Veterans Rush Office of Bureau Granting Loans

(By Associated Press)
DALLAS, Feb. 28.—The mobilization rush of 1918 had a peacetime counterpart today in the rush all over the land of veterans to borrow fifty per cent of their adjusted compensation certificates authorized yesterday by congress. More than 20,000 ex-service men stormed the fifty-four regional offices of the United States veterans' bureau in the first hour. About 800 men awaited the opening of the bureau office here. American Legion post offices in Ft. Worth and Houston receiving applications for loans were swamped.

The first applications for veterans' loans were filled out here Friday afternoon a short time after word was flashed here to The Daily Ledger that the Senate had passed the bill over the president's veto. All Ballinger banks and Service Officer M. C. Atkins are assisting veterans in filing for loans. The banks have a good supply of blanks on hand and can give full details to applicants how to proceed.

Local Legionnaires estimated Saturday that 75 per cent of the World War veterans in Runnels county would secure the full amount of the loan. Many who are not in dire need will borrow on their certificates at the cheap rate of interest and retire debts bearing a higher rate. Loans here will run from $100 to slightly above $750 and is expected to place approximately $250,000 in circulation in this county. There are about 800 former service men in the county holding policies that will average about $1,000 each. Some of these already have received loans up to about 22 1/2 per cent and will not be able to get more than an additional 27 1/2 per cent of the face of their certificates.

The United States veterans bureau paid the first application Friday, one minute after the bill became a law, and more than 100 loans were approved and paid the first hour after passage of the measure. Veterans were lined up at banks and veterans' offices in many cities, seeking to file. From Ballinger the applications will be sent to different places. Banks handling loans will send them to banks in the East while those taken by officers of the Pat Williams Post here will be sent to the U. S. veterans bureau at Dallas. As soon as approved checks will be mailed to the veterans for the amount called for in the applications.

A certificate must have been held by the veteran at least two years before he is eligible to file for a loan. It is estimated that this will affect about 5 per cent of the policy holders in this section of the state. Most of the adjusted compensation certificates are dated January 1, 1925, but a small number have been issued every year since and some are still making application for

Italians Agree to Five-Power Pact

(By Associated Press)
ROME, Feb. 28.—The Italian government today announced acceptance of the British proposals permitting Italy's full adhesion to the London naval treaty. The French government had previously accepted the British proposals.

The adhesion of the Italian and French governments to the London treaty, reached a year ago by the United States, Japan and Great Britain, means a five-power pact instead of a three-power pact, the action apparently postponing the Franco-Italian controversy to 1936 when the entire pact comes up for review.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—Senator Hiram Johnson, Republican insurgent, of California, today charged that the Hoover administration had blocked every effort to build the United States navy to terms of the London naval treaty.

Senator Johnson is urging a naval academy on the Pacific coast.

Indian Party Not To Agree to Terms

(By Associated Press)
NEW DELHI, India, Feb. 28.—The Indian congress party's working committee today voted to reject the viceroy's proposals for a compromise settlement of the party's demands.

It was said all hopes of settlement of the difference between the congress party and the government over the status of India were virtually abandoned by the party tonight.

Air Race Winner Projects World Flight in Eight Days

This route for a glabe-girdling flight is planned by Wiley Post (above) Oklahoma City flier. He hopes to make the trip in eight days.

By Oscar Leiding (Associated Press Aviation Editor)
OKLAHOMA CITY, Feb. 28.—A flight around the world to lower the record of the Graf Zeppelin to eight days is planned for the spring by Wiley Post, Oklahoma City aviator.

Using the same Lockheed monoplane with which he won the non-stop Los Angeles-Chicago derby of the national air races in August, he expects to start May 20, or the first day thereafter when North Atlantic flying conditions are favorable.

Oklahoma City has been established tentatively as the starting point, Post said, pending completion of arrangements for a prize to be given if the 20-day record of the Graf Zeppelin is beaten. The itinerary is planned to carry Post, with a co-pilot and a navigator, from the home base at Harbor Grace, Newfoundland; thence to Berlin, Moscow, Irkutsk, Siberia; Tokyo, Petropavlovsk, Nome, Alaska; Seattle and Oklahoma City.

