HIGH SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT

SEVENTY-THREE PUPILS GET DIPLOMAS

2 SERMONS SUNDAY

Exercises Attended by Immense Throng of People—Two Pupils win Six Scholarships.

Commencement exercises of the Henrietta high school came to a close Monday night when the 23
graduates rendered their program and received their diplomas in the presence of an audience that taxed the capacity of the Y. M. C. A. auditorium.

The class numbered 23, the largest in many years if not the largest in the history of the school, was arranged in a semi-circle on the stage marching in in single file and taking their seats after the curtain was raised, and the beautiful young ladies and stalwart young gentlemen
made a most inspiring sight.

Each number on the program was listened to attentively and given hearty applause. In delivering the diplomas Supt. Walker made quite an extended address to the class giving them

some good advice and exhortation. In addition to the diplomas six scholarships were given,
two to the State university at Austin one to Southwestern university at Georgetown, Trinity university at Waxahachie, Wesley college and the College of Industrial Arts at Denton. These were awarded three to Miss Ruby Hise of Willow Springs, she receiving the highest grade among the girls of the class, and three to Vincent Stine of Henrietta, he receiving the highest grade among the boys. The distribution in this manner was prescribed by the universities offering the scholarships, otherwise they would have been divided in some satisfactory manner between six pupils instead of two.

The auditorium was fittingly decorated in the class colors, red and white. There were streamers of bunting around the stage, extending out to the boxes, and suspended from the front of the stage was the year "1914" in very large red and white figures. Extending across the front of the stage, overhanging the footlights
was a row of native wild flowers.
The young ladies each carried a large red and a white carnation and the young gentlemen the same colors on their lapels.

Of the class of 23, there were 13 who had gone through the school from the first grade up, together. They are Sybil Heladay, Anna McJilton, Sadie Ikard, Ruby Henderson, Nannie Graves,

First Rural Credit Union.

Rosenberg, Tex., May 26.—Joseph Dedek of this city is perfecting plans for the organization of a rural credit union. Mr. Dedek is receiving much encouragement from the farmers in this section and it is their plan to cooperate with him in every way possible in perfecting this system. This will be the first rural credit union organized in Texas under the Act of the Thirty-Third Legislature and it is the intention of the organizer to put the union in operation shortly so as to afford sufficient time to demonstrate the defects and needs of the law before the next Legislature meets.

Facts About Liberia.

The board of missions of the Episcopal church has issued some interesting facts about Liberia,
West Africa. Under the American Colonization society, organized in 1816, American negroes went to Africa what is now called Liberia. There are now about 12,000 of these Liberians, most of them descendants of negroes from America. Back in the interior live about 1,000,000 aborigines of the country. The first white missionary was sent there in 1833. Others followed sixteen years later.

Odd Fellows Memorial.

The local lodge of Odd Fellows

are requested to meet in the lod-

noon of that date and take part in the exercises.

A BIG JOB FOR THE DOCTOR.

2308 FARMS

In Clay County, and Farming
Capital Employed Is Nearly Twenty Millions.

The Commercial Secretaries
send the following information with reference to farming in Clay county, the figures being taken from the latest supplemental census report:

There are 2308 farms in this county.

97 per cent of the land area of this county is in farms.

33 per cent of the farm land
in this county is improved.

The average farm in this county contains 311 acres.

The value of farm property of this county has increased 153
per cent during the past decade.
The farming industry of this county represents a capital investment of $19,206,000.

From these figures it appears that there are 236,870 acres of land under cultivation. A conservative estimate is that one sixth of this or approximately 40, 000 acres are in wheat which will yield an average of 20 bushels to the acre making 800,000 bushels,
which at 88 cents per bushel,
at Chicago quotations for July wheat, will bring $704,000.

First Service in New Church.

The first service was held in the new Baptist church at this place Sunday, May 24. Pastors of the other churches in the city and some lay members of the churches took part in the services, for which special music had been prepared. The services were conducted by

NO TITANIC DAMAGES

Supreme Court Holds that the Ships Owner Was Not Guilty of Negligence.

Washington, May 25.—Practically nothing may be recovered by those who lost relatives or baggage in the Titanic disaster as a decision today by the supreme court.

Whether the Oceanic Steam Navigation Company owner of the steamship Titanic, were obligated to pay damages claims of more than $1,000,000 for loss of life and property occasioned by the sinking of the ship April 14, 1912, was the question involved.
The company claimed that under American law it was not liable, except for a comparatively small sum, representing the passage money and freight and salvage.

The claimants contended that the British law should be followed, making the steamship company liable. In behalf of the claimants, William J. Mellor, a British subject, and Harry Anderson, an American, filed suit in the Federal district court of New York, claiming the company was liable under the British law.
The court held in their favor. An appeal was taken to the Federal court of appeals for the Second circuit and that court certifies the case on three questions of law to the supreme court.

The Titanic, on her maiden voyage from England to the United States, hit an iceberg. The company claimed that it had made every effort to make the ship seaworthy, and that the fatal collision was "due to inevitable" and not to negligence.

