DR. KNAPP'S ADDRESS

To the Boy's Corn Club at the Dallas State Fair.

From the News

Dr. Knapp spoke as follows: "President Quicksall of the Boys' Corn University of Texas, Students of Texas in the Freshman Class: "This is the largest freshman class I have ever seen, and the largest collection of boys in one body. I am glad to meet you here, and I came a long way to see the boys of Texas. Not that he is a great curiosity, for Texas is noted for raising boys. This is the greatest crop in the world, excepting one, and that is the girls. The boys' Corn Club is the greatest club in the world except the girls and we will have a girls' club after a while. It is coming after a while.

Just a few years ago they were talking about educating boys along agricultural lines. They said the boys of the farm were going to the towns to live. They proposed all sorts of remedies except the right remedy, and finally we hit upon the Boys' Corn Club. It is the right way to do things. In the first place, the important thing with a boy is to get him to see the world in the right way. They call it the view point. Early in life a boy begins to make up his mind as to the way he will go, and many a boy 10, 11 or 12 years old is a dreamer about the future, and if he dreams wrong he will go wrong. What is the proper thing to do in order to get him to do right? It is to do something that interests him; something that pleases him; something that educates him.

When the scholars of the country met and proposed to me to teach book farming in the schools, I said to them that that is all well enough, but I never knew a boy to study a book about swimming and then go and swim. He would go the bottom. He must learn to swim by swimming. A book gives him material suggestions, but it doesn't teach anything. He must learn by experience. Therefore, we said that we would take the Boys' Corn Club to teach agriculture, because my experience is that you must teach too much. Just drive them home and the boy will do the rest. Every boy in the corn club will try to do something about the farm better than he did before. Take one thing. What is the best thing? Why, it is corn, because that is a food best for man and beast. It means more animal industry; better pastures and meadows, a thriftier agriculture. It means self support. We can grow it everywhere. Consequently it is a great thing.

Before we began this corn movement, they said: 'You can not raise corn in the South.' Now, we are showing these great men that they are not on to their job. I see reports of 40, 50, 60, 70, 80 and 90 bushels, and even more, from Texas this year. That is a notable achievement, for we have had a very bad year. In dry weather the corn can not drink its food any more than a drinking man can get a drink in a prohibition town. If we had plenty of water this year for the corn, you would have come in here with 100 to 150 bushels per acre. The possible yield of corn is nearly up to 300 bushels per acre, and yet nearly all of our Southern producers are satisfied with twenty or thirty bushels per acre. And the boys with their banners are teaching their fathers how to raise corn.

I have a letter in my grip from a boy in South Carolina who this year made a little more than 250 bushels of corn per acre. His father had told him that it was of no use, but he said that he told dad that it was of use and that he would go ahead and make corn. And he did. He went down deep enough to moisture so that the corn would eat it all of the time. He went down eighteen inches. He stirred the dirt up time and time again. He fertilized it.

In Virginia last year a boy made 1221.2 bushels. That was the highest in the State of Virginia last year among the boys. His father said to me, 'You have spoiled Jim.' What is the matter?' said I. 'Why, he stole all of my barn yard manure and put it on that acre of land; he scraped the henhouse and went down to the swamp and got all of the muck he could.' And that is what the boys are doing. They are saving the waste fertilizer and turning it into golden corn.

And I heard this morning that of 14 boys in one of your counties, there were only two who did not beat their fathers, and of those two their fathers were taking corn lesson also and trying to get to the front.

Now, there is another thing. The boys study and learn how to make corn scientifically; how to prepare the seed corn, how to cultivate the corn and how to make a great crop.

How many millions of dollars you suppose this means to the South? Why, States that never made corn in the history of America are selling corn to other States, notably Louisiana and Mississippi. The State of South Carolina has gone up from about 14,000,000 bushels to 54,000,000 bushels this year.

Why, they say keep the boys on the farm. There is one way. We must make the farm a better place than the city, and the a b c of that is to raise a larger crop of corn and larger staple products.

The product must be worked out so we produce our own food; that we are self-supporting; manufacture our own machinery; that we are all-round, independent people. That must be worked out. Otherwise, raising one crop and buying everything has been a failure since the world began. We hear that Adam raised only one crop, and that was apples. He failed at it. As soon as we diversify we do something and it better.

Now, how will we teach it? The real teaching comes when the boy takes a lesson and goes out into field and works out a problem and feels proud of his achievement, and comes up to a great Fair like this, one of the greatest in the Union. This is one of the few great fair in the United States. He comes here proud of what he has done. Go through those corn exhibits. They are worthy of your attention, my friends. I am very proud of them for Texas. Now, for that boy the process of education has begun, and he will make a great boy.

