To Parents and Patrons of Brownfield Public School

The board of trustees has decided to start the 1920-21 session of the Brownfield High School on Monday August the 30th 1920. This decision was reached by the board because it felt that the latter part of August and September was the time that the pupils had the least amount of outside work to do. The above date should be carefully borne in mind by everyone and preparations should be begun at once to start your children in the first day of school, and what is more the greatest effort possible should be put forth to keep them in school every day during the entire session.

Quite a number of pupils withdrew from school at the beginning of the last month of the previous term, of course, these pupils did not receive their promotions, and should they desire to enter the next higher grade they must take the examinations at the beginning of this session, also there were some who failed in the years work and were retained, should these desire to enter the next higher grade, they have the privilege of taking the examinations. It must be borne carefully in mind that no pupil can enter the next higher grade unless he or she has been promoted, or unless he or she takes the examinations at the opening of this session and makes passing grades. There is no other reasonable or fair way of adjusting such a situation and both parents and pupils must endeavor to see the matter in this light. Every pupil who for the one reason or the other failed to be promoted last year should spend the time between now and the opening of school studying for the examinations. Thirty or forty hours of strenuous study is almost sure to result in the pupil's passing to the next higher grade. Unless you are willing to put forth such an effort it would be unreasonable for you to expect to receive the advancement.

Pupils desiring advice as to what subject or phase of subject they should direct their efforts in preparations of these examinations, may consult me over the phone or at my office at the school house.

Report from Baptist Rev

Editor Herald:-

On Thursday night, July 29th, the Baptist ladies pulled off a grand entertainment at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Chas Ackers out on Baptist lane. The understanding was that each lady bring a man with her, and at 6: P.M. they began to gather, and at 7: P.M. there was quite a crowd gathered. Supper was spread upon the table which had been previously arranged, and Jack, it was a supper such as we have not had the pleasure of enjoying in many long days. Chas Acker claimed to be sick but there was no one present that could tell it after the repast.

After super Brother Anderson took charge of the gathering, and called on number present to make talks, among whom was Chas Acker, and he made quite a little talk and stated, that with one exception, every family living on the lane was Baptist, and that pressure was so strong that this man had sold out and was looking for "greener fields", so he named it Baptist Lane, and we will call it Baptist Lane hereafter. At the conclusion of his talk, Chas told the crowd that he was sick, which did not surprise any one after watching him at the table.

When the speaking was over, the ladies took up collection for the ladies Aid, and we are informed that they received a neat sum which was highly appreciated. At nine o'clock the crowd dispersed, all praising the host and hostess on their entertaining qualities and wishing it would be repeated at an early date. Mr. W.L. Bandy's family are entertaining Mr. Bandy's father and mother of Cleburne, this week.

Mr. J.G. Leuden has his new house primed and ready for the second coat of paint.

Chas Acker has just finished painting his new house, and it looks real nice.

Oh the grass hoppers! the grass-hoppers!, the cotton and peanuts are gone and every thing else is going as fast as it heads out, so we are afraid there will be nothing left at the end of the season.

Chas Acker is preparing to scrape down the ridge between his house and the public road, which will add a great deal to the looks of his place when it is completed.

We would give you more of the happenings out on Baptist Lane, but this is our first, and we will desist for the present.

Wait a minute, we did not get to tell all about the supper and entertainment. At the conclusion of Mr. Acker's talk, he claimed that he had cleaned the yard the morning before the supper, then Mrs. Acker disputed it and stated that she swept the yard, but Chas says there is two sides to all questions, and there is two yards at their place, a front yard and a back, and that the front yard was covered with shiner and he had to cut and rake and burn it, and that Mrs. Acker only cleaned up the back yard where there was nothing to do but move two or three piles of lumber, a work bench and a lot of coal and a few other things such as saw horses, several joints of windmill piping, and fix a gate.

Wishing you health, happiness and prosperity, we remain respectfully your friend out on Baptist Lane.

