El Paso Man Kills Wife, Son; Takes Own Life

(By Associated Press)
EL PASO, Sept. 11.—George W. Cook, 52, local business man, shot and killed his wife and son, George W., Jr., 7, then shot himself to death here early today.

Mrs. Cook and the little boy were asleep when the slaying was done. An adopted baby daughter, Betty, and Mrs. Margaret Lowe, a distant relative, were in the house at the time but were not harmed.

Officers are unable to account for the tragedy.

Cook had been the active head of an electrical business here for many years.

Pre-School P.-T. A. Is Formed in City

Mothers of pre-school children met Wednesday afternoon at the high school auditorium for the purpose of organizing a separate Parent-Teacher association. After the meeting was called to order the matter was discussed by the mothers present and it was the consensus of opinion that an organization be formed and a membership campaign be staged.

As soon as it was voted to organize the club went into the election of officers with the following being named for the ensuing year: Mrs. R. W. Earnshaw, president; Mrs. W. B. Woody, vice-president; Mrs. Chas. F. Miller, Jr., secretary; and Mrs. O. R. O'Neil, treasurer.

The new organization will meet once each month selecting the fourth Wednesday in the month as the meeting day, sessions to be held in the high school auditorium. Each member accepted an appointment on a membership committee and will try to bring as many new members as possible to the meetings.

One feature discussed and adopted which will cause better attendance was arranging so that mothers can leave their babies with an attendant on meeting days. The children will be brought to the meeting and a room where they will be attended to and allowed to play under a mothers' supervision while the members hold their session.

Dues were set at 50 cents per year and the association will affiliate with the national and state organization at once. Any mother of pre-school children who desires to become a member of the organization is welcome and wanted in the new P.-T. A. "Character Building" will be the main topic for this year. The club adopted this course sent out by the national association and will begin next month on the study.

Mrs. Joe Simmons, county extension chairman, has been interested in this movement for some time and called a meeting a week ago to discuss with local mothers whether they wanted to organize. She was very much pleased with the response shown at the meeting Wednesday and feels that the new organization will grow in numbers and carry a great work here.

TO COMBAT PRAIRIE DOGS IN BROWN CO.

A representative from the government department for the eradication of rodents will be in Brownwood Wednesday for the purpose of assisting in removing prairie dogs from the county.

Fights have been made before to rid the county of these pests to the farmers, but recently there have been two or three of the dog towns started and the fight will be directed in those sections. Poisoned grain will be used to kill the prairie dogs, it is said.

Farmers who have these animals on their farm, or anyone who is bothered with the pests and has not reported it to the county agent's office should do so at once and procure the poisoned grain for killing the same rodents, it is stated.—Brownwood Bulletin.

Local Buyers Pay 10.65 for Cotton

Ballinger cotton buyers were paying as high as 10.65 cents per pound for cotton the street Wednesday afternoon. The market closed a little up, Thursday morning was slightly lower, but expected to rise during the day.

Ballinger has one of the best markets of any concentration point in Texas this year, in many places cotton bringing less than in this city. Ten buyers operate here daily. Five home firms and five representatives of ten large exporters spend the entire season in Ballinger and offer every penny the staple is worth.

The buyers are anxious to handle every bale of cotton possible and with the high market offered here cotton is being attracted to Ballinger from distant points.

For many years Ballinger has had a reputation for buying much cotton and paying all the market would allow. Local buyers are striving to maintain this reputation this year and feel that every transaction is one that will bring additional cotton producers here to market their crops.

The Runnels county crop will be short this year and most of it will be handled in the next two months. During that time and until the season is concluded in this section an attractive market and courteous treatment will be found here.

County Ginnings 405 Up to Sept. 1

Cotton ginnings in Runnels county prior to September 1st this year totalled 405 bales. This is far short of the number of bales ginned in 1929 when on the same date county ginnings showed a total of 2,234. Practically all cotton in the county is later this year than last and also has been retarded by dry weather.

The ginning report was made Thursday at noon by W. A. Esmond, who keeps a check on the county turn-out for the federal department of agriculture. Mr. Esmond was in receipt of the official announcement for publication from Washington.

Cotton now is beginning to move faster here and by the latter part of this month farmers will be busy in every section gathering the crop. Ginnings for September will run fairly high with October probably the biggest month this season.

