FARM AND HOUSEHOLD.

Hops should be kept in bags and hung up. They are not good after a year old.

It may not be known to every person that is troubled with hicough, that a lump of sugar saturated with vinegar will stop it almost instantly.

Artistic wall racks for the display of photographs, family albums being out of date, are among the novelties of the day, and are advertised as the "fashionable craze."

To relieve heartburn, mix a little corn meal in water; allow the meal to settle, and drink the water. Or eat a bit of powdered charcoal. These will often relieve when magnesia or chalk fail.

There is no use in cleaning your poultry houses unless you burn the old nests. They will harbor more of the various kinds of poultry parasites than you can ever exterminate with a white-wash brush.

An Ohio farmer says he cured his horses of coughing by using oil of tar and camphor gum. He puts in all the camphor gum the tar would cut and gave a teaspoonful on the tongue three times a day after feeding.

The portion of the body which most requires protection against cold and wind, is that between the shoulder blades behind, as it is at this point the lungs are attached to the body, and the blood is easily chilled.

Spruce butter tubs are the best; hemlock makes a sweet tub; acids from the oak color the butter and injure its appearance, white ash gives the butter a strong flavor if kept long and increases the liability to mold; maple smells and cracks badly.

Rolling apple dumplings are a novelty and are delicious. Peel and chop fine some tart apples; make a rich crust as for biscuit, roll it half an inch thick, spread it thickly with the apple, sprinkle fine sugar and powdered cinnamon over it, then cut it in strips two inches wide; roll it up just as you do jelly roll; put a little lump of butter on each roll after it is put in the tin or dripping-pan; a little juice will drain from the apples if they are good ones; keep this to put into the sauce; flavor this with brandy or wine if you like it, otherwise make a plain sour pudding sauce.

Although it may require some extra work, it will pay well, and be a decided convenience, to have a pasture field just large enough, and located conveniently to the stable, for the work horses. Horses that work during the day, and seldom are allowed the privilege of the pasture field except at night, will relish the grass more and thrive better on it than if all kinds of stock are allowed to run through it during the day.

Besides all this, they are entitled to the best, if there is any choice, and such pasture lots should be kept well covered with the best of grass.

Docking Horses' Tails.

This cruel practice, together with that of nicking, was exploded by common sense and humanity long ago; but I regret to see, from late English papers, that the barbarous custom is again coming into fashion in the United Kingdom.

The only benefit claimed for shortening the tail is that it prevents the horse, when driven in harness, from catching the reins under. The writers in the Veterinary Journal say that a short tail is more readily thrown over the reins than a long one, as the former is more horizontal than the latter.

Lock-jaw and death occasionally happen from docking, and much pain and suffering always result from cutting and securing the stump with a hot iron, and what is more repulsive to a feeling mind than the sight of a sloughing stump and carious bones? I shall expect to see this followed up by the cropping of ears for that years ago was also in fashion, as it was contended it improved the appearance of the horse.

When horses are turned out to pasture, a long tail is very necessary for them to brush off flies and other tormenting insects, and if they have not this protection, it is almost impossible for them to keep in fair condition.

I have found an easier preventative of the harness horse getting the reins under his tail. This is done by fastening an iron post to each end of the dash board with an iron rod stretching across from one post to the other. Place these as high nearly as the root of the tail run the reins over the rod, then they cannot be caught by the switching. These posts and rod may be made an ornamental part of the carriage, fervently trust that the cruel and unnecessary practice of docking and nicking will not be introduced again into America.

Professor Virchow, one of the leading scientists of Vienna, says that notwithstanding the German custom of eating American pork, no case of human tuberculosis could be traced to it.

White Dresses.

For graduating dresses and for summer afternoons at the watering places sheer white muslin dresses are being made in very simple styles, and are again trimmed with embroidered flounces or with the Oriental lace that resembles embroidery.

Soft French nainsook is the favorite material, and may be used plain for the principal part of the dress, or else wrought all over with small sprigs, leaves, or arabesques. The pattern dresses, partly of plain and partly of embroidered muslin, with scalloped edges, may be bought in the shops at from $6 or $7 upward, and the styles are so simple that the dress can be made at home.

