After a brief wedding trip they will be at home in Colorado. The bridegroom-elect is associated with his father in the tailoring business. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. C. Cox. Both young people have been reared in Colorado and are graduates of Colorado High school.

MORNING COFFEE SATURDAY

A decorated Christmas tree stood in the main playing room. In the dining room the table was covered with lace over red and centered with a white Christmas tree and red candles. Gifts wrapped in red and green cellophane were arranged on the table around the white tree.

MAJORS-MACKAY SHOWER

Bright Yuletide decorations gave a seasonal atmosphere to the room where guests were received by Mrs. Mackay, Mrs. Majors, Miss Jones, Mrs. Ed Jones, Sr., Mrs. O. C. Cox and Miss June Cox. Registrations were in a book provided by Mrs. Willis Jones.

Miss Jones chose for the occasion an evening gown of black satin with a white satin waist. With it she wore pearls. All members of the house-party were in evening gowns.

The program included a solo by Mrs. Charles Moser with Mrs. E. L. Latham at the piano and the reading of a Christmas play by Miss Mary Neville Broadbuss.

A Santa Claus knocked at the door as the program closed, asking for Miss Jones. As he entered "Jingle Bells" was sung by Mrs. Moser, Mrs. Elizabeth Pidgeon, and Miss Crosthwaite with Miss Mary Frances Mackay at the piano. He led the honoree to the dining room, where the table was centered with a Christmas snow scene and a lighted Christmas tree, gifts being piled around the scene. Miss Martha Jane Majors toasted the bride. Miss Broadbuss presided in the bridegroom.

With "Following the Star" as the theme, Mrs. Majors paid a tribute to the honoree as the gifts were presented. She told how a "new bright star" appeared in the "Jones constellation" not so many years ago, and how a young man named Jack Cox spotted that star and claimed it for his own. She closed with the words: "And now, Sweet Gladys, we bring you gifts miscellaneous and very special wishes for you with Jack."

A collection of gifts in the kind of sandwiches, cookies, and minis were served with tea. Chevrolet Engine Given Attention As Cars Are Designed

Power Plant in New Models Best Ever Built, Engineers Are Advancing

In designing the power plant for the 1937 Chevrolet, the engineers instituted advances so extensive that the resultant engine, though adhering closely to time-proved Chevrolet principles, is new throughout, according to J. M. Crawford, chief engineer of the company.

It is new not only in performance and capabilities as recorded on paper after exhaustive engineering tests. Mr. Crawford declared, but also in actual operation on the road as determined by hundreds of thousands of miles of driving prior to its introduction a few weeks ago.

So far as its general type is concerned—valve arrangement and the number of cylinders—it is identical with the power plants whose high efficiency, smoothness and long life have earned Chevrolet world leadership seven years out of the past ten, the chief engineer said. It is valve-in-head six. But bore, stroke, displacement, compression, and horse power all have been changed, and the aggregate of these changes, and of general refinements throughout the engine, is reflected in exceptional performance under all conditions of weather, climate, and load, according to Mr. Crawford.

The bore has been increased from 3-5/16 to 3-3/4 inches, and the stroke reduced from 4 inches to 3-3/4 inches. The displacement is 216.5 cubic inches instead of 206.8 as formerly. Compression ratio has been raised from 6-to-1 to 6.25-to-1. The result, Mr. Crawford said, is greater power and torque at all engine speeds, and smoother operation throughout the range.

The number of crankshaft bearings has been increased from three to four, and the main bearing area has been stepped up eight per cent, the chief engineer revealed. The steel-babbitt bearings introduce an innovation, for they graduate in diameter from the front of the engine to the rear, 1/32 of an inch at a time. The front bearing is 2-11/16 inches in diameter and the rear bearing is 2-25/32 inches. The 68-pound crankshaft is counterbalanced, and equipped with harmonic balancer, lighter in weight and more sensitive than that previously used, Mr. Crawford explained.

The pistons, he said, are completely new not only in size but in design. They are dome-head pistons of cast iron alloy with cutaway slipper-type skirts, reinforced by integral cast ribs. As in the 1936 engine, they are tin plated to increase efficiency and promote long life of both cylinder walls and pistons, Mr. Crawford explained.

Scientific manifolding, as determined by constant research, has long contributed to Chevrolet's economy of operation. In the intake manifold, fins improve the distribution to the two cylinders at each end, and an exhaust-gas-heated "hot spot" hastens evaporation, according to Mr. Crawford.

Accessory equipment on the new engine, he added, has undergone much refinement. There is a new air cleaner with easily-removed filtering element; a gear-type oil pump supplanting the vane-type pump formerly used, a shorter, self-adjusting water pump which is permanently leak-proof, and a new design high-reserve fuel pump.

The engine develops 85 horsepower, Mr. Crawford said, and in conjunction with the body and chassis weight reduction, gives Chevrolet substantially improved performance, especially in acceleration, and in pulling power on hills.

 The young people have decided to meet every Sunday night at 6:15 instead of 6:45 as church is to start earlier. Last Sunday the program was on "Leaving The Lump," led by Frances Elliott, Shirley Kiker, Gerald Montgomery, and Hazel Grubbs and the leader made talks on this subject.
 The officers held a council meeting Tuesday night at Brother Jameson's to discuss any business of importance and new suggestions for the League.

