T. A. G. Girls Meet

The T. A. G. girls of Carbon High School met Sept. 30 in the home of Toby Gilbert with the president, Marjorie Hines, presiding. The meeting was called to order by deciding our club song and motto. We decided that all new members coming in the club would be initiated. A group of girls sang while the others sewed.

Refreshments were served to Loistene Wyatt, Lavene Burnett, Marjorie Hines, Mary Lee Harlow, Juline Griffin, Christine Rhyne, Lou Ann Jackson, Maxine Rhyne, Doris Dover, Miss Opal Ramsey and a hostess Toby Gilbert.

Fifty Youths and Sponsors Attend Fair Saturday

The fifty F. F. A. and Homemaking boys and girls that went from Carbon were among the 225, 000 people that attended the Texas State Fair in Dallas Saturday. There were 45,900 F. F. A. boys and Homemaking girls from every part of Texas.

The first thing we did was to go to the swine judging and then to the cattle judging, where we saw some very fat cattle.

We also saw Elsie, the Borden cow. And speaking of Borden, Cyrus Justice told us of some free ice cream. He walked over to the counter and got a pint and walked out without paying. He then thought it was free and told the rest, but unfortunately, we had to pay for ours.

Many of us rode the roller coaster which was quite a thrill. What time we were not flying we were landing. Mr. Berry had quite a time keeping us piped down going through towns. We all had lots of fun but Mr. Berry had quite a headache.

We have Pete Holloway to thank for such good driving of the packed bus through the traffic in Dallas and Fort Worth. There were more than three acres of school buses in the parking lot which was equal to about 865 buses.

Mrs. Holloway and Mrs. Berry also went along with the group as sponsors.

Progress Made On Auction Barn

Sig Faircloth, who is building his new stock auction sales barn just east of Eastland, says he hopes to be open in about three weeks.

Concrete flooring is being run and final work was being done on the ceiling.

The structure, made of Haydite blocks manufactured in Eastland, is 71 feet long by 60 feet wide. The auction ring will be at the north end, furtherest from the highway, and in the front will be an office on one side and cafe on the other.

Pens at the rear of the building are virtually complete. Faircloth estimates old railroad ties for posts and had to dig 1073 holes for the posts, which were set in concrete. The barn will be the largest and most elaborate in a several-hundred mile area.

J. D. Hires of Odessa visited his mother, Mrs. Mattie Hines, this week.

With the Roar of a Lion Steam Organ Was Born

An Englishman by the name of Dennis invented a musical instrument which, when it was first tested in 1889, frightened people to such an extent that they thought the Day of Judgment had arrived and fell on their knees in the streets to pray. It was the steam organ "collage".

A trial performance was arranged at the Crystal Palace in London. There, a clumsy iron construction stood on one thick coat. On its left side it had huge metal cylinders in which hot air and steam were produced by burning charcoal. This hot air and steam were forced through the pipes of the organ.

Household Hints

Instead of sewing snaps on very fine material, sew them to a piece of silk tape and whip the tape along the hem where the snaps are needed. Prevents snaps from cutting through when garment is ironed.

Two thin coats of paint give better results than one thick coat. Sandpaper lightly between coats.

When hanging clothes to dry hang large items first because smaller ones can be fitted into remaining spaces easily.

Farm Topics

Soft Corn Requires Special Attention

Several Methods Given For Profitable Feeding

Saving soft corn will be a problem facing many farmers this year. Much of the crop went in so late that frost became a factor in maturity, as well as in winter-handling of the corn.

Next to chopping and feeding green, one of the best ways to get full value from soft corn is to put immature crops in the silo or pasture them with cattle, hogs or sheep, Capper's Farmer points out.

Another method used by many growers in the last big soft corn year, 1945, was to build emergency cribs five to six feet wide. The farmers set two rows of poles in the ground, wired the tops together to keep the cribs from spreading, and fastened woven wire or slat cribbing on the inside of the posts. These cribs, built in east and west directions, took best advantage of prevailing winds.

Farmers in many northern areas, where corn is likely to be caught by frost before it is mature, regularly cut up large quantities and cure it as fodder. Ears later are husked by hand or with a shredder.

Most hybrid corns are still stalked and have a good root system. They will stand with few fallen ears well into the winter. Since ears will dry with less spoilage on a standing stalk, many farmers prefer to let hogs, cattle or sheep harvest the crop.

