REBEL RADIO ARMY MOVES

(By Associated Press)

DALLAS, Feb. 29.—Rebel evacuation of Tuxpan was made under the order of General Ramirez and was issued because the federals moved stronger contingents of troops from Coahuila, Nuevo Leon and Tamaulipas, in the region of Huasteca, according to a statement of revolutionary activities broadcast for general information by the radio station in Meridav, Yucatan, Thursday. The messages were picked up by the Dallas News radio station here today. The statement broadcast said that the Tuxpan garrison left with the intention of joining General Moran.

ITCHING ECZEMA GONE

People who have endured tortures from itching eczema will be happy to learn that a means of relief has been perfected and is already enjoying unheard of popularity on account of the quick way it gets rid of the awful disease of the skin which nobody seemed able to figure out before.

Most all dealers have been forced to get a supply of this Black and White Ointment on account of the tremendous demand which has already reached the mammoth rate of nearly two million packages a year in its sales.

It is economical, too. The big 50c package contains three times as much as the liberal 25c size.

Mrs. O. G. Schmickle and Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Keesee returned home Thursday afternoon from a visit to Cleburne, Hillsboro, Itasca and other East Texas points.

J. C. Taylor, who is with the Farm Bureau in Coleman county, was here Friday to visit his family. Mr. Taylor was formerly with the county superintendent's office in Ballinger, accepting a position with the Farm Bureau a short time ago.

SENIOR CLASS ELECTS QUEEN

Quite a jubilee was staged at the Strain-Pyburn drug store Thursday afternoon by the Senior Class of the Ballinger High School, when the result of the contest for the election of a carnival queen was announced and Miss Dorothy Penn was declared the winner.

Members of the four high school classes assembled at the drug store to boost for their respective candidates in the last half hour of the campaign, and lingered for thirty minutes while the money was being counted and the result of the election determined. When Miss White stepped upon a chair in the drug store and announced the result, college yells were let loose which were kept up for some time.

The Parent-Teacher Association was very successful in this part of the carnival program to raise funds for work in connection with the school. Notwithstanding that the snowstorm delayed the starting of the contest, and while the campaign only lasted a couple of days, $84.12 was realized from this part of the program.

Following is the result of the contest:

Senior Class—Miss Penn, $33.86
Junior Class—Miss Brewer, $24.49

Sophomore Class—Miss Clark, $1.97
Freshman Class—Miss Holliday, $27.80.

The coronation of the queen will take place in the auditorium of the Carnegie Library at 7:30 this evening, and there will be no charges for this part of the program. Everybody is invited. Immediately following the crowning of the queen the main show will begin. An interesting program has been arranged and three shows will be given. The first begins at 8:00 o'clock, the second at 9:00 o'clock and the last at 10:00 o'clock. Side shows will be open all the time and refreshment stands operating for the benefit of the hungry.

BIG SHIPMENT OF BABY CHICKS ARRIVE

P. R. Tunnell, who is trying out the poultry business on a pretty good scale, was at the train Wednesday afternoon to receive a shipment of baby chickens. He received the second consignment of 500 baby White Leghorns. Mr. Tunnell received 500 baby chicks from a hatchery about a month ago, and he says he has had splendid success with them, and will soon have fryers on the market.

Sidney Turner, of San Antonio, who had been spending a few days on the Wood & Wright Ranch with his sister, Mrs. W. C. Wright, returned home Thursday afternoon.

PASS ON FORD'S OFFER THURS.

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.—The McKenzie bill, which would authorize the acceptance of Henry Ford's offer for the Muscle Shoals nitrate plant, will be taken up Thursday by the House. This was determined today under agreement reached by the committee. The rules committee reported the resolution giving the measure priority over general legislation after a disposition of the tax bill.

GLEN ROSE MAN OUT ON BOND

(By Associated Press)
FORT WORTH, Feb. 29.—Grandy Moss, charged with murder in connection with the killing of Dick Watson, prohibition detective at Glen Rose a week ago, will be released from the Tarrant county jail where he has been held for several days. Moss will be released on $5,000 bond as the result of an application for a writ of habeas corpus filed in the criminal district court here today by attorneys for Moss.

TEXAS GOES ON A CASH BASIS

(By Associated Press)
AUSTIN, Feb. 29.—State employees were paid off in cash today for the first time in eleven months. Starting today the state is on a cash basis. The teachers' department paid off one million dollars in deficiency warrants, accumulated while the general revenue fund was "flat broke." The state is expected to be on a cash basis for about three months.

Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Smith left for Sabine county Thursday afternoon in response to a message stating that their grandfather was very low and not expected to recover.

