Her fingers flying over the keys to produce a staccato of sound such as was never heard in Colorado before, the fastest woman typist of the world was presented in an Underwood typewriter demonstration before the Colorado High school student body in assembly Wednesday morning.

Life In Shanghai, China, Makes Garrard Hargrove The 'Victim' Of An Interview

When I phoned Garrard Hargrove, who is newly home from Shanghai, China, on his vacation, and asked for an interview on living and doing business in Shanghai he protested politely that he didn't "know anything that people would be very interested in." Nevertheless, I armed myself with a notebook full of questions and set out to see him.

I found him on the porch at the home of his mother, Mrs. R. F. Hargrove, enjoying the still and unreasonably warm of the afternoon. A large man, well-groomed and darkly handsome. My first question—lifted from my notebook, of course—was about his business, whether it was in the "American concession" or not.

The prompt answer was that there is no American concession in Shanghai, and hasn't been since 1863. And then it only lasted three weeks. There are a French concession, the Chinese district, and the International settlement, shared by England and America but really ruled by the British.

It's in this settlement that Mr. Hargrove operates his cafe. He went into business there in 1933 when he joined the United States Navy reserves after nearly twenty years active navy service. He isn't yet on the "retired" list but draws what is known as "retainer's pay." He can be recalled into active navy service on 24 hours notice at any time, and the lives outside the continental limits of the United States on a "furlough" which must be renewed annually. In 10 more years he will be "retired."

Asked why he chose Shanghai for his home and business he replied:

"Because I could make a living there. In 1933 a lot of people weren't making livings in other parts of the world. I was afraid I might be one of them."

"Do you like living in Shanghai?" He hesitated a moment, then said, "Well, frankly, no. But I'll live there as long as I can make a living."

He was familiar with Shanghai before he began his residence there in 1933. Since 1920 he had been stationed on ships which were in and out of Shanghai the greater part of each year. He owned an interest in the cafe which is his business some time before settling there.

"Did you buy out your partner?" I asked.

He smiled. "No—I married her." Mrs. Hargrove remained in China to care for the business, while he is in the states.

There are about 160 army and navy men living in Shanghai's International settlement under the same arrangements as Mr. Hargrove, he says. Population of the International settlement is about 1,500,000 persons, including all nationalities with English and American predominating. Shanghai's total population is about 3,500,000.

The Chinese flock into the International settlement to live under police protection, Mr. Hargrove says. But the lines between the races are even more sharply drawn there than here. Rarely ever does a Chinaman come into Mr. Hargrove's cafe to be served. Occasionally a well-dressed, well-dressed Chinaman does come in. The average Chinese, however, has neither the money nor the desire for American food.

Nearly all Mr. Hargrove's business dealings are with Chinese merchants. Pure food laws in the International settlement are very strictly enforced. Out in Shanghai proper, however, you are as likely to get carved cat as you are beef roast—maybe more so.

The person, Chinese or otherwise, who goes about his business and keeps his "mouth shut" has little to fear from violence in the frequent outbreaks that newspapers make into "big news," Mr. Hargrove declares. He says that even in 1932 when Japan and China were warring and the International settlement was declared by newspapers to be in grave danger he made a trip from his ship—he was still in service then—to his business without undue danger.

"Do the Chinese hold life as cheaply as war and famine stories indicate?" the interviewer asked.

"No, I don't believe they do. Of course, the Chinese of Shanghai and other coastal cities are entirely different from the Chinese of the interior, where the famines kill so many. There's absolutely nothing the Chinese can do about famines, so they have to be accepted."

"As for Chinese cruelty—well, the Chinese are no less civilized in that way than the Spaniards have been recently. When civil wars and uprisings come, they are merciful, but so are other nations that we've always considered above such things, it seems."

An indignant and nearly explosive "No!" was the answer to the question: "Do they still throw unwanted girl babies in the river?"

He went on to explain, however, that parents of the poor class often do sell their children cheaply to convents and other institutions, but they do it more to spare the children's well-being than to...

One day when he was working in Hargrove and a girl was found in which there was a... looking bundle. Investigation revealed that a new-born girl baby, still alive, was in the bundle. He called the police immediately. He doesn't know the child's fate, but ventures a guess that it was received by some Catholic post.

The Catholics, he says, are alert to receive all such abandoned Chinese children and bring them up to be good Chinese Catholics. At maturity they are married off to other Chinese Catholics, and thus a Chinese-Catholic family is started.

"What about the progress being made by Christianity in China?" "I'd say that the Catholic church is advancing more rapidly than any other in China. Catholicism, you know, appeals to the uneducated masses through its ritualism. Then, too, the Catholics have strong allies in the children which they have reared and educated."

The Chinese have no national spirit, no patriotism, no sense of unity, Mr. Hargrove says. They unite in only one thing—a fear and hatred of the Japanese. The average Chinaman cares nothing for politics or wars as long as he and his family are intact and unharmed and as long as he can go on with his business. Northern China is virtually Japanese-ruled. Southern China's central government is headed by General Kai-Shek.

Shanghai's climate is similar in type to ours, the summers being a little warmer, the winters a little more penetrating because of humidity. Silk is worn almost entirely, being cheaper and more easily obtained than any other fabric.

Diversion which Mr. Hargrove enjoys in Shanghai are much the same as the ones he would enjoy here. On his rare hours off-duty from the cafe he goes to the American Legion post, or to the American club, or to a movie. The movies shown there are nearly all American and are as new, for the most part, as those shown in Colorado.

For an ideal week-end vacation trip Mr. Hargrove would either go northward into China's Shantung province or across by boat to Japan and up into its beautiful mountain resorts.

The daily newspapers are all printed in English and all have Chinese money mingled with foreign money back of them. The leading ones are the China Press and the North China Daily News. Daily newspapers from the states would be about three weeks old by the time they reached Mr. Hargrove. His favorite magazine, Time, is always that old. The only American newspaper he reads is the Colorado Record (page the advertising department).

Motoring is definitely not among the favorite diversions in China.

"I wouldn't drive a car in Shanghai for any amount of money," Mr. Hargrove declared. He pointed out that Shanghai alone has around 60,000 rickshaws and innumerable wheelbarrows nearly as large as trucks. Besides, there are no roads fit for car travel outside of Shanghai's limits.

