PROMOTION IN NATIONAL GUARD

(By Herbert Sledge, Company Publicity Man)
Camp Mabry, July 31.—Newt Wardlaw who was appointed Lieutenant when the Ballinger company of National Guard was organized, and who mobilized the boys for entraining to Camp Mabry and placed in command of the company, was today promoted to Captain, succeeding Capt. Clinton B. Penn who tendered his resignation several days ago, and asked for his discharge. Collis P. Dooze succeeded Capt. Wardlaw as lieutenant in the Ballinger company, the changes announced today being effective as of July 28th.

The Regimental Headquarters 142nd Company are comfortably billeted at Camp Mabry, and are carrying out a strenuous program of training. The boys have adapted themselves to regular hours and the usual army routine way of doing things, and are making the best of the discipline under which they are at work.

While they are put through hard drillings and lecture courses they are given time for some recreation and for chapel services and Y. M. C. A. amusements. The Ballinger boys are all well and so far only a few cases of "homesickness" has developed.

RETURNED FROM MOTREY'S FUNERAL

H. Giesecke returned to Ballinger Monday from San Antonio, where he was called to attend the funeral of his mother, who died shortly after Mr. Giesecke arrived here from San Antonio last week. The funeral was held at that place. Mr. Giesecke's mother was eighty-eight years of age.

STRIKE LEAVES CHICAGO AFOOT

By Associated Press
CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—Twenty thousand motormen, conductors and guards of the surface elevator lines went out on strike here at four o'clock this morning. The strike leaves a greater part of the working portion of the city's three million people forced to seek improvised means of transportation. Many are walking and automobiles are substituting on streets where they are permitted to handle traffic.

PLAN SETTLING COAL STRIKE

By Associated Press
PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 1.—A joint wage conference of operators and miners in the Central competitive bituminous coal fields, will meet at Cleveland next Monday to negotiate basis of agreement designated to terminate the present coal strike, was called today by John L. Lewis, International President of the United Mines Workers of America. President Lewis also summoned the general policy committee union to meet at Cleveland at the same time and to be prepared to act promptly on developments occurring as a result of the joint wage conference.

Mr. Lewis stated that all men would remain out on the strike until the agreement or a definite understanding had been reached.

W. F. Weathersby, who has been with The Hub for several years, will retire from that store as soon as a man is employed to relieve him. Mr. Weathersby stated that he did not know what line of business he would engage in, but after a visit to Ft. Worth, Dallas and other places, he would decide on something. His friends trust that he will see fit to remain in Ballinger.

By Associated Press
NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—The heads of one hundred and forty-eight railroads, threatening all parts of the country, this afternoon resumed their conference at the Grand Central Station presumably to vote for the acceptance or rejection of President Harding's proposals for settling the nationwide railway shopmen's strike.

CHICAGO, Aug. 1.—The proposition for the striking shopmen to settle their strike with the railroads that are willing to agree to Mr. Harding's proposals, regardless of whether all roads agree to the propositions or not, will be placed before the meeting of the union chiefs in session here this afternoon.

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—President Harding's proposals for a settlement of the railroad strike were made public today in connection with the railroad heads meeting to discuss other matters. The proposals are three in number. The first sets forth that the railroads and employees should abide by the wage decision reached by the labor board. The second provides that all law suits brought by either side in connection with the strike should be withdrawn and disputes arising out of the walkout should be left with the labor board for settlement. The third proposal is the one calculated to provide the most discussion and may prove a stumbling block in the way of settling the strike, when the conference meets again this afternoon for a vote of acceptance or rejection. This proposal suggests that the strikers be taken back on a basis of seniority rights which they enjoyed before the walk out. The roads claim that the men who refused to strike and who have come into take the strikers places have been promised prior rights in such matters.

