Drilling to Begin on Oil Well Next Week

Oil activity was renewed in Runnels county this week by the filing of twenty-two oil and gas leases. L. L. Evans filed the leases with the county clerk here.

Drilling on another well near Ballinger will be started either the latter part of this week or the first of next week when the Evans interests begin drilling on the L. P. Wood Ranch, north of the city. The location is 250 feet south of the Mrs. Louise Voelker place, and 150 feet west of the R. L. Wiley location.

As soon as the derrick is completed drilling will commence on this location and will continue until the bit strikes the Watchhorn pay vein or hits oil sooner.

Miss Chancey Quits; To Enter School

Miss Dorothy Chancey on Friday of last week tendered her resignation to the board of trustees of the Ballinger Independent School District, and the board has accepted the same. Since accepting the position here Miss Chancey was offered a scholarship at Texas Christian University and the position of assistant instructor in violin, and it was taken the promotion that she asked to be released here. While the board feels the loss of Miss Chancey very keenly, they are glad to see her receive the promotion and an opportunity to continue her special studies at the same time.

Supt. H. C. Lyon stated Tuesday morning that the place had been tendered to Miss Katherine Todd, of DeSoto, Missouri, and she was expected to arrive here at an early date to take charge of the public school music department. Miss Todd is a sister of Harold Hart Todd, head of the voice department of Southern Methodist University, Dallas. She has had three years experience as a teacher of violin in St. Louis, and during that period has been a member of the St. Louis Symphony Orchestra. She received her Bachelor of Music degree at S. M. U. and is well qualified for the position in the local schools.

The board and patrons of the schools regret very much that Miss Chancey will leave Ballinger for her work in the schools during the past year was of such high character that she has endeared herself in the hearts of the students and citizens. Miss Chancey has been very liberal with her entertainment at public affairs, appearing on programs sponsored by civic organizations whenever invited to do so. Her musical renditions were an asset to every program in which she was presented.

TALKIE "DETECTIVES" IS A NEW BRITISH IDEA

(By International News Service)
LONDON, Sept. 11.—The principal British film companies, realizing that bad productions may mean death to the "talkies," have organized a bureau of "talkie detectives."

This bureau is composed of fifteen engineer experts whose business is to visit every talking picture theatre in the country every three months and determine whether the sound of the film is all right.

These engineers will drop in unexpectedly to the various theatres and listen to the talking films. If the talking apparatus is found to be faulty or the production badly synchronized, the engineers will report to headquarters and a boycott will be established on the exhibitor or producer who fails to remedy the trouble.

In this way it is hoped to keep the talkies up to a standard mark and prevent the flooding of the British market with cheap apparatus. Contracts call for 1,000 by March of next year.

KANSAS CITY UNDERTAKER DROPS DEAD AT FUNERAL

(By International News Service)
KANSAS CITY, Mo., Sept. 11.—Frank Galvin, Kansas City undertaker, died "in the harness" of his profession.

While driving a group of pallbearers on the return from a burial service, he suffered a fatal heart attack.

Nine Jurors are Chosen in Trial

(By International News Service)
NEW BRAUNFELS, Sept. 11.—With three places in the jury box still unoccupied, it appeared likely that a new venire of talesmen would be needed before a jury in the trial of Mrs. Rebecca Bradley Rogers on a charge of bank robbery, would be completed. Otis Rogers, husband of the accused, and also attorney for the defense, announced that his wife would plead insanity in this fourth trial for robbery of the Farmers National Bank of Buda.

Walker is Named In Robinson Place

(By International News Service)
AUSTIN, Sept. 11.—J. H. Walker, chief clerk of the general land office here for the past ten years, was today named by Governor Moody to succeed J. T. Robison, state land commissioner, who died last week.

Walker's appointment is effective immediately. An employee of the office for many years, Walker was found by the governor to be the best fitted man to fill the post left vacant by the death of the veteran commissioner, who was buried here yesterday.

