Where Broadway Crosses the Sunset Trail

The saga of the last frontier of western progress blends curiously but effectively at the Fort Worth Frontier Centennial today with the new frontier of entertainment. "Sashay All", rousing musical climax from "The Last Frontier", is shown above, scores of Texans participating in modern conceptions of folk dancing of the period. And below is an air-view of "Casa Manana", most talked-of cafe-theater in the world, with its huge circular stage floating in water and revolving the cast before the eyes of 4,000 spectators. Close by these glittering attractions on the Frontier Centennial grounds are "Pioneer Palace" and its Honky Tonk revue, and "Jumbo"—"Bigger than a Show, Better than a Circus."

beans, and iced tea were served to the guests soon after their arrival.

of lights.

Yardley's vanity. Raymond Gary made high for men, receiving Yard-

Mrs. W. B. Garrett is listed for a paper on "Negro Artists" and Mrs.
J. G. Merritt will tell about things that might be done to promote racial understanding.

During the circle meeting Mrs.
Tom Grant presided, also leading the devotional from the 107th Psalm.
Mrs. Crabtree said the opening prayer. Members expressed regret at the death of one of the sunshine mothers, Mrs. Maggie Wert, who died in Dallas week before last. The women were urged to start saving old garments for rummage sales this fall.

Assignments were made for the chicken dinner to be served by the

AUTOMOBILE PLAYS GREAT PART IN INDUSTRY TODAY

DALLAS—A graphic picture of the part played by the automobile in present day industry and society is revealed in the fact that 85 per cent of the installed horsepower in the United States is in automobiles.
This figure is revealed by Gardner
M. Cobb, managing director of the General Motors exhibit at the Texas Centennial Exposition in Dallas.
"It has been generally known for some time that a large percentage of installed horsepower in this country was in automobiles," Mr. Cobb said.
"However, recently Professor Carroll
R. Daugherty, of the University of Pittsburgh, made a thorough survey and calculation of the exact figure.
His findings showed motor vehicles of all kinds in use in this country represent 1,424,980,000 horsepower, or $5.20 of the total controlled horse- power.

One horsepower is 33,000 foot pounds of work per minute. Thus, if a weight of 33,000 pounds is raised one foot off the ground in one minute, it takes one horsepower to do it. The power obtained from automobile engines varies between 50 and 200 horsepower, depending on the size of the car, Mr. Cobb explained.
General Motors automobiles contributing to the installed horsepower of the country include Cadillac, La-Salle, Buick, Pontiac, Oldsmobile and Chevrolet.

Power is also produced by the burning of coal in locomotives and steam power plants; by the fall of water in hydro-electric power plants and by work animals.

INSURANCE FEATURES OF PROGRAM ARE DISCUSSED

COLLEGE STATION.—Insurance features of the Agricultural Conservation program are proving of value to farmers in Texas because of unusual weather conditions in 1936, A. L. Smith, executive secretary of the State Agricultural Conservation Committee, pointed out.

"Interest is being manifested in these features by many farmers of this region," he added, "so the recent statement of C. A. Cobb, director of the Southern Region of the AAA, is particularly appropriate at this time."

Cobb says, "Each producer who meets the requirements of the Agricultural Conservation program is sure of receiving some cash income even though his crops may be destroyed by drought or other causes."

"No program can prevent suffering and hardship if a farmer's labor and cash investment in crops are completely lost because of unfavorable weather conditions. The present program will partly relieve the distress of cooperating producers by making a cash payment to those who have used approved farming practices on their land."

"The soil-conserving crops, grown on land that would otherwise be planted to soil-depleting crops, protect the cooperating producer against losses of plant food and soil caused by leaching and erosion."

"Improved soils mean better stands, fewer crop failures, lower production cost to producers, and over a long period a more staple and less expensive supply of foods, feeds, and fibers for consumers than would be available if soils should continue to be wasted at the present rate."

CONTROL OF SOIL EROSION ADDS TO LIFE OF RESERVOIR

COLLEGE STATION.—Water and power reservoirs in many parts of the country, representing several billions of dollars in investments, are being endangered by excessive silting, according to the Soil Conservation Service bulletin, "Silt of Reservoirs," just issued by the Department of Agriculture. Cleaning a reservoir, the bulletin emphasizes, is usually too expensive and the only way out is to stop erosion and keep out the mud.