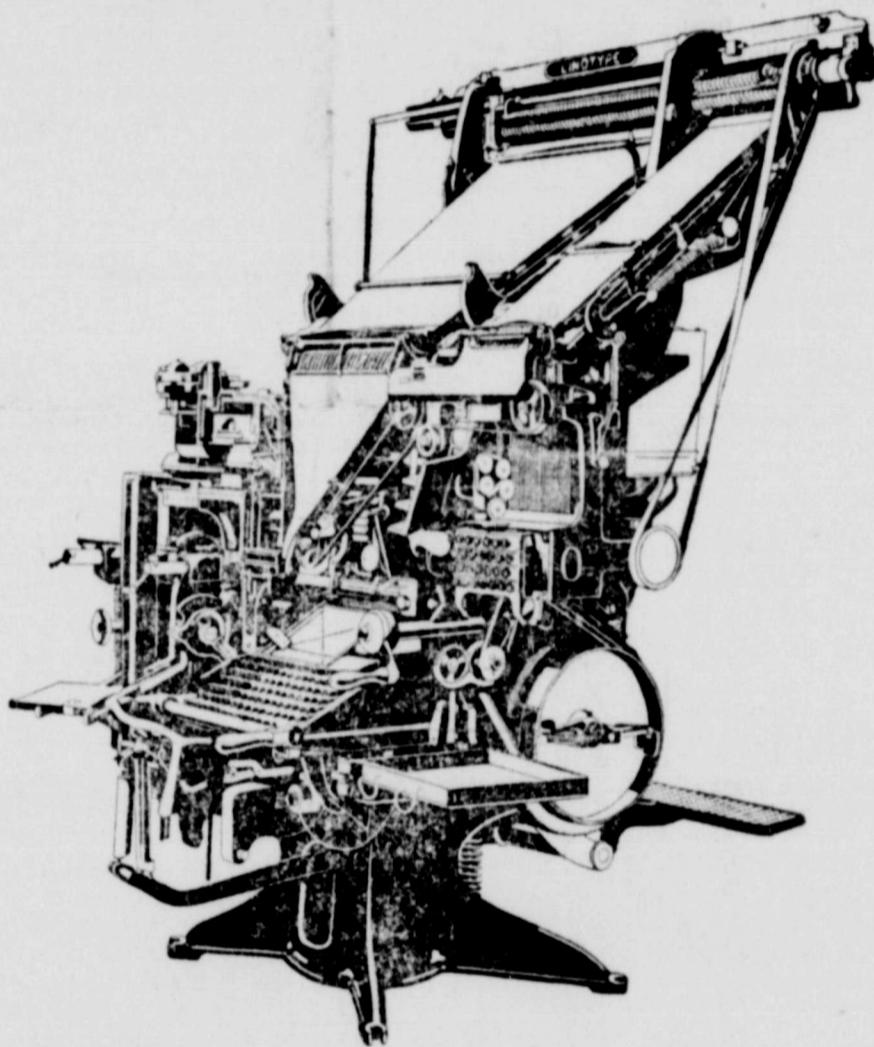

NEW YORK, Aug. 1.—The conference of railroad presidents who assembled at the Grand Central Terminal station this morning to discuss President Harding's proposals for settling the shopmen's strike, were not in session but a short while and adjourned until afternoon without taking any action, after Secretary of Commerce Hoover presented to the meeting the administration's proposals.

PEACHES FOR THE LEDGER FORCE

Mrs. I. G. David sent a basket of nice peaches to The Ledger office Monday. The peaches were the best we have seen this season, and is the first fruit from a young tree at the home of Mr. and Mrs. I. G. David.

Col. H. H. Luckett arrived from Toyah Tuesday at noon, and is here to attend the cow puncher reunion, and spend a few days with his daughter, Mrs. C. P. Shepherd.

Ledger Readers Invited to See New Machine

With a good deal of satisfaction the editor of The Daily Ledger announces the installation of a new Model 14 Linotype. This mechanical marvel is specially equipped with a complement of type faces which enables us to serve efficiently the large number of persons who look to our publication for service and who patronize our job printing department. Von Tierick, an expert mechanic of New Orleans, has been here several days installing the new machine.

The rapidly increasing circulation of The Daily Ledger, together with our desire to place at the command of our advertisers and others the highest grade of typography, induced us to add to our mechanical equipment a multiple-magazine Linotype for the quick and accurate and pleasing presentation of the news of the day, and the production of superior job work.