The cabin monoplane, in which the flier covered the 1,760-mile derby route in nine hours, nine minutes, and four seconds, has a single Wasp motor and will be fitted to have a cruising range of 3,000 miles, Post says.

Both the co-pilot and himself, he says, will complete training in blind flying "to a proficiency that is at least equal to that arrived at by anyone else so far."

He did not reveal the names of his crew, but said the flight will be backed by F. C. Hall of Oklahoma City, and that the venture is fully financed and assured. The itinerary is similar to the one mapped by John Henry Mears, veteran globe trotter, who circled the world in 35 days, 21 hours, and 36 minutes in 1913. In 1928, with the last Captain C. B. D. Collyer, he lowered the mark to 23 days, 15 hours, and 21 minutes.

Rev. and Mrs. T. E. Bowman will leave Monday for Waco to attend a workers' conference of the Methodist church there. An effort is being made for other members of the local congregation to attend the meeting which will be in session from Tuesday at noon until Wednesday at noon.

Miss Evelyn Blakeway, of San Angelo, visited friends here Thursday night.

1 Killed, 7 Injured In Train Collision

(By Associated Press)
LA CROSSE, Wis., Feb. 28.—Al Wood, fireman on a Milwaukee railroad passenger train, was killed and seven passengers were slightly hurt today when the Milwaukee train collided with a Chicago, Minneapolis & Omaha line train near Camp Douglas.

Both locomotives and several cars went in the ditch.

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 28.—A jury here today acquitted Lila Jimerson, once known as Red Lila of the Cayuga Indian tribe, at her second trial on charges of murdering Mrs. Henri Marchand last March.

The state contended that Lila instigated Mrs. Marchand's death that she might be free to continue her admitted intimacy with Henri.

Hollywood Home Is Raided During 'Whoopee' Party

(By Associated Press)
HOLLYWOOD, Calif., Feb. 28.—The police abruptly ended a gay party at the home of William Henry Boyd, 45, stage and screen star, early today. Boyd was charged with possession of gambling equipment, liquor and obscene motion pictures.

Neighbors protested that the party was too noisy, the raid by the police squad following. Film luminaries, men and women, some in evening dress, some in scanty attire, fled to the doors and windows. Several of the men were arrested, all of whom were released except Walter L. Catlett, 42, and Pat O'Brien.

The house contained a richly furnished barroom with an old-fashioned bar. Boyd is quoted as explaining "We had just completed a picture and I was entertaining a group of film friends."

Campaign Act is Violated by Lucas

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—The Senate campaign funds committee reported to the Senate today that Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican national committee, is chargeable with violation of the corrupt practices act in connection with "circulation of scurrilous literature in Nebraska and other states in the 1932 campaign."

The report condemned incidents in the Nebraska senatorial race as a part of a conspiracy to defeat Senator George W. Norris, Republican progressive.

The report further related that Lucas has failed to report to the House, as the law requires, $4,000 personal expenditure in campaign literature.

Eastland Jury Fails to Agree

(By Associated Press)
EASTLAND, Tex., Feb. 28.—The jury deliberating the fate of Robert Hill, last of the members of Cisco's "Santa Claus" bank robbers, was discharged today after failing to agree.

Hill is charged with fatally shooting Chief of Police G. E. Bedford in a hold-up.

The jury is reported to have stood ten to two for conviction.

The allotment of Congress Friday for a post office building for Ballinger not to exceed a cost of $80,000 was received here as good news, and prospects are bright for this town to get a public building within the next two years. Individual appropriations for the buildings will not be made until the next session of Congress, however, the approval of the allotments is expected to be made before the adjournment of Congress on March 4.

As soon as the allocations were made Friday the news was sent here by the Associated Press, Senator Tom Connally and Congressman Tom Blanton.

Senator Connally's message is as follows:

"Chamber of Commerce

"Pleased to advise that Ballinger has been certified to Congress today for allocation for a federal building not to exceed eighty thousand dollars. This allocation will be approved prior to adjournment no March 4th. Glad to be of service.

Grand Jury Makes Report; Nine Indictments are Filed

District Judge E. J. Miller returned here Friday long enough to receive the report of the Runnels county grand jury and discharge that body. The jury reconvened Tuesday for the second time to investigate a few cases and file a written report. Prior to that time seven indictments had been reported and Friday afternoon two more were added making a total of nine felony bills found at this court session.

