

SCURRY COUNTY TO PRESS PROJECTED HIGHWAY THRU DUNN NORTH INTO SNYDER

Citizens Confer With County Officials And Are Assured Cooperation There; State Commission Is Contacted

That citizens of Scurry county, acting in cooperation with county commissioners' court are to prosecute claim that Highway 101 should be built by the State from north through Dunn and to connection with Snyder is shown in developments in Dunn and Snyder during the past week.

Citizens here who during the past several months have worked in conjunction with road enthusiasts in the neighboring county Friday were expressing elation over prospects of realizing construction of the road, to connect important State and Federal highways at San Angelo with similarly designated routes at Snyder, by way of Robert Lee, Colorado and Dunn.

The following news item having to do with the projected road in Scurry county is furnished this newspaper by the Scurry County Times at Snyder:

Efforts to build an all-weather, newly-routed section of State Highway No. 101 from the Mitchell county line to its intersection with Highways No. 15 and 7 just southeast of Snyder, were redoubled after a joint meeting of Dunn and Snyder leaders with the Commissioners Court in a called meeting Tuesday afternoon.

County Judge H. J. Brice, acting for the court, and a citizens' committee from both towns, immediately dispatched minutes of the meeting with a renewed pledge of complete cooperation, to division and state highway officials.

Requesting "immediate improvement," the message to highway officials renewed and re-affirmed the offer of Scurry county, made twice previously, to acquire all the necessary right-of-way when called for by the State Highway Department.

No. 101 has been improved within the past year from the Scurry county line to Colorado city limits. Most of the new route has caliche base completed, but detouring is yet necessary on a portion of the stretch.

The new routing through Scurry county would go directly south from Dunn, instead of veering eastward, as the old route does. Emphasis was given completion of the Scurry county stretch late last month, when the State Highway Commission designated a partially new routing for Highway No. 101 by way of Robert Lee. Improvement southward from Colorado is expected to begin soon.

CROP PROSPECTS AND HIGH QUOTATION TREND COMBINE TO EFFECT BETTER TIMES

Recent Rains Placed Cotton And Feed Crops Of County In Excellent State, Report By The Record Indicates

The outlook for still better times, as are to be realized through harvesting one of the best farm yields in several years, continues to prevail, report on crop conditions recently issued by this newspaper indicates.

The report states recent rains that blanketed practically every section of the county have assured maturity of a good cotton yield, unless insects or elements enter the scene to take damage tolls. Depredations by insects is not being feared so much now, farmers say, due to constant warm sunshine that during the past several days has prevailed. Destructive hail storms are not likely and fields are protected against heavy loss from washouts by terraces.

Cotton is holding out the best prospect today that farmers have noted in several years. The crop is, as a rule, cultivated clean and growing off rapidly. Several fields of the crop were visited Saturday and Sunday in which the ground was practically covered by foliage of the cotton. There was little indication that the leaf worm was maneuvering to set up attack later.

Feed crops of the territory were found to be in excellent condition, despite the fact that some of the earlier planted acreage suffered from dry weather that prevailed last month. No great amount of feed acreage was lost from effects of the heat and a bumper production is expected to be harvested. In some communities farmers were still planting late feed. Reports received last week were that a few were planting acreage to cotton.

With the price of highest quotations in years and the pleasing indications that the commodity will command an even more profitable figure on the market, farmers of the Colorado territory are assured of finding themselves in better state than for several seasons.

Siamese Twin To Marry Saturday At Centennial

One Of Texas' Most Strange Marriages To Be Observed Saturday Night

DALLAS.—Perhaps the strangest wedding ceremony ever performed will be solemnized at the Texas Centennial here on Saturday night, when Miss Violet Hilton, of the famous Texas Siamese twin Hiltons, will be wed to James Moore, of Cleveland, Ohio. The ceremony will take place in the Cotton Bowl and the public is invited to witness this strange wedding rite.

Refused licenses in many parts of the country, this young couple finally turned to Texas, the home of the bride, and County Clerk Ed Steger of Dallas county, could find no law to forbid his issuing a license to the couple. They sought the aid of the man who put them into vaudeville years ago for help in the ceremony—Terry Turner, who is associated with DuFour and Rogers in Warden Lawes Crime Prevention Exposition, who played them in vaudeville for years.

Violet and Daisy were born in England, but were raised in San Antonio, Texas, which they still claim as their home. They have recently completed a tour of Continental Europe.