The problem of protecting these reservoirs from destructive silting goes hand in hand with the problem of saving farm and range lands from ruin by uncontrolled soil erosion, according to Henry M. Eakin, in charge of Sedimentation and Hydraulic Studies for the Soil Conservation Service, author of the bulletin.

The main reliance for permanent conservation of reservoir resources, he says, must be found in the control of silt production at its primary sources—in the fields, pastures and watershed area behind the reservoir. This can be done by more widespread and effective application of established erosion control methods.

Eakin points out that although certain supplementary practices of debris disposal may be employed to guard reservoir storage capacity against silting, they are generally subject to prohibitive difficulties and limitations.

"Silt of Reservoirs" is Technical Bulletin 524. Copies may be obtained from the Superintendent of Documents, Washington, D. C. at 40 cents each.

National Building Objective Would Aid Return Better Times, Washington Says

The housing industry offers the greatest potential market in history to a nation beating its way out of depression, government experts at Washington have outlined in statement received this week by this newspaper.

The need for more and better housing facilities, and improvement and modernization of existing dwellings, is so vast that economic leaders believe 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 men could be taken from employment rolls and kept at work for ten years in this industry alone.

Government statistics indicate that housing construction offers to the nation now the same ability to lead the way to complete recovery that the automobile industry provided during the 1920-30 decade.

Department of commerce officials estimate conservatively that America needs at least 3,000,000 new dwelling units. Without regard to the need for modernization, this represents a potential market of between $12,000,000,000 and $15,000,000,000.

In 1934, there were 13,000,000 homes requiring repairs or modernization jobs ranging in cost from $50 to $2,000. The federal housing administration has insured modernization credits for approximately 1,000,000 of these at an average cost per job of $500. Another 12,000,000 houses still need repairing, counting those which have enticed that category since FHA began its work. If these average $500 each, a potential market of $6,000,000,000 exists in the modernization field.

There are approximately 30,000,000 dwelling units in the United States. Every year one per cent of these become obsolete and unfit to be occupied. Approximately 200,000 new dwelling units are needed every year to take care of increased population.

The result is that America needs 500,000 new homes a year to keep pace with housing needs.

That average was maintained during the 1920-30 decade. Then came depression. For the five years 1930-35, new home construction averaged only 16 per cent of the required amount. Families doubled up, and less than 500,000 dwelling units were built during five years in which 2,500,000 were needed adequately to house the population.

In other words, 2,000,000 new homes are needed to return the nation to the 1929 housing level. At least another 1,000,000 are needed to eliminate slums, lift sharecroppers and other poor farmers out of their shacks, and take care of housing needs caused by splitting up of large families as a result of the urban movement.

Added to this is the fact that the rate of obsolescence, now about one per cent a year, is increasing rapidly. A great majority of the nation's homes were built during the last 40 years. Within the next decade hundreds of thousands of these will require either replacement or major remodeling.

Population trends play a part, too. There are more persons 14 years old in this country than in any other age group. As these youngsters approach majority and matrimony, need for new dwellings will increase.

The federal housing administration believes that during the next ten years the new houses needed annually will approach the 700,000 mark.

There is no reason why you should needlessly risk your life in a blow-out accident. High-speed blow-outs are caused by the terrific heat inside your tires. This heat separates rubber and fabric. A blister forms which grows until, sooner or later, your tire blows out. Every Goodrich Silvertown is built with a special golden ply which resists heat and prevents these high-speed blow-outs—yet you pay not one penny extra for this protection. Play safe! Man-Made and Nature's Beauty at Work Here

This excellent sample of photographic art shows the stately white walls of the Ford Exposition building against a back drop of fleecy clouds at the Texas Centennial in Dallas. The pontoon bridge in the foreground is part of the winding "Roads of the Southwest," nine reproduced sections of famous highways and cattle trails. Ford V-8 cars transport thousands of visitors over the roads daily.

15 YEARS AGO

Quotations On All Farm Products To New High Record

Prices Higher In All Parts Of Country, Bureau States In Report Issued Tuesday.

The general level of prices received by farmers in August was the highest in six years the Bureau of Agricultural Economics at Washington disclosed Tuesday in a report.