We have arranged in this and other States that every boy who makes 100 bushels of corn per acre shall get a State diploma for achievement. Your candidate, and probably the next Governor of Texas, Mr. Colquitt, asserted the other day in my presence at Corsicana that he would give a diploma to every boy making 100 bushels of corn. Now, all of other States of the South are doing the same thing. The Governors are taking hold and giving diplomas. That means achievement. Now, the boy who wins in the State comes to Washington. We place at his service a man who spends a week showing him the National Capitol and looking at things generally. He is graduated by the National secretary and given a diploma, and the House of Representatives will do honor to the boys this coming year. The Committee on Agriculture in the Senate and House have said to me that they will receive the boys, and I expect that President Taft will receive them also. Now, I want two or three boys from this great State of Texas to come up and get a National diploma, as they are coming up from other States.

(A voice: "They are coming, Doctor.")

I hear a voice saying that they are coming. Now, what does it mean? It means that this movement is going to contribute a world of good. It is the best advertisement a State can give to the world that we are a great corn State. I said to the people that these boys' corn clubs are doing more to advertise your State than all your agents. This is because their results are achieved facts, and the people believe it.

We have been losing hundreds of thousands of our grand citizens going over into Canada and taking hundreds of millions of dollars with them every year. We want to stop that tide and they will come south if they know they can raise corn down here, because they are essentially corn men. In the next place, it makes the people believe in their soil. In nearly every section of the South you hear the complaint: "Why, we live on poor land." Why, bless you, there is no poor land. The trouble is that it is a poor head on good land. Fertilize the head and take care of the land. They wear out the land, they say. There is no worn out land. They move somewhere else, and those

And now the ex-President and the democratic candidate for Governor of Connecticut are knifing each other, but as usual Ted will have the last slash.

At the eleventh hour comes one of our exchanges with the information that the larger hats are not necessarily the most fashionable. He owed it to the ladies feelings and the men's pocket books to have remained silent until this season is over, anyway.

No doubt the 25th annual State Fair at Dallas will go down in history as the greatest exhibition of modern times. There has been more real, genuine compliments passed on the recent show than there ever was before, and they come from people who did not have in mind a few dime museums stretched along a half mile or more of so called "pike," but from people who see the real educational features of this great annual state fair. It was the unanimous decision of the people, and they are the correct judges.

The more time we spend on the Staked Plains of Texas the more thoroughly are we convinced that it is destined to become the most fruitful and enlightened country on earth. There are numerous reasons, among which we may mention fertility of soil and its adaptability of retaining moisture. The high class citizenship who are progressive enough to have the best schools, churches and society which are the three great pillars of civilization. Also their great love for diversification of crops, in which they are wonderfully backed by a soil, deal for these purposes. But healthfulness heads the list.

Of all little people, we struck him in Lubbock this week. He was ringy because we carried Montgomery Ward & Company's ad and his in the same issue. His ad pays us $1 per month and that of Montgomery Ward nearly $25 per month. We don't want to lose an ad because it is small, we appreciate a small one the same as a larger one, but he has drawn the color line, as it were, and demands that we straightway take his ad out. He furthermore, promised to work faithfully against us in the future with other firms, which he has a perfect right to do.

Our space is for sale at 121-2 cents per inch, and he that hath the "dough" may obtain it. We had ten times rather advertize for a reputable mail order house than for some patent medicine outfit, and our druggists have no objection to that. We wonder if this gentleman would refuse to make a sale to anybody, anywhere?

We see small people every once in awhile, but were surprised to find one in the progressive city of Lubbock. Whether or not his maliced prattle will have any effect on the real progressive Lubbock business men remains to be seen, but what we have seen of them they are ready to advertise and sell goods in open competition with any firm on earth. For which we say, Rah! Rah! Rah!

Dr. H. H. Harrington director of the Texas Experiment Station at the A. and M. College of Texas says:

"Beans and peas of all kinds, and in fact all plants that belong to the general class of legumes, are beneficial to the soil, since they gather nitrogen from the atmosphere and appropriate it to their own use. Cows will eat the vines of beans if they are properly cured, but horses, as a rule, will not, and cowpeas make a much better hay. Peanuts belong the family of legumes, and make an excellent hay, in addition to the nut crop. Of course nitrogen is not the only ingredient that a soil needs and it is sometimes necessary to supply phosphoric acid, and less frequently potash, in addition to the nitrogen. Phosphoric acid is usually supplied as acid phosphate. Bone phosphate, however, serves the same purpose, except that it is not so quickly available."

