EDITORIAL
The outstanding weakness in the education of the modern day student is the lack of initiative on the part of the individual student. Very few students say, "I should be glad to lead the group in the discussion." The usual reply is, "Let him do it. He is better than I." The result is that he fails to gain the experience in leadership so essential to successful living and someone else gets credit for ideas that he may have had but failed to present due to the lack of initiative. In our classroom we build units of work around our experiences and are allowed to make use of our own initiative in planning the studies. In our auditorium work, playground activities, patrol system, newspaper staff, and library studies we are given opportunities to plan and direct our own student activities. As a result we are better prepared to meet life.

HORTICULTURIST IN OUR MIDST
Frank Goodrich is a very able horticulturist. He cares for the shrubs recently put out and soon will plant golf course on the school grounds. He refuses outright to plant the seeds until spring is really here, or when the mesquites bud out. Is he just superstitious—or is he an extra good horticulturist? We leave it to you!

INTERSCHOLASTIC LEAGUE ENTRIES
As a result of the eliminations held last week we are able to announce the Jr. Hi School representatives in the County meet.

Craig Porter, Jan Lee, and Sue Hardegree have entered fifth grade spelling. Two of the trio will go to the County Meet. Winners of the declamation tryouts were: Boy's division, Carl Moore; Billy Chaney, substitute. Girl's division, Freddie Watson, Doris Flo Doss, substitute. Are you one of the vast number of sufferers who drag through life, feeling "half sick," run-down, sluggish, without appetite or zest for the good things of life—all because of a stomach, bowel and kidney condition which may easily be relieved by a good mild tonic, stomachic stimulant, diuretic and mild laxative? If you are, don't suffer any longer without trying Williams S.L.K. Formula, which is bringing blessed relief and added joy of living to so many people.

The Prescription of a Former Army Doctor

NATIONS OF EUROPE STAND ON VERGE OF CONFLICT, IS LOCAL ATTORNEY'S BELIEF

'The World Is Nearer War Today Than At Any Time Since 1914,' Smith Says In Lions Club Address

The world stands nearer war today than at any time since those trying times in 1914, involving the great World War, Thos. R. Smith, local attorney, declared during an address at the Lions Club Friday. Mr. Smith expressed the belief that Continental Europe might become involved in such a crisis at any time.

"All that is needed now is a spark to set off the powder keg," he declared after reviewing conditions leading up to the present unsettled aspect in France, Germany, England, Russia, Japan, Italy and others of the major powers.

France was given credit, indirectly, for much of the trouble, due to an unorganized and unstable government. The Italian dictator was described as the greatest power among European peoples, "and the leader of the Italians is going to win in his present dispute in Ethiopia," he stated.

"Germany plans standing pat on her occupation of the Rhineland, and will only be forced to respect conditions of the Locarno treaty when France and England call of their sanctions against Italy. Italy will then, I believe, join with them and force Hitler to back up."

"That the people of England do not want war, against Germany or any other nation was asserted by Mr. Smith. "Popular sentiment there in favor of peace may stay the threatening menace and eventually save the world from another crisis," he said.

URDA WULFJEN PLEASSED WITH HIS TRENCH SILO

"My TERRAPLANE does more than most cars claim"

"It's tops' of all the cars I've ever owned."

IN our showroom, "owner talk" means more than "sales talk." We're content to let claims take a back seat while owners give you facts.

On performance, you needn't take the word of anyone but the man who knows how much easier his Terraplane handles in traffic... how much better it takes straight-aways or curves... how much faster it is on the get-away. His economy figures talk louder than any salesman's claims... even ours! He can tell you facts about Terraplane's long life that would sound boastful if we said them.

But even a Terraplane owner can't put into words just what it means to sit at the wheel of this car and drive! With the Electric Hand shifting the gears, your hands stay always on the wheel. Just a flick of the finger... and gears shift! And your front floor is all clear... Terraplane is the only low priced car with real comfort for three in the front seat... no gear or brake levers to stumble over!

A colorful, exciting portrait of the glamorous career of the world's famous rifle-shot which will be labeled "a great show" by all types of audiences everywhere. Buffalo Bill's Wild Show is the background for the friendly feud between Annie Oakley and Toby Walker, also an expert sharpshooter, with this rivalry later turning to love. Annie, played with just the proper amount of womanly charm by Barbara Stanwyck is a backwoods girl who challenges a handsome, but conceited vaudeville marksman and, although she allows him to win, the two contestants are signed for Buffalo Bill's traveling carnival. Annie's expert performance influences Sitting Bull to join the troupe and it is the famous Indian chief who finally brings the lovers together. Chief Thunder Bird, seals the picture's comedy honors. George Stevens directed.

Players are Barbara Stanwyck, Preston Foster, Melvyn Douglas, and Pert Kelton.

