Harris Happenings

To the Herald:—

The people are preparing for that big crop we are going to make this year.

Messrs M. D. Shaw, McMillian and Woody, are off to Lubbock this week for freight.

B. H. Braannon, was up from Gomez visiting among his old friends last week.

The Harris school is near to a close. The last day will be Friday the 25.

Miss Suddie Burtwin will return to Plains in a few days where her sister, Mrs. Patterson lives.

Miss Freddie Williams was the guest of Mrs. Shaw last Friday night.

Several of our most prominent citizens are off to the Cattlemen's convention this week.

The Mallet outfit will go to work on the 25th of this month. Pshaw! boys won't it be cold these March nights to ride to 'em.

Jno. W. Cone is putting in a new farm on his ranch, and we believe his head is level in that particular case.

We'll we have never seen such fine weather in March in our whole life.

We have been blessed with a good season which fell last Saturday night the 19th.

We will close this little epistle for this time and will try to do better on the next.

Yours Truly,
Old Timer.

Welcome home, prodigal, we will now proceed to slaughter the fatted calf. May your wondering cease, and your items come to the Herald to roost each week. —Ed.

HIGH COST OF LIVING

The Why's and Wherefore's by a Practical Farmer.

Uncle John in Stamford Tribune

I believe I will have a little chat with the tillers of the soil. Old pard, they are complaining up at headquarters that we are not supporting the world. Just so, and just as long as ninety per cent of our landlords live in town and rent their farms to be worked in cotton it will continue to be that way. In going to Hubbard City I don't pass a single house where the landlord lives, and it is almost as bad in going to Dawson and Frost. I only pass two landlords in going to Corsicana, twenty-four miles. And it is worse in South Texas. And over ninety per cent of those renters live by paper sacks—go to town once each week and get a sack of flour, sack of meal and flour at $4.00 per hundred and 35 pounds of meal for 80 cents, four pounds of bacon for $1.00, 50 cents worth of black-eyed peas, 50 cents worth of navy beans, the same of butter beans, a few other little articles such as molasses, starch, rice, tobacco, snuff matches, a few cold drinks, pays 25 cents at restaurant for dinner, gets 25 cents worth of cheese and crackers and a dozen apples to eat on the way home. I almost forgot to mention that sack of bran and a sack of chops and some corn and hay to feed old Jack and Beakon to try to make another cotton crop, and the old woman's chickens must be fed too. No, when we are not supporting ourselves, do you wonder that the president of these United States is having an investigation made to find out the cause of the high prices on feed stuff? When we have anything like a fair season all of our land will make from 50 to 75 bushels of beans or any kind of peas, to the acre. Why do we depend on the North to feed and cloth us when we have the land that will produce everything that will grow up North? We have wood, water and everything and we could manufacture all of our plain goods just as well and as cheap as the North can. All that we lack is self-confidence and a lot of grit and get-up. The reason that I am writing on this subject I have had experience in business and know what I am talking about. I have some old year-before last corn that I raised that I am going to plant this year. It is sound and clear of weevils and better corn than I raised last year. I have been living here nearly forty years, and have never seen my crib empty. I fattened my meat on old corn. I have not used as much of my last year corn as I have old corn yet. Never bought a bushel of corn in my life after I made my first crop, unless I was traveling or wanted to change seed. Every farmer in Texas can live at home if he will only believe it and try to. As long as we depend on cotton only and depend on the North to feed us and our teams, just that long will we be slaves and have bosses. City people are getting rich and buying land all over our country. Merchants, doctors, lawyers and some preachers are buying farms. Who made them rich? The man that tills the soil. Why? Because you can't put a price on your own property. You always ask what will you give me for so and so, and then ask what will you take for so and so. If you will raise what you and your families subsist on and also your teams, and go to work for yourselves and tell those landlords that you will plant something else besides cotton and if they do not agree with you, then pull up and leave them, and let the same men that takes your place say the same thing and they will rent their land for all there is in it before they will let it lay idle, or come back to it. You see he lives in town and gets lazy, and he has had all of his boys in some university to make representatives or preachers out of them. They are spoiled and have never worked a day on a farm. The farmer ought to be the most independent man on earth. I have tried it for forty years. Never planted over forty acres in one crop of cotton. Ten to twelve bales of cotton each year will give a farmer with a big family plenty of money when he has his living at home and sells a cow and calf for $40 to $75, and a young mule occasionally for $150 to $200. I sold a three-year old mule about two weeks ago for $150, and last fall one for $200. Then have a few hogs to sell occasionally, instead of buying your meat at 25 cents a pound. It can be done. I have been doing it all of my life. We just live as happy as a king. Nothing to bother our minds. When we go to bed the smoke house and crib doors are locked. You see we have a lot of Ham's