Our new Linotype enables us to set by machine virtually all forms of composition that previously necessitated tedious work by hand. Our plant is now capable of turning out composition consisting of correct type faces in many different sizes, and the change from one size to another is made by a "twist of the wrist." In the flicker of an eyelash the versatile operator—whose hand is made famous by the Mergenthaler Linotype Company as "the hand that keeps the world informed"—on the versatile machine sets type of the following faces and sizes:

This installation is a testimonial to the prosperity of Ballinger and vicinity. And that the good people of the community are duly appreciative of our efforts to serve them in all departments of the printing business is manifested by the many compliments received from individual patrons since the arrival of our new machine.

The accompanying illustration will give our readers some idea of the marvelous mechanism of the Linotype, a composing machine on which are assembled matrices (or little brass molds) and lines of type cast—lines such as you are now reading. The particular model of machine which we have just installed carries at one time four sets of matrices—controlled from a standard keyboard of ninety keys and an auxiliary keyboard of twenty eight—and gives the operator instant command of 565 different characters. Besides enabling the operator to set various faces and sizes, of type our new Linotype makes it possible for him to produce the rules and dashes and borders which are used in various advertisements in each issue of our publication. When employed in the composing of advertisements, newspaper headings, booklets, catalogues, and various other kinds of printed matter our new Model 14 enables one operator to set in the same time more type than ordinarily could be produced by five or six men or women doing the work by hand—and the composition is comparably better.

While for a long time we have received the patronage of a host of subscribers, advertisers and printing buyers in general, we look forward to the handling of an even greater volume of business now that we are so well qualified to render the sort of service most to be desired. It has been our aim to present the news of the day without fear or favor, and to reflect faithfully the ideals and ambitions of our constituents; and we shall continue to devote our talents and resources to the fulfilling of this aim. And of great help to us in the carrying out of our purpose will be our new Model 14 Linotype.

The new machine takes the place of the one which has been setting the type for The Daily Ledger since its birth. Our readers are cordially invited to drop in and see the machine at work. If you have never seen one, the visit will be well worth your time. A small want ad in The Daily Ledger often saves you money.

LENIENCY OF LAW ENFORCEMENT

When the disrespect for law becomes obnoxious to the public, or when complaint of the violation of some common law is made to the officers, nine times out of ten the officers take steps to enforce such law by running to the newspapers and publishing a notice warning the public that on and after certain date the law will be enforced.

That is treating the public fair, and such steps are taken because the officers do not want to take "undue" advantage of any who thoughtlessly break the law.

The officers would be acting within their rights to go out and make arrests, and the courts would be performing their duty by imposing punishment, but the law is lenient.

That is why notices have been given that on or after Aug. 5th the traffic law will be more rigidly enforced. The public has been given warning that certain features of the auto law which are being violated open and above board, will be enforced and why not?

The way to create respect for good laws and bring about the repeal of bad laws is by the enforcement of all laws. Too often the leniency of the law only breeds disrespect for all laws. A law should not be ignored because it is a bad law, it should be enforced and thus create a demand for its repeal.

The law enforcing machinery has no right to enforce one law and let another be flagrantly violated. No officer has authority to say what laws are to be enforced and what laws are not to be enforced. Officers take an oath to enforce all laws.

Leniency of bad laws makes violation of good laws.

HIKING DOWN THE LONG BROWN PATH

Vacationists With Shelter Tents and Tin Cow Learning to Walk All Over Again.

Oh! It's not the pack that you carry on your back
Nor the five inch crust of khaki-colored dust
That makes you feel your limbs are growing older;
And it's not the hike on the hard turnpike
That drives away your smile,
Nor the sneaks of sisters that raise the blooming blisters—
It's the last long mile.
—Plattsburgh Marching Song.

Stringing out from the suburban transit terminals of New York every Sunday and holiday goes the army of khaki-clad hikers. There may be an automobile for every twenty of the country's population, but a host of city folks disprove the theory of a future leg-eneebled citizenry and are learning to walk all over again.