Prospects Good For Winning Team

Coach Felton Wright and his high school huskies have started work in earnest, and have already engaged in a big scrimmage. This scrimmage took place Monday afternoon and many good prospects were seen.

Underwood, rangy back, seemed to show better than any other man on the squad. He carried the ball and went through other antics to a queen's taste. He has been working on punting, and under tutorage of Coach Davis should develop a good toe, and get some distance.

Chastain, who has been running at full, is also limbering up his legs and training his foot to come in contact with the pigskin. He has been getting good distance, and also has been getting some nice spirals, just the kind that make the stands gasp when seen in a contest.

If beef counts, this year's squad is amply supplied. Smith, who has played three years, and is faster than many men less his tonnage, is in all probability the biggest man in Texas high school football. He tips the beam near the 250 mark, and knows his football. Roberson is another beefy individual who should show good later in the season. Coker in the backfield has enough weight to carry him through the line with the power of the giant Smith to open the forward wall of the opponents.

Many others with plenty of beef, but less training, will have a chance to prove their stuff this season. The pivot position is witnessing a good fight, and it is not known yet just who will be the one to be snapper back when the quarter barks the signals in the initial fray of the year.

Coaches of this section will meet Saturday to arrange the grid schedule for the year. By Monday Bearcat fans should have an inkling as to who will be the locals' first opponents for the regular season and when.

NO NEW BUSINESS BEFORE COMMISSIONERS' COURT

The Runnels County Commissioner's Court met in regular session Monday afternoon but no new business was taken up. The regular routine of business included examination of county bills for payment.

Miss Gladys Jones arrived Monday at noon to take up her duties in the Ballinger schools. Tuesday afternoon she took over one room of the first grade.

Work of extending the transmission line of Texas Utilities Company from Bovina-Dimmitt and Friona is now under way.

Promise Arrests For Dynamiting

(By International News Service)
NEW ORLEANS, Sept. 11.—Early arrests were promised by the authorities today in connection with the wave of dynamiting that swept the city during the past two nights, in which street cars suffered the most damage.

The blasts are mystifying to the officers as the strike of union traction operators here has been settled and preparations are being made for the men to return to work.

Peru President To Visit Moore At Pittsburgh

(By Francis L. Armstrong)
PITTSBURGH, Sept. 11.—Ambassador Alexander P. Moore, American representative to Peru, returned to his old home town of Pittsburgh, filed with praises of the land of the Incas and fired with an anticipation of the ideas to be derived by President Augustus Leguia of Peru who shortly will visit Pennsylvania.

"Peru is a veritable treasure box," Ambassador Moore said. "It is a haven for world tourists—it has everything the world wants and everything the world needs."

"The great question is to find the key to the treasure box and herein lies the wonderful opportunity for the people of the United States. More Americans are needed like Senator George H. Hearst who thirty years ago began the development of Peru's marvelous resources."

"He and his associates built a railroad 16,000 feet above the sea and opened copper mines, spending $7,000,000 before they took out a single cent. South America holds even greater opportunities today. Our manufacturers through mass production are securing a foothold in South American markets, and we need cultivation of the friendly attitude of the people in order to hold the great commercial gains which have been made over European competitors."

Ambassador Moore is in the United States on a vacation of a few weeks. He was enthusiastic in praise of President Leguia.

"President Leguia I regard as a greater man than Mussolini. He is a constitutional dictator and has held office nine years during his present term." Ambassador Moore said. "He is scarcely five feet tall, but he has the strength of a Caesar, the skill of a Napoleon and the diplomacy of a Richelieu."

"He is directing his people in the development of their country and is not overlooking the rich opportunity for colonization. What this means is realized when it is pointed out that in one of the great valleys of Peru are farms that would provide for a population of 10,000 people."

American movies are doing wonders for the people of South America, the Ambassador said, in arousing interest of the people and making them alive to the course of events and thoughts in other parts of the world.