Annetta Lacey was given the role of chairman of the program committee in place of Rilla Payne, who has gone to school. Miss Payne will be greatly missed among the young people, but they hope that she may have a very successful year at school and wish her good luck.
 This Sunday the Baptist young people are to present a program at the regular League time in place of the regular worship, and everyone is cordially invited.

 Boasting four stars, anyone of whom is enough to carry a successful feature, this picture's sheer excellence will keep them coming. Harlow, Powell, Loy and Tracy are all at their funniest best in parts which a scintillatingly bright screen play makes fit them ideally. The picture is an avalanche of laughs and at the same time has enough story structure, action and romance to keep the audience on edge from beginning to end. In short, it has everything, and no small share of the credit goes to Lawrence Weingarten for smart production and Jack Conway for top flight direction.
 Players are Jean Harlow, William Powell, Myrna Loy, Spencer Tracy, Walter Connolly, Lauri Beatty, Charley Grapewin, E. E. Clive.

Dynamite, a bashful sailor who knows nothing about girls, achieves notoriety in the fleet when he appears on board his ship with six society girls, after overstaying his leave. His friends bet Jake, a marine, that Dynamite can cause a girl, Billie, to fall for him. Struck by Dynamite's obvious sincerity, Billie falls for him, but an argument ensues when Jake tells Billie of the bets that have been made. By the time the patrol arrives, the two have patched up their quarrel.
 Players are Lew Ayres, Mary Carlisle, Benny Baker, Larry Crabbe, Grant Withers, Irving Bacon, Barbara Barondess.

Douglas Fowley, Public Enemy No. 1, holds the winning ticket on a $150,000 sweepstakes, and leaves his suburban Los Angeles hideout for Kansas City to collect. Aboard the train, he comes in contact with Gloria Stuart, newspaper woman who is dodging a subpoena server, and Brian Donlevy, trailing the gangster in the guise of a newspaper man. In the climaxing gun battle between the G-Men and the gangsters, Fowley is shot by his wife, who has become jealous of Gloria Stuart. Donlevy and Miss Stuart are married.

Penney Store At Colorado To Pay Christmas Bonus

Extra Pay Equalling Two Week's Salary For Those With Concern Over Year

The announcement was made today by manager of the local J. C. Penney Company store, Mr. Bibby, that the associates of this store will share in a Christmas bonus. The Penney Company recently authorized an extra payment for over 25,000 associates in all stores, offices and warehouses. All regular employees who have been with the company over a year will receive two weeks extra pay. Those employed for shorter periods will receive proportionate amounts.

In the announcement of the plan, Mr. E. C. Sams, President of the Company said: "The year 1936 has been the most successful in the history of our business. The associates have contributed largely to that success. This bonus is not a bonus on any permanent plan. It is additional 1936 remuneration for loyalty and service that have played a part in making this the greatest year for the Penney Company."

In your Colorado store some seven associates will share in this bonus.

The local manager, Mr. Bibby, commented as follows when asked about this plan:

"I personally was very happy to learn of this decision by our Board of Directors. Our Colorado store, like the entire Penney Company, has had a splendid year. Our success is due to the work of all the group in this store. I am sure that our customers, like myself, will be happy to see these good friends of theirs in Colorado receive this substantial recognition of their fine service and efforts."

urging every Colorado citizen to cooperate in the affair. Citizens from a wide section of this part of West Texas cannot make a mistake in investigating the gift offerings to be found here, he went on to say. These yuletide affairs in other years have proven successful and this season Colorado should present the most pleasing program of them all, he concluded.

Brighter Outlook Is Occasioned As Rains Cover Area

One Inch Falls Here During Monday Night and Tuesday Range Will Benefit

Outlook for the Winter and Spring months was again brightened during this week as additional rains blanketed the area. Ranchers are to especially benefit from the moisture, as the continued rains will improve range conditions and lessen probabilities of feeding costs during the next several weeks.

One inch of rain fell at Colorado during Monday night and Tuesday. In some parts of the territory the precipitation was heavier, while other localities reported a lesser total. The rain fell slowly and was absorbed by the ground.

The rain, as was the case last week, slowed down work of gathering cotton remnants over the county. But little of the commodity has been harvested and ginned during the week.

Tigers Shunted Into District
Championship Rung; Seven
Veterans On Wolf Eleven
Will Not Return

Colorado and Snyder fought to a seven-seven tie in final 6-B contest of the season here Thursday afternoon of last week, with the Wolves leading the visitors in first downs and other departments of the game. By holding the locals to an even keel Snyder was lifted into district championship berth, due to official charges that recently dislodged the Roscoe Plowboys from that high perch.

One of the largest holiday crowds seen at Cantrill Field in some time witnessed the contest. It is estimated that there were three times as many fans as were admitted through the gates for the Armistice Day game. Snyder sent a large delegation, led by her band and pep squad, here for the game.

