Statement Issued Regarding History of Foard County

Mrs. Virgil Johnson, chairman of the Foard County Historical Survey Committee, has issued the following statement with regard to the forthcoming History of Foard County: "We are delighted with the response of both area and former residents. We are cognizant that we can never procure all the individual histories without your help. What you would like for the book to contain, you must send to us or it will most likely be omitted; not that our knowledge is limited, so we need your help, now! "We hope to receive all the individual histories in May. We will use as many of your old pictures as we possibly can. We want your family history regardless of when your family came to Foard County. "In the meantime, you may continue to reserve your copy of the book by sending $10.30 to Foard County Historical Survey Committee, Crowell, Texas 79227. Some have asked about making a deposit on the book. That, too, may be arranged, provided that the last installment has been made before the publication of the book which, we hope, will be late summer. "May I urge once more that we need your help and cooperation now! If we may be of any assistance, please call any member of the Foard County Historical Survey Committee."

Brush Control Group Here Receives $911.45 for New Program

Total funds obtained for brush control and range improvement by the Brush Control and Range Improvement Association have totaled $911.45 thus far in Foard County. County chairman John Glenn Halsell, Jr., said the association was formed last November by a group of landowners to raise funds to fight brush invasion of rangelands, one of Texas' major agricultural problems, and study methods of range improvement. He said the plan is to solicit 1 cent per acre from each Texas landowner each year for five years. Money collected will support expanded research and education on brush control and range improvement. The best research projects submitted by universities and other agencies will be funded by the association. He said at least 80 per cent of Texas' rangelands are infested with brush and weeds, reducing their carrying capacity by 50 per cent or more. Not only is brush control important to ranchers, but the problem also affects the economy of all agricultural communities in the state. Contributions (income tax deductible) can be sent to Merl Kincaid, treasurer, BCRIA, Crowell, Texas 79227. Contributions by every landowner are needed in this campaign to win the brush fight. Checks should be made payable to Foard County BCRIA.

School Tax Issue

A concentrated effort is now being made in Austin by proponents of the controversial report of the Governor's Committee on Public School Education on behalf of the tax equalization program proposed in the report, now under study in House and Senate subcommittees.

This effort is receiving strong editorial support from metropolitan newspapers, based on the Bartlett tax study made for the COPSE report. This study is based on a highly questionable and disturbing premise that the agricultural economy of the state can afford this tremendous new tax burden.
It also purports to prove that city schools are being cheated out of their fair share of school tax money by rural areas.

One recent editorial quoted an example show to show that a rural landowner pays much less than the amount of school taxes being paid by an urban resident. Any shirt-sleeved economist can quickly spot the fallacy in these statistics.

Let's look at a city dweller who draws a salary of $12,000 a year and owns a $20,000 home. If his school tax rate is $1.50 per $100 and he is taxed on 50 per cent of market value—or $10,000—his school tax bill is $150 a year.

Now let's look at a rural landowner who owns a 1,000 acre farm or ranch, with an assessed value of $150 per acre. He cannot by any stretch of the imagination, come close to netting the $12,000 annual income of his city neighbor from his 1,000 acres.

Our rural landowner's tax bill, based on the same rate and assessed value: $1,125, nearly 10 times that paid by the city homeowner.
This is tax equalization? We doubt it.

Evening in Paris Is Theme for Junior-Senior Banquet

The school cafeteria was transformed into a sidewalk cafe in Paris for the annual Junior-Senior banquet on April 26. Guests were seated at quartet tables beneath a canopied ceiling. A large mural in the south depicted a typical French scene with an Eiffel Tower visible to the north. A rock sidewalk, flowers and wrought iron furniture enhanced the setting.

Jo Ann Williams, junior class president, gave the welcoming address and Leslie Hopkins, senior class president, responded. Gary Cates read the junior prophecy and Mary Bob Long revealed the senior will.

Kristi McLain, Jacque Gillispie, Peggy Rasberry and Peggy Jan Welch entertained with two songs.

Sophomore boys served the dinner consisting of salad, steak, gravy, potatoes, green beans, rolls, butter, nuts, dessert and beverage.

After the banquet, the tables were removed and "Truth," a band from Wichita Falls, played for the prom.

Special guests were the high school faculty, the class mothers and their husbands.

James Welch is senior sponsor and class mothers are Mmes. Milburn Carroll, Bill Dodd, Cecil Driver and Clinton McLain. Serving as sponsor of the juniors is Ben Tyler and class mothers include Mmes. Clyde Eddy, T. R. Cates, Jr., J. T. Hughton, and Jesse Whitfield.

Mrs. Fauncine Stubblefield of Oxford, Miss., has been selected Mrs. Majorette of America for 1969 by the National Baton Twirling Association and was featured in the organization's national publication, Drum Major Magazine.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Fairchild of Crowell and the wife of Jerry Stubblefield of Oxford. A former head majorette and assistant drum major at Ole Miss, Fauncine now operates her own twirling studio in which some 95 students are enrolled.

In connection with her twirling activities, she is now serving as contest director of the National Drum Major and Majorette championship. She has traveled to more than eight states in the interest of twirling. In four of these, she was a state contest judge.

