Prisoner Killed By Post Jailer

(By International News Service)
POST, Oct. 18.—E. L. Bracken, who was being held in the Garza county jail pending his transfer to the Huntsville penitentiary was shot and killed by the jailer this morning. The shooting is said to be the result of feeling between prisoners and jail attendants. Two prisoners yesterday assaulted Jailer J. H. Ramsey with an iron bar in an attempt to escape. Bracken was under sentence in connection with the slaying of Dick Redding here a year ago.

BAPTIST DISTRICT SEEKING $2,000,000 FOR BAYLOR

WACO, Oct. 18.—That a greater Baylor University looms before Texas Baptists is indicated in progress of the Greater Baylor campaign for $2,000,000 in district one with Brownwood as key city and Rev. J. H. McClain of Ballinger, district chairman.

Hundreds of southwest Texas Baptists and Baylor alumni are enlisted to promote the campaign in that section. They will be engaged in this state-wide Baptist enterprise until the popular campaign, from November 23 to December 4, when every Baptist in the state will be visited personally for a contribution to the campaign.

This campaign is identified with many leading denominational workers in district one. Rev. Elmer Ridgeway of San Angelo is chairman of the Concho association; Rev. J. S. Tierce of Ballinger is chairman of Runnels county association; Mrs. Paris Smith, Comanche association; Rev. E. M. Francis, Hamilton, Hamilton association; Rev. C. E. Lancaster, Coleman, Coleman association; Rev. J. D. Coleman, San Saba, San Saba association; Rev. L. D. Hornburg, Menard, Brady association.

"The most significant enterprise in the history of Texas Baptists" has characterized the present campaign, according to State Chairman D. K. Martin of San Antonio. Success of the campaign means retirement of the university's indebtedness and additional endowment, which will qualify Baylor for the $300,000 promised by the General Education Board.

Rev. and Mrs. W. S. Yancy have just returned from an extended visit to points in Seminole county in Oklahoma, going there by auto and returning by railroad.

Fire Company Elects Officers

Louis Cohen was elected chief of the Ballinger Fire Department Wednesday night for the fourth consecutive time. Frank Cameron was elected assistant chief to work with Mr. Cohen for the coming year.

The local fire fighters met Wednesday night at the city hall for their closing meeting of the year and to elect officers. Reports covering the activities of the company during the last year were heard and approved. City Commissioner E. M. Eubanks was present and had a few words for the boys. Other members of the commission were invited but were not present at the meeting. Rev. W. H. Doss, life-time chaplain of the company, was present and made a very interesting talk to the boys.

In the election of officers the following were elected to serve for a period of one year: M. C. Atkins, president. Jim Duncan, vice president. D. G. Posey, secretary and treasurer.

Following the election of officers and the closing of the business session, the company and their visitors went to the City Cafe where they were served with a complimentary oyster supper and all the trimmings with L. L. Strobbe as host. The boys were very appreciative of this feed by Mr. Strobbe and it was enjoyed by all who were present.

British Flier is Somewhere at Sea

(By International News Service)
PLYMOUTH, Oct. 18.—Fears for the safety of Commander S. C. McDonald, who hopped off from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, yesterday, was arising today owing to the southwesterly gale raging over the English Channel and Irish Sea. Gale warnings were issued for the eastern Atlantic, through which region McDonald must pass. No word of the flight had been received at mid-afternoon today.

McDonald, British flier, who is now believed to be far out over the Atlantic in an attempt to span the Atlantic Ocean in a tiny 85-horse power DeHaviland Moth Plane. Flying alone McDonald left Harbor Grace yesterday at 1:20 with enough fuel to keep him aloft 35 hours.

LONDON, Oct. 18.—At 5 o'clock this afternoon, 24 hours had elapsed since Commander H. C. McDonald had hopped off from Harbor Grace on a supposed transatlantic flight. There has been no word of his whereabouts.

QUEENSTOWN, Ireland, Oct. 18.—Despite wireless inquiries to ships and local radio stations they are without news of the McDonald transatlantic flight at mid-afternoon. A channel storm is now raging but does not extend this far west and the weather here is clear, bright and sunshiny with excellent visibility.

Half is Paid on Paving Contract

The paying paving contracts in a way represents the financial condition of Ballinger at the present time. The total of the contracts against the property owners on the paving done on Eighth Street and Broadway was $45,000. The first installment on this paving amounted to one-fifth of $9,000. Following the mailing of the notices for the first payment the city has already handled 50 per cent of a total of $22,500 of the full amount due the firm who built the streets.