Following the wedding ceremony, a complete stage show will be presented and will be headed by the famous twins. Music for the show and the dance to follow will be provided by Dale Stevens and his WLW orchestra.

The twins arrived here Wednesday and immediately began final preparations for their wedding. Arrangements have not yet been made for their honeymoon, but they expressed a desire to spend their bridal trip in this State.

Funeral Held At 5 o'Clock Friday For Woman Who Had Lived Here 38 Years

Death claimed Mrs. Bruce DeGarmo, 68, a resident of Colorado for 38 years, Thursday night at 11:15 at the home of her brother, H. A. Cook. Mrs. DeGarmo had been moved to the Cook home from her own home in East Colorado on Friday before her death.

Sidewalks end at the edge of town. Lawns give way to the open fields. But the telephone lines go on and on—gleaming threads of copper stretching out through the valleys and over the hills.

They carry your voice to the world.

This sweeping away of the old-time barriers of time and silence is one result of the staff work of American Telephone & Telegraph Co., the researches of Bell Laboratories, the skillful buying and manufacturing of Western Electric.

Without the developments and improvements these Bell System organizations have given the men and women who furnish telephone service here, your voice could hardly go as far, and as fast, for so little.

Dollar-a-Barrel Water and Huge Cans of Milk Delivered by Cart Here In Early Days

You drew your day's supply of milk from a large can on a horse-drawn cart and your water—at $1 per barrel—from a tank on wagon wheels if you were a housewife back in Colorado's dawning months.

Those were among the things someone recalled when reminiscences dealing with Colorado's early history were being exchanged at a meeting Monday afternoon of those in charge of plans for the pageant which is to climax Mitchell county's homecoming and Centennial celebration August 20, 21, and 22.

Pure drinking water was obtained only at a price in the boom days when Colorado was spanned by the coming of the Texas & Pacific railroad. Water was hauled from Seven Wells in wooden tanks built on wagons. A rubber hose was attached to the back of the tank and if you wanted water you rolled out your barrel—after handing over a dollar. It was recalled Monday afternoon that the late W. J. Miller, coming here in March, 1881, bought some land just east of what is now the B. F. Dulaney place because there was a spring on the land. Mr. Miller, father of Mrs. Y. D. McMurry, cleaned out the spring and from it got a good supply of water. Coloradans would drive out in the afternoons with their pails to get fresh drinking water—free.

If you wanted milk you put a bucket out in front of your home—usually the home was a tent in those earliest days. When the milkman came around he rang his bell. You came out and took your bucket down. The milk was measured out through a faucet in the milk cans into a tin quart cup and then into your bucket. Usually there were two large milk cans on each milk cart.

GETS WASHINGTON JOB

Word has been received by Mrs. J. W. Dorn that her daughter, Maxine, has secured employment in the WPA office at Washington, D. C. Maxine has been in Washington visiting her sister, Gladys.

Crop Outlook

(Continued From Page One) Feed crops, too, are pushing ahead under the most favorable conditions since the rains. Maize and other row crops of grain are heading and it should not be long now until some of the first plantings will be ready for harvest. Wide extended drought over much of "bread basket" territory in Middle Western United States, of such intensity as to practically destroy grain and feed crops, will push market prices on those commodities upward. Reverses of farmers in those States will be a direct source of profit to those in the more favored localities.

Range grass over practically all of the Colorado territory was benefitted by the rains, much of it receiving sufficient moisture to insure pasture for the winter months. Water was put out in surface tanks and lakes and most of the streams again afford good supplies of stock water.

Loraine Continues First In Softball Tournament Play

Young Business Men Spurt To Second Berth During The Past Week

Loraine evidently plans making good on the announcement early during the tourney that her team would win pennant in the county softball tournament. Out of seven games played the Bennett charges have dropped only one.

The Young Business Men of Colorado stepped ahead to occupy second berth in the league this week after winning both of their scheduled games. The YBM have an average of .667. High school was running in second place a week ago.

Fans of the several teams urge the public of Loraine and Colorado to support the league more than during the past. The small admission charge is used to buy balls and bats, and patrons are assured of their money's worth.

Standing of the teams:

Loraine	6	1	.857
Y. B. M.	6	3	.667
Col-Tex	5	3	.625
Lions	4	4	.500

A REAL BOOK OF CATTLE BRANDS, AT LAST

"A Century of Cattle Brands," Excitecheons of a proud empire. Foreword by Among G. Carter and historical material by Peter Molyneux and Frank Reeves. 80 pp. Fort Worth: Fair Publishing Company. 50 cents postpaid.