There's another hazard, a rather laughable one in the telling but serious enough in actuality. Mr. Hargrove assures you. It grows out of the superstitious Chinaman's belief that if he can get a thick door or a quickly moving object between him and the "evil spirit" that pursues him he'll lose his trouble and bad luck.

So you'll likely be driving along a Shanghai street and see a brooding Chinaman perched on the curb, ready to make a quick leap in front of you car to get it between him and his troublesome spirit. A flying Chinaman brushing your front fenders ever so often will eventually lead to the jitters in the most iron-nerved driver.

"Was a burning spirit of patriotism back in early war days that started Mr. Hargrove on his navy career. He was working on the Spade ranch when he and Walter Jackson decided to join the army. Unable to get in the army while their patriotism was at white heat, they joined the navy. Mr. Hargrove remained there when the war was over.

"Do you ever get homesick for life on the sea?" the interviewer, who has read a book or two, asked.

"When I feel the beginning of such a longing I recall those watches from midnight until 4 a.m." Mr. Hargrove laughingly replied, "and the longing is gone—like that."

Mr. Hargrove is a Mitchell county product and is remembered especially well by Spade and Colorado people. He plans to remain in the states until about the first of the year.

A lot of unanswered questions were still in my little notebook and on my mind when 5 o'clock drew near. Reluctantly I marked them out and took my leave of Mr. Hargrove and his mother so I could get back to the office in time to quit for the day.

PREPARE NOW for WINTER DRIVING

Police records show that most accidents caused from skidding occur during the fall and winter months. Cold rains and snow make streets slippery and dangerous. Replace your worn tires now with new Seiberling Vapor Cured tires which have lots of safe, deep anti-skid tread that will protect you all winter long. Remember the patented Seiberling Vapor Cure process produces a tire with no weak spots. Drive in and let us show you what we mean.

PICKED UP ALONG THE NEWS PATH

The only comment to be made on this paragraph in "From the Top of the Hill" column of the Sweetwater Daily Reporter late last week seems to be "And so he did!" ... "Coach Dalton Hill of Roscoe said before leaving with his Powboys for a conference game at Colorado that he was going to turn his boys loose and see what they could do. The genial coach has been nursing the injured boys along all the season but has decided that if they are not well now they never will be."

The confession that their "five-country" party of last Saturday has been planned since before Mrs. Geo. Mahon made her trip to the orient last fall was made by Mrs. Mahon and Mrs. C. C. Thompson this week.

That explains why they were equipped with the necessary Hawaiian, Chinese, Japanese, Mexican, and Filipino articles for giving such a unique and—so we hear—delightful party.

Seeing Bob May driving his horse and that two-wheel "sukly" vehicle around town always reminds me of Will Rogers in the picture where his horse would only run when the crowd sang "Ta-ra-ah-boom-de-a" or something like that.

Since a newspaper is "only human" after all, it's more or less inevitable that something will be overlooked each week. We're always sorry . . . But it's been a long time since we have been as sorry about anything as we were about the absence of a paragraph about A. E. Maddin's illness in last week's Record . . . We made the usual rounds, phoned the usual people but it seems everybody thought surely we knew about Mr. Maddin and so made no mention of his illness to us . . . He's one of our favorite people—for that matter, he's a favorite of most Coloradans . . . Our sincere apologies to the Maddin family, and to the Record readers for failing to give them what was one of the most important news items of the week . . .

After the rush and inconvenience of issuing five marriage licenses between closing time and midnight Saturday, County Clerk James Herrington says that he is considering the advisability of carrying his marriage license book around with him . . .

Maybe I'm slow and somewhat behind the times but I saw what I believe to be a new ring on the engagement finger of a certain Colorado girl the other day . . . Of course, rings on engagement fingers don't mean as much as they once did . . . But I'm old-timey enough to "think something" when the wearer seems to have a very special "steady fellow."

Friends of Miss Lenorah Cook and Mr. Howard McLaughlin of the Junior High school faculty can learn from them what "type lice" are . . . After holding "open house" for over 100 seventh graders Wednesday afternoon the Record force got quite a laugh out of showing these two something the children didn't get to see—namely the aforementioned "type lice" . . . This writer remembers well her introduction to these "mysterious" animals or insects or what have you . . . We all have to take our turn at being the goat . . .

CRAIG PORTER WINNER OF MAGIC KEY PRIZE

A machine which plays phonograph records through a radio set was the prize which Craig Porter of Colorado received this week for his 25-word entry in a Magic Voice contest sponsored by the R. C. A. Victor Company through its dealers.

The record playing mechanism was presented to Craig by Jack Mayes of the Colorado Drug Company, local dealer.

The prizes in the contest, which is still running, are being awarded for the best twenty-five word statement on the subject "Why I like the Magic Voice Radio." It is a new acoustical development from the R. C. A. Victor laboratories which makes possible remarkably natural radio reproduction. Annoying cabinet resonance and boominess are eliminated by means of a series of organ-like pipes which control and direct the back waves of sound coming from the rear of the loudspeaker.

The R. C. A. Magic Key program is heard every Sunday at 1 p.m., presenting the world's greatest artists.

This Craig's second major award in a contest. When only six months old he won a first prize of $50 in a cross-word puzzle contest conducted by the Dallas News.

WILL ATTEND OES CONVENTION

Mrs. M. L. Kirschbaum, worthy matron of the local chapter of the Eastern Star, and Mrs. J. T. Howell, secretary, plan to attend the grand chapter of the Eastern Star of Texas in Mineral Wells next week.

Those present were Mesdames J. M. Hahn, Dewey Phillips, Ray Knight, Lee Coleman, S. Self, J. M. Jones, Clyde McCreary, T. L. McKinney, Jack Gullett, and Mitchell; Miss Roselle McKinney and Miss Gunter. The next meeting will be November 5 with Mrs. Jack Gullett. Demonstrations will be on "Cheese in Dishes."