This is far in excess of what was expected by the firm of Brown and Root. They expected about $12,000 would be paid on the first installment and were agreeably surprised when the amount run to practically half the entire sum of the paving on these two streets. The remainder of the paving will be paid for in five equal installments, payments coming due one year apart.

State Studying Gasoline Raise

(By International News Service)
AUSTIN, Oct. 18.—Much progress has already been made in the state's investigation into the recent boost in the price of gasoline, which is sure to result in the filing of suits against a number of leading oil companies, in the opinion of R. V. Nichols, chief investigator of the Attorney General's Department.

Nichols charged that the big companies have regulated price of gasoline in an effort to freeze out the small fellows who are designated as "independents." Nichols further said that in the larger cities of the state where there is keen competition the price is from two to four cents cheaper than where the so-called "trust" controls.

DOCTOR'S SCISSORS LEFT AFTER OPERATION WAS THOUGHT TO BE CANCER

(By International News Service)
NICE, Oct. 17.—Annie Crotch, an Englishwoman living in this city thought she was suffering from cancer until the doctors removed a pair of pincers from her stomach recently.

She had her first operation in London a few years ago, later coming to France where she continued to suffer. The doctors then thought the trouble might come from the bladder, so she went under the knife a second time, with no better results.

Miss Crotch came to the conclusion she had cancer, so had an X-ray made which revealed a pair of surgeon's pincers in her stomach. They were left there by her first surgeon, eight years ago.

Jackson Hole Country Transformed From Bandits' to Fishers' Paradise

(By International News Service)
DENVER, Oct. 18.—The Jackson Hole country of western Wyoming has been transformed from a paradise of bandits to a haven for fishermen, hunters and tourists, through the advent of good roads, according to Fred Lovejoy, long time resident of that country and mayor of Jackson. Lovejoy was visiting Denver in the interest of Jackson Hole telephone advancement.

Last summer, Lovejoy said, the dude ranches of that section were crowded and were forced to turn many away because of lack of accommodations. The country will soon be available to motorists at all seasons, he declared. During the fall the countryside is covered with elk hunters, the open hunting season on elk extending from September 15 to December 1. The state encourages hunters of this animal because the herds are becoming so large they form a menace during the winter months when the natural sources of feed in the hills are snowbound.

The Texas Compress company here had received 25,402 bales of cotton to be pressed Thursday morning, according to W. B. Woody, local manager. This is about 4000 bales under the receipts at this time last year but this is due to the lateness of the crop and is, perhaps, above last year, taking this into consideration. Last year he local compress handled a little better than 60,000 bales, and, according to Mr. Woody, they expect to do that well or better this year.

The majority of cotton arriving here now is coming from points west of Ballinger; from Miles, Rowena, Paint Rock, San Angelo, Fort Stockton and other places. Other shipments are being made to this point from Coleman, Talpa, Valera, Lawn and points east.

The local compress is operating on a full-time day shift of 10 hours and is doing some night. It is probable that a night shift will have to be started later in the year to take care of the cotton as it arrives.

The local yard Thursday morning had received 5,195 bales and the warehouse 125 bales, making 5,320 bales received in the local yard up to date.

Weighers at both the compress and the yard are keeping busy to handle the cotton as it arrives and local gins are operating full time every day.

S. Texas Highway Building Rapidly

(By International News Service)
EDINBURG, Oct. 18.—Work on the new Mercedes-Edinburg highway is progressing rapidly. Asphalt topping is being laid at two points along the road and several additional miles have been rolled and gravelled in preparation for the topping.

W. L. Pearson & Company are contractors on the job. The entire good roads program of District No. 1, of which the Edinburg-Mercedes road is a part, includes 52 miles of paved highway extending from the new international bridge at Mercedes through Edinburg, the county seat, to Tobasco, besides ten feeder roads joining the main road from the north and south between Edinburg and the latter point, and 15 similar feeder roads between Edinburg and Mercedes. The entire program is scheduled to be completed by February, 1930.

With the completion of the District No. 1 program, the cities of Mercedes, San Carlos, Elsa, Edouch, La Villa, Edinburg and Tobasco will be placed in direct contact with each other over a paved highway, as well as outlets to all sections of Hidalgo county.

Delinquent Girl Case is Tested

(By International News Service)
AUSTIN, Oct. 18.—The question as to whether marriage relieves a delinquent girl from serving the remainder of a sentence imposed upon her by the courts, is to be tested by legal proceedings.

