TEXAS COUPLE HELD IN CHICAGO FOR BIG THEFT

(By Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Feb. 2.—Clyde Ramsey, of Dallas, and his bride of one month, are in jail here charged with the theft of a fur coat valued at more than $2500, and $5,000 in diamonds.
It is alleged that the man and his bride stole the fur coat and diamonds in Texas. Detectives say the coat and some of the diamonds have been recovered.

CORSIANA, Feb. 2.—Mexico and Corsicana crude oil was boosted twenty-five cents a barrel by the Magnolia Petroleum Company here today. Under the new rate Corsicana light and Mexico crude are posted at $1.85 per barrel and Corsicana heavy at $1.00.

Jackson C. Grubb, of Brownwood, was transacting business in Ballinger Friday and Saturday.

Twenty-eighth President of the United States, and the first Democrat since Jackson to serve two successive terms, Woodrow Wilson is dead. He occupied the presidency during eight years of such world upheaval and turmoil, that his proper place in history cannot be assigned to him until his contemporaries are likewise assigned to their niches.

Certainly, he ranks as one of the great war presidents of the American republic, and he exercised such an influence in world affairs as never before attached to his office.

Empires crumbled, thrones collapsed, the map of the world was made over, and under his administration the country abandoned its policy of isolation and became an active participant in world affairs. In all of that he took a powerful hand. No biographer could attempt to assess him accurately, and in fact, until the processes which began in his day and with his participation have come to a conclusion.

He had heard himself hailed by the millions of Europe as "the God of peace" and heard his name hissed by the same millions. Acclaimed at one time almost as a new Messiah, he heard himself excoriated and denounced as an autocrat and worse at home and abroad. No other president since Lincoln was so worshipped and hated; no other president since Roosevelt had such friends and such enemies. Through it all he preserved an outward calm while the grim destroyer which hovered close about him during the

Born in Staunton, Virginia, Dec. 28, 1856, of Scotch-Irish parentage, he was christened Thomas Woodrow Wilson and he was known in early life as "Tommy." Before he was graduated from Princeton in 1879 he was known only as Woodrow Wilson. His father was the Rev. Joseph Ruggles Wilson, a Presbyterian clergyman, and his mother was Jessie Woodrow.

When he was two years old the fortunes of his father took the family to Augusta, Georgia, and later to Columbia, S. C., where at the age of 17 Thomas Woodrow Wilson entered Davidson College, but left there soon to go to Princeton University. After graduation at Princeton he studied law at the University of Virginia and in 1882 hung out his shingle in Atlanta, Ga. Meanwhile he courted Ellen Louise Woodrow Wilson's nomination for the presidency at the Democratic convention of 1912 in Baltimore was one of the dramatic spectacles of American political history. It was a battle royal which brought him victory after more than 40 ballots.

Mr. Wilson met Mrs. Edith Bolling Galt, the widow of a Washington merchant, during the World War. Their courtship was swift and they were married last months of his occupancy of the presidency, followed him relentlessly to the modest home where he lived the ways of a retired gentleman and knocked at his door every day until it was at last opened.

In furtherance of the League of Nations plan, which was eventually incorporated in the treaty of peace with Germany, President Wilson made two trips to Europe. On the first trip, Dec. 4, 1918, and spent Christmas with the American troops at Chaumont. He visited England and Italy, and returned to France Jan. 7, 1919. He was appointed chairman of the committee to draw up the plan for a league of nations, and on Feb. 14, he presented to the peace conference the first draft of the League. President Wilson thereupon returned to the United States, arriving at Boston Feb. 24. He left America on his second trip March 5th and remained in Europe until the signing of the treaty, June 28th, 1919, when he left Brest, sailing homeward the next morning.

He reached the United States July 8th and lost no time in submitting the treaty to the U. S. Senate. Opposition in the Senate to some of the terms of the treaty impelled him to make a tour of the country in behalf of ratification. His physical breakdown occurred at Wichita, Kansas, when he was nearing a conclusion of his country-wide tour. He was taken to Washington and was confined to his room for several months.

December 18, 1915. There were no children of this second marriage.

Woodrow Wilson lived his last years and died in "the glory of the promise of the future," confident that right as he saw it would ultimately prevail. He never lost faith in the League of Nations but he lost faith in some of the human beings who were its inevitable elements.

He closed his eyes confident that as a man of letters and a president he had done his best for humanity but that his best was not all that he might have wished.

Time alone can write his epitaph.