A committee of the United States senate which made an investigation, reported that the ship was without sufficient life-saving apparatus and that there had been negligence on the part of the officers and crew.

The company's petition stated that while $1,000,000 in claims had been filed against it, $91,- $05.54 represented the total interest of the company in what was left after the accident.

Rev. C. G. Howard, who has been instrumental in the building of this church, and who has recently accepted a call to the Baptist church at Marlin. The new pastor, Rev. W. B. Holland, late of Henrietta, was present and took part in the service.

9 NEW BILLS BY GRAND JURY

SHORT SESSION BUT EFFEC-TIVE WORK

ALL FOR BURGLARY

Five Are Against Boys Under 16
—For Bellevue Burglary
in March.

A called session of the grand jury was held Tuesday and Wednesday that was productive heavy results, nine indictments for burglary having been returned.

Four were against Fred Boston, J. F. Osteen, Frank Williams and another party who has not been arrested, charged them with having broken into a store at Bellevue during the month of March when they stole a considerable amount of goods. Entrance was effected by cutting a hole in the door large enough to admit a hand and then unlocking the door, which was secured by a spring lock.

The other five were Henrietta boys under 16 years of age, but only three of them have been arrested. They are Bill McGee, Bill Reed and Bill Powers. It is alleged in the indictment that they broke into H. C. Gosh's store and took money from the drawer. The exact amount is not positively known, but it is something around $25.

A MEXICAN REFUGEE.

Guaymas Editor Passes Through Henrietta, Having Left All
but His Machine Behind.

A tramp printer traveling in an automobile is rather an unusual occurrence, because most of them ride the break rods of freight trains or the blind baggage on passengers, but Henrietta had one in an auto Monday, and what is more strange, the machine belonged to him. He also had a few story—he wanted work
enough to get money to buy gasoline. Usually they just want to eat. But this one was an unusual tramp.

According to his story, the man who gave his name as C.A. Duns-more, is a refugee from Mexico.

He went to Guaymas, Mexico, on the west coast, five years ago from El Paso and began the publication of the Guaymas, Gazette and was making money under every effort to make the ship down of the mines incident to the war began to curtail business.
Recently the feeling against Americans became so strong that it became necessary to leave and the print shop was turned over to the German consular agent. By agreement his partner took what money they had on hand and he took the auto, and Mr. Dinsmore was making his way to Dallas
where he has friends.

He thinks there will never be any peace in Mexico until the United States takes charge with her armies and enforces it at the point of the bayonet and the steel jacketed bullet.

When peace does come he will go back and see if his type and presses are there.

She Wins the Vote on Her Golden Wedding Anniversary

It was a great day for Chicago suffragists, young and old, when they went to the polls 150,000 strong and registered as voters. Many ardent workers wiped tears of joy from their cheeks when they registered their names; others took the matter in more jovial mood. But there was no more interesting sight than when Mr. and Mrs. D. E. R. Abbott of 842 Crescent place, Chicago, swore to the laws of their registration, as pictured here.
The day happened to be their golden wedding anniversary. Their registration was a prelude to the celebration which followed at their home. Mr. Abbott is seventy-seven years old and Mrs. Abbott seventy years. The business of the polling place was suspended to congratulate the couple.

Methodist Against Tobacco.

A rule established by the general conference of the M. E. Church South, at its recent meeting at Oklahoma City, provides that no more preachers who use tobacco shall be admitted into the conferences. This information was furnished by Rev. J. A. Kerr, who is glad that he joined the conference long ago. He uses the weed. A SLIDE ON A ROOF

Terrifying Experience on a Coated Mansard.

FIGHTING DEATH IN MIDAIR

Perilous Plight of Two Workers, and an Exhibition of Cobiness, Presence of Mind and Heroic Patience—How the Difficult Rescue Was Effected.

During the fall and winter of 1878 A. T. Stewart, who had bought the Grand Union hotel at Saratoga, largely rebuilt that great hostelry of 2,000 rooms. The building has a mansard roof, and at the peak it is ninety-eight feet from the sidewalk.

One cold winter morning, when the work was virtually completed, two men, Harvey, the head roofer, and a helper named Dennison went up on the roof to finish the flashing round the base of the tower. There had been a slight mist that morning, and it had frozen upon the roof, but the men had on india rubber overshoes to prevent them from slipping on the slates.

Suddenly, however, Harvey's foot began to slip. He went very slowly first for the upper part of a mansard roof is not steep. He tried to stop himself, but there was nothing to which he could cling. He turned his head in Dennison's direction to see if he could not give some assistance, but Dennison, too, was sliding slowly down the roof.

Harvey's presence of mind did not leave him. "Lie down flat," he called. So both men carefully laid themselves at full length on the icy roof in order that the increased friction might retard, and perhaps stop, their descent. For an instant it checked the movement. Then the men began again slowly to slip nearer the angle of the roof and the steep pitch below.

It seemed like hours, although it was only a few moments, when Harvey felt his heels catch on a slight projection. A blind gutter had been built into the lower edge of the upper part of the roof to carry off the large amount of water that would fall upon such a expanse of roof. The upper gutter projected above the slate roof only about half an inch, but it was against this that Harvey's heels had caught.