She is a member of the National Twirling Association, National Judges Bureau and a National accredited twirling teacher.

She also directs the summer twirling festival at Oxford, Miss., and numerous summer camps, and has judged several events which are part of the America's Youth on Parade program.

Mary Bob Long Honoree at Party

The home of Mrs. Glen Goodwin was the scene April 26 of a party honoring Miss Mary Bob Long, a 1969 graduate of Crowell High School. Mrs. Goodwin was assisted with hostess duties by her daughters, Mrs. Barbara Gates and Mrs. Cherry Johnson. Black and gold, C. H. S. colors, were the predominant colors used in the decorations. The serving table's centerpiece consisted of large yellow mums surrounded by smaller mums and with black streamers with the words, "Mary Bob" printed in gold letters.

The quartet tables were decorated with a single chrysanthemum.

Invited guests were girls of the graduating class. Guests were registered in the a white graduation book. Attending were the honoree and her mother, Mrs. Juanita Gafford, Misses Jo Driver, Janice Gray, Jan Welch, Pam Carter, Bettye Burkett, Harriet Halbert, Yolanda Brown, Marjorie Walker, Cathy McLain, Renee Cooper and Debra Rasberry.

Miss Long plans to attend college after graduation.

Columbian Club

It was "hobby day" for members of the Columbian Club on Wednesday, April 30, when they brought their latest achievements in art, sewing, crafts or antique collecting to the Foard City home of Mrs. Grady Halbert. Since flower gardens have special places in the hearts of some women and since is the month of the iris, several guests brought bouquets of flowers.

Mrs. Roy Ayers modeled a hat she had made and then proceeded to demonstrate how she was able, with the use of a specially contrived bucket which she displayed, to save the life of a baby calf whose mother refused to accept. Several women modeled dresses they had made and Mrs. Cecil Carroll displayed a sequined bag she had made. Linens, decoupage, afghans of knitted synthetic squares and crocheted of wool thread, souvenir spoons dating from 1827 including one 1893 world's fair spoon, and other items were displayed.

An exception to the needle and thread devotee, Mrs. N. J. Roberts told of her hobby of making scrapbooks, numbering close to 25. The hostess displayed a painting by number classic portrait by her daughter, Hollis. Refreshments were served.

Gambleville H. D. Club

The Gambleville Home Demonstration Club met at the home of Mrs. Milton Hunter May 2 with Mrs. Hunter as hostess and Mrs. Clarence Garrett, president, presiding.

Opening exercise was "The Little Red Hen," read by Mrs. Andrew Calvin. Game questionnaire was given by Mrs. Willie Garrett. Mrs. Clarence Garrett gave a report on the district meeting held in Childress April 26. Mrs. Milton Hunter was nominated for a delegate to the state meeting in Dallas.

The program topic was "Mothers of the Bible," presented by Mrs. Bob Thomas.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. R. J. Owens on "Forty Isn't Fatal—It's Fulfillment."

The group has shown continued interest in its progress throughout the year as seen in the year's check-up tests given recently, Mr. Black said.

The roster includes Mr. and Mrs. Henry Aranda, Ruben Castaneda, Mrs. Wilma Jean Coleman, Mrs. Dorothy Holloway, Mrs. Laura Mae Nauling, Mrs. Eva Mae Neal, Mrs. Lydia O'Neal, Raymond Quintero, Ray Quintero, Ramon de los Santos, Mrs. Elizabeth Swearingen, Mr. and Mrs. Elias Villarreal and Mrs. Eunice Wilkins.

Mr. Black added that plans and application have been made to continue an advanced class for adults in the 1969-70 school year.

Billy Graham Film to Be Shown in Quannah

A cordial invitation is extended to everyone in this area to see this unique film on May 13, according to Dr. W. E. Norman, pastor of the Quannah Church.

August 5 Is Date Set for Texas Vote on Nine Amendments

Austin, Tex.—Nine proposed constitutional amendments, headed by a recommended boost in the welfare ceiling from $60 million to $80 million, and a $3.5 billion water bond proposition, are ready for an August 5 ballot.

Secretary of States Martin Dies Jr. supervised drawing to determine ballot positions as soon as the legislature cleared the measures.

Here are the amendments as they will appear on the ballot:

HJR 3—to delete obsolete provisions from the constitution.

HJR 9—to authorize a $3.5 billion water revenue bond issue for financing the state's share of a $9 billion statewide water plan.

SJR 31—to raise the present $4,800 a year salary of state legislators to the state-paid maximum level of district judges ($18,000) and give the lieutenant governor and house speaker half the pay of the governor (about $20,000 a year).

SJR 6—to exempt non-profit water supply corporations from taxation.

SJR 8—to raise the public welfare outlay limit from $60 million to $80 million a year.

HJR 7—to raise the constitutional interest rate limit on some state government bonds.

HJR 4—to provide for assistance payments to survivors of volunteer firemen, police and Texas Youth Council employees killed on duty.

HJR 50—to authorize an additional $200 million in Texas Opportunity Plan student loan funds.