Mr. Wilson was 67 years old on his last birthday, December 28. It has been a little over four years and four months since he

TOO MUCH SUNSHINE; GROUND HOG RETURNS

According to the old legend connected with the ground hog sign in weather forecasting this country is in for six weeks more of winter. We are told that the little pig was out early Saturday morning, and finding too much sunshine for this date on the calendar, scooted back to his den to resume his winter nap. The big shadow no doubt frightened the little piggie; no doubt about it.

Nudity in Ears.
 Women's ears will soon be visible—prophesy American hairdressers. Can it be? Are years of invisibility to go for naught and, as modesty shrieking flies, is another, and the last, limb to be uncovered in surrender to fashion?

So long has the world gone without a glimpse of woman's ears that it will await with skeptical interest the emergence of the mythical-tinted shells. While all along it has been suspected that girls were equipped with auditory apparatus, because of the quirkiness with which they could hear an invitation to the movies, it will require the actual appearance of feminine ears to reassure man as to their existence. Then the shocking nudity of ears will call for the creation of a League of Nations branch to deal with the problem.—Washington Post.

Hindus Great Cotton Spinners.
 Six or seven centuries before Christ the Hindus had attained great proficiency in the art of spinning, weaving and printing cotton. Some of their fabrics were so exquisitely fine that they have been compared with gossamer web, says the Detroit News. They were highly prized and available only for the princes and nobles of the land; the coarser weaves served as clothing for the common people.

Following the trail from India to Europe blazed by Alexander the Great, commerce has since continued to flow back and forth between these two continents. By no means the least valuable of the commodities that moved in the stately caravans over hundreds of miles of intervening desert and plain were the beautiful fabrics of cotton.

Mr. Mellon's Figures

The following editorial from page one of The American Legion Weekly, of Feb. 1st, gives some facts on Secretary Andrew W. Mellon's plan for tax revision—commonly known as "the Millionaires' Bonus," and was written by John R. Quinn, National Commander of the American Legion. The Pat Williams Post No. 8, American Legion, asks that every red-blooded American citizen give this editorial his or her close attention.

"A week ago on this page I transmitted the request of the National Executive Committee that The American Legion hold mass meetings throughout the nation during the week of February 10th to 17th to bring out the sentiment of the country in favor of adjusted compensation for the ex-service men of the World War. In doing so I said that the powerful selfish interests opposed to this measure of justice have attempted to discredit the bill by cold-blooded misrepresentation and twisting of figures to meet whatever argument suited the occasion.

"These figures have emanated largely from Andrew W. Mellon, Secretary of the Treasury. "In December of 1922 Mr. Mellon predicted a government deficit of $650,000,000 for the fiscal year ending June 30th last, and with this as his reason, President Harding vetoed the Adjusted Compensation Bill. At the end of the fiscal year there was a governmental surplus of $313,000,000. HERE IS A DISCREPANCY OF NEARLY ONE BILLION DOLLARS.

"Was Mr. Mellon one billion dollars wrong? Or did he know better all the time?

"The answer is that President Harding had told the ex-service men their account would be settled when the country could afford it. So Mr. Mellon told him the country couldn't afford it.

"Recently came a time when the facts could be concealed no longer. So Mr. Mellon discovers that the American people need a reduction of taxes—and that this reduction is possible only if adjusted compensation is torpedoed. And he has some new figures.

"He wants to reduce taxes by $323,000,000 and, he says, no compensation or no tax reduction.

"It is pointed out that it is possible to reduce taxes by $225,000,000 and still follow every suggestion he has made for the relief of men of moderate incomes.

"When this becomes apparent Mr. Mellon advances still more figures. He says the cost of adjusted compensation will be $250,000,000 per annum for the first four years. Eighteen months ago the Treasury Department officially estimated that the cost of adjusted compensation would be $80,000,000 per year.

"Mr. Mellon has ignored in his calculations the $160,000,000 which Great Britain is paying annually on her debt to this country.

"Mr. Mellon has ignored in his calculations the proposed cut in government expenditures which will save $220,000,000 annually.

"Either of these items will pay the whole cost of adjusted compensation.

"THIS GOVERNMENT CAN PAY ADJUSTED COMPENSATION AND REDUCE TAXES, TOO. IT CAN PAY ADJUSTED COMPENSATION WITHOUT HARSHNESS TO ANYBODY."