To the more casual minded, the hike is just exercise, but to those who catch its real significance the hike means a great deal more. It is the cheapest form of recreation and therefore appeals to those living in crowded districts and unable to avail themselves of the more expensive amusements. And these people, be it noted, are just those the country is so anxious to have spread out and settled in the farming sections. The hike, indeed, has possibilities as a real starter for the "back to the farm" movement.

Doughboy and Boy Scout Lead Way

Just a brief survey of the rollicking groups which move off from the outlying terminals on holidays establishes a few general types. There is the ex-service man and his friends who will hear from him the story of more serious excursions on the muddy roads of France. He tightens a strap here and another there on the blanket roll adjustment or the "shelter half," in which the commissary is packed for the mid-day feast by the roadside. Expert directions come from him on the method of slinging the pack so it will not feel so heavy or interfere with the free body movement. He will pass along the information gained in his army days, of how that same pack was evolved after numerous experiments to find the easiest way of carrying the heaviest load. With results he now compliments, but which he characterized when a doughboy as a "blankety blank total failure."

Then there are the boy scout parties, adept at everything pertaining to "shanks mare" traveling and wood craft. The ex-service man and the boy scout are pioneers in the hiking game. Listen to one of them right off the train and making ready for a twelve mile jaunt: "Get that can over the side, Jimmie, and it won't keep bouncing off your leg every step. Is it filled? Well, then we drink. How about the cats? Let's back 'em off. You got the spuds, huh, the bacon? Justale. Who has the coffee and the Borden tin cow?"

"Right here," announces a freckled comrade of the road, patting his knapsack. "I stitched the mocha and the tin of milk when Sis wasn't looking." "Well, then, let's go!" snaps the commander of the expedition. This party is traveling light for real distance. Another must expect to make a shorter hike or else be counting greatly on its power of endurance. Perhaps the camp is not far off because the group is equipped for an over-night stay with heavy blanket rolls, hatchets, lanterns, canvas wafer, rubber ponchos, kettles, pots, saw, fangled firestand, etc., etc. The blankets are laid out for a better packing of the bags and cans of food when the party commences to load up the members hustle all over with camp tools and equipment.

Back to the Farm

The veteran from the crowded city apartments has found a new territory in rooms and one almost unknown to the associates. He is introduced and working them how to be independent of any transportation but their own good legs and of any subsistence but what they can carry and prepare. "Walk and cook your own," is his motto.

Who will say the heaven thus for country in the city crowds will not bear fruit in a keener appreciation of country delights, especially as these are added to by increased comfort on the farm. With his radio hooked up, the farmer listens in on the best entertainment the country has to offer. Modern home devices wipe out many hardships formerly imposed upon isolated dwellers. There is, in short, a rapid cutting down of the differential between farm and city life.

In the meantime, knowledge must precede a true appreciation of what the country holds, and this is what the hike supplies. There is more appeal in one apple tree in blossom than in reams of printed matter put out to induce the citizen of the city to change his abode to the country. The hikers constitute a growing army, equipped with bacon, spuds, coffee and tin cow for merely a day's outing but nevertheless seeing sights that make them yearn to be among them all the time. It is not too much to assume that the army may one day recruit the open places.

LESS MEAT IF BACK AND KIDNEYS HURT

Take a glass of Salts to flush the Kidneys if Bladder bothers you.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress; particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

NEGRO SHOTS WIFE THREE TIMES IN BACK

According to eye witnesses the killing of Laura Moore wife of Sam Moore, negroes, was one of the cold blooded murders committed in this county in many years. The negro woman is alleged to have been shot three times in the back by her husband, one of the bullets being fired as she was fleeing from the infuriated negro, and the third shot being fired into the negro woman's back after she had fallen prostrated on the ground.

The killing took place on the Clements Hulcher farm about 7 miles south of Ballinger, and about one hundred yards from the Hulcher home and fifty yards from the negro servant's house where Sam Moore and his wife lived.