ELDER LEE P. MANSFIELD PREACHING FINE SERMONS

The meeting at the tabernacle is moving along nicely having started off on schedule time and the interest and attendance have been on the increase most all the time. However, there have been several hindrances the most serious of which is the weather. There are others, but not serious enough to mention, yet, they are hindrances that can be avoided if everyone wanted to show just exactly the right spirit. But the preacher is gaining hearers just on the merit of his ability in spite of adverse conditions.

Elder Mansfield paid the people of Brownfield a high compliment in the erection of the splendid tabernacle, and said that if his hearers could be with him in some of his meetings in Central Texas and in other states for that matter, and see some of the little old hot churches in which he had to preach the gospel they could then easily understand why he was paying them such a compliment, and for the benefit of the people where he had held some of these meetings, he wished they might see the tabernacle that these big hearted western folks had built.

For the present the following subjects have been announced:

Friday night—Things by which we are saved, and the strongest argument against water baptism.

Saturday night—A Divided Church and Why?

Sunday Morning—The Church as an Army.

Sunday night—Christian Education. The speaker is very desirous that all young people in the Brownfield country hear this latter subject, but you are invited and welcomed to all of them, and to ask any question about these subjects, either personal or written, but you must sign your name if you write, yet the speaker will not disclose your name.

The day services have been very interesting, for the reason that Elder Mansfield has preached sermons from text suggested by those in the audiences, and his rare knowledge has cleared many a hard text for the people present.

GIVE MEANING TO WHISTLE

Canary Island Natives Said to Hold Conversations With Each Other by Musical Sounds.

Australia, it is said, can boast of whistling spiders, whistling snakes and whistling moths. But has anybody ever heard of "whistling" language?

It is recorded that in the Canary islands the natives are expert whistlers and hold conversations with each other through this medium. Travelers who have been to these islands tell how they have learned the strange language, and also of how long and complicated conversations have been held by whistling with a neighbor a mile away.

The New Guinea whistling snake is very dangerous and many deaths have been reported. It rushes to an intruder with a whistling noise and the bite causes almost instantaneous death.

The United States has "whistling" caves and "squeaking" sands. A whistling well in Kansas has been known to give notice of coming storms, the rushing wind over it causing a loud shrill warning of approaching squalls. Singing sands are well known in the United States, but in south Colorado "squeaking" ones are found. The cause remains a mystery, but the sand only "squeaks" in dry weather.

Plants, caves and trees are recorded among the "whistlers" of the earth and it is interesting to find that in Nubia and the Sudan there grows a species of acacia which the natives call the "whistling" tree. Its "whistle" is not that of an ordinary blowing of the wind through its branches, but it arises from the air playing on some holes of a bladderlike formation, being the work of insects.

OLD NAMES FOR MODERN CARS

Easy to Trace Appellations That Have Been Given to Distinctive Makes of Automobiles.

The first sedans were portable enclosed chairs carried on poles by two men. They were extremely popular in England and are still used in China and India. The modern sedan has an enclosed body and accommodates seven passengers.

"Limousine" was originally the name of a cloak worn in France, and probably originated from Limousin, the name of an old province in central France. Today it is applied to the chauffeur-driven car with an enclosed compartment. The driver's seat is outside, but covered by a roof.

"Roadster" was first applied to vessels that worked their way by means of the tides. Later it was used for bicycles. The modern roadster has an open body and was designed primarily for two persons, but of recent years the four-door roadster, accommodating four passengers, has met with popular favor.

The "touring car," which is the most familiar type of car, takes its name from the fact that it is used by motorists on lengthy tours. It is an open car also, with a tonneau and four doors, seating seven passengers.

Edible Fish Found at Great Depths.

While there are many varieties and great quantities of curious fish in the abyssal depths (some have been trawled up from depths of three miles and more), none of these are eatable. The limit to which fish fit for food are found is 1,600 feet. Even so, the discovery that valuable food fishes live in far deeper water opens up amazing possibilities, and will have a most important bearing on the future food supply of the world.