Jenny Lind's Concert Tour Created Greatest Furor

America's greatest furor was that created by Jenny Lind, the Swedish singer, during her concert tour (1850-1852), says Collier's.

Its extent is indicated by a collection of Lindiana owned by the New York Historical Society which contains, among its thousands of items, scores of the countless articles on which her name and portrait were used as a trademark of decoration, such as bonnets, beds, pillows, wallpapers and even men's fancy vest buttons.

THE PUBLIC nature of advertising benefits everyone it touches. It benefits the public by describing exactly the products that are offered. LET US TELL YOU MORE ABOUT IT

KNOW YOUR BREED

Morgan Horse
By W. J. DRIVEN

Justin Morgan was the fountain-head of the first great family of American horses. The Morgan strain secured its name from the man who bred the original Morgan horse and owned him until late in 1795.

For 150 years Americans have been proud to claim Morgan blood.

Herds and Flocks

Full pigs should be kept gaining from the start. If they stop gaining it is harder to get them started again, and it takes more feed. Don't let them lose their milk fat.

Keep weeds cut under your electric fence, to prevent grounding.

Flush ewes before the breeding season—that is, feed them generously so they will be gaining at breeding time. Changing from scant to good pasture, or feeding some grain, will put the ewes in better condition. Flushing results in more certain breeding.

Cows due to freshen in late fall should be dried off and given eight weeks of vacation get ready for the blessed event. During this rest period, feed a fitting ration to keep the cow in good flesh and help develop the calf.

Good example of a Morgan horse. In their horses. It implied energy, courage, bottom and excellent saddle horse. The breed is being perpetuated in the United States Morgan horse farm, Middlebury, Vt. Morgan height it ranges from 14.2 hands to 15.2 hands, with 15 hands being given preference.

Be Patient About Your Baby's Growth

IF YOU'RE concerned about how your baby is growing, just give him the best possible care and be patient, advises Beniah France in an article in Copper's Farmer, one of the leading farm magazines. He will develop only as rapidly as nature intends.

"How fast your baby grows depends on 2 things," she writes in the magazine read by 1,300,000 farm families. "One is heredity—traits he inherited from both sides of the family. The other is environment—baby's surroundings—which include the food he eats and the treatment he receives."

In the early months, once a week is often enough to weigh your baby, she says. Later, once a month will be sufficient. Baby usually doubles his birth weight in 6 months. At one year he should weigh about 3 times his birth weight.

Your baby may begin to sit alone for a moment or two at a time when he is 7 months old. But he must not be propped and left that way. He will sit without support and walk alone when his bones, nerves and muscles are ready for the effort. Between 12 and 18 months he will try to walk. By a year and a half he may be toddling. Between the ages of 2 and 3 he'll become an accomplished walker.

Some babies repeat a word or two as early as 10 months. But they generally don't know what they are saying. By a year, your child may call several things by name, including his father and mother. But do not expect a child to use phrases before he is 18 months old. Even babies of 2 years may not speak clearly.

"Don't use baby talk with your child," Miss France cautions. "Speak slowly, correctly, as you want him to speak when he grows up. It's unfair to teach a child a language he must later discard."

Because of livestock losses, my ranch is now posted against fishing and hunting. No trespassing please. Buck Weston. (known as the White Ranch).

Freeze Fruits to Get Summer Treats All Year

Frozen berry purees over ice cream make tasty sundaes in winter or summer.

BERRIES make mighty tempting summer desserts—and just as tempting winter ones. For by freezing the finely flavored berries you can have summer treats the year around, writes Donald K. Treasurer in Copper's Farmer, a leading magazine.

"To preserve the good taste that fresh berries have," he points out, "one should allow them to fully ripen on the bush, and handle them gently in preparing them for the freezer. Avoid extra handling in washing by placing them in a colander or basket with small openings and swish it through water containing ice until berries are clean. The ice water keeps the berries firm and shaping, prevents bleeding and waterlogging of the fruit.

"When several pounds of berries are washed, stemmed or capped, you are ready to mix them with sugar or cover them with sirup—depending on your preference and whether or not you want to use the frozen berries for dessert sauces.

"In filling containers for the freezer, allow ½ inch space at the top of each one for expansion during freezing. Follow the manufacturer's instructions for closing or sealing various types of containers.

"Berries or any fruit covered with sirup tend to rise to the top. To keep them in the sirup, crush a piece of wax paper and place it between the fruit and the lid of the freezing container.
