The regulation against state advertising goes back to the early days of 1870, when a constitutional convention wrote into the Texas charter (Article 16, Section 50) the prohibition against "expenditure of public funds for the purpose of bringing immigrants into Texas."

For a long time, Texas leaders have felt that the necessity for state advertising no longer exists, and have sought to eliminate it.

The Sunshine Club will meet in the annex of the Methodist Church next Tuesday, Oct. 21, and quilt a quilt. They plan to meet about 10 o'clock and bring a sack lunch to be spread at noon. Everyone welcome.

PETROLEUM—basic to the needs of our time

Oil and natural gas have powered most of the great technological advances of modern times; petroleum hydrocarbons have transformed the dreams of inventors into the realities of engineers . . . Today, in the United States, oil and natural gas provide about 75% of the country's energy requirements; and large quantities of oil, available for production beyond immediate need, are necessary to the national security.

An obvious example is the gasoline that powers our automobiles; another is the diesel fuel that powers our railroads and ships. But do not overlook electric power plants, the airplane, whether jet or propeller driven, factory power plants, farm mechanization, and the revolution since World War II in home heating devices. Oil provides the energy that moves the trucks, airplanes, ships and tanks of our Armed Forces.

But petroleum as a source of energy is only part of the story. In the past two decades, the petrochemicals have supplied the country with a vigorous new industry: already most of our rubber is made from petrochemicals . . . the ubiquitous plastics derive from petroleum products . . . paraxylene, a petrochemical, is the raw material for one of the most useful of the new fabrics. In this area, wonders never cease; the petrochemicals contribute more each year to the efficiency, comfort, and convenience of modern living.

Thus, oil's progress has made other progress possible along the front of American industry. Petroleum is the American resource that is basic to the needs of our time . . . that is essential to our national security.

The Humble Company, established in 1917, has developed with the industry.

Humble's exploration activities extend from Florida around the rim of the country to California, Oregon and Washington, and beyond to the new State of Alaska . . . The Company is a leader in the production of oil and gas in the United States. Humble Pipe Line Company is a public carrier transporting not only Humble's oil but that of many other companies and independent producers to Gulf Coast terminals . . . Baytown refinery is one of the nation's great manufacturing plants . . . And Humble is a marketer in the Southwest, supplying the needs of motorists in modern service stations.

The Humble Company believes strongly in research, maintains two outstanding research facilities, and annually budgets considerable sums for this activity . . . Humble research has made substantial contributions to the discovery, production, and utilization of petroleum.
