The following statistics are some of the reasons for the above selections and their fine 8-2 season.
Wilson scored 257 points to its opponents 82 points. These statistics are based on 9 games, cause wet weather destroyed one set of statistics.
Wilson gained a total of 1,927 yards rushing to its opponents 660 yards. Wilson passed for 1165 yards to their opponents 463 yards.

The leading ball carriers for Wilson were:
David Hernandez, 604 yards out of 120 carries; Greg Wied 544 yards out of 117 carries; Lynn Jones, 231 yards out of 45 carries; Danny Trotter, 210 yards out of 41 carries; Lester Walker, 135 yards out of 37 carries.

Wilson's fine Senior quarterback, John Fields completed 62 of 127 passes and only had four intercepted. He passed for a total of 1,121 yards and 16 touchdowns. John's fine passing season came as a result of several fine receivers. Split end Chris Coleman caught 21 passes for 466 yards and 5 T.D.'s. Tight end Danny Crowson caught 22 passes of 403 and 8 T.D.'s. Wingback Greg Wied caught 11 passes for 224 yards and 3 T.D.'s. And halfback David Hernandez caught 7 passes for 62 yards.

SOIL CONSERVATION NEWS

BY MAX W. BAKER

With the near completion of grain harvest and with cotton harvest well underway now the time to consider management of crop residues. The amount and the long-term crop residues can be left on the surface of the soil, more protection is provided. Grain or forage sorghum stubble left standing provides not only protection from wind, but also retains large amounts of moisture by holding snow on the fields instead of letting it drift into ditches and roadways. The type of tillage employed should be considered to obtain sufficient residues to provide adequate protection. The average, large sweeps, weeders, or chisels will remove about 10 percent of the residue on the ground. A tandem disc will cover about 25 percent; a cultivator or home made about 15 percent; and a one-way moldboard plow about 50 percent. Limited tillage operations in the fall to leave crop residues can reduce the number of trips over a field with a sand fighter in the spring.

Another way to reduce blowing, is the protection of "trigger areas" such as turnrows. Last year, a number of farmers sowed turnrows in wheat or rye for protection. This year we have noticed a number of landowners over the district covering turnrows with cottonburrs. Although this will not stop the problem, it will give short range protection.

JOHNNY VALENTINE...EDITOR-PUBLISHER

Linda Huffaker Says . . .

Some old -- and dishonorable -- tricks to selling have survived years of use, and they're just as "good" as new, because people still "fall" for them.

Holiday shoppers should "know their merchant if you don't know the merchandise, and if in doubt about it, don't buy until you check with other sellers."

Caution is just as old as -- and more powerful than -- selling tricks.

Some common selling deceptions, identified by the Federal Trade Commission, are as follows:

1. Free goods -- some advertisements for "free" goods are published without mention of the terms or conditions. Often "free" is printed in large letters, and the money you pay for "hand-ling" is put in small letters.

2. Phony prices -- some price tags falsely claim "drastic reductions." Often the item never sold at the higher price mentioned. Other phony prices may be disguised as an offer of two or more items "for the price of one," when the price for the single item simply may have been made up.

3. Bait and switch -- advertisement for an item at a really low price, but at the store, the salesman says the products is "sold out" or "not worthwhile." He offers instead a more expensive product.

4. Winning a contest -- the potential customer is told he has "won a contest," often one he did not even enter, but to get the "prize," he has to pay, buy or subscribe to something. Another form of the gimmick is actually to give some item and the plague the taker to buy more merchandise.

5. Deceptive guarantees -- many so-called "guarantees" mean nothing. They're worthy of suspicion if the guarantee document doesn't describe the parts covered or excluded, or doesn't explain the conditions.

If the guarantee doesn't mention the seller's name or how to get it fulfilled, it may turn out to be useless.

6. Free estimates -- the trickster takes advantage of the fact that verbal estimates are hard to prove and enforce. He gives a product or service cost estimate and after the deal he "remembers" or adds extra charges or conditions.

In conclusion, the agent reflected on consumer and merchant behavior in general. "The mutual confidence existing between consumer's and merchants is a vital part of the economy of any community."

When this mutual respect exists, the problems of customer satisfaction are reduced. Prudent merchants appreciate their customers and want to conduct business in ways that earn repeat trade and profit.

COTTON TALKS

FROM PLAINS COTTON GROWERS, INC.

The final estimate of 1972 cotton production from the 25 High Plains counties served by Plains Cotton Growers Inc., made December 7 by the joint PCT - Lubbock Cotton Exchange Estimates Committee, edged past the 2 million bale mark for the first time this season.

The fifth monthly estimate for this year was set at 2,012,000 bales, up 23,000 from the November projection of 1,989,000. Estimates from August through November had hovered just below the 2 million bale figure. The final "guess" moved up slightly in response to encouraging yields and gin turn out from many of the first fields harvested. As of the date of the estimate only about 354,000 bales, something like 18 percent of the crop, had been received at classing offices in Brownfield, Levelland, Lamesa and Lubbock.