Seven veterans on the Wolf squad played their last game for Colorado in that contest. Heading the list being retired is Captain Walter Rankin. Other Wolves wearing colors of their school for the last time were Ernest Burdine, end; Joe Cox, half; J. W. Dunlap, guard; John Farquhar, center; Clifford Greener, half; Riggie Smallwood, tackle.

Captain Rankin, Farquhar and Smallwood were honored by their coaches during chapel service at high school auditorium Monday morning and each of the men presented gold footballs. Rankin was rated the best

National School Magazine Devotes Four Full Pages To Colorado's 'Baby Typists'

Four full pages in the November issue of "The Nation's Schools," a national education magazine, are devoted to an article dealing with Colorado's famous "baby typists."

The article was written by Miss Octavine Cooper, formerly head of the Colorado High school vocational commercial department and now a member of the Decatur Baptist college faculty. It is entitled "Teaching Small Children to Type," and is a history and explanation of Miss Cooper's work with children typists in Colorado schools.

Four pictures of various typing classes in Colorado schools are used in illustrating the article. Typing exercises by Martha Jane Watson, Ralph Mann, Joan Mann, and Virgil Pickens are reproduced.

In the article Miss Cooper tells how she organized her first "baby" typing class in Colorado in March, 1933. Her experiment won nationwide notice because she was the first to try teaching small children the touch system instead of the "hunt and peck" system.

Her first class included twelve pupils whose ages ranged from 3 to 8 years.

"At the end of a two months' period," Miss Cooper recounts in the article, "these children could operate the typewriter by the touch method. . . . In September, 1933, another experimental class of small children was organized. . . . Nine from this class demonstrated their ability before the commercial section of the state teachers' association meeting in Austin that year. . . . In the fall of 1934 classes were established in a much larger way. . . . Teachers for the project were recruited from my vocational classes in the high school. They taught under my direct supervision. . . .

"Each elementary school subject was integrated with the work in typing. . . . On May 17, 1935, a public demonstration was given. . . . The typists seemed to enjoy displaying their ability. . . . The typing classes were made so interesting that one mother punished her child by keeping him away from his typing lessons."

Miss Cooper's article concludes with suggestions for further experience. One picture shows four "baby" typists.

One picture shows four "baby" typists who started with Miss Cooper when she organized her first class in 1933, and who are still taking typing. These are Dana Marie Merritt, Doris Randle, Bobby Ratliff, and Buddy Doss.

AMERICAN PEOPLE CALLED UPON TO EXPRESS THANKS IN RECOGNITION OF PEACE

Serious Problems Having To Do With World Conditions
Largely Controlled By Us
George Mahon Tells Lions

The people of America, more, perhaps, than those of any other country, control the balancing influence that might occasion or arrest the condition to bring on another world-wide war, Congressman George Mahon told members of the Lions Club Friday. The speaker was presented by L. B. Elliott, of the club entertainment committee.

"It is fitting that our President should even now be nearing the shores of a prominent South American country, there to reassure our neighbors of the Latin Americas that we are their friends and wish sincerely that they continue to regard us in that respect," the speaker stated. "It is fitting that this relationship is today more closely defined than at any previous time in our history."

"The people of America will face a most serious problem, once war breaks out in the restless countries of Europe, and let us insist that we as citizens of this country shall do all within our power to keep out of that war, if and when it comes. That has been the purpose of recent neutrality legislation. To accomplish those ends presents a problem that we have not yet been able to solve. There are leaders of thought in this country who contend we should sell munitions of war to nations involved in such disturbed state, while others hold that such should not be done. The neutrality legislation just mentioned, however, would bar such traffic."

Mr. Mahon let it be understood that he was not in sympathy with those Nationalists who, during war time, would take transportation on ships of the nations involved. "We should not spend money and blood again to seek atonement for loss of citizens of this country under conditions such as those. If war is declared and they elect to invite the danger involved, they have simply taken the Davey Jones locker route," was his comment.

The speaker mentioned Germany, England, Italy and Japan during his address, to suggest that Americans were offering undue criticism, perhaps, of those peoples. "There are 40,000,000 living in England today, in an area less than one-fourth the size of Texas. I wonder what we would do under similar conditions," he bantered after charging there were citizens in this country who believed themselves to be superior to the English.

"The people of Germany, of Italy and of Japan, are bottled up, so to speak," he said after reviewing the importance of world commerce as the stabilizer of peace, "and when we place a man with his back to the wall he usually comes out fighting." Mr. Mahon recalled that the 65,000,000 citizens of Germany lived in a territory smaller in size than the State of Texas.

He charged that selfishness often incubated personalities that grew into serious international problems. "There are those of us who might not be pleased to find an article of commerce on our shelves carrying the 'made in Japan' or the 'made in Germany' inscription. But when Japan is buying fifty million dollars more commodities from us annually than we buy from them should we not be considerate of their assistance in building American prosperity?" He recalled that Japan bought one hundred million dollars worth of American cotton last year.

American neutrality should be demanded by every good citizen, the speaker went on to state. "We spent millions in money and much in the blood of our young manhood during the World War in that the principles of Democracy be preserved on the earth, only to realize now that that ambition, while lofty, was attended by failure. We should accept, through that experience, that useless would be our mission if ever again we elect to attempt to police other nations of the earth as a means looking to the ends of peace."