Paving On Gap is Started Thursday

The McCarty Construction Company began pouring concrete on Hutchings Avenue Thursday morning and will continue to push the work until completed. A paving machine has been in position for several days, the first block excavated and ready to receive the cement. Steel for reinforcement did not arrive as soon as expected but Wednesday afternoon a large shipment came in and no time was lost in delivering it to the location.

Most of the preliminary work has been finished and no further delays will be experienced in getting the 30-foot strip of roadbed in shape for the paver. Trucks began hauling material early Thursday morning and with a short trip to make it will require only a few trucks to keep the mixer running at full speed.

The contract calls for this stretch of pavement to be open to the public by October 1st. This can be accomplished if weather conditions permit and with nothing remaining to be done but pour the concrete continuous good headway can be made daily.

The McCarty company has good equipment on the location with plenty of experienced men in charge to operate at top speed.

7,000 Car Plates for Runnels County

(By Associated Press)
LLANO, Tex., Sept. 11.—Charles Walker, 45, was shot to death while operating a tractor on the streets here today.

Ray Click, cedar dealer, surrendered to the officers and was placed in jail to await examining trial. No reason for the killing was given.

The fatal shot was fired from a rifle.

W. L. Brown, county tax collector, received an invoice Wednesday for the new 1931 automobile plates for Runnels county. The plates will arrive here about October 1st and any time after December 1st car owners can pay licenses and receive their new numbers.

These plates should not be attached to motor vehicles before January 1st and not later than February 1st. In fact it is a violation of the law to do so but those desiring to avoid the final rush can secure their plates any time after December 1st and lay them aside until January.

Numbers given to this county for 1931 begin at K 7-5601 and run to K 8-2600. Seven thousand passenger-car license plates have been shipped to the county collector's office for the ensuing year, or slightly more than the number of automobiles usually registered here in a year.

Mr. Brown stated that the county tax rolls would soon be completed for this year and turned over to his office for collection. County Tax Assessor M. C. Boyd with an efficient office staff is working on the rolls and making excellent headway. Assessments have been completed for the year and the rolls soon will be ready for the collector.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Lusk went to Coleman Thursday morning for a visit with their son, George Lusk.

Colton in Runnels county growing early in the season is making a yield of around half a bale to the acre in many places. This goes to prove the value of irrigation. Runnels county land is as good as can be found in the South, producing bounteously when moisture is available, and some day the possibility of irrigating a large area from the Colorado River will be a reality.

Another construction job began here Thursday morning when the mixer commenced pouring concrete on Hutchings Avenue. Still another contract which probably will be let at the October meeting of the state highway commission is for the road from Ballinger to the Coleman county line. This work will begin about the time other construction jobs are being completed and will furnish employment for a number of men.

The strip of pavement in the city connecting the downtown paving with highway 30 at the Colorado River is an important traffic link but the thoroughfare has been difficult to maintain. The old roadbed was gravel on a crushed rock foundation and could hardly be taken care of with available city machinery. Holes which wore into the street could be doctored only by the not very satisfactory method of pouring loose dirt into them.

Ablene visitors here Wednesday were fair in their attitude towards local business. Speakers who addressed the crowds invited Ballinger citizens to attend the West Texas Fair but made it clear that they were not on a business soliciting trip. They urged local people to buy everything they needed in Ballinger if it could be obtained here and to keep Ballinger money at home. This has been preached for years and years but just what good has been accomplished is problematical. Some people have a mania for shopping in another town. Regardless of what they want they like to search through some nice catalogue or spend a day away from home and business in another town selecting some article that in most cases can be had from a local merchant for less money. Traveling salesmen build up regular business in every town and regardless of what competition is furnished locally we have merchants who save orders for them. We know, because it has been our desire to sell printing to every firm in Ballinger for many years and we are now no nearer that goal than ever before.

Four amendments to the constitution will be voted up in the general election in November. Practically everybody who goes to the polls will cast a ballot for or against these amendments and only a small per cent of the voters will know whether they are good or bad. Most voters will never read them and a large majority will give them no thought in case they do read them. Any amendment to the constitution is important and citizens should take the time and trouble to study them in order to vote intelligently.

