Washington's Birth-Day.

Yesterday, 174 years ago, George Washington came into the world. The first thing of which he did was to chop his cherry tree and tell the world about it. He was a great man, and his example for truthfulness could be followed to advantage by some of our leading men of the present day. He was: "First in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen." His virtues will live in the memories of mankind as long as history lasts.

A Texan After the Coal Trust.

HON. OSCAR W. GILLESPIE, congressman from Texas, who resides at Fort Worth, woke up the House of Representatives at Washington, by giving some figures on the great coal combine that has its clutches fastened on the state of Pennsylvania. This trust, combine, or whatever you may term it, has since the great strike that the President settled a year or two ago, put the screws on so that the public is now paying them an additional profit of $110,000,000 yearly. They have the thing down so fine that only one railroad [Pennsylvania Central] hauls coal into Philadelphia. The dividends on trust stocks increased, the price of coal to the public has increased, but the freight and mining expenses are the same as in the year of the big strike.

Bryan Draws the Line.

WILLIAM J. BRYAN was recently tendered a directorship in one of Carnegie's libraries, which he declined in a letter, intimating his belief that the Carnegie money is somewhat tainted by the too free hand of government favoritism. One by one does our great American trust magnates get turned down, but there need be no apprehension felt that Rockefeller and Carnegie will not be able to get men to handle their wealth for them.

W. J. Bryan sent in his resignation as President of the Illinois College, situated at Jacksonville, that State. He says he withdraws because the board of directors proposes to accept financial aid from Andrew Carnegie. He intimates plainly that when an educational institution accepts gifts knowingly from such men as Carnegie and Rockefeller that they must, in self defense, defend the system that they acquired their colossal fortunes, and that in doing this they suppress economical truths that should be kept before the public.

Counted Chicks Before Hatched.

A red head line in a city daily paper says the packers lost $30,000,000 on the recent rise in live fat hogs. They did lose thirty or forty millions dollars that they expected to make out of this year's crop of fat porkers. This affair was simply a matter of counting eggs before they were laid or chickens before they were hatched. Look out for the price of pork to go up.

Editorial Reconsideration.

An Illinois newspaper man connected with committing suicide, that he did was to chop his cherry tree and tell the world about it. He was a great man, and his example for truthfulness could be followed to advantage by some of our leading men of the present day. He was: "First in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his countrymen." His virtues will live in the memories of mankind as long as history lasts.

JAPAN BELIEVES IN A NAVY.

Japan contemplates putting restrictions or a censorship over the press of that nation. Do it, Jappies! We know it is painful to read a bald-headed, editorial lie about one's-self, and a red-hot criticism about the administration, but a loose and free liar is better to handle than a martyr playing checkers with his nose. Persecution has brought many a rascal to notoriety and importance that couldn't attract attention otherwise.

The vast empire of Russia is shook from center to circumference, while the populous Flowery Kingdom of China is being swept by a wave of barbarian prejudice. There is work for the reformer in this world, and he can out his task in any sized chunk he wants.

Poet Lewis in the Houston Post.

"I will not open a single package until the day of the wedding. It will be more fun."—Miss Alice.

Alice, laughing, life's a bubbling, brimming chalice
With no less hate or malice, dear, for you;
Life's a field of blossoms sunning, life's a tinkling brooklet running;
Life's a thing of joy and funning and no rue;
May its skies grow ever clearer, may its songs grow ever dearer,
May its joys come ever nearer, till they twine Round your life, about and through it, may no thorn to make you rue it
Ever penetrate into it, mar its shine.

May your days be always jolly, full of harmless girlish jolly,
Filled with mistletoe-and-holly sort of times;
Filled with glinting eyes and chaffing, may life's goblet in the quaffing
Burst in bubbles, tinkling, laughing like sweet chimes
May each package's untying bring the soul of gladness
Each one with each other vying till begun,
Every one with your unwrapping, the preceding climax capping,
Sets your wee glad hands to clapping with "more fun."
May the Sultan of far-off Sulu, he who once aspired to rule you,
Send some funny jimcrack to you, that shall make
Your glad laughter go up-winging, rising, tilting, g swinging,
'Gainst the tickled walls impinging till they shake,
The Ahkoond of Swat will, too, dear, send some funny things to you, dear,
As tough old Tsi-Ann will do, dear, don't you fret;
The Mad Mullah swiftly running, and the Briton swiftly
gunning,
And Morocco's Sultan cunning, won't you forget.
You'll get bonnets, dear, and gaiters; you'll get turnips, too,
and taters,
Gifts from first to second-class letters, don't you fear;
You'll get books from authors, too, dear, that you never will
wade through, dear,
We've a notion if you do, dear, you'll go "queer";
Things from half the world away, dear; things from jewels to
baled hay, dear;
Things to make your spirits gay, dear, till you quaff Life's full cup with eyes o'er-brimming, with your soul in pleasure swimming;
May your joy, dear, know no dimming, or your laugh.

THE COMING UPHEAVAL IN CHINA.