The index on Aug. 15 was 124, compared with 115 July 15 and 106 Aug. 15 a year ago. Grain led the march to higher prices during the last month, with both wheat and corn passing $1.00 a bushel for the first time since July, 1928. Prices of truck crops rose substantially during the month; prices of dairy products were strong; chickens and eggs advanced seasonally, and meat animal prices were higher. Cotton, cottonseed and fruits were the only major groups to recede from the July level.

Group indexes of the bureau show that prices received by farmers for grain were up 20 points during the last month, truck crops up 19 points, dairy products 9 points, chickens and eggs 6 points and meat animals 4 points.

Prices of important commodities are: Wheat $1.08 a bushel, corn $1.45, cotton 12.3c a pound, cotton seed $30.00 a ton, hogs $8.85 per 100 pounds, beef cattle $4.95 per 100 pounds, lambs $6.50 per 100 pounds, cows (milk) $36.00 a head, horses $62.00 a head, mules $38.00, chickens 12.2c a pound, eggs 18.5c a dozen, butter 28c a pound, wool 29c, all hay $7.80 a ton, alfalfa $9.60 a ton.

ANOTHER USE IS FOUND FOR COTTONSEED HULLS

Experiments with cottonseed hulls at the Spur Agricultural Experiment Station point to this material as probably being an excellent material to be used in connection with the curing of concrete road surfaces. It was found in certain tests at the station that cottonseed hulls had a forty times greater holding capacity than sand, says R. E. Dickson, superintendent.

Dickson recently built a self-feeder for pigs and poured a concrete slab 12x12 feet square and covered it with a three-inch layer of refuse cottonseed hulls such as can be had at any gin, instead of sand or dirt as is usually the case. After ten days of this cover, in spite of the intense heat and dry atmosphere, he found a perfect moisture condition on the concrete slab beneath the layer of hulls.

Those who watched the experiment are convinced that cottonseed hulls deserve a test by Texas road builders. It would provide another new use for cotton.

Condition Of State Finances Prompting Editorial Comment In The Newspapers

Condition of the State treasurer as reflected in report made public at Austin Tuesday has been commented upon editorially in newspapers throughout the State, the reference usually optimistic. The Dallas Morning News had the following to say: "Although the general revenue fund of the State balances with a large figure in red ink as shown by the report of the Comptroller of Public Accounts for the end of the fiscal year, Aug. 31, yet the State's finances are in good condition when considered as a whole. Of the five leading funds, two show deficits, $9,301,334 in the general revenue fund and $5,070,261 in the Confederate pension fund, making a total of $14,371,595. The three funds showing surpluses are as follows: Highway fund, $8,152,403; available school fund, $1,375,276; county and district road indebtedness fund, $6,111,646, making a total of $15,639,327. This makes a total surplus for the five principal funds of $1,267,732. There are numerous smaller funds, most of which are reported with surpluses.

The old-age pension fund showed a small surplus, but since it represented collections over a period of six or more months and payments for only two months, the surplus reported does not indicate its true condition if considered on basis of annual operation. The maintenance of this fund and the need of still other revenues to give State support to other Federal programs under the social security legislation constitute the chief fiscal problem of the future. If the State is to maintain old-age pensions even at the present level and also match Federal funds for unemployment insurance, much additional revenue will be needed for this fund. It should not be considered in a lame-duck special session, but made a special issue for the regular session beginning in January.

"On the other hand, there are ameliorating circumstances bearing on the big deficits in general revenue and pension funds. If expenditures can be held stationary for a few years, increase in ad valorem taxes and other sources will eliminate the general revenue deficit.

"There will also be a large revenue from collection of delinquent taxes. This fund has not shown the prompt improvement that some other funds have shown because its chief source is the ad valorem tax which lags in

PICKED UP ALONG THE NEWS PATH

A long distance phone call from Billy Rose—THE Billy Rose—is nothing for Mrs. W. R. Martin to get excited about. She received such a call the other night. . . . An entirely personal call, too, because the showman just wanted to know when she and her family are going down to the Frontier Centennial. . . .

Surprisingly, last Friday night's crowd at the Ruddick park amateur hour fell off very little, if any. . . . Somehow most of us expected a dwindling of interest, a sort of anticlimax and let-down following the home-coming, but we were wrong. . . .