Henry Truly left Thursday afternoon for Wichita Falls, where he will take a position with the Wilford Harrison Drug Store of that city.

BOILER BURSTS; 1 DEAD; 4 DYING

(By Associated Press)
QUINCY, Ill., Feb. 29.—Two men are dead and four others probably die as the result of an explosion, and two others are missing, and may be dead. Bud McLaughly was instantly killed. The explosion occurred in the North Star Strawboard Mills' paper mill plant this morning, wrecking a portion of the mill. The blast is said to have been caused by too heavy pressure of steam in the boiler of the plant. Damage to the plant is estimated at $100,000. The second death was reported later in the day when it was found that Herbert Heister, age 20, was killed by the explosion.

TO FIX TAX RATE BY COMPROMISE

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.—The House republican insurgents formally agreed today to support the republican compromise for the democratic income rates in the revenue bill. Representative Nelson, of Wisconsin, leader of the insurgent group, said that practically all seventeen of the insurgents who voted for the Garner plan would support the substitute which is to be offered by Representative Longworth, republican old guard leader. It was said that a reunion of the republican forces would force a rejection of the Garner rates on a final vote which is expected to be taken this afternoon.

TO FACE PROBE NEXT WEEK

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.—The resolution calling for an investigation of Attorney General Daugherty was taken up today by the Senate. It is freely predicted that the Senate will adopt the resolution before it takes recess tonight, and the inquiry will begin next week.

BAD ROADS BLOCK RURAL MAIL ROUTES

Rural mail carriers experienced a hard week of it this week, and were compelled to cut part of their routes in some parts of the county. Some of the patrons on routes in the North and Northwest parts of the county received no mail from last Saturday up to Friday of this week on account of the roads mashing up as a result of the heavy snow. Especially were the roads which run East and West made impassable by the melting snow. The snow drifted in deep banks along the roads running East and West, and melted slowly, causing the road beds to soften and become impassable.

J. P. Clifton and Henry McDaniel, of the Norton country, were in Ballinger Friday, Mr. Clifton renewing his subscription to The Ledger and Mr. McDaniel subscribing for himself and his father, J. W. McDaniel, at Cross Plains. The gentlemen reported heavy snow and bad roads in the Valley Creek and Norton communities.

PALMER DENIES OIL CONNECTION

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.—A Mitchell Palmer, attorney general in Wilson's administration, testified before the Senate oil investigating committee today. Mr. Palmer testified as to the circumstances of his being retained as an attorney for Edward McLean, publisher of the Washington Post, in the oil inquiry. Palmer denied that J. W. Zevely, attorney for Harry Sinclair, was his law partner, as had been suggested in McLean's telegram which were read before the committee Wednesday.

After denying that he was associated with Zevely in the practice of law, Mr. Palmer said "however, Zevely is an old friend of mine and I outlined to him a couple of months ago the salient facts in the oil inquiry."

Palmer said that Zevely asked his opinion as to whether Sinclair and Fall could be compelled to answer questions before the committee. Palmer said that he gave it as his opinion that they could be forced to answer questions concerning the oil leasing.

Mr. Palmer also denied that he had discussed the oil matter with any senators except Senator Walsh, and Chairman Lenroot, when questioned about another telegram to McLean.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 29.—Karl Schuyler, Denver lawyer, told the Senate oil committee today that the claim of Leo Stack which he pressed with Harry Sinclair was based on the theory of conspiracy between Sinclair and the Pioneer Oil Company.

MILES PERSONALS

MILES, Feb. 28.—E. J. Schwartz is here from Ballinger to be at the bedside of his mother, who has been ill for some time. Fred Davidson was in Ballinger Wednesday attending to business.

A. R. Cook, of Rowena, was here Wednesday.

A. C. Cain, postal inspector, of Brownwood, was here Wednesday.

News of the marriage of Miss Maud Reynolds and Aubrey Hickson on last Wednesday afternoon at Winters, was received here this week. Mrs. Hickson is a Miles girl. She is teaching a country school a few miles North of Winters.

Mrs. J. C. Allen, of San Angelo, en route to Brownwood to make her home, was here between trains Wednesday a guest of her father, G. W. Reeves.

Will Smith was here Wednesday en route to his home at Santa Anna after a few days' visit with relatives at Millersville.

John Moore and daughter and B. F. Moore made a business trip to San Angelo Wednesday.

THE TADPOLE

JUST what kind of a citizen are you?
A tadpole or a torpedo?
The tadpole lives entirely for himself, and as long as he gets enough to eat he doesn't bother a bit about what even tadpoles are doing.
The torpedo always starts something. It also has a range considerably outside itself.
The torpedo first makes a noise and then it goes into action. Most of the time somebody gets hurt.