The North sea, which has for ages supplied most of the fish markets of western Europe, is so shallow that, except in a very few places, a building as high as St. Paul's cathedral, placed on the bottom, would stick out above the surface. It has generally been considered useless to fish in greater depths.

Romans' Fondness for Amber.

Amber was the first precious stone made use of for the purposes of personal adornments. Homer mentions "the gold necklace hung with bits of amber" which was offered by the Phoenician trader to the queen of Syria, and Nero, in one of his badly-composed verses to Poppaea's hair, described it as of an "amber" shade. The Romans valued amber highly, not alone for its beauty, but also for the medicinal qualities which they believed it to contain. In their opinion, an amulet of amber, worn round the neck, was an infallible cure for ague or chills; ground up with honey and rose oil, amber was a specific for deafness, and ground with honey a remedy for defective sight.

D. 1920, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 6th day of July, A. D. 1920, in a suit numbered on the docket of said court No. 145, wherein W. E. Smith, J. C. Smith, J. S. Dorton, J. T. Marshall, F. G. Ward, G. W. Lackey, D. B. Tingle, J. L. York, F. M. Cox, J. F. Merritt, R. L. Merritt, S. J. Dixon, I. L. Read, W. K. Read, M. W. Luna, A. C. Copeland, and C. I. Bedford are plaintiffs, and John Fernow, The First State Bank of Plains, and W. H. Hague County Clerk of Yoakum County, Texas, are the defendants, and said petition alleging that on or about the 12th day of July, A. D. 1919, the plaintiffs leased to one Claude C. Wild, certain lands owned by said plaintiffs for oil and gas, on what is known as a commercial lease form 88, which said lease contracts are of record in the deed records of Yoakum County, Texas, that is to say that W. E. Smith, leased the N¹/₂ of Section No. 426, J. C. Smith Section No. 369, J. S. Dorton Section No. 310 and the E¹/₂ of Section 309, R. D. Marshall leased Section No. 370, and afterwards sold to the plaintiff J. T. Marshall, E. G. Ward, Section Nos. 245, 280 and 305, G. W. Lackey Sections No. 435, 487, 501 and 503; D. B. Tingle Sections Nos. 392, 367, 335, 368 and 394; J. L. York Sections Nos. 483, 458; F. M. Cox Sections Nos. 419, 439 and 386; J. F. Merritt Sections Nos. 440, 441, 442, 482 and S¹/₂ of No. 429; R. L. Merritt Sections No. 449 and 448; S. J. Dixon Sections 510 and 546; M. W. Luna the S¹/₂ and NE¹/₄ of Section No. 511 and NW¹/₄ of Section 478; D. C. Jordan all of Section 485, who afterwards sold same to the plaintiff A. C. Copeland; I. L. Read Sections No. 450, 541 and 469; W. K. Read Sections No. 452 and 470; C. I. Bedford Section 307, all of said lands being situated in Block D, and originally granted to John H. Gibson, in Yoakum County, Texas.

That said lease contract was made and delivered upon the express condition that the said Claude C. Wild, his heirs or assigns would begin within eight months from the 28th day of October 1919, the drilling of a well on some part of said lands or on some part of 40,115 acres of said land, mentioned and described in a certain contract dated the 28th day of October A. D. 1919, and it was so stipulated in said contract that if there was no well begun on some part of said 40,115 acres of land, which included the lands herein described, and that if the said Claude C. Wild did not within said time furnish to these plaintiffs or some one as trustee for them, a good and sufficient bond, guaranteeing that he would drill said well with reasonable diligence and with reasonable dispatch, to the depth of four thousand feet unless oil or gas was found in paying quantities at a less depth, that all said contracts would become null and void, and that after the execution and delivery of said lease contracts, and the agreement the said Claude C. Wild had had with these plaintiffs; and about the first day of May, A. D. 1920, the said Claude C. Wild transferred and assigned said contracts to the said defendant John Fernow, but before the said contracts were executed and delivered, the said Claude C. Wild, made executed and delivered to the defendant the First State Bank of Plains certain instruments in writing in favor of each of the plaintiffs herein where by he, the said Wild, released any right, title, interest, claim or demand in and to said land by reason of such lease contracts, to be delivered by said bank to the respective owners of said land, in case he the said Claude C. Wild, his heirs or assigns should fail to carry out all the terms and conditions of said contract, and the said defendant bank now has in its possession each and all of said re-lease contracts, and the agreements connected therewith the defendant John Fernow, promised and agreed to perform and carry out the obligations of the said Claude C. Wild, with reference to the beginning the drilling of said well and the furnishing a bond in the sum of fifteen thousand dollars. That the said Claude C. Wild and the defendant John Fernow have each of them failed and refused to begin the drilling of the well in the time specified in said contracts, to wit, on or before midnight June the 28th, 1920, and has failed and refused to furnish to these plaintiffs or any one for them a good and sufficient bond in the sum of fifteen thousand dollars to guarantee that they would do and perform the things agreed to be done and performed by them, and have wholly breached their said contract and by reason thereof said lease contracts on the lands and premises have become null and void.