Judge A. S. Mauzey of Sweetwater, who was holding 32nd district court here at the time, was another speaker. The jurist stated that he had been impressed with the address of Mr. Mahon and urged his auditors to sustain the codes suggested, Bill Swain, district court reporter, and the Rev. C. E. Jameson, were other guest speakers to be heard.

Vice President John Deffebach presided in absence of President Walter Whipkey.

Liquor Taken In Coahoma Robbery Sold
In Colorado, Accused Admits At Hearing

The ten cases of liquor taken during an armed robbery of the liquor store operated by Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Gregg near Coahoma several weeks ago, were sold in Colorado later during the night, the money being split three ways between Sonny Lamb and his father, R. L. Lamb, implicated in the hold-up, and another person said to have been implicated in the robbery.

That information was given during statement made by Sonny Lamb in 70th district court at Big Spring Monday, when both the father and son confessed to the charges. Both were sentenced to 25 years in prison by a jury that deliberated only two minutes.

The Lambs, already facing prison sentences totaling over a hundred years on confession to similar jobs in this section of the State, were taken through Colorado Monday morning in custody of A. L. Barr, crime investigator for the department of public safety, and Capt. S. O. Hamm, State highway patrol. After the brief trial and sentence in Big Spring, the pair were returned to Menard to face charges of murder.

Little business was pending during final week of 32nd district court as Judge Mauzey brought the Winter term to a close Saturday. A few cases pending on the criminal and civil dockets were heard and either disposed of or continued. The court returned to his home in Sweetwater for a brief rest before opening district court in Snyder Monday.

Albert Lolla pled guilty to the charge of driving a car while intoxicated and was given a year's suspended sentence in prison and had his driving privileges restricted for a year.

Clarence Haynes, local negro, was given a five year suspended sentence upon plea of guilty to charge of burglarizing the Round Top Cafe.

Cases against Edwin Gregg and Clyde Bradford, implicating theft of trailers, were continued to the next term of court.

Hall after complaint had been made that they had attempted to pass spurious coins at several business establishments.

Several of the counterfeit coins found their way into circulation here a few days before, one of which was detected in collection plate at a local church Sunday.

Annual Recognition For The Defeated In Football Tilt
Slated For Friday

Ex-students of A. & M. college who are members of the Lions Club are to be honored during meeting of the Lions Club Friday with all other members of the service organization hosts. Plans for the affair were mapped during meeting of the club last week.

The A. & M. exes are to be thus designated all because their football club went down in defeat before the Texas Longhorns during annual clash between the two schools at Austin Thanksgiving Day. The men are to have special table on stage in the hotel dining room and will be served a menu of water and crackers.

Joe Smoot, one of the Lions qualified to sit at the table, offered motion that Ben Baskin, county farm agent, an A. & M. ex but not a Lion, be invited. The motion prevailed.

President Walter Whipkey of the Lions Club, among fans attending the Austin game, will be given opportunity to give detailed report on the grid classic.

PLACE WILL OPEN SOON

Location of another new business enterprise in Colorado is announced by A. M. Morgan, recently of Brady. Morgan has taken lease on the H. Wolk building, in the 100 block on West Second, and is improving the place for housing a motion picture theatre.

Equipment for the new amusement house is being moved here from Brady where Morgan formerly was in the show business. He stated this week that the place would be open for business within the next few days.

This will give Colorado three of these places of amusement. The Palace and Ritz theatres, operated by Ross D. Dixon, pioneer in the business here, are the others.

A visit to a subtropical seacoast—a sportsman's paradise "where winter is just a rumor"—awaits listeners who tune in on Carveth Wells Sunday, December 6, when the well-known explorer and radio star will devote his weekly travel broadcast to Southern Texas, "the ideal place for winter motorists and trailerites."

Sponsored by Continental Oil Company, this twenty-fourth program of the current "Exploring America with Conoco and Carveth Wells" series will include a description of Texas' most historic spot—The Alamo in San Antonio—as well as a tour through the famous Rio Grande Valley and to other points in the southern part of the Lone Star State.

"You'll enjoy yourself in Texas no matter where you go," says Wells, "because Texas people are invariably genial souls. KINDERGARTEN BAND ENTER-TAINS IN ASSEMBLY

Tuesday afternoon Mrs. Coffey and her kindergarten presented a short program in assembly. The boys and girls were dressed in red and white costumes—red trousers, white shorts, and red and white capes.

The numbers were announced by the children. They played "Hail! Hail! The Gang's All Here," "The Secret," "Blue Danube," "The Eyes of Texas," "Rock-A-Bye-Baby," and "Cribbirbin."

The members of the rhythm band were: Claborn Davis, Jr., C. A. Wilkins, Jr., Joe Berman, and Richard DeLaney, Jr., who played the drums. At the sticks were Mary Jo Gregory, Jimmie Jean Killian, and Ann Barber. The bells were played by Gillian McEntire, Jo Ann Seward, and Billie Ross Keel. The triangle was played by Mary Grace Dawson.