Copyright, 1924, National Budget Committee

Now, Mr. Torpedo Citizen, do you want your taxes reduced?
All right. Your work is clearly laid out for you.
Congress is right in your hands. Your Representative will do what you tell him to do because his future is in your hands, too.
If he does not hear from you, don't blame him if he spends your money to please somebody in Congress who, later on, may be able to help him in turn.
Now, there isn't any chance of your taxes being reduced if all the government income, and more, too, is spent for things you might get along without just as well as not. Real economy in the government means not spending a single dollar that does not actually have to be spent.
Congress, most of the time, is very partial to luxuries. Most of the time you have to look upon luxuries with a cold eye if you want to make both ends meet at home or in your business.
Why not impress this fact upon your Congressman?

THE TORPEDO

You sure will, if you are a Torpedo Citizen.
First, make your noise and make it loud and clear.
If your Congressman pays no attention, then go into action.
You know how much that kind of a Congressman is worth to you at Washington, don't you?
All right, then, let somebody get hurt.
Of course, the tadpole will keep on sleeping.

It is an unpleasant subject to think about, but the time is fast coming when there will be a time limit to parking cars on certain streets in Ballinger. They are getting too thick.

Considerable dirt is changing hands in Runnels county, or has been changing hands during the past few months. There will always be a demand for land which will produce $100 worth of cotton to the acre.

If you want a job done right just turn it over to a bunch of enthusiastic school boys and girls.

Nobody else could have raised almost $100 on one cent a vote in a popular voting contest in two days.

Citation by Publication THE STATE OF TEXAS,

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Runnels County, Greeting:

You are hereby commanded to summon D. B. Sloan and wife M. L. Sloan and their unknown heirs and Clara Marshall, wife of John Marshall deceased, by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your County, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in any newspaper published in the 35th Judicial District; but if there be no newspaper published in said Judicial District, then in a newspaper published in the nearest District to said 35th Judicial District, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Runnels County, to be holden at the Court House thereof, in Ballinger, Texas, on the Fifth Monday in March, A. D. 1924, the same being the 31st day of March, A. D. 1924, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 28th day of February, A. D. 1924, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court No. 3152, wherein Mrs. Mariah Marshall is Plaintiff, and D. B. Sloan and M. L. Sloan and Clara Marshall are Defendants, and said petition alleging that plaintiff is a resident citizen of Runnels County, Texas, and that the land sued for therein is in Runnels County, that the address of the defendants is unknown to plaintiff. That on the 27th day of February, A. D. 1924, she was lawfully seized and possessed of a certain tract or parcel of land lying and being situated in the county of Runnels, state of Texas, containing 50 acres more or less out of the extreme Northwest corner of the B. Sandoval Survey No. 312, Certificate No. 2731-2632, known as Abstract No. 419, patented to Samuel A. Maverick assignee on the 10th day of May, A. D. 1856 by letters patent No. 95, Volume 13, a better description of which by metes and bounds cannot be given but which tract plaintiff alleges has been known by reputation since 1886 as the Marshall tract. Plaintiff further alleges that she acquired said land by purchase from the defendants D. B. Sloan and wife M. L. Sloan, but at the time had the deed taken in the name of her son John Marshall, now deceased. That such deed was never placed of record and has become lost or destroyed. That at time of acquirement of said land by plaintiff in the year 1886 she immediately had same fenced and has used, occupied, cultivated, and enjoyed same from such time, open and peaceable and adverse to all claims, until the said 27th day of February, A. D. 1924, when the defendants unlawfully entered upon said premises and ejected plaintiff therefrom and unlawfully withhold from her the full and rightful possession or said premises by the assertion of a title thereto claimed to be paramount to the title of the plaintiff to her damage in the sum of $500.00.

Plaintiff prays judgment of the court removing clouds from her title, that her title be quieted in her that she be restored her possession and that writ of restitution issue, for her damages, and costs of suit and such other and further relief, general and special, in law or equity as to the court seemeth meet.

Herein fail not, but have before said Court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the Seal of said Court, at office in Ballinger, this the 28th day of February, A. D. 1924.

DARKENS HAIR SO NATURALLY NO ONE KNOWS

The use of Sage and Sulphur for restoring faded, gray hair to its natural color dates back to grandmother's time. She used it to keep her hair beautifully dark, glossy and attractive. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded or streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect.