This was developed when a girl inmate of the Girls' Training School at Gainesville made her escape and married and refused to return on the ground that her marriage relieved her from serving the balance of the sentence.

The question was submitted to the Attorney General's Department for a ruling, and Assistant Attorney General Ethel Hilton Jones held that the delinquent girl must complete her term and marriage does not relieve her. Based on this opinion, R. R. Walcott, chairman of the Board of Control, ordered the girl taken back to the school. The girl's husband announced that he will take the matter into court on the ground that her marriage removed the juvenile delinquency.

FOREIGN BORN TOURISTS FROM U. S. MUST PROVE CITIZENSHIP IN CANADA

(By International News Service)
CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Immigration rules which concern non-citizen motorists crossing from the United States into Canada are being called to the attention of the tourists by the touring bureau of the Chicago Motor Club.

A naturalized citizen should carry with him either his first or second naturalization papers. Foreign born tourists who have taken out no papers, must get in touch with the customs house and arrange to be furnished with the proper papers that will permit re-entry into the United States.

Strict rules against the return to the United States of anyone who is not a citizen apply at ports of entry. During the past few months there have been several cases where non-citizens have crossed into Canada without proper papers and have been refused re-entry. They are now awaiting opportunity to return under the quota law.

CONNECTICUT TOWNS TO SPEND MILLIONS FOR MANY NEW BRIDGES

(By International News Service)
 HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 18.—A few million dollars worth of new bridges are to be a thing greatly desired by certain Connecticut towns in a short time, according to John A. Macdonald, state highway commissioner who is urging Hartford, New London and Middletown to take steps towards securing such structures.

Hartford and Middletown each has a wide bridge spanning the Connecticut river that cuts Connecticut in two sections, while New London has a huge structure over the Thames. Automobiles have accumulated so greatly on Connecticut roads that the three bridges are almost inadequate though fairly new, and Mr. Macdonald is sounding the call to prepare for the future.

 The bridges might be built at a million each. Just now the question is, who will furnish the million each.

Heavy Collegians Downed by Locals

The Ballinger Bear Cats playing head-up football for the first time this year overcame big odds in weight and experience Wednesday afternoon and defeated the Howard Payne Reserves 12 to 0. After the first three running plays by Howard Payne the locals seemed to get confidence and after that only a few yards were made through the Ballinger line and many times the heavy line and backfield of the reserves were hurled back for big losses. Only once in the entire game did the reserves threaten to cross the Bear Cats' goal. In the last quarter Howard Payne kicked and recovered the ball on the Ballinger four yard line. The next two plays were thrown back for a 17 yard loss. Maracek on the third down got through the line and carried the ball to the two yard line and on the fourth play Maracek lacked only one foot getting it over. Coker kicked the ball down the field and the locals were safe for the remainder of the game.

Ballinger completed passes almost at will and with these passes kept the ball well in the Howard Payne territory most of the game. The locals also made good gains around ends and through the line. Their first counter came in the third period when the ball was carried to the two yard line with passes, line plays and a triple lateral pass around left end. The team huddled on the fourth down and Coker hit the middle of the line for the first six points. Allison missed the goal for extra point. Score: Ballinger 6; Reserves 0.

Howard Payne kicked to Ballinger at the north goal. Greenhill, halfback, playing his first full game with the Bear Cats gathered the ball in and behind perfect interference of his team mates made a beautiful 80-yard broken-field run to a touchdown. Allison missed the goal. Score: Ballinger 12; Reserves 0.

The Ballinger team looked different yesterday from any time this year and the fans along the sidelines were of the opinion that Coach Wright's boys are just now finding themselves and from now on will make it hard going for anything in this section of the country in Class B football.

It is almost impossible to pick stars on the Ballinger team. The entire team was in there fighting all the time. Middleton called a good game at quarter and played a brilliant defensive game all the way. Coker and Chastain made a few tackles that brought whoops from the fans. The entire backfield of Parrish, Coker, Middleton and Greenhill were watching for holes and ripping through them on offensive play. Smith and Robinson are the best pair of tackles in high school football in West Texas and are hard fighters who never quit. They were responsible for many of the gains

Wednesday. Wilson and Lusk were also spectacular on defense and stopped many end runs around their wings.

The crowd was much lighter than was expected and the local fans are not supporting the team in a way that will keep good football alive here. If Ballinger is to have winning football and keep the team going it will require a better paid attendance than that which witnessed the game Wednesday.

