'Commencement' For Bible School On Friday Evening

Over 250 Enrolled In Play And Study Classes Held At Baptist Church

A "commencement" program in the First Baptist church auditorium Friday evening at 7:30 and an "open house" later in the church basement will mark the close of the church's second daily vacation Bible school.

At the time the school opened on Monday, June 1, an enrollment goal of 250 was announced. That goal was passed early this week when enrollment reached 255. Total enrollment at the initial school last year was 215. The school has been open to children of all denominations.

The school has been conducted this year under the leadership of Mrs. Dick O'Brien as general superintendent. Mrs. Doyle Williams has had charge of the beginners' division, Miss Pearl Bryant of the primary division, Mrs. Truett Barber of the intermediates, and Mrs. Jack Eckleberry of the juniors. These women had over 20 assistants.

The children, 3 to 16 years of age inclusive, have been taught art and hand work, and have been given supervised play and story-telling periods. Worship periods were also held.

Art work and hand work of the pupils will be on exhibit in the church basement following the program Friday evening. Readings and songs by children who have been enrolled in the school will be included in the program, which all parents and friends are urged to attend. The program will be over in time for revival services at other churches.

ARGENTINE ROAD RACE WAS GRUPELLING GRIND

Details of the Grand Circuit automobile race, 4,250 miles in length through Argentina and a part of Chile, are just becoming available. The race is a car-wrecker of the first order, according to all participants. When it is realized that 123 started the race and only 26 finished, some idea of the contour of the country through which the race passed, may be gathered. The fact that one of the lowest-priced American cars, a Terraplane, won the race is in itself remarkable, but when it is understood that this was the only 1936 Terraplane entered, the record is even more outstanding.

Raul Riganti who won the race, is an old-timer and was a favorite of the public in this race from the very start. In this country we can hardly conceive of the interest that exists in South America in this road race. It is by all odds the most outstanding event of its kind in the world.

The race has been growing in importance for several years. Each year the circuit has increased in length, scope and number of participants, until last year the Andes mountains were crossed for the first time into Chile, making the race an international event. The race started in Buenos Aires and ended in the neighborhood of LaPlata. The route covered being as follows: Via Cordoba and Mendoza, across the Andes to Santiago, Chile, South to Temuco, Chile, back over to the Comodoro Rivadavia Oil Field, where it turns to skirt the Atlantic Coast of Argentina, through Bahia Blanca and Mar del Plata, before reaching the finish.

Much of the course lies through heavy sand and soil roads. There is a great deal of clay, particularly in the neighborhood of Cordoba, and which is very slippery when wet and very dusty when dry.

The course was covered in nine stages. Details of the race have become available through Will L. Smith, South American resident agent for the Sealed Power Corporation, which provided prizes for the winners of the last four laps. Raul Riganti in his Terraplane won this along with the race. A map of the circuit is shown herewith.

Leaders Opposing Roosevelt Attain Little Progress

Democratic Chief Continues To Hold Popularity, After Attacks Prove Futile

The pre-convention campaign to prevent President Roosevelt's nomination has collapsed gradually but completely, an examination of the state-by-state record shows. The extent to which it demonstrated a slump in Roosevelt popularity is disputed.

The stop-Roosevelt movement tentatively organized by Alfred E. Smith, former Gov. Joseph B. Ely of Massachusetts, the late Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland and former Sen. James A. Reed of Missouri, ceased to function more than a month ago. The movement may be revived after the nominating conventions.

Most of these leaders met in Smith's skyscraper office in April and decided it was not possible to fight in a national nominating convention packed with office holders and controlled by the new deal administration.

Ely, having publicly promised to oppose Mr. Roosevelt in the April Massachusetts presidential primary, gave up, explaining he could not successfully buck the new deal in a primary contest.

Col. Henry Breckenridge, a political unknown except for "little cabinet" service in the Wilson administration, made the most vigorous pre-convention attack on Mr. Roosevelt. Breckenridge entered himself in four preference primaries and in three of them was directly opposed by Mr. Roosevelt.

New York state may have some anti-Roosevelt delegates at the democratic national convention. Smith has been elected a delegate and others on the Tammany slate may be lukewarm. But there is no prospect of a floor fight against Mr. Roosevelt.

There was a hint of trouble in Georgia where Gov. Eugene Talmadge was threatening a few months ago to lead a southern rebellion against the new deal. Talmadge has subsided. He failed to enter the Georgia primary and with Mr. Roosevelt the only candidate, the state's delegation went to the president by default.