"SING SONG" ASSEMBLY

For variety in our assembly program we had a "sing song" this week. With Mrs. Lipps at the piano and Miss Yates as director, we sang "Polly Wolly Doodle," "Flow Gently, Sweet Afton," "The Eyes of Texas," "America," "Old Folks at Home," "Have You Ever Been To Texas in the Spring," "Long, Long Ago," "Jingle Bells," "Silent Night, Holy Night."

Everyone enjoyed this music very much.

PICTURES ARRIVE

The pupils of Junior High received their pictures Monday. There was a mixture of excitement, disappointment, and gladness. Everyone was trying to trade or get a picture of his or her best friend. All pictures were good.

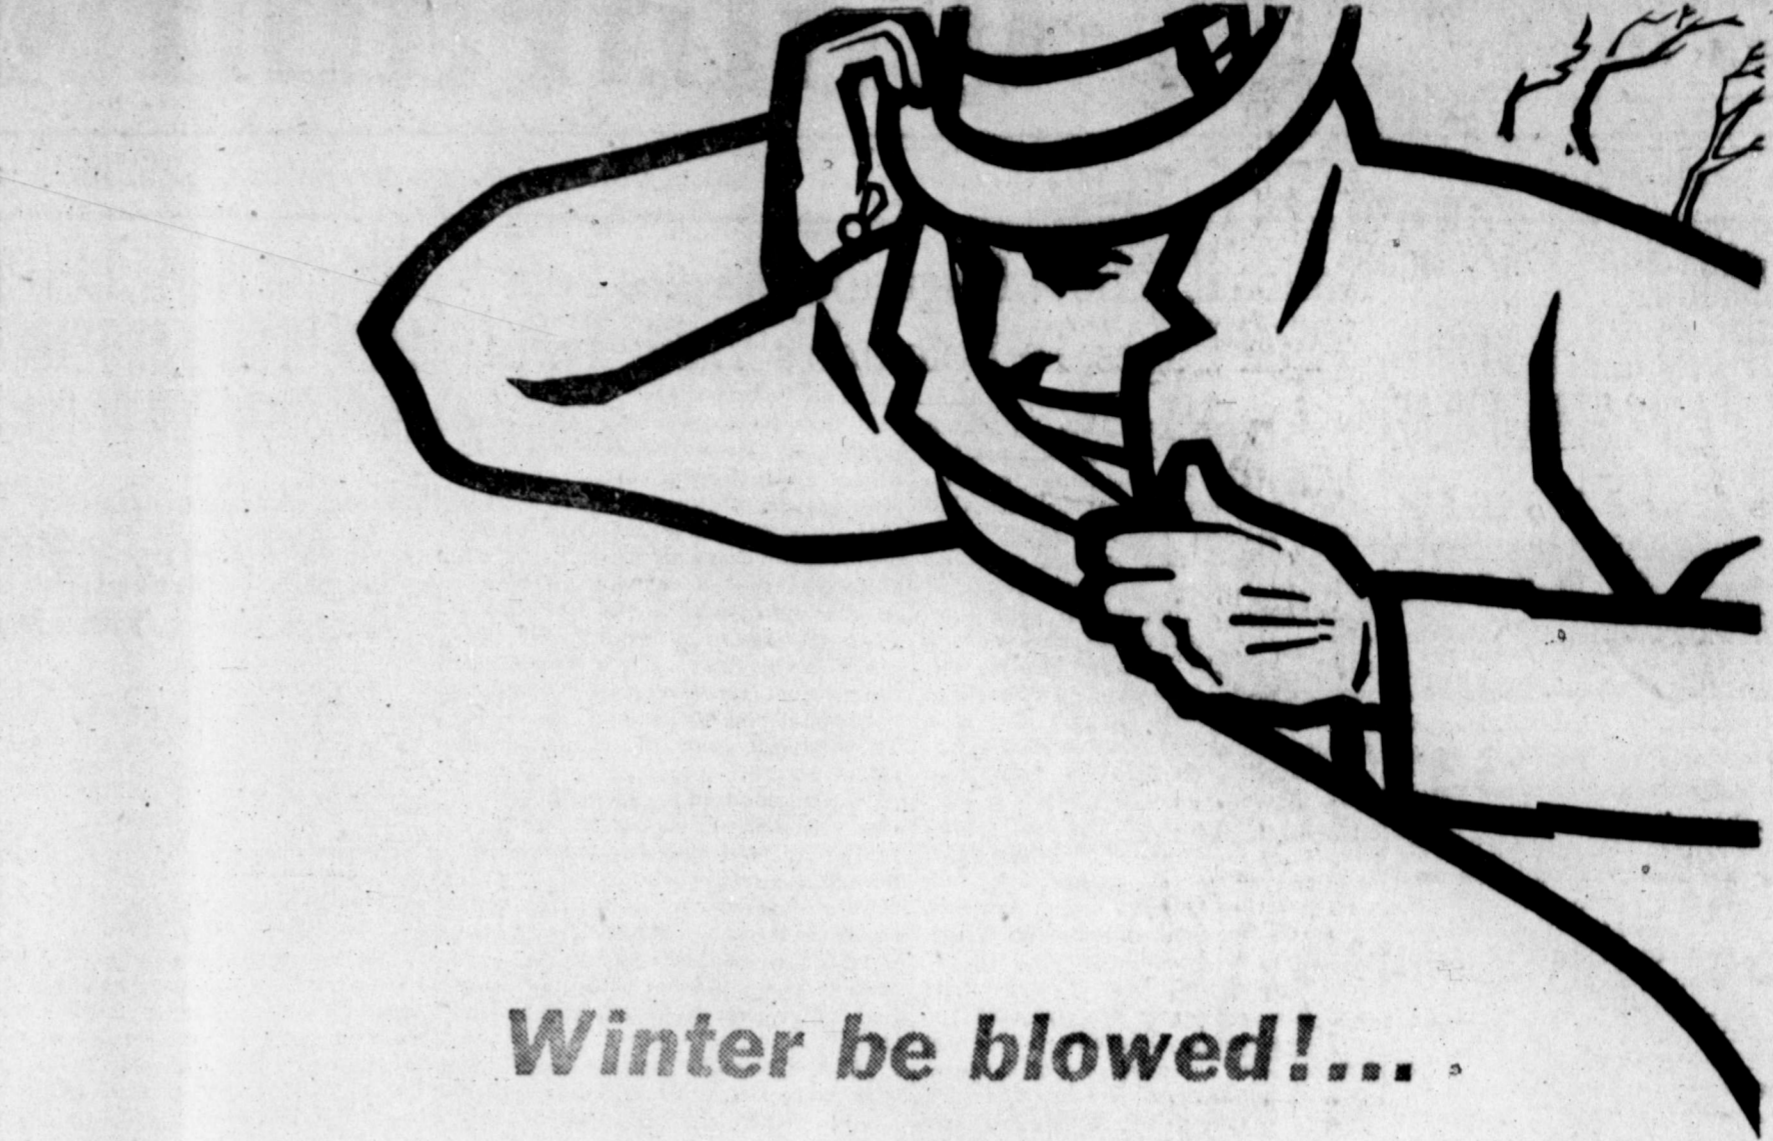

EXAM WEEK

The holidays are over and we are once more on our regular routine. It seems that everyone should be happy, but I hear a different tale. This is exam week. We shouldn't fear it, however. Here is the way I look at it.

Study hard during the six weeks and the night before exams, and you have nothing to fear or be nervous about. The teachers will not ask questions that you have not read or discussed, for that would not be the logical thing to do. Everyone study hard for these exams and you will have good results.

Miss Price said for us to tell you if you thought her hair was awful, to blame it on that wet football game Saturday . . . Preston Mackey says he is "awfully" interested in that diagramming puzzle. Winter be blowed!...

OIL-PLATE YOUR ENGINE

This is exactly true: Oil-Plating supplies lubrication in LESS THAN NO TIME AT ALL!

Faster than "instantly" . . . faster than the fastest-flowing Winter oil might even begin to flow, Oil-Plating is ready to lubricate.

That's because a genuine Plating of Conoco Germ Processed oil is always left firmly bonded to every working part. Like any other real Plating, this Oil-Plating cannot run off. After hours or days of standing in the cold, Oil-Plating is still perfectly ready-to-go.

