have won the SWC regular-season title outright.

All season long as I was covering the team, I was impressed by their competitiveness. Sometimes, they just refused to lose.

If I could describe the team's season in one word it would have to be exciting.

I have never seen a better game than the 128-125 double overtime win over Texas in the Coliseum, or the win down at A&M to close out the regular season.

It was a disappointing finish in the SWC Tournament for the Raiders, who probably would have advanced to at least an NIT berth with a win over A&M. After all, we're talking about a team that won 10 out of its last 11 games, and changed the complexion of the SWC regular-season race in the final weeks of the season.

The best thing about the squad is that they're all coming back next season.

Newcomer of the Year Mark Davis, All-SWC Jason Sasser and the rest of the gang will be back.

The same can't be said for Texas, which loses B.J. Tyler, Terrence Rencher and Co.

A&M will be without the services of point guard David Edwards next season, so Tech should already be the favorite for next year.

It is rumored that next season will be the last one for the SWC (as we know it) in basketball.

If so, it should certainly be an exciting last season for Coach James Dickey's Raiders.

James David is a sports reporter for The University Daily.

Face-to-face meeting brings no resolution to Johnson-Jones feud

IRVING (AP) — The feuding Dallas Cowboys owner, Jerry Jones, and head coach, Jimmy Johnson, Monday were in their first face-to-face meeting since their high-profile battle erupted.

But those close to the men declined to predict Johnson's future with the Super Bowl champion team.

Quarterback Troy Aikman, who met with Jones and Johnson earlier in the day, said: "I have no sense of the way it's going to go. All I know is that by tomorrow at this time we should have some answers."

Aikman said he was called into Jones' office after he, on his own initiative, visited Johnson.

"I don't think they know for sure yet what's going to take place.

These are two intelligent adults and they can solve their own problems," said Aikman.

"But both of them are very volatile. I try not to be shocked by anything that happens around here."

Finally, something for college that just got less expensive.

Macintosh LC 475 8/160, Apple Color Plus 14" Display, Apple Extended Keyboard II, PLUS the Apple StyleWriter II. Only $1,687.65 after $100 rebate!

Right now, when you buy an already affordable Macintosh LC 475 with an Apple StyleWriter II or LaserWriter, you'll receive a $100 mail-in rebate from Apple. That's a hundred bucks now on a computer with fast 040 performance. Plus the Macintosh LC 475 is upgradable to PowerPC performance in the future, if you need it. But that's not all. You'll also take home seven popular software programs while supplies last. That's a complete Macintosh system with a lot of goodies, at a really unbeatable price. So, what are you waiting for? College may last four years, but this offer won't.