SCHOOLS OF COUNTY WILL SEEK $90,000 ON BUDGET FOR ANOTHER FISCAL YEAR

Plans For Advancing Rural Education Outlined Friday By Roy Davis Coles, County School Superintendent

The $80,000 in State and county funds allocated to students attending the public schools in Mitchell county during the past fiscal year is to be boosted to $90,000, in event budget for financing these institutions as mapped by school authorities is accepted at Austin.

Roy Davis Coles, county school superintendent, told members of the Lions Club Friday that he felt that such an advance in finances would be authorized, due to material progress attending practically every one of the schools, along with a commendable record of meeting conditions as stipulated by the State department at Austin.

The $80,000 paid into educational channels in Mitchell county last year was distributed as follows:

Colorado received $29,000 in aid appropriations and $3,300 on tuition account, making a total of $32,300.

Into treasury of Lorraine high school was paid the sum of $7,500, $6,000 of which was for state aid and $1,500 for tuition.

Westbrook received $5,000 in this State distribution, $4,000 of which was authorized as aid and $1,000 as tuition.

Belief that building permits in Midland will approach $500,000 for the year is being advanced there after a survey showed that $200,000 in these projects was then under way. Construction of new properties in the city has been brisk for several months.

THIRTY PERSONS CALLED INTO RECORDER'S COURT

A total of thirty persons, charged with the offense of intoxication and violating traffic laws, were arraigned before City recorder John Ford at Sweetwater during Saturday and Monday. Twenty of the cases were disposed of Monday morning, with fines ranging from $2 to $14 collected.

FFA CHAPTER CONSIDERS PROGRAM FOR THE YEAR

October meeting of the FFA chapter was held Tuesday night at the high school auditorium. The boys heard reports covering activities of the past year, with stress being given objectives that had contributed to success of the chapter. Detailed plan for work during the new year was considered.

Benevolences Of American Red Cross Are Recited By Chairman Mitchell Chapter

By J. H. Greene, County Chairman
Another year has passed into history for the American Red Cross. It has been a year of great activities and diversified work. The field of operations covered every state in the union. Distresses were numerous. The Red Cross was called upon for help from the far corners of the nation. The twelve months just passed were filled with activities that will go down in history and leave their impressions on America and Americans insofar as the Red Cross is concerned.

What of the usefulness to mankind of the co-ordinated efforts of our individual tasks, one asks, and, in planning through the statistics, we easily find the answer:

The Red Cross disaster service reached the lives of more than 550,000 persons in a helpful way during the past year. Those who were helped included farmers, mill workers, office workers, merchants, teachers, bakers, carpenters, and persons from all the other professions and trades of the United States. It made life more secure for them and made them happier, and, perhaps, more helpful.

Disaster struck with a heavy hand during our fiscal year. Hurricanes swept the coast lines, cyclones the interiors, and floods the lowlands. Urgent appeals for assistance came to the Washington headquarters of the Red Cross by wireless, by phone and by letter, to each of which appeal there was rushed aid throughout the nations of the earth from headquarters. Where death, disease and actual want appeared Red Cross nurses were flown by airplane into isolated communities with food, medicine and emergency supplies. Trains and truckloads of necessities followed immediately.

The past year has demonstrated in a striking way throughout the nation the faith of the American people and their confidence in the Red Cross is manifested by the fact that the first call of the year for emergency relief was three million dollars, which was oversubscribed.

"How could we pull through without the help of the Red Cross nurses?" is a typical statement of many that are filed away at headquarters. There are 673 trained Red Cross nurses constantly on the job.

While America has long since accepted the Red Cross as the outstanding emergency organization during war, they are also now using this great organization as the greatest agency on earth to carry on during peace time, teaching safety, leading in safety drives, teaching the people to conserve life and limb in the home, on the farm, etc. It is also outstanding now because of the establishment of first aid stations along each of the highways in America to render service to those who are wounded, etc.

The Junior Red Cross, which is being taught in all of the schools in our country, is coming to be a powerful influence.

There is no limit to what could be mentioned in this article by the Red Cross as being beneficial to our people, but so far the national organization only, has been dealt with.

We now come down to Mitchell county. During the past twelve months the Mitchell County Chapter of the American Red Cross received from our part of the Red Cross Roll

Call for 1935 $340.85, from disaster appeals $341.06. $341.06 disbursed to the National Headquarters for disaster relief of which $131.06 went to the New England States and $210.00 to the San Angelo flood sufferers; $121.72 was spent locally, including the following:

Groceries for 105 people who were sick and could not secure them otherwise; dry goods for 30 people including several layettes; medicine for 45 people; 4 pairs of glasses bought for people not coming within the classification of other relief agencies; 30 transients assisted; fuel for 10 people; hospitalization for one person; garden seed for 16 families; chapter supplies; school supplies for 4 families; 1 oil stove for a sick person; 12 housewives sent to soldier boys; one wheel chair bought for a crippled lady; clothing for veterans; 12 Christmas baskets; requisite clothing purchased for 6 people preparatory to entering Carlsbad Sanatorium.

Thus, it can be seen that the local activities of the Mitchell County Chapter of the American Red Cross are really worth while. No claim has ever been made to our Chapter without receiving due consideration.

Rev. P. D. O'Brien is Chairman of Home Service, Mrs. J. G. Merritt, Chairman of Volunteer Service. T. W. Stonerod, Jr., is Treasurer. All records are open at all times for inspection. The Mitchell County Chapter of the American Red Cross never advertises the name of the person receiving the benefits. In addition to the above, first aid training is given by the Mitchell County chapter.

This great service is only made possible through the generous response of our citizenship, to the annual roll call appeals.

R. H. Barber, general chairman, and Dr. W. B. May, assistant general chairman, have worked out a strong organization to give every adult in Mitchell county an opportunity to join the 1936 Roll Call and they confidently expect this Roll Call to exceed the quota on November 12.

Roy Davis Coles is charged with the responsibility of organizing such schoolroom in Mitchell county into a unit of the Junior Red Cross. A complete list of the captains of the county for all purposes save residential solicitation is given as follows:

Earl Gunn, J. E. Watson, Mrs. J. A. Sadler, Mrs. Gertrude Looney, W. W. Whipkey, R. H. Barber, Miss Lillian Pond, B. L. Templeton, Bob Fee, Lee Carter, A. C. The above captains have selected their own help and the committees are being organized preparatory to making the drive on November 12.