Louisiana's national political prominence died with the late Huey P. Long. Rev. Gerald K. Smith, self-styled spiritual heir of the kingfish, said Louisiana's delegation would not cause any trouble at Philadelphia.

The Rev. Smith, the former Governor Smith of New York, Ely, Reed and others have postponed their war on the new deal until after the nominating conventions. Their various strategies will depend partly on the republican nominee and the nature of the republican platform. From the GOP camp recently have come numerous invitations to democrats to join in removing Mr. Roosevelt from the White House.

Whether conservative democrats will bolt is less a question than how far they will go after they leave the party's candidate. They might organize a new party. They might join the republicans, or they might sulk.

Cities' Honor Roll Extended By State Division At Austin

Colorado One Of Units Given Credit Several Months Ago On High Milk Quality

The health department announced at Austin Tuesday that 10 cities were added to the honor roll of the U. S. public health service for excellency in milk ratings.
Ratings were based upon the milk sanitation requirements for the grade A standard. Cities which have a rating of 90 per cent or more for both pasteurized and retail raw milk were admitted to the honor roll.
Additions were Ballinger, Bryan, Canyon, Childress, Commerce, Crockett, Kerrville, San Angelo, Seguin and Wichita Falls.
Those admitted last February were Abilene, Amarillo, Austin, Big Spring, Brenham, Colorado, Corsicana, Dallas, El Paso, Fort Worth, Gainesville, Houston, Jacksonville, Laredo, Livingston, Lubbock, San Antonio, Sherman, Texarkana, Tyler, Victoria and Waco.
The department said several Texas cities neared the 90 per cent rating and likely would be added in a revised list to be published in July.

Murder Trial
incidents of a quarrel between Derrick and her husband that led to the fatal fight.

The witness testified that Derrick became angered when Orr questioned him about a pig Derrick had bought. Orr asked Derrick if the animal was diseased, she stated, Derrick then accused Orr of taking harness hames that did not belong to him, the witness related under questioning and Orr claimed money was due him by Derrick for labor.
Mrs. Orr testified that she did not see beginning of the fight but found the two men struggling on floor of the living room when she followed them there from her kitchen.

Tom Allen and his brother, employed on the Derrick farm as cotton pickers, spurned her plea that the fight be stopped, Mrs. Orr testified. Later, she stated, they suggested to Derrick he "had fought enough," and Derrick got up off the floor. Testimony was to effect that Derrick put on his hat and left the building and Orr came into the kitchen where it was found that he was bleeding badly from knife wounds about his body and head.
Orr was brought to a Colorado hospital shortly afterward by Mrs. Orr and Tom Allen where he died soon after being placed on the operation table.
Orr suffered an abdominal wound that penetrated the intestines, another wound in the side that injured the lungs and numerous cuts about his head and other portions of his body, A. D. Kiker, undertaker, declared from the witness chair.
Derrick was called to the witness chair by defense counsel as court resumed trial of the case after the noon recess Tuesday. He was on the stand for over two hours, during much of which time he met a withering cross examination directed by Special Prosecutor James Henry Beall of Sweetwater to sustain his contention that Orr was killed only after Derrick believed his own life was in danger.

Trouble between the two men had its origin in quarrel over a government parity check, Derrick stated. The defendant stated that he received the check, cashed it and spent it "without realizing it belonged to Orr." Under questioning Derrick stated that he borrowed the money, and repaid Orr the amount due him, but "Orr cursed and abused me and later accused me of bringing a pig to the farm having cholera."
This trouble was said to have happened some time before the killing. Derrick held that during 1934, first year that Orr was a tenant on his farm, they had no misunderstandings and their business relationship was congenial.
The defense rested at mid-afternoon after J. R. Sorrells, L. E. Williams, Houston Shortell and J. M. Ingram had been called to testify. Tuesday morning Mrs. Orr, widow of the slain farmer, was recalled to the stand to continue testimony for the State.
The State opened rebuttal testimony at 4 o'clock Tuesday afternoon and both sides closed at 5:30. Witness called during the hour and thirty minutes were questioned as to character of Orr. They included G. D. Shelton, Raymond Wheeler, John A. Wheeler, H. F. Allbright, and J. D. Orr. Scores of witnesses summoned by both the State and defense were not used.
Tentative plans of Judge Mauzey for a night session Tuesday, to get attorney's arguments out of the way, were held in abeyance when counsel for both the defense and State direct to the family. Others were received by the City National bank. Lasky was found dead in his parked motor car Monday morning at 10:30 o'clock within a few minutes after he had attended business conference of officials of the City National bank. The car had been driven to Oak street, near West

