Leo Durocher to Head Society for the Prevention of Blindness

Leo Durocher, manager of Houston Astros and a man who thrives on controversy and winning baseball games, has been named Sight-Saving chairman for the Texas Society for the Prevention of Blindness. The announcement was made by Neill T. Masterson III, state president, and Leroy Glover, president, Houston Gulf Coast Branch of the Texas organization.

ship, Durocher said he felt participation in the Society's work was of tremendous importance because preventing the tragedy of blindness through education, detection and research is its chief aim. Observing statistics, Durocher said, "It is a sobering fact that half of all blindness can be prevented. This year, 1900 Texans will go blind, and half of these tragedies need not happen." Durocher further reported that cataracts are the leading cause of blindness. But timely surgery, successful in more than 95 out of 100 cases, is the only known cure. Blindness from cataracts is needless in most cases.

Good eye health and safety habits promoted by the Society include educational information distribution through publications, films, speakers, community service programs, such as contact throughout Texas with thousands of children during the Society's Pre-School Vision Screening programs where they report that one in every 20 children from three to six years old is found to have a vision problem.

The group also provides free glaucoma screening for adults, conducted by volunteer ophthalmologists. Glaucoma, a condition characterized by excessive fluid pressure in the eye, is another leading cause of blindness. And although glaucoma is not curable, if it is detected in time it can be treated, and blindness can be prevented.

The Texas Society for the Prevention of Blindness also spearheads an industrial and school eye safety program using protective eye wear.

AUSTIN MCGARRY DURST SCHOOL TEACHER

When Austin Durst of Junction, Texas, graduated from high school in 1907, the students were asked to write out their life goals and put them in a box. "Ten years later," she remembered, "they picked me to open the box. I had written, 'I want to be a successful teacher.' That remained my goal until the last day I taught."

That "last day" was only a few years ago. Austin Durst retired at the age of 80, after 63 years teaching the first grade. The principal of the school and members of the school board had all been taught to read by her. So had well over 3,000 other people—four generations of children—in Junction (pop. 1,500).

"I think I learned more than I taught all those years," she said. "But I have no special wisdom. I was just a first grade teacher, nothing more."

Her words, however, have the ring of wisdom: "I taught simply because I loved to teach and loved the people I taught."

"Success in life doesn't involve cleverness or money or station, but simply involving yourself with others."

"I tried to teach the three R's and also something about truth and honesty and respect for others. A successful teacher does both—at least that's my definition."

"So many children came into my classroom from homes where there was no love. I did my best to let them know there was such a thing as love. There were times when all a child wanted or needed was to sit in my lap a while. I've taught an entire day with a child in my lap."

"Other times I would wake up at night worrying how to reach this one or that one. But it was worth the worry."

Her reward? "I will go to Heaven and all the pupils I ever taught will be there, all the thousands of them. I will walk through the gates and they will all stand up and say 'Good morning, Miss Aussie. And I will know them, every one.'"

Mike Cates, Betsy Wright and Kenny Towery all of Austin, visited in the home of Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Cates and Pat. They also visited Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Self, Saturday.

NEW GRASSES

There's a lot more beef in your favorite grocery store because of improved grasses planted by Texas conservation farmers and ranchers.

In fact, an extra 335 million pounds of beef is produced in Texas every year from grasses released by the USDA Soil Conservation Service.

Edward E. Thomas of Temple, state conservationist for SCS, said the figures came from a recent study conducted by his office.

"Our survey revealed that in the last 20 years, 5.9 million acres of land has been planted to new grasses released by SCS," Thomas said. "Statewide, increased beef production is averaging 56 pounds per acre per year from these grasses. And the average climbs every year."

Thomas admitted that he didn't know how much this affected the price of beef for the housewife.

"But take away that 335 million pounds of beef every year and prices would have only one way to go—up," he stresses.

In the past 25 years, annual beef consumption has jumped from about 64 pounds per person to 113 pounds. Meanwhile, our state's population has increased by more than 50 per cent. That adds to a gigantic increase in the demand for beef."