Three Busses To Transport Student Fans To Rotan On Friday Afternoon; Locals Determined To Win

The Colorado schools are backing the Wolves 100 per cent in conference game with the Rotan Yellow Hammers, slated at Rotan Friday night. Not less than 150 students, traveling in three busses, will journey from here to the Fisher county town for the contest.

The band and pep squad are to follow Jack Christian and his Wolves to Rotan, along with several score of adult fans, according to information originating at high school Wednesday after another of those enthusiastic rallies had been held in the auditorium. Several business and professional men joined with students and faculty members in routing display of loyalty for the home town club.

This is to be the third Class B official game for the Wolves. The Yellow Hammers have won two contests and lost one. They held the Snyder Tigers to a 12-7 lead and overwhelmed Merkel 33 to 6. The Rotan boys beat Lamesa 6-0. The kick-off is set for 7:45.

Business men attending the rally are advancing the promise that Colorado will win the Yellow Hammer-Wolf bout. One of these ardent fans, the Rev. Dick O'Brien, went further and offered the proposition that "Colorado has lost her last battle in this season's schedule of playing."

Downtown fans are working to arouse strong interest in the crucial game, to extent of organizing a motor caravan to follow the Wolves to Rotan. Principal C. A. Wilkins stated Tuesday morning that hour for departure had not been determined. Citizens desiring to furnish cars for the trip should contact either Wilkins or Jim Greene at the chamber of commerce.

BOY WHO ONCE LIVED AT COLORADO LED PLOWBOYS IN DECISIVE WOLF ROUT

Wallace Gray, Back Scored Three Times, Climaxing His Performance In An 80 Yard Return Kick-Off

Wallace Gray, Plowboy back, who during his early years lived at Colorado, led the Roscoe Plowboys in a decisive rout of the Wolves in conference game at Cantrill Field Friday night. The fleet, pivotal runner accounted for three touchdowns by his team, climaxing his spectacular night's performance with an 80-yard runback of the third quarter Colorado kick-off.

The invaders met and defeated the hardest playing Wolf club up to that time seen at Cantrill Field this season, but the visitors displayed their 1935 district championship power through most of the contest and plowed through the Wolves to ring up a 25-0 victory to open defense of their 6-B title.

It was a closer battle, however, than the scoreboard indicates. Colorado held the visitors to one touchdown during the first period. Much of the battle was fought in and near center field. Both elevens held on downs through all four periods, necessitating an unbroken reel of punts. Colorado accounted for seven first downs to eight by the visitors.

The Roscoe defeat marked second conference game to be lost by the Wolves. A few weeks before the Lorraine Bulldogs emerged victors from initial 6-B official contest for both elevens.

Juries Have Never Agreed To Demands That Such Be Done, Paper Notes

The death penalty has never been assessed by a 32nd judicial district jury, in so far as the present area embraced is to be reckoned, the Sweetwater Daily Reporter for Sunday notes. The paper says: Many are asked, but none is granted!

Time after time, the death penalty has been asked in 32nd judicial district court.

Time after time, juries have come back into the court room without such a verdict. Never has the death penalty been assessed in this district.

While Big Spring was in this district, a jury there did assess the death penalty, though the decision was thrown out by a higher court.

The death penalty was asked here during the week in the murder case against Clarence Duncan. The jury found him guilty and gave him a 10-year penitentiary sentence.

State Paper Devotes Space To Story And Picture Of Mrs. C. P. Conaway

A name which is already familiar to practically all Mitchell countians was given state-wide publicity recently in an article which appeared in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram along with a two-column picture of its subject—Mrs. Mattie Killough (C. P.) Conaway.

The story follows:

From the comfort of a brick home here, Mrs. Mattie Killough Conaway manages the ranch interests she helped her husband acquire in years of pioneering.

For 10 years, since the death of Calvin Peery Conaway, she has been the boss of the Lazy K. He was born in Freestone county in 1856. They married when he was 25 and she not yet 20 and made their home in a two-room house near Hubbard, where the bride had been reared. After two of their nine children were born, they went to Comanche county. Because of the drought of 1886, they made only two crops in five years. They sold their home and moved westward again.

A covered wagon, carrying all their possessions, bore them and their five children to Mitchell county, where in 1891 Conaway began his 35 ventral years as a cattleman.

He acquired 12 sections of good ranch land, grassy and covered with mesquite and stocked it with hundreds of cattle. Also, he planted cotton, and he and his wife and their children worked, always putting their crop money back into cattle. He became known far and wide as "Uncle P." and Mrs. Conaway acquired fame as a housekeeper.

The World War and the drought of 1918 both hit the Lazy K heavily. Cattle prices went down, feed became scarce and high, grass died and there was no water. The Conaways decided to stick it out. They fed mesquite beans to the stock, bought feed, drove past the window near his sickbed. Upon his death, Mrs. Conaway calmly took charge and at 75 heads a family of seven daughters, two sons, 48 grandchildren and 12 great-grandchildren. Her daughters are Mmes. Bertha Barber, R. H. McIntosh and B. H. Meskimen, Abilene; Willie Byrd and Ada Hart, Mitchell county; Witt Hines, Stanton, and D. Kennedy, Houston. Her sons, Frank and Millard, live in Colorado. In the last 10 years Mrs. Conaway has kept from one to three grandchildren in high school every year.

New Teaching Methods In Coleman School Follow 'Wandering' Mind And Utilize It

A far cry from the not-so-old days when "readin', 'ritin', and 'rithmetic" were administered in straight—and often bitter—doses to tender little minds that strained away toward pets and playhouses and "playing grown-up" is the new unit method of teaching now being employed in the first and second grades of Colorado schools—and in all other grades, for that matter.

One thought strikes home as an interested person surveys the work being done in the grade divisions of the Coleman school as the new year's work gets well started. That thought is this: Teaching is not going "against the grain" any more. It is now going "with the grain"—and accomplishing wonders thereby.

Pets, for instance, are furnishing the basis for one unit of teaching in Mrs. Rees Jones' second grade division. Children love pets. Anything about a pet catches their little minds as straight "two times four" can never do. The teacher of yesterday sternly admonished the pet-dreaming youngster to "pay attention." The teacher of today follows the young mind to its pets, then takes those pets and around them and their habits works in a colorful study of arithmetic, language, writing, reading, art, and spelling.