Second street intersection. Mr. Lasky evidently was either entering the machine or in the act of leaving, since the switch keys were held in one of his hands and he had slumped on front seat on opposite side of the steering wheel.
The pioneer merchant and banker had been under care of his physician during the last few days. Saturday and Sunday he remained at the Lasky home in North Colorado. Monday morning, after driving to the bank, he informed friends that he was feeling much improved. He visited his doctor and was told by him that he was making good strides toward recovery.
Charles H. Lasky was born at Jerseyville, Illinois, on October 25, 1861. When a boy 13 years of age he was brought to Fort Worth by his parents where the family established residence. Two years later, when Lasky was a boy of 15 years, his father died, leaving him to assume responsibility of caring for his widowed mother and her children.
Lasky came to Colorado in April, 1883, from Fort Worth as a journeyman baker and had not been in the booming cattle metropolis long until he obtained employment in a bake shop located in a semi-dugout at Oak and Third streets. After a few

Origin Of 'O.K.' Is Vague, Information On Subject Inferred

Insigma On Chevrolet Used Cars, However, Guarantee Of Quality

The editors of the Chevrolet dealers' magazine have been doing research work, seeking the origin of the expression "O. K." in response to inquiries received from its readers. The expression figures so largely in the company's used car advertising, which features the "Guaranteed O. K. tag" affixed to reconditioned used cars, that dealers became interested in its history.

Several plausible explanations have been uncovered. One of the most likely is that the expression is derived from a seaport on the southern coast of Haiti, which was a famous source of superior rum and tobacco shipped to the American colonies. The name of the port was Aux Cayes (pronounced "oh kay"). The colonists buying rum or tobacco would ask, "Is it Aux Cayes?" If it was, they knew it was good. The words soon became a symbol for good quality, but the letters O. K. naturally took the place of the words when written by persons not familiar with the real meaning.

Another theory traces O. K. to the Choctaw Indians. In their bartering with other tribes, they used the word "okch" to designate a piece of merchandise or livestock as fit and good. Others hold to the theory that the initials O. K., meaning "ordered recorded," being carelessly written on documents, were misread as O. K. and so came to stand for a symbol of correctness. It is also asserted that O. K., as an abbreviation for Artemus Ward's spelling of "all correct," first gained currency among oldtime telegraph operators.

Still another theory is that years ago a customs inspector whose initials were "O. K." stamped them on bags of goods that he passed. As a verb, the Chevrolet publication says, the expressing should be written O.K.'d or O.K.'ing. As used by Chevrolet dealers O. K. means that used cars bearing these letters were carefully checked and reconditioned before being put on display.

 "The Secret of Fine Baking Lies Primarily in the Flour You Use."

"Why," she asks, "risk spoiling the other ingredients and wasting time and effort by baking with an inferior flour? I prefer Red & White Flour because of its uniformly high texture, smooth, even-all-around fine baking qualities. I always have unusual success with my baking when I use this consistently high quality flour and am happy to out my stamp of approval on RED & WHITE FLOUR."

Plans For Annual Scout Encampment Have Been Closed

Colorado Troops To Attend Outing Opening June 16, Officials Have Stated

Final arrangements were made Saturday by Buffalo Trail Council scouts and directors of Camp Fawcett, near Barksdale, for the annual summer camp, opening June 16.
 Marvin Majors, Scout Executive representing local troops, stated Monday that Colorado units in the National organization would be represented. Majors and probably other Colorado scouts plan attending the encampment.
 The camp fee is $6 a week. A deposit of $1 must accompany the scout's application for reservation and if the entire amount cannot be paid then it must be paid on entrance in the camp.
 Scouts are not required to take a great deal of equipment to camp. Articles required are a cot, three wool blankets or equivalent, sheets and pillow if desired. Clothing should include scout uniform or dress clothes, shorts, overall or old clothes, two extra shirts, two suits underwear, two pair of stockings, shoes suitable for hiking, not tennis shoes, pajamas, handkerchiefs, sweater or coat and a swim suit.
 Personal articles should include soap, three towels, comb and brush, tooth brush and paste, hand mirror, drinking cup and if they desire to shave, shaving equipment.
 General articles should include scout axe, knife, flashlight, canteen, first aid kit, Scout Handbook, signal flags, kodak, bow and arrows, writing material, needle and thread, musical instruments. These articles are optional. All equipment should be placed in a small box or suitcase and every article should be marked plainly in indelible ink.
 Each troop is expected to bring a rake, hoe, an old broom, water bucket, wash pans and other articles handy around camp. The American and troop flags should be included.
 Every precaution will be taken to protect the health and lives of the boys. A physical examination by a physician is required of each boy admitted.
 Visitors, especially parents of scouts, are welcome at the camp. Sunday is especially designated as visitors' day. They are requested to bring their own lunches.