A real book of cattle brands, the first ever to be seen in this country, has just been published and a copy received by this paper. The book contains actual drawings of some 2,000 interesting, amusing or historical brands together with the name of the brand, its owner and the location of the ranch. The brand information is listed by counties, and practically every cattle section of the State is included.

The book has a foreword by Amos G. Carter, a short history of Texas, written by Peter Molyneux, author of "Romantic Story of the Texas," and a short review of the Texas Cattle Industry and Texas Cattle Brands, by Frank Reeves, livestock editor of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram. It is illustrated with pen and ink drawings of actual ranch scenes, done in West Texas.

Of special interest to ranchers and cattlemen of this section of the country are the brands of Mitchell county, among which the editors have listed the "Scissors A", the "Booger Y", the "25 Bar", and a number of others. This publication will undoubtedly attain a wide circulation over the United States, and Mitchell county feels proud to have these brands included in the volume.

The publication of the book came about as a result of public interest in brands, fostered by the great revival of Texas history engendered by the Texas Centennial. When a Fort Worth department store, early in the spring of this year, put about 500 brands on its wrapping paper, a flood of requests poured in for information about brands, some of them from residents of the New England States. To satisfy this demand, as well as to fill a long felt want among Texas ranchers and cattlemen, the Fair Publishing Company, Fort Worth has assembled in this book an authentic list of a large number of representative Texas brands.

No other industry in Texas or elsewhere can boast of such a colorful and romantic history and background as can the cattle industry. No phase of cattle work is more glamorous than branding. Brands are the coat of arms for a cattle empire. Men have made fortunes by the proper use of branding irons, and others have paid with their lives for their improper use.

Every person interested in Texas, or in romantic history will appreciate this book. The younger generation will find it interesting and amusing; the ranchers of today will take pride in their listing in its pages; and old timers and early day cowboys will find excellent "grazing" and many a fond picture in memory's pasture as they wrangle through the list of brands shown in "A Century of Texas Cattle Brands."

One Million Miles Without Accident Salesman's Pride

Gulf Representative Never 'Even Scratched Fender,' During Nineteen Years

To drive a million miles is something that is rarely achieved, except by only a very few persons. To drive this distance without even scraping a fender seems almost an impossibility. Yet B. W. Gibbs, a Gulf salesman of Collingswood, New Jersey, has just completed such a record. During nineteen years of driving motor vehicles in his work for Gulf, Mr. Gibbs has covered over a million miles, over all kinds of roads, regardless of surface condition, without a single accident of any kind.

This unusual record is all the more remarkable because Gulf tabulates as chargeable accidents even such minor mishaps as damaged fenders.

Gulf is deeply interested in safe driving, and is especially active in promoting safety ideals among the motoring public of America. It wants every motorist to be a safe driver, and in order to put into practice what it urges upon others, it insists that all employees who operate Gulf vehicles do so carefully and lawfully.

Do your share to reduce the number of automobile accidents in Colorado. Follow the example set by Mr. Gibbs. Drive carefully, observe all traffic laws, and above all, give the other fellow some consideration.

The Texas Centennial Midway is considered the finest ever built for a World's Fair. It has a total valuation of about three and a half million dollars.

Classes Fort Worth With Gayest of World Capitals

Because of the Fort Worth tradition . . . or at least largely so . . . Billy Rose is director of what is acknowledged to be the largest enterprise devoted exclusively to entertainment in the world, the Fort Worth Frontier. Only three other towns in America could have secured his services, New Orleans, San Francisco and Chicago.

The Fort Worth enterprise did not spring full grown from the Rosean cerebellum. He has cudgeled the idea for several years, even before his "Jumbo" was produced. Back further still in pre-Billy Rose Music Hall days he schemed. An amusement enterprise of huge proportions . . . the largest in the world to be truthful . . . in which several great attractions might be seen at moderate admission-fee prices, such was the Rose vision.

When Fort Worth wanted to celebrate 100 years of history . . . leaving the historical part to other communities . . . by a "wild and whoopee" party Rose, as the foremost of living American showmen, was offered the job. He accepted with alacrity. It wasn't entirely that the financial deal was to his liking, either. It was that Fort Worth was and is Fort Worth.