Our Tahoka Trip.

On last Monday morning we left on the line car for Lubbock, at which place we took the 3:30 p. m. train for the city of Tahoka "on the Santa Fe," as Brother Crie would put it, arriving there at 7:30 p. m. and registered at the Stokes hotel, which is noted far and wide for its exceptional "chawing." We spent Tuesday among the business men of that city who are wide awake, jovial fellows that make you want to go back again. They are very enthusiastic over the future of Tahoka and her splendid trade territory and are willing to spend time and money in extending it. They lay claim with vigor to the two fertile and progressive counties to their west and say that they are going to get and keep it if liberal price and fair treatment will keep it.

We visited the Tahoka gin while there and found them cutting the fleecy staple at a lively rate, having ginned to date something like 260 bales.

Among those who took space with the Herald are Wells & Welcher, Ketner & Hatchett, H. C. Smith, B. J. Majors, and next week we are likely to add another to the growing list. Peruse this week's paper carefully and you will see who are the most progressive merchants in Tahoka, and Lubbock too, for that matter, and can select your places to trade when in Tahoka. They are all honorable in every way and will do just what they say.

In this connection we wish to say that we were never treated better anywhere and we are sure you will enjoy the same treatment when you are in that city.

Lum Heflin.

The sad, sad news has just been received here of the death of the above named, which occurred at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Heflin, at Spur, Texas, a few days ago, and if the sense of sorrow manifested by his many friends here could be fully conveyed to his bereaved ones what a great consolation to them it would be.

Lum had just passed out of his teens and entered manhood, strong and vigorous, and full of life and hope. He was the pride of his parents and friends, and popular among his acquaintances. It is sad, indeed, to think how this promising boy was overpowered with typhoid and after struggling with fever for two weeks or more should lose in the battle and be gathered up by the grim sickle of death. But this sorrow is earthly hearts, these thoughts from human minds cannot grasp the unknown wisdom of Him who gives life and breath, and Him who taketh it away: so we yield our sorrow to the wisdom of God.

Lum was stricken with typhoid fever while working at Crosbyton, and was soon after moved to his home at Spur, where he died two weeks ago and was buried there. He was the oldest son of the family and well known in and about Brownfield, having lived here for some three years before moving to their present home. And among the many things of virtue we speak of our deceased friend I want to record this fact to his memory that among the many acquaintances and associates had, that I have resided among, I have never heard aught spoken against, nor an ill word muttered against Lum Heflin. A host of friends who learning of his death join me in expressing tribute to his memory and sending condolence to his bereaved parents.

A FRIEND.

Sheriff's Sale.

The State of Texas, County of Terry.

By virtue of a certain alias execution issued out of the Honorable Justice Court of Precinct No. 1, Presidio county, on the 17th day of October, 1910, by W. A. Wells, Justice Peace of said Precinct, against Chas. A. Hughes for the sum of forty-eight dollars and seventy cents ($48.00) and costs of suit, in cause No. 352 in said Court styled J. D. Lee versus Chas. A. Hughes and placed in my hands for service, I, Geo. E. Tiernan as Sheriff of Terry county, Texas, did, on the 31st day of October, 1910, levy on certain real estate, situated in Terry county, described as follows, to-wit:

Lots Nos. 1, 2, 3 and 4 in the original town of Gomez, Terry county, Texas; being the same land purchased by the said Chas. A. Hughes from W. L. Allen on January 14th, 1910, and levied upon as the property of said Chas. A. Hughes. And on Tuesday, the 6th day of December, 1910, at the Court House door of Terry county, in the town of Brownfield, Texas, between the hours of ten a. m. and four p. m. I will sell said property at public vendue, or cash, to the highest bidder, as the property of said Chas. A. Hughes, by virtue of said levy and said alias execution.

And in compliance with law, I give this notice by publication in the English language, once a week for three consecutive weeks immediately preceding said day of sale, in the Terry County Herald, a newspaper published in Brownfield, Terry county.

Witness my hand, this 31st day of October, 1910.

Geo. E. TIERNAN,
Sheriff Terry County, Texas.

Fire Furniture at Less than Retail Prices

You don't have to pay big prices in order to get the finest furniture from the best factories. Our buying and selling methods are so superior to those of the average retail dealer that we give you the best quality at a saving of about one-third. No matter what you may want in furniture you can buy it from us at a saving and we guarantee quick and safe delivery to your nearest railway station.