Protect Wild Life, Plea Offered Local Hunters By Writer

Reader Of This Newspaper Concerned Over Trend To Eliminate Game Birds
 Plea that wild life be protected and given opportunity to propagate for the sake of good sportsmanship is offered in communication received by this newspaper by a lover of game birds. The contributor calls upon the Mitchell County Game Protective association, organized in Colorado last year, to use its influence to attain the ends desired.
 Among other things, the writer says:
 "Lack of co-operation in the conservation of wild life is a serious handicap which public-spirited citizens have to combat. Many persons hesitate to expend time, effort and money for sport while work because of the lack of appreciation by others.
 "There are some landowners who do not care to aid in the protection and propagation of quail because so many nonconservation-minded persons are unable to restrain their enthusiasm for killing wild game and will trespass on any farm to do their hunting.
 "Quail are instrumental in the control of insects during certain seasons of the year. At other times they exist chiefly on small grains and seeds of wild plants. Landowners never hesitate to give sufficient quantities of their small grains for winter bird feed. They realize the profitable returns in protection, and understand perfectly that wild birds belong to the public and should be protected.
 "They do, however, feel chagrined when some nonconservation-minded person with only an intention to purloin, sneaks onto the premises, disregards all trespass signs, and not only shoots such birds, but breaks

RODGER W. BABSON: 'In an address before a graduating class at Conway, Ark., this week, Rodger W. Babson, noted economist and statistician, warned that unless a spiritual awakening comes to stem the tide of ungodliness in the world, there will be another world war before 1950.'

THAT CONFEDERATE FLAG: We like to talk of our six flags of Texas and exhibit them. There seems to be a misunderstanding regarding the true Confederate flag so we give this true history:

WHY TEXAS ARMY WON: All eyes of Texas are centered on the Centennial and we offer the following: The men composing the Texas army were not brave through desperation. They were naturally so.

little whether they live or died. They were soldiers and plainmen and they fought to uphold a just cause. The burning of bridges and other extreme measures taken to cut off retreat of either or both armies, was to make the Battle of San Jacinto a decisive one, and there is no doubt that, had it been necessary, every man in the Texas army, from Gen. Sam Houston down to the humblest private in the ranks, would have given up his life that fateful afternoon without the surrender of one of that valiant band, just as did the immortal defenders of the Alamo a few weeks before.

AMONG WORLD'S DECISIVE BATTLES: Again we submit this: Sir Edward Creasy, who wrote 'Fifteen Decisive Battles of the World,' was only about 24 years old when the Battle of San Jacinto was fought. Had he been able to look into the future and see the effect that was to follow that little struggle—little as compared with Marathon, Syracuse, Metaurus, Tours, Blenheim, Waterloo and Gettysburg, where thousands of men were engaged—he might have included San Jacinto in his list of decisive battles.

THE BATTLE OF SAN JACINTO, considering the number of men engaged and the magnitude of events that have followed, was probably the most decisive battle in history. All things considered, primitive condition of the people at the time, crudeness of the army's equipment and fewness of numbers, rapid development after independence, provision for education of its children, progress of the people, enormous resources, almost numberless in variety and extraordinary in the rapidity with which they have been developed—considering all these things, one should be justified in asserting that—in the World's Century of Greatest Progress, Texas is the Miracle State.

ON MAY 1, 1863, Congress adopted still another flag known as the national flag with a white ground and the battle flag in the upper corner. When this was furled, however, it resembled so much the flag of France that a broad red band was added across the bottom. So, the Confederacy really had four flags.