Without improved grasses and better conservation treatment of grassland, this demand would outstrip available supplies.

Thomas said 23 grasses released by SCS are being grown in Texas. Each has its own area of adaptability and is used to fill a specific conservation need.

Two grasses account for a major share of the acreage planted. Buffelgrass, released by SCS in 1949, has been planted on 1.8 million acres of land in Texas; increased beef production from this grass averages 74 million pounds annually.

King Ranch bluestem, released in 1941, is growing on about one million acres. Other widely planted grasses include Pensacola bahiagrass, El Reno sideoats grama, and weeping lovegrass.

To illustrate how quickly some new grasses become popular with livestock producers, Thomas told of the success of Selection 75 kleingrass.

"We released this grass to commercial seed growers, in cooperation with the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, in 1969," Thomas said. "In spite of the fact that seed are expensive and scarce, 132,000 acres have already been established."

And even though much of this land has not been grazed as yet, increased beef production from this one grass amounted to 11 million pounds last year.

In addition to the increased beef production, the survey revealed that the new grasses have increased mutton production by more than 1.1 million pounds. Smaller increases were noted for milk, mohair, wool and goats.

Next time you go grocery shopping, think how bare the shelves would be without that extra 335 million pounds of beef.

Grain Stocks Down... Egg Production Down... Texas Lamb Crop Down... Wool Production Down... Sheep and Lambs on Feed Increases.

Phase Three and Phase Three and a Half can't be blamed for all of it, but nevertheless production of a number of Texas agricultural products shows declines. One of the exceptions is sheep and lamb feeding which shows an increase from a year ago but still a decline from a few months ago.

As for grains on hand, only stocks of oats are above levels of a year ago. Texas' stocks as of July 1 for the four feed grains—corn, oats, barley and sorghum—are estimated at 95,000,000 bushels, down 50,000,000 bushels from a year ago.

Grain sorghum was responsible for most of the decrease. Stocks of wheat, rye and soybeans are also below a year ago.

Old crop carryover of wheat is estimated at 20,200,000 bushels compared to 42,100,000 bushels a year ago.

Sorghum stocks stored in all positions are estimated at 79,000,000 bushels compared with 129,000,000 bushels a year ago.

Corn stocks are about the same as a year ago. Old crop oat stocks are 700,000 bushels higher than a year ago. Soybean stocks are estimated at 2,700,000 bushels compared to 3,600,000 bushels a year ago.

Nationwide, stocks of all grains are estimated 67,900,000 tons, which is 17 per cent less than a year ago. April-June grain disappearance totaled a record high of 51,300,000 tons, 14 per cent more than the same quarter in 1972.

All of the above figures relate to grains produced in 1972 and earlier. The 1973 crops are not a part of this report.

EGG production in Texas during June is four per cent below a year ago and five per cent below last month. Texas' layers totaled 11,100,000 during June, which is seven per cent below a year ago and two per cent under May's total. The number of layers throughout the nation totaled 285,000,000; this is five per cent below last year and two per cent under last month.

LAMB crop in Texas (lamb born during the period Oct. 1, 1972 through June 30, 1973) is estimated at 1,964,000 head; this is down 15 per cent from the 2,302,000 head last year.

Nationwide, the 1973 lamb crop is estimated at 11,400,000 head. This is down nine per cent from the 1972 crop of 12,500,000 head.

The January 1, 1973 number of breeding ewes one year old and older totaled 12,100,000. This is a decrease of six per cent from a year earlier while ewe lambs under one year were down four per cent.

SHEEP and lambs on feed in Texas as of July 1 is up 13 per cent from a year ago. This, however, is 28 per cent below March. Sheep and lambs on feed are those intended for slaughter being fed a ration of grain or other concentrates or on pastures and expected within the next three months to go to market.

Marketings of fed sheep during March through June at 229,000 head were 3,000 head below the same period a year ago.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights

by Bill Boykin
TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN, TEX.—Rewriting the nearly-century-old Texas constitution is turning out to be a stickier job than many figured.

