

KANSAS CITY LETTER.

Cattle Receipts Decreasing—Prices Firm on all Fat Cattle—Hog Receipts Large and Fair Demand—Mutton in Good Demand.

BRANCH OFFICE TEXAS LIVE STOCK JOURNAL, KANSAS CITY, MO., June 29, 1886.

There has been a decrease in the receipts of cattle during the past week, but the demand has not been in excess of the supply. The market as a rule has been dull compared with previous weeks, yet prices continue firm at last quotations upon fat cattle. The receipts of hogs have been large with a fair demand. The receipts of mutton have been light, and not equal to the demand. Fat sheep, though light, have sold at $3 to 3.40. We have had but few Texas cattle on the market, but quite a number of cars of Texas half-breeds, which, when in good condition, sell well. Yesterday native shippers sold at from $4.30 to 4.45, and cows at $3.10 to 3.25. Receipts of cattle to-day were 1,528, and hogs 15,389. The following are a few of the sales to-day: 23 heifers, 1-year-old, of 740 lbs., $3.75; 37 Texas stags of 1,125 lbs., $3.60; 60 native shippers of 1,324 lbs., $4.65; 30 medium butchers of 637 lbs., $3.60; 20 native shippers of 1,107 lbs., $4.80; cows of 936 lbs., $3.80. The above prices indicate that the prices are 20 to 15 cents lower than last week.

Good mutton will always sell well at this market, but the only shipments of Texas sheep thus far have been so poor that they found no market. Our Texas people ought to profit by their sad experiences in this regard, and ship nothing to market that will not command at least a fair market price. The Stock Yards company are rapidly enlarging their yards, and before the early fall, shipments that are made to this market will have the best arranged stock yards in the United States, with a capacity to care for 75,000 head of stock. That portion of the stock yards designed for horses is the most complete in all its departments that I have seen anywhere, and still other improvements are to be made. The management of these departments is in the hands of F. E. Short and Capt. W. S. Tough, who are both experienced horse men.

Capt. Wiley Jones, of Waco, Texas, who came here in May with some Texas mules, starts for Texas to-night, and will carry with him five fine stallions, one of which is an imported horse and valued at $2,500. Capt. Jones expresses himself well pleased with this market and will return early in the fall.

From information received from an official of the Santa Fe railroad, I am pleased to note the fact that the construction of this road into Texas will be pushed forward as rapidly as possible, and I feel hopeful that late fall shipments can be made over this line. When this splendid line of road is completed, and connection is made with the Chicago & Alton, which is the popular live stock road from this city, Texas cattlemen can ship to Kansas City and thence to Chicago if desired by almost an air line.

ANGUS AND GALLOWAY.

An Angus Breeder Tells Something of Why and How They Differ.

The list of horse quotations published by the Kansas City Live Stock Indicator show in extremes that horse and mule stock sells from $17 to $500 per head. The quotations are as follows:

eration, and mating short-legged, heavy-fleshed, dam to sire of the same kind for beef. If early maturity is wanted keep feeding from birth until the type has been fixed, so we know we can take the calf of a certain family and make him an 1,800-pound steer, before he is three years old, &c. &c. But I have not told the difference yet between the Galloways and Angus: Well let me say that a Scotchman on his native heath is like the laws of the Medes and Persians; he seldom, if ever changes. The ambition of the boys is, to do what his father did, and in about the same way. Now the Scotchman in southern Scotland, which is the Galloway district, is raising the same kind of cattle, (and with a few exceptions, notably the Duke of Buccleuch, and a few of the best farmers) is trying to raise them as what is called "store" cattle—we call them stock cattle) by grazing principally upon poor land as any man would wish to see. Being near the Gulf stream the climate is not very severe, but cloudy, misty and rainy. This peculiar climate and running out, browsing for a living, is what makes the hair of the Galloway so shaggy, and with poor care and poor feed for generations is probably what makes him so slow a feeder, and in a measure account for his absence from the Smithfield fat-stock shows year after year.

The Scotchmen in Northern Scotland are blessed with a better soil, and can produce turkeys and oats to beat the world. Hence for generations they have been feeders of cattle for beef and the best fed in the northern counties is probably the best of the world affords, and sells for the highest price of any in the world. It can readily be inferred that in a country where the feed grows, some of these cattlemen would make their impress in a few centuries upon the stock of their country, and that is just what they have done. While the cattle of both the Galloway and the Angus districts have the very same characteristics, the effect of the "improver's" hand may be seen in the fine silken coat of the one, and its absence in the other; by the smooth, shapely head and neck of the one, and its absence in the other; by the small, light tail, with its delicate bush in one, and the reverse in the other; by the wonderfully sprung rib in the Angus, indicating that they have been fed as well as bred, and by their unprecedented tendency to get fleshy, showing that for generations attention has been given by the skillful breeder, to put the quality into them; for be it remembered "Nature" never made an improved man, horse, ox or hog.

