

THE COTTONWOOD FALLS COURANT.

W. E. TIMMONS, Publisher.

COTTONWOOD FALLS, - KANSAS.

BABY'S.

A baby's lips are charms complete. Like red rose blooms the brown head tips...

A baby's cheek, where beauty blooms. And bright smiles play a hide and seek...

A baby's word, akin to tears. So newly coined, both blessings and grief...

A baby's laugh, so clear and true. Is real, and not cheat and chaff...

COUNTING THE MINUTES

CROWD of ten had been sitting in the Hoffman house bar-room all the evening...

circle early in the night, and had listened attentively, but had not talked. It was near midnight when one of the circle demanded a story from him.

"Really, gentlemen," said the stranger, "I'm not much of a story teller, but I can tell you of an experience I had. It was the time I came nearest being scared to death."

THE WINTER GIRL

She is Equally as Charming as Her Summer sister. "I think it is all nonsense continually singing the praises of the summer girl..."

So to bed with these weapons held in our hands under the bed clothing cooked and ready for use, and we agreed that at the first sign of an attack we would shoot.

"It was about ten o'clock when we lay down. We had hoped that this fellow would go off to bed himself. But he still sat by the fire and showed no signs of moving."

"Now, I thought, 'comes the end,' and I clutched my pistol so hard that there was danger that it would explode. Rifle in hand, the fellow crept up to me. The dull light of the fire threw a ghastly glare on his brutal face."

"You've heard told of all the scenes of a man's life passing before his eyes when he is drowning. Well, I believe every sin I ever committed, and some I had never committed, passed before my eyes then."

"I know you men are all daft on sunburn and simple gowns, but tell me candidly if a rosy-cheeked, bright-eyed, fair-skinned creature, with her hair in curl, her gown taut and trim as a tailor can make it and a well-groomed air about her that is wonderfully fetching is not far more lovely than the wind-tossed, frowsy young miss whose gowns are in a bed of wrinkles and whose bang will not stay bung?"

"The picture appeared very attractive to the man, it must be admitted, yet he was not willing to give in, and suggested that beach tete-a-tete, canoeing, rooking and sundry other little amusements would lack zest if entered into with the precise maiden just described."

"That is so like a man," laughed the girl. "Of course, one couldn't do any of those things in Chestnut street tows, but has it ever occurred to you how sweet and womanly a certain somebody looks in her pretty house gown, with lace ruffles at throat and wrists, presiding at her little tea table, when winds howl without and snow lies deep on the ground?"

"The story goes that a man wrote to the editor of a horticultural paper asking what plants would be suitable additions to the dried grasses for winter ornaments. The editor replied: 'Aeroclinium roseum, A. album, Gomphrena globosa and G. globosa camea.'"

PUBLIC SCHOOLS CELEBRATION.

Programme for Columbus Day, as Arranged by the Executive Committee. At nine o'clock on Friday, October 21, the schools will assemble. At half-past nine a detail of veterans will reach the school building in Maine as in California, in Dakota as in Louisiana.

"In accordance with this recommendation by the president of the United States, and as a sign of our devotion to our country, let the flag of our nation be unfurled above this school." As the flag reaches the top of the staff the veterans will lead the assembly in "three cheers for Old Glory."

A prayer and an acknowledgment of God follows, and the song of Columbus day will have its first rendition in public. The first stanza is given in the accompanying cut. The other stanzas follow:

Dear country, the star of the valiant and free! Thy fields are dreaming of thee. No fields of the earth so enchantingly shine, No air breathes such incense, such music as thine.

Humanity's home! thy sheltering breast Gives welcome and room to strangers oppressed. Pale children of hunger and hatred and wrong Find life in thy freedom and joy in thy song.

What a grand day this morning, to signal that he then first saw the new world. Yes—the New World. For that discovery added more than a new continent to the other continents. It changed the prospects of mankind; it opened broad lands to their labor; it gave them great new hopes, and so made the world new.

Behind him, in old Europe, Columbus left our own ancestors—men, women, girls and boys—without any better prospect than that of toiling and fighting for kings and nobles. He left behind him a world where the most of the people were common people, and where common people were treated as having few human rights.