But brewing at home is messy and out-of-date. Nowadays, by asking at any drug store for a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get this famous old preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients, which can be depended upon to restore natural color and beauty to the hair.

A well-known downtown druggist says it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, it becomes beautifully dark and glossy.

Naming Pullmans a Task.

The first Pullman car was a remodeled Chicago & Alton day coach, No. 9, and continued with its original designation. It was first decided to letter Pullman car A, B, C, etc., but when 28 cars had been lettered, numbering was resumed. However, to avoid conflict with railroad car numbers, it was decided to give each Pullman car a baptismal name, copying the custom of naming locomotives in the 70s after officials and other celebrities, says the Detroit News.

"The Pioneer" was the first name used on a Pullman car. Later names of women, flowers, birds, cities, towns, rivers, lakes, soldiers, poets, battlefields and camps were adopted. There are now so many Pullman cars that it has been found necessary to take names from ancient history.

One Born Every Minute, Few Ever Give Up Hops

In certain offices in Wall street there's an axiom, "Once a sucker, always a sucker." Those who make their living by catching suckers do not cross from their lists the names of individuals who have met with losses, because losses do not cure.

There was proof of this only recently. The receiver of a bucket shop which closed some time ago received a $75 check through the mail with an order to buy certain securities. Examining the check, the receiver found that it was a dividend check the customer had received when another bucket shop was closed. It represented all he had salvaged from the wreck. But without even bothering to cash it, he endorsed it and sent it along.

That check came from the Middle West. But there are suckers in New York also. That same receiver a few days later received a check and a buying order. The check was for $400. The sender was a Broadway merchant. The order was not executed, however, as the firm he addressed had failed a year before.

"Apparently there's not only one born every minute, but they never die," said the receiver as he dictated a letter to accompany the returned check.

First Telephone Users Unable to Find Ears

In 1877 one of the most important and difficult parts of the work of introducing the telephone into a community was teaching the subscriber the correct way of using a telephone. This still has its importance and its difficulty. So there is value as well as amusement in the experience of one of the earliest of telephone pioneers, who introduced the telephone into Delaware. He says in an account of those days:

"In 1877 and 1878 very few people had seen a telephone and fewer still had used it, so that after a subscriber had been secured it required considerable effort to impress upon him the most efficient way to use it. The people did not know, it seems, where their ears were. In fact, an editor said to me one day: 'You should have some one instruct Mr. — how to use that telephone you have put in for him. He has rubbed the hair off the side of his head trying to find his ears.'"

Just What He Asked

One day a man who was interested in social work went into a tenement district and, wishing to see a certain man, but having only a general idea as to where he lived, approached a small boy for information. "My boy," he said, "can you show me where Mr. Linkovitch lives?" "Yes, sir," was the quick reply of the boy, pointing a tip. "Come right with me, sir."

With this the boy entered an adjacent doorway and started to climb the difficult stairs. Up four flights he went, the visitor breathlessly following, and finally paused at an open door.

"This is the floor," said the boy, wistfully looking for the coin. "Mr. Linkovitch lives in there."

"Looks as if we had had hard luck," remarked the visitor, peering into the room. "Mr. Linkovitch doesn't appear to be here."

"No, sir," was the rejoinder of the boy. "That was him settlin' down on the front doorstep where we came in."

The Cheery Eskimos.

A Norwegian explorer has just spent 15 years among the Eskimos of Greenland and Alaska, after which, with a natural desire of change, he made for Paris. Yet he maintains an admirable fidelity to his Eskimo friends. They have, he assures the Parisians, many points of superiority over the inhabitants of more genial climes. "They take turns to sing songs, in which they abuse and ridicule each other to the best of their ability." The man whose phrases are the most mordant, whose melodies are the most mocking, whose voice best carries invective, is adjudged to have right on his side. What more is needed to prove that the Eskimos are ruled by the loftiest ideals of civilization?—London Daily Telegraph.

Sure Enough!

"Oh, major!" called a farmer contentment, coming out to the gate. "I've got a puzzle here. The county sent newspaper came just now with part of a page doubled over and printed twice so that it can't be read. The headline over that part says, 'Governor Trickerly Here Saturday,' and I can't tell whether it means last Saturday or next Saturday."

Not So New

The traveler had returned to his native village after being abroad for 20 years. He stopped as he saw a little boy with a small baby cooing down the road. "Ah! a new face, I see!" "No, it isn't, sir," replied the boy, looking at the baby. "It's just been washed, that's all!"—Western Christian Advocate (Cincinnati).

The Idle Thing

"The woman next door is really dreadful, Richard," said the young married woman. "She does nothing but talk the whole day long. I'm sure she can't get any work done." "Oh," remarked her husband; "to whom does she talk?" "Why, to me, dear, of course," was the reply. "Over the fence!"