Sermon Subject at 8th Street Presbyterian Church
 "The Romance of Buried Years," will be the sermon subject at the 8th Street Presbyterian Church tomorrow night. The pastor, Rev. R. B. Twitty, stated that he had made use of the delicate and finely drawn feeling that lies behind the expression, "Gwine Back to Dixie," and had developed this into a serious and solemn sermon in which the cheer of hallowed memories would be featured. "All our standard literature," Mr. Twitty said, "abounds with apt illustrations of the idea I have in mind; e. g. Dickens and Thackeray often refer to it in their writings. But no one has done it so well as George Gissing, who wrote in one of his essays 'While I was reading this afternoon my thoughts strayed, and I found myself recalling a hillside in Suffolk where, after a long walk, I rested drowsily one midsummer day 20 years ago. A great longing seized me; I was tempted to set off at once, and find again that spot under the high elm trees where, as I smoked a delicious pipe, I heard about me the crack-crack-erack of broom-pods bursting in the glorious heat of the noontide sun.'"

CONVENTION HAS A NOISY ENDING

(By Associated Press)
 INDIANAPOLIS, Feb. 2.—Amid riotous scenes the biennial convention of the United Mine Workers of America was declared adjourned sine die by President John Lewis today.

The adjournment was announced while delegates howled as Alexander Howat, the deposed president of the Kansas district, was dragged from the platform by the sergeant-at-arms.

Howat sought to address the convention on report of appeals to the grievance committee which refused to consider a plea for his reinstatement.

Gotham Intellectuals Saturated With Ego

"You don't know me? I am surprised. Why, I have had two intellectual dramas produced on Broadway," said the first guest to arrive at a private dinner the other day in a New York bachelor apartment to one of the late comers.

"Are your plays still running?" was the cold-blooded reply.

"No, they were not successful with the public, but the critics praised them highly. You must have heard of them. By the way, what have you done?"

The comedy element of the small New York group who have set themselves up as young intellectuals and keep boosting each other is that they borrow the garments of the Seventeenth and Eighteenth centuries and pattern their language after Sydney days when only a handful possessed the power of writing and reading, says Raymond G. Carroll in a New York letter to the Philadelphia Public Ledger.

"What have you done?" hurriedly pointed at some new acquaintance is a favorite trick question designed to put the world in its place, Caesar talking down at a centurion.

"Not much," replied the later comer, who did not look as if he were particularly hungry. "You see, my friend, I only have to my credit the building of one of the great office buildings in New York city, and it is still standing. I am an architect with scores of buildings to my credit. And they are still standing. Yet nobody knows me and I don't mind."

Alas! the reproof was lost upon a mentality saturated with ego, but several well-balanced brains within earshot of the exchange did not miss the victory of the architect.

Electrical Hygrometer Depends on Selenium

Selenium is a substance which through its peculiar properties, is being used in many unique processes. As most people know, the electrical resistance of this element changes when illuminated by light. Selenium cells are made by winding two wires on a porcelain or mica core. These wires are kept apart by setting selenium between them and permitting it to harden. The cell is then baked and treated in various ways and the resultant operation of the cell depends upon this treatment. The resistance of some cells increases when illuminated, while in others it decreases.

Another interesting property has been discovered, namely, that the resistance of a selenium cell changes with moisture. Immediately it became evident that the selenium cell could be used as a hygrometer to detect the amount of water vapor in the air. Experiments at once showed that the instrument indicates humidity with considerable accuracy when precautions are taken to standardize conditions. The selenium cell will readily lend itself to use as a regulator of moisture in the air in buildings. Modern buildings are equipped with apparatus controlling the amount of water vapor in the air, and as the selenium hygrometer is an electrical device it is possible to make the hygrometer automatically control the humidifier. Thus a practical instrument has grown out of a scientific toy.

Hot Water Centennial

Approaching is the centennial of one of the earliest successful installations of a hot water heating system, made by Arthur Wellesley, Duke of Wellington. Before that England had shivered without relief, and the duke had felt called upon to express his opinion of the winter cold in no measured tones. But the same genius which put Napoleon in "hot water" put hot water into Wellington's home, the "Iron Duke," as he was called, being interested in science and invention, and putting his inventive genius to work. Hot water heating came to this country in the middle of the Nineteenth century.

In order to preserve the floor of the Westminster Abbey Chapter house in London, visitors are requested to remove their walking shoes and put on sandals before entering. A generous supply of sandals, including all lengths and widths, is kept on hand.

FO-TO-SHO TO SHOW SCREEN VERSION OF GREAT DRAMA

Exposing secrets that even the police have not generally known, and detailing in every angle the machinations of the blackmail rings that have terrorized society in large cities with manufactured scandals and fabricated accusations, "The Whispered Name," Universal's sensational disclosure of society's gravest menace, comes to Ballinger next Monday and Tuesday at the Fo-to-sho Theatre.