On with a cleaner Brownfield.
Don't forget that next Friday is clean up day in Brownfield.

Don't leave any filth about your place that is likely to create germs. Not only are adults subject to typhoid germs, but the babies are under your charge, and you are responsible for their safety.

Volume 1, No. 1, of the Tulia Herald, put in its appearance at this office this week, with Jno. W. Hunter, an experienced newspaperman as god-father. It is a husky, bright youngster, and we'll venture mother Tulia and dady Swisher are proud of the new arrival.

HARK! LISTEN!

We have just received a large shipment of the best flour money can buy, and we are going to sell it right

We have the swellest line of shoes, hats, caps, workmen's jumpers and overalls and dress goods ever seen in Terry county. It will pay you to investigate

ON WITH A CLEANER BROWNFIELD

With this issue, the Herald finishes the fifth year of its reign in Terry county, and with the next issue will celebrate her sixth birthday. The Herald is one of the pioneer papers of the Plains, and has strictly been through the rube, but has survived to see a brighter day dawning. When the Herald made her debut six years ago, humanity was as scarce out here then as money is with us today, and that is saying something. But they were brave and as true as steel to their pioneer industry. Perhaps there were a few who sacrificed personal comfort to help the infant publication over rough places, and now that there is a decent living in running a newspaper in Terry county, and the Herald can rejoice with its saviors in safely weathering the storms and privations of pioneer life, out of gratitude for their noble patience, the Herald will always befriend them.

If they had possessed quavering hearts or quaking limbs, there would have been an altogether different story and an unwritten one. Had they not possessed hearts of steel and an inconquerable determination to succeed, the mortal remains of the Herald would have been consigned to a premature grave, carelessly marked: "TO SOON."

It is a rare pleasure to live with people, who although frontiersmen, possess all the keen intelligence and refinement of the proudest cities, and at the same time a tender mercy show. That is what has made the Herald possible. They are a wide-awake reading people, and are teaching their children to follow suit.

Good people, let us thank you for your encouragement, and we promise to improve your paper at every opportunity.

A petition is being circulated this week and getting scores of signers that pledge themselves to give their premises a thorough cleaning on "All Fools Day."

It will be remembered that we gave our town a good cleaning last spring, and while other cities were serging under a typhoid epidemic, Brownfield was immune, besides sustaining our reputation as having a clean town.

Now while you are fooling your neighbor, give him a fooin' worth toiling with, by cleaning your back yard once in life.

Now is the time to begin thinking about that broom corn crop, and as the seeds have already arrived, it would be well for the farmers to come in and make their purchases.

We have heard some complaint about getting the corn threshed after harvesting, but there is a young man in Terry county, that came from the broom corn belt, that has a plan that he says is a complete success, and one man can thresh a seeming unreasonable amount in a day. We aim to interview him before very long and will give the farmers the value of his experience through the columns of the Herald.

ODD FELLOWS WILL CELEBRATE

An Interesting Program Has Been Arranged and a Good Time Anticipated

As has been the custom for the past few years, the Brownfield Odd Fellow and Rebekah Lodges will celebrate the 89 anniversary of Odd Fellowship on April the 26th. Every Odd Fellow in reach of Brownfield is requested to come and bring a well filled basket, as a good supper is going to be a very important part of the program.

Neighboring lodges are especially requested to be at least represented here, and help us make this a red letter day. Everybody in the county that can make it convenient to do so, should come out to the exercises. It will be worth your while.

Here is the program as arranged by a joint committee of Odd Fellows and Rebekahs:

Supper: After which there will be ample time given the ladies to get ready for the evening program, which will begin promptly at 8 o'clock.