In the words of Miss Pearl Traylor, Coleman school principal, the Coleman teachers are trying "to create actual life situations." She says, "We try to utilize materials that they occur in life and give the pupils an opportunity to originate and plan the activity as far as possible."

The first grade division taught by Mrs. Dene Headstream is basing its study on "Home and Family Life." These children are writing stories about the family and collecting family pictures. They play to work out a "living room." Miss Alice Blanks' room is collecting pictures and words for "My Family Book." Pupils of Miss Inez Butler are stressing the health side of living by having "inspections" every morning.

As has been noted above, Mrs. Rees Jones is using pets in her unit work. Interest in this unit was appreciably increased by the recent "mad dog" scare, which opened up even more avenues for presenting facts the children should know in an arresting manner. They have pet stories during language period and are to make animal bookends.

Miss Opal Davidson's second grade division has a boy "doctor" and a girl "nurse" to add zest to her health unit work. All her children have been weighed and told how much underweight or overweight they are. A chart of weights is being kept. Children who have good cleanliness records each week receive a star on Friday. Each "street" in the room has a health officer who inspects each "home" and "yard." The pupils have painted their health table and are making chairs for it.

A "farm unit" is being carried out in Miss Hattie Tankersley's second grade. The children discuss farm animals, farm products, and farm life in general. They are collecting farm pictures. This unit serves the two-fold purpose of teaching the child to appreciate the farmer and his work and of developing his power of observation.

VALUABLE POLITICAL INFORMATION

So few people understand anything about the monetary system of the Government. We know nothing about the gold standard. If it means no gold then we have been off the standard all these years. What is inflation, devaluation and stabilization? We are told our dollar is worth only 59¢. We have always been able to spend our dollars at 100%. Try here in Colorado to trade 59¢ in silver for a dollar greenback bill and see how many trades you can make. Why was all the gold called in and buried in the vaults in Washington and Kentucky, where it does nobody any good? Why can't the printing press give us enough money that every person over 60 years of age can get $200 per month?

Our friend F. E. Brooks down at Loraine sends in an article this week for this column which we print below without comment:

READ WHAT BROOKS SAYS

The charge that President Roosevelt has, or intends to repudiate a single dollar that the Government honestly owes any citizen, is pure unadulterated tommy-rot. This charge originated at the time the president began revamping the gold standard, a requirement made necessary because of the financial misconduct of the very guys who invented the repudiation fabrication—the only time you hear that accusation repeated now, is by some little parrot who has not yet learned that the big boys who started the charge in the first place are now repudiating the repudiation.

Let the Government offer a few hundred million dollars worth of bonds for sale, and we see the investing public clamoring over each other in an effort to get some of the bonds—the Government's credit is stronger now than it has ever been before; the truth of this statement is attested to by the fact that every time Government bonds are offered for sale, the investing public oversubscribes the offerings several times over—if the President has repudiated any cash obligations the Government owes its citizens, it seems like they love it, the way they clamor for the opportunity to become the victims of some more of the same kind of repudiation.

In March 1933, when President Roosevelt became the President of the United States, he found the country on the very brink of bankruptcy; yes, worse than bankruptcy—money was unobtainable to those who needed it; money had disappeared from circulation so extensively that there was not enough money in circulation to carry on the nation's commerce—property values had tumbled to ruinous prices, seeking money that could not be found; commodity prices had dropped to ruinous levels, seeking buyers; the would be buyers had no money with which to buy, therefore commercial sales were falling off so rapidly that business and industry were unable to retain their employees; for this reason millions of people were thrown out of employment; all down the line, etc., etc.

Here was a Nation with a super-abundance of every requirement essential to a super-abundant living for all of its people—the very essence of peace, happiness and tranquility; and yet, millions of good honest people on the brink of financial ruin, and starvation—thousands of homes were being lost to their deserving owners, hundreds of banks were being closed, thousands of business institutions were ruined, and many manufacturing concerns were closed.

What was the trouble? The leadership of the present day liberty leaguers, and fear raising calamity howlers—What was the remedy? The new deal—What is the new deal? Government of the people, by the people, and for the people—ROOSEVELT!

The destructive effects of the depression had grown to such propensities that private industry was unable to cope with the situation; the ruinous deflation of the value of private property, and commodities, in an effort to obtain money, was sufficient to show that private industry was unable to save itself; and the greater this sort of deflation, the weaker became the fundamental foundation of the Government—this was here, however, when there appeared from behind that famous Hoover "prosperity corner" a savior, (Hoover saw Roosevelt coming when he predicted prosperity just around the corner) his name is Roosevelt, a man with a big heart and a big brain, his heart beats in sympathy with the great masses of American people, he therefore allied all the powers of the Government with the people in their struggle against the depression, and with his brain he led the fight that has whipped hell out of the depression and saved the Nation.

Money was the vital need; the Government was the only agency that could supply the money in sufficient quantity to whip the country back on its feet, and even the Government had to revamp its money standards to be able to supply a sufficient amount of money.

When President Roosevelt took over the reign of Government he found that money was the absolute necessity to overcoming the nation's difficulties; there was just about one third enough money in circulation to carry on the nation's commerce—some of the leading financial statisticians said, at the time, that if every person having money on deposit in the nation's banks, had all at the same time demanded payment of the banks, in cash, that just one out of every three would have been paid, when all of the money would have been exhausted can you imagine the enormity of such a situation—no wonder so many good honest people were forced on the relief roles, with two out of every three persons penniless, and everybody demanding cash for living necessities—the ery was, cash, cash, when there was no cash—what a heavy load our President has been, and is, carrying—how can any man with a heart, strive to belittle his great efforts, or fail to overlook his few mistakes.

All Governments have something upon which is placed a value, to act as a stabilizer for every national currency, and to establish equilibrium for its international trade; our country uses gold for its chief metallic base, which serves as a vehicle to carry the national currency—the Government did not own enough gold bullion to authorize issuing sufficient currency to meet the nations needs in the existing emergency at the then standardized value of gold. Congress and the president could not make more gold; but, congress and the president could raise the value of gold, and this is just exactly what they did—wherefore off the gold standard. Going off the gold standard does not mean that gold was permanently abandoned as a base for money, it just means that the then existing standard value for gold had been abandoned.

