Quail season gets underway this morning (Thursday, Dec. 1) thirty minutes before sunrise, and a large group of local and out-of-town hunters are expected to take to the field.

Game Warden Jack Young said hunting is legal from thirty minutes before sunrise until 30 minutes after sunset with the season running through January 16.

Daily bag limit is 12 with a total of 36 in possession. Mr. Young said that from his observation, there is a good crop of quail this year. Heavy rains late in the summer caused heavy growth of weeds, and dogs will be of great value in finding singles and crippled birds.

Other seasons in progress: Goose and duck season is still in progress in this county, as well as turkey and deer season. The turkey and deer seasons run through December 31 with daily limit on turkeys being two gobblers, and two buck pronghorn deer may be legally taken.

Just what a "yes" or "no" vote will mean in the upcoming referendum on upland cotton marketing quotas was explained this week by Ray Hysinger, chairman of the ASC county committee.

Producers who shared in the 1966 upland cotton crop or its proceeds are eligible to vote; where no cotton was planted in 1966 on an allotment farm, only the owner and the operator may vote. Questions about eligibility to vote should be referred to the Foard County ASCS office. For the first time in a quota referendum, balloting will be by mail. Ballots may also be returned to the ASCS office in person. The vote will be conducted during the period Dec. 5 through 9. The chairman said that the basic program choices are:

1. If at least two-thirds of the growers who vote in the referendum approve of quotas, the quotas will be in effect for the 1967 upland cotton crop, price-support loans will be available, and marketing penalties will apply to any excess cotton produced on a farm. The 1967 program will be very similar to the 1966 program. Farmers will earn diversion and price-support payments if they reduce their cotton acreage at least 12.5 per cent below the effective farm allotment, put the diverted acres into a conserving use, and meet other provisions. Special acreage-reduction exemptions apply to "small farms." Growers who elect not to participate in the reduction program may apply for a share of the export market acreage reserve and produce for export only, without government subsidy or marketing quota penalties.
2. On the other hand, if more than one-third of the growers who vote oppose the quotas, then there will be no quotas and penalties applicable to the 1967 upland cotton crop, no "domestic allotment" program providing price-support and diversion payments, and no export market acreage reserve. Price-support loans to farmers who do not exceed their acreage allotments will be available at 50 per cent of parity, as directed by law. Acreage allotments will remain in effect as a means of determining eligibility for the available price support. The lease or sale of cotton allotments is provided for the 1967 crop; however, transfer documents have to be filed with county office not later than January 3, 1967. The outcome of the marketing quota referendum will have no effect on this part of the cotton program. Mr. Hysinger pointed out that, while the Secretary of Agriculture is directed by law to proclaim quotas for the next crop when the total upland cotton supply exceeds normal, the growers themselves decide whether or not quotas shall be used. Previous votes on the subject have been outstandingly favorable. Marketing quotas for the 1966 upland cotton crop were approved by 94.8 per cent of the growers voting.

Program details for individual farms will be made available to growers within the next few days so that farmers may have the information prior to voting time. The 1967 program under quotas would be very similar to the 1966 program.

Cotton farmers will also vote during the same period on whether they approve a research and promotion program, as provided by recent legislation. The vote is entirely separate from the vote on marketing quotas for the 1967 upland cotton crop.

Hunt Toll Held Down on Opener

Considering the enormous numbers afield for the big game season opener, the safety record was considered moderate although five hunters were killed by gunfire the first week, according to reports to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

Mystery shots accounted for two deaths. Two others were attributed to the victims possibly being mistaken for wild game.

A 15-year-old Diboll had fired his 30-30 rifle at a swooping chicken hawk without knowing a 58-year-old squirrel hunter was in line of fire. The latter was struck in the left chest and apparently died instantly.

A 27-year-old Victoria school teacher was struck in the back of the head by a slug from high-powered rifle while hunting deer near Bloomington. His instant death was blamed on a stray bullet. Authorities reported many

Laws of Economics Just as Immutably as Laws of Physics
 Ernest G. Swiger, the highly articulate head of a large heavy equipment company, has a way of discussing questions of principle with a conviction that is all too often sadly lacking in most public utterances. Recently he observed: "I don't know why it is that every generation will accept the accumulated knowledge in medicine and science and build new achievements on that foundation, but when it comes to economics they have to learn the hard way. There is always some professor or politician who has a new scheme to repeal the laws of economics; but I suspect the laws of economics are just as immutable as the laws of physics."

Cut Begun Training abled Vets

Administrative shortcut to job opportunities for seriously disabled military personnel announced this week by Wil Draughon, Administrator for VA Affairs.

For the first time since the Korean conflict, VA representatives are sending military hospitals regarding disabled veterans to seek out disabled veterans and advise them on VA rehabilitation programs to restore the ability to work, Draughon said. Under procedures, the VA does not take a picture until the man is discharged from service, and the VA assistance as a veteran.