I presume every man has concluded there was a great similarity between the breeds. I know I was struck with that fact when I first saw them, and any man who will take the trouble to examine closely, cattle bred by the Duke of Buccleuch will see how much like the Polled-Angus they are especially in head and hair. I want to be entirely fair in what I say, and I record myself here as saying I believe that originally the Angus and Galloway were the same wild breed of cattle, and that the distinctive difference in them to day is, from the more and longer skillful making, feeding and improving by man. The objectionable features have been bred off the Angus to a far greater extent, and the desirable features have been bred on, until to-day they are known as two distinct breeds, and have two distinct books of record for the pedigreed stock. I may say I think that usefulness will be found in both of these breeds, especially in a country like this, where most of our cattle are scrubs, and right here I want to close by saying, that experience will prove to every farmer and cattlemen, that horns are a positive detriment in very many ways, and the reader of this article keep it, to remember, that I say if any man ever handles cattle one season without horns he will forever banish horned cattle from his place.

Texas Wool Grower... Established June, 1882. Consolidated with Texas Live Stock Journal...

The Wool Trade. Once again wool is worth something. From the depths of despair the wool grower emerges to the old standard of success.

The wool reports from every center show great activity in the wool trade. New York and Philadelphia report weekly sales of over a million pounds.

At the present Texas spring fine wools are easily quotable at eastern centers at 25 cents. This puts Texas values at 21 to 22, according to freight rates.

The Commercial Bulletin of the 20th ut. contains the following, relating to Texas wools and the general market: The market has ruled strong and active throughout the week.

There is nothing, however, on the commercial horizon that would seem to warrant any decline in wool, although any further advance is dubious to say the least.

Texas wool has been selling with some freedom during the week and sound fine staple of 12 months' growth has been taken at 25c.

Another Tariff Bill. There is another bill affecting the general interests of the country and touching tariff matters, introduced by Mr. Randall of Pennsylvania.

at basis wherein the foreign manufactures cannot come in to our disadvantage. When the tariff on wool becomes non effective as the tariff on corn, wool and woolen goods can come in free.

At present a clean distinction is not made between washed and scoured wools. Advantage is taken to beat the revenue and to introduce wools under a lower tariff.

We sincerely hope for the success of the bill. So far as we can examine in to the merit of the case, it is in the worsted manufactures that American mills suffer and through them the wool-growers.

If imported, unwashed carded or combed wools are to pay a duty fixed at 48 cents per pound and 10 per cent ad valorem.

Mr. L. B. Haynie, of Rice, Navarro county, a veteran sheep breeder, arrived in town on Wednesday on a mission for the Dallas State fair.

When a man makes up his mind to give away his sheep he should look around for a deserving object.

Supposing a sheep owner has a couple of thousand alleged muttons, and supposing that some are in very good fix, and some are in medium fix, and some are in poor fix.

The shipment of a train load of mutton requires strong justification in the fact that all the sheep are fat and that the owner accompanies the sheep to market to see that the sheep are properly watered and fed.

The sheep man persists in shipping out sheep, two full double deck cars is enough. It gives the man return transportation.

We are opposed to the railroads getting the mutton and would prefer to see charity bestowed on more deserving objects.

WEEKLY CLIP. The Philadelphia wool market advanced during the week ending Saturday, June 27th, and the clip sold amounted to 1,500,000 pounds, including 100,000 pounds of Texas wool.

Stocks of wool are getting low in the seaboard markets, and shrewd manufacturers are securing supplies of wool at interior points.

A man was driving sheep down a lane as though he had only a minute to live. That the butcher said he didn't want such mutton was not surprising.

Al. Luderbaugh last week turned over 800 head of mutton from P. H. Kelley's herd, on the Frisco, to Schlosser & Storz, of Georgetown.

OUR ST. LOUIS LETTER. About the Sheep Business—Fast Trains—Wool Trade.

No doubt by this time it has been fully demonstrated to the Texas flockmaster and farmer that there is but little profit to ship sheep to market with the advent of summer.

The receipts of stock thus far this month, compared with the same time last June, show a decrease of 5,500 cattle, an increase of 40,000 hogs, and no change in sheep.

It is said that the most successful sheep grower of Colorado, in the past decade has been Mr. F. D. Wright, of Trinidad.

New York, June 25.—Wool—Wool active and firm. Manufacturers more disposed to handle fuller lines.

The wool trade has a much more healthy appearance now than at any time in several years.

Canadian route, opening up to the West as well as to the East, and the supply of the demand for home consumption, there will be the still more valuable wool clip.—[Exchange.]

The New York wool market to-day is fully 10 per cent higher than it was a week ago, and next week it will be at least 5 to 10 per cent more.

If the entire trade are not already aware that our clip of wool will show a decrease of ten million pounds of wool at least, they do not deserve to be called members.

Mutton Supplements Wool. Ohio Farmer. Farmers will probably never eat mutton to any extent.

There is a very foolish prejudice against the goat. Its flesh is even superior to mutton, possessing a gamy flavor in which the sheep is lacking.

But, even if the farmers can never be induced to eat much mutton, that is no reason why the mutton quality of the American sheep should not be more developed than it is at present.

It is entirely practicable to grow a very good article of wool and mutton on the same sheep.

On the other hand, it goes without saying that the very best of the mutton breeds, the South Down, can not produce the wool which the civilized world every year increasingly demands.

It is idle to assert that any one breed of sheep yields mutton conspicuously better than any other, if killed at the same age and under the same conditions.

Some time ago a question came up between some gentlemen, all farmers, as to the period of gestation for sheep, and no two agreed as to the time.

We give the following table for that purpose, and we would suggest each farmer paste it in a conspicuous place near his pen.

Animals: Mare, days, 300 to 400; average 340. Cow, days, 220 to 320; average 280.