He saw before him a new world, where those common people, set free to do their own will, were by and by to establish the same rights for everybody, free education for all the children and a government by the people for the people.

So, let us promise that the flag of our dear land, which is so proud and bright, flies over our heads today, shall never be stained by our fault. Let us pledge ourselves that the great name America shall forever mean an equal chance to every citizen and love to all the world.

For he sailed from the past with its stifling walls to the future's open sky. And the ghosts of gloom and fear were laid as the breath of heaven went by.

As fogs are lost when sun and wind sweep ocean ripples and bare, And freedom and larger knowledge dawned clear, the sky to span, And bright, not of priest or king, but of every child of man!

Uplift the new world's banner to greet the exultant sun! Let its rays gleam still follow its beams as swift to west they run, Till the wide air rings with shout and hymn to welcome its shining high.

Oh, vow to live and die for it, if glorious death must be! The brave of all the centuries gone this starry flag have wrought: In dungeons dim of rocky fields, its light and peace were bought; And you who front the future—whose days our dreams fulfill—

On Liberty's immortal height, oh, plant it firmer still! For it floats for broadest learning; for the soul's supreme release: For law disdaining license; for righteousness and peace: For valor born of justice, and its amplest scope and plan

Make a queen of every woman, a king of every While forever, like Columbus, o'er Truth's unfathomed main It pilots to the hidden isles, a grander realm to gain. Ah! what a mighty trust is ours, the noblest ever sung. To keep this banner spotless its kindred stars among!

Our fleets may throng the oceans—our foris the headlands crown: Our mines their treasures lavish for mint and mart and town— Rich fields and flocks and busy looms bring pieces far and wide; And statelier temples deck the land than Rome's or Athens' pride— And science dare the mysteries of earth and wave and sky—

Till none with us in splendor and strength and skill can vie: Yet, should we reckon Liberty and Manhood less than these, And the rights of the humblest between our feet— our circling seas— Should we be false to our sacred past, our fathers' God forgetting, This banner would lose its luster, our sun be night his setting!

But the dawn will sooner forget the east, the tides their ebb and flow, Than you forget our radiant flag and its matchless glory! Nay! you will keep it high advanced with ever brightening way— The banner whose light betokens the Lord's divine day— Leading the nations gloriously in freedom's holy way! No cloud on the field of azure—no stain on the rosy bars— God bless you, youths and maidens, as you guard the Stripes and Stars!

WHAT THE SCHOOLS ARE TO DO. Francis Bellamy, chairman of the executive committee, offers the following among other suggestions:

USEFUL AND SUGGESTIVE.

—Broiled Mushrooms.—Large mushrooms are required for this. Broil over a clear fire, and turn once. Put them in a very hot dish with a piece of butter, and salt and pepper on each mushroom. Serve very hot. They may be broiled in an ordinary frying pan almost as nicely, not using any fat or butter to grease the pan, of course, and taking care to prevent burning.—Good Housekeeping.

—Canned Pumpkin.—A winter supply of canned pumpkin is very nice to have, and the process of putting it up is simple, and the pumpkin seems to keep very well. Peel them and cut in small pieces, stew until they become tender and mash them. Add no seasoning whatever; simply fill the cans as with fruit, white hot, and seal them. The pumpkin may be seasoned to suit the taste when it is opened for use.—Prairie Farmer.

—Tomato Soy.—One peck of ripe tomatoes, peeled and sliced thinly; eight onions minced fine. Sprinkle between the layers one cupful of salt, and let them stand twenty-four hours. Then drain off all liquor and add two quarts of vinegar, one tablespoonful each of ground ginger, cloves, mustard and allspice, and one-half tablespoonful of cayenne pepper. Simmer for three hours, and, when nearly done, add two pounds of coffee sugar and one-fourth of a pound of white mustard seed.—Good Housekeeping.

—Marble is a very difficult article to clean if it is stained in such a way that the stain has sunk into the stone. Slight stains may be removed with a pumice stone, or with vigorous scrubbing. Greasy stains are best removed with a paste of Fuller's earth applied in the same way it is applied to wall-paper. It is said that stains of ink on marble may be removed by hydrochloric acid, which is a powerful poison, and which must be washed off with water almost as soon as it is applied, to prevent its eating into the stone.—N. Y. Tribune.