There he hung on the very brink of the abyss—safe for an instant. He dared not move a muscle, however, or even turn his head to see if Dennison were still on the roof. He did not call for help, for he feared that the mere effort of filling his lungs and shouting might dislodge him. No one could see the men on the top of the roof from the street below. He lay here like a log—carpenters who were at work inside the building. But how should they know what was happening up there on the roof?

Suddenly Harvey heard a voice, low, but distinct, come from the tower above him. "Hold on," it said, "and I'll help you!" Then after a long time Harvey heard the sound of several voices. Whoever had found him had got help.

The first voice spoke again: "Hold on! We will lower this rope to you!" Presently something rubbed on the slate above Harvey's head. It was the rope, which they were slowly working down toward him.

"Can you get hold of it?" asked the voice.

"I don't dare move much," Harvey replied. "Can't you get it down near my hand?"

They had to give it a slip to get it by his shoulder. Then it traversed the length of his arm and finally touched his hand.

Harvey raised his arm very carefully and took hold of the rope. It was an inch cable that had been used in raising the slate from the ground to the roof.

"Can you turn over very carefully and climb up?" asked the voice.

Cautiously Harvey worked his hand along on the rope—it was his right hand—until he finally drew it taut. Then he carefully raised his left hand and, reaching across, grasped the rope with that hand too.

Then when the worst of the matter was over, he began to shake like a leaf. He lay there, flat on his back, clinging desperately to the rope and dreading inexpressibly the next step. How was he to turn over on that slippery roof when he needed both hands to cling to the rope?

At last he spoke hoarsely: "Can you pull me up?" They consulted together.

"I don't dare to turn over," he added.

There was a sharp tug on the rope. Harvey let them draw his arms up to their extreme length, still afraid to trust his weight to his rescuers. Then he felt his heels lose their grip on the gutter, and he began slowly to move upward.

It was not till he had nearly reached the tower that he dared turn his head in Dennison's direction to see if he were still safe. There he was, spread out on the roof, just as Harvey had been. He did not move a muscle. Patiently, heroically, he waited his turn. Then the men seized Harvey's shoulders and drew him into the tower.

SOME of these Clay county farmers declare that their wheat is neck high and half head.

AFTER this Mexican affair is settled maybe we can get down to the more important matter of good roads.

THE state health department is complaining that reports of deaths and births are not made promptly, and we believe the complaint is well founded. The man who gets the vital statistics for The Independent from the records in the court house is sometimes impressed with the fact that the baby whose birth he wants to put in the paper, is nearly old enough to be weaned when the doctor's certificate has reached the clerk's office. And sometimes a wife has died and when the certificate of her death gets round it sometimes seems long enough for the license to have been issued for her husband's second marriage. It is just as easy for the doctor or undertaker to make these reports at one time as another, and there seems no good reason why there should be any delay.

IT IS probable the Methodists will transfer their allegiance from Vanderbilt university to the Southern Methodist university at Dallas, and we don't blame them. Who wants to have it run over them by a fellow who believes his ancestry were monkeys, like Carnegie does, even if he has great wads of money and thinks only the poor die happy.

HOW long is this thing going to last? There are ten people in the Clay county jail and five of them are outsiders. It is bad enough to punish the malefactors who live within our bounds, but when they come here from other counties and other states and violate the laws it places a burden and a disgrace on us that properly belong elsewhere.

OUR commencement was unique in having two sermons instead of one, but what is still more unique, they pulled it off without a discussion of what time worn subject of "Beyond the Alps Lies Italy". Seriously, it pays to get out of the rut sometimes.

ONE of the national magazines carries in its June number an article on the subject "Is Any Woman Easy to Live With," and as far as we have been able to learn it has lost in this town six of its women subscribers on account of it.

THEY had another fight among gunmen in New York last Monday, yet there are people in that city who think Texas is a lawless state and that a light cannot be kept in a house at night for fear some one will shoot it out.

THE governor has pardoned the steward of the Elk lodge at Marshall who sold liquor in violation of law, on the ground that it was a test case and no flagrant violation of the law was intended. That will be all right if the Elk lodge will live up to the test.

ROOSEVELT STILL A PRESIDENTIAL CANDIDATE.

Former President Roosevelt has returned from South America and has in a way announced that he will be a candidate for president again on the Progressive ticket. That is good news. Especially is it good news to Democrats, because as long as the Bull Moose party stays to the front the Democrats are going to win. Pie tastes good, and after a fast of so many years the good lasts a long time.

The question of the unification of the Republicans of course looms up in the minds of many, but we think it is in their minds only. Already, since Roosevelt got home from his discoveries in South America, he has stirred up a quarrel with Cannon who is running for congress again and Cannon is threatening to publish Roosevelt's letters written to him while he was speaker of the house of representatives. The publication of these letters no doubt will dissipate any action toward the lion and the lamb act by the two wings of the Republican party.

The welfare of the country demands that the Republican split continue, and the trend of public opinion is toward that of a continuance of the split. The standpatters are still standing pat, and the progressives are becoming more progressive. This condition is true of all political parties. There may be a realignment of parties some time, but that time will hardly come for the next presidential election.