U. S. NOW CALLED THE GREATEST NATION OF ART LOVERS IN WORLD

(By International News Service)

LONDON, Oct. 18.—The United States is becoming the greatest nation of art lovers in the world, and is rapidly supplanting the European nations from this enviable position.

The authority for this statement is Paul Reinhardt, proprietor of the famous galleries bearing his name in New York. Reinhardt is in England surveying the art situation with a view to taking yet more antiques from "England's stately homes" to the United States.

"A greater invasion of American art buyers is to be expected in Europe next year," Reinhardt said. "The passion for collecting antiques is spreading with astonishing speed throughout the United States."

"Europeans who might think Americans to be money-grubbers are wrong. They are rapidly becoming great art lovers, building up fine collections."

"The demand is increasing all the time, and Europe, and particularly England, will continue to be ransacked by American dealers in order to supply this demand. "New York and Philadelphia used to provide almost the whole of the American demand. Now the interest is spreading through the Middle West to the Far West. San Francisco and Santiago each has a museum now."

Synthetic Life in the Metropolis Robs Yearning Souls of Everything Real

(By International News Service)
NEW YORK, Oct. 18.—Synthetic life in the metropolis!

More and more, day by day, the citizen of this oasis for hungering, yearning souls finds himself a victim of an ever increasing scheme of existence based upon a mixture of parts of wholes—the synthetic.

Beginning with his subway trip, which in many instances follows a breakfast of synthetic foods, prepared in cans, jars or other containers, or else "hatched out" by some enterprising "hash-slinger" in one of the thousands of eating places of the city, he is rushed to a certain point with very little aid from his natural motivating facilities.

His day is spent in an environment of mechanical substitution for hand and brain, ranging from the steam shovel, which eliminates the pick and shovel man, to the adding machine, which eliminates mental calculus.

He reads synthetic works of synthetic authors in order to become a so-called intellectual. Even if he lives a normal married existence himself, he is surrounded by the "modernists" of free love and companionate marriage.

In his home life he has almost everything synthetic, from the ice in his box to the air he breathes by means of ventilating systems.

In place of normal exercise he is obliged to rely on patented medicines to keep his system in a functioning condition.

At the theatre he is confronted with a moving picture which "talks."

And on top of all this the poor "victim" has to drink synthetic booze.

And yet the end is not. Writers are constantly telling him that everything is wrong with the world and the government, with his home, the churches; political leaders are always declaring that their opponents are in dire need of conversion, and even his children, if he has any, are returning home from the streets or school "wiser" than the old folks.

More and more, day by day, he finds himself hard put to keep pace with the synthetic age.

"Nothing So Clearly Marks a Failure"

"That last man seemed to have just the experience and other qualifications you were looking for. Why did you pass him up?"

"I thought so, too, at first but did you see his shoes? Nothing so clearly marks a failure, and we have no time for failures!"

Many a worthy fellow goes plodding through life, little realizing the unimportant points upon which he is judged and which, unknown to him, are continually neglected.

That's one of the insidious things about HOLLISOLIS. Though it is easily corrected when recognized, even your best friends won't remind you of so personal a thing. And yet it may be an important item that stands between you and success!

THE EDITOR'S MAIL

Unless you have edited a country newspaper you have no idea of the kind, character and quality of mail that comes to his desk. It takes no small part of his time to sort out the important from the trash.

This week we received a letter from Dallas and from an organization that is known as "Garden Clubs," and in this letter they actually had the nerve to ask this editor to join this club. Well, just what obligation this would saddle upon a man if he were to join the club we cannot say, but we have a surmise that it means that if he joins said club that he thereby binds and obligates himself to make a garden at his own home and undergo the toil and hardships incident to working in a garden.

"Ye gods and little fishes,"—imagine a country editor with his natural aversion to work, joining an organization of this kind when he walks seventeen miles every day gathering the news, whips all the irate subscribers and then at the end of a perfect day dries the dishes for wifey.

Now, if this invitation had come to wife, we would have been strong for her holding a membership for we think if there is a proper "sphere of action" for a woman that it is garden work. In fact the doctor recommends such for her health. We not only would have been strong for her joining but we would gladly and willingly partake of the fruits of her toil, for if there is anything we do relish it is "garden sass."

No, we will NOT join any garden club, not today, Willie, not today. Perhaps s'mother day.