Learned Astronomy by Making Own Telescopes

How a group of mechanics, living in Springfield, Vt., learned the science of astronomy by making their own telescopes at home, is related in Popular Astronomy by Russell W. Porter. Several of these mechanists had their own small workshops, located usually in the cellars of their homes.

"Interest did not stop with the completion of the telescopes," says Mr. Porter. "The telescope makers found an old station on Hawks mountain, just outside of the township, occupied years ago in the government triangulation of New England. They camped on the mountain, built a substantial tower and signal over the station.

"On another occasion they spent the night on the summit of Mount Ephraim, the highest point in the township. This gathering, I believe, is unique in the annals of astronomy. "Throughout that night, from the appearance of the first star until dawn, these men were exploring the heavens. It proved to be good seeing notwithstanding a stiff wind. The light from a roaring campfire revealed a circle of animated faces listening intently to some celestial fact just brought out at the eye-piece of one of the instruments."

How Natives of Papua Prepare Heads of Fooes

In a recent issue of Man, Mr. E. B. Riley gives an account of the method of preparing the heads of enemies practiced at the village of Dorro in Papua. After the flesh and brains are removed a piece of rattan cane is fixed to the bottom of the mummified skull to take the place of the lower jaw and to act as a support for the packing of the neck. It was difficult to ascertain why the lower jaw is not replaced. The explanation seems to be that they prefer to hang this up in the house, and keep it as a mark or token of the owner's prowess in war, after the mummified head has decayed; but the lower jaw is sometimes replaced, being tied to the zygomas, as with the rattan cane. Finally, the head is dried, being fixed on a wooden framework over a fire lighted for that purpose, and the hair is pulled out as decomposition of the skin advances.

Red Light Traps Insects

A means for combating the winged insect pests of tropical regions has been evolved, by means of which the flying bugs are lured into a deadly bath of acid and either drowned or asphyxiated by the fumes.

It was found that red light served as an almost irresistible lure for the night-fliers. A red electric bulb, or a lantern with a red globe, is placed near the vessel containing the acid solution. As the pests fly to the light the fumes destroy them even though they may not actually fall into the bath.

To protect human beings from possible accidental contact with the acid bath, the liquid is placed in a wide-mouthed bottle, to which is attached a funnel with a very broad flaring cone. The light is suspended directly over this funnel, and the insects, stupefied by the acid fumes, fall into it and so into the acid bath.—New York World.

Huge Crane Scale

Practically every day industrial progress develops a new use for a weighing device or scale particularly adapted to meet specific requirements. A new scale was developed for the United States government for the purpose of measuring the pull on cables used to hold an airship at its moorings and this scale was immediately adapted for the measuring of unusual, heavy loads on cranes or booms where weights or loads up to 10,000 pounds are handled, assuring that the safe working load is not exceeded, and thus eliminating dangerous overloading and disastrous accidents. The scale is of steel construction. Its accurate action depends upon four extremely heavy springs. The dial is 15 inches in diameter.—Scientific American.

For Squeaks

"I would I were a bird!" wailed the fair girl at the piano. "I would you were a box of axle grease," hissed the dark man under the palm. "I wonder what he means by that?" asked the lemon-haired maiden. "He means that axle grease stops screeching," whispered the man in the black suspenders.

Delicate Gown Made for Empress Eugenie

It is said that the most perishable thing ever made was the gown of Empress Eugenie designed for her to wear at a ball given at the Tuilleries upon her return from the opening of the Suez canal.

The ultimate in dress was made under the personal direction of the empress. Four women labored steadily for six months embroidering the flounces. It took two months to manufacture the gauze. The cloth was woven on machinery especially constructed and was the only kind of this material ever fashioned. The threads were so fine that the weavers were obliged to wear powerful magnifying glasses.

The dress was an ivory white. It was made with 15 skirts one upon the other. Thirty-five yards of gauze were required for each and the effect was a diaphanous mist. A thousand yards of material was used, 237 yards being required for each of the two overskirts. The flounces resembled cobwebs, and delicate embroidery marked the low-cut waist. So fine was the material that the two overskirts could be drawn through a bracelet, and two of the underskirts through a finger ring.—Detroit News.

Keene Won and Lost Millions of Dollars

It is to be questioned whether his tying up with Jay Gould or the $400,000 he wagered that William Jennings Bryan would be elected in 1896 was James R. Keene's greatest error of judgment. To his then associate, Gould, Keene attributed his losses in Western Union and wheat in the late '70s.