The basque with a gathered front, an apron over-skirt which may be either long or short, and flounces on the lower skirt are in favor for such dresses. The basque is without lining, and is fitted in the back by a short side form, and may have darts in front, or be gathered into shape at the neck and throat by rows of shirring.

With every recurring Easter the concoctions in egg-decoration increase, and so does the demand for them. Confectioners were the first to introduce the Easter egg in this country, and this was followed by the Easter card.

There are but few Americans who, upon the approach of Easter, can tell why in many of the larger confectionery stores eggs are seen surmounted by a rabbit. The legend is this: On the Continent, especially in Germany, the patron saint, as it were, of the Easter eggs, is the rabbit.

There are all conceivable shapes, fancies and designs, and novelties are continually appearing. The larger quantity are imported from Germany and France, but the work of designing is growing rapidly in the United States. They are made of sugar, gum paste, papier mache, chocolate, bronze, gold, silver, glass, wood, wicker, etc.

Within recent years it has become possible to hatch chickens, ducks and geese by artificial means. This method of rapid hatching has been utilized by those who cater to the Easter trade. When the chicks, or geese, or ducks are a day old they are killed and their bodies stuffed, and they are thus sold singly or attached to an egg or a cart as the case may be.

In Germany the stork figures as the natal bird, and to it is blended a legend somewhat similar to that of the rabbit and Santa Claus.

In the basement of a substantial four-story brick building in Murray street a Times reporter was shown the other day a great heap of what seemed to be broken pieces of putty. Barrels and boxes around the room were filled with the substance.

The one cent copper coin has gone into circulation at Seattle, W. T., a heretofore unheard-of money denomination in those regions.

The Scotch terrier that took the death of his mistress, at Stapleton, so much to heart is dead. It had collected several articles that belonged to her in one corner of the room and guarded them night and day, allowing no one to come near them.

MRS. HENRY WARD BEECHER.

BROOKLYN, March 25th, 1884. I have used ALCOCK'S PLASTERS for some years for myself and family, and as far as able, for the many sufferers who come to us for assistance, and have found them a genuine relief for most of the aches and pains which flesh is heir to.

A GOOD many who invest in distant homes find themselves afflicted with a slight mental infirmity—absence of mind.

Mr. W. B. Lathrop, of South Easton, Mass., under date of Jan. 7, 1884, says: "My father had for years an eating cancer on his under lip, which had been gradually growing worse until it had eaten away his under lip down to the gums, and was feeding itself on the inside of his cheek, and the surgeons said a horrible death was soon to come."

Widely Adopted by Dairymen. The adoption by most of the prominent dairymen and farmers of the United States, of the Improved Butter Color made by Wells, Richardson & Co., Burlington, Vt., is a proof of their wisdom in a business point of view.

WHEN does a horse become a book-keeper? When he becomes a "charger." The testimony of many who long suffered from ill health, caused by an impure state of the blood, goes to prove that the best remedy for making the blood rich, red and pure, for beautifying the complexion, for curing sores, pimples and other skin diseases, for removing aches, pains, stiff joints, rheumatism, etc., for increasing the power of endurance, for giving health and strength to every weak portion of the body, is Dr. Guyot's Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla.

FROM Major Downs, Military Instructor, Mt. Pleasant Academy, Sing Sing, N. Y.: During the very cold weather I was suffering with Catarrh. My head and throat ached so severely that I was obliged to keep quiet. Ely's Cream Balm was suggested. Within an hour from the first application I felt relieved, the pain began to subside. In a few days I was entirely cured. W. A. DOWNS.

THE more you contract a cold the greater it becomes.—Drake's Traveler's Magazine.

ABERNETHY, the great English surgeon, asked a lady who told him she only had a cough, "What would you have? The plague." Beware of "only coughs." The worst cases can, however, be cured by Dr. Wm. Hall's Balsam For The Lungs. In Whooping Cough and Croup it is sure to prevent a fatal termination.

NO WOMAN can live without some share of physical suffering; but many accept as inevitable a great amount of pain which can be avoided. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound was invented by one who understood its need, and had the rare skill to provide a simple, yet admirably effective remedy.