SCIENCE FINDS WAY TO MEASURE MINUTE TEMPERATURE DROP

CHICAGO, Oct. 18.—Advances in the procedure of modern chemistry which make possible the measurement of temperature down to one-millionth of a degree and the weighing of quantities down to one-millionth of an ounce were described at a recent meeting of the Chicago section of the American Chemical Society.

Listing the intricate apparatus now used in the solution of industrial and experimental problems.

S. L. Redman of the Central Scientific company described the primitive equipment which was discarded only a few years ago. "The alchemist's laboratory contained very little besides a charcoal fire made to burn by an old-fashioned foot-bellows, retorts, test-tubes and beakers, and a mortar and pestle," he said. "In laboratories containing but little more than these primitive utensils men like Scheele and Priestly discovered many of the more important compounds and elements.

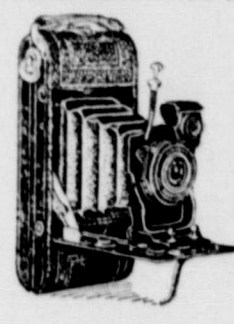

"Today the chemist has vacuum pumps powerful enough to remove all but a few of the millions and millions of air molecules contained in a vessel. He has spectroscopes which photograph not only the light visible to the human eye but also those invisible rays known as ultra violet and infra red, and with them he learns how atoms are built into molecules.

"He has quartz vessels which can be plunged while red hot into cold water without danger of breakage. Radioactive material and X-rays are used every day, and electricity is the hand maiden of this new chemistry which makes the laboratory an indispensable part of modern life."

Betty Simpson, Stowaway and Hiker Has Outgrown Wanderlust, She Says

(By International News Service)
 GALESBURG, Ill., Oct. 18.—Pretty Betty Simpson, erstwhile famed world hiker and stowaway, today is just plain Mrs. George Brogan, inconspicuous wielder of a broom in her husband's cottage here.

Betty, after roaming over land and sea for the last four years, recently returned to her husband's home here. She reached England by stowing herself away on the liner Aquitania. British authorities detained her but American consular service secured her release and she returned to America in triumph as Uncle Sam's guest.

"I've come back to George for good and forever," the pretty wanderer said. "I've always loved George. I appreciate him more than ever now that I've seen so much of the world. And of all the places I've visited, Galesburg's the nicest place of all."

Betty snuggled down deeper in her upholstered chair and went on:

"You see, I was just a country girl, born in Oklahoma and I came up here to visit friends when I was 17. I met George. We were married and we bought this little bungalow together. We were really quite happy only I had such a great longing to see the world that I couldn't be quite satisfied. In-don blood and Irish blood that flows in my veins gave me the wandering instinct, I guess."

"I've been everywhere. There's no book or picture that mentions or shows any place that I can't say I've been there."

"I sure loved it," she went on. "Everywhere I found folks kind to the girl hiker. Most of my traveling was done with tourists and cross country travelers. Sometimes I rode the rods. But not often."

Betty gave the American business man and especially her husband a boost.

"I have great respect for the American man," she declared. "I have hidden with many of them. I have accepted favors of them, been protected by them, and fed and advised by them—but never have I been insulted or treated badly."

Betty then gave her modus operandi for stowing herself away aboard ship.

"You simply walk on board as a ship's visitor," she explained, "talk to everyone, say you're going, keep moving around, and before long the ship is out to sea and you get a great big thrill because you know they won't turn back to put you off. They can't throw you overboard. The tickets are rarely collected until the next morning anyway. When you get tired and want to go to bed, just find the captain and tell him 'Here's a stowaway for you to stowaway.'"

"And what would the captain say," she was asked.

"Well," she smiled, "the captain said to me 'This one's a cute one, anyway' and then he gave me a stateroom and all I had to do was to enjoy the trip across. I received a certain amount of whispered fame. If you are a stowaway and still look like a nice little girl, that's not so bad."

Betty, her interviewers found, is blessed with large quantities of "it" and as she has the ability to hike, hop trains, beg baths or anything else that she needs or fancies, this added to her personality makes it easy for her to "get away with anything."

Betty then became pretty boastful.

"I could leave home tomorrow without a cent and go to Jerusalem without buying any tickets," she bragged. "I'm not, though," she added hastily. "I'm home now with George. And here I stay."

AMERICAN FILMS FACE BATTLE IN WORLD MARKET

By J. C. Oestreich
 (International News Service Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, Oct. 18.—For the first time since a dim flickering image upon a white screen heralded the birth of the motion picture, the American movie industry is beginning to feel the pinch of competitors.