For all of his speculations over 50 years, Keene, when he died, in 1913, left but $2,000,000, and he scored more failures in his operations than successes. After his experience with Jay Gould, other reverses followed and Keene was a bankrupt in 1884. By 1882 he was on his feet again, through his manipulations for the whisky combination and American Sugar Refining company.

Later in the same decade, he won and lost and won again on Brooklyn Rapid Transit, only to drop $2,000,000 in Third Avenue railway speculation. At the time of the flotation of United States steel he hit the ceiling, only to fall to the floor shortly after with the collapse of Southern Pacific.—New York Times.

Home of Pineapple

The pineapple is of American origin, growing wild in Brazil and Mexico. It has been known since the sixteenth century and was first cultivated solely for royalty in the gardens of their private grounds. Brazil still possesses the best and most appreciated varieties, although in other countries much work has been done to develop a better pineapple.

It is claimed that the flavor and evenness of pulp of the Brazilian pineapples have not been equaled. The season in Brazil comes in December and it has been a source of wonder to tourists arriving in Brazil during the pineapple season why some one has not undertaken to make shipments to the United States, where there should be a splendid market for them, arriving in midwinter.

Mary Lost Her Tip

A newly appointed judge of the Supreme court, who felt pretty well satisfied with himself, was dining at a hotel and he said to the Irish waitress, "Mary, how long have you been in this country?"

"Two years, sir."

"Do you like it?"

"Sure, it's well enough," she answered.

"But, Mary," he continued, "you have many privileges in this country which you'd not have in Ireland. Now at home you'd never be in a room with a justice of the Supreme court and chatting familiarly with him."

"But, sure, sir," said the girl, quite in earnest, "ye'd never be a judge at home."—Boston Transcript.

Had Forgotten

A Hot Springs girl recently ran across a lot of love letters written many years ago, by her mother to her father before they were married. The daughter pretended that the letters were of recent date, and read them to her mother, who was disgusted beyond measure, saying it was surprising that such silly persons were permitted to live. "I thank goodness," she said, "that when I was a girl, I had some sense."—Philadelphia Inquirer.

Both Wrong

Two travelers were seated in a train going to Chicago. As the train drew up at a station one of the travelers opened the window, and drawing a deep draught of fresh air, turned to his companion and exclaimed: "Isn't this salubrious?"

"Yes," replied his friend, "I think it is exhilarating."

"Beg pardon," chimed in the conductor, "ye're both wrong; it's Kalamazoo."

Kittenish

"Those frowns must be a frightful set," commented Mrs. Dimples.

"Why?" asked her overworked help.

"I read in the paper that after the blaze was under control, firemen played all night on the ruins. Why didn't they go to bed like sensible folks instead of romping around like cats?"

Citation by Publication
THE STATE OF TEXAS,
To the Sheriff or any Constable of Runnels County, Greeting:
You are hereby commanded to summon Sam Derry by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your County, if there be a newspaper published therein, but if not, then in any newspaper published in the 35th Judicial District; but if there be no newspaper published in said Judicial District, then in a newspaper published in the nearest District to said 35th Judicial District, to appear at the next regular term of the said District Court of Runnels County, to be holden at the Court House thereof, in Ballinger, Texas, on the fifth Monday in March, A. D. 1924, the same being the 31st day of March, A. D. 1924, then and there to answer a petition filed in said Court on the 14th day of February, A. D. 1924, in a suit, numbered on the docket of said Court No. 3142, wherein Loney Derry is Plaintiff, and Sam Derry is Defendant, and said petition alleging that Plaintiff has been an actual bona fide inhabitant of Runnels County for a period of more than six months and has resided in the State of Texas for a period of more than twelve months next preceding the filing of this action. That plaintiff and defendant were legally married in Bastrop County, Texas, on or about the 9th day of December, A. D. 1913, and lived together as man and wife until about the 15th day of September, 1919, when plaintiff left defendant because the defendant disregarded his marriage vows and cohabited and lived in adultery with another woman. That plaintiff was guilty of no act to bring about such conduct. Plaintiff prays for citation and that upon a hearing of this cause that she have judgment dissolving the marriage and granting her divorce, that she be restored her maiden name and for such other and further relief in law and equity as she may be entitled to, and for costs of suit.

Herein fail not, but have before said Court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.

Given under my hand and the Seal of said Court, at office in Ballinger, Texas, this 29th day of February, A. D. 1924.