Now these days you read on every side, how poorly-oiled starting causes most engine wear, and how fast a Winter oil ought to flow. But you cannot have even a doubt of sure starting-lubrication, when it is always UP IN ADVANCE. That's Oil-Plating . . . a plain, straight, economic reason for changing to your correct free-flowing Winter grade of Conoco Germ Processed oil—patented. Costs no more than changing by hunch.

Missionary To India For 43 Years 'Dropped In' For Baptist Services Sunday Morning

An unheralded and unexpected visitor at First Baptist church Sunday morning was a man who recently finished 43 years of service as missionary to India.

Dr. and Mrs. J. D. Swanson were just "passing through" on their way to the California coast, where Dr. Swanson is to live on a retirement salary from the Northern Baptist convention. The church hour was near and he inquired at a filling station as to the whereabouts of a Baptist church in this place.

So it came about that he and Mrs. Swanson "wandered into" First Baptist church. Learning their name and their history, the Rev. Dick O'Brien, church pastor, insisted that Dr. Swanson fill his pulpit at the church hour.

An easy—but earnest—informality and a considerable brogue marked Dr. Swanson's highly interesting manner of speaking. The brogue had its beginning, one gathers, from his birth and early boyhood in Sweden. Nearly half a century of speaking and hearing India's many dialects have made it more pronounced.

Dr. Swanson's work has been in the most mountainous and most uncivilized portion of India—the north-eastern province of Assam where head-hunters and savages have held forth for centuries in the Himalaya mountains. The population of that province is around 9,000,000. India's total population is around 352,000,000. Dr. Swanson made these statements as he began his talk to impress his audience with India's vastness and the staggering number of souls within her borders.

Much of his talk dealt with the Centennial just celebrated in Assam—the Centennial of coming of Baptist Christian teaching to that country. He said that the work of the first 50 years was discouragingly slow, but that of the last 50 has been swift and encouraging. He said that conversions are being made faster than converts can be baptized and properly instructed in Christian living.