That the defendant John Fernow has failed and refused to begin the drilling of said well, and has failed and refused to furnish said bond, at the same time is now asserting that he has a good and valid lease contract on and against said land, and has instructed the defendant bank not to turn over to said plaintiffs said re-lease contracts, and has made and caused to be recorded in the deed records of Yoakum County, Texas, and certain affidavit in which he states on oath that he has done and performed all these matters and things agreed to be done and performed by him, and by reason of said contracts, and assignments thereof, together with said written agreements and the assignment thereof to the defendant John Fernow, and by reason of the affidavit and claims of the defendant John Fernow, there is cast a cloud on the plaintiffs' title to said land and premises, and the plaintiffs allege that the defendant Fernow will unless restrained transfer and assign said lease contracts, and will thereby continue to hold the title to said lands, and plaintiffs pray for a writ of injunction restraining him from further transferring or assigning said contracts or any part thereof.

Plaintiffs allege that the defendant W. H. Hague is the county clerk of Yoakum County, Texas, and that unless restrained from doing so that the said defendant as such County Clerk will file and record any and all such assignments of said contracts, as made by the defendant, Fernow and others and plaintiffs pray for a writ of injunction against the defendant W. H. Hague as county clerk restraining him from filing or recording any other assignments of said lease contracts, from the said defendant John Fernow or any other person or corporation affecting the lands herein described.

Plaintiffs also allege that the defendant bank has failed and refused to deliver to them or either of them the releases made and executed by the said Claude C. Wild, and pray for the writ of mandamus requiring the defendant to deliver to each of these plaintiffs the release of the said Claude C. Wild, affecting his lands herein described.

Plaintiffs also pray for judgement removing the cloud cast on their title to said land, by them owned, for the cost of this suit and for general and special relief.

Herein fail not, but have before said court, at its aforesaid next term, showing how you have executed the same.

Home.

Home cannot be given us. We may be given a house, a place to eat and sleep. This is not a home. A home is a place of love and rest and peace. Love and rest and peace must be deserved, must be earned. Nobody can hand them to you as so many packages. They are matters of reciprocity. If you have none to give, there will be but little for you to receive.—Western Methodist.

Livingstone Memorial Tree.

One of the most curious memorials of Livingstone is the "name tree," near Victoria Falls, on the Zambesi. On the trunk Livingstone cut his initial and the date 1855 on the day of his first visit to the falls. In his book giving an account of this Livingstone says: "This was the only instance in which I indulged in this piece of vanity."

Remarkable Tattooing.

Perhaps the most extraordinary tattooing idea ever carried out was that of a French coachman, who, at the time of the celebrated Dreyfus trial, had his body covered with no fewer than 120 illustrations of the case, including portraits of the leading personages. The work occupied nearly two years.

Excuse Recalled.

Robert had finished the evening meal and had politely asked to be excused. As he started to play his mother began serving those still at the table with watermelon. Realizing he had left too soon, Robert ran to his place and as he climbed up in his chair said: "I'd forgotten the watermelon, so excuse me back."

More Words to Use.