(The following figures are not presented as accurate in detail but are sufficiently accurate as to substance, in presenting the thought conveyed.)

We will say that gold as a money vehicle was worth $20 an ounce—on that basis, the U. S. Treasury could print $20.00 in paper money for each ounce of gold bullion held in storage by the treasury and no more. Congress authorized the president to double the value of gold if necessary; by this act the president can raise the value of gold to say $40 an ounce, thus permitting the issue of $40 in circulating currency against each ounce of gold bullion held in storage in the treasury. This move permitted the president to circulate a new dollar bill to match every old one then in circulation on the same amount of gold bullion; this authority gave the President power to secure the needed money in his fight against the depression.

This gold move necessitated two things, namely: calling in all gold, so that the profits accruing through the increased value of gold would accrue to the credit of the Government; and, the suspension of gold payments, thereby temporarily invalidating the use of gold as a money value to citizens, so as to prevent any inclination on the part of citizens to withhold gold from the Government.

Most of the old outstanding Government bonds, were payable in gold. Some of these yelping Liberty Leaguers bought these gold bonds when gold was worth approximately $20 an ounce. The present value of gold is approximately $35 an ounce. Now some of these patriotic Liberty Leaguers wanted the President to pay them an ounce of present day gold for each of those old $20 bonds, thus allowing them the privilege of selling the same ounce of gold back to the Government at its new price which is approximately $35 an ounce, this would give them a $15 bonus on every one of those old $20 bonds they hold. Well, for several good reasons the President just wouldn't agree to do that—wherefore the charge that the President repudiated the Government obligations due its citizens. What do you think of the justification of the charge.

While Al Smith's Liberty Leaguers were jumping up and down popping their heels together, clapping their hands, shaking their hips, thanking their God for their supreme court, millions of hard pressed American citizens, reverently lifted their eyes heavenward and in all sincerity thanked their God for President Roosevelt.

H. F. BROOKS, Loraine, Texas.

Hatred against Roosevelt already has made Al Smith a sour old man, deserted by most of his former political following. Many Republicans and some of those who erroneously style themselves Jeffersonian Democrats are working themselves into a similar pathological lather. If this bitterness grows, it may take more than the sugar-coated pills of Dr. Hearst to restore lost vigor to the G.O.P.

A good Democrat cannot so far forget his high ideals of being faithful always to the traditions and patriotism of his party. No, I am convinced that all true blue Jefferson Democrats will with old-time enthusiasm vote the tried and true Jefferson Democratic ticket of Roosevelt and Garner.

Mr. McLemore of Elk City, Okla., sent Al Smith a pair of old shoes and says:

En route to New York City Sunday was a pair of old shoes to Alfred E. Smith who "took a walk" from his party and announced he would support Gov. Alf M. Landon.

McLemore's letter accompanying the gift said: "I just thought you might need them on the long walk that you are taking with Alf and Herbie. I have been able under Frankie and Johnnie to buy me a new pair."

If a person wants to know what the American Liberty League stands for, he can get a pretty correct understanding of its principles and purposes by reading the names of its officers, its national executive committee and its national advisory council. Jonett Shouse, the president, once rode a Democratic war horse, but was unseated by Roosevelt; John W. Davis, a defeated Democratic presidential nominee and a big corporation advisor; Alfred B. Smith, a Democratic nominee for president, and his Republican campaign manager, John Jacob Raskob, a badly defeated pair; Pierre S. DuPont, the profiteer in munitions during the World War; W. L. Clayton, the big cotton buyer and speculator, and so on.

Dr. Townsend is too wise not to know that outside of a plan to assist the needy-old age in a modest way, his plan is as untenable as the fabled Cat-Rat Ranch scheme, the tale of the Kilkenny Cats, or the doctrine of Metempsychosis. Baron Munchausen in all his flights of fictional imagination never concocted a more unreasonable story than Dr. Townsend did in his plan to get $200 a month from the government for nothing.

The difference between Dr. Townsend and Baron Munchausen is this: The Baron wrote and sold his stories as plain lies. He did not expect people to believe that there was a word of truth or reason in his extra line of B plus stuff, but he knew that people of a humorous turn of mind would delight in a first class, unreasonable fable and buy it.

On the other hand, Dr. Townsend knowing that his scheme is an unreasonable fake, yet, he knows that his gullibles want to believe that the government will give them $200 a month for nothing.

This column writer is an old time Democrat. At 76 I so far am hitting on all eight snark pluses. I am telling all my friends, if I have any, why I am pleased that I voted for the great leader now in the White House and that I mean to repeat by doing it over on November 3rd this year and I ask each and every one to join me. Not a Jeffersonian but a Brass Collar Democrat.

The whole American nation is awake and they are making up their minds to support Roosevelt because they see in him a man who can and will take care of the United States under any and all circumstances.

Jack Christian is a new naba. He has not read the Colorado Record for the past two weeks, he being too excited to settle down for awhile. Being the father of a new-born is said to be a very strenuous experience. It unsettles a man. His pain and alarm, we are told, are almost more than he can stand. The mother in such cases gets along better, we hear. She accepts the situation with a maternal philosophy as old as Eve, and her pride of accomplishment counterbalances whatever inconvenience she is put to. At any rate Christian's friends will be glad to know he has survived his ordeal and will be back to coaching the Wolves right away. Unless he should decide to turn this over to someone else and stay at home himself to help in the nursery. The advice of this column is that he get back to coaching. Fierce as the coaching drudgery may be, it is better to be chosen than the job of entertaining a baby.

DISCOVERY

Hidden talent discovered in Junior High this week! We have found a new person in our school who has great musical ability. He plays the piano and sings. Who would have thought that this athlete was keeping his talent hidden from his school. We have had demonstrations of his physical ability on the playground and now we're anxious for some music. You are probably wondering who this is. We will answer with one of his favorite expressions, "I'll just leave it up to you."