—Madeline Cakes.—Rub to a cream half a pound of butter, add three cups of sugar and the strained yolks of six eggs, and then a cup of sweet cream or rich milk, in which an even teaspoonful of soda has been mixed. Beat the cake thoroughly, and add three and a half cups of flour, in which two teaspoonfuls of cream of tartar has been mixed. Beat the cake well, and add carefully the whites of four eggs beaten very stiff. Use the two whites of eggs left over for icing, coloring some of it brown with chocolate, and the rest of it pink with cranberry juice. Cover each little cake with thick, soft icing. When properly made and baked, each little cake is deliciously tender, a melting morsel.—Boston Budget.

—Preserved or Candied Violets.—These are sold at extravagant prices, but can be prepared at home with small expense and care. Add half a pint of water to half a pound of granulated sugar, put in a new tinpan over the fire and stir until the sugar is all melted. Then cook together until the sirup spins a thread; remove from the fire and set in a pan of cold water. When a little cool beat rapidly until it is partly crystallized. Have ready a quantity of double sweet violets (the white preferred); cut off the stems, drop in a few and stir gently. Then with wire tongs lift them on to oiled paper and leave them until hard. Another method is to boil the sugar and water until, when dropped in cool water, it will be hard and brittle. Then throw the violets into the sirup and keep them in until it boils up again. Stir the sirup around the edge of the pan until it is grainy; then stir the flowers about and lift out with the wire tongs on a thin white cloth. Place on a sieve in warming oven, and turn them often to help them dry faster.—N. Y. World.

PEKIN BEGGARS. The Crying Evil of the Capital of the Chinese Empire. Beggars are the curse, the most crying and shameful evil of Peking. Numbering some 80,000, they form a kind of caste, a fraternity, with their own traditions and privileges, such as those of the mendicants of the middle ages in western Europe, and like them, having their "emperor of Galilee, duke of Egypt, or king of Thunes," that is to say, an elected chief to whom they all yield obedience. The most curious feature of the whole institution is that the chief, whose headquarters are on the Bridge of the Gate of Heaven, is recognized by the police of Peking, who deal directly with him in matters relating to the corporation of the town.

As for the misery of these beggars, no description could give any idea of it. But for a rag about their loins, they are stark naked. Even in the severest winter, when the bitter wind sweeps across the Mongolian steppes and the thermometer is far below zero, the poor wretches have, most of them, not a shred of clothing to wrap about their shoulders, and they succumb to the cold every night by hundreds. Gaunt and wan, covered with vermin and sores, they wander about the town, harrowing the feelings of the passers-by with their piteous lamentations, and fighting with dogs for a share in the refuse of the streets; or for hours together they crouch outside a shop, driving purchasers away by their mere presence, till the owner gets out of patience and flings them a few cents of self-defense. When night comes, they seek shelter under a bridge beneath the gates of the town, or in some tumble-down house, lying down helter-skelter, men, women, young girls and children, in a promiscuous heap. Their physical misery is such that their moral degradation is overlooked. From their faces all traces of an inner life are wiped out; like the beasts, they can only endure, and seem to some extent, to have lost the capacity for suffering.—Harper's Weekly.

Permissible English. "If I have to wait much longer," said the new boarder to his landlady, "I shall leave the table." "Thanks, awfully," said the landlady, "tables come high just now." Then he tore up the front stairs.—Detroit Free Press.

—Dancing Master—"I want to look at some nice shoes for dancing." Shoe Man—"Yes, sir, here you are. A nice pair of kangaroo-skin shoes; and you know, sir, for hops, the kangaroo can't be beaten." —Dora Knew Him.—"Corra—"I'm much pleased with my new acquaintance, Mr. Jimpson. I hope to know him better." Dora—"Well, it would be impossible to know him worse."—Yankee Blade.

A TIRED WOMAN, just as much as a sick and ailing one, needs Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. That builds up strength, and invigorates the entire female system. It regulates and promotes all the proper functions of womanhood, improves digestion, dispels aches and pains, melancholy and nervousness, brings refreshing sleep, and restores health and strength.