Students of the English language attribute to aerial navigation the addition of 200 new words. As the average American has had in the past a speaking vocabulary of only 650 of the more than 600,000 words in the English language, the increase brought about by the airplane and airship is regarded as remarkable.

Peruvian Sugar.

The enormous production of sugar cane to the acre is one of the surprises of Peru. An average crop of forty tons an acre is obtained, while sixty and even seventy tons is not uncommon. In other sugar growing countries, including Cuba, twenty-five tons per acre is the rule.

Device Reads Pulse.

Utilizing a galvanometer, a French scientist has invented apparatus for measuring vibrations of human bones and tissues with which among other things, he reads a person's pulse more accurately than by hand.

Eighteenth-Century Amusements.

In the eighteenth century dancing and card playing were the two chief amusements of the court and the fashionable world. Cheating at cards was not only tolerated, but admired as clever and smart.

Fancy dress balls were very popular in the olden days, but they do not appear to have been carried out with as much propriety as in our times. Every effort was made to confine the audience to "the quality," and to prevent drunkenness and disorder, but without success. As for dancing, it was like cards, "a diversion for grave and gay alike." Men did not stand out half the program in those days; they were as keen for the dance as their fair partners.

New Fish Story.

A convalescing Indian fisherman in a Rangoon hospital was fishing along the foreshore recently when he caught a small fish. His basket being a short distance away, he put the head of the fish in his mouth, and closed his teeth on it, while he was rebaiting his hook. The fish slipped into his throat, and struggling to escape, got stuck there. The fisherman was hurried into the hospital, where an incision was made and the fish removed just in time to save the patient from choking to death.

Deserved the Cookies.

Our neighbor's small son was well bred and he never asked for things to eat at our house. The other day he came into the kitchen just as I had spread the last of a batch of cookies on the table. The sight of so many and their delicious smell almost overcame his manners, for he said, "Cookies are one thing that have never disagreed with me yet." He got the two largest in the batch.—Chicago Tribune.

There for a Good Time.

While entertaining our club one evening our hostess felt it her duty to ask a member to sing. Realizing what we would have to endure, and without stopping to think, I suddenly exclaimed, "Oh, we came here to have a good time; let's play cards." The painful silence which followed, together with the look which the would-be singer gave me, made me truly experience the most embarrassing moment of my life.—Exchange.

Laid Color on Thickly.

There were periods when even men rouged. In the Eighteenth century little attempt was made to imitate nature's coloring. The ladies "laid it on thick" in round red spots, and seemed to apply it, as they did patches, to obtain a supposed decorative effect, and to simulate the blush of nature. The red and white they used, unlike the modern cosmetics, were actually poisonous, and there is record of more than one lady of quality who died from the effects of white lead.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

FOR SHERIFF & TAX-COLLECTOR
Wood E. Johnson
R. E. Burnett

The Terry County Herald had a birthday last week, having passed its eleventh mile stone. Long live the Herald and its wide-awake editor—Jack Stricklin.—Lynn County News.

The esteemed News made quite a mistake in the age of the Herald when he gave it as eleven, when we took so much pains to inform all the people she was Sweet Sixteen, or a matter of just forty-some-odd issues behind the News. However, it has just been under the present management for a little better than eleven years, and that is how Haynes go: "balled." We thank the News very much for its kindly expressions.

UNCLE WALT ON THE HIGH COST OF LIVING

It's hard to salt a pickle, to save a picayune, I have to buy a pickle, and then again a prune, the figures such things cost me upset my apple cart; they stagger and exhaust me, and make me sick at heart. All men are profiteering, it surely seems to me when shopward I go steering, to buy a pound of tea, to buy a pair of trousers, a bird cage of a hat; and money mad carousers are doubtless getting fat. We men who work for wages, are shy of all recourse; we fly in futile rages, and clamor till we'er hoarse, but still the profiteering goes forward with a will, and daily we are nearing the poor house on the hill. But let's be calm and steady and can our wild remarks, our Uncle's getting ready to shoot the robber sharks. Our Uncle slow as blazes, but take this to your heart all kinds of smoke he raises, when once he gets a start. And we who toil and suffer may yet survive to see the profiteering duffer suspended from a tree. Or, if that fate's not his'n as being too severe, no doubt he'll go to prison, and stay year after year. The profiteers and hoarders and other soulless men will be the nations boarders in some full scented pen. Our Uncle Sam moves slowly, but he has giant thighs; his wrath is rot and roly, and spikes are in his shoes.—Walt Mason.