Thirty-eight thousand of Uncle Sam's soldiers are now in Manila, Philippine Islands, and three more regiments, and 5,000,000 of cartridges, are ploughing their way across the Pacific ocean to reinforce them. It appears that over a year ago, the Chinese started a boycott against American goods in retaliation for the Chinese exclusion act that is in force by this government. Like everything else that is started in a despotic government this measure was perverted so as to create a feeling against all foreigners except Japs. The European missionaries, who are exposed, claim to be in imminent peril of their lives, and it is expected at any moment that the massacre of missionaries and their converts will commence, which shows the artipathy of the Chinese for the Christian religion. Should this take place our army will be called upon to shoot sense and toleration into them. The Chinese are not a fanatical religious people, but are followers of philosophers, Shintoo, Confucius and Buddha, whose codes of morality in this life has some excellent ideas, but they do not believe in miraculous deities, nor anything of a supernatural order. About a half century ago France and England opened Chinese ports with cannon to the odious opium traffic, and the reigning emperor submitted under protest, but would not sign a treaty, and when the British envoy suggested that he could derive an immense revenue by licensing the sale in his dominions he held up his hands in horror, and scorned and spurned the proposal, and said that it would lessen him in the eyes of all good men to be partner, and derive a benefit from the misery of his subjects. No tainted tax money for him.

It is to be hoped that China will submit, and that there will be no necessity to use the sword; yet the weakness of the Manchu dynasty leaves that populous empire to be kicked and knocked about by every designing intermeddler that can find a prejudice to be used as a hobby horse.

There are five thousand candidates for office in Texas this year, and yet some of the back counties have not been heard from. Texas will not go to the bow-wows for want of patriots to draw the perquisites and to assume the burdens of statesmanship. At Linden, this State, the District Court adjourned to listen to the twitter of two gubernatorial candidates: Brooks and Campbell—even the Prohibitionists appear to becoming thirsty for office.

One of the presents made to Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth is a $1500 rat terrier from Boston. Now who says a woman won't kick over a lamp, jump on top of the piano, book-case or get on the center table at the sight of a mouse?

Longworth says he popped the question to Alice just as they came out of the Imperial palace at Peking, after they had visited the Emperor and Empress An. We felt sure that Alice was something old about her, but any old place will do if a man has the chance.

Hon. William Jennings Bryan,

Who is now in Asia, will contribute thirty or more letters to THE SUNDAY NEWS descriptive of his travels abroad. He will visit Japan, Korea, the Philippines, China, India, Palestine, Egypt, Turkey, the Balkan States, Russia, Poland, the great powers of Middle Europe, Italy, England and latter Australia and New Zealand. It is a most comprehensive tour and embraces about all of the universe that is of immediate interest.

Mr. Bryan's rank as a statesman no less than his facility of expression, keen insight and journalistic experience peculiarly fits him for a news ambassador to the four quarters of the earth. That which is of interest in governments, in peoples, in civilization, in races, in religious and sociological problems will be searched out by him and illustrated for the pleasure and profit of readers of THE SUNDAY NEWS.

The world is making history every day now; momentous issues are moving to culmination in Russia, China, Turkey and the buffer states. Jews driven to desperation in Russia are again looking yearningly toward Palestine; China, asleep for centuries, shows symptoms of the unrest which presages awakening. Problems of marked significance are arising in governments and rulers are less easy on thrones. Mr. Bryan's letters will be of lasting value as contributions to contemporaneous history, but he will not write exclusively of great matters—he is gifted with the powers of entertaining and every letter will sparkle with crisp descriptive matter, such as takes the reader eagerly from column to column.

Although Mr. Bryan is one of the highest priced of public writers, THE NEWS has not hesitated to undertake the expense necessary to give his foreign observations to its readers. His first letter appears Sunday, Jan. 14. The Sunday News is $1.50 a year by mail. Single copies 5c everywhere.

Germany passed a retaliatory tariff bill against this country, and now comes the Kaiser with a reciprocity bluff. We have seen horse-traders "dope" their swapping stock so as to make them kick up their heels and hold up their heads so as to pass muster but this is the first time in history that a German emperor resorted to this method to get trade with fairness. Better an ad international tariff schedule fixed by the Hague tribunal.

Sometimes ago, du... bor troubles in Idaho, Governor Steunberg of that State was assassinated at the gate of his home by a dynamite bomb that was exploded by parties then unknown. One day the forepart of this week three men in Denver, Colorado, named Moyer, Heywood, and another whose name is forgotten was arrested for this offense Moyer and Heywood were President and Secretary of a local miners union in Idaho at the time of the murder. What evidence the authorities have against the accused is not stated, but they did one wrong action, and that was they had a special train and took the prisoners out of the State of Colorado, not allowing them to protest against extradition.
Other People's Money.
John A. McCall, ex-President of the New York Life Insurance Company, died in New York City the first of the week. The worryment and vexation of the recent investigation in that metropolis of insurance matters was largely responsible for his death. Here was a man that controlled a hundred or two million dollars of other people's money for years—sharpers, schemers, parasites and blackmailers gathered about him like flies to a bung-hole in a molasses barrel, and in the generosity of his nature he made a few mistakes, and confided in the sincerity and honor of bold, adroit and persistent harpies, and like hounds at the heels of a stag they at last brought him down. At one time he could lift up and put down men, but before he passed beyond he tasted the bitterness of ingratitude. His features whose property was to his work. What seemed to hurt him worst, was that he thought that the great body of the American people considered him dishonest. Personally he was honest, but his surroundings were the reverse; and in an unguarded moment he did a wrong with other people's money that if it had been his own private means might of been thought of as praiseworthy and noble.