Roosevelt is going on a speaking tour of the country during the summer and fall in aid of Republican progressive candidates for congress, and he may be depended on to stir up something. And then he will begin his campaign for the presidency, so we see there will be no opportunity for a peace program among the Republicans.

It may not turn out this way, but all good Democrats sincerely wish that it will. We need four more years of Democratic rule right now, and it seems like a Republican split is the only hope of securing them. Let's keep on throwing bricks into the Republican dog kennel so the fight will not let up.

IT IS good to have commencement sermons and lodge sermons, because some of these old fossils who never think of going to a regular church worship come out and place themselves in position to be assaulted by the Gospel.

OUR commencement was unique in having two sermons instead of one, but what is still more unique, they pulled it off without a discussion of what time worn subject of "Beyond the Alps Lies Italy". Seriously, it pays to get out of the rut sometimes.

A picture of the ship as she appeared when she returned to England after Scott's tragic dash for the south pole is here shown. Lieutenant A. E. The First Children's Day

"The little girl has brought the sewing, Miss Durand," said the maid.

Miss Durand slowly lowered her book. Her expression was that of a sleep-walker, suddenly aroused. It seemed to take her a moment to realize her surroundings.

"Well, Eliza, you paid her, I suppose?"

"Yes, miss. Was there anything you wanted to see her about?"

Miss Durand's forehead contracted slightly. She did not enjoy these unnecessary questions. "Certainly not, Eliza if the work is satisfactory."

"I thought as much, miss," Eliza's tone was apologetic. "But the child was so bound that she wanted to see you, and that nobody else would do, that I thought it best to speak to you."

Miss Durand reflected. Vaguely the face of the woman she had engaged to do plain sewing came before her. "A very respectable sort of person," Miss Durand had decided. And, yes, there had been a little girl. She tried to remember whether anything she had said had given the child an excuse for asking to see her personally.

"Tell her to come upstairs, Eliza," said Miss Durand at last and the maid withdrew.

Miss Durand closed the big volume with evident reluctance. The books ranged against the wall and climbing almost to the ceiling were her only intimates. "You must be lonely," some well-meaning friend had once said, sympathizing with her over the absence of congenial social life in the little town, but the rather superior amusement in Miss Durand's smile had silenced her. "I have been books." It seemed to her a most absurd that one should be people, when these other untrusive friends were always at one's service.

The child's feet sounded on the stairs. It had been long since such small feet had climbed the winding staircase. The soft clumsy tread works a strange vibration in the heart of the lonely woman who listened. She found herself smiling and waiting the advent of this unexpected caller with something like interest. She almost forgot to regret the interruption of her tete-a-tete with the old English essayist, whose quaint comments on men and things she so thoroughly enjoyed. Then a face showed at the door, and for the time being Miss Durand forgot the essayist altogether.

It was a plain little face, judged from an artist's standpoint. Round as the full moon, and with a sprinkling of freckles on the bridge of the uptilted nose, it was so brimming over with joyousness that it held the glance irresistibly. Miss Durand found herself wondering if any human being could possibly be as this child looked.

"Good morning, little girl," said Miss Durand kindly. "Did you wish to speak to me?"

The child advanced, and then Miss Durand saw that the small brown fingers clutched a bunch of dandelions. She laid the yellow, rather wilted blossoms on the broad arm of Miss Durand's chair and drew back. They were for you," she said. And now the ecstasy of doing a kindness made her face fairly dazzling. It came to Miss Durand that the child herself was not unlike a dandelion, not a sheltered, tender garden plant, but a wayside flower beaming in its humble place like a miniature sun.

Then she felt the doubt which is the inevitable penalty of wealth, the looking for an interested motive back of every kindness. "I don't understand," she said. "Why you bring them to me?"

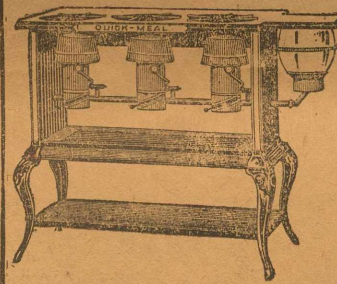

"Cause you like flowers. The way I know," explained the visitor, "is that you've got such a big garden, and a house for 'em to grow in the winter time."

"It was very kind of you," said Miss Durand still doubtful. "What is your name, please."

"Patty."

"Well Patty, it is true that I like flowers, and I thank you for bringing me such bright cheerful ones. Good bye."

"Good bye."

Patty was moving toward the door her beaming face radiating satisfaction. All that she said she had wanted was the joy of giving. Miss Durand meantly acknowledged her mistake, with a feeling that was akin to self-reproach.

"Wait a minute, Patty. Perhaps you are fond of flowers too."

"Yes'm."

"Then we will take a little walk through the garden. You can show me what you like best of all."

Patty's rapture in the garden was worth seeing, even though it found its chief expression in hopping about on one foot. Miss Durand watched her with puzzled interest. Wise in books she was quite unread in the volume of human nature. But when Patty threw herself on her knees by the pansy bed and kissed the uptilted flower faces, the solitary observer felt a strange thrill in her well regulated pulses. "Do you like the pansies best, Patty?"