FIRE DRILLS BENEFIT YOU

Why do we have these fire drills, that marching, those talks about fire prevention? Sometimes we think they are unnecessary and we wonder why we have to do the same thing so many times. The answer to all of these questions is "To benefit you."

When you hear the fire alarm, there are certain things that you do from habit. You immediately leave the work that you are doing and march quickly and orderly out of the room. Certain pupils are responsible for closing all of the windows and doors.

After everyone has marched out of the building, we might find that there really was a fire in one of the rooms. Of course no one was hurt, and there was no confusion in marching out because the pupils were thoughtful. They did not shout and run in every direction as some thoughtless untrained pupils might have done.

Good habits in fire drills are often useful. They benefit you.

FATHER OF MRS. JACK SMITH BURIED IN FORT WORTH LAST MONDAY

Death which climaxed an illness of two months claimed E. W. Bounds, 69, stepfather of Mrs. Jack Smith of Colorado, in a Muskogee, Oklahoma, hospital early Sunday morning. He had gone to the hospital from his Fort Worth home for treatment on Thursday preceding his death. Burial was in Fort Worth Monday afternoon.

Mrs. Smith, who had returned from his bedside little more than a week before, and Mrs. Earl Powell of Stanton, his daughter, left here Sunday for Fort Worth. Mrs. Powell had returned Saturday night from a visit with him. Mr. Bounds suffered from a heart ailment.

A former mayor of Marlin, which was his home before he moved to Fort Worth 17 years ago, Mr. Bounds was a native of Arkansas. He came to Texas as a small child. In 1892 he was admitted to the practice of law at Hillsboro, later moving to Marlin.

He was active in patriotic organizations. He was a veteran of the Spanish-American War and was a son of a Confederate veteran. In 1932 he served as commander of K. M. Van Zandt Camp, Sons of Confederate Veterans.

Survivors are the widow, one daughter, Mrs. Earl Powell of Stanton; son, E. W. Bounds, Jr., Laredo; stepdaughters, Mrs. S. C. Ferguson, Hamlin, and Mrs. Jack Smith, Colorado; brothers, W. R. Bounds, a twin; T. M. and Oliver Bounds, all of Hubbard City.

Both Mrs. Bounds and his wife are known here through their frequent visits with Mrs. Jack Smith and with Mrs. Earl Powell before she moved to Stanton. Mrs. Bounds has also been ill for some time. Mrs. Smith is remaining with her for about a week. Mrs. Powell passed through here Wednesday returning to her Stanton ranch home.

Mother, I can't Study—My head hurts! As a usual thing, he is "such a regular guy." He comes home from school full of pep and energy. Of course you want him that way always. But are you protecting his health and safety during the few short months of winter when he must spend his evenings indoors? That uncomfortable "stuffy" feeling... dullness... lowered vitality... headache—these are some of nature's ways of complaining against improper heating and insufficient ventilation. These are the warning signals that America's Public Health Enemy Number One, the common cold germ, has found another fertile field in which to attack. For your health's sake and that of your loved ones do not wait for these definite signs of warning that the air indoors has become stale. Keep the air you breathe constantly purified with fresh oxygen through adequate ventilation in every room in the house. Without oxygen man cannot live. Without oxygen, fuel cannot burn. Therefore, if your family "huddles" in one or two rooms around an open flame heater during cold weather with the doors and windows tightly closed, you are violating all the rules of nature, good health and good heating. Sooner or later the occupants of the room and the burning fuel reduce the oxygen content to the point where the room air becomes stale. Without adequate ventilation and circulation the air indoors may become as foul and unhealthy as that of the tenement slums of large cities, even though your home may be the most beautiful in the neighborhood. A simple and easy method of providing a constant circulation of fresh air is found by opening a window in each room slightly. Connecting doors left open between adjoining rooms when the entire house is adequately heated provide a natural circulation of pure warm air from one room to another. Guard the health of your loved ones with adequate heat and proper ventilation of pure, warmed air in every room in the house. —LONE STAR GAS SYSTEM

Cotton Crop For Plains Territory Practically Made

Drouth And Cold Nights Did Considerable Damage, Is Report By Paper

Except for a few late bolls which are developing in some South Plains localities and in other portions of Northwest Texas, the crop is practically made in this area with little chance for an increase, the weekly summary of The Dallas News ended Friday shows.

Normal development of the plant was checked by a serious drought of two months, extending through July and August, and late rains coming in September failed to benefit the crop to any great extent as was hoped. Cold nights, bordering on frost, which followed the much-needed moisture were unfavorable for further improvement and cotton, on the whole, has remained at a standstill since with bolls increasing very little in size. Many of them are opening, although immature, and as a result the staple is shorter than last year in many sections.

The crop is opening rather slowly with slightly less than half of it open to date. With more favorable weather prevailing during the week, harvest made fairly good progress, although still behind last season, and about one fourth is gathered.

Presenting the phenomenal facts about GULFPRIDE
THE WORLD'S FINEST MOTOR OIL

THE facts on this page sound hard to believe. But here is the reason why GULFPRIDE—and only GULFPRIDE—can accomplish such results . . .