VA has placed nationwide emphasis on informing servicemen as possible of their opportunities for vocational rehabilitation. It provides occupational training in almost any field. As a serviceman says he is interested in such training, a professional psychologist begins counseling and conferring with him. The two agree on a desired occupational objective, they select appropriate training facilities.

VA pays all training costs, books and supplies, and special equipment that is needed. In addition, the VA provides a subsistence allowance to disabled servicemen in training. After leaving the service, they may collect from $110 to $150 per month (and more, if more than two dependents) while undergoing vocational training. "Rehabilitation specialists" work with servicemen all the time.

while they are in training. When they complete their training, servicemen receive assistance from these specialists in locating a suitable job.

More than 700,000 veterans have received vocational training through the VA since World War II. At present, 4,000 veterans are participating in this program. Given the increased emphasis on vocational rehabilitation, the number of participants is expected to jump.

Social Security Benefits to Widows

A number of widows in the area serviced by the Vernon office may still not have heard of a change in the social security law made last year which enables them to get social security benefits as soon as they reach 60, Edwin Draughon, social security district manager, said this week.

Until the change, benefits were not payable to a widow under age 62, unless she was left with young children to raise. The amount of the widow's payment is based upon what her husband would have received as a retirement benefit at age 65.

If she decides to wait until she is 62, her benefit will be 82.5 per cent of what her husband would have received each month. If she decides to start her benefit at 61, she will receive about 77 per cent of his benefit. If she chooses to start getting her benefit as soon as she reaches 60, her payments will be 71.5 per cent of her husband's monthly benefit.

For example, if the husband would have received a monthly benefit of $100 had he lived, the payment to his widow would be $82.50 at her 62nd birthday, $77 at her 61st birthday, or $71.50 if she is just 60 when her payments start.

On the average, women who choose to take their benefits early will collect about the same value in total benefits over the years, but in smaller payments to take account of the longer period during which they are paid.

Prior to the 1965 amendments, Mr. Draughon noted, a widow who was receiving widow's benefits and remarried had her widow's benefit terminated. The new law, however, provides that if a widow past age 60 remarries, her benefits may continue at an adjusted rate.

Another change in the law allows a wife who is divorced at 60 or later, or a surviving divorced wife who is 60 or over, to qualify for monthly benefits if she was married to a worker for at least 20 consecutive years. Likewise, a surviving divorced wife, regardless of her age, can qualify for monthly benefits if at the time of the worker's death, she has in her care his child under 18 or disabled. The child is also entitled to monthly benefits.

These social security benefits are not payable to the divorced widow if she is now married to someone other than the deceased worker.

Mr. Draughon said that he believes that quite a few women in the Foard County are who are now 60 and over may be eligible for benefits, but to receive payment they must file an application. He urged readers to advise friends and relatives of the new provisions, and encourage them to get in touch with the social security district office to avoid a loss in benefits.

When you go visiting or have company, call the News office and tell us. Your news is what makes The Foard County News.

Gun Carelessness Marring Successful Fall Wildlife Harvest

Gun carelessness by both adults and youngsters is marring a successful fall wildlife harvest, according to reports to the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department.

The resulting fatalities have boosted this fall's death toll beyond the 1965 total and have pressed veteran Department field men to try to recall any such weird series of mishaps.

For example: A deer hunter, preceding companions back to camp, hid in some brush, shook the bushes and growled like a beast. He was killed.

A young man, stepping into his pickup at dusk, was wounded by one of three rifle slugs imbedded in the vehicle in a twelve by nine inch area. Investigators found two rifle cartridges 927 feet from the "target." There was a small bush between the gunner and the victim, about 60 feet from where the victim was struck.

A nine-year-old boy was shot out of his tree blind by an older companion who said he fired at wild turkey. The previous week a boy hunter killed himself when his shotgun, being carried in a car, fell when the rig stopped suddenly, causing the weapon to slip.

A 10-year-old boy was killed by a 15-year-old boy when the latter was being shown a deer rifle which discharged.

A 14-year-old boy was killed when he stumbled over a deer rifle left leaning against a darkened wall.

14 GIANT SYNTHETICS PRODUCERS ARE TAKING COTTON'S MARKETS

HOW CAN 500,000 FARMERS FIGHT BACK?

The Farmers' Answer: 'Expand Research & Promotion'

With huge research and promotion expenditures, synthetic fiber firms rapidly are taking cotton's markets. As a result, the carryover is at an all-time record. Acreage is the lowest since 1872—down 30 per cent on the average for 1966.

But farmers have developed a way to fight back. It enables them to pool their resources to mount a hard-hitting research and promotion program to save cotton markets, acreage, and income.