You see, Mrs. Martin and Billy Rose were friends in Washington, D. C., several years ago when she was Doris Mullin and he was Willie Rosenberg, stenographer. . . . At that time Mrs. Martin's mother, Mrs. Minnie Myer Mullin, was working with the signal corps in the civil service, and Doris was a rather youngish girl, that being in World War days. . . .

Speaking of Mrs. Martin—and coming down to the present—her tireless energy and ability have had much to do with many successes in Colorado this summer, it seems to us. . . . Her pupils have carried off prize after prize at the chamber of commerce amateur hours on Friday evenings, besides filling many program places that might otherwise have been vacant. . . . She worked like a Trojan on the pageant that was an outstanding feature of Mitchell county's home-coming celebration week before last. . . .

Rather proud of her home-town, Newport, Tennessee, is Mrs. Dale Warren. . . . Newport's outstanding attraction is High Oaks Tulip Garden on the estate of Mrs. Lillie E. Duncan. . . . The garden includes 10 acres on a hilltop which has been landscaped by experts. . . . Recently the garden was widely publicized and with it the town of Newport. . . . During the garden's open season it is visited by an average of 172 persons daily. . . .

These summer evening program in the cool and lovely band shell amphitheatre have probably given more pleasure to a greater number of Mitchell countians than anything that has taken place in the county in years. . . . Papa can go with his shirt collar unbuttoned and Mamma can wear her coolest dress and most comfortable shoes. . . . The "kids" are welcome. . . . There isn't any admission, so everybody can have an unstinted good time. . . .

And all the time, even in her most hectic moments, she manages to look and act like what she is—a lovely and poised lady with a madonna-like style of dressing her hair. . . .

The "hat will be passed" at this Friday evening's program, according to J. H. Greene's announcement last Friday evening. . . . Nickels and dimes will be appreciated, because there

Once a Trail, Now Famous Highway

Here, on this reproduction of the famous Fort Worth Pike, once an Indian trail, are shown Dobbin and his precious cargo of newlyweds, in a scene staged on this one of the nine famous trails and highways that constitute "Roads of the Southwest" as re-created by the Ford Motor Company near the Ford Exposition building at the Texas Centennial in Dallas.

Fort Worth Pike, which started as an Indian trail and was improved by settlers as a stage coach line and later as a commercial highway between Fort Worth and Dallas, is reproduced in part in the "Roads of the Southwest" which skirt the lagoon opposite the Ford building at the Texas Centennial in Dallas. Nine famous trails and highways of the Southwest comprise the exhibit.

The first route between Dallas and Fort Worth probably was one which ran some distance north of the present road. It is believed that it led from the little settlement which became the city of Dallas to the present town of Carrollton, thence west to the present town of Birville, and on to Fort Worth. This seemed to be the logical route between Fort Worth and Dallas because it would enable travelers to make the trip without fording the river more than once and that at a point somewhat south of Carrollton. Early records indicate that Fort Worth was established about 1849 when Major R. A. Arnold and his cavalry troops camped on a bluff overlooking the Trinity river where the present Tarrant County court house now stands. The troops had been sent to that section to quell Indian uprisings. Fort Worth was named for General William J. Worth of New York, of Mexican war fame, and a close friend of Major Arnold. Fort Worth became the county seat of Tarrant County in 1856.

Between 1850 and 1870 Fort Worth became a great cattle concentration point. Large herds of cattle from Dallas and points to the south passed through Fort Worth on their way to northern markets. One of the chief cattle trails of the day passed directly through Fort Worth.

In May, 1902, records show, the Fort Worth Pike was ordered paved with macadam. The Fort Worth Pike now is a part of U. S. Highway 80, which also is known as the Bankhead Highway and the Broadway of America.

WOMEN DRIVERS BETTER THAN IN YEARS GONE BY

DALLAS.—A staunch defender of women drivers of automobiles comes to the fore in Gardner M. Cobb, managing director of the General Motors exhibit at the Texas Centennial Exposition in Dallas.

"I have heard men drivers say, 'When you see a woman at the wheel of a car, climb a tree.'" Mr. Cobb said in paving his way for his points favoring women drivers.