It's a powerful restorative tonic and soothing nervine, made especially for women's needs, and the only guaranteed remedy for woman's weakness and ailments. In all "female complaints" and irregularities, if it ever fails to benefit or cure, you have your money back.

PISO'S CURE FOR About seven years ago I had Bronchitis, which finally drifted into Consumption, so the doctors said, and they had about given me up. I was confined to my bed. One day my husband went for the doctor, but he was not in his office. The druggist sent me a bottle of Piso's Cure for Consumption. I took two doses of it, and was greatly relieved before the doctor came. He told me to continue its use as long as it helped me. I did so, and the result is, I am now sound and well—entirely cured of Consumption.—Mrs. P. E. BAKER, Harrisburg, Illinois, February 20, 1891.

"German Syrup"

I must say a word as to the efficacy of German Syrup. I have used it in my family for Bronchitis, the result of Colds, with most excellent success. I have taken it myself for Throat Troubles, and have derived good results therefrom. I therefore recommend it to my neighbors as an excellent remedy in such cases. James T. Durette, Earlysville, Va. Beware of dealers who offer you "something just as good." Always insist on having Boschee's German Syrup.

INGALLS TALKS.

The Ex-Senator Opens the Campaign at Topeka.

Thousands Flock to Hear His First Speech of the Campaign—He Reminds Republicans of Their Duty in the Present Contest.

TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 10.—An hour and a half before the time set for the appearance of Hon. John J. Ingalls at the Grand opera house Saturday night 6,000 persons occupied the seats and the aisles, and fully as many more crowded outside around the house.

Being introduced, Mr. Ingalls stepped forward and delivered an address which has been more anxiously looked for than any other utterances ever pronounced in Kansas.

After some personal explanations, Mr. Ingalls said: I have during the past three months talked with scores of you with hundreds of business men in New York, Philadelphia, Boston, Baltimore and the great commercial cities along the Atlantic seaboard; I have talked with them upon the sea. I talked with them as I met them in Europe; men who had heretofore acted with the democratic party, they said to me that while the republican policy of protection was not all that they desired; while there were features of the McKinley bill that they did not like, that they had discovered the results were not what they had been predicted.

They found that wages had risen; they found that the prices of the necessities of life had diminished; they found that the importation of non-durable goods had decreased; they said what this country needed in its business energies and permanence, in its ability, and repose. We know that if President Harrison is chosen for another four years, we shall have permanence and tranquility and repose, but if Grover Cleveland is elected we know we shall have four years of agitation, turmoil, of disturbance and uncertainty, and we are going to vote for Benjamin Harrison.

KANSAS STRAIGHT OUTS.

Meeting of Stalwart Democrats at Topeka.

Fusion With the Populists Strongly Denounced—Resolutions Adopted and an Address Issued—State Central Committee.

TOPEKA, Kan., Oct. 8.—The conference of stalwart democrats called to meet in this city assembled yesterday, but was not called to order until nearly noon.

W. M. Mitchell called the meeting to order and introduced A. A. Harris, of Fort Scott, as chairman. His speech outlined the policy which the convention was expected to pursue. Resolutions drawn up by presented by J. B. Crouch and adopted by the convention were as follows:

1. We most heartily approve the enactment of democratic faith and doctrine by the national democratic convention at Chicago in June last.

2. Grover Cleveland and Adlai E. Stevenson, as statesmen and patriots, are eminently worthy the highest offices in the gift of the American people, and we solemnly promise to do all in our power, consistent with honor, to secure their election.

3. The action of the state convention of July 6 in attempting to bind democrats to the support of the so-called people's party ticket, was a crime without a parallel in the political history of our country. It does violence to every conception of honorable principles, is contrary to democratic precept and practice, is not binding upon democrats, nor will we be bound thereby. It is the duty of every democrat in Kansas to exercise his individual judgment in voting for state officers.

4. We are opposed to the enactment by the legislature of this state of any law tending to impair the obligation of contracts, or which in any wise injuriously affects the credit of our people.