When Dr. Swanson first began his work he rode a bicycle from village to village. Then he had a "gipsy" wagon, preaching from the wagon wheel wherever he stopped. The stops were usually made at the market places.

Six interpreters were necessary when the Centennial jubilee celebration was held. They repeated each speaker's words so that all the vast throng could understand. Dr. Swanson dwelt on the intermingling of the "castes" at the jubilee.

Tea-growing is the great industry in Assam, Dr. Swanson said. The 9,000,000 inhabitants speak 136 languages—but Dr. Swanson quickly admitted that he didn't learn that many during all his 43 years.

Clean-shaven and active, Dr. Swanson hardly looks his 69 years in spite of all the strenuous service he has seen. Mrs. Swanson is 67. They have three sons, all born in India. One is now a ministerial student at Southwestern Theological seminary in Fort Worth.

Leaving India several months ago, Dr. and Mrs. Swanson attended the World Sunday School convention at Oslo, Sweden, and Dr. Swanson visited his birthplace. He lived in Sweden until he was 13 years of age. He and Mrs. Swanson were married in Maline, Indiana. They were sent to India in 1893 by the Northern Baptist mission board.

The Swansons were Sunday dinner guests of the Rev. and Mrs. O'Brien. Afterward they continued on their way to California, where Dr. Swanson will do educational work and assist in raising additional funds for the work of other missionaries in his beloved Assam.

He was sought here, there, and everywhere and was finally found in the shine chair at the Boyd Dozier barber shop—feeling, no doubt, very much like a man of the world...

POLITICS

A lot has been said about the wonderful Democratic landslide and we shall endeavor to explain and give some of the reasons. The positive aids to Democratic victory were not the only aids the President received. He was helped a good deal by some negative influences, although of course these were small as compared with those that were positive.

Some of the negative aids were the desertion by some members of the party which had for years been the party of their choice, and which party had honored them many times. For example Al Smith of the "Sidewalks of New York." Heretofore he had tramped upon these sidewalks, this time the sidewalks tramped upon him. It is not believed that his joining the Republican ranks was the sole cause of Mr. Smith's present unhappy political position. That was bad enough in the eyes of many but when he not only deserted his party but his best friend, one who had aided him in all his political ambitions, that was just too much, and made Smith's opposition a help to the party and the man he had deserted.

To the voters and his friends it seemed amazing that he could not only desert his party and his friend, but should find it necessary and satisfactory to himself to abuse his friend, the Democratic candidate, and denounce some of the measures inaugurated by him which constituted a part of the means by which the country was brought at least a long way toward normalcy. The President, subject of Mr. Smith's derisive remarks, which at times were almost contemptuous in their implications, had not only been his friend for many years, but such a friend. Among other things he nominated him for the exalted office he himself has held for the last four years, both at Chicago in 1924 and Houston in 1928. Mr. Hoover's manifest resentment and apparent effort for revenge, was another negative influence which worked favorably toward the President's reelection. He and Al Smith yoked up in the same cause, they were "strange bedfellows," but it is said politics make such.

Another negative help to the Democrats was the pastor of the flock of the Shrine of the Little Flower. Father Coughlin not only did not gain any votes for his own aggregation but his open denunciation of the President, but gained some for Roosevelt, and disgusted many of his friends and fellow members of the faith of which he might be a powerful exponent.

The negative forces also probably were augmented by young Teddy Roosevelt and his sister, Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, not because of who they were, but because of what they did and said. And Jim Reed's influence did not help Roosevelt, it didn't do Landon any good.

Other negative helps were the Liberty League, the effort to gain votes by enclosing fear-creating slips in pay envelopes of workers, the Literary Digest poll, Wm. Randolph Hearst's choosing and supporting Landon, and other sources of opposition which in effect became helpful to the Democratic nominees.

Very few elections, of whatever importance, are gained by campaigns of abuse and denunciation. As Robert C. Winthrop said half a century ago, "There are no points of the compass on the chart of true patriotism."

AL SMITH WALKS

Al Smith and his co-walkers, Coughlin, Lemke, Landon, etc., took a road map with them but they are now sailing on the sea of oblivion which suggests this opus:

Enemies, (for we had no friends) stop
And drop a tear.
For the late political corpses of
Al and Alf lie buried here
Badly mixed with many other political creeds
With Lemke, Coughlin, Bill Murray
And little Jimmie Reed.