"BRIDE COMES HOME"
Palace—Saturday Midnite, April 4
Sunday-Monday, April 5 and 6

Amusing, witty comedy, combining clever tomfoolery and graceful, natural love scenes. Learning that her father has lost his money, Claudette Colbert secures a position as assistant editor on a magazine for men published by a millionaire playboy. Both the publisher and his belligerent newspaperman editor are in love with Claudette, the editor showing it by quarreling and the publisher by humoring her whims. She loves the grouchy editor, quarrels with him just before the wedding and returns home, deciding to elope with the publisher. Editor follows the eloping pair, arriving in time to prevent the wedding and all ends well. Smart dialogue, hilarious situations, good family entertainment. Directed by Wesley Ruggles.

Players are Claudette Colbert,

Fred MacMurray, Robert Young, William Collier, Sr., Donald Meek, Richard Carle, Edgar Kennedy.

"BAD BOY"
Palace—Tuesday and Wednesday
April 7 and 8

While making no apparent effort at being important, this glossing over of the trials and tribulations of a pair of romancers affords a number of amusing and human touches with a nice chance for typical family acceptance. Performances are good throughout and numerous bits of comedy enliven it considerably. In the course of his no-account poolroom wanderings James Dunn meets and falls in love with Dorothy Wilson. Having already won plenty of dough from her father at pool, Dunn gets a very cold reception when Dorothy takes him home to meet the folks. They get married secretly, however. In the meantime, mother is sponsoring another beau known to Dunn, and approved by him as a means of giving Dorothy a better break. But the unexpected happens when Dunn frustrates a robbery and gets a job. Directed by Edward Butcher. Players are James Dunn, Dorothy Wilson, Louise Fazenda, and John Wray.

COLOSSAL MEMORIALS

The memorial to the Swiss Guard at Lucerne naturally brings to mind the monument to Confederate heroes of the Civil War on the side of Stone Mountain near Atlanta, Ga. Into this mountain, said to be the largest single block of granite in the world, Gutzon Borglum, eminent American sculptor, has begun a colossal statue consisting of a group of figures representing a number of those taking part in the War Between the States.

Since beginning the Stone Mountain work Mr. Borglum has made considerable progress on another of the same type, which is to be finished during the present year. It is known as the Mount Rushmore National Memorial, and is being cut into Mount Rushmore in the Black Hills in South Dakota. In addition to the sculptured figures in these two mountain memorials there is to be in each mountain a stone museum.

The Mount Rushmore group is to consist of four figures when completed. The one representing Washington is already finished and that of Jefferson partially done. Lincoln and Theodore Roosevelt are yet to be done. It is not now known how soon the Stone Mountain work will begin again. The sculptor says the Mount Rushmore monument must be finished first. He says also that he has prepared new sketches for the uncompleted Stone Mountain work.

The Stone Mountain memorial was begun in 1917, was interrupted by the World War and was resumed in 1926. A misunderstanding between Mr. Borglum and those in charge of the memorial resulted in the sculptor resigning. He was succeeded by Augustus Lukeman, who left the work later, and Borglum was recalled in 1929.

This splendid monument is dedicated "To the valor of the Southern soldier." Borglum's head of Gen. Robert E. Lee was unveiled in 1924. The first group in the memorial is to represent besides Lee, Jefferson Davis and Stonewall Jackson and four other Generals, to be chosen by historical societies of the South.

It is pleasing here to note that soon the magnificent monument to Gen. Robert E. Lee is to be erected in Dallas. It will be in Oak Lawn Park, which it is proposed to then call Robert E. Lee Memorial Park, which would be appropriate. Mark Lemmon has prepared drawings for the base and monument, an equestrian group.

Sculptors of the past, Phidias,

Praxiteles, on down to and including Donatello, Michael Angelo, Leonardo da Vinci and others of note, did wonderful work, but nothing either of them achieved could compare in magnitude to these mountainside sculptures of the present day.

It would be rather difficult to conceive of either of those great ancient artists doing their sculpting with power-driven drills and chisels.

The best of all this is that the good deeds of those whom men have memorialized because of their beneficence to humanity will live longer than these splendid monuments carved in the sides of the eternal hills.

A TRIBUTE TO WILL ROGERS

In none of the many eulogies of the late Will Rogers does it appear that he knew how to do other things besides acting, writing, speaking and playing polo. He is upheld justly as a typical American or if not typical at least one whose type is worthy of emulation by young men everywhere. But why has nobody said that if Will Rogers had never been known as an actor, if he had never been known as a radio entertainer, he might still have been a useful, happy and self-sustaining citizen? Why is it so uniformly ignored that Will Rogers was capable of earning a living as a ranchman, as a farmer, as a livestock dealer? He knew farming and ranching and buying and selling. He was not the type to quit the work he knew and try for Government relief in any form. He knew how to make his living in plain ways. He was reared in obscurity and became famous by deserving fame, not by any artificial method or by inflated publicity. He was as cheerful on a cattle ship working his way to South Africa as on a transcontinental airplane with a fully paid ticket. In his days of gum chewing and pipe smoking he was just as cheerful as in his days of fame and fortune. He would have been a good farmer on a quarter section of Oklahoma land. He would have been a good cow hand with a herd of his own, or as boss of some other man's herd. He was born and bred to self-reliance, although his eulogists have failed generally to mention it. Now, self-reliance, industry, patience, capacity—qualification which Will Rogers had in all his stages of development—are qualities more blessed to be had than to be boasted. Will Rogers never boasted them, but they were the prime factors in his character, the ground work of the man who became a world figure without arousing the envy and walking over the bodies of less gifted and less fortunate men. The Will Rogers the world knew was essentially the Will Rogers it never would have known had he not possessed that intangible, but subtle thing called "the knowhow."