"No'm, I guess not. But it seems as if they was putting up their mouth to be kissed."

It took some time to decide on Patty's favorite. When at last that honor fell to a big white carnation Miss Durand leaned forward to break it from its stem. "I'm going to give you this Patty, to carry home. It will keep fresh some days if you change the water every morning."

But Patty had caught her sleeve. "Wait. Oh, wait just a minute. Would you mind," she stammered, too excited for smooth sentences, "giving it to me by and by, instead of now?"

Miss Durand paused. "You would rather have it later? Very well, Patty."

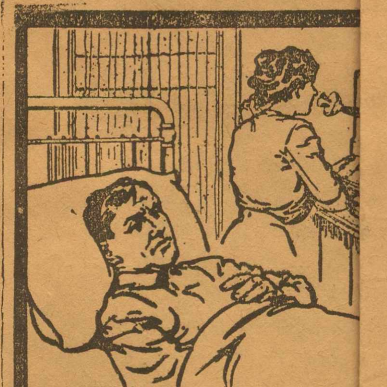

"I'd rather have it for Children's Day," explained the breathless Patty, "and decorate the church with it. I've got a geranium at home, growing in a tomato can, and I've going to decorate with that, too. Don't you love Children's Day?"

Miss Durand hesitated. "Why I'm not sure I know just what you mean."

Patty could only gasp at such a revelation of ignorance. "Why, don't you know, they have flowers in the church, and a canary bird hanging up, and he sings when the organ plays. And the minister talks to us. It's our day but grown folks like it, too. Didn't you ever go to Children's Day?"

About June 1st I intend opening an office in the Eustis building, doing a general land and loan business. Will be pleased to serve all my old friends as well as new ones desiring any accommodations along these lines.

OUR TENANT PROBLEMS

EDITOR'S NOTE:—This is the fourth of a series of Articles on AGRICULTURAL PROBLEMS prepared by Judge S. A. Lindsey, chairman of the Texas Farm Life Commission.

The tenant problem is less simple than the getting of cheap money on land worth twice the amount borrowed; all that is required in that case is to arrange the security (the best in the world) so that it is acceptable at the source of cheap money. All this is cold-blooded business between the investors in securities and those selling same. The transaction is: give me security and I will give you money. The state is not interested in this and should take no further hand in it than to provide the law by which the organization for invading the cheap money market may be effected, and then giving such organization opportunity to borrow such trust funds as the government may be lending.

The problem of inducing shifting tenants who are merely in partnership with the landlord in robbing the soil of its fertility and dividing the swag, to induce them to buy, improve and build up the soil they till and become fixed units of strength in their communities is clearly a concern of the state. This problem is close akin if not entirely identical both in purpose and result to that of general education. The strength and vigor of the state is as much dependent upon conserving the fertility of the soil as upon the intelligence of the people. The family is the unit of the state and the home surroundings, the prosperity, the optimism and education of the members of the family spell the strength and vigor of the state. If the state would be strong and enduring it must educate its citizens and attach them to the soil. There is something strengthening in the possession and proprietorship of a piece of land. Deprive people of this strength and they become socialists because their sense of weakness and insecurity impels them to seize at straws as do the drowning.

Mr. V. T. Hoggatt, Register State Land Board of Colorado told me the other day how his state is attempting to convert tenants into land-owners. He said Colorado has $6,000,000 of permanent school funds. This money is being made available in this way: The counties are given the privilege of investing their proportionate part in the notes of purchasers of homes. This is done through the commissioner's courts. The court considers each individual case. If the man is honest, intelligent, industrious and capable of paying out the land and the land is worth the money, the court buys the land for him, or takes up his notes and gives him 40 years at 5 per cent interest in which to pay. The county must see that the state does not lose its funds. Every proposed loan is advertised and the people knowing the county to be responsible to the state assist in preventing an unworthy or unsafe case from getting through.

Inasmuch as the people of a state have adopted this plan let us

Contest Entries Extended.

On account of the recent heavy rains all over the State, and consequent delay in farm work the officers of the Texas Industrial Congress have decided to extend the time in which entries may be made in the $10,000 crop and livestock contest to June 6.

There is yet time enough for those who wish to enter the contest to plant corn, cotton, alfalfa, milo and sorghum and the Congress especially urges the farmers of the state to plant forage crops to meet the annual drain of $50,000,000 or more, used in buying corn and forage crops raised outside of Texas.

Boys and girls who are feeding a baby beef or a pig for marketing next fall can enter the contest for one of the prizes offered for these animals. Every member of the hog, baby beef, corn or cotton club can enter the contest as well as those who are not members of such clubs. All that is necessary is to write at once the Congress at Dallas and ask to be enrolled. No charge or cost of any kind is made, and helpful bulletins of advice and instruction are sent to every contestant.

Baptist Paper Here.

