Younger People May Qualify for Disability Aid

Severely disabled young people will now find it easier to qualify for social security disability benefits, Edwin Draughon, manager of the Vernon office, said Mon-

A recent change in the law reduces the work requirement from a minimum of 5 years to 11/2 vears.

"This new minimum," Mr. Draughon stated, "applies only to those who become disabled before they are 24 years old. If disability begins between the ages of 24 and 31, they must have worked the equivalent of half the time between age 21 and the date the disability began.

"For example, a teen-ager who becomes disabled from illness or accident, could qualify for monthy disability payments if he had earned $50 or more in a job covcred by social security in each of 6 calendar quarters during the 3 years just before he became disabled. In addition to spending money, the teen-age worker is now building up disability insurance protection

"Although benefits under this change cannot be payable for months before February, 1968," Mr. Draughon pointed out, "the disability condition may have begun earlier."

Further information and assistance in filing applications may be obtained at the Vernon Social Security office, 1728 Fannin Street, Vernon, phone LI2-9346, or by meeting with the representative when she comes to the community building in Crowell.