There are certain cities in the United States noted for their liberality while others have equal reputes for piety. In the latter class are such chaste communities as Los Angeles, Boston, Cincinnati and Dallas. Fort Worth, Reno, Chicago, New Orleans, Butte and San Francisco come in the other category. Ever since its cow town days Fort

'WE STILL PLAN TAKING TROPHY,' SKIPPER SAYS

"We have not altered our original plan of taking charge of the citizenship pennant, when last contest in the Mitchell county softball tournament is over," Harold Bennett, skipper for the Loraine club, boasted Monday morning. His team, until a few days ago, were undefeated. The Young Business Men of Colorado delivered first drubbing to Loraine.

Drillers Strike Oil Near Historic Oak Of Acadian Fame

Continental Open Field In Sight Of Scene Of Epical Evangeline Inspiration

ST. MARTINSVILLE, La.—Oil has been discovered here under the farms of the descendants of the Acadians, and drilling crews are now enacting an industrial sequel to Longfellow's immortal "Evangeline."

Settled in 1755 by French families exiled from "Acadia," or Nova Scotia, by the British, this section of Louisiana's picturesque bayou country has for 181 years remained faithful to the language, traditions and leisurely habits of the original exiles. Farming continued by ox-cart, and Longfellow's epic, reciting the ruthless expulsion of their ancestors and the pathetic separation of the lovers Evangeline and Gabriel, solidified the Acadian tradition.

Now, after nine generations, the calm of Evangeline land is being disturbed. Last week a drilling crew of the Continental Oil Company struck oil a mile west of here, almost within sight of the Evangeline Oak on Bayou Teche. The Continental company has purchased 600 acres in the locality, so further operations seem inevitable. Already arrangements have been made to transport oil from the new well to famous Bayou Teche by pipeline.

Sentiments of the Acadian farmers are mixed, many of the elders looking with sadness on the coming of the oil companies, while most of the young people make plans to spend their royalties.

COURTESY AND EFFICIENCY HAVE ATTENDED PROGRESS OF RAILROADS IN AMERICA

C-C Luncheon Club Speakers Give Comparisons At Fete Held At Ruddick Park To Honor Railroad Week

Courtesy and efficiency have attended progress of the American railroads during the past fifteen to twenty years to such pace as to place these common carriers first in appreciation by the public today, J. E. Watson, superintendent of the Colorado schools, stated during an address at Ruddick Park Tuesday evening.

Watson was speaking before meeting of the chamber of commerce luncheon club members and their wives, assembled at the park to have part in barbecue given in honor of railroad men and their families at Colorado. The meeting was presided over by O. H. Majors.

Watson pictured the railroad as a pioneer in commerce and development in all sections of the country. This immediate section of West Texas never launched a definite program of development until after the Texas & Pacific had pushed westward into the country, he stated.

The modern equipment being used on passenger trains, including air conditioned coaches and courtesy not to be excelled by any concern or individual dealing with the public, as compared with attitude of the railroads toward the public fifteen and twenty years ago formed basis for interesting comparison by the speaker.

John Howell, freight and passenger agent for the Texas & Pacific, delivered the response. Howell quoted figures to show that Western rail corporations had invested billions of dollars in territory west of the Mississippi river. Over 300,000 men were shown to be in the employ of these lines. At Colorado 18 men are employed. Howell stated and payroll of the system here approximates $30,000 annually. The T-P pays $12,000 annually in taxes in Mitchell county, Mr. Howell stated.

Jim Greene, chamber of commerce secretary, delivered a brief address to welcome the ladies present.

Announcement that Guindola Mearse of the Valley View 4-H Girls' club had won the Mitchell county bedroom improvement contest for 4-H club girls was made this week after final scoring of the various bedrooms by Miss Pauline Hargrove, head of the home economics department of Colorado High school.

Guindola made her bedroom improvements with an expenditure of only $4.06. Her reward will be a trip to the A. & M. Short course. Women's home demonstration clubs of the county are sponsoring the trip.

Second place in the contest was awarded to Ina B. Daughtrey of the Dorn 4-H girls' club. She spent only $3.06 in her improvements. Dorothy Thompson of Looney ranked third.

Two clothes closets were added to Guindola's winning bedroom. She also did some painting, put up curtains, and added bathing equipment. Ina B. added a vanity dresser and washing facilities and painted her bed and floor. Dorothy put up new curtains, covered a slipper chair, arranged her dressing unit, and re-dressed her bed according to standards.

Miss Hargrove scored the rooms on comfort, attractiveness, efficiency, and personality affects. Ruby Fay Adrian of the Landers club did not have her room quite finished for the scoring. Louise Kidd of the Fairview community had to drop out of the contest in June because of expense.