5. We are opposed to legislation which will unnecessarily disturb the harmonious relations now existing between employer and employe, and which would deprive faithful and honest labor of its just reward.

6. We are in favor of a convention to revise our state constitution, and request our friends to attend and make any amendments to the same which will be for the benefit of the people of this state.

7. We are opposed to the sub-treasury and land loan schemes, and to the governmental ownership of railroads with the consequent franchise of more than one million of our citizens in the public service have been a contagion of evil to the people of this state.

GROVER'S GREETING.

Democratic Clubs Meet in New York City.

Mr. Cleveland Received With Great Enthusiasm—He Speaks on the Duty of the Party in the Present Emergency.

New York, Oct. 5.—The second quadrennial convention of the national association of democratic clubs opened yesterday.

The boxes were filled with fashionably dressed ladies who seemed to fully share the enthusiasm of their fathers, brothers or husbands, and the whole grand auditorium crowded when a little before 11 o'clock ex-Lieut.-Gov. Chauncey F. Black, of Pennsylvania, president of the association, was discovered coming up on the stage. There was a shout which grew to a roar when close behind him the figure of Grover Cleveland was recognized.

Mr. Black at the conclusion of his speech turned toward Mr. Cleveland, who arose at the moment, and presented him to the audience. When the cheers that greeted him had subsided Mr. Cleveland spoke as follows: Mr. President and Gentlemen: It affords me special pleasure to extend to you on this occasion a hearty welcome.

As a citizen of this proud municipality I am glad to assure you that our hospitality is always open and generous. In behalf of a community distinguished for its Americanism and toleration in all matters of belief and judgment, I know I may extend a cordial greeting to those who here represent political thoughtfulness and sincerity. As an unyielding and consistent believer in democratic principles, I trust I need not hesitate to pledge to the representatives of organized democracy the good will and fraternal sympathy of this democratic city.

Your meeting is the council of war which precedes a decisive battle, and your deliberations should be the preparation for stormy conflict. All your weapons and all your equipments are soon to be tested. You have organized and planned to inaugurate the final campaign to assure you now near at hand. This, then, is no holiday assemblage, but an impressive convocation in furtherance of the designs and purposes for the accomplishment of which you and those who represent an honorable and noble cause, are united in a common purpose.

These professions embody the purest patriotism and loftiest aspirations of American citizenship. Though at all times they should suggest to us the strongest obligations to political effort, their motive forces as incentives to political activity and watchfulness should be irresistible at a time when the constitution is held in light esteem as against the accomplishment of selfish purposes, when the state is beset by anarchy and a barrier to centralized power, and when local self government and freedom of elections are the seat of partisanship.

Those who subscribe to the creed of this association secure your claim to sincere and hearty excuse themselves for lack of effort at a time when the necessities of the government economically administered have but little relation to the taxation of the people and when extravagance in the public service has been a contagious plague. To those who hope for better things, this convention of democratic clubs is a bright promise of reform. Unorganized conditions and idle patriotic aspirations cannot successfully contend for mastery with the compact forces of private interests and greed, nor is the organization always the most useful which has the widest extent.

The real benefit of political organization is found in its nearness to the people and in the directness of its action. Of course harmony and unity of purpose are absolutely essential to this view your assembling together is most important, in so far as it promotes this harmony and unity by conference and a consideration of methods and in so far as it inspires that zeal and enthusiasm which will make an effective your work at home. Therefore I am sure that I can say nothing better in taking my leave of you than to wish that your convention may be a most profitable and encouraging one and that in its conclusion you may resume your places in your home organizations newly inspired to determined and zealous effort in the cause of true democracy.

As to the operations of the current year, which will include nine months of the last year of the present administrative term, Secretary Foster calculated that the treasury will show a balance of $10,000,000 on the 30th of June, 1893.

MANUFACTURING STATISTICS.

A Few Advanced Figures From the Census Bureau.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 8.—The census bulletin giving the manufacturing statistics of 100 leading cities will be ready about the 15th inst. The figures in all cases have not been verified. From advance information the preliminary figures showing the amounts of increase in several of the leading manufacturing cities can be given at this time, all, however, being subject to revision. In most cases the verified schedules are expected to give greater amounts than quoted here.