PROHIBITION FACTS: To those of our wet friends who were so sure that repeal of the liquor amendments would save the youth of the land, restore law observance, replenish the Treasury, and institute the reign of a safe and sane universal temperance, the following published facts ought to prove interesting though condemnatory: Since repeal, liquor institute patients have increased 55 per cent. Convictions for drunken driving have increased 80 per cent.—Governor nor Fly, Massachusetts. In Boston, Mass., drunken women increased 75 per cent in three months after repeal.—New York Times. The year before legalization in Chicago auto deaths decreased 162; the year following repeal auto deaths increased 195.—Official records of Chicago. In a four weeks' period following repeal a survey of automobile deaths in eighty-six cities of the country showed an increase of 21 per cent.—United States official figures. Enrollment at national institutions for alcoholic diseases has broken all previous records.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

After legalization in Washington, D. C., arrests for drunkenness increased the first month 20 per cent; the third month 35 per cent, and the seventh month 63 per cent over the previous dry year.—Court records. Five months after repeal in New York City drunks at the hospital increased 50 per cent.—Acting Commissioner of Hospitals. Before the adoption of national prohibition in Chicago the Washington Home for Men averaged from 700 to 1,000 drunkard patients, and had a total enrollment for treatment of 300,000. Under the Eighteenth Amendment is turned into a hotel for lack of patronage as a hospital.—Dr. Carver, Professor of Economics, Harvard.

A few weeks ago we were depicting some of boyhood days 65 years ago and among other things we said: 'Outside the front gate I would like to see the upping-block from which the cav lassies sprang into the saddle.' The Hico News Review reproduced the article to which S. P. in the Dallas News took exceptions and said: 'The editor of the Hico News Review has never seen such sights as Mr. Whipkey recalls. And Mr. Whipkey will never see them again. Those were the apocryphal days, the days when there was no hurry except when the crop was in the grass and had to be cleaned out before the next rain. But where does Mr. Whipkey find authority for speaking of the "upping block?" It was not an upping block, but a "horse block." The lady downed at it as well as unped. She rode a saddle with most of herself hanging down on one side of the horse. Her stirrup was so short she couldn't mount from the ground, and couldn't dismount to the ground without risk of tangling her legs in her long riding habit, or dismounting her ankles—an inconceivable immodesty.'

In a prize contest in a fifty word article on Texas we have submitted the following and expect to win: Texas really is a well settled, highly cultivated land. Its population of six millions is about 72 per cent native white. Negroes number about 15 per cent, Mexicans nearly 12 per cent, and there is a very small fraction of foreign born immigrants. Texans are native Americans in customs and traditions; they are quite largely Protestant in religion and Democratic in politics.

SNAP SHOTS IN DALLAS NEWS: In a front page editorial the New York Herald-Tribune asks the Republican party to nominate a Democrat for Vice-President. Personally we are a Democrat, but we wouldn't run against John Garner.

After all the sound and fury of the economic philosophers, the only genuine philosophy is that which makes a man satisfied with $12 a week. Sometimes we see... nations are will... join any league that... miss the old-age security.

One reason why we never wanted to be a pioneer is because we were rather cross on a bridge than swim the river. A New York millionaire's son ran away from home and earned his living selling magazines in Chicago. He had to go to a literary town to make a success of his business. Tillie Clinger says the reason she lost her job as a rangerette at the Centennial was because she carried an umbrella to protect her ten-gallon hat.

Two more feudists have been killed in Clay County, Kentucky, but there are so few automobiles there the death rate is low.

MY COUNTRY 'TIS OF THEE: My auto, 'tis of thee, short cut to poverty. I blew a pile of dough, on you three years ago, now you refuse to go—or won't or can't.

SQUIB: "Darling," she cooed, "I've just read that a man out west exchanged his wife for a horse. You wouldn't exchange me for a horse, would you?" "Never," he replied dutifully. "But I certainly would hate to have anyone tempt me with a good car."