These cases may be called next week when district court holds its next session here. A summons has been issued for thirty-six men to report for petit jury service Monday morning at 10 o'clock. No jurors were called for this week but when court adjourned last Monday the same jurors were ordered to report March 2.

A large number of witnesses have been summoned for both criminal and civil suits remaining on the docket.

Following is the grand jury's report:

"February 27, 1931
"To the Honorable E. J. Miller, Judge of the District Court of Runnels County:

"We, your grand jury, impaneled on the 9th day of February, 1931, for the February term of 1931, herein submit the following as a report of our work:

"We have been in session for five days and have examined a number of witnesses and have faithfully inquired into all of the violations of the law brought to our attention.

"We have found nine (9) indictments and are returning into this court these indictments, they all being of a felony nature.

"It is our pleasure to report that the sheriff of Runnels county and his deputies are rendering the public a very faithful and efficient service and are bringing law violators to justice in practically all cases that come to their attention. We realize the fact that absolute enforcement is impossible but we find that all of our peace officers are keeping faith with the public in a very commendable manner.

"We find that the last grand jury recommended to County Attorney Roy L. Hill that the monthly reports of the various county officers be filed regularly

It has been several weeks since we urged citizens to attend religious services. Sunday promises to be fair and balmy and all Ballinger churches extend a welcome not only to their own members but any visitor. Services will be conducted at all denominational house morning and evening with the exception of the Episcopal, and a special service is to be held their Sunday evening with an organist and choir from San Angelo to add impressiveness. Identify yourself with some congregation tomorrow.

Friday was a red letter day for Ballinger. The soldiers' loan bill was passed by the Senate over the presidential veto allowing veterans to borrow fifty per cent of the face of their certificates, the city receive allocation for a post-office building to cost $80,000, and a contract was let for the surfacing of that portion of highway No. 4 not complete for more than $90,000. These three items mean the circulation of money here and will benefit every citizen. All were hailed with joy by the citizenship.

Many are asking the question, is the veterans' loan a good thing for the policy holder? It will give him immediate help and if the interest is paid on the loan and the principal itself eventually paid up it will be fine. But the man who borrows the full allowance and then permits the loan and interest to run for the next thirteen years will lose on the deal and have little protection for his family as a result. For example: A policy for $1,000 was issued January 1, 1925. The veteran can now borrow $500 on it. This sum will bear 4 1/2 per cent interest compounded and if allowed to lapse the interest in 1945 will be $428.06 and the veteran will receive in full settlement his cancelled note and $72.94. The ex-service man who needs money, however, and expects to take care of it like any other valuable possession will be greatly benefited and the country will be revived by the money received from this source.

"IVORY FARM" PROJECTED FOR BRITISH FILM TALENT

(By Associated Press)
BRIGHTON, England, Feb. 28.—Fashioned after the American baseball magnates' "ivory farms" as reserves of talent, plans are being formed for a movie studio here as a rival plant to Eelstree, Britain's Hollywood.

Stanley Earl, British-American actor-producer, is the head of the projected development. His plans call for an up-to-date sound studio to film the work of young English screen talent.

Construction costs are estimated at $500,000.

THE CLOCK'S REASON

By Mary Graham Bonner

"The reason I've wanted you to be here to talk to this chestnut tree," the Clock said, as they went back again for a little more talk about chestnut tree ways, "is because of a certain day."

"It was most important, I felt, that we made yesterday's adventure one to a spreading chestnut tree."

The children were beginning to have an idea what the Clock meant.

"Yes," the Clock continued, "yesterday I chose for a visit to a chestnut tree a very fine chestnut tree."

The chestnut tree made a beautiful, spreading bow.

"To be sure," the Clock went on, "I turned the time ahead for our adventure, but when we started forth the date for the 27th of February."

"On the 27th of February, in 1907, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow was born."

"I thought we might like to celebrate his birthday and so I thought the nicest way of celebrating it would be to talk to a chestnut tree."

"You know how famous he made the chestnut tree?"