SPIRITUAL VALUES

Tolerance, justice, a proper regard for the rights of others and a keen awakened sense of social justice are principles which should be applied in the daily life and activities of every human being.

The insistent question which many are pondering at this hour is whether the lessons of the recent past are being heeded. Is the spirit of "my brother's keeper" more evident? Is the scramble for place and power less pushful? Are men and women putting first things first, or as St. Paul puts it,

"Finally, brethren whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good spirit, if there be any praise think on these things." "Think on these things." Organizations become sterile, the emotion evoked by crusades ebbs. But it is the daily quiet, prayerful meditations on "these things" which aligns mankind to the power from which they spring to the power which alone gives them enduring activity and makes them a vital force in the lives of men and nations.

THE COB PIPE

This column writer is an incessant smoker of a cob pipe. It takes a hardy soul to withstand the initiatory stages of pipe smoking. Out in Palo Alto, Calif., a bevy of co-eds, attending Stanford University, took up cob pipe smoking, but recent reports are that they couldn't take it. They quit. Your first thought in smoking a pipe, or otherwise, is that it is going to take the top of your head off, but if you can bear up under the nausea long enough to survive to the habit-forming stage, you will relish it more than gossiping.

Maybe the coeds at Stanford discovered that pipe smoking is not a graceful habit. There is no law against pipe smoking by either sex, no more than against cigarette smoking. But holding a pipe in the mouth, knocking the ashes out of a pipe, getting pipe-smokers' breath, doesn't contribute to the charm of any young lady. Cigarettes on the other hand may be smoked with graceful gestures. You have noticed this at the movies. You have seen the platinum blondes and the regal brunettes pucker their incarnadined lips to let the smoke out. You have seen them light with a flourish and hold the 'rette daintily in their shapely hands. But would the public applaud a movie heroine who, in the midst of her toughest problems, strike a match and light an old cob pipe. No, it would not. So, the fact that Stanford coeds quit pipe smoking is not a sign that such indulgence gave them headache or nausea. Besides a tin of tobacco and a hot pipe are inconvenient to carry in milady's purse.

CAMPAIGN YEAR

Celina Record: Better beware of the candidate who is going to give this class and that class a dip into the public treasury and at the same time reduce taxes. It is silly to believe they are sincere when they promise a thing that cannot be done.

There never was a time in the history of these States but all the people expected so much from the Government and felt so helpless in themselves. Too much dependence on public help leads to decadence, and decadence to chaos. The Government can have only what it takes from those it governs. If it takes all, then there's none left, and when there's none left all are ruined. In our dixie Nation there are 2,000,000 corporations, partnerships and corporations. Of these only 3 per cent have a capital of more than $500,000. Yet it is supposed by the hopeful but uninformed that these few concerns can, by yielding taxes, support millions in idleness. The thing is as impossible as it would be impossible to give a sick man a blood transfusion from a turnip. Moses smote the rock and it gushed forth water. That was a miracle. And many of us have never been convinced that miracle is out. The candidate who claims a statesmanship equivalent to the miraculous wants office more than he wants the confidence of the discerning. This Nation was not built upon handouts. It was built by men and women who worked out their own destiny. Salvation, we are told, is free. But it is not offered to those who do nothing to deserve it. This is campaign year. The wise will look doubtfully upon the candidate who promises what they know and he knows he can't deliver.

A COWP' TRIBUTE

Many of our farmers are planting or will plant soon quite an acreage to cowpeas. 'Tis cowpea, an humble legume without benefit of adroit publicity, has been a friend of man since the Assyrians of old drove wooden shares into the alluvial soil of the Euphrates. The cowpea supported the armies of Alexander and succeeded the seven sages of Greece in the philosophic meditations. The scriptures speak of cowpeas as "lentils," and the Biblical prophets found in the soup of same courage for condemning the forwardness of Jerusalem's daughters. The cowp' blooms, bears pods and fills those green receptacles with "is who" reproduce themselves when "is who" are fed to chickens and children when fed to the growth takes nitrogen from the air and deposits "is who" in the succeeding crops. Its "is who" cowpea implies its value to the She luxuriates in the green vines and builds up resources of milk which enrich the master's family. The soybean may be all that is said for it. It may have fattened China. But the

Lady's Painful Trouble Helped By Cardui

Why do so many women take Cardui for the relief of functional pains at monthly times? The answer is that they want results such as Mrs. Herbert W. Hunt, of Hallsville, Texas, describes. She writes: "My health wasn't good. I suffered from cramping. My pain would be so intense it would nauseate me. I would just drag around, so sluggish and 'so-lame'. My mother decided to give me Cardui. I began to mend. That tired, sluggish feeling was gone and the pains disappeared. I can't praise Cardui too highly because I know it helped me. If Cardui does not help YOU, consult a physician."