Undisputed leader of the industry for more than 20 years, Hollywood is at last being made to realize that the production of salable motion pictures is possible in other countries than America.

And England is attempting to take the lead in breaking the grip of the American monopoly.

Given an unprecedented impetus by the passage of the Films Quota Bill in Parliament, which provides that English exhibitors must show a certain percentage of British pictures on the programs, the cinema producing companies of this country have taken a new lease of life.

Signs of Activity
 Everywhere there are signs of movie activity. New studios are being built all over the country. The old ones are the scenes of real activity for the first time in years.

In an effort to determine just how serious the British competition is becoming, the International News Service made a canvass of the companies which are at present producing here. The center of production was found to be at Elstree where the British International Pictures Corporation has its studios.

Here no less than eight pictures were in the process of taking at the same time. A list of twenty or thirty future productions was on hand. Scores of extras were being employed daily; an army of technicians, cameramen, directors and actors are now on the payroll.

Similar activity was noticed at the Stoll Studios in London, where three producing companies are turning out films under the handicap of limited space. In this studio, which served as an aircraft factory during the war, five pictures were being made at once. The same situation exists all over England. The motion picture craze has at last gripped the country seriously. Presented with a ready market in England by virtue of the Quota Bill, producers are now going to attempt to capture the world market, or at least gain a foothold in the far-flung territories where the United States has so long held undisputed sway.

Talking Competition
 Even the "talking movies" have not been overlooked. A British patent called the "Phototone" is described by some who have heard it as being better than any similar American product. Just as in Hollywood, the voices of screen stars are now being trained for talking movies, and plans are completed for the production of several full length speaking films in the near future.

"We are out to make an assault upon the world market," a prominent producer said. "We are not going to be satisfied merely with presenting our pictures in England. We are going to tackle the problem of showing our pictures all over the world, and we hope to make them so good that even America will have to make room for them."

when the dons of Spain ruled the land and estates were measured in hundreds of miles, lives again in "Rose of the Golden West," now at the Palace Theatre.

It was then that Russia, United States and other powers sought possession of California, and this screen tale depicts the dramatic love affair that counted heavily in the outcome of the international intrigue.

Practically every scene of the picture was filmed by Director George Fitzmaurice on the exact spot where the original action took place 71 years ago. Monterey, the first capital of California, and four of the famous California missions form the background of the story.

Mary Astor appears as the heroine and Gilbert Roland, descended from a long line of Spanish adventure lovers, is the hero. Montagu Love, Gustav von Seyffertitz and Flora Finch also are featured in this First National Pictures tale.

How Tom Mix Discovered Tony

Pat Chrisman, who has been a ranch foreman at the Mix Ranch for over 20 years, was mainly responsible for the discovery of Tony back in 1916. Tom Mix and Chrisman were driving along Hollywood Boulevard when they were attracted by the smartness of a young colt tethered by the roadside.

That night both men visited the owner's home and drove a bargain for the horse. Tony was turned into the Mix corral where he romped through a whole winter and summer. In the fall Mix, with the aid of Chrisman, broke the colt to various saddle gaits. Tony's aptitude to understand was manifested more and more as he grew and Mix finally decided to use him in pictures. Naturally, he figures prominently in the action of Tom's latest Fox picture, "Horseman of the Plains," which comes to the Palace Theatre Friday and Saturday.

PARIS, Oct. 17.—Juan de la Cierva, young Spanish inventor, plans to take his "flying windmill" plane to the United States.

SPOTS BEFORE EYES

Miner Had Dark Spots Before Eyes. Felt Dull, Tired, Achy. Doesn't Get Down Any More.

Somerset, Ky.—Telling how he had known of the merit of Theodor's Black-Draught since he was a boy, Mr. Albert Garland, of this city, recently said:

"I used to work in the mines, but lost quite a bit of time on account of the sick spells I had. I would get to having a bad taste in my mouth, and a very dull, tired feeling and ache. I would have dark spots in front of my eyes, and I would be so dizzy I would stagger like I was drunk."

"I took medicine, but didn't seem to get any better. My mother told me to try Black-Draught, which I did, and after a few doses I felt much better. Now I take it as soon as I feel the least bad, and I don't get down. I certainly can say that it has done more for me than any other medicine I have ever taken."

"I never get without Black-Draught. If I go on a visit, I take a package along in my suit-case. My health is better now than it has been in years, and I believe it is the use of Black-Draught that did it."

Black-Draught is prepared from medicinal roots and herbs, of highest quality. Try it.
