BALLINGER LADIES

WRITE FROM INDIA

Tell Interesting Experience of Life Among Heathen People. Suffer from Heat.

Calcutta, India, May 14, 1913. The Runnels County Ledger. Ballinger, Texas.

Greetings to our friends in the Homeland:

Another month has passed and we are made to know it is past time to send a few more lines to you.

We are now enjoying a cool breeze, the result of a heavy rain.

What is supposed to be the hot season is now on, but we have not had so very many real warm days, possibly because of frequent rains of late. Some days have been very, very warm though and we felt the heat keenly at times.

We Texans know what hat weather is, but it affects one differently here, the rays of the sun falling so direct. We seldom go outside, the house from 10 o'clock a. m. until about 3 o'clock p. m. since the weather has gotten so warm. Even the reflected glare of the sun here is considered dangerous. If we have no warmer weather than we have had thus far, we shall be grateful indeed.

It is also now the time of the year for Indian fruits to ripen. Many kinds of fruit grow here and some are said to be very good.

Mangoes are especially good. We have a few mango trees on our compound, also the jackfruit tree, and others.

There is no use writing the Bengali names of some of the fruit. If we were to write them in English in all probability you would not

FOR KILLING FATHER

TWO SONS INDICATED

Robt. and Charles Jones Who Slew Parents at Dublin Will Go to Trial June 23.

Stephensville, Texas., June 12.—The trial of Robert and Charles Jones, sons of Lee W. Jones, on indictments for murder in connection with the fatal shooting of their father near here on the morning of June 6, has been set for June 23 before District Judge W. J. Oxford.

Indictments were returned against the boys Wednesday by the grand jury, which was in session at the time of the shooting. Attorneys at once filed an application for writs of habeas corpus. Hearing of these writs was set for the day of the trial.

Only a few of the seventy-five or more witnesses in the case summoned to appear before the grand jury were called. The two boys have made no denial of the killing and have issued no statement since the day they were placed in jail, when they said they "had to do some shooting."

Mrs. Jones, mother of the two accused men, over whom the trouble is said to have occurred, is at the home of her father, A. L. Burnett, in Dublin.

Mrs. J. S. Sheffield, of Bangs, and her daughter, Mrs. Mahan, of Big Springs, came in at noon Friday and after a visit to Mrs. A. T. Campbell and family a day or two will leave for Big Springs.

Rev. J. H. Stuart, of Brownwood came in at noon Friday and went out to Norton to look after church work.

PLACED IN BALLINGER

JAIL-MURDER CHARGE

Concho County Man Charged with Poisoning Family Brought Here for Safe Keeping. Family Still Ill.

District Attorney Early, Sheriff Puett and Deputy Sheriff Carter arrived in Ballinger about three o'clock Friday afternoon with Will Cromains, the man who is charged with poisoning his family near Eaden Wednesday morning and Cromains was placed in the Ballinger jail where he will probably remain until the grand jury meets next fall and his case taken up and passed on by that body. After being arrested at his home where the crime was committed, Cromains was carried to Paint Rock where he was arraigned for an examining trial which he waived and he was denied bail and brought to Ballinger.

Cromains is a tenant farmer and is the father of a large family. He is being accused of the crime on circumstantial evidence, and as we learn in substance is about as follows:

A few days before the date of the tragedy Mrs. Cromains, at the request of Mr. Cromains brought some arsenic from her son-in-law's home to the Cromains home to be used by Cromains in killing prairie dogs. This poison was left out in the field a considerable distance from the home, where it had been used. On the morning of the crime Cromains got up and made the fire and assisted his 14 year old daughter in preparing breakfast while the other members of the family were asleep. The daughter made bread, while Cromains made the coffee and fried the meat. After eating breakfast or while eating Cromains, became sick, and all members of the family, including Cromains remarked that something was the matter with the food. The oldest son, 18 years old, had eaten more than any other members of the family and before the physicians could arrive and do anything to relieve him he died, and other members of the family became seriously ill, and as this is being written two of them are in critical condition, but the physicians think all will recover except a daughter nine years old who is lying at the point of death. Cromains only took a few bites of the bread which later developed to contain arsenic, and he did not get very sick. His peculiar action and indifference regarding the condition of his family lead the officers to suspicion him, and he was soon under surveillance, and circumstances pointed so strongly to his guilt he was arrested.