Acres for harvest in the 25 counties is estimated at 2,494,500.

The production estimate is calculated by the committee in 480 pound net weight bales, and if both acreage and production figures prove correct, per-acre yield for the area will be 387 pounds. Thus the first 2 million bale crop since 1965 will be more the result of high acreage than a "bumper crop," points out Joe D. Unfred of NewHome, chairman of PCG's half of the committee.

From 1958 through 1968 the average per-acre yield on the Plains was 469 pounds. Low for that period was 418 pounds per acre in 1959, and the all-time high for the Plains was established at 519 pounds per acre in 1965. For total volume the area's record still stands at 2,443,900 bales harvested from 2,416,000 acres in 1961.

Cotton production began to hit on hard times in 1969 when a per-acre yield of 349 pounds was recorded, down from 492 pounds the previous year. Then came 1971 with only 389 pounds per acre, followed by last year's pitiful 264 pound yield, lowest since the 200 pounds per acre of 1952.

If the current estimate is right, 1972 will be the fourth year in the past 15, and the fourth year in a row, that the Plains has turned out less than 400 pounds per acre. Value of the crop to area farmers is difficult to pinpoint under currently unsettled market conditions. However, some in the industry speculate that 20 cents per pound for the entire crop might be a "reasonable guess," and that would make lint from the expected 2 million bales worth roughly $192 million. About $130 million in production payments already have been made in the area and seed will add another $35 million or so, bringing overall value of the crop at the farm level to well over $350 million.

Still "leading the pack" in total estimated production is Lubbock County, traditionally the area's top producer. But close behind this year are Dawson and Gaines Counties, either of which could score an upset with only a slight error in projected per-acre yields. Outturn from the three counties, respectively, is now expected to be 215,000, 210,000 and 200,000 bales.

A Lynn county tabulation of the December estimate of acreage, yields and total production in 480 net weight bales, together with the November production estimate for comparison, appears below.

BILL GRIFFIN SAYS

Christmas trees will soon be the center of attraction in many homes and the problem of keeping them safe becomes vital.

Several suggestions which may help prevent dangerous problems are offered.

The base of the tree should always be placed in water. Christmas tree with its base immersed in water has less potential to catch fire. Further more, this practice preserves the freshness of the foliage. Check the water level frequently. The tree may require as much as a pint of water per day.

Adding aspirin, sugar or any other substances to the water does not increase the water uptake of the tree.

Keep the tree away from all sources of heat, such as fireplaces or heating units. Use a fire screen to contain flying sparks which might ignite the tree.

The lighting system should be in good working order. Inspect and discard wires with frayed insulation, broken sockets and loose connections. Don't overload electrical circuits.

More reasons why you should shop at home

Do you know the feeling?
You are bruised physically, emotionally and financially.
You have been confused and frustrated by off-ramps on-ramps, diamond, cloverleaf and one-way direction flow interchanges.
Your car has been in a drag race on a parking ramp incline.
Sales people look the other way. You've been jostled, bounced and bullied. You clutch your packages because you are afraid they may disappear.
It's kinda nice to shop at home, isn't it?
We think so.

*Figures in this table are based on annual performance averages of funds listed in the Management Results section of Wiesenberger's Investment Companies, except for the categories of bond and preferred stock funds, tax-free exchange funds and international funds. Annual average performance was derived by adding each fund's performance and dividing by the number of funds. New funds were added as they appeared in the Wiesenberger volumes which were used. In 1950, 1961 and 1970, for example, the number of funds was 40, 145 and 307, respectively. Investment results assume initial investment of $9,150 following deduction of sales charge of 8 1/2 percent and subsequent reinvestment of dividends and capital gains.

The Record

$10,000 to $94,008.
The table illustrates how an investment of $10,000 in 1950 would have fared, year by year, measured by the average performance of mutual funds. It shows that by the end of 1971 it would have grown to $94,008 for a net gain of $84,008.
The same $10,000 at 5% interest compounded annually would have produced a guaranteed net gain of $19,256 over the same period.
©INVESTMENT COMPANY INSTITUTE, 1972

The table also indicates the extent to which mutual fund investments can fluctuate with conditions in the investment markets. It shows how, in the "down" years, such as in 1969 and 1970, the short-term investor's shares could have lost value. But over the long term, the number of "up" years exceeded "down" years by nearly three to one, and gains far outweighed losses. Of course, the record of any individual fund varies with its investment objectives and performance.

The figures demonstrate the advantages of long-term thinking and long-term investing for those now planning for the future. While past performance is no guarantee of the future, the record of the fund industry over the last two decades should be an important factor in the investment decision of any potential investor.
Mutual funds are for people with faith in the future.