Some of them still say that but I think they are wrong. They have accepted an idea—a saying—from the past that is being disproved by statistics. Figures indicate that about twenty-five per cent of the drivers in the United States are women drivers. Further, the figures show that women drivers are involved in only six per cent of the fatal motor accidents and only in eight per cent of the non-fatal accidents. There is a conclusive picture of the old controversy of men vs. women drivers," Mr. Cobb said. "I fully believe that as the more scientific breakdown of gathered data becomes available in the motoring family, that the story of the woman driver will become even more startling."

Mr. Cobb chalked up as an asset the title women have acquired as "back seat drivers." The title has developed because, through their inherent caution women have taken a verbal stand against excessive speed and chance-taking in driving, he said. These are the very things that traffic experts all over the country are pointing a finger to as the basic causes for accidents in motor cars.

"Women drivers are generally more considerate in their every day lives about the infirm and helpless, the aged and the children; than men," continued Mr. Cobb. "As drivers they are rarely in accidents with these classes of pedestrians. Figures show that those classifications make a considerable percentage in the accident totals between cars and pedestrians."

Women's knowledge of the mechanical why and wherefore of cars naturally is not as thorough as that of men, Mr. Cobb admitted. He explained that in the beginning of their driving women are a little amazed that such pushing of levers and pedals cause such and such a result. Once convinced, however, that such and such will happen they depend on it absolutely.

"I have been associated with General Motors automobile shows for many years," Mr. Cobb said, "and I notice a great increase in the number of women who watch and examine the mechanical displays and lectures of our cut-away chassis and specialized parts. Gradually they are developing a desire to know what makes the wheels go 'round.'"

Pride of possession is another major factor contributing to a woman's carefulness in driving, according to Mr. Cobb. A dented fender is a serious thing with a woman driver. Rather than risk one she will often resort to a side street or a less traveled road. If there is a child or a loved one in the car that a woman is driving, it is safe to say that the protective instinct in woman will contribute to her care and reasoning in driving.

In addition to women moving from the back seat to the wheel in increasing numbers each year, Mr. Cobb attributes the revolutionizing of automobile styles and improvements largely to the feminine demands for comfort and luxury. This influence, according to Mr. Cobb, has definitely contributed to the development of general Motors' automobiles which include Cadillac, LaSalle, Buick, Oldsmobile, Pontiac and Chevrolet.

REFINERY USE OF CRUDE REACHES RECORD FIGURE

Refiners of the United States established a new record for charges of crude oil to stills last week, going above 3,000,000 barrels daily for the first time in the history of the industry. This was disclosed by the weekly report of the American Petroleum Institute, out Tuesday, and covering the week ended last Saturday. The charges to stills showed a daily average of 3,050,000 barrels, up 75,000 barrels from 2,975,000 barrels—the previous record attained two separate times this year.

Despite the record rate of manufacture, the record 1936 demand was sufficient to cause a draft on motor fuel stocks reported by the refiners giving stock changes—about 95 per cent of the industry. Stocks were drawn upon for about 500,000 barrels of motor fuel.

Domestic production dropped materially, with Oklahoma and California furnishing the principal declines. Imports of all oils averaged 148,571 barrels compared with 128,571 for the previous week.

'NEVER SEEN BOYS STRIVE HARDER,' COACH CHRISTIAN REFLECTS ON HIS WOLVES

Mentor Realizes, However, That Long Hours Of Effort Are Ahead If Club Builds Into Winning Machine

"I have never seen a bunch of boys work harder in the sincere effort to build a football club of which they and the school they represent might manifest pride," Jack Christian, Wolf mentor, told The Record Monday morning. "The Wolves are concerned about the responsibility they have assumed for the next conference schedule and should reflect that ambition creditably later on the field."

Christian realizes, however, that much is to be done in the way of strengthening weak places in all sections of his machine if the Wolves of 1936 are to find their way out of the tagging position occupied during the past few years. His men are light and many of them untrained in the technique of football. Lettermen returning from last year's ranks are few and one of the most promising men listed on that roster—Red Lee—is out of uniform for good. The elusive fullback who starred for the Wolves in 1935 is suffering from an old head injury.

Christian is looking to opening of school Monday, September 14, when recruits for his charges are expected. The team should look better, due to a larger aggregation of boys from which to build his first string.