Ambassador Moore would not comment on his connection with settlement of the Tacna-Arica dispute.

Pension Law to be Amended by Solons

(By International News Service)
AUSTIN, Sept. 11.—Forty-six members of the Senate and eighty members of the House have agreed to serve without pay in the brief session of the legislature proposed to amend the pension law to permit the widows of pensioners under seventy-five years of age to share in allotments.

Although 100 members of the House are necessary for a quorum of that body, A. C. Williamson, of San Antonio, who inaugurated the movement for a special session to take up this matter, said he felt encouraged.

Search in Three States for Child

(By International News Service)
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 11.—The kidnapping of Josephine Lawrence, daughter of a New York woman, was revealed today as a legal process by a woman representative of the welfare bureau and two deputies, who were acting on a court order of several months ago to take the girl from the custody of her grandmother here.

PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 11.—A highly organized search spread through three states today for 9-year-old Josephine Lawrence of New York city, who was spirited away mysteriously from the Frank Ford public school by two men and a woman posing as municipal court agents.

Ledger Breakdown Has Been Repaired

The mishap to the new press in The Daily Ledger office greatly handicapped the issuing of a newspaper Monday and Tuesday. Only an abbreviated edition was printed on one of the job presses in the office Monday. Large commercial work that was rushing was carried to the Enterprise office at Winters, where Publisher George Hill kindly offered his press and equipment to help the local printers "out of a hole." The service rendered by the Enterprise is greatly appreciated.

The American Type Foundry Co. house at Dallas shipped another motor to The Ledger Monday, but due to a tie-up at Abilene the motor was not brought to Ballinger Tuesday. A special trip was made to Abilene Wednesday morning and the motor brought to Ballinger shortly after noon Wednesday and installed in time for this edition.

The damaged motor was installed about one month ago when a new press was installed in this office, but something went wrong and before the switch could be thrown the brushes, coils, starting box and reversible switch were all damaged or burned out entirely, making the motor absolutely powerless.

The motor was shipped back to Dallas Wednesday afternoon to be rebuilt by the factory and will be shipped back and installed when finished.

The Ledger appreciates the co-operation of the public in this unavoidable occurrence, and especially the advertisers, who realized that the breakdown could not be helped, and if possible all advertising omitted will be made good.

HARTFORD LIGHT COMPANY CUTS CUSTOMERS' BILLS

(By International News Service)
HARTFORD, Conn., Sept. 11.—The Hartford Electric Light Company will reduce all customer bills sixty per cent, give all employees a sixty per cent bonus, and hand stockholders an extra dividend equal to sixty per cent of the regular dividend for the month of October, according to a vote of the company directors.

School Children Escape Injuries; Train Riddled

Arrest Swindler Of N. Y. Banks

(By International News Service)
DENVER, Sept. 11.—C. D. Waggoner, small town banker, who is accused of swindling six of New York city's largest financial institutions out of a half million dollars, is in jail at Newcastle, Wyoming today. He was identified by the license plate on his automobile.

The Telluride bank president who had eluded a nation-wide search for more than a week, was arrested at a tourist camp eight miles north of Newcastle last night.

Waggoner calmly declined to discuss the alleged fraud in his bank transactions.

(By International News Service)
LAREDO, Sept. 11.—Although seven hundred rounds of shots were fired into a passenger train running between here and Monterey, Nuevo Leon, Mexico, there were no injuries to passengers on the train, it was reported upon its arrival here today.

One coach was occupied by forty-six children en route from Monterey to schools in New Orleans, was riddled with bullets. The children, however, were not injured when they complied with orders of the conductor to lie flat on the floor of the coach.

The firing took place five kilometers south of Salinas, Nuevo Leon. It is believed that the firing was done in an attempt to halt the train for looting.