Overture by Orchester Quartette
When Mother Joined the Rebekahs, by Gaster Randal.
Music.

The history of the Rebekah Degree: Its fraternal and social features, by Mrs. Dr. Ellis.

Old Fellowship from a historical standpoint, by Percy Spencer.
Old Fellowship from a fraternal standpoint, by Prof. Herring.

Drill by the Rebekahs.

MEADOW SCHOOL NOTES

You see, Mr. Editor, that the Hattenlot has a new ribbon, and he is as proud of it as a girl with her first sweetheart, but not quite so timid.

Unrelenting perseverance is the watchword of the Meadow School! We held our sixth regular monthly examination last week, and all made, at least fair grades, with the exception of two classes which we refrain from personating. We shall make it a part of our business to see that those two classes make A's for next month. The following students reached the "Honor Roll" this week: Dewey Farris, Jim Peeler, Mattie Hamlet, Myrtle Long, and Rena Peeler. This is the largest number that have scored in one week, and we are very proud of them. The school boys have just got in a new lot of baseballs, and their ardor on the ball ground is only equalled by their diligence in the study hours.

Some of the more thoughtful candidates are beginning to "sit up and take notice" of Meadow, and we may not put out any candidates if some of the others will be as considerate of Meadow. (You see, as small as we are, we are jealous). Mr. S. A. Shepherd, the worthy and well qualified' candidates for sheriff and tax-collector, was mixing with the Meadow people last week; and and this week, J. R. Burnett, another one of Terry Co's substantial citizens of high standing, is paying his respects to us. We forgot to mention in one of our former communications that uncle Mose Dumas, one of our old Floyd County friends of twelve years standing, was the first candidate to pay a campaign visit to this part of the County. We helped to elect him to the office of tax assessor of Floyd County, and I know his official record to be above reproach. Uncle Mose, we don't know how to apologize for our failure to mention you when you were here. Would you rather be neglected or forgotten? We'll make it either.

Mr. T. E. Campbell and family are making an extended visit with Mr. Campbell's son-in-law, Mr. Milton Robinson, of Yoakum County. We understand that Mr. Robinson is building a fine residence, and that Mr. Campbell and his son are helping to haul the lumber and to put up the building.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Long left here yesterday morning on their way to Mr. J. A. Long's, where Mrs. W. H. will spend a week or ten days.

Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Alexander of Brownfield, were pleasant callers in Meadow for a few minutes yesterday, on their way from Lubbock to Brownfield.

Messrs. J. B. and E. S. Hamlett are on a deal to sell out their property here to a Virginian. While we certainly do not wish these good men any real harm, and while we like to see land changing hands (for it generally advances in price at such times,) we do not know what kind of people may come to take their places, and for this reason, we hope that deal will not be consummated. We don't like to swap horses when we are crossing the creek.

Quite a few of the cowmen in this part of the county are out buying cattle; and from the prices some of them are paying it would seem that they take the beef trust boycott as a joke.

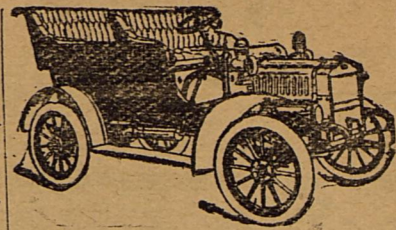

Mr. J. M. Northcross, of Oklahoma, but formerly of Mississippi and an old friend and acquaintance of Mr. J. W. Peeler of forty or fifty years standing, passed through Meadow last Saturday on his way to Brownfield to meet his son, Pat Northcross, of Seminole, and came back through here to-day. Mr.