"Of course!" exclaimed John. "I thought it was going to be something like this when you said 'spreading chestnut tree.' You mean the poem Longfellow wrote beginning 'Under a spreading chestnut tree'?"

The Little Black Clock was delighted that John understood so quickly.

And the chestnut tree looked so generous and so smiling and so pleased to think that the Clock had brought the children to visit him on Longfellow's birthday!

"I grow to be very, very old," the chestnut tree told the children. "So maybe some day you will have time to come back and call on me again. Anyway, I've been very happy to have had this visit."

"We enjoy giving our shade to everyone who wants it."

The children and the Clock said good-bye to the chestnut tree, and as they walked home they recited Longfellow's poem, which they all knew by heart.

NEARLY ALL WISCONSIN FARMERS RAISE CHICKENS

MADISON, Wis., Feb. 28.—Twenty-two hens and pullets to every rooster is the average for Wisconsin farms, it is revealed in a chicken census by Walter Ebling, statistician of the United States and Wisconsin departments of agriculture.

Nine of 19 Wisconsin farms have chickens, and the average flock is 100 hens and pullets to four to five roosters, the census showed. Only eight per cent of Wisconsin farmers raise turkeys.

HOW'S your HEALTH

HICCUP

Hiccup is too familiar and common an experience to need description.

Persistent hiccup is an exhausting and tormenting condition which may render life miserable and lead to death.

In fatal cases of hiccup, however, the condition is commonly due to some other primary cause, such for example, as brain hemorrhage, or brain tumor, cancer of the liver or lung.

Hiccup is due to a rapid contraction of the diaphragm. The "hic" portion of the hiccup is the result of the sudden closure of the windpipe by the epiglottis.

The most common cause of troublesome hiccups is overloading of the stomach. Nursing infants for that reason are prone to hiccup after feeding. They may be relieved by causing them to belch up the air they have swallowed with their milk.

Alcohol, as is so well known, may also bring on hiccup. Here the cause is irritation.

Hiccup may also be associated with the onset of certain infectious diseases, such as typhoid fever or influenza. Again hiccup may be due to simple hysteria.

Ordinary hiccup will disappear of its own accord, or can be stopped by simple remedies. Hiccup due to some organic condition may present a serious problem.

In general, hiccup is due to a direct irritation of the nerve mechanism controlling the diaphragm.

In the former cases are found such conditions as new growths, hardening of the liver and various forms of peritonitis.

Occasionally, irritation of the pleura may give rise to hiccups. Certain brain conditions may cause hiccups as one of a set of symptoms indicating irritation of the nervous system.

Cotton Pool Grows

MONTGOMERY, Ala., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Alabama farmers have doubled the number of bales of cotton pooled with the state Farm Bureau cotton association during the past year. Figures show poolings to date total 178,999 bales compared with 89,608 bales at the same time last year.

Delivery is expected to surpass 200,000 bales before the end of the season.

About New York

By Richard Massock

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—(AP)—

Manhattan scenes:

Booth Tarkington, his eyes protected by large blue spectacles, walking on Park Avenue on a Sunday morning.

Michael Arlen, looking for the vanished beauty of New York's women on Fifth Avenue.

Small-salaried men putting away their money in the savings banks and buying money orders at the postoffice to pay gas and light bills because they can't maintain the $500 minimum for a checking account.

The enormous Presbyterian hospital on the West Side and the great Cornell medical center on the East Side, each covering several blocks and making the mere human spectator feel like an amoeba.

A rash of cordial and beverage shops spotting the residential neighborhoods.

A young tenement girl in a fur-trimmed coat, carrying home a large bag of coal on one shoulder.

Apartment buildings being spruced up by a steam bath.

Zodiac napkins and table covers for the horseshoe believers.

Panic Corner

Panic corner is not the intersection of Broad and Wall streets, where the stock exchange is, but the intersection of Broadway and Forty-Seventh Street, where traffic swirls most madly for the trepid pedestrian.

Here at the upper end of Times Square a continuous rush of taxicabs block terrified foot-travelers. Even when the green light supposedly gives right of way lines of motor cars making right and left turns defy the corner crowds to pass across.

Jaywalking on this corner would be a pretty sure way of committing suicide.