PLANE SWIMMING POOL

By Marv Graham Bonner

John and Peggy and the Little Black Clock got into the plane that had just landed.

It was very, very large. In fact they could walk about in it as though it were a big train.

It was leaving the ground right away, and as they flew up in the air the Little Black Clock said:

"You haven't seen the swimming pool as yet, and that is what you have come to see."

They followed the Little Black Clock along the corridor of the plane. How glad they were that the Little Black Clock could turn the time forward when they could see such a wonderful plane with a swimming pool right in it.

The pilot had bathing suits for them and John and Peggy jumped into the pool and swam around. The Little Black Clock watched them. They knew that he didn't care about swimming. But he was nice in the way that he suggested things for them to do whether he liked doing them or not.

They could look out of the windows surrounding the pool and now and again they passed a beautiful fluffy cloud.

"Doesn't it seem strange?" John asked.

"Now if we looked out and saw fishes it wouldn't seem so funny," Peggy said. "But to look out and see a cloud is certainly queer."

The Little Black Clock looked out of the windows too, but mostly he watched the way John and Peggy could swim.

They seemed to swim even better than they had the last time he had watched them, and he thought it was wonderful the way they didn't mind ducking their heads.

They swam and swam and swam, and most of the time they forgot they were swimming in a pool in a plane.

"You'd better get dressed now," the Clock said, after quite a time had passed. "The pilot has a supper all prepared for us."

And then they realized they were quite hungry!

HOW'S your HEALTH

Made by DR. IAGO GALSTON

RUSTY NAILS

Common belief has it that if you step on a rusty nail you are liable to develop lockjaw (Tetanus).

As with many other common beliefs, the major facts in it are wrong, though the basis of the belief is understandable.

In themselves, neither wounds caused by nails nor rust can produce lockjaw. For lockjaw, or Tetanus, follows only upon introduction and the development within the body of the germ of lockjaw or Tetanus.

Frequently, however, rusty or dirt-covered nails do carry the germ of tetanus, for this germ is common in the soil—particularly in the vicinity of cowbarns and stables.

One other reason why the wound caused by a nail, or for that matter, any dirt-contaminated puncture wound, may lead to the development of Tetanus is that the injury usually is of the penetrating rather than the cutting type.

When a cutting object inflicts a wound it usually causes the tissues to gape. The wound is, relatively speaking, wide open.

It bleeds easily and the bleeding tends to wash out the dirt and the bacteria that may have entered the wound.

If an antiseptic is applied to the injured part, it has little difficulty in reaching deeply into the exposed tissues.

Such a wound also is open to the air, and germs of course do not thrive when exposed to air and sunlight.

The puncture wound, on the other hand, the type caused by a needle, nail or penetrating object, is of a distinctly different type.

While it reaches into the flesh, it does not tear the skin. When it is withdrawn the skin draws together over it, and whatever foreign material may have been introduced into the wound is bottled up within it.

Within such a wound germs can thrive and multiply.

BROWNWOOD STORE BUYS A BALE COTTON

A bale of cotton was purchased this morning by the C. E. Stone store here and the price paid for the cotton was 2 cents above market price. The cotton was purchased from J. B. Read, farmer of near Bangs. The purchase of this cotton is only a step started by the entire Stone organization in the "buy-a-bale movement" started by Gov. Moody according to C. J. Lewis, local manager. With each of the Stone stores purchasing a bale it will take a total of 34 bales off the market and all at prices higher than the market.—Brownwood Bulletin.

Lineup Announced For Opening Game

Football fans will have their first opportunity Friday afternoon to see the 1930-31 Bearcats in action. The game with Paint Rock will be called at Fair Park promptly at 4:00 o'clock with Referee R. W. Earnshaw blowing the whistle to play ball. Captain Jolly Reese will raise his hand for the Bearcat eleven to show that they are ready for the initial play.

Captain Felton Wright was encouraged Thursday over the prospects for this season and declared that while the boys were not in shape yet that he expected great development in the near future and believed that the team would be ready to meet the climaxes before any hard games. One more backfield man is needed badly to round out the eleven and such a recruit desires to attend Ballinger high school provided he can secure work that will help with his expenses.