Directed by King Baggott, famous producer of "The Darling of New York," "Human Hearts," and other outstanding Universal successes, the new story is held one of his greatest achievements. Adapted from "The Co-respondent," Rita Weiman and Alice Leal Pollock's celebrated stage play, it goes deeper into the subject than the original version, and lays bare the whole machinery of blackmail; the gutter weekly, the bogus detective agency, the machinery for bribing servants and hiring social hangers-on to act as scavengers of scandal.

This is all incidental, however, to a charming love story, told amid dramatic scenes and a sensational climax. The stirring sequences in a great newspaper office, the thrilling scene where a wife and supposed home wrecker, both innocent victims of a gigantic plot, meet and other remarkable bits, give the play action.

Announcement Party

Mrs. Floyd Carr entertained with bridge Wednesday afternoon at her home on Eighth Street. During the party, the approaching marriage of Miss Mamie Cathey to Mr. William King, of Brownwood, was announced.

The decorative design of the reception rooms enchantingly suggested the valentine season, and filled the atmosphere with romance and fantasy. Place cards on which a sprightly cupid was represented guarding a heart, directed the players to their partners. Every detail of the motif was developed with effectiveness and subtlety. Cupid held sway over a merry realm.

At the conclusion of the games a delectable salad course was served and it was then that the secret was revealed. Lovely little favors depicting a huge engagement ring bore the amorous message, "King—Cathey, February 25th."

It was discovered that Mrs. C. L. Baker had won the high score, and she was presented with a beautiful gift which she in turn gave to the bride-elect.

The guest list included the following: Mesdames Floyd Carr, Alex McGregor, Claud Stone, A. R. Jones, Robt. Stephenson, Moss, Cheatham, Weeks, Cottelle, Garland Parks, Henry Jones, K. V. City Commission Buys New Tractor; Mayor Directs Work

The controversy between the city commissioners and the mayor over the purchase of street building machinery, and which threatened to delay badly needed street improvement in this city, was settled at a called meeting of the commission Friday night.

After a conference between the commissioners and mayor it was announced that an agreement had been reached whereby the mayor agreed to sign the order for the purchase of a tractor and the commissioners agreed to turn over the street work to the mayor.

Commissioners George and Talbott at a recent meeting of the commission voted to buy a tractor, and Mayor Raby vetoed the measure. All that was necessary to get the matter adjusted, after an agreement had been reached, was for the commission to meet and re-pass the measure which was done, and we understand the order for the tractor will be signed by the mayor.

Commissioners George and Talbott have agreed that Mayor Raby direct the street work with the understanding that the improvement be pushed as rapidly as possible. The city is in shape to go ahead with a pretty good street improvement program, having on hand at this time funds with which to do the work.

A petition was presented to the commission asking that the question of the purchase of a tractor be submitted to the voters. The petition contained the names of about 140 people. The commission decided it was to the best interests of the city to handle the matter as above outlined and the petition was tabled without being acted upon.

The commission set one night out of each month which will be known as "kick night," and on the second Monday night in each month anyone having a complaint to register, or a suggestion to offer, will be welcome to come before the commission and make their grievance known, or make any suggestion for the good of the cause. The commission will meet in regular session on each Tuesday night—following the "kick" night on Monday.

TAG YOUR CAR OR BE TAGGED

"Arrest 'em on sight," is the substance of orders under which the traffic officers are working today, and will continue to work as long as there is an automobile without a 1924 seal conspicuously displayed. The State Highway Department has given instructions that the law governing payment of the auto tax be enforced, and if you get by now when caught with a car not properly tagged, it will be through the leniency of the officer in giving you one more chance, and he is not in business for his health, and it is his duty to enforce the law.

The collector has an ample supply of seals, and there is no excuse for operating an automobile "against the peace and dignity of the State." Purchasers of new cars may experience delay in getting number plates, but there are plenty of 1924 seals.

The officers declare that there are quite a number of cars in the county upon which the 1924 tax has not been paid, and the auto records show this to be true.

"We do not want to have to file a complaint against anyone," said Sheriff Flynt, "but we must follow instructions and do our duty."

CAMP FIRE GIRLS ORGANIZE HERE

Mrs. Joe Simmons met with about forty girls of the high school Friday afternoon and made plans for the organization of a Girls Club. Due to the fact that many of the girls could not attend the meeting, the election of officers was postponed until next Friday.