WHERE THEY BEAT US

The American tourist had hustled through England, Wales and part of Scotland in a few days. Now he was visiting Loch Lomond with its bonny bonny banks, a guide book in one hand and a timetable in the other. In these days of cinema wonders it's strange that Americans ever bother to go abroad. They could "see it in the pictures."

A local worthy was acting as guide and his face fell when the visitor remarked candidly that they possessed many much finer "beauty spots" in the States.

"Ha'e ye?" remarked the son of Scotia coldly. "Ah weel, just come away, tae the tap o' this hill, an' Ah'll show ye something ye havenna' got in Ameriky."

After a laborious climb, the pair reached the summit. Then the guide recommended the American just to turn round slowly and view the landscape o'er. During the process he called the tourist's attention to a number of large buildigs in different directions.

"Waal, what are they?" asked the bored visitor.

"Disteeleries!" replied the Scot in savage triumph, "An' all wurkin!"—Pittsburg Chronicle-Telegraph.

UNUSUAL CONDITION

Texas Lady Suffered With Pulling and Aching Pains in Her Back, Which Cardui Relieved.

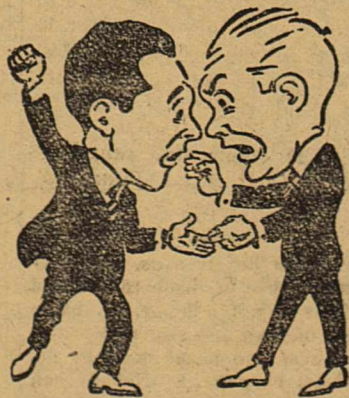

Houston, Texas.—Mrs. C. D. Cook, of 1912 Whitty Street, this city, recently said: "About four months after my marriage, I . . . began suffering much pain, and knew that my condition was unusual, but couldn't just decide what was wrong. I had to go to bed. . . . "All across my back and hips were pains, pulling and aching until I could hardly sit up. I stayed in bed a few days. My husband had heard of Cardui . . . so I told him he might get it. "After I had taken Cardui a few days, I was up. I took five bottles and haven't been in bed since for this trouble, for if I have the least symptoms of this trouble I get Cardui and take it in time.

"I have a number of friends who have used Cardui, and they recommend it very highly."

The experience of this Texas lady is similar to that related by thousands of other women.

Cardui is purely vegetable, and mild and gentle in its action. Cardui may be the very medicine you need if suffering with womanly troubles.

WARREN G. HARDING
Warren G. Harding, the Republican party's choice for president, now nearing the end of his first term as United States senator from Ohio is called a selfmade man, says the Chicago Tribune. He was in turn a construction gang, country school teacher, printer's devil, linotype operator publisher, business man, and a banker before he became a commanding figure in the political life of the nation.
He is descended from two pioneer American families, hardy Holland Dutch on one side and liberty loving Scotch on the other. He was born on his grandfather's farm just outside of the village of Blooming Grove in Morrow County, Ohio, on Nov. 2, 1865. His father, Dr. George T. Harding, still a practicing physician in Marion, Ohio, despite his advanced age—76 years—was then a struggling country doctor.

Young Harding worked on his grandfather's farm and attended the village school until he was 14, when he entered the Ohio Central College at Iberia. He worked his way thru school by cutting corn, painting his neighbor's barns, and helping to grade the roadbed of the T. & O. C. railroad. He also played a cornet in the village band and was editor of the college paper.