The probable line-up to start Friday's game is as follows:
 Straley, left guard
 Reese, center
 McWilliams, L. right guard
 Middleton, right tackle
 Reneau, right end
 Patridge, quarterback
 Jones, fullback
 Flynt, halfback
 McWilliams, D. halfback
 Others whom the coach expects to send into the game Friday are G. Jones, E. Smith, Jacobs, Dodson, Duncan, Lynn and Marsh. In case of an easy game other reserves may see service but according to reports the Bearcats will have no easy sailing in the opening game.

The pep squad under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Parker will be present to yell like they did last year when the husky Bearcats went all the way undefeated. The admission will be 25 cents for students and 50 cents for adults. It is hoped that the side lines will be filled with fans and a good beginning will be great encouragement to the team this season.

Officials besides Earnshaw as referee have not been selected. Paint Rock probably will furnish an umpire and headlinemen, and timekeepers will be selected here Friday.

Paint Rock is a member of the state interscholastic league and belongs in the west portion of district 11. The game is very important for an early season upset would mean that Ballinger would be out of the running for the entire season. Sometimes teams fail to develop much offensive punch in early games but the Bearcats realize that they have something at stake in Friday's game and with the help of the pep squad and fans they will fight to hang up a victory. Paint Rock players are big and it will not be an easy matter to score over what is rated a good defensive club.

Amusements

Miss Del Rio Reguish Coquette in "The Bad One"

The last of the silent screen stars to succumb to the lure of talking pictures is the winsome Dolores Del Rio who appears at the Palace Theatre here tomorrow in a United Artists' special, "The Bad One," with Edmund Lowe. The engagement is for two days—Friday and Saturday.

Miss Del Rio, who earned one of the highest places of honor on the silent pantomimic screen, makes a sensational return in the new all-sound medium. The story of "The Bad One" is laid in the roistering waterfront district of Marseilles, France, where the star as dancer and singer is employed in a cafe catering to sailors and dock workers. The star's characterization is the most animated of her sensational career, excelling, according to expert opinion, her vivid impersonations of the vixenish Charmaine in "What Price Glory?" when she first teamed with Edmund Lowe.

Miss Del Rio's screen job in "The Bad One" is to entertain the cosmopolitan gathering in the cafe and to see to it that wine glasses are never empty for long. Since she gets a commission on the amount of wine she personally sells, she sells a lot of it. She is seen in the picture as a mischievous coquette, smiling equally upon all men and outwardly seeming to love them all, though her heart remains unassailable. She is the woman whom no man can conquer; Lowe is the swaggering American sailor who conquers them all.

The picture plot runs through an amazing series of humorous adventures, emphasized with sparkling dialogue. The prison revolt scene of "The Bad One" is one of the most thrilling episodes filmed since the demise of the silent films.

"The Bad One," produced and directed by George Fitzmaurice, boasts an extraordinary supporting cast which includes Don Alvarado, George Fawcett, Ulrich Haupt, Yola D'Avril, Blanche Friderici, Adrienne d'Ambricourt and many others.

"Framed," Radio Pictures' Drama Proves Outstanding Hit

Bringing to the screen one of the most ingenious and thrilling stories since the advent of talking pictures, "Framed," all-talking drama, gave opening day audiences something to grow excited about yesterday at the Palace Theatre. The picture concludes its run tonight.

George Archinbaud, the director, has taken his cameras into the very heart of the underworld and gives his audience the most intimate contact with romance, intrigue and hatred of gangland. It is without doubt the best story of its type yet seen here on the screen. Gorgeous costumes, mammoth sets, shifting mobs and the destruction of a beautiful supper club by raiding officers of the law leave impressions that cannot be quickly forgotten.

Evelyn Brent superbly enacts the role of the slain gangster's daughter who has vowed vengeance for his unnecessary death. Admirably adapted for this type of role, Miss Brent rises to new heights in "Framed." A new type of screen "heavy" is introduced by Ralf Harold, legitimate stage layer who scores sensationally in his first motion picture role.

Regis Toomey, who has had a steady rise to popularity starting with his remarkable work in "Alibi," is seen at his best in "Framed." In fact, the cast throughout is more than competent, good performances by William Holden, Maurice Black and Robert Emmet O'Conner also standing out.