Dr. J. L. Ward, president of Decatur Baptist college, and Rev. H. D. Heath, representative of the Baptist educational board in this territory, were in Henrietta Monday and contracted with The Independent to print The North Texas Baptist, the paper which specially represents the interests of the Baptists along all lines in the 16 counties which compose this district. The paper was established about a year ago and has a circulation of about 1100.

Dr. J. W. Jent will be the editor and Rev. S. H. Pollard the business manager, and they will endeavor to push its circulation and extend its usefulness. Since its establishment the paper has practically paid its own way, which was more than was expected of it when the publication was launched. This speaks well for the work of those who have had charge of it, and the cooperation of the people who are patronizing it.

Comet Coming Back

Washington, May 25.—That the comet moving swiftly above the northwestern horizon toward the bright star Capella may have been whirling through the universe for at least 120 years, is suggested in a cablegram to the United States naval observatory here from Director Perrine of the Argentina observatory at Cordoba.

Perrine announced that from a study of European observations of the comet it appeared to have an orbit similar to that discovered in 1790 in Paris. Last night's observation revealed the comet as a hazy patch of light with a faint nucleus, but no tail. On a line between the stars Polaris and Capella the comet appeared one-half a degree to the right of Capella and a trifle above the line.

How to Tell a Dead One.

The local newspaper is the reflector through which the outside world sees a town or city. If the paper is filled with live news items of a local nature and carries a good advertising patronage, the city is put down as one of the "live ones," but if the business firms do not talk to the trade in the columns of the paper in attractive advertising, the outside world will know that the town is a "dead one" and will steer clear of it. Capital seeking a place of investment never considers a dead town.—Bowie Blade

WEDDINGS.

Watson-Palmer.

B. B. Watson of Barry, Illinois, and Miss Bessie M. Palmer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Palmer of Henrietta, were married at the home of the bride's parents on Tuesday at high noon. Rev. F. A. Crutchfield, pastor of the Methodist church, performed the ceremony in the presence of about 40 guests. There were no attendants.

The bride wore a traveling suit of blue with hat and gloves to match, and a corsage bouquet of pink roses. Immediately following the ceremony the bride and groom led the way to the dining room where cake and punch were served, the bride cutting the wedding cake. W. H. Myers got the dime, Miss Grace Haggood the ring and Miss Helen Firestone the thimble. Miss Lulu Johnson served the punch. The guest book in the parlor was presided over by Miss Don Ikard.

The house decorations were in sweet peas and roses, and the dining table looked especially beautiful, the punch bowl being banked with the flowers.

The bride is a native Henrietta girl and quite popular in a large social circle. She graduated from the high school here at the age of 15, and then was in college in Abilene, Texas, and graduated from the North Texas State Normal college. She taught in the Henrietta public school the term just closed.

Mr. Watson is engaged in the real estate and insurance business, and he has a handsome home just completed and furnished for his bride.

A large number of very beautiful wedding presents were received.

Mr. and Mrs. Barry left on a southbound train for a tour of the principal cities of Texas and the important points in the Middle Western states. They will be at home at Barry, Ill., about June 30.

Gillespie-Sims.

A. M. Gillespie and Miss Cynthia Sims of Buffalo Springs, were married on Thursday of last week. Rev. E. D. Walker was the officiating minister.

Mr. Gillespie is the young man recently indicted for the murder of Jesse Murphy, and his bride is a sister of Mrs. Murphy. A call by Gillespie at the Murphy home to see Miss Sims was one of the incidents in the list of circumstances that led up to the death of Mr. Murphy. In her testimony on the examining trial of Mr. Gillespie, Miss Sims said that she intended to marry him.

Charged with Swindling.

E. G. King of McKinney, was arrested by Sheriff Jones last Saturday on an indictment alleging swindling. He made bond and was released. The charge is based on representations he is alleged to have made in negotiating the deal for the purchase of the Imperial hotel building. The case will come up for trial at the next term of court.

Judge Brooks to Speak.

Judge M. M. Brooks of Dallas, will speak at Henrietta at 2 o'clock next Tuesday afternoon, June 2, in the interest of Thos. H. Ball for governor. He is a fine speaker and should draw a large crowd.

Juries Still Out.

The juries in the Diffey-King case and the Shumake-Long case are still out and unable to agree.

Teachers Take Leave.

Miss Johnnie Belle Holt and Miss Lila White left on Tuesday for their respective homes at Paris and Royse City.

Miss Hancock returned to Sweetwater Monday night.

Miss Schmid left for her home in Abilene Sunday.

Miss Hutcheson left the same day for Atlanta. She will not apply for a position again, having been elected to a place on the faculty of the school in her home town.

SOCIETY.

Wednesday Afternoon Club.

Mrs. W. H. Davisson entertained the Wednesday Afternoon club on the 27th, and though the weather was threatening there were seven tables of 42 players present. The house decorations were very beautiful, home-grown roses arranged in bouquets in all the rooms, and they were the admiration of all the guests. Mrs. C. W. Easley, Jr., and Mrs. Louis Enloe assisted in entertaining. A salad course, pineapple ice and angel food cake were served. Mrs. Cecil of Garfield, was the out-of-town guest.

Denver Has Wreck.