LOCAL REFINING INDUSTRY LISTED AS IMPORTANT TO THIS SECTION OF COUNTRY

Other Assets Of Mitchell In Parade As Speakers Heard During Institute Held By Chamber of Commerce

Among the important industrial enterprises in this section of Texas is plant of the Col-Tex Refining Company, Colorado business men and their employees attending opening session of the Merchant's Institute Tuesday afternoon were told. Figures to sustain that claim were submitted by Jim Greene, chamber of commerce secretary.

That the local petroleum industry developed $1,800,000 in freight business during 1935 for the Texas & Pacific railroad was declared by Greene. "Records in office of the railroad freight office here disclose the fact that an average of 62 solid cars of freight originates at that plant every 24 hours," Greene said. Continuing his reference to importance of the industry Greene declared that more asphalt was being manufactured locally than at any other point within 650 miles.

Cotton, grain, cattle, produce and other commodities produced in the Colorado territory were listed as other important factors in industrial life of the area. Population of the city and county, interesting recreational centers along with considerable historical data were listed as information that the Colorado business man and his employees should know in order to ever be prepared to talk of this community intelligently when contacting tourists.

Figures were quoted to show that local tax rates, including city, school, county and State, were well below the average in this part of Texas. Bonded indebtedness of both the county and city were listed as considerably lower, per capita population, than the State average, a fact that would be of interest to the prospective investor here.

George Barber, secretary of the Sweetwater Board of City Development, was guest speaker on the hour's program. "Know Your Town" was subject from which he talked.

"If I were a citizen of Colorado and did not definitely believe this to be the best community of all the others, I would pack up my belongings and move to the town I thought to be better," he stated. "And, further than that; if I did not believe that here in Colorado were to be found the best lines of merchandise and the most attractive prices to be offered anywhere, I would be moving out."

"To build this community and realize the best in every line of endeavor means that we must be loyal to every interest represented here and so equip ourselves as to be in position to convey an impressive picture of Colorado and Mitchell county to the visitor who comes our way."

His only transportation was the old farm wagon. With this he drove to town or church, seated with his sunbonneted wife beside him on a spring seat in front and the rest of the family, often as many in range and number as an octave, scattered in chairs or on benches behind. Perhaps, a little later on, he used a horse and buggy.
Old Man Texas was usually a Methodist or a Baptist. Sometimes he may have been a Presbyterian, a Cumberland Presbyterian or a Campbellite, as we once called the followers of Alexander Campbell, now called Christians. Only city folks in his day were Catholics or Episcopalians. The only social breaks in his rather monotonous life were the Fourth of July, the Christmas dance and the annual camp meeting. But he was no hypocrite. He may or may not on rare occasions, have taken a dram or toddy, or an eggnog at Christmas time, but he never tasted a cocktail or gin rickey.
As for these newly introduced into America cults,—Theosophy, Christian Science, New Thought, Chiropractors, Spiritualism, Mahatmas, Yogis and other things he had never heard of them except in a very vague way, and he cast them aside as something related to the Vaudoism of the negro conjure doctor, whom he had once seen when a boy.
Mile after mile, day after day, he walked up and down the corn and cotton furrows to earn the needed money. That is how he got that stoop, bending over the plow just as Ma Texas got hers bending over the washtub. If you looked at his hands, you would see that they were hard and cracked, and calloused from hard labor, and etched with black lines.
Old Man Texas had but few wants or needs. About once or twice in life he bought a suit of durable store clothes, which fading with passing years and unacquainted with pressing, lasted throughout the years. The same may be said of hats and shoes. As for the rest—socks and underwear, Old Man Texas cut and made them. He was not ashamed of patches on his trousers, or fringes on his cuffs. He left the fancy dressing to his boys and girls at the university or the normal schools. But did you ever think that he spent almost all that he ever made for benevolence and help of his fellow man? What you put in clothes, radios, suit collars and fashionable socks he contributed to church collections for the support of schools and missions and orphanages. Whose money was it than his that built the many great denominational colleges, as well as many of the crossroads schoolhouses. Baylor, Southern Methodist, Texas Christian, Simmons, Georgetown and others almost all represent aggregates of cotton bolls picked by him and his.
"Where did Old Man Texas live?" one may ask. Why he lived in every county from Liberty, on the seacoast to the westernmost county of the Staked Plains. Often he moved westward with the frontier, far beyond the rail head, but lots of him remained behind.
Sometimes Old Man Texas may have been a cattleman, a merchant, a lawyer, a preacher or a teacher, or even a newspaperman, blessed with the same square shooting habits and ideals as though he had been a plain farmer. In heart and act any of them might have been Old Man Texas. If you only look around you, you may find him as your neighbor. During a recent severe illness in a local hospital, several of him came to visit with me, and I shall never forget their Old Man Texas kindness.
And if, at last, they should have struck oil on Old Man Texas' place,