Support of the Wolves at home should be more evident during the weeks that are to follow as scheduled conference games in the district open, fans have suggested. Enthusiasm from that source would assure a stronger club and the subsequent better sports spirit among the student body.

STRANGE BEANS GROWN ON FARM NEAR LORAIN

A large bean produced on prolific, bushy stalks, was grown by C. W. Palmer of near Lorain this summer. Palmer brought one of the bean stalks to this office Saturday. Seed for the plant was given Palmer by a neighbor.

"The best that I can find out about the plant is that it was found in ruins of an old Indian village in New Mexico," Palmer said. "The beans were not retarded by the severe hot, dry weather of the recent past and in event they are good for human or livestock consumption, I believe I have found something worth while in this country."

HIGHWAY PROJECTS TO BE DELAYED FURTHER, RANKING OFFICIALS AT AUSTIN NOTE

Two Months Will Pass Before Work On Federal Aid Roads Start, Commission Member Announces

Further delay in even tentative allocation of funds for financing construction of extension to Highway 101, extending from Colorado southeast to Robert Lee, is seen in announcement out of Austin Tuesday by ranking officials of the State Highway Commission. Federal money, already appropriated for building and improving highways in the State, later may or may not be diverted to the local project. However, county and city officials here, at Snyder and in Robert Lee continue to express belief the route will be improved.

Following is excerpt from press report out of Austin and carried in papers circulated here Wednesday morning:

John Wood, member of the State Highway Commission, said Monday it will be late October or early November before the first lettings can be made out of the new Federal highway allotment but that the department engineers are striving to complete the details as soon as possible.

Gibb Gilchrist, State highway engineer, and his aides are making personal inspections before recommending the final plans for highway construction under the new program. Wood said, after which the commission will pass on it. Once approved by the commission the program will be transmitted to the Federal Bureau district offices at Fort Worth and after its approval the schedule must go to Washington for an O.K. Then the projects must be listed and advertised for letting.

Texas was allotted $7,700,000 of Federal highway funds which it must match, making the total $15,400,000. This money is to be placed under contract during the next twelve months.

RUSSIAN OFFICIAL BUYS SHEEP AND GOAT HERDS

These Mitchell County 'Amateurs'

A bass singer who doesn't sing in the bathroom and a diminutive tap dancer who plays the harmonica by ear walked off with the honors at the chamber of commerce amateur hour at Ruddick park Friday night.

Quite unashamedly "thrilled to death" over winning first place was 5-year-old Vivian Giddens, only child of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Giddens. . . . And Vivian is just that natural about everything that comes along in her young life. . . .

For instance, her mother recently let Vivian's straight brown bob grow out to get a permanent—which would have been the delight of most little girls' hearts. . . . But not Vivian's. . . . She didn't want a permanent, she didn't give a hoot about curly hair—so the hair was again cut in a straight, banged bob, and will probably stay that way.

Vivian was born here on September 7, six years ago. . . . Her father, known best as "Abilene" Giddens, is one of her favorite people and has a hard time going places without her when he's off from work. . . . Her mother was Offie Pate before she married Mr. Giddens. . . . "Hank" Bryant and Miss Ruby Wyatt are two of Vivian's favorite "out of the family" grown-ups. . . .

Her particular bright star in the dancing field, tho, is Nina Katherine Junney, whose every dancing move in practice or on a stage is closely watched and then religiously practiced later by Vivian. . . .

Although she has never had a music lesson, Vivian has been making tunes on the harmonica ever since she was three years old, playing entirely by ear. She likes her harmonica and paper dolls, but cares little for real dolls. . . . Likes to play equally well with little boys or little girls. . . . Was displaying a tremendous interest in a newly-discovered horned toad the morning this reporter called. . . . Is "crazy" about Sunday school. . . .

With her prize money she planned to buy a bandeau to keep her hair back. . . . She has, incidentally, about the cutest legs in town. . . .

As if refraining from singing in the bathroom doesn't make him unusual enough, Everett Stagner, whose bass rendition of "Old Folks at Home" won second place in Friday night's competition, goes even farther than that and doesn't sing anywhere around the house. . . .

Nevertheless, Everett has been singing all his life and loves it. . . . Back before and about the time of his marriage to Naomi Rogers some 13 years ago, when he was working at the Ford agency, he was part of the once well-known "Ford" quartet that made all of the singing conventions and other gatherings in this part of the country for about four years. . . . Other members of the quartet were Claude Womack, Ivy Lane, and Ed Peach. . . .