Home Built By Ancestor Of Coloradans To Be One Of Texas Centennial Shrines

Designation of Glen Eden, the home built in 1843 in Grayson county by Col. Holland Coffee, as a Texas Centennial shrine was of special interest in Colorado because Col. Coffee was an ancestor of several Coloradans. He was a great-uncle of Porter Moseley of Colorado, and of the late Robertson brothers, A. B., W. C., G. J., J. P., and R. P. Descendants of the five brothers, all prominent pioneers of this section, are numerous in Colorado. Glen Eden is the oldest house in Grayson county and has a very rich history. The Porter Moseley family, including Mr. and Mrs. Moseley and their daughters, Mrs. Bauman Gentry and Mrs. T. E. Neal, returned late Saturday from a visit in Denison and at the old home, located 20 miles north of Preston. They brought with them a picture of the famous Colonial structure and several articles which have been published in the Dallas Morning News and other state papers on its history. Glen Eden was Mr. Moseley's home from 1897 until 1901. Most colorful and most famous of those who have called Glen Eden home was Sophia Suttonfield-Coffe-Butts-Porter, the bride for whom Col. Coffee built the house in 1843 near Fort Preston, which then bore his own name. General Sam Houston danced at the wedding of Sophia Suttonfield to Holland Coffee in 1837. Sophia is supposed to have nursed General Houston after the Battle of San Jacinto, and legend says that she met Col. Coffee, operator of a trading post at Preston, at General Houston's house. Holland Coffee figured prominently in early relations with the Indians, ransoming many captured whites through bargaining with the Indians when they called at his trading post. He and Sophia loved to entertain and they threw the spacious and luxurious Glen Eden open to their friends. Among their more important guests at various times were Lee, Grant, Albert Sidney Johnston, Sam Houston, and Fitzhugh Lee. In 1846 Col. Coffee was killed by a man named Galloway. Two years later Mrs. Coffee married Major George Butts of Norfolk, Va., who was connected with the United States army. He was killed during the Civil War, and in 1865 she married Judge James Porter. It was after Sophia's death in 1897 that Porter Moseley and his parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Moseley, lived at Glen Eden. Mrs. W. J. Moseley, who was Mary E. Jewel before her marriage, was the daughter of Col. Holland Coffee's sister, who married a man named Jewel. Col. Coffee reared Mary Jewel after her mother's death. Glen Eden was recently bought by Federal Judge and Mrs. Randolph Bryant of Sherman, also descendants of Col. Coffee. Under their ownership it has been opened to Centennial visitors.

'Nut-Cracker' Oil Test Will Be Used At Service Depots

Continental Oil Company Is Pleased With Results At Ponca City Plant

PONCA CITY, Okla.—A simple, five-minute film strength and oiliness test for auto lubricants, long sought by oil men, has been perfected here by members of the technical staff of the Continental Oil Company, it was announced today. The test is made by a pocket-size device closely resembling a household nut-cracker.

A stock pin and bearing are lubricated with a given oil and placed in the "nutcracker" jaws on which accurately measurable pressure can be exerted. The maximum pressure under which the pin can be turned smoothly in the bearing is taken as the measure of the film strength and oiliness of the oil.

Continental spokesmen said extensive "nutcracker" tests in the laboratory have shown wide variations in the load-carrying capacity of commercially branded oils, and have thrown new light on the performance of the so-called "alloyed" oils. Methylchloroacetate, a synthetically prepared substance used in the blending of one of the commercial alloyed oils, is said to have set up a film which gave no indication of "grabbing" at the maximum "nutcracker" pressure of 9,000 pounds.

The testing device, it was said, is being distributed to all company service stations so that motorists may experiment with it.

Mrs. Carl Lowry was elected club reporter for 1937. She told about hooked and tufted bathmats and suggested materials for towels and washcloths.

Members present were Mrs. Carl Lowry, Mrs. Edgar Andrews, Mrs. W. G. McAlpine, Mrs. J. T. Vest, Mrs. Frank Andrews, and the hostess, Mrs. Averitt. Visitors were Miss Faye McAlpine and Miss Florice Andrews. Miss Gunter was also present.

PLAINVIEW WOMEN STUDY BATHROOMS

By Mrs. L. M. Jones, Reporter

"Every rural home owner should plan to build a bathroom," said Miss Emma Gunter, county home demonstration agent, during the Plainview club meeting at the home of Mrs. R. L. Howell, June 3.

Miss Gunter demonstrated how bath rooms can be added to most homes at a low cost. Mrs. R. L. Howell demonstrated the kind of bath toilet to buy.

Mrs. R. L. Howell was elected as A. & M. short course delegate. Mrs. T. W. Daughtrey was chosen alternate.

Members present were: Mrs. J. C. Franklin, Mrs. B. B. Howell, Mrs. L. W. Howell, Mrs. R. L. Howell and Mrs. L. M. Jones. Visitors were Mrs. Frank Davis and Miss Blanche Bess Jones.