HJR 8—to provide for annual legislative sessions. Voters last November rejected a raise in the welfare ceiling to $75 million (which has resulted in two cuts in benefit payments) and a hike in lawmaker pay to $8,400 a year.

Writer Applauds Young People

To the Editor:

This Easter let's hear the good side of our youth today. The public is sick of those rioters taking all of our television and newspaper time, especially on the most important time of the Christian era, Easter, when Christ arose from the dead and ascended into heaven.

A youth organization called Y. U. G. O. which means Youth Unlimited Gospel Outreach, who are known by the initials of their organization (pronounced You Go) YUGO members give up their vacations from school to come to El Centro to spread the Gospel of Christ.

While here they stay in the local churches, the boys occupying one church while the girls are housed in another. They all sleep in sleeping bags on the floors.

Their food is sent with them from Los Angeles in a refrigerated truck. They prepare their own food in the churches. They use the bathing facilities of the Christian families in the area.

They are high school juniors and seniors, and college students. Our secretary says that you would never know that there were 350 to 400 youngsters in the church unless you were there at the times they sing.

From the churches they go in cars furnished by local Christians to nearby Mexicali, Mexico, to spread the Gospel of Christ.

YUGO's are of no particular denominations, the requirements being that one be a Christian and be willing to take six weeks of training in taking the Gospel to all people. They are trained to speak and sing songs in Spanish, use visual aids to teach Bible stories, and to witness for Christ.

Mostly these youths come from California, but some are from Nevada, New Mexico and Utah. This year they arrived in El Centro on March 30 and left on April 5.

So far as I know, these fine representatives of youth today have never even been recognized by our local newspaper.

The address at which these gracious youngsters can be contacted is First Baptist Church, 7th & Orange Street, El Centro.

Please consider giving these outstanding young people of today a pat on the back through the news media. Yours truly, Loris Walker, Imperial. (Editor's note: The preceding article was given to the News by Mrs. Ed Payne of Thalia. It first appeared on March 31 in a Los Angeles, Calif., newspaper.)

Dallas News Writer Comments on Four-Winds Foundation

About as often as you hear that metropolitan Texas is on the verge of being overwhelmed with problems if its multiple entities don't band together and seek solutions, small rural Texas towns are relegated to an expected oblivion in the not-too-distant future.

Fear of the future, its changes and challenges, energizes many of the small communities with a veneer of conservatism resisting any type of change.

Their newspapers reflect this reluctance to move toward the future. In short, they are accepting the oblivion which declining populations, deteriorating commercial services and stagnation of civic pride and spirit will surely bring.

On the other hand, many of the state's rural areas are moving toward the future with vigor and imagination which might nip their decline and recreate bustling communities where ghost towns could be in the future.

The counties of Childress, Cottle, Hardeman and Foard in West Texas are a prime example.

Taking a page from the planners' book that says urban areas must cooperate to survive, this 4-county area has organized an industrial foundation—the Four Winds—and is actively promoting industrial development.

The Quannah Tribune-Chief summed up the area's attitude in its choice between oblivion and development:

"Is there any alternative to oblivion? It appears obvious that not all towns are needed today and that some will pass out of the picture during coming decades. A few may retain their identities on a small scale. Others, however, will take advantage of growth possibilities, and through hard work and persistent effort, will attract manufacturing and other industries.

"It must be remembered, however, that the acquisition of industry is not automatic, rather it is dependent upon planning and cooperative citizens.

"The town must develop those community aspects which are desired by industry and then systematically 'sell' the town. The future looks encouraging for those towns which have the will to survive. This is the kind of future that the Four Winds is working for."

(Editor's note: The preceding article was written by Mike Kingston, editorial staff writer for the Dallas Morning News and appeared in the April 14 edition of that paper.)

Five Drivers Licenses Suspended in County During 1968

Five drivers licenses were suspended during 1968, according to figures released last week by the Texas Department of Public Safety. One person had his license suspended because of habitual violation of traffic laws; another for violation of restriction and three were suspended because of failure to show financial responsibility.

A LONG WAY... TO KEEP A PROMISE

Electric Cooperatives sometimes build power lines over terrain so rugged it must be patrolled on horseback. Kit Carson Electric Cooperative in northern New Mexico recently did... just to serve seven families in a tiny remote community. Across the country electric cooperatives share a commitment to serve all within their areas.

We take our commitment seriously... and we will go A LONG WAY to keep our promise—to provide low-cost reliable electric power to our consumer-members.

Tax Man Sam Sez

One of the popular questions at Internal Revenue Service this year has been "who must file an estimate?" The tax instructions spell out the rules quite clearly. If you don't have tax withheld from your salary you are usually liable for filing an estimate since this is the way Congress set up the pay-as-you-go system for you. If your withholding is not enough to pay all the tax you owe then you may need to file an estimate. If you are not going to owe more than $40, you don't have to file an estimate in any case. Since a large part of the nation's taxpayers do have a salary or wages and do pay withholding, they simply drop exemptions by changing their form W-4, or request their employer to withhold additional amounts to assure that they have paid enough through withholding to cover their tax bill for the year.