Waco, Texas, January 31st, 1910. TO THE VOTERS OF THE 64TH JUDICIAL DISTRICT:

I know Mr. Reuben M. Ellerd of Plainview, Texas. He took a course in business several years ago in my school, Hill's Business College at Waco. While taking this course, he maintained himself by doing any honest work that came to hand. He is a self-made man, and deserves credit for what he has accomplished; just the kind of man who has the largest sympathies and understands the needs of all the people. Such a man can be trusted in any responsible position. I am confident that should Mr. Ellerd be elected to the office now sought by him, he will make a public servant in whose hands every interest of the people will be safe. I was intimately acquainted with his opponent during the many years he resided here in Waco.

race here and a few of their associates. There has been so much said on this subject that I guess it is needless for me to say more. But I hope there is no harm done. We must change the program somehow, or Mr. Big Ike will turn us off and hire us over. I would be glad to hear from others on this subject, who are better able to instruct us. Our towns and cities are full of deadbeats who ought to be out in the country at work. If I mistake not, our newspapers report 200,000 or more in greater New York who are out of food and who are depending on the charity institutions for support. If that little bunch had all worked on farms last year food and feed stuff would not have been half as scarce. The Farmer's Union has been trying to do something. I suppose they have done some good, but in these parts they have held meetings every spring since they organized and the most important business is to pledge themselves to diversify their crops, raise more feed stuff and plant less cotton, and honestly I believe each one planted double to try to get rich while the other fellows held the sacks. Now brother, try it on your own accord; let cotton be your surplus crop and plant plenty of feed stuff, plant a good garden, plant a few rows of navy beans along with your fence, a lot of blackeyed peas along in your cotton. They won't hurt the cotton. Plant a good hog crop and quit buying high priced bacon. Plant a good patch of seeded ribbon cane. Someone in each community get a mill and evaporator, make your own molasses and quit eating a makeshift that is made from drugs and called molasses. That kind of molasses injures your health. Good home-made sorghum is healthy. And if some of your neighbors don't make your molasses, haul your corn to me and I will make it. I can make it look like honey Ask Jim, our little editor. I think he has seen some of my make. Raise everything that will grow on the land you work that is fit for use at home and let those Northern farmers hold the sack for a while, while we drive in the snipe.

The County Line Amendment.

The amendment to Section 3, Article VII, State Constitution, relating to public free schools, which was adopted in the special election, Tuesday, August 3, 1903, by a vote of 48,000 to 19,076, gives constitutional warrant for the formation of "county-line" school districts and confers upon the Legislature the authority to pass laws for the assessment and collection of school taxes, and for the management and control of the public schools in such districts. This amendment was necessary on account of the decision of the Supreme Court "county-line" school districts in Texas. Prior to that date, more than forty independent districts with a scholastic population of 11,372 children and more than four hundred common school districts with a scholastic population of approximately 20,000 children had organized by taking contiguous territory in two or more counties.

The county-line amendment becomes important to all school districts in Texas in view of a case now pending in the Court of Civil Appeals at Fort Worth, in which the lower court (the district court) had held that the school amendment receiving in the November election, 1903, a "majority of the votes of those voting on the question," but not a "majority of all the votes cast," was not constitutionally adopted. In the event of an adverse decision of the higher courts, the county-line amendment repeating the provisions of the former school amendment saves to the school districts of Texas the right to levy a fifty cent school tax by a majority vote.

The amendment to Article VII of the State Constitution, adding thereto Section 3a, which was adopted in the special election Tuesday, August 3, 1903, by a vote of 52,385 to 16,430 validates "every school district heretofore formed, whether formed under the general law or by special act, and whether the territory embraced within its boundaries lies wholly within a single county or partly in two or more counties," and all bonds heretofore issued by such districts which have been approved by the Attorney General and registered by the Comptroller.

The legal provisions for the organization of school districts must be strictly followed to make a valid school district; a valid school corporation is necessary for a legal issue of bonds or for a legal tax for maintenance. This amendment, therefore, settles the validity of school districts in existence at the time of its adoption (more than seventy-five hundred in number), validated by the decision of the Supreme Court in the Mertens and Baird cases, approximating in amount $3,500,000, and makes legal and binding all other bonds of the school districts of Texas (amounting to about $2,000,000), the legality of the issue of which which might otherwise have been contested by suits in the courts.

First Newspaper Had Short Life.

The first newspaper ever published in America never got beyond its first issue. It was called Publick Occurrences and appeared in Boston, September 25, 1689. It contained a promise to publish in its next issue the names of all the liars in Boston, and the authorities, taking cognizance of the threat, wisely forbade the publication. The Boston News Letter was the first journal to be regularly published on this continent. It was started in 1704 and was followed by the American, Weekly Mercury, in Philadelphia, in 1710. English journalism is only 35 years older than American the London Gazette, an official publication, having been founded in 1665.