Salvation Army Drive Successful

All four teams were busy Tuesday morning raising the local quota for the Salvation Army drive here. Local business firms were reported to have given about the same amount that was contributed last year.

Mr. Pedigo, field man for the Salvation Army, left Tuesday for Rowena and Miles to arrange for drives in those places. He will work with committees in the two towns and as soon as the Miles and Rowena quotas are raised he will go to Winters to finish the campaign in the county. The county quota was set at $750, and indications from the four local committees were that it would be an easy matter to raise it.

The Salvation Army makes an annual drive in each county in the state and after this drive is completed there is no solicitation from this organization for another year. In many places previously there has been complaint because workers have solicited on the streets with tamborines. This kind of solicitation is prohibited by officials of the Salvation Army. However, the workers are allowed to sell "The War Cry," official publication of the organization.

There are no Salvation Army workers living in Ballinger, but a group from San Angelo comes here frequently and holds street services.

SOCIETY

Bridge Club Entertained

Mrs. D. C. Middleton Jr., entertained the members of her bridge club and a few friends who played substitute hands on last Wednesday afternoon.

Roses and asters in bowls and vases added beauty to the attractively furnished interior of the Middleton home on Eighth Street. Dainty tallies marked places for players at the usual four tables.

A delectable salad course with iced tea was passed at the conclusion of the games.

Included were: Mmes. W. R. Bogle, Floyd Carr, Joe Neff, L. R. Tigner, C. W. Cheatham, R. W. Earnshaw, Alex McGregor, Chas. Bailey, C. R. Stone, R. L. Stephenson, J. B. Striplin, W. B. Mrs. I. Vancil is Hostess

Mrs. I. Vancil was hostess to a large group of friends last week when she entertained with parties on Thursday afternoon and Friday evening.

The entire reception suite of this handsome home on Sixth Street was given a beautiful decoration of lovely early fall blossoms. Colorful zinnias, roses, lilies and queen's wreath with ferns and other greenery were used in graceful arrangement throughout the rooms where the games of bridge and forty-two were played with enthusiasm. Game and table accessories featured a yellow and green motif as did the refreshment plate of yellow and green brick cream and angel cake iced in yellow served at tables laid in crepe paper covers in the chosen colors and centered with vases of yellow cosmos.

Guests were met by the hostess who presented the guest of honor, Mrs. Charles Tibbs, of Dallas. Mmes. Delbert Vancil and Ralph Vancil passed guests on to Mmes. Sam Cottle and Troy Simpson who served refreshing fruit punch.

Invitations went to Messrs. and Mmes. Charles Bailey, K. V. Northington, Robert Bruce, F. M. Pearce, A. L. Brady, W. B. Woody, Geo. Holman, W. R. Bogle, Fred Klechle, C. L. Baker, B. W. Denny, R. L. WORK-AWHILE CLUB

The boys' and girls' "Work-Awhile" Club of Rannels community met at 10 a. m., September 3rd, on Mr. Eagan's place. We discussed the main points in judging maize. Then we went through the field, picking out heads that would do to take to the Rannels County Fair. Many of the heads were too green to cut then. We marked these heads and are going back after them pretty soon. We also went to another field and gathered a few heads of maize. Mr. Borders took the maize home with him and fixed it so it would hold its shape. There were only ten members present at this meeting.

DEATH

Mrs. Lula May Munroe

Mrs. Lula May Munroe, age 25 years 1 month and 12 days, died at the family home in South Ballinger Monday, September 9th. The body was shipped to Brownwood Monday afternoon and interment was made in the Salt Creek Cemetery Tuesday.

Mrs. Munroe is survived by her husband, William Munroe, four children, her mother and father, Mr. and Mrs. Dennis, of Brownwood, and other relatives of that place. The body was prepared for burial by King-Holt Company undertakers.