The Denver had a bad freight wreck near Dove Thursday night. The nine cars going into the ditch. Passenger trains were detoured over the Rock Island by way of Ringgold, and all north bound trains were several hours late.

A. D. Rogers who is residing temporarily at Abilene while engaged in constructing the Taylor county court house, was at home a few days this week. His work was being delayed on account of failure of a shipment of iron to arrive.

DEATHS.

Dale.

"Baby Tom" Dale, age two years and three months, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Dale, died at All Saints hospital in Fort Worth on last Friday. Septic infection was the cause of death. The little fellow had been sick so much of his life, but was always patient and good. He was taken to Fort Worth a short time ago with the hope that hospital treatment would permanently cure him.

The body was shipped home for burial arriving on the 11:47 train Saturday and the funeral service took place at the residence at 5:30 in the afternoon. Rev. F. A. Crutchfield conducted the funeral.

Funeral of D. V. Worsham.

The funeral of D. V. Worsham on account of whose death was printed last week, took place from the residence of Eb Worsham.

The date, together with other well authenticated facts, leads to the belief that the bell was long used in a country place as a New England mill—an object older than the oldest title of the English peerage, an object made before the English parliament was formed. Yet such an object is in daily use in a factory at Saylesville, R. I. It is a bell, whose history is a most interesting one. Around the bell, about four inches from the crown, is this superscription: "Peter Secest Amsterdam. Anno 1263, me fecit."

A gas well said to be as good as any in the field was brought in today in the Punkin Ridge territory, the property owned by the Riverside Oil Co., according to reports received here. The well is 2300 feet deep. Punkin Ridge is three miles east of Charlie on Red river and about ten miles northwest of the wells that are now flowing.

A HISTORIC BELL.

From the Guerriere to the Constitution, Then to a Mill.

One would hardly expect to find an object of historic interest in so remote a place as a New England mill—an object older than the oldest title of the English peerage, an object made before the English parliament was formed. Yet such an object is in daily use in a factory at Saylesville, R. I. It is a bell, whose history is a most interesting one. AN ANIMAL IN PAIN.

It Suffers Less Than Man on Account of its Low Intelligence.

It is a platitude that "pain is as one feels it." But that statement falls a considerable way short of the truth. The measure of pain undoubtedly depends as much upon realization, comparison and constructive memory as upon sensation. In other words, the individual with the most highly developed imagination enjoys and suffers most intensely, though not perhaps most violently. Pain and death are terrible in proportion as one is capable of relating them to experience. To children they are not terrible in this sense, because children have small experience and even smaller powers of imagining relations.

In the case of animals the power of constructing a memory picture and relating the same to present conditions is probably exceedingly low, if not entirely absent. Pain to an animal represents an unpleasant experience begun and ended sharply. It is unrelated. It has no social or moral significance. It is not terrible in the wide sense. An animal lives from moment to moment. At any given moment its happiness is a question in the main of physical comfort. The caged skylark (though it must not be supposed that this is any defense of an objectionable practice) experiences none of the misery of the caged man. It does not know that its liberty is hopelessly lost. It cannot relate its present position to past experience in the way in which a prisoner can and must do. The cage is merely an accidental obstruction which may at any moment disappear. Should the bird stop struggling it does so because struggling is unpleasant, not because it is hopeless.—London Chronicle.

Highly Practical.

"Your business college for young ladies seems to be all right."
"It is all right."
"Do you give the girls a good practical business training?"
"In reply to that question I can only say that 60 per cent of our graduates marry their employers the first year."
—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Plains of Argentina.

The roads of the plains of Argentina have deeper dust in summer and deeper mud in winter than those of any other part of the world, consequently the wagons used on them have wheels that are from six to fifteen feet in diameter.

Chilly Text.

A wise man contents himself with doing as much good as his situation allows him to do.—Lord Bolingbroke.

Misgivings.

"I want to go to my glazier's, only he gives me a pane."
"And I would like to go to my grocer's, but he'll give me a weigh."
—Baltimore American.

For himself doth a man work evil in working evil for another.—Hesiod.

FAMILY AVOIDS SERIOUS SICKNESS

By Being Constantly Supplied With Theford's Black-Draught.

McDuff, Va.—"I suffered for several years," says Mrs. J. B. Whittaker, of this place, "with sick headache, and stomach trouble."

Ten years ago a friend told me to try Theford's Black-Draught, which I did, and I found it to be the best family medicine for young and old.

I keep Black-Draught on hand all the time now, and when my children feel a little bad, they ask me for a dose, and it does them more good than any medicine they ever tried.

We never have a long spell of sickness in our family, since we commenced using Black-Draught."

Theford's Black-Draught is purely vegetable, and has been found to regulate weak stomachs, aid digestion, relieve indigestion, colic, wind, nausea, headache, sick stomach, and similar symptoms.

It has been in constant use for more than 70 years, and has benefited more than a million people.

Joe Bailey Is Dead.

Now, don't get excited, it isn't the senator, because he was only a dog, just a very small and a very woolly white dog. But with all the great ability of the famous senator of the same name, Joe Bailey the dog, was smarter as a dog, than Joe Bailey the senator is as a man.