Self-Help Plan Brings Beltwide Acclaim, Support

The farmer-originated plan gives growers an opportunity to vote, in a Beltwide referendum, on establishing a uniform assessment of $1.00 per bale for expanded research and promotion. Thousands of growers and 61 cotton organizations have endorsed this approach—overwhelmingly. The press is praising farmers for their efforts to help themselves.

We Compliment Cotton Farmers On Their Business Approach

Clearly, the plan is based on hard and sound thinking. All projects must be initiated by grower trustees elected by cotton producer organizations. Other provisions give equal assurance of farmer direction and control. Any individual farmer who does not want to participate can have his money refunded.

We recognize that cotton is the economic lifeblood of our business and our community. We are happy to offer any assistance we can give our farmer friends as they work for approval in the referendum.

Plentiful Foods Make Holiday Shopping Easy

Holiday food shoppers can look for especially good supplies of broiler-size chickens this December, according to the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

Reports from the U. S. Department of Agriculture indicate broiler supplies will run about a tenth greater than this time last year.

There'll also be big supplies of pears, grapes and raisins. In addition, you'll see lots of pork and canned salmon at local food markets.

This year's big Bartlett pear crop is overlapping into the winter season. So you'll find unusually large stocks of these pears, along with the winter varieties of Anjou, Comice and Bosc.

Market news office of USDA's Consumer and Marketing Service report increasing arrivals of such popular California table grapes as Emperor, Almeria and Ribier. They'll make a delicious looking centerpiece for your holiday table.

Raisins will be a real boon to your holiday baking. They add flavor to such a variety of cakes, cookies and pies. A raisin pie is hard to beat for the holiday season.

With such good supplies of pork on hand, you'll want to include a ham on your shopping list. Baked ham and cans of salmon in the pantry can make snacks extra-easy to prepare.

For the best in eating this December, plan your shopping around these plentiful foods.

Help in Preventing Home Freeze Ups

Water freeze up problems around the farm and home can often be prevented by using an inexpensive electric heating cable, says County Agent Joe Burkett. Some places are especially vulnerable to winter freeze up, such as a short section of exposed pipe in an unheated part of the barn or an outside faucet that must operate, he says. All that is needed is to wrap the heating cable around the pipe in spiral fashion and plug it into a convenient electrical outlet. It is best to wrap some kind of insulating material around the cable to conserve heat and electricity, he adds.

The Market Basket

There are many decisions that you, as a grocery shopper, have to make each time you go to the supermarket, says Miss Louise Mason, extension foods and nutrition specialist at Texas A&M University.

You can pay more or less and yet provide good nutrition for your family. It all depends on what you buy. There are four groups of food that should be in every shopper's market basket—milk, meat, vegetables and fruits and breads and cereals.

Milk, fruit and vegetables are often lacking in sufficient amounts in many family diets. Are you buying fresh milk at 60 cents per gallon or nonfat dry milk at 18 cents per half gallon? The food value of both kinds of milk is the same except the fat is removed from the nonfat dry milk. Fat is adequate in most diets without including whole milk. Have you tried mixing half fresh and half nonfat dry milk? The cost per gallon is about 39 cents.

Another decision facing the shopper today is at the meat counter. The more tender cuts of meat generally are more expensive.

sive, while the less tender are less expensive. The fat content is the same when the portion of the meat is equal. All of high quality protein requires more time to prepare, less tender cuts. Do you have time to make?

Read the labels on products and canned goods. Some are more informative than others. Determine the cost per pound if in doubt. When you are for a place to reduce fat, think twice before you decide it will be the food for health and well being of your family depends to a large extent on the food they eat every day.

lots of oil on Continental Shelf

About 11 per cent of oil and 6 per cent of natural gas found in the well have been discovered on the oil shelves, reports the Oil and Gas Association. It has been estimated that the total shelves may contain 700 billion barrels of oil, and that in the next 20 years, the free world may use one fourth of its oil and requirements from foreign sources.

The Riverside public school, which was completed recently, is equipped with lighting fixtures and equipment that surpasses that of all schools in the state save one and that is the most modern in Northwest Texas. ### Asks Pertinent Question

Nobel Prize winner in physics, Dr. William Shockley asked in a speech recently: "Can it be that our humanitarian welfare programs have already selectively emphasized high and irresponsible rates of reproduction to produce a socially, relatively unadaptable human strain? Such a possibility, which in principle need not be racially selective, can extrapolate in our grandchildren's time 50 years from now to a five-fold increase in relief burden as the segment of our own population on relief increases from one person in 25 to about one in five."

Expected to Double

According to a forecast made by the Edison Electric Institute, by 1970, the nation's investor-owned electric utility companies expect to almost double their power-producing capabilities of 1960.