It later developed that the poison had been removed from where it had been left in the field to a place near the house, and about this Cromains told three or four different stories. He denies being guilty of the crime and at the same time shows no concern in the matter, notwithstanding that his oldest boy is dead and other members of his family are at the point of death. There is no motive for crime on the part of Cromains except that he and his wife have not been getting along well.

COURT CONDEMNS

STUFFING CATTLE

Practice of Texas Cattlemen to Increase Weights at Stockyards is Denounced.

San Antonio, Texas, June 12.—The practice of feeding and watering cattle but once between Texas shipping points and the stock yards at Chicago and St. Louis, in order that the cattle might eat and drink voraciously on arrival at destination, thus increasing their weight as much as fifty pounds each and bringing a correspondingly higher price, is severely scored in a decision handed down by Chief Justice W. S. Fly, of the fourth court of civil appeals. The higher court reversed and remanded the case because the plaintiff in the lower court secured a $1700 judgement against the railway company for having fed and watered 270 head of beef cattle twice en route.

"Whatever may be the custom" says the court's opinion "as to filling cattle with water just before a sale it is a fraud upon the rights of the buyers that cannot be tolerated as a basis for damages in a court of justice. The railroad cannot be compelled to pay damages because it acted in such a way whether resignedly or not, as to prevent a fraud upon the rights of others."

Plaintiff in the lower court contended they had a verbal contract with the railway company that the beef cattle were to be fed and watered only once and the claim was set up that they were handled so slowly that they had to feed twice. It was set up that in this way the cattle did not "fill up" on arrival at destination thereby causing the shipper to lose the price of at least fifty pounds on each animal.

LEG BROKEN IN PECULIAR WAY

Ernest, the oldest son of W. P. Buttery had his leg broken in a peculiar manner on last Saturday. During the rain in attempting to close the barn door it was blown off the hinges and fell on him, crushing him to the ground. When the door was removed it was found, besides being bruised in several places he had suffered a broken leg, the break being just below the left knee. We hope that he will soon recover from his painful accident.—Miles Messenger.

BARBECUE COMMITTEE

REPORT READY

Committee Have Work Well in Hand for Big Barbecue to be Held on June 28th. Money Subscribed.

The committee behind the move for the big Anniversary barbecue to be pulled off at Ballinger on June 28th have been meeting almost daily and are getting things in good shape for the event that is being looked forward to with a great deal of interest.

The finance committee are not through with their work as a number of those who will contribute to the expense fund are out of town, but the committee has met with success, and the money for pulling off one of the most successful events in the history of the country is in sight, and the committees are going ahead arranging for the occasion and looking after the work assigned them.

All the necessary supplies for the table have been contracted for. E. D. Walker, chairman of the committee on barbecue, bread, coffee, etc., has closed the contract for the meat, bread, coffee, sugar, and cream. Yes, there will be cream for your coffee, and sugar for your coffee too.

Of course you are coming because you want to be here. Leave all your troubles behind, load your wife and children in your wagon, if you haven't an auto, and come spend the day with us. Don't bring anything but yourself your wife, your sweetheart, your children, your kin folks, and your wife's kin folks, and all your neighbors. All the other things will be here for you.

COUNTY WANTS MORE MONEY

Commissioner Craft returned Saturday from Ballinger after spending a week in attendance upon Commissioners Court. The court met as a board of equalization and quite a lot of property was raised throughout the county. The raise was occasioned by the fact that the taxes collected during the past few years have been insufficient to meet the running expenses of the schools and affairs of the county. But we hope nobody will kick at the raise as good times are ahead and money will be plentiful this fall when old Runnels county gathers and markets that bumper cotton and feed crop.—Miles Messenger.

CLAUDE McCALEB'S SIX POUND BASS HALTS COURT

Claude McCaleb told a fishy story Tuesday. It was one of those illustrated stories. He told the story in Judge Marvin H. Brown's court room Tuesday afternoon. And court was in session, too.

Mr. McCaleb said he caught a six pound, big mouth black bass, According to many of the oldest anglers, this is one of the largest fish ever caught in Tarrant county. Mr. McCaleb declares it is absolutely the biggest fish and hardly believes there could be one much larger.

When he entered the court room he was wet with perspiration. For getful of precedent he hastened to the judge's bench exhibiting his fish. Lawyers and judge, together with the deputy sheriff forgot court and Mr. Caleb and his fish were the center of attraction.