America's Opportunity in Turkey.

Dr. George Washburn, president of Robert College, 1870-1903, writes:

"It is a great opportunity, a wonderful opportunity, and it is a call especially to Americans. They believe in us now in Turkey. They trust us. There is nobody they believe in and trust as they do Americans in Turkey. They know that we have no selfish ends in view there. We do not want any of their territory; we are not going to try to overthrow the Turkish government; and they understand fully that what we are doing there we are doing for their good. They may think we make mistakes, but they know we are honest, and they know we are doing it for their good. They trust us as they trust nobody else and consequently it is a great opportunity, a wonderful opportunity, for us to go on and to try to make these people understand who Christ is and what Christ is to the world."

Tuberculin Test at A. & M.

The veterinary department of the A. and M. college has just completed a tuberculin test on over 100 animals in the college dairy herd and the results show the herd is entirely free from tuberculosis, not a single animal in the herd responding to the test. The tuberculin for this test was obtained from the bureau of animal industry, United States department of agriculture, and the test was officially conducted by Dr. Mark Francis of the Texas experiment station and professor of veterinary science and surgery, and his assistant Dr. R. Marsteller, associate professor of veterinary science and surgery. This is the third time this herd has been tested in the last four years, and each time the health of the herd has been found perfect.

The dairy herd at the college at the present time numbers approximately 120 mature cows, 50 two year old heifers and about 60 calves. Three breeds of cattle are represented in the herd—Jersey, Holstein and Guernsey. Of the latter breed, however, only one animal is mature. During the three years that this herd has been under the management of Charles E. Alvord, professor of agriculture, the average quality of the herd has been greatly improved, and some very excellent young stock have been raised. The first change was the securing of the very best bulls of the three breeds that could be purchased, and also in addition some excellent pure bred heifers. There is no effort made to test out the relative merits of the breeds, but rather to demonstrate the desirable qualities of each breed and their adaptability to the climatic and other conditions in various parts of the state. About 50 per cent of the herd are pure bred and registered, and a careful record is kept of the milk production of each individual animal, the milk from each cow being weighed every day and tested for butter fat once every month. About two years ago the agricultural department of the college sold about fifty animals for export to Cuba, and only recently Prof. Alvord shipped a fine Holstein bull to Nicaragua. The demand for dairy stock is so great that the majority of the animals offered for sale are disposed of as calves. The products of this herd is used to supply the mess hall of the college with milk, and the surplus is used for the manufacture of butter and ice cream. A herdsman and two assistants are regularly employed and twelve students assist in the milking, running the separator, driving the dairy wagon, cleaning cans and such work as may be necessary around the barn and dairy. The herd is managed on a practical, commercial basis, and serves as a valuable object lesson to the students studying this phrase of agriculture.—Stockman and Farmer.

An Old Time Cradle.

Coming past Blanton's blacksmith shop yesterday a reporter noticed an old cradle for cutting wheat and oats. The cradle had been brought in by a farmer to have a finger put in. It looks as odd in these days of harvesting machines, as a candle does with electric lights. Yet the cradle was not so very many years ago the only method of cutting grain. It was a pretty sight to see half a dozen or more, stalwart men swinging their cradles going through a field of grain, followed by others who bound the grain into sheaves. Men prided themselves on cutting a straight swath, and on their ability to mow a certain amount a day.

Then to add a little to the romance of the harvest fields, every few hours the pretty daughters of the farmers would come out with great pails or jugs of cooling drinks, pure spring water, cider or home brewed root beer. Many a shy glance was given and many a swain made happy by a soft word from the maiden of his choice. These harvest scenes were responsible for many a happy match.

Of course the cradle is a back number now, but it served well in its time. The rush and rattle of the harvester machines has done away with all the romance of harvest time, but to the older ones the sight of a cradle recalls many happy days of the long ago.—Greenville Herald.

Do not rush the team too hard; let them have time to get their shoulders hardened to the work.

Just as neatly as you can, grow all the stuff you will need for your family and your stock right at home this year. One thing that keeps a good many men poor is buying what they ought to raise themselves.