Rare Book Market

Jascha Heifetz, the fiddler, has about given up his hobby of book collecting. No addition has been made to his library of first editions in more than a year.

That's because cheap rarities in books are extremely hard to find nowadays.

"It has become too difficult to pick up bargains," Heifetz said. "Too many people have learned the value of old books." They began to get wise when Jerome Kern's collection was sold at a profit of several hundred thousand dollars.

Yet a "Thousand Dollar" book shop has been opened by Barbara Barnes, a society girl, in co-partnership with William Nichols, an Englishman. The idea is to specialize in volumes costing $1,000, or what a racketeer would call "a grand."

The book shop has just enough gloom, with potted plants and old chairs, to make it look like one of those little tea-shop book

CAPITOL News

By Harrell E. Lee

(Associated Press Staff Writer)

AUSTIN, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Proponents of the so-called "butcher bill" which has been before two previous legislatures believe it will be enacted into law this session.

In the fortieth and forty-first legislatures, the butchers and cattle raisers were unable to get together on a proposal. This year the two groups agreed on the bill which was introduced by the two Stevensons, Senator J. W. of Victoria and Representative Coke of Junction.

The purpose of the bill is to curb cattle stealing. The cow thief is probably as active now as in the olden days although he rides a truck instead of a horse.

Rep. Alfred Petsch of Fredericksburg thinks the annual prison report showing only 472 state liquor law violators in the penitentiary at the close of 1930 is a good argument for his bill lightening the penalties of the Dean Law.

Petsch said 750 Dena Law violators were in the penitentiary at the end of 1929 and the decline showed that juries were becoming more and more reluctant to mete out the severe penalties mandatory under the state stahaunts of the intellectuals in London's Chelsea.

Most book collectors, Miss Barnes said, are men. Women do not collect for the love of it, she added, but run to modern first editions and things in sets which look well on the library shelves. They never have had much use for old books and new seem to have less than they ever did.

"I think," she remarked, "they're antiqued to death."

Some of the prohibitionists, differing from Petsch, probably will argue that the decrease shows that observance of the prohibition law is becoming more widespread.

Members of the House of Representatives now have a piano at their disposal. The instrument was placed in the House chamber by an Austin music concern. The piano is vying with "forty-two" as a means of entertaining the lawmakers during their spare hours.

The renewed appeal of the Texas Prison board that a central industrial prison be built near Austin seems to have fallen on deaf ears.

So far, no bill to that effect has been introduced in either house. Senator Holbrook of Galveston, who pressed the proposal in the regular and special sessions of the forty-first legislature, said he did not think there was any use to try again this time.

Prison centralization near Austin was one of the things closest to Former Governor Moody's heart. Notwithstanding that, the legislature would not go with him. Ross S. Sterling, the new governor, has never taken any stock in the idea of moving the penitentiary.

The legislature's policy of reducing appropriations to the minimum because of existing economic conditions would make it doubly hard to push any such legislation through at this session.

Texas lawmakers were given a sample of the courtesy for which James Hamilton Lewis, United States senator-elect from Illinois, is famed.

Senator George Purl of Dallas phoned Mr. Lewis in San Antonio that he had been invited to address the legislature and asked him what time he desired to come. "I will come tonight, tomorrow morning, tomorrow night, or will stay over another day to get to be there," Senator Lewis replied.

Two recommendations of the Texas prison board have been embraced in bills offered to the legislature. One would make it a felony for a convict to escape or for an outsider to aid in an escape. Another would allow purchases for the prison system to be made by the prison management. The board of control now makes prison purchases.

An easy way for a legislator to kill a bill if he doesn't want to be recorded "in black and white" either for or against the bill is to vote not to print it, in case the bill has a minority report from a committee.

If one of his constituents favoring the bill jumps on him, he can reply that state and federal lawmaking bodies, from time immemorial, have been following the decisions of their committees in the vast majority of cases, and that he merely voted to follow that precedent.

Once in a while, however, the state House or Senate does print a bill on a minority report, which saves it for future consideration. An example was the bill to repeal the three day marriage law, which was printed in the House notwithstanding an adverse committee report.