VANITY AND DIETS SAID CAUSE OF TUBERCULOSIS

(By International News Service)

DENVER, Sept. 11.—Woman's vanity, creating a desire to be slender, and the present day diet fads, contribute largely to deaths from tuberculosis, in the opinion of C. L. Newcomb of New York, assistant to the managing director of the National Association of Tuberculosis, who is here to make a survey of the tuberculosis situation.

Despite twenty-five years of effort, Newcomb says, very little has been done to reduce the death rate from the dread disease of women between eighteen and twenty-five years of age. This age he terms the "neglected age."

"This diet fad is ruining the health of a good many women," he declared. "And young women who wear out their energy, already lowered by drastic reducing measures—by dancing and other strenuous pastimes are only aiding the tuberculosis germ."

Newcomb attributes twenty per cent of the deaths of men between the ages of forty-five and fifty years to the same disease, despite the fact that the death rate among men has decreased.

When Food Sours

Lots of folks who think they have "indigestion" have only an acid condition which could be corrected in five or ten minutes. An effective anti-acid like Phillips Milk of Magnesia soon restores digestion to normal.

Phillips does away with all that sourness and gas right after meals. It prevents the distress so apt to occur two hours after eating. What a pleasant preparation to take! And how good it is for the system! Unlike a burning dose of soda—which is but temporary relief at best—Phillips Milk of Magnesia neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

Next time a hearty meal, or too rich a diet has brought on the least discomfort, try—writers who attempt to deal with psychic phenomena for fictional purposes, try to make a case for the genuineness of the phenomena. They seem to think that the story will not stand up under any other method of treatment. Not so with Mrs. Rinehart, who, on various occasions, has shown originality and method in her own which have gained her a high place among American readers.

Without the psychic elements this would be just another mystery, interesting by the skill of the author, but not especially remarkable in any other respect; but under a treatment which she gives to the psychic characteristics, it becomes a story to think about. She does not try to incite or to believe in spiritism, neither does she try to show that all mankind in that line are the result of fully devised trickery. She is the open mind. She is not one who is convinced by charlatanisms nor, on the other hand, one to assert that the human soul has been or all the hidden resources of the human mind developed. She is to be enlightened and seems to believe that eventually will provide the enlightenment is the spirit in which the psychic phenomena into a story.

same as when, under stress of violent excitement or in the peaceful interludes, I went to it as one goes to a friend, secure against betrayal. In the main it remains as it was, the daily history of that strange series of events which culminated so dramatically on the night of September 10 in the paneled room of the main house at Twin Hollows.

Of this house itself, since it figures so largely in the narrative, a few words should be said. The main portion of it, the hall which extended from the terrace toward the sea through the rear and the drive, the paneled den and the large library in front of it are very old. To this portion, in the seventies, had been added across the hall by some long forgotten builder a dining room opposite the library and facing the sea, pantries, kitchen, laundry, and beyond the laundry a nondescript room originally built as a gun room and still containing the gun cases on the walls.

In the rebuilding considerable judgment had been shown, and the broad white structure, with its colonial columns to the roof, makes a handsome appearance from the bay. A place restful and beautiful to the eye; a gentleman's home, with its larkspurs and zinnias, its roses and its sundial, its broad terrace, its great sheltered porch and its old panelling. But it stands idle. It will, so long as I live, always stand idle.

Of my Uncle Horace, who also figures largely in the Journal, a few words are necessary. He was born in 1818 and graduated from this university with the class of '70. He had died suddenly in June of the year before the Journal takes up the narrative, presumably of cardiac asthma, from which he had long suffered. A and marches him onto the field, and then becomes slightly sulky with me when I laugh!

A curious woman, Jane. . . . So another year is over, and what have I to show for it? A small addition to my account in the savings bank, a volume or two of this uneventful diary, some hundreds of men who perhaps know the Cavalier Poets and perhaps not, and some few who have now an inkling that English literature did not begin with Shakespeare.

What have I to look forward to? Three months of uneventful summering, perhaps at Twin Hollows—if Larkin ever gets the estate settled—and then the old round again.