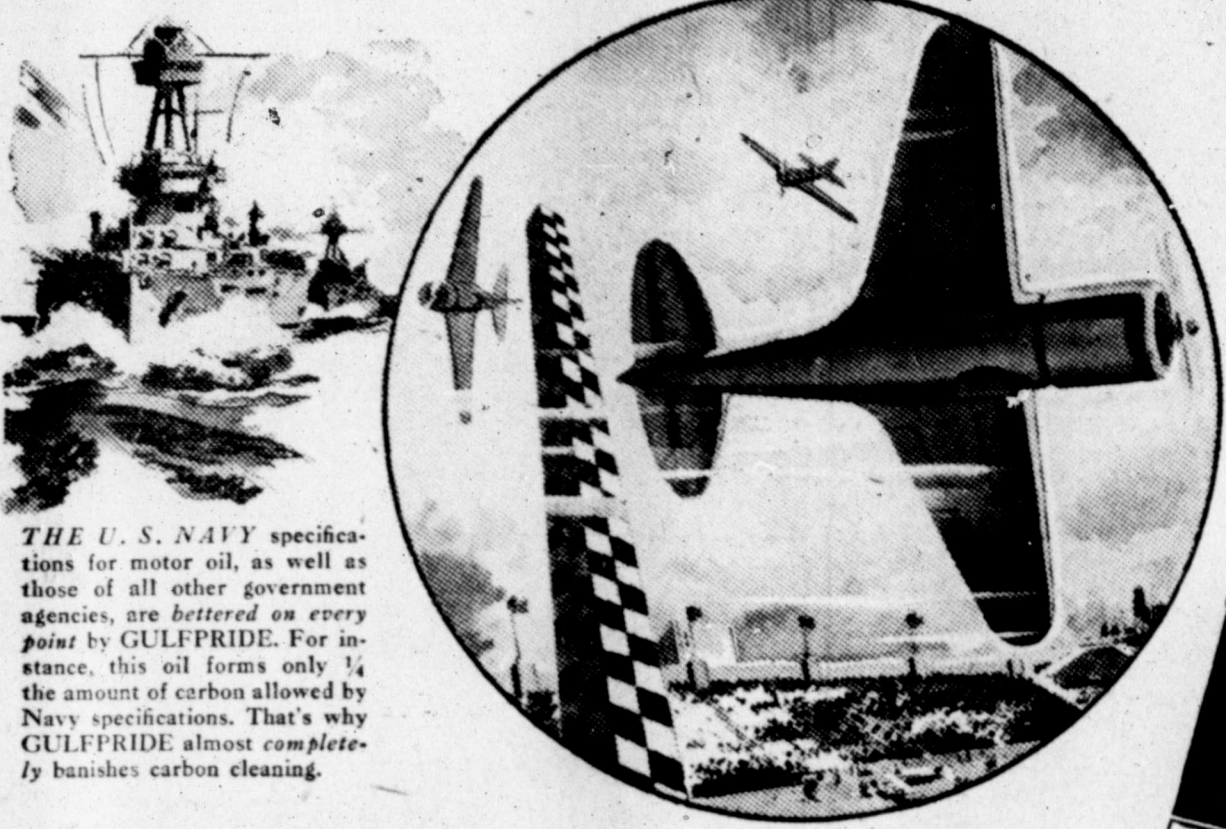

Gulf begins with selected Pennsylvania crude, refines it to a motor oil that equals the best—then further refines it by the exclusive Alchlor process.

Only GULFPRIDE is made by this process—result of 15 years' research—the same scientific research that has made every Gulf product a leader.

Read the facts below. Then drain your dirty summer-worn oil and refill with GULFPRIDE now. At all Gulf dealers.

AN AMAZING TEST. Bottle No. 1 shows a mixture of 6 famous Pennsylvania motor oils. Bottle No. 2 shows them after being put through Gulf's Alchlor process. Bottle No. 3 shows the 20% waste removed from these already highly-refined oils by Gulf's Alchlor process. This process starts where others stop! That's why GULFPRIDE is the world's finest motor oil.

THE U. S. NAVY specifications for motor oil, as well as those of all other government agencies, are bettered on every point by GULFPRIDE. For instance, this oil forms only 1/4 the amount of carbon allowed by Navy specifications. That's why GULFPRIDE almost completely banishes carbon cleaning.

TOPS IN THE AIR—8 out of the 11 winners in last year's National Air Races used GULFPRIDE OIL, the identical oil you can buy for your car at any Gulf dealer. This "aviator's oil" will take you farther before you need to add a quart than any oil you ever used!

Needs Of Industrial Equipment Will Force Business Higher, Author Writes

A sharp upswing in heavy industry years, and as a result they need cars and engines and stations and roadways all the more now.
In 1929, he says, the roads installed 750 new locomotives. In 1933, only one single locomotive was bought. Last year there were only thirty-four sales. As a result, railroad equipment, he states, is run down and must be replaced.
Citing another instance, Mr. Flynn says that if American factories started replacing their obsolete and obsolete machines the machine-tool industry alone would have to put 50,000 men to work. Over 336,000 major machine installations will be necessary during the next three years, he says, just to keep industry on its present level.
Among the many fields covered in Flynn's survey was the building industry, where he found a high degree of obsolescence.
"I found that there are between ten and eleven thousand condemned school buildings," he reported, "still housing during school hours at least a million children. So at least 10,000 school buildings are needed to replace these villainous old fire and death traps in which a million little lives are being menaced every day. There are more than 20,000 school buildings which were built before 1870."
"There are two million kids getting only part-time schooling in portable, inadequate or condemned buildings. Then too, there are about 2,000,000 more children of school age than there were in 1928, but there are about 12,000 fewer school buildings."
These 12,000 school buildings Flynn explains, have succumbed to the "bugs of obsolescence" which have also been eating away like termites in all sorts of other fields.
"Time and tide, change, taste, fashion, technology," he writes, "these are the bugs which eat away at our school buildings, our machines and the plants in which they are housed, at our homes, our hotels, our theaters, at our cities, at everything we possess. Men may have been out of work during the last five years, but the little bugs of obsolescence have been working three shifts a day."
"And the result is that forms and methods, processes, machines, roads, buildings, vast properties which were in the mode five years ago, are too crumbly, or too quaint or too costly to tolerate much longer. The exact extent of this no man knows, but one of these fine days it will dawn on us, and we to the gentleman who has not kept his eyes and ears open."
Flynn cites the condition in the railroad industry. In the five years preceding 1929, he says, the roads spent 800 million dollars a year on capital equipment, while in the past five years they spent only 200 million a year. Thus in the last five years the roads spent three billion dollars less than in the preceding five

{ QUESTIONS THAT ARE ASKED ABOUT BANKING }

"Do Banks coin money or issue currency?"

THIS question has been asked by some people who desire a clearer understanding of our money system in this country. Banks do not coin money. Money is coined by the Federal government mints under authority given to Congress by Section 8 of the Constitution which says: "The Congress shall have power to coin money and regulate the value thereof."

The banks of the country (except the 12 Federal Reserve Banks) do not issue currency. This function is exercised by the Treasury of the United States. The 12 Federal Reserve Banks issue Federal Reserve Notes. National banks formerly issued National Bank Notes but that authority was terminated by an Act of Congress.

This bank is glad to answer further questions about our American monetary system.