Upon his graduation from college he went to work in the village printing office. When he was 19 his father moved to Marion and aided him in acquiring control of the Marion Star of which he is still publisher. The Senator learned to set type by himself and when the linotype machine was introduced, learned to operate that. The pocket piece he still carries is the old printer's rule he used in those days.

A story is told that early one New Year's morning not long ago a friend found him making up the forms of the paper.

"A great senator you are!" exclaimed the visitor.

"I'd be a great senator if I didn't know anything else!" Harding replied. "This is a holiday and we wish to get to press as early as possible so the boys can get out and enjoy themselves. That is why I'm lending a helping hand."

The Star is still the Senator's idol. He has lived with it. He has never had a strike on his paper. Eleven years ago he inaugurated a profit-sharing plan for employees, the dividends paying for their stock.

But the paper was not his only interest. As Marion grew from a town of 4,000 to its present population of more than 30,000, he became identified with the industries that sprang up. Today he is still director in a bank, director in several large manufacturing plants and a trustee of Trinity Baptist Church.

JAMES M. COX

From printer's devil to president. That is the ambitious road James M. Cox has set out to travel, and now he has got as far as inducing the Democratic party to put it up to the voters of the nation to decide whether they want to send James M. Cox to the White House or prefer Senator Warren G. Harding. In either event, Ohio furnishes the next president. Just as the Republican candidate for president was born in the Buckeye state fifty-three years ago and has lived there ever since, so also the Democratic candidate for president was born there fifty years ago and has lived there ever since.

His birthday was March 31. His birthplace is the humble little farm near Jacksonburg, in Butler county. His parents were farmers, his father was of English descent and his mother of German. He worked his way into the Amanda township high school, selling newspapers and working as a printer's devil in a country print shop to get by. The smell of the printer's ink made a hit with "Jimmy" Cox and he set out to learn the trade of the journeyman printer. Then he graduated to a newspaper reporter and got a job on the Cincinnati Enquirer, of which he soon became one of the minor editors.

Young Cox's taste came for politics when he was 24. He got a job as secretary to a Democratic Ohio Congressman with a chance to earn $100 per month and live in Washington part of the time. This job he kept for four years when he scraped together enough money to get control of the Dayton News. Five years later he secured the Springfield Press Republic and changed its name to the Springfield Daily News and has operated both papers with marked success under what is known as the News League, of Ohio.

Mr. Cox was elected to Congress from the Third Ohio District in 1908, and was re-elected in 1910; was elected Governor of Ohio in 1912, and was defeated for re-election in 1914. He was elected governor again in 1916 and again in 1918.

Governor Cox married twice. His first wife whom he married in 1893 was Miss Mayme L. Harding of Cincinnati. He married her while he was a reporter. His second wife was Miss Margaret P. Blair, a Chicago girl. He married her three years ago, shortly after he was elected governor the second time.

TREATMENT OF WATERMELONS FOR STEM END ROT

M. E. Hays, Horticulturist, Extension Service, A. and M. College of Texas. The stem rot is one of the most serious troubles that the shipper has to contend with. This disease can be prevented by stem end treatment, this according to this, according to the work of the United States Department of Agriculture. The importance of this disease should be of interest to the growers, growers associations and shippers.

Bluestone (Copper Sulphate) four ounces; rye flour 4½ ounces; distilled water, 3 pints, Pistachio green coloring one-half fluid ounce, powdered alum, 3 ounces. This amount of material will make about one quart of paste, sufficient amount to treat one carload of watermelons.

Directions for preparing the paste

Use copper or enamel vessels. (1) Dissolve 4 ounces bluestone in 2 pints boiling water. (2) Dissolve 3 ounces powdered alum in 1 pint water and then add 4½ ounces rye flour and mix to form a smooth paste. (3) When the bluestone is thoroughly dissolved pour the solution in the paste, stirring the mixture thoroughly. Bring this mixture to the boiling point and cook for about five minutes. (When the paste is made in large quantities it may be necessary to change this time for cooking). After the paste is allowed to cool it may then be strained through cheese cloth after which the coloring matter should be added. (4) The paste should be stored in air tight containers, glass jars or tin cans lined with paraffin may be used for this purpose. Uncoated metal containers must not be used. This is applied to the fresh cut stem by means of a brush, one boy can easily treat melons for two or three loaders.