One summer he sang with the "Harmonizers" quartet over radio stations WFAA and KRLD in Dallas. . . . He got a place on the quartet by winning an audition in which scores of singers from all over the state took part. . . .

Reared in Comanche, Everett came to Mitchell county with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Stagner, about 12 years ago. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Stagner lived here until moving to Los Angeles, California, about a year and a half ago. . . . For the past five years Everett has been employed at the Col-Tex refinery. . . .

Bridge, which he takes seriously, and hunting and fishing are his favorite pastimes. . . . Reading doesn't appeal to him much. . . . He never sings except when asked to—which is, according to many, a major virtue entirely lacking in most singers. . . .

Meals for hungry school kids . . . kids who rush in, appetites ravenous, in a hurry to eat and get away again! You'll find plenty of healthful, appealing foods here at Piggly Wiggly, many of them "ready-to-serve"—all of them economically priced.

Retail Trade Brisk, Dun & Bradstreet Indicates In Report

New Merchandise Greatly In Demand, With Wholesalers Working Overtime

Retail trade continues its upward climb throughout the country, with new merchandise greatly in demand, according to the weekly statement of Dun & Bradstreet. The weekly review of trade and business, summarized, is as follows: Wholesale markets were quieter, following a buying wave that persisted nearly a month, but the volume was only slightly under the best for the season. Some of the leading industrial indices were carried to new highs by the advancing trend, including electric power production. Steel output was higher than in the same period a year ago for the 29th consecutive week, the report said. Freight carloadings continued ahead of last year's number for the 20th straight time. "Recovering from the lag of the two weeks preceding," the review stated, "retail demand turned stronger. Displays of fresh fall merchandise were the center of interest, except in cities where the continued hot weather cleared the remnants of summer goods. "The requirements of school and college students helped to swell the sales total for the week, but most of the enlarged volume was built by August promotional events. Furniture, floor coverings, house furnishings and other lines moved out more rapidly, and further gains were reported in sales of fur garments. Cloth coats, dresses, hosiery, millinery and shoes were more sought than a week earlier."

She was at the wheel when the wreck occurred and was thrown from the car, suffering a fractured jaw, a fractured elbow, and a seriously wrenched back. Poll On Candidates For President Will Be Held By Digest

Ballots Being Received Here From Literary Digest; Ten Million Into The Mails

Ballots for another poll on presidential nominees have gone into the mails addressed to voters at Colorado and other communities of this section, according to information received here from publishers of the magazine. Ten million of the ballots, printed on return post cards, are being distributed throughout the country.

Returns from Texas in this 1936 referendum will be tallied as a unit so they may be compared with the voting in other states, it is announced.

The voting of the post card ballots is secret as no signature or other identification is required and the return postage is paid by magazine. To guard against tampering and counterfeiting a specially manufactured cardboard is used for printing the ballot, according to the sponsors of the poll, and all spurious votes can be detected immediately and destroyed.

The ballot asks the voter's choice of the seven officially nominated candidates and for whom he or she voted in the 1932 election to reveal the general drift from one party to another.

This is announced as the fourth quadrennial national presidential poll conducted by The Literary Digest. The three previous polls have forecast the presidential winner with "uncanny accuracy."

Ballots are reported being mailed from the magazine's headquarters in New York at the rate of over 350,000 per day, and will continue until every section of the country has been sent its proportionate share of the total being mailed.

Publication of the first tabulated returns is anticipated about September 5.

QUESTIONS THAT ARE ASKED ABOUT BANKING
"Why don't banks pay interest on checking accounts?"
MOST of the banks of the country (14,173 which are members of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation) are prohibited by law or government regulation from paying interest on "demand deposits." Checking accounts are, of course, demand deposits, for they may be withdrawn at any time by the depositor.
It is now generally recognized that the payment of interest on demand deposits is not sound banking practice. A bank must be prepared at all times to pay out these funds on demand. Consequently, the bank cannot make full use of this money because it does not know when the depositor may want to withdraw it.
A checking account is primarily for the convenience of customers for keeping their money and writing checks. For those who wish to receive interest their funds can be placed in interest-bearing time deposits.