Yet I am not so much discontented as afraid of sinking into a lethargy of smug loneliness. It is bad for the soul to cease to expect grapes of a thistle, for the next stage is to be "old and a cynic; a carrion crow," like the old man in "Prince Otto," with rotten eggs the burthen of my song.

June 17.

After all, security has its points. I am the object of a certain amount of suspicion today on the part of my household! There is no place in the world, I imagine, for a philosopher with a sense of humor, a new leisure, and an inquiring turn of mind! These are times of action. Men think and then act; sometimes, indeed, they simply act.

But a philosopher, of course, should only think. . . .

During some nine months of the year I bring home to Jane from the lecture room the mere husk of a man; exhausted with the endeavor to implant one single thought into a brain where it will germinate, I sink into my easy chair and accept the life of my household. Tea, Dinner, a book, Bed. And this is my life. My existence, rather.

It dawns on a man now and then that he knows very little about his wife. He knows, of course, the surface attributes of her mind, her sense of order—Jane is orderly—her thrift, and Jane is thrifty. She has had to be! But it came to me suddenly that I knew very little of Jane, after all.

I am sometimes aware that she possesses certain qualities I do not possess. For example, it would be impossible for me to imagine, as Jane did on "Class day," that I saw Uncle Horace. But it is equally impossible for me to deny that she did see Uncle Horace, and there has been a certain subtle change in her since which convulses me of her sincerity.

What then, I considered, is the difference between Jane's mind and my own? She has some curious ability, which she hides like one of the seven deadly sins, and which makes her at times a difficult person with whom to live.

Take that incident when she wakened me at seven o'clock and said she had seen Uncle Horace lying dead on the floor of the library at Twin Hollows.

"Dreams," I said drowsily, "are simply wish fulfillments. Go on back to bed, my dear. The old boy's all right."

"I wasn't asleep," she said quietly. "And you will have a telephone message soon telling you I was not."

And so true was this that she had hardly ceased speaking before Annie Cochran called up to tell us she had found him, at seven o'clock, dead on the library floor.

(Note: In preparing these notes for publication one thing occurs to me very strongly, and that is this: It is curious that my wife's vision, or whatever it may be called, did not occur until some hours after the death. If there came some mental call to her, why not when he was in extremis? Not only would it have helped us greatly in the mystery which was so soon to develop, but it would have been more true to the usual type of such phenomena.)

In this case, if we are to admit anything but coincidence, it is easier to accept the fact that we are dealing with mental telepathy. In other words, that the servant Annie Cochran, who actually found the body at seven in the morning, at once thought of Jane and so flashed the scene to her.

But I admit that this is merely explaining one mystery with another.)

What portion of Jane went to Twin Hollows and found Uncle Horace on the floor?

It was an interesting thought, and I played with it out of sheer joy in idleness. The Jane then, whom I could reach out and touch at night, might only be the shell of Jane, while the real Jane might be off on some spirit adventure of her own! I considered what I could do to solve the mystery. I had seen her in the past, what ever that may be, and she was deeply at my disposal. She is Scotch, and the Scots sometimes claim what is called "second sight." I know that in her heart she believes she has this curious gift. She was, they say, a queer child, seeing and hearing things unseen and unheard by others. And I know she fears and hates it; it is somehow irreligious to her.

But—has she?

No immediate answer being forthcoming, I consulted the dictionary on clairvoyance, and found that it was the faculty of being able to perceive objects without the customary use of the senses.

It was "vision without eyes."

But if Jane can see without her eyes, if she can perceive objects not visible to those of us who depend on the usual senses, then is one to admit that she saw Uncle Horace, head of said she did, marching at the head of his class procession last Tuesday?

gentleman and a scholar, an essential solitary, there had been no real intimacy between us. Once in awhile I passed a week-end in the country with him, and until the summer of his narrative, my chief memory of him had been of a rather small and transient elderly gentleman, with the dry sharp cough of the heart sufferer, pacing the terrace beneath my window at night in the endless search of the asthmatic for air, and smok- ing for relief some particularly obnoxious brand of herbal cigarette.