What a Television Audience Hears and Sees;
Some Pictures are Clear, Others "Fade Away"

Television in the home today takes on the appearance of the scene depicted here. The audience pictured by the artist in this instance "looked in" via several kinds of receivers.

By C. E. Butterfield
(Associated Press Radio Editor)

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—In a darkened Riverside Drive apartment, 17 floors above the street, sat a little group of people, intently watching the unfolding of electrically-delivered drama.

Except for the faint hum of motors, and voice and music from the loudspeaker, the audience was hushed.

Present were an engineer who has pioneered in television, two newspapermen, a broadcast chain representative and two others.

It was one of the few television audiences that occasionally assemble these nights to see what's on the air.

In the room was a bank of four television receivers and a couple of sound sets. Pictures came in from Washington, from Boston, from Passaic, N. J., and from New York city. Some were good, some bad, some terrible.

Despite occasional code interference, fading and static all except the engineer were thrilled.

The engineer naturally was not expected to get the same reaction as the others, for this idea of "looking-in" was not new to him. It's part of his job.

Let's take a better peep through the door. The television receivers and their short wave tuners take up the entire end of the room. There are a couple of reproducers assembled from kits.

The picture these machines turn out is about two inches square.

Then there is a larger receiver, automatically synchronized, whose "screen" is about five inches square. The biggest set produces a "show" nearly eight inches square. The pictures are enlarged by lenses.

A broadcast outfit which would go below 200 meters was used to get the vocal and musical accompaniment for one visual program.

First a look was taken at the NBC experimental transmission coming from New York.

There was a set of three cards, interchanged occasionally. One had the letters, NBC, with an elaborate background. Another contained the station's call letters, W3XBS. The third was a variation of the others.

The lookers expressed surprise that NBC with all its available talent for the reproduction of live images was sending out only cards.

These pictures were the best of any received, due to the fact that they contained 60 lines, 12 more lines than used by the other stations.

Next a switch to Washington. From there came a fading signal, with some static, which produced an effect like a snowstorm.

For a while the picture would be sharp and clear, then slip almost away. Another time a dozen pictures of the same thing would flash past the screen, because a power supply at the receiver, separate from that at the transmitter, made synchronization difficult.

Here's what came in: Pictures of a dancing girl, of Dr. Lee De Forest, and of a girl bouncing a ball, the signature of station W3XK of the Jenkins laboratories. The transmission was from a movie film.

Back to New York for W2XR of Radio Pictures, Inc. Another film transmission. Reproduction was somewhat spotty.

Every time something new was to be shown, a sign would appear, such as a "wheel" when a four-spoked device rolled into the picture, and "dancing elephant," to announce that a pachyderm was due. Call letters also flashed into view occasionally.

After that the climax. It was another Jenkins station, located at Passaic, N. J., but this was a sound-sight program, the production of which was reminiscent of early days of broadcasting. Putting on the vision was W2XCR, while the sound came over W2XCD.

At that it was pretty good, despite periods when the screen would go blank and the announcer would say, "Stand by a moment, please, while we make a shift in the scene"—just like the old movie days and their "three minutes to change reels."

When announcements were to be made the speaker could be seen coming on between solos by a bassoist and a pianist. There was a beauty contest in which five young women flashed on the screen, one at a time.

The feature was a "hand shake." The announcer had been told who was present in the New York audience, and after a greeting, offered to "shake" with each one. He did it too, for on the screen appeared a pair of hands in a welcome grasp.

The reception was somewhat marred by code interference, which necessitated a slight detuning of the receiver to bring in the picture without a lot of peculiar lines and streaks.

That program finished, an attempt was made for W1XAV, of the Short Wave and Television laboratories at Boston. The station came in, but was fading so badly only a glimpse could be had now and then of the man's face.

All the transmissions were experimental, but the guests departed with the avowal that television was far enough advanced to satisfy them it was ready for introduction in to their own homes.

Net result: One newspaperman and one broadcast representative are building their own radio movie outfits.

By C. E. Butterfield
(Associated Press Radio Editor)

The scope of the individual newspaper reporter no longer is confined to his own local territory. It's world wide.

That's another thing for which radio is responsible. More examples are creeping into print almost daily, one instance being the interview between New York city and Vatican City, in which Guglielmo Marconi gave his opinions on radio progress.