"That's the biggest story, that ever broke in Tarrant county," earnestly exclaimed Ernest Scougale, official reporter for the Seventeenth district court.

The fish was caught at Lake Como.—Fort Worth Record.

What Mr. Seipp has down on his one-horse farm others can do in Runnels county.

BALLINGER LADIES WRITES FROM INDIA

pronounce them correctly.

Truly Bengal may be called the land of pineapples. They are here in abundance and in their season are very cheap; especially so in the villages. They can be bought in baskets containing twenty, for five cents (one cent U. S. money) each. Surely we may have them as often as we desire. Of course this is the price only during pineapple season in Bengal. At other times they are expensive.

Since seeing some of Indian life we appreciate as never before, having been born in a land of freedom, where womanhood was respected, and given its proper place. While we know that often in America's fair land woman is abused, crushed and cast aside, yet if all American women could see and know what is an Indian woman's life, how glad they would be that such a fate was not theirs. In the language here there is no word for home. There are words for house but that sacred word which brings such a warm thrill of joy to our hearts is not to be found in this language. So we have been told by our teacher. When we think of father and mother, their love for and care over us, untroubled by caste customs and murderous weles, and of how they would have shed their heart's best blood to shield us from harm or evil, how the house and place itself seemed to breathe a blessing upon us, inviting us to the rest, comfort and cheer to be found there! Oh! when we think of all this, and then look around us here, how the heart aches for these dear ones.

Father and mother may love their child here, but caste and religion demands some things which are as iron chains binding them preventing them from giving their child the protection that some would like to give. You who love your little girls as your own life, and are throwing around them that love and protection so necessary for them think what it would mean if you were bound by customs that would necessitate your giving that little child over to a life of drudgery degradation and misery to awful to be written here. Girls must be married while very young here to keep the family from being disgraced and generally speaking marriage means misery untold. Woman is not respected here she is not esteemed as highly as the cow or goat. A companion for her husband? No, she is his chattel, his slave and how could a child of eight years, untrained, unlearned be a companion to a man who many times is old enough to be her father?

Many a little girl at an age which you know to be childhood only, is bearing the burdens and responsibilities of married life.

The mother often would save her child from this, but what can she do, she is only a woman. Some fathers would do so if they obeyed the desire dictation of their own hearts. But they have not the courage to go against their laws and customs, it would mean much to them. Go to the courts, and in the face of that life of misery in store for that helpless child, pleadings of parents or missionary friends, the law will calmly hand the child over to her husband, and the law knows what the lives of these child-wives are.

Education has made many an Indian see the cruelty and baseness of such customs, but it has not given him the courage to stand by his knowledge.

The religion of our Savior, Jesus Christ will give that courage.

Oh, how our hearts cry out for this language, that we may tell of Him who can and does make old things pass away and all things become new.

There are some exceptions to the above, some wives are happy, but oh, how very, very few, as those who have seen behind these closed doors may know.

on—g.hugTOI NN N m TNO N

The mission work here is moving on—children are being brought to our station from time to time. At present they are trying to get some building done before the rains really set in, and some work on buildings occupied by our boys and girls, but this kind of work goes on so, so slowly. Makes us feel like we would like to lend a hand.

No doubt you would like a word about our health. We are very grateful for our present state of health. We are being wonderfully kept, all things taken into consideration.

The heat causes loss of appetite to quite a degree, also of vitality and energy. Then a lovely, cool breeze comes for a day or so and we feel like new persons.

We are not sick, but at times "wilted" (badly) by the heat.

Not desiring to weary you, we will bring this letter to a close.

Please remember you are not forgotten by your friends across the sea.

GRAND PARENTS GRADUATE AT THE BAYLOR UNIVERSITY

Waco, June 12.—Possibly for the first time in this country a grandfather and grandmother graduated from the same institution at the same time and their graduation was witnessed by a grandson, Leland Rook of Bosqueville, and the child's great grandmother, Mrs. Matilda Porter of Waco.

The parties graduating were William Porter and wife and they graduated from Baylor university a few days ago, though it was not known until today that they held the record of being grandparents and graduating at the same time. Mr. Porter is 50 years old and a Kentuckian while his wife is 45 and a Tennessean. They attended the co-educational school at Clifton, Tennessee, when Cupid got in his work and are now graduating as grandparents. They taught school in San Antonio after coming to Texas, coming then to Waco to enter Baylor.