Retail Furniture Dealers have always made large profits on furniture. This has been due to small sales and lack of information on the part of the buying public as to the real value of the articles purchased. With us we reverse these conditions, we sell throughout the world, our enormous sales reaching seven figures. We take the entire output of the factory in many lines and to the lowest possible manufacturing cost we add one small profit only. Our furniture man, who has spent a lifetime in the furniture business, specifies our qualities and you are sure to receive the greatest possible furniture values because from the selection of the raw material to the delivery of the finished product every process of manufacture must measure up to our high standards.

Our Furniture Catalogue fully illustrated and handsomely printed will be mailed to you free if you will write us a letter or a postal card and ask for it. This is a big book showing our complete line, everything in furniture and hundreds of exclusive designs which you cannot obtain elsewhere. Our styles are right down to the minute, our cabinet work and finish the finest. You surely will want this book before you buy furniture of any kind this Fall or Winter because you can buy a single chair or an equipment for the entire home from us and the prices we quote will be a revelation to you. Address us at the store nearest you, 19th and Campbell Streets, Kansas City, or Chicago Avenue Bridge, Chicago, and we will send the free furniture catalogue by return mail postpaid.

The West Will Prove Good.

When people are overtaken by calamity many of them are apt to become discouraged and attribute it to location. They figure it had they been in some other place their condition would not have been so unsatisfactory. On this account, many people are inclined to wander from place to place, hoping thereby to improve their opportunities and better their affairs. They may run from drouth in one place and in the following year the conditions here and there may be reversed—they may flee from pestilence in one place and find themselves more seriously plagued in another. Many a man has tried residence in a new town, and becoming disgusted with rude conditions, moved away to see in a few years where he missed it.

These thoughts are suggested by the fact that some people have decided to leave the west in search of a more favored country, and it is probable that within a year they will see the mistake.

The west has had two or three years of drouth, and many people have to a degree lost faith in the country, but it may be that next year will bring a favorable season, and then business of all kinds will boom, while, even at best the conditions in older settled sections of high priced farms cannot hope for more than normal activity. The man who will stay with his holdings in west Texas will win out in the long run.—Western Light.

A young Routt county, Colorado, rancher bought a pair of overalls recently and found in them the name of the Denver girl who made them. He very promptly wrote her an effusive letter and in due time received a reply which, however, was void of the romance usual in such cases. Here it is: "I am a working girl, it is true, but I make a good living and I do not care to support a husband as I would have to do if I married some silly noodle who gets mashed on a girl he never saw. permit me to say I do not know how my card got in that pair of overalls and when I do marry, if ever, it will be some fellow who can afford something better than a 48c pair of breeches."—Stockman and Farmer.

On Saturday afternoon Oct. 21, the M. & M. Club met at the pleasant home of Mrs. Chas. Copeland,

The Club was called to order and business was attended to, after which came the lesson conducted by Mrs. Randal, the members regretting very much the absence of Mrs. Bell, the regular teacher. The lesson had been well prepared showing the studious habits of the club.

All were delighted to meet one of the club's former presidents, Mrs. Robinson, who was visiting. After the club adjourned the hostess assisted by Mrs. Spencer served most delicious refreshments.

THE L. B. MINOR COMPANY Lubbock, Texas

white-covered wagons have been distributed over all of the roads from Virginia to New Mexico. We want the man to make good in his own neighborhood and that is what the Boys' Corn Club will do. A man isn't worth anything who has to make good somewhere else. It is a promise to something. He must make good on his own farm; in his own neighborhood. He must prove his manhood right there, and then we will have a great country, and that is what the Boys' Corn Club is doing—proving of value in its own vicinity. Another thing they are doing—they making the people believe in their own country and in their own farms.

Now, we must make those farms a success. The boy must have a better home than he would have in the city. He must have comforts. He must drive better horses. He must show a superior manhood, and then the boys will come to the country. They will come to the country if they believe that is the place for the American citizen. God made the country and made the city. In the country we may achieve our greatest results. We have control of the food and clothing of the world. We a monopoly, as it were; over these main things.

Now, my dear boys, I do not intend talking to you but a few minutes longer. Just take it that this is the beginning. Study your lesson well. Learn how to make corn and next year you will come up with records way above this year and next year with records still higher, until the achievement of the Texas boy lead the youth throughout all of the world and the world will want some of this Texas land.

We had a boy make 1521-2 bushels last year in South Carolina, and we have 300 letters at Washington from people saying they want some of that South Carolina land. It was in the boy, bless you. It was the boy with the muscle and head that made the corn.

You will do two things. You will do honor to your land and make it produce. You will honor to your manhood and show what boys can do. You will do still more honor to your parents; because they have raised such boys, and you will still do more honor to your State, which has boys that can do great things.