OLD MAN TEXAS

By Dr. Robert T. Hill
Oh, how I love that old boy, so symbolic of the patience, Spartan-like-self-denial, eternal labor and the maintained dignity of the real old-time Texan—the man who with his own hands cut the brush and broke briers and plowed and fenced the land, who chopped out the roads and built the first houses, the churches and the schools. Nothing four-flushy or false-fronty about him. Just a plain, honest family man, a helpful neighbor, and a useful citizen. Neither was he a strutting big white hat exhibitionist, nor a loud-mouthed hog-caller, a tobacco-spitting contestant, nor a dog racer.
Old Man Texas broke the wild briers, cut down the forests, turned the soil, split the rails, built the cabins and his wagon ruts were the first trails or roads. Nowadays we term them "highways."
It was he and his kind that built up civilization in this State when builders were needed, or at least as much of it as remains standing after the battering down in recent years of moral influences. It was he who fought off the Indians when Indians prowled around. It was he who defended the homes from the hyenas of the frontier whom we used to call "desperadoes" before the words "incorrigibles" and "habitual criminals" were invented, and who used to prow around until they got hung to a tree, before they were pampered in State prisons.
He it was who took up his musket and fought through the Civil War for a cause that he may have thought lost before the conflict began, but because he thought he was doing duty by his State. Likewise it was he who with silent men and little ostentation saved us from negro domination.
It was he who laid the foundations that converted this Texas country into the prosperous, luxury enjoying, money spending land for his children that it is today, without ever having enjoyed a single luxury in his life—not even the softness of a cushioned automobile seat or an air-cooled house.
Old Man Texas had no electric lights, no telephone, no phonograph, no radio—not even a kitchen sink or running water in the house—not even a pump. He pulled the water hand over hand from a well in the yard. He never even saw a movie.
Old Man Texas had no automobile.

the event would have been like a gift from heaven. The boys and girls whom he had sent to college, and who had there acquired an acquaintance with a few of the luxuries of life, would insist that Old Man Texas abandon the plow, rent the farm out, and move to town.
If God put oil under his land to enrich his children, let not the latter in their comfort and prosperity forget his fortitude or simple virtues. And while you are at it, let us not forget that there was an Old Man Texas, too.
Yes, I am glad that I lived in the good old frontier horse-and-wagon days when Old Man Texas was in his prime, and shall always bless his name and all of the plain living and better conduct that he stood for. Likewise I shall be grateful to the man and artist who has so skillfully preserved his image for us on paper.
To the above about Old Man Texas by Dr. Hill the Columnist wishes to add:
Texas remains the same land of romance, of glamour, and of promise that it was in days of yore. The same turquoise sky, frescoed with billowing clouds, bends to caress the warm earth, and flowers still spring in wild profusion as they did when the first conquistador trod the lush grasses beneath his feet. The lure of Texas is still felt by millions of people in all parts of the world.
GAME OF LIFE
Physical life is a most valuable possession; but it is a tremendously dangerous thing to trifle with. It comes to us in our baby innocence, it may leave us in hopeless despair. Don't trifle with life.

Play the game and play it fair; The moo may jeer and shout, But the fight is never lost, my boy, Until you're counted out. There's a heap of good in this old world And there's greed and graft and sin, But a blow hurts less if you meet it square, And take it on the chin.
ONCE SAVED, ALWAYS SAVED
Salvation is in three tenses, past, present and future. It means saved from past sins, safe from present sins, and preserved from future sins. Salvation is not blocked into periods of time. It doesn't mean saved today and lost tomorrow. Salvation is the lost saved. How is this done? Paul told the Philippian jailer: "Believe on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved." One thing for the jailer to do, believe; and one thing for God to do, which he confirmed in these words, "and thou shalt be saved." Each party complied with the conditions, and that sealed the terms of salvation for the past, the present, and the future.
EDITORIAL
A hog doesn't know the difference between a silver dollar and a diamond ring. It can't make a useful application of either. But a hog knows the difference between a diamond and a grain of corn, and knows how to make a practical application of the corn. The value of a thing is measured by the services it can render to some living creature. The urgency of the use frequently determines the value to the purchaser. For instance, a king afoot, sorely pressed by the enemy seeking his death, cried out, "My kingdom for a horse." The occasion determined the value the fleeing king placed upon the service that could be rendered to him by being astride a fleet-footed horse.
A person can say a hundred good things and never hear a word of comment, but if he should make one "fool break" he would probably hear of a hundred harsh criticisms. A large per cent of the human race had rather criticize than commend.
Al Smith is continuing his political walking exercise. He has not said what ticket he will support. Wilson once told a couple of fellows of the Al Smith type that he would be better off without their support. Roosevelt could truthfully say the same to Al Smith.