The Constitution Revision Commission went into overtime at a recent three-day meeting near here, but still failed to complete its agenda and slated another August 10-11 cleanup meeting.

Meanwhile, legislative planners for the 1974 Constitutional Convention, at which lawmakers will actually propose a revised constitution, disagreed on routine stage-setting.

House members suggested a new voting machine (which was later ordered) and new desks for delegates. Senate planning committee spokesmen indicated they would be satisfied to bring their own desks over from across the capital grounds and set them up in the House middle aisle.

The revision panel agreed: To keep the provision for real property taxation in the constitution for state purposes, but leave it to the legislature to write separate laws governing personal property taxation.

To retain the state highway users gasoline tax, with three-fourths of the revenue earmarked for highway building and one-fourth for public schools. A provision was made for abolishing the highway fund levy on statewide referendum with support of two-thirds of the legislature.

To keep the Permanent University Fund and Permanent School funds in the constitution. The university fund would be altered somewhat to include present and future branches of the University of Texas and Texas A&M University.

To add to the constitution a guarantee of financial support for all schools and districts rich and poor.

To retain as constitutional elected members of the executive branch only the governor, lieutenant governor and attorney general, with legislature empowered to decide if the comptroller, treasurer, secretary of state, land commissioner and railroad commissioner should be elected or appointed by the governor. "HOUSES" closed—Two landmark bawdy houses -- in La Grange and Sealy -- were closed by local officials on request of state officials.

Gov. Dolph Briscoe, Atty. Gen. John Hill and Department of Public Safety Director Wilson E. Speir sought action after reports aired by a Houston television station.

Briscoe acknowledged he had received calls from La Grange area citizens both supporting and opposing the action. He said he had been told he would be petitioned by a group who want the famed "Chicken Ranch" reopened.

Hill and Speir said they found no link with organized crime in operation of the houses, but Attorney General Hill added: "It is an illegal operation. The local officials were requested to take action. They took it." RATE RAISE EXPECTED—An increase in some workmen's compensation insurance rates is due under a new law increasing benefits for those injured or killed in job accidents.

An average 19.5 per cent hike in the rates employers must pay for the coverage is anticipated under a State Insurance Board Staff proposal, which would become effective if approved between September 1 and September 15.

Rates would have gone up 22.8 per cent in the absence of the federal anti-inflation program, a Board actuary indicated. Under new law effective September, an injured worker can get up to a maximum of $63.00 a week in benefits, an increase from the present $49.00 top.

AG OPINIONS—A national bank does not come under definition of governmental bodies or institutions which are required to comply with the new open records act, Attorney General Hill held.

In other recent opinions, Hill concluded:

A Laredo fireman injured in Nuevo Laredo, Mexico, while on duty is entitled to benefits under the state Firemen's Relief and Retirement Law.

State government branches and their services (excepting political subdivisions but including hospitals and colleges) are covered under the Texas Unemployment Act.

Subordinated capital notes of the Harlingen National Bank are part of its indebtedness and are not to be considered capital in determining value of shares for taxation.

School trustees are authorized to purchase insurance to cover cost of litigation and award of damages growing out of official acts.

Qualifications for Control Board members set by Article 4475.5 Civil Statutes. Conduct will be governed in January 1 by provisions 1973 ethics law, and could be removed from violations.

The house in which they had been living was destroyed by the tropical storm that hit South Texas last week, but none of the family was injured. About 20 inches of rain fell during the storm.

TO OLD TIMERS IN FOARD COUNTY

We, the families of Taylor, Wesley and Dunn have been having our section of the Old Margaret Cemetery, where our families are buried, cleaned off and we would like to see all the cemetery cleaned as well as our sections, but our families have limited funds. If there are others who are interested and will contribute to the cleaning of the area not occupied by our families, please see Dora Faye Etter. She works in the drug store in Crowell.

We would like to have the graves restored and the whole cemetery cleaned.

This request was sent to the News by Mrs. J. B. (Nena) Hardin.

The volume of food eaten, per person, in the United States, is expected to hit a record high in 1973, up seven per cent from 10 years ago.