Until the summer of the narra- tive.

"All houses in which men have lived and suffered and died are haunted houses," I have written somewhere in the Journal. And if thoughts are entities, which may impress themselves on their surroundings, perhaps this is true.

But dare I go further? Restate my conviction at the time that the solution of our crimes had been facilitated by assistance from some unseen source? And that having achieved its purpose, this force forthwith de- parted from us? I do not know.

The X remains unsolved.

But I admit that more than once during the recent editing of this Jour- nal for publication I have wakened at night covered with a cold sweat from a dream in which I am once more standing in the den of the house at Twin Hollows, the red lamp lighted behind me, and am looking out into the hall at a dim figure standing at the foot of the staircase.

A figure which could not possibly be there. But was there.

Commencement week is over at last, thank heaven. Usual reunions of old boys, with porters staggering under the suitcases, which seem to grow heavier each year.

Nevertheless, the very old 'uns al- ways give me a lump in the throat, and I fancy there was a considerable amount of globus hystericus as the class of '70 marched onto the Field on Class day. Only eight of them this year, Uncle Horace being missing. Poor old boy!

Which reminds me that Jane thought she saw him with the others as they marched in. Wonderful woman, Jane! No imagination ordinarily, meticulous mind and only a faint sense of humor. Yet she drags poor old Horace out of his rear-old grave

The cold spell has sent many a straw hat to the closet for the winter and the coat and wool hat
have been brought out of storage.
Many business men were shivering around in their shirt sleeves
Monday afternoon, their top coats having been left at home. The snappy weather caused a number of gas stoves to be used for the first time this fall and gave merchants an inspiration to start pushing the sale of fall clothing.

ARE YOU READY?

It is less than one month until Ballinger will put on her "glad rags" and prepare to entertain the citizens of this territory at the Russell County Fair. A great amount of work towards putting over a successful fair has already been accomplished. The premium list and catalog has been published, the grandstand attractions booked, community exhibits lined up, carnival and midway attractions booked, and a number of other preliminaries pushed out of the way. However, there is still a great deal undone,
and it is the unfinished business that is most important. The official opening of the fair each year is heralded by a decorated car parade. Floats entered in the first fair parade were beautiful and numerous. The following two years saw a drop in the number entered, and besides school classes few had entries. The schools then decided to drop out until the local merchants showed more interest, with the result that last year's procession was a "frost." If this opening means anything and crowds are attracted here at that time of day, local citizens must get behind the proposition and enter cars that will draw attention to their beauty or novelty.
Many claim they cannot arrange for a car, but with the number of used cars held by auto dealers it should be an easy matter to secure a car.

Another event that always draws one of the largest crowds of the fair is the style show or pageant. This matter should be decided on now and give time for the best plans to be worked out if such an affair is to be presented.

Then there is the scheduled daily parade. Nothing takes people to the fair grounds like a parade, but these affairs should be thought about well in advance and not gone at in a haphazard manner.

A number of the booths in the merchants' exposition building have been the same almost every year. Each firm that buys space in this building should be thinking up a new and novel display to make his booth more attractive. Merchants change their show windows in front of their stores, and these booths are an extension of that idea. No progressive merchant would think of using a window exactly like he had a year ago, no matter how much interest it drew before.

The way to keep a fair growing and improving is for all the citizens to keep working for its suc-

New Madge Bellamy Coming in Latest Picture

Admirers of pretty Madge Bellamy are going to have a real surprise and a pleasing one when they see her in her current production for Fox Films, "Mother Knows Best," a picturization of the internationally famous story
by Edna Ferber.

Hitherto Miss Bellamy has been a very excellent light comedy por-trayer and exponent of the art of being well dressed without much clothes.

