To Be A Boy Again.

Oh, to be a boy again! Fresh and fair and free as then—

Freeless on my nose and face; scorns on my shine and lines;

What a joy Just to be a barefoot boy!

Oh, to be a little tyke, thinking inns up the pile, curling corn-silk for a smoke, making friends with poison oak!—Just to be Limber-legged, and climb a tree! Ah, to be a careless shrill,

With a ten-cent straw for hat.

In the creek with Joe and Jim! Hold your breath and take a dive

Good and long. Oh—take a drink.

Hold their breath, and holler "Oh!"

A Mammoth Cow.

Peoria Drug Company received a mammoth cow Tuesday, which they bought at the Cattleman's convention last week at Fort Worth. The cow is a cow of Texas long horns, bridle color and is of immense build and though very thin in color, weighed 2500 pounds when they have finished with her. They will probable take her to the World's fair at St. Louis to show what this country can produce in large stock and also what their great stock salt will do toward fattening stock.—Taylor County News.

A Double Resurrection.

Gen. Barlow of the Union army fell wounded, and it was thought dying, during the first day of the battle of Gettysburg, and within the Confederate lines, Gen. Gordon, cantering by, saw him and recognized him. Dismounting, he approached the prostrate man and inquired what he could do for him.

"I am dying," said Barlow, "just reach into my coat pocket and draw out the letter you find there and give it to my wife." Gordon read the letter.

"To my sister, says Barlow, "please destroy that letter. I want you to notify her,—she is in the town over yonder,—what has happened to me."

"I will," replied Gordon. He sent for Mrs. Barlow, gave her comfort through the Southern lines, certain that Barlow's death was a question of only a few hours at most.

But Barlow did not die. His wife came promptly and had him removed to the town of Gettysburg, where he found himself so greatly pleased that he faithfully recovered.

Many years passed, until one of the coming ex-groom came to get a dinner in Washington. Some bundle brought their letters and formally introduced themselves. They had altered the personal appearance of both. They had any relation to the Gen. Barlow who was killed at Gettysburg? asked Gordon.

"Yes, a very near relation," answered Barlow with a laugh.

"I am the very man who was killed. But I have been informally called a man named Gordon long life his life in a battle later on, he saved my life at Gettysburg. Are you Miss to that marriage?"

"I am he," was the reply.

Both his laugh as they gave each other a heartier handshakc.—Pittsburg Dispatch.

Third Notice.

Every editor has received them. The postmaster sends them to the editor. The postmaster is not to blame. For instance there is a man by the name of—well, say Tim Shuitt— who sent me a notice to stop his paper. He did not want it any longer. We wonder what was the matter. Upon investigating our subscription book we found that Tim was short 85.70. He had not paid a cent and yet he stopped us in a matter of economy to us. A few evenings ago we stepped into church and Tim's name voice rang out loud and clear in the old soul-stirring song, "Jesus paid it all," when mistaken but his earnestness impressed us. The next day we sent him a receipt in full begging for pardon for not knowing that he had made an assignment of his liabilities to the Lord.—Western Illinois.

Manager Terry Country Voice.

I write left safely on board of Uncle Sam's bound stock of merchandise en route for the Greast West.

After an eight-hour ride through the desert and over the plains, I arrived at Big Springs, which is the terminus of the Great Western Railway, the town to act as an intermediate stop for the stage line through the county is to be placed here again to provide the people with what can be furnished by the stage through the county.

Dance at Brownfield.

Wednesday night at the school house in Biggs there was a dance given by some of the citizens of the town.

The occasion was given by Mr. and Mrs. Terry, who served the hostesses for the evening, everybody returned to their homes and a dusty dance was completed until after 3 o'clock.

There will be another dance next week. The place worked and doors have been restored. There will be nothing doing today, but it is not very probable that any other day will be chosen to be one of the paper as it seems to be a big day, so it will be fine. So good at any one time, but we will hope it will be a success.

We have been publishing a local and personal item in the last three months.