Joe Bailey was not able to talk but he could make his wants known just the same. He frequently went to the butcher shop and in his own dog way let the butcher know that he wanted a hunk of fresh meat. Then he would go across the street to the cold drink stand and bark in front of the counter until he was given a drink of ice water. And they were never able to appease Joe with common hydrant water or even cool well water, for he must have ice water. Sometimes he went with members of the family visiting and immediately on his arrival he sought out the kitchen and called for a bit of cake or other sweetmeat. At home he slept on the davenport, and when bedtime came he stood on the floor and barked and wined until his master's coat was spread on the leather cushion, and then he quickly jumped up and stretched himself out for a good night's rest. He did many other things that are far beyond the ability of the usual dog, and was a general favorite with a large number of human friends.

But a couple of weeks ago Joe had a little difficulty with one of his own race and was badly chewed up. He seemed to recover from his injuries, but last Saturday he began acting queer, and there having been some reports of a mad dog in the community it was deemed wise to avoid any risk by ending his earthly career. So W. H. Davison, whose property he was, had City Marshal Schwend execute him in the most humane manner possible—with a pistol shot.

Uncle Joe May Talk.

Oyster Bay, N. Y., May 25.—To reports from Danville, Ill., that "Uncle Joe" Cannon had promised to make public some sensational correspondence with ex-President Roosevelt, the Colonel today replied:

"I don't know what he is talking about. I doubtless wrote him and he doubtless wrote me. He may publish any letter he pleases."

20 YEARS AGO

Being a Compilation of Local History Taken from the Files of The Independent of 1894

Taken from The Independent of June 1, 1894:

Misses Fannie Robinson and Minnie Smith gave a joint exhibition at the close of their respective schools of music and elocution on Friday night. Gold medals were awarded to Misses Ira Parrott, Sine Koethe and Willie Patterson of the class in music and to Misses Venna Minton and Bessie Reno of the class in elocution.

The following named gentlemen composed the jury for the week in county court: J. W. Kilgore, J. W. McArthur, J. F. Jackson, H. A. Heath, W. C. Hodges, Frank Neville, H. R. Bratt, W. A. McMurtry, W. A. Boyle, J. J. Campbell, S. K. Audrain and J. H. Stoud.

Between 3 and 4 o'clock Wednesday morning fire broke out in the residence of W. W. Bryant on North Main street and the building was soon in ruins. It is not known what caused the fire, but it originated in or about a closet near the center of the building. No one was at home but Mr. Bryant and he was awakened by his bed catching fire and barely escaped.

Last night County Judge F. J. Barrett and Lawyer Geo. A. Watts had a difficulty on the street in which the lie was passed, and Watts drew a knife and Barrett a rock. Neither was hurt.

P. T. Burks of Shannon, announced as a candidate for justice of the peace of precinct No. 7.

M. Ikard announced as a candidate for commissioner precinct No. 2.

Jos. F. Johns announced as a candidate for justice of the peace of precinct No. 1.

Decoration day was observed, the exercises being under management of the ex Confederates and the ex Federals. Addresses by Judge Barrett and Rev. J. F. Young, Rev. Geo. Pierson offered prayer. The K. of P. band furnished the music.

Last Saturday night the country around Hurnville was visited by a destructive hail storm. Among those who suffered losses are W. C. Kelley, Chas. Taylor, Lou Frey, C. Thornotn, Carl Horst, Fred Wyncep, S. H. Teel, Chas. Alley and Wm. Hurn. Carl Horst's house was blown down. Tom Reetor and Miss Hattie Owens have obtained a license to marry.

Messrs Grogan of Benvenue are hauling out machinery to build a mill and gin there.

The 9-year-old boy of D. T. Davis set fire to a vial of powder yesterday afternoon and burned his head and hands quite badly.

During the thunder storm Wednesday night lightning struck the residence of J. H. Stroud in the north part of town. A wire clothes line, one end of which was fastened to the house, was struck first, the lightning entered the house where the line was attached and it made a round hole like a bullet hole. It passed through the house, shaking several things about and passed out under a window, making another small hole in the wall.

Gladys, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Schwend, died at 12 o'clock noon Wednesday, May 23, after a long and tedious sickness. Funeral services were conducted at the residence of John Schwend at 3 o'clock Thursday evening by Dr. Hale.

Father in Creek War.

The father of J. L. D. Rogers of Henrietta, was a veteran of the Creek Indian war, fighting under General Andrew Jackson in the year 1812.

Gen. Andrew Jackson, who had commanded the Tennessee troops and who had recently won the decisive victory at Horseshoe Bend, went to Nashville and announced to the governor of Tennessee that the war was ended. Though actual hostilities had ceased, it was not until about three months later that Gen Jackson who in the meantime had been appointed a major general in the United States army, met the Indian chief at Fort Jackson, and after much diplomacy negotiated terms of peace. The war had continued for more than a year and had been marked by many bloody conflicts. Its ending left Gen Jackson and his troops free to take the field against the British in the south.

Both of Mr. Rogers' grandparents were in the war of the revolution.