(By Associated Press)
 LAMESA, Sept. 11.—The board of directors of the Lamesa Chamber of Commerce has decided that the names of all Dawson county property owners giving land for the right-of-way of the proposed 333-mile Panhandle railway, planned by the Texas & Pacific Northern Railway company, would be placed on a scroll and placed in a Lamesa Hall of Fame.

The route, running from Big Spring through Lamesa north to Vega, with connections into Amarillo and Lubbock, will receive the whole-hearted cooperation from this city and county, members of the board said. A central railway committee, headed by W. W. Evans, has been named from members of the chamber of commerce to aid the company in securing statistics and data for construction.

The Lamesa Lions Club in a resolution passed unanimously also voted their cooperation in the club will undertake to see that the troops receive proper supervision and direction.

West Texas Fair Offering Big Bill

ABILENE, Sept. 11.—More than $10,000 in premiums and purses are being offered in the livestock and agricultural exhibits in the West Texas Fair which is to be held in Abilene from Sept. 29 to Oct. 4, inclusive. These departments promise to be larger and more interesting than ever before. Many entries have already been received in the livestock department from some of the most outstanding herds of the Southwest.

In the women's department every effort is being made to secure attractive exhibits. A specialty is being made of curios and antiques, in addition to the textile and culinary departments. The art displays will contain paintings from the most famous artists of the South.

These paintings will be displayed in special settings and will offer one of the largest and most attractive exhibits in the West Texas Fair.

A number of nationally known cowboys have signified their intention of participating in the rodeo which will be staged on October 1, 2 and 3. This rodeo is being held under the supervision of men experienced in this particular kind of attraction and will doubtless be one of the largest and most successful shows of the kind ever held in this section of the state. Each morning there will be a parade through the downtown section of the city in which cowboys and cowgirls attired in fancy costumes will take part. Entries in the rodeo are open to the world.

Two days, Monday and Saturday will be given over to football in which the leading high school teams of West Texas are to participate. These particular teams are strong contenders for the state championship each year and will doubtless put plenty of pep and enthusiasm in their play. On Tuesday the leading motorcycle riders of the country will meet in a series of hotly contested races on the West Texas Fair speedway which is conceded to be the fastest track in the entire southwest. A number of these riders are now in the east competing in national races.

A novel addition this year will be the terrapin derby in which from 3,500 to 5,000 trained racing terrapins will take part. Indications are that the entries will be very heavy in this event which will mean large purses. It is estimated that the purse will amount to from $3,000 to $4,000 for the several events.

Chief among the attractions at night will be Ernie Young's gala revue, "Spanish Nights," a highly entertaining show. This will be given before the grandstand each night and is free on all days except Friday nights. On that night Ernie Young presents his wedding number. A legal wedding will be held in which some local couple will be married. The costumes are very gorgeous and the entire setting will be the most beautiful ever seen in West Texas. Ernie Young is one of the best known producers and his numbers are always well received.

The Lachman-Carson carnival will be on the midway all the week. Their shows contain a large array of the exhibits and curiosities seen in this type of clean entertainment.

Each of the departments and the shows are under the direction of the best talent that could be found and it is expected that this fourteenth fair will be one of the most successful held so far, in spite of the hard times.

TEXAS WOMAN SAW ANDREE LEAVE ON ILL-FATED TRIP

(By Associated Press)
PORT ARTHUR, Sept. 11.—A Texas woman was among the thousands who waved farewell 33 years ago to the ill-starred Andree balloon expedition to the north pole.

Mrs. L. H. Larson of Port Arthur, then Miss Sophie Borsum of Norway, stood in the vast crowd at the Oslo flying field when Salomon Andree, Knut Frankel and Nils Strindberg floated away to die in the north.

"It," she said, "was a beautiful day, the day Andree sailed off. I had come to the field early in order not to miss any of the activities. I had seen Andree take off before on a trial flight and I felt I must wave farewell to these intrepid airmen who were attempting to blaze a trail into the unknown polar regions.

"Although I have forgotten many of the details, I still can see Andree and his companions waving from their little wicker basket as the balloon took the air and headed north."

Drought Robs Fish of Oxygen

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Sept. 11.—(AP)—Drought is bad even for fish, says Wendell Krull, specialist in diseases of fish at the University of Michigan. It robs the fish of some of their oxygen and breeds the bacteria which give them diseases.