If Wilson were here today he would say of the Zioncheck type, sorter Zioncheckish.
We are beginning to agree with Attorney General Bill McCraw, who said that Texas was one of the biggest producers of natural gas, but once every year, the supply was twice that of the year before. Candidates, "hot air" fill the ether and swell the production, he said.
Eloquence, hot air, desert air sweetness is all wasted by Allred opponents with their natural gas as they cannot touch him with a ten-foot pole.
Nearly all Governor Allred's opponents are trying to make political thunder out of the old-age assistance law, claiming in the first place that the constitutional amendment, as adopted by the people, provided for $15 per month to all persons over 65 years of age, without limitation or restriction, and in the second place, that Allred failed to provide a bill to carry out such amendment and that he has been responsible for the delay in paying the pensions and that he proposes to pay the pension out of liquor taxes alone.
These candidates, it seems to me, are making much to do about nothing. The truth is that a great many people, probably because of some misleading propaganda such as is now being used by Allred's opponents, were led to believe before the amendment was adopted that they were voting for an unlimited amendment providing for the payment of a pension to every person over 65 years of age. However, the amendment as actually adopted is plainly subject to limitation and restriction.
There is sufficient money on hand with which to pay those entitled to the pension under the present law for several months. If the Governor should call a special session and again give the Legislature the opportunity to pass a money-raising measure and they should pass one, what would become of all this hullabaloo? It looks as if his opponents are trying in vain to rake up something that may never happen, but that will appeal to the masses.
Tom Goss came near having a scrap when he called H. B. Broadbush a Zionchecker.

Incidentally, I believe that the payment of the soldiers' bonus was as beneficial to the truck business as to the passenger car business, and that many ex-service men are putting their bonus money into trucks as a profit-making investment. The bonus payment also has undoubtedly contributed to the large sales of used trucks, of which Chevrolet dealers sold 24,873 in June.
"However, used truck sales have been showing a big boom all during the year, Chevrolet dealers having reported a total of 118,310 deliveries of used trucks to the end of June. These heavy sales have enabled the Chevrolet dealers to reduce their stock of used trucks by 8,358 units in the last two months.
Record-breaking sales of motor trucks during the first six months of 1936 are declared by W. E. Fish, manager of the Chevrolet Motor Company's commercial car department, to be an index of higher levels in business, industry, and agriculture throughout the country.
"Chevrolet's first six months' business in trucks," said Mr. Fish, "set a record of sales that exceeded any previous first half in the history of the company, with a total of 119,294 new units delivered, as compared with the previous record of 102,321, which has stood since 1929. The increase over the corresponding period of last year is 26,091.
"Actually, the pick up in truck sales began late in 1935, and beginning with November every one of the last eight months has exceeded Chevrolet's best previous sales record for the corresponding month in all previous years.
"Every one of the nine regional territories in which Chevrolet has divided its national sales organization has shared in the upturn indicated by the new record of first half sales. The Eastern region, including many large cities and industrial districts, led with a 62.9 per cent gain, followed closely by the Southwest and the Pacific coast region, which gained 58.5 and 58.7 per cent respectively. In the midwest region, a 53 per cent increase was made. The evening gown yet they are embarrassed to death over a little hole in their stocking."