It wasn't the first interview via the ether waves by any means, but it was one of the first, if not the first, in which the great expanses of the Atlantic had been traversed by questions and answers to develop material exclusively for newspaper use.

Digging back into the early history of radio, there is recalled a similar interview with the MacMillan-McDonald expedition in 1925. At that time James D. Foster, Chicago newspaperman, talking via a two-way low wave-high wave circuit to the Far North, was enabled to give the world a story of what the explorers were doing.

The Marconi interview, following so closely upon the first papal broadcast, brought sharply to the attention of listeners the fact that radio, outside of the territory of the entertainment field, is making tremendous strides.

Think of being able to sit in New York and address a person so far away that it would take days and nights of the fastest travel to see him face to face!

By his answers to the questions, Marconi indicated that his enthusiasm over radio has not waned an iota, despite the fact that it is his handiwork which is the basis for many of modern developments.

Apparently much of his work in the future is to be in the short wave channels, where great possibilities are being opened up through development of the waves under 15 meters. Not only has Marconi turned his attention in that direction, as shown by the new Vatican City station HVJ, which operates on 19.84 meters most of the time, but American engineers and amateurs are doing much research work there.

Film Notables Join in Making "Holiday"

Nearly a year after making their joint talking picture debuts, Ann Harding and Edward H. Griffith recently were united as a working combination. The blonde star and the well-known director were first associated in the making of "Paris Bound," one of the most sensational of last year's dialogue dramas.

Miss Harding plays the principal role in "Holiday," which is directed by Griffith. "Holiday," coming to the Palace Theatre tomorrow for three-day run, is a Pathe adaptation of Philip Barry's stage success.

After a search of nearly a month for an actor suitable to play the male lead opposite Miss Harding, Robert Ames was signed for the role. The selection of Ames completed the cast, which also features Mary Astor, Edward Everett Horton and Hedda Hopper. Others in the cast are Monroe Owsley, William Holden, Elizabeth Forrester, Creighton Hale. Horace Jackson adapted the film version from the original stage production by Arthur Hopkins.

BACKACHE SPELLS

This Lady's Husband Urged Her To Take Cardui—Soon Benefited.

Troy, Ala.—"Cardui has done me good, and it has done my 16-year-old daughter so much good," says Mrs. J. W. Jlnright, of this place, "that I felt I wanted other women to know the facts about it, so I wrote to The Chattanooga Medicine Co., telling them about my experience with this medicine, Cardui."

"I have used it at intervals for sixteen years, when I suffered from weakness, and it always helped me. Mostly I was afflicted with bad spells of backache. At times I felt as if my back would break. I would drag one foot after the other, in a helpless sort of way, and once I got down in bed. My husband urged me to take Cardui, and I soon found what a fine medicine it really was. "When my second child was little, I was in very bad health. I did not pick up as I should have. I was weak and sickly. I do not believe that I would have come through, but for Cardui."

Thousands of other women have written to tell how Cardui had helped them to health. Cardui is a purely vegetable remedy and contains nothing harmful or injurious. It may be safely taken by a delicate young girl as well as by a feeble old lady.

Brown & Root Get Contract on Road

The state highway commission awarded a contract to Brown & Root Friday afternoon for the construction of the 10.9 miles of road from Ballinger to the Concho county line for the sum of $90,414. The contract calls for a bituminous surface to the grade that is already constructed and in good shape for the work to begin.
Brown & Root are not new contractors to Ballinger, having already completed a number of projects here. The firm paved Eighth street and Broadway and also completed the new dam and water reservoir in Ballinger. Their work has always been satisfactory and local people are glad to have them back for another job here.
The work order will be rushed as fast as possible so that actual work can get started within a short time. Workmen to be sent here at once and crews of local labor will be used as far as possible in doing the job. County Judge Paul Trimmer and Resident Engineer G. M. Garrett attended the meeting in Austin Friday and are expected to return to Ballinger late Saturday afternoon.
Contracts let by the department Friday were many and totaled about $2,552,128 for the day. The commission will remain in session Saturday, Monday and Tuesday to let additional contracts for early construction.
There is nothing the way of the work proceeding here within a short time. The county bonds have already been sold and the county's part of the money is ready at any time. The grade was completed last summer and has had the benefit of all the heavy rains since last October and is well settled. The road is in good shape at the present time and is ready for the surface treatment.
A large number of people from West Texas attended the meeting Friday and Brown, Kerr and Comanche counties received contracts for road work.

