Practically all merchants have placed trees in front of their places of business on the sidewalks, some are being decorated in yards in the residence section and the highest one in town will probably be on top of the water tower at the Ballinger Oil Mill. H. W. Lynn, manager of the mill, is having a tree placed on top of the high tower where it will be decorated and illuminated. This tree will be seen from quite a distance and it will require a great deal of work to place it on top of the tower. Other people on the outskirts of the business section are requested to get trees and enter into the Christmas spirit by decorating them.

The West Texas Utilities Company notified The Ledger late Monday afternoon that it would be impossible to get the tree lights burning Monday but believed they would have them all strung and illuminated by Tuesday night.

Again we want to remind you that if you intend to shop early this year you are already late in starting. Merchants here report that many people are buying for Christmas now and that is a fine thing to do. You get a better selection of gifts at the stores and you greatly help the over-worked clerks by getting out of the way for those who shop, either by inclination or necessity, at the last minute. There is one more thing that can be done to help and that is to wrap your bundles which are to be mailed and get them to the postoffice. Stamp your packages to be opened Christmas Eve and mail them NOW!

The completion of the new Methodist church marks another step forward in the civic progress of Ballinger. One by one this little city is wrecking old land marks and replacing them with modern buildings that mean much to every citizen of the town. The newcomer to any town is always impressed by the churches which he may find. Churches and schools are among the first things they inquire about and Ballinger can point with just pride to its church and school facilities and buildings. All are modern buildings, well equipped and are real working plants

A little more than a year ago these three girls, Lola Salvi (upper left), Lia Tora, (upper right) and Maria Alba had no thought of a motion picture career. Then they entered beauty contests in Italy, Brazil and Spain, their respective countries, conducted by Fox Film Corporation. They won and went to Hollywood. Now Miss Salvi has the leading feminine role in "Plastered in Paris"; Miss Tora is featured in "The Veiled Woman" and Miss Alba has her first talking part in the Fox Movietone feature "In Old Arizona", which Raoul Walsh is now producing at the Fox West Coast studios.

BEAUTIES WITH FILM AMBITION

By William Parker

(International News Staff Correspondent) HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Dec. 10 .---Hollywood, as viewed from an airplane, looks like any other city which spreads over miles of the earth's surface. But what makes Hollywood different from any other city, even Paris, is the continuous parade of beautiful girls and women along Hollywood and Sunset boulevards.

A girl who wins a prize as the prettiest girl in her home town is no nearer screen fame than a chic miss of the prairies who came out in the family flivver. Beauty contest winners are as common and as important in Hollywood as a's in alphabet soup.

The years 1923 and 1924 saw the flood tide of beauty to filmland. No one has been able to offer a logical reason why. Studio records show an increase of applications totalling 8,000 persons during the two years. Records today are 25 per cent under those of 1923 and '24.

All casting nowadays is done through what has been named the central casting bureau. It is owned and operated by all of the big producing firms. An average day of newcomers is 20 girls and women.

It is becoming more and more difficult for a girl to break into the films. Miss Marian Mel, director of the women's division of central casting bureau, where all things are reduced to the law of averages, said:

"Figures for 1928 compared with AT LIVE STOCK SHOW other years show that it is harder by one half of one per cent to become a film player. In a firm but kindly tone, Miss CHICAGO, Dec. 10 .- A number of different slant. "They marry a meal ticket and then when they get a job in the films-goodbye," to quote the Hollywood evnics.

It is true as business men in Los Angeles and Hollywood will admit, that pretty girls from other cities do not make efficient employes. It is, the business men say, only a question of time when a persistent girl will get a few days work in a picture and then she quits a permanent position. But the ambition of youth and even middle age is not to be quelled and still they come to Hollywood, many of them spending their

SEE BUILDING AND LOAN ASSOCIATIONS GROWING IN FAVOR WITH PEOPLE

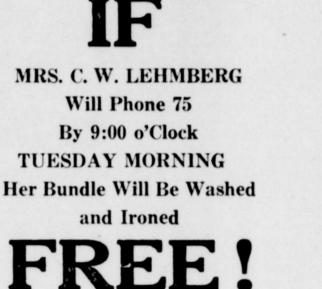

(By International News Service)

NEW YORK, Nov. 28 .- If building and loan associations, homestead associations and co-operative banks continue to grow at their present rate, they will have resources of $15,000,000,000 and will serve 19,000,000 members by 1932, according to a county-wide survey made by George L. Bliss, vice president of the Franklin Society for Home Building and Savings of New York City.

In 1917 four persons in every 100 were using building and loan associations, the survey states. In 1927, 10 persons in every 100 were 100 will be saving in the building and loan, according to Bliss.

Fire Prevention

With the approach of the Yuletide season comes a letter from the state fire marshal at Austin to City Policeman McCall asking that people be warned against fires at Christmas time. In their effort to entertain children at this season of the year, fireworks play an important part and it is largely to this hazard that the state fire marshal calls attention.

A city ordinance in Ballinger prohibits the use of fire-crackers and roman candles in the fire zone here. This fire zone is designated as between Sixth Street and Eleventh street and between Railroad Avenue and Strong Avenue in the business section of Ballinger. It is against the law to shoot fire-crackers and roman candles, sky rockets, etc., in this zone and the chief of police will maintain a strict watch over this section for violators of this law.

Any kind of fireworks may be shot outside of this zone but people are urged to use all precautions to prevent fires. There are many lawns of dead grass in Ballinger

There are still a few small details to be attended to and they will receive attention as quickly as is possible upon the arrival of needed mate ials from other cities.