Lady's Painful Trouble Helped By Cardui
Why do so many women take Cardui for the relief of functional pains at monthly times? The answer is that they want results such as Mrs. Herbert W. Egan, of Hallsville, Texas, describes. She writes: "My health wasn't good. I suffered from cramping. My pain would be so intense it would nauseate me. I would just drag around, so sluggish and 'do-bee'. My mother decided to give me Cardui. I began to mend. That tired, sluggish feeling was gone and the pains disappeared. I can't praise Cardui too highly because I know it helped me." . . . ## Story Of How She Improved Her Bedroom To Win Contest Told By Guindola Mearse

The story of how she improved her bedroom to win the county-wide 4-H club girls' bedroom improvement contest which closed this week is told by Guindola Mearse of the Valley View girls' club as follows:

"We believe in training the head to think, plan, and reason; in training the hands to be helpful, skillful, and useful; in training the heart to be kind, sympathetic, and true; in caring for the health to give us power to enjoy life, to resist disease, and to make us more efficient. This is the 4-H Club Creed. This should be carried out in every phase of our work. By keeping this in mind I have tried to apply it to my work.

"The purpose of improving my bedroom was to make it more healthful for sleeping, to make the room more convenient for dressing, to make the room useful for study and reading, to make the room attractive and restful for others as well as myself. To do this I had to put forth quite an effort. With the help of the family I started in to do the best I could in a short period of time. I only had a month to plan and do the many things that had to be done after school was out.

"Of course health is the most important fact to consider in any line of work. Without good health we cannot do very much. The first thing that I did was to repair the screens on the windows and doors. I also had to put in a new window pane. The third step was to make the room easier to keep clean. In doing this I painted the floor and went over the doors and window facings with linseed oil to make them fresher. The next thing was to have a well equipped bed. To do this I made a mattress and spring cover. I did not have any material on hand to make them, so I went to a mattress maker and got some discarded mattress ticking and washed it and made my protectors. For my mattress pad I took two second-hand sheets and padded them with an old blanket and quilted it on the machine. Slats had to be placed under each row of coils in the springs to support each coil.

"To make the room convenient for dressing I had to provide a place for bathing. I arranged a place in my closet for washing equipment and added two more shelves for clothing storage. I made a very attractive dressing table out of two orange crates.

"To make the room useful for study and reading I made a table out of some material I had on hand. My aunt gave me a piece of furniture which was composed of three nice shelves. The top shelf I used for my pot plant and gold fish. The other shelves I used for storage for books, magazines, and writing materials. A straight chair was bottomed with twine. I placed a cushion made of green, blue and pink print in it to make the chair more comfortable.

"To make the room more attractive and restful I first removed all undesirable articles and furnishings. The curtains which I had in the room were old and faded and it would have

Federal Bureau Is Taking Up Fight In Interest Ranchers

War On The Screw Worm Fly Is On, Supervisor In This District States Monday.

The screw worm fly and its damage to ranchmen and farmers of Texas has been known since 1846, Joe E. Clayton of Gail, district supervisor for the Federal Bureau of Entomology and Plant Quarantine, stated while here Monday. Clayton was in Colorado to confer with County Agent Ben J. Baskin on plans for staging demonstrations on control of the pest.

"At the present time this bureau of the United States Department of Agriculture, in cooperation with the Extension Service of A. & M. College, and the State Department of Agriculture, is conducting campaign to combat the screw worm fly," Clayton said.

"In general, the purpose of this campaign is to convey to livestock raisers that information concerning the screw worm fly that has been made available by research workers. This is information that has been found practical in treating screw worm fly."

Clayton has the counties of Mitchell, Scurry, Borden, Howard, Martin, Dawson, Andrews and Gaines in his district. Headquarters are to be maintained at Gail during the campaign.

It was necessary for me to have tinted them. So I decided I would take the money which it would have taken to tint them and put it into the amount that it would cost to buy new ones. My new curtains were made of voile and were very inexpensive. My pot plant, fish, and pictures made the room more attractive.

"I painted the floor and all pieces of furniture, made new curtains, a rag rug, improved two closets, and added bath equipment at the cost of $4.06.

"I am very glad that I had an opportunity to improve my bedroom. I enjoyed working on it and now I can enjoy using it. Besides my demonstration can be shown to other girls what they can do with little expense."

{ QUESTIONS THAT ARE ASKED ABOUT BANKING }

"Why is public confidence so important to a bank?"

THERE are two main reasons why public confidence is so important to a bank. In the first place people must have confidence in a bank before they will deposit their money. This means confidence in the honesty, integrity and ability of the bank officers, plus the belief that sound, efficient methods are used in its management. Secondly, public confidence is important because it gives the bank assurance of stable deposits. This, in turn, enables the bank to loan or invest its funds for reasonable periods. It is the revenue from these loans and investments which makes it possible for the bank to pay its operating costs, build up reserves and pay stockholders a fair return. The officers of this bank have justifiable pride in the widespread public confidence it enjoys in this community.