In "Mother Knows Best" Miss Bellamy is called upon to run the whole gamut of human emotions and it is a tribute to her own art and the careful direction of John Blystone that she proves a revelation.

Louise Dresser, whose charm and art are akin to her popular-character will be presented with a complete description.

Musical numbers will be rendered before and during the entertainment. Admission for the play will be 15 cents for children and 35 cents for adults.

Controlled Servo Enclosed brakes

unrivalled for smooth, sure, silent operation in any weather . . .

To Buick, pioneer of four-wheel brakes,
now falls the distinction of another major achievement in this same vital field: the development and introduction of Buick Controlled Servo Enclosed Brakes—the most effective four-wheel braking system ever devised for any automobile!

Buick's new brakes are of the highly efficient internal-expanding type. They are fully enclosed—fully protected against dust, dirt and water—and thus assure maximum braking effectiveness under all weather conditions.

They represent the highest development of the self-energizing principle, which makes the car's own motion provide part of the braking effort. They reveal unmatched responsiveness to the slightest pedal pressure. And they are so perfectly controlled that "grabbing" is entirely unknown! When you apply these brakes, you obtain the most positive, as well as the smoothest and most silent action you have ever experienced in any automobile!

Drive the new Buick! Test not only its matchless new brakes but its brilliant all-round performance, riding comfort and driving ease—all of which combine to establish the new Buick as the greatest value ever offered in the fine car field!

Tobacco Men to Try Experiment in Crop Sales

By Henry Lescoe

(International News Staff Correspondent) RALEIGH, N. C., Sept. 11.—The vast tobacco growing areas of North Carolina, which last year sold a total of $37,637,545 pounds at an average price of $18.78 per hundred will come a new experiment this season—the grading of tobacco by department of agriculture experts in advance of the auction sale.

According to an announcement by the State Department of Agriculture, the experiment being carried on at Goldsboro in the eastern section of the state.

This tobacco center is in what is known as the New Bright Belt, one of the largest of the Carolina tobacco areas which opens September 24.

Grading of the crop will be done in the warehouse first in the order in which the crop is brought in, the heaviest showing the name of the grower, the weight of the lot and other details. When the sale starts the buyers are permitted to take the color, weight and quality of the leaf from its entire crop.

Lawyer with the inauguration of the grading method every lot of tobacco will be carefully examined and a uniform price set.

Four weeks have been set for the experiment. It will be carried on in the Goldsboro area, which is the largest of the tobacco areas in the state. The experiment will be carried on in the Goldsboro area, which is the largest of the tobacco areas in the state.

conditions, and the texture weight and quality increased by the experiment.

The department of agriculture has appropriated $6,000 to carry out this experiment, which was made on a small scale on some of the Virginia markets last year. The new method of grading was said to have proven very popular in the Old Dominion with the growers and warehousemen alike, as it meant larger earnings for the warehouses and fewer chances to be farmer.

Has the laxative in your home a family doctor's approval? MOST of us value our health too much to purposely neglect ourselves when we are warned of constipation by bad breath, feverishness, biliousness, a headache, lack of appetite, or that weak, helpless feeling. The continuation of our trouble is more often due to the things we do rather than the things we leave undone. Some things people do to help the bowels really weaken these organs. Only a doctor knows what things will cleanse the system without harm. That's why the laxative in your home should have a family doctor's approval. A wonderful product now known to millions of people as Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a family doctor's prescription for sluggish bowels. It never varies from the original prescription which Dr. Caldwell wrote thousands of times in his many years of practice at Monticello, Illinois. He proved it safe and reliable for women and children; thoroughly effective for the most robust men. He showed it actually corrects constipation. It is made from fresh herbs and other pure ingredients. Since Dr. Caldwell first permitted his prescription to be put up in bottles and sold through drug stores, it has increased steadily in popularity until today it is the largest selling laxative in the world!