A boy can do great things, but do them on the farm, in your home. Do them in your own neighborhood and make your neighborhood great.

I am glad I have met you. I congratulate you. I thank you. The Department of Agriculture is taking a great interest in this movement. The Secretary of Agriculture sends his greetings to the boys of Texas and everybody is interested in what the boys are doing to promote the greatest industry in the world. Thank you."

Why He Waited.

Not all the troubles which the fond automobilist has with his machine are due to defects in the mechanism. A writer in the New York Press tells how a quiet but sorrowful, if not disgusted, man sat by a medium-sized car that was drawn out of the road. A large touring-car came along. The man in it had seen the automobile in exactly the same spot when he had passed that morning, accordingly, he slowed up and leaned over.

"How long have you been here," he asked.

"Several hours, I guess."

"Can't you find out what the matter is? Inlet valve all right?"

The other grined. "That's all right," he said.

"Think not."

"How are your batteries?"

"O.K."

"Haven't got a short circuit, have you?"

"No."

"Got plenty of gasoline?"

"Yes, plenty."

"Your tires look all right," said the man in the touring car.

"What is wrong?"

"Oh," said the man, "there's nothing the matter with the car. But ever since ten o'clock my wife's been over in that house kissing her sister's first baby. When she gets through, I guess I'll crank up and get out."

Too Much Ham

One morning not long ago there tripped up to a butcher-stall in a Baltimore market a dainty little thing out for her first marketing. "My husband bought a couple of nice hams from you not long ago," she announced.

"Yes'm," said the smiling butcher, "I remember well. Fine hams, weren't they?"

"They were delicious," said the young wife. "Have you any more like them?"

You Can Live One Year

For What You Now Spend to Live 6 Months

If you could buy all the groceries you need to last you an entire year for what it now costs you to live only eight months, that would mean a big saving to you. That is exactly what our proposition means to you, and we are very anxious to have you give us an opportunity of proving that we can save you at least one-third on all your grocery purchases. If you will write us a letter or a postal card today—right now—and say, "Please send me your grocery catalogue for September and October," the day your letter reaches us we will send this very valuable catalogue to you by mail, postpaid. No matter what you need in groceries, you are sure to find it listed in the pages of this free grocery catalogue and at a considerable reduction from the usual retail prices. We give you in this advertisement just a few quotations taken from our Catalogue grocery catalogue which will show you the prices we regularly charge for these well known articles. Compare these prices with the prices you have been in the habit of paying and we are very sure you will find that the saving is well worth while.

Another interesting feature of this special grocery catalogue (which we will be glad to send you free) is the fact that we offer our very best values in other lines of merchandise in its pages from time to time. This grocery catalogue is issued every sixty days, because grocery prices fluctuate more or less, and often times we find that we are overstocked on certain lines of reasonable goods, or the factories which have supplied us are unable to supply sufficient quantities for another season's catalogue, and for many other reasons we frequently sacrifice the stock on hand, and when such occasions arise we offer these special bargains in our grocery catalogue. You will be surprised to learn how often you will be able to save even one-half or two-thirds of the usual prices on high grade, seasonable merchandise. It is therefore not only a valuable book because it quotes the lowest possible prices on high grade pure foods, but also because it brings you very unusual offerings on other lines of merchandise which you require from time to time.

Why Our Prices Are So Low

Our methods of buying and selling merchandise are unlike the methods employed by retailers generally. We buy our merchandise in the primary markets from the manufacturer, or the producer, or the grower, and then pass them on to you with just one small margin of profit added. As a consequence, you pay none of the extra charges which are added in the selling price of goods sold by the average retailer. These extra charges are the expenses of the retailer and traveling agents, the expense of the wholesaler, jobber, manufacturer, hotel bills and railroad fares. You have no idea how much our merchandise have reduced cost. The catalogue tells the story more eloquently than we can tell it here. Every page of our catalogue gives you the lowest possible prices. We are firm friends of customers who find it difficult to get the best of the market. If you will send one of our catalogues to you free of charge, we will show you a new and better way of buying your groceries. Write us today and we will send you a copy of our catalogue. Write us at 19th and Campbell Streets, Kansas City, or Chicago, A. B. Ward & Co.

"Lots," responded the butcher, indicating a row of hams in the rear of the stall. The young thing surveyed the hams thoughtfully. "Are you sure," she finally asked, "that they're from the same pig as that from which my husband bought?" "Yes'm," answered the butcher, without so much as a quiver of an eyelid. "Then you may send me three more of them," she said. —Hearth and Home