HAROLD M'GRATH YARN SHOWING AT FO-TO-SHO

When a more than appealing love story of two handsome young people is woven into a plot of mystery and adventure in the South Seas, the resulting picture-play seems certain to prove fine entertainment. That is the case with "The Ragged Edge," based on Harold MacGrath's novel, which Distinctive Pictures Corporation has used as a vehicle for Alfred Lunt and Mimi Palmeri—two new stars. It is showing today and tonight at the Fo-to-sho Theatre.

Miss Palmeri is the new screen Cinderella whose portrait in a fashion magazine last year led to her engagement by the Distinctive company. The beauty which attracted attention to her is revealed in countless scenes. Lunt is the famous star of the legitimate stage who made his film debut in "Backbone."

Harmon Weight directed this production. It is the story of a young American who flees from home because of a misdeed which preys on his conscience. He meets the girl in Canton. She, too, has fled from her home because her father, a missionary had denied her love and sympathy. The two marry. It is through the devotion of the young wife that the fugitive American is made to stand on his own feet. What his guilt was and how he is cleared from the mystery of the story and make of it absorbing screen material.

FIDELITY OF TULLY'S "TRILBY" EXPLAINED

Richard Walton Tully's screen production of "Trilby" which is showing at the Maeroy Theatre today, was staged by a producer, director and cast thoroughly familiar with the locale of this famous story.

Mr. Tully, James Young, who directed the picture, and Wilfred Buckland, art director, all have spent several years in the Montmartre district of Paris. Conrad Tritschler, the famous English scenic artist, also has resided in Paris. Rose Dione, one of the members of the cast, formerly played at the head of her own company in France.

Andree Lafayette, the charming lead of this all-star cast, came to America direct from the French metropolis, as did Maurice Cannon, who plays Zouzou; and Max Constant, the Dodor of the play.

Several other French players worked in the production, and it is needless to state that they thoroughly enjoyed the Parisian atmosphere—it was as a breath of French gardens in springtime.

It can be easily believed that French was spoken on the sets almost as frequently as English during the filming of this "Trilby."

STOCK COMPANY CANCELS DATE

The stock company booked to appear on the stage of the Maeroy Theatre beginning Monday, to remain a week, has been cancelled. A phone message from General Manager Hodge at Abilene Friday to Manager Seales of the Maeroy stated that the attraction had been closed at Stamford, where Mr. Hodge owns a playhouse, and would not be allowed to show here.

"We do not want to show anything in the Maeroy that is not up to standard," said Manager Seales, "and after we found out that Copeland Brothers' show was 'rotten' we cancelled all contracts. We will endeavor to book good stage attractions in the Maeroy later and any time we can find a road show that is up to standard. As the public knows, 'tent shows' are a thing of the past, as an almost prohibitory tax has been placed on them by the state, and if they come to West Texas and are good enough Ballinger will get to see them in the Maeroy."

The local manager stated that he had several fine pictures next week, announcement of which will be made later. The admission prices will remain at the usual rates for all film offerings, and no vaudeville or stock will be used here next week.

The recruiting campaign being put on by Co. C, 142nd Infantry, has not only brought the company up to maintenance strength but Thursday night the company lacked only four men of being at the maximum peace-time strength.

Among the new recruits are: Bassett Brelsford, John Castor, Leo Castor, Ernest Brinkley, Leslie Holman, Henry Truly, and several others.

John Pechacek is at home from Glen Rose, where he spent some time recuperating under treatment. He says he returns home feeling much better.

A small want ad in The Daily Ledger often saves you money.

By Compressed Air

Nowadays, in sinking caissons for bridges over certain rivers it is possible to make compressed air do the work of shovels in removing the sand, through a thick stratum of which, in some cases, the caisson is forced down toward the bedrock deep beneath. The sand is sometimes so pure and loose that the force of the compressed air suffices to drive it up through blowpipes inserted in the caisson for the purpose. Jets of water are directed against the sand around the bottom of the blowpipes, and when thus dislodged the sand readily passes up through the pipes with the strong air currents that are continually pouring into them from the compressed atmosphere of the caisson.

Portraits of Shakespeare

Two portraits of Shakespeare are sufficiently diverse to add piquancy to the problem, "What did Shakespeare really look like?" The painting called the Felton portrait, first discovered in a broker's shop in the Minorities in 1788, by "a gentleman of fashion," shows him beardless except for a slight tuft of hair under the lower lip and a small fair mustache. The Lumley portrait, which was originally in possession of Lord Lumley, a contemporary of the poet's, is more in keeping with the generally accepted fancy of Shakespeare's appearance. He is shown with a florid complexion, a close-cropped beard and small, brown mustache.