GOOD CROWD PRESENT AT SCOUT MEETING

A large meeting of Boy Scouts was held Friday evening at the National Guard armory with more than twenty Scouts present. Leaders James Parrish, J. G. Tuckey and Robert Bruce were present to discuss matters with the boys relative to their future work.
By a unanimous vote of the two troops it was agreed to consolidate all members into troop 30 and everyone is requested to register for the new year at once. A full meeting will be held on the new troop next Friday night at which time officers for the coming year will be elected and work started for the spring and summer.
The meeting Friday night was the largest in several months and all members showed much enthusiasm in the work before them.

Fat Stock Show To Draw Many

(By Associated Press)
FT. WORTH, Feb. 28.—Delegations from a number of cities and counties are planning to send special delegations to the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show opening Friday night, March 6.
The Waco Chamber of Commerce will sponsor an automobile caravan for a one-day trip to the show Thursday, March 12. It will be the chamber's annual pilgrimage to the exposition and several hundred probably will in the party. Manager W. V. Crawford predicts.
Word from Bosque county states that on Bosque County Day, Monday, March 9, a special train will be operated, bringing no less than 500. County Agent Elmo Cook is in charge of arrangements, assisted by committeemen from every city and community in the county.

More than 500 head of livestock will be seen opening night, which will be designated as round-up night. Champions of last year's rodeo, back again to defend their crowns, will be presented. More than 150 cowboys and cowgirls will be seen in the grand entry.
Midnight, the horse that has never been ridden and has thrown more cowboys than any other horse in the professional rodeo game is included in the 112 outlaw horses here awaiting the opening of the rodeo.
Indications point to a record breaking number of livestock will be on exhibition. Low rates on railroads will prevail during the exposition.

CHINA'S ROUND-UP CLEARING COUNTRY OF RED BRIGANDS

(By Associated Press)
HANKOW, Feb. 28.—The great bandit round-up in China is in full swing with Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, head of the nationalist government, as general foreman of the drive.
And the general is getting much better results than his many critics thought he would when he started, early in the winter, on his campaign to stamp out brigandage and communism in old Cathay.
General Chiang gave himself and his subordinate commanders three months in which to complete the job. Whether he will exterminate bandits and communists in that space of time is a matter for the soothsayer, but in any event he has made progress.
Hankow business men, able for the first time in a year to send goods into the interior without the fear of having them seized by marauders maintain that what Chiang has already accomplished has justified his campaign.
More real progress has been made in Hunan than in the other four provinces of Fukien, Kiangsi, Honan and Hupeh.
In some sections of Hunan, overridden by communists and bandits for two years, not a red flag is to be found and village folk are returning to their homes from Hankow and other cities where they took refuge.
There also is a noticeable improvement in commerce on the Yangtze River.
The government's capture of Hukou and Chaling, near the eastern border of Hunan was a body blow to Gen. Ho Lung and his red army. His original force of 12,000 has been cut in half and the remnants, say military reports, have split into small bands.

VALLEY FARMERS TO CUT 1931 COTTON CROP HALF

(By Associated Press)
SAN BENITO, Tex., Feb. 28.—The lower Rio Grande Valley of Texas, which plants cotton first in the nation and produces the world's first bale of cotton every year, usually in June, is showing the way this season in reduction of acreage, as present indications point to a 50 per cent reduction from the acreage of last year.
The Valley is in the midst of its planting season now, and will have most of its cotton in by the latter part of March, the planting being later than usual this year because of weather conditions.
Last year the Valley had 250,000 acres of land in cotton.
This year the acreage will be 125,000, according to present indications. The low price and the probable small demand during the year are big factors in the acreage cut here, although rainy weather has caused a cut to some extent in the acreage.

Many growers throughout the four Valley counties are cultivating early crops in the race for the world's first bale.
This bale is rushed to some large cotton market, New Orleans, Houston, Dallas or New York, every year and auctioned off, usually for a price of around $1,000.