There were several eye witnesses, and these witnesses made statements to County Attorney Shepherd shortly after the shooting Monday afternoon. Among those who witnessed the killing were Ida Benson, of Rockdale, mother of the dead woman, Frank and Virginia Brown, Will Jones and Lizzie Wright, all negroes.

Ida Benson is perhaps the most important state's witness. She stated that she came here two or three weeks ago to visit her daughter, and her daughter was preparing to return home with her. Moore first objected to his wife returning with her mother, but finally agreed. While the two negro women were packing their goods and preparing to leave Monday afternoon, Moore again raised objections to his wife going away on a visit, but through persuasion of his mother-in-law he finally withdrew his objections and agreed to take them to the train at Rowena Monday afternoon. About two o'clock he caught the team and asked Laura to come go with him to the well to water the team and it was while returning from the well that they eye witnesses heard the shot fired, heard the woman scream and saw her fleeing for her life with Moore firing at her.

According to the witnesses Moore fired one shot at his wife as she was fleeing, the bullet entering the back. He attempted to fire the third shot when his pistol hung. He ran upon the woman after she had fallen on her face to the ground, adjusted his pistol and fired another bullet in to her body.

Moore and his wife had been living on the Hulcher farm for several years, and some of the other negroes who were eye witnesses to the tragedy, had lived in on farms. Moore left the farm immediately after killing his wife, and was apprehended as he got within a short distance of the city and placed in jail.

OLD GUARDS HERE FOR REUNION

Old times are being lived over again by some of the pioneers who blazed the trail here for civilization in the seventies. The first of the old guards to arrive for the annual reunion of the Ex-Open Range Cow Punchers Association came in Monday when John Formwalt arrived from Grandbury and Pat Collins arrived from Jones county. Mr. Formwalt is the guest of his sister, Mrs. W. E. Allen, and Mr. Collins is making headquarters at the home of his sister-in-law, Mrs. H. Vander-vanter on Mustang Creek.

Mr. Formwalt was the first sheriff of Runnels county and he can relate some interesting stories of early life in this country, and what he can tell would make a history within itself of the early days in and around where Ballinger is now a thriving little city.

"There were only two ranches in the country when I came here" said Mr. Formwalt in talking to a bunch of old acquaintances Monday, "and one of them was the Bob Wylie ranch."

Mr. Formwalt came to this country in 1874 when there were no fences or houses. He camped in the forks of Elm Creek and the Colorado River, and in 1879 when the county was organized he was elected sheriff. He remained here until 1894 when he went west, and for many years lived around Van Horn, and out near El Paso, and is now living at Grandbury.

These old timers will meet Tuesday night at the camp ground in the L. P. Wood pasture north of Old Runnels, and Wednesday they will hold their annual barbecue, with a few invited guests present.

WHY FORD MAKES HIS BUSINESS PAY

LANSING, Mich., July 31.—A report submitted to the state public utilities commission by officials of the Detroit, Toledo and Iron Mountain railroad, which is controlled by Henry Ford declare that the company, by permitting its employees to share in its success, hopes to sustain a higher morale among the workers and benefit the public in increased efficiency and service.

The report was submitted in connection with the D. T. & I.'s request for permission to issue profit sharing certificates to employees. The certificates would be paid for out of the employees wages and while they would not constitute voting stock, would earn dividends proportionate to the earnings of the company. The plan is identical with the one already in operation in the Ford automobile plants. Permits to issue the certificates must come from the interstate commerce commission. A statement was filed with the Michigan commission so that its members might understand the purpose of the issue and make a recommendation to the federal body.

The investment certificates, according to the statement, would not exceed $1,000,000. Of the approximately 2,225 workers employed by the D. T. & I. it is expected about 50 per cent would invest in certificates. Employees would not be allowed to purchase certificates in quantities sufficient in the judgement of officials of the railroad to handicap them in their personal financial welfare, or domestic life.

The purpose of the investment certificate, the statement asserts is to promulgate a feeling of participation in the earnings of the company, so that employees will gain a spirit of interest in the well being and welfare of the company and develop loyalty and efficiency.