Kansas City, Mo., shows an increase of more than 1,200 manufacturing establishments over the number given in the census of 1880, of $10,000,000 of capital, $8,000,000 of wages paid and $25,000,000 in value of products.

St. Joseph, Mo., shows an increase of more than fifty establishments, of more than $3,000,000, of more than $1,250,000 in wages paid and $6,000,000 in value of products.

Kansas City, Kan., was paying in 1890 on a capital of $11,000,000 more than $4,000,000 in wages, and showing a value of products of more than $44,000,000.

Evansville, Ind., shows a decrease of capital in the period named of more than $2,000,000 on a basis of $2,000,000, an increase in the number of hands employed of more than 1,600, and in wages paid an increase of more than $400,000.

Minneapolis shows an increase of 2,300 establishments, $40,000,000 capital, $12,000,000 in wages paid and $60,000,000 in value of products.

St. Paul shows an increase of more than 1,000 establishments, an increase of 12,000 hands employed, of $7,000,000 increase in wages and more than $20,000,000 increase in products.

Chicago shows an increase of more than 6,000 establishments, of nearly $20,000,000 in capital, of $80,000,000 in wages paid, and nearly $400,000,000 in value of products.

Of the eastern cities, New York shows increase of 13,000 establishments, $140,000,000 of capital, $125,000,000 in wages paid, and nearly $300,000,000 in value of products.

M'VEAGH FOR CLEVELAND.

President Garfield's Attorney-General Tells Why He Will Support Cleveland.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 5.—Hon. Wayne McVeagh, who was attorney-general in President Garfield's cabinet, sent the following letter to J. W. Carter, secretary of the Massachusetts Reform club yesterday:

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 4.—Your cordial invitation to address the citizens of Boston on the issues of the canvass happens to reach me just when professional engagements prevent my naming a time when I can do so, but you are quite right in concluding that I intend to vote for Mr. Cleveland. Entertaining the convictions I do, no other course is open to me and I cheerfully accord to the supporters of President Harrison the same sense of public duty by which I claim to be actuated.

In the present campaign support fairly be called the false alarms of the canvass will prove of little value because of the general confidence in the safe and conservative character of both candidates. Every voter knows that free trade is impossible in this country for the conclusive reason that the vast revenues now required to meet the expenses of the government will necessarily afford a far higher degree of protection to our established and prosperous manufacturers than either Alexander Hamilton or Henry Clay thought desirable in the infancy of our weak and struggling industries.

The average voter also knows that the irredeemable paper currency in use before the war can never reappear. On the other hand, he knows as well that no system of duties or imports however inequitable can prevent our continued growth in wealth, in manufactures and in population, a growth due to the incomparable advantages of intelligence and energy of the people and the blessings of free institutions.

While I am more than ever resolved to hold duty to country far above any ties of party, I find myself at present in general accord with the democratic party and willing to trust its course in the future. The insight, the courage and the patriotism the masses of the party exhibited in compelling the nomination of Mr. Cleveland when he was without a single office holder to support his candidacy, seems to me to demand that I should meet them in the same spirit and act with them as long as they maintain that high standard of policy and administration. It is more easy to do so because the republican party, securing its return to power four years ago by promising to preserve matters as they were, has now, in fact, done what I regard as a reckless and revolutionary policy, even overturning all the safeguards of legislation in the house of representatives in their haste to pass the force bill and McKinley bill—both to my mind, unnecessary and unwise measures.

The republican party ought to be an honest money party, and it would be if it could, but while it demanded increased bounties for its favored manufacturers, it would not refuse bounties to the silver producers, as the votes they control were probably necessary to the passage of the McKinley bill. The poison of a debased currency is in the hands of the people and more felt in every channel of business and finance, and it is inevitably driving gold out of the country and leading us to all the evils of a fluctuating and, therefore, dishonest currency based upon silver alone.

If congress was to levy taxes upon the people to confer bounties upon certain classes of manufacturers, it was very natural that the pension agents should have increased their pension fees by an indiscriminate granting of pensions. The result is a steady increase of the vast sums passing through the pension agent's hands until now the total amount staggers belief and has become a very serious burden upon the treasury.