Discovered Great Gold Mine North of Toronto

Gold prospecting is among the world's romantic adventures, and there is no more thrilling story in its annals than that of the discovery of the great Hollinger mine, some 500 miles north of Toronto, in Canada. Thirteen years ago a young man, Ben Hollinger by name, was tramping through the low bush prospecting when his eyes happened to alight upon an outcrop of rock in a desolate waste. He struggled over to it, and on examination found it contained gold. To day the Hollinger mine rivals the great mines of South Africa, and last year outstripped the greatest of them the New Modderfontein, which had previously held the world's record for gold output. It covers 400 acres, and below its rugged surface run nearly 45 miles of tunnels and an electric railway system. The great mills roar day and night, and every month $7,000,000 in gold leaves the refinery. There are more than 2,000 men employed in the mine, mostly working underground, and they never see gold at all. They are surrounded by gold, yet all they see is the dirty gray rock being scooped up and taken to the refinery.

Gates Disproved Charge That He Was Careless

John W. Gates' first large scale of speculative venture, barbed wire, is what many would be plungers find on their Wall Street raids. Late in the last century Gates was the main backer of two steel companies, Federal Steel and American Steel and Wire, with a total capitalization of nearly $200,000,000.

These organizations were merged with the United States Steel corporation, but Gates was refused a place with the new combination. He was told his business methods were careless, whereupon he founded the Republic Iron and Steel company, which became a thorn in the side of the United States Steel company. When Gates died in 1911 he left a fortune of nearly $20,000,000, which disproved allegations of slipshod methods and the assertion that all plungers eventually are wiped out and become objects of charity.—New York Times.

Old but Good!

A young lady sat next to a distinguished bishop at a church dinner. She was rather awed by the bishop's presence. For some time she hesitated to speak to him. Finally, seeing some bananas passed, she seized the opportunity to start conversation with him and said: "I beg your pardon, but are you fond of bananas?"

The bishop was slightly deaf, and leaning toward her, replied: "Pardon me, but what did you say?"

"I said," repeated the young lady, blushing furiously, "do you like bananas?"

The bishop pondered the question gravely for a moment, and then answered: "It is a curious question, but if you wish my honest opinion, I have always preferred the old-fashioned night shirt."—Harper's Weekly.

His Own Opinion

Gap Johnson of Rumpus Ridge leaned over his rickety fence and nonchalantly contemplated a covered wagon which was being snalled along the big road by a yoke of oxen.

"Howdy," he saluted when the equipage finally arrived in front of his residence. "Whur are you going to?"

"Well, I'll tell you," responded the venerable man who walked beside the oxen. "I loaded up my family and one thing and another a spell ago, ainting to go to Oklahoma, as it were. But I've had to turn out'n the road and stop so often to let automobiles, wagons and so forth go by, and then probly got stuck in the mud and had a dickens of a time in dragging out and getting started ag'in, that, all things considered, I don't reckon I'm going no place."—Kansas City Star.

Careless Taxi Driver

A taxi was standing at a cabstand with the front of the cab almost on the crossing. The driver was sitting on the seat waiting patiently for a fare. He had been waiting two hours. A man was crossing the road deep in meditation, when he suddenly caught sight of the cab. He jumped, glared at the driver for a moment, and then exclaimed, "Why don't you blow your horn?"—The Tuttle.

Clog Dancer Arrested.

All the world's a stage for William S. Brooks, and therefore he believed that he had a right to back and wing where he pleased. He started at a dance hall in Portland, Ore.

"Get the hook!" his audience yelled. He kept on dancing. "I'll get a cop!" the manager muttered. The policeman took Brooks to headquarters. He clogged for the officers in the garage. He clogged for the sleepers in the jail. He clogged until morning. He was too tired to clog in court, however. The acting judge sent him to the county jail for mental examination.

DEATHS

Mrs. S. W. Dunn

Mrs. Shelby W. Dunn, age 42 years, 11 months and 16 days, died at her home on Eighth Street in West End at 9:30 Friday morning. Mrs. Dunn had been ill for some time, being a sufferer with tuberculosis, and her death did not come as a surprise to those who had been tenderly caring for her.

Before her marriage Mrs. Dunn was a Miss Richardson, being the daughter of S. R. Richardson, deceased, a pioneer of this country. She had lived in and near Ballinger for many years, until a few years ago, when Mr. Dunn moved away with his family, and after remaining some months, returned to Ballinger.

Deceased is survived by her husband and children and quite a number of relatives, including several brothers and sisters, and many friends.

Up to noon Friday funeral arrangements had not been perfected, but it was announced that the funeral would be held Saturday, the exact hour not having been determined.