The aims of the girls club, as outlined by Mrs. Simmons, in a talk to those present are as follows:

- Teach beauty
- Pursue knowledge
- Be trustworthy
- Respect home and church
- Teach clean and wholesome pleasure
- Give service
- Hold onto health
- Be pure in mind and body
- Avoid idle gossip
- Be happy.

It was decided to meet every Friday after school and Mrs. Simmons will lecture on foods and clothing, and on Saturday afternoon once a month the club will take a hike. Due to the delightful weather it was decided to take a hike today.

All mothers and the lady teachers of the school are invited to meet with the club whenever they desire. One of the rules will be that a girl must attend at least two Friday meetings before she is entitled to go on the hikes.

NEW FARM AGENT A VISITOR TO WINTERS

Doug Motley was out from Ballinger last week introducing County Farm Agent Lehberg to Winters folks and incidentally showing the new man the best section of Runnels county—the Winters country.

Mr. Lehberg was impressed favorably with all he saw and had the assurance of Winters people, among them the Enterprise that we are ready to cooperate with him in his work in Runnels county. He is a useful man and has a laudable job. We hope to see more of our people co-operating with him.—Winters Enterprise.

that the condition of the distinguished patient was due to overwork, following on the heels of an attack of influenza while the president was at the Paris peace conference in the early spring of 1919. Even then Mr. Wilson was suffering from nervous exhaustion, it was said he must remain quiet for a considerable time; and out of this grew the more serious consequences that have made him almost an invalid over a long period.

LOCALS WIN BASKET BALL GAME AT HATCHEL

The boys basket ball team of the Ballinger High School, captured the Hatchel Friday afternoon, accompanied by quite a bunch of fans, and defeated the Hatchel team in a spirited match. The locals did their heavy work in the first quarter, piling up thirteen points while the Hatchel team failed to get thru the basket. In the second quarter Hatchel scored 1 and the Ballinger quintet failed to find the basket. In the third quarter it was Hatchel 5, Ballinger 2. Fourth quarter, Hatchel 2, Ballinger 3. It will be seen that the contest tightened up after the first quarter, and was a pretty evenly matched one, although the Ballinger team kept the ball bouncing in their part of the lot most of the time.

The teeth of our laws are not the only ivory part.

—but the "part" we have to do is to see that you always get the most value for your money—when you spend it with us.

If the shoes that we have repaired could talk, our reputation would be nation-wide. Many a pair of old run-down shoes that was ready for the rubbish man, has found new life in our shop.

Let us make your "shoe troubles" vanish. We can do it at a small expense to you, while giving you the highest type of work.

Our shop operates on an economy basis for our patrons' benefit.

Mr. and Mrs. O. P. Lockhart and Mrs. G. W. Prinzing left this morning for San Antonio to visit relatives.

Rev. and Mrs. R. T. Tracy returned Thursday from Junction, where they visited a son.

Mrs. George Prinzing was a charming hostess to the Thursday Afternoon Club at its last meeting. After the study hour a brief business meeting was held. Mrs. O. P. Lockhart was elected secretary, Mrs. R. M. Albritton having resigned from that office.

The social hour was thoroughly enjoyed. The hostess presented each member with a book to be filled with events of their life. When the sketch books were filled the club voted, Mrs. C. S. Coleman winner.

Lovely refreshments were served.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed S. Kubela of Rowena, were visitors here Friday.

DEATHS

Mrs. T. J. Middlebrook

Death claimed the life of Mrs. T. J. Middlebrook, one of the pioneer women of this city, at her home, on 12th Street, Friday afternoon at two o'clock. Mrs. Middlebrook was 70 years of age. She had been in feeble health for quite a while, confined most of the time to her bed for several months.

King-Holt Undertaking Company had charge of the funeral arrangements, and the funeral was conducted from the residence at 3:00 o'clock Saturday afternoon, Dr. Alvin Swindell conducting the services, and interment was made in Evergreen Cemetery.

Mrs. Middlebrook came to Ballinger with her husband many years ago, and was the mother of eight children, most of whom have resided here at times during the residence of their mother here. At present they are scattered over the state and in other states, only three of the children residing here. The surviving children are: M. S. Middlebrook, Mrs. Chas. Dean, and Mrs. Frank Strom, of this city; T. L. of Hamlin; Simon, of Childress; Mrs. Holton, of Oklahoma City; Mrs. Kidd, of Jayton; and Mrs. Worchan, of Carmine.

Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Keys arrived from Oklahoma City Friday afternoon, and are the guests of their daughter, Mrs. Elmer Shepherd.