The next meeting will be June 17 at Mrs. T. W. Daughtreys.

Fair programmer, bolstered by gags and made to order for Zasu Pitts. Drags in spots through overdone Coney Island shots but on the whole entertaining comedy that should satisfy the Pitts fans. Zasu is a wallflower with nobody to love but her pet gold fish, while Hugh O'Connell is lonesome for a mate. They are brought together on the midway. Just when love comes into their lives they lose each other in the crowd, return to their homes heart-broken and despondent, to discover that they both live in the same rooming house, and all ends well. Comedy is strengthened by Walter Catlett in the role of a pest who manages continually to come between the lovers at the wrong moment and finally turns up as a good-luck pal out to buy O'Connell's invention.

... "NEXT TIME WE LOVE" Ritz—Sunday-Monday, June 14, 15 Poignantly dramatic and pathetically tragic, this story of a great love will impress all who see it with the natural quality of its dialogue and the superb performances of its leading players. Under the sympathetic direction of Edward H. Griffith, Margaret Sullivan contributes her best performance since "Only Yesterday." James Stewart displays real promise as the young husband, and Raymond Milland is human and likeable as the "other man." The deeply emotional story relates the struggles of a young couple whose separate careers keep them apart for long periods of time. The girl wins success on the stage, while the boy, a newspaper correspondent, is sent abroad. The arrival of a baby reunites them temporarily, but suggestion of divorce brings them together permanently. Players are Margaret Sullivan, James Stewart, Raymond Milland, Robert McWade, Grant Mitchell.

QUESTIONS THAT ARE ASKED ABOUT BANKING

"Who charters a Bank to do business?"

EVERY incorporated bank in the United States conducts its business under a charter issued either by its state government or by the Federal Government. Before a bank charter is issued specific requirements must be met such as minimum paid in capital and in many cases, paid in surplus.

A charter is the bank's authority from the government, state or Federal, to carry on a banking business, but under the regulation of banking laws and supervision of government authorities. For this reason, it is much more accurate to say that the United States has a "chartered banking system," rather than a "private banking system," the term used by many speakers and writers.

Palace—Tuesday and Wednesday June 16 and 17

Standard Philo Vance murder mystery that will please patrons of this particular type offering. Yarn deals with a series of suicides engineered by an individual with hypnotic powers. Picture runs through the usual formula of suspicious characters, with Philo Vance finally catching on to the tactics of the hypnotic character, faking submission to his powers and forcing a confession of his crimes. Suspense is well sustained; the highlight is the scene where Vance, apparently under the spell of the hypnotist, walks to the edge of a high building to step off to his death. He suddenly turns on his would-be destroyer to confront him with his previous crimes. Players are Edmund Lowe, Virginia Bruce, Benita Hume, Douglas Walton, Nat Pendleton, Gene Lockhart, H. B. Snappy, tuneful musical, full of catchy melodies and swell comedy. On sudden impulse Bing Crosby follows Ida Lupino aboard ship sailing for England. Lacking a passport, he accepts of a supposed bishop (Charlie Ruggles) in disguise, the passport of Charlie's friend Snake-Eye, Public Enemy No. One, who missed the boat. Complications begin when the purser receives radio instructions to arrest Snake Eye. To escape arrest, Bing resorts to various disguises in which he courts the girl and manages to keep clear of the law until the boat docks, where the misunderstanding is cleared up and he wins the girl. Ruggles, Ethel Merman and Arthur Treacher supply hilarious comedy and it is the best Bing Crosby picture to date.

"NEXT TIME WE LOVE"

Ritz—Sunday-Monday, June 14, 15

Poignantly dramatic and pathetically tragic, this story of a great love will impress all who see it with the natural quality of its dialogue and the superb performances of its leading players. Under the sympathetic direction of Edward H. Griffith, Margaret Sullivan contributes her best performance since "Only Yesterday." James Stewart displays real promise as the young husband, and Raymond Milland is human and likeable as the "other man." The deeply emotional story relates the struggles of a young couple whose separate careers keep them apart for long periods of time. The girl wins success on the stage, while the boy, a newspaper correspondent, is sent abroad. The arrival of a baby reunites them temporarily, but suggestion of divorce brings them together permanently. Players are Margaret Sullivan, James Stewart, Raymond Milland, Robert McWade, Grant Mitchell.