There is still another great and increasing evil chiefly traceable, in my opinion, to the maintenance of a silver currency, and that is the constant meddling with it to make it higher, and that is the bringing to our shores of those vast swarms of undesirable immigrants. Just as the duties upon imported merchandise have been increased so the duties of imported labor have been lowered. As the republican party is now definitely committed to the policy of restricting taxation to the needs of the government for public purposes alone.

As to the operations of the current year, which will include nine months of the last year of the present administrative term, Secretary Foster calculated that the treasury will show a balance of $10,000,000 on the 30th of June, 1893.

The financial statement for September shows that the cholera scare had not appreciably affected customs receipts.

THE MILITARY RACE.

Two Austrians Arrive First at Berlin—Prince Leopold First at Vienna.

BERLIN, Oct. 5.—At 9:30 a. m. yesterday Lieut. Miklos, of the Austrian army, one of the competitors in the long distance military race which began Saturday morning, arrived at the goal in the Templehof field. He left Vienna at 7:50 o'clock Saturday morning and was there three days, one hour and forty-five minutes in traversing the distance. He was the first of the riders, either German or Austrian, to finish. The judges had been waiting at the custom house all night, as it was thought that some of the Austrians would arrive during the night.

At daylight military and civilians began to gather and by the time the lieutenant arrived the assemblage was large. The Austrian officer was given an enthusiastic welcome. Both rider and animal seemed to be completely worn out. The lieutenant was lifted from his horse and conducted to the custom house and the horse was well cared for.

The second Austrian officer to arrive at the German goal was Lieut. Gravoisy, who finished his ride at 11:10 a. m. He and Lieut. Miklos started from the Austrian starting place together. Lieut. Miklos, however, left his fellow starter behind.

Despite the predictions to the contrary, Prince Leopold was the first of the German riders to arrive at Florisdorf, the Austrian terminus of the race. He finished his ride at 7:45 o'clock yesterday evening. His horse broke down after he left Iglau and it was given injections of morphia before it was able to proceed. Thousands of persons were present at Florisdorf to welcome him.

As to the operations of the current year, which will include nine months of the last year of the present administrative term, Secretary Foster calculated that the treasury will show a balance of $10,000,000 on the 30th of June, 1893.

REBEL MEXICAN INDIANS.

El Paso, Tex., Oct. 10.—Four hundred soldiers from the City of Mexico arrived at Chihuahua last evening and took up the march for Guerrero. They are sent as reinforcements to the troops already in the field against the small band of Indians who captured Gen. Reja and staff and killed forty-one federal soldiers some weeks since. The Indians do not number over twenty-five, and they are fully 500 soldiers after them now, besides the 400 en route. They have retreated into the mountains and taken a position from which the government has failed to dislodge them.

CORNER STONE LAID.

ATCHESON, Kan., Oct. 10.—The cornerstone of the Church of the Sacred Heart in West Atchison was laid yesterday with impressive ceremonies. The sermon was preached by Rev. Father Lillis, of St. Patrick's cathedral, Kansas City, Mo., and music was furnished by St. Benedict's band, of this city. Father Matthew is the pastor of the new church.

BRITISH INDUSTRIES.

Recent Alarmist Statements Rather Exaggerated.

LONDON, Oct. 8.—The sensational reports current of the prevalence of a severe depression in the commercial and agricultural interests of Great Britain have caused the Associated Press representative here to make special inquiries at the labor bureau and in other quarters. The officials of the labor bureau stated that while the prevailing depression is considerable, it is not unprecedented. Taking the returns of the whole of the trades unions reporting during September, 5 per cent. of the number of workmen are shown to be out of employment.

KILLED BY COAL GAS.

DETROIT, Mich., Oct. 8.—James Rogers and his wife were found dead at their home, No. 163 Jefferson avenue, having been asphyxiated by coal gas. Both had been dead for some hours when found, and from the position of the bodies had evidently tried to reach a window, but were overpowered by the gas. Rogers was a deputy sheriff connected with the justice courts. He was 30 years old and his wife 46.
