Messra, T. M. Brown & Co., Fort Worth, Texas:

Gentlemen—Enclosed find our order for another carload of "Leaders." Please rush these mills through as fast as possible.

Since we have taken ahold of your "Leader" Mill in Southwest Texas, we have not been able to meet the demand. It proves to be a good, reliable mill—no complaints coming in from any source. Our customers seem to appreciate the fact that we have made others come down in prices, and placed a good Windmill in the reach of all. You have surely noted with satisfaction that our agent at Marfa, Mr. O. N. Turner, has sold a carload of the "Leaders" in 30 days.

Realizing His Danger

An Intelligent and Progressive Farmer of Jefferson County, New York, Consults Local Physicians-Each One Prescribes for a Different Ailment. All fail to Give Relief.

From the Eagle, Cape Vincent, New York. "When doctors disagree who shall decide?" That doctors do disagree and very frequently, is absolutely true. As an instance of this the Eagle would cite the case of Herbert M. Fish, an intelligent and progressive farmer of the town of Cape Vincent. Mr. Fish makes the following statement.

"In December, 1895, I commenced to lose my appetite and partook of food very sparingly and without relish. Day by day I grew gradually weaker, my strength failed me and I soon found myself completely run down. I consulted with local physicians, each one prescribing for a different ailment, one claiming that I was troubled with an aggravated attack of the grip, another that I had jaundice, and so on. Notwithstanding their treatment I grew gradually worse and almost gave up all hope of every regaining my health. I tried nearly all of the leading patent medicines in use but failed to receive the slightest benefit therefrom.