Little Wind in Siberia.

While the average temperature in Western Siberia is extremely low it is withstood by human beings comparatively easily because of the lack of wind.

Lightning Stole Lunch.
Lightning frequently acts the robber with foodstuffs, and some extraordinary happenings have been recorded from time to time. On one occasion a party of tourists were preparing dinner when suddenly and without warning a storm arose, followed immediately by vivid flashes of lightning. A few seconds later not a trace of the prepared meal was to be seen. The dishes were strewn on the ground, but all the bread, cheese and fruit had vanished, while the bewildered tourists were covered from head to foot with straw.

Piling More Than 400 Years Old.
Many of the piles in use in Amsterdam are 300 or 400 years old. That part which is not in the ground in salt water is often bored by a pile-worm near the surface, but it is preserved by driving in nails with very large heads, so as to give the pile an iron coating. This coating is then transformed by the water into a layer of rust, which protects the wood from the pile-worm. This process must be repeated every 15 years.

Qualified as a Telephone Girl.
The newspapers report the case of a woman in a state of trance who has not spoken a word for twenty-one days. City men incline to the theory that the lady is a telephone operator.—Punch, London.

Her Wish.
Wee Bessie on being told that she would have to eat condensed milk on her oatmeal exclaimed, "I wish that old condensed cow would die."—Boston Transcript.

The Campaign Is On

Brownfield is seriously handicapped in growth and development because of a shortage of Homes.

Many families are living in camped quarters or hunting a place to live.

Every patriotic citizen should lend his efforts to this campaign to build more homes. If you are a renter build a home of your own. If you own a vacant lot improve it with a house for rent or for sale.

We cannot hope to attract additional families to Brownfield unless we can provide comfortable housing.

Our modern home plans will help you to decide.

HOGVILLE LOCAL NEWS By Dunk Botts.

At a meeting of the directors of the Dog Fair Association a few days ago it was voted that all of Alexander Moseley's dogs be ruled out of the Fair this fall. This action was taken on account of some strange disease that developed among Alex's dogs some time ago, and it is hoped the spread of the disease may be prevented. Alex, who is the largest individual dog owner of this whole region, has resented this precautionary measure taken by the directors of the said Hogville Dog Fair Association, and may hold a fair independent of theirs.

Miss Petunia Belcher, of this town, was the guest of the Henstep girls at Pumpkinville last week. None of the young men of that town seemed to care if she was.

The high prices of baseball supplies has not affected the Hogville team much. Dag Smith, who has long whiskers and eyebrows, has been chosen as catcher, which will make both breast plate and mask unnecessary, and Dan Hocks has made them a mighty good bat from a seasoned slab of black gum.

The Postmaster says it behooves every man in politics who expects to share in the political pie cutting, to guard his steps. He now finds that the fellows who look like winners in conventions never win any more, but instead some fellow who never had a chance comes along and gets the plum. This makes it hard on fellows who desire to be in line for appointment to postoffice jobs and the like.

Zero Peck, who had his spotted cow killed by a train on the Pumpkinville & Bear Ford railroad last week, wanted to charge the road two hundred and fifty dollars for damages.

He claimed to the railroad people that the cow gave eight gallons of milk regularly a day. However, they refused to pay this much and unless Zero agrees to take less the case will go to court. It is now believed the railroad company has a mighty good case against Zero, as Gape Allsop, who does not like Zero and who is anxious to show this dislike in strong terms is itching to swear in court that Zero Peck has no way of telling how much milk the cow gave as she would kick it out of the bucket as fast as Zero could milk it.

Sile Sims came near being lynched by the better citizens of this town a few days ago when it was learned that he had talked a blind man into buying a second-hand heating stove from him right at the time when the thermometer was registering ninety-odd in the shade. Sile saved his neck by agreeing to take the heater back and give the blind man his money.