LARGE ASSIGNMENT

A 72-year-old Democrat wrote to Stat-Press in the Dallas News and asked him to write an article on "The Republican Party Must Be Destroyed." To which State Press says:

"The order is right large. There was a Roman Senator named Cato who used to rise in his toga once a day and exclaim, 'Delenda est Carthago.' Latin scholars have deduced from that exclamation that the Hon. Cato demanded the destruction of Carthage. Before Cato's death Carthage was destroyed, but not by Cato. He was the propagandist, whereas a General named Scipio, with an army of Romans, did the dusty work. Carthage came back, however, and became a rival of Rome in importance. In the present case S.P. is not eager to copy Cato. He has more fear of the final resurrection of the Republican party than some other Democrats have. That organism polled about 17,000,000 votes in the late contest, not counting those given it by the LITERARY DIGEST. Those 17,000,000 voters probably voted their convictions, and convictions are difficult to destroy. When the Hon. John W. Davis, Democrat, ran for President against the Hon. Cal Coolidge he got only about 8,400,000 votes. It was declared on every side that the Democratic party was dead, but when the undertaker arrived the old thing was still kicking. It came back to vivid existence in 1932 and in 1936 it kicked the weatherboarding off the G.O.P. elephant. So we see that a great political party is not easily rubbed out. Being a Democrat, S.P. thinks the Republican party is sick and deserving of its rejections. But he doesn't believe the old thing's dead. It will have to be toned up, a lot of its austerity trimmed off and a complete change of diet ordered. It will continue to represent the most conservative element in these States, but it must no longer confuse conservatism with frigid aloofness from the mass."

At any rate Colonel Knox can keep on being an editor, which is not very consoling but better than nothing.

It is observed that the Landonists proved a Rooseveltianche.

Two days after the election Governor Landon said, "I guess I'll go fishing." Maybe those campaign photographs were authentic.

The Jeffersonian Democrats: Will somebody pass us the smelling salts?

The G.O.P.: Which way did the steamroller go?

The Socialists: We didn't even get to peep through a knot hole.

The Prohibition Party: They didn't even say howdy to us as they rode by on the steam roller.

The Union Party: Well it was just about as we expected.

Father Coughlin: Well anyhow I am still holding down a priest's job.

President Roosevelt: Peace, good will and prosperity to all.

Vice-President Garner: Let's all take a layoff and go fishing.

The Literary Digest: We have lost our respect for straw votes.

Landon: Who threw that brick?

As Maine went so went Vermont and all the rest for Roosevelt.

Straw votes show which way the wind don't blow.

Al Smith: Well, I will be damned.

A funny thing happened in one of our churches last Sunday. A good sized lady sat down on her husband's hat and crushed it. Whereupon the gentleman protested in vigorous and emphatic language not usually used in church when the lady replied, "Sir Walter Raleigh laid his cloak down on the ground for Queen Elizabeth to walk over," and here you flew off the handle because I sat down on your $1.50 hat.

For many years certain interested politicians have tried to confuse the people about the principle and application of religious liberty. When the church people would consider and assert their opinions concerning moral issues they were accused of trying to unite church and state.

Prior to 1776 the people were taxed, against their will for the support of religion, and sometimes for the support of particular sects to whose tenets they could not and did not subscribe. Punishments were prescribed for a failure to attend upon public worship, and sometimes for entertaining heretical opinions. What would Baptists say now if they had to pay taxes to support the Presbyterian church? And what would the Methodists say if they had to pay taxes to support the Church of Christ?

Finally it was provided that no taxes should be levied to support religion and no punishments for non-attendance on public worship. This was called the separation of church and state. For 150 years there has been no effort in this country to reunite the church and the state. Those who asserted, that when, religious people united to support moral legislation, they were trying to unite church and state, were just trying to confuse and deceive the people for their own material benefit.

Roger Williams was the first champion of religious liberty in this country. He called it "Soul liberty." He came to America Feb. 5, 1631. He was the first pure type of an American Freeman and first proclaimed the laws of civil and religious liberty, that, "the people were the origin of all free power in government." Forced to leave England and forced to leave Massachusetts in June 1636 he founded Providence Rhode Island. There people were invited to come, live and worship as they pleased or not worship at all. He was the founder of the Great Baptist Church in America.

"Good name in man and woman, dear my lord,
Is the immediate jewel of their souls;
Who steals my purse steals trash; 'tis something, nothing;
'Twas mine, 'tis his, and has been slave to thousands;
But he that filches from me my good name
Robs me of that which nothing enriches him,
And makes me poor: indeed."
—Shakespeare, OTHELLO.

A SALES TAX

When you buy things in the State of Governor Marland (Oklahoma) you pay a sales tax. If you are rich, you consider it a nuisance, but not exactly a threat against your solvency. If you are poor you consider it an imposition. But it does bring in a lot of money, and every State now needs a lot of money. All the States, taking care perhaps from the Federal Government are going swine-wild. Lots of taxes are needed because so many people are brought to rely on the Government and so few encourage to rely on themselves.

When You Need a Laxative
Because of the refreshing relief it has brought them, thousands of men and women, who could afford much more expensive laxatives, use Black-Draught when needed. It is very economical, purely vegetable, highly effective. Mr. J. Lester Robinson, well known hardware dealer at Mar- tinville, Va. writes: "I certainly can recommend Black-Draught as a splendid medicine. I have taken it for constipation and the dull feelings that follow, and have found it very satisfactory."

{QUESTIONS THAT ARE ASKED ABOUT BANKING}

"Why must a stranger's check be endorsed?"

A CHECK is not money. It becomes money only when honored by the bank upon which it is drawn. Consequently a bank, cashing a check drawn upon another bank, must have some recourse in case the check comes back unpaid.

Banks require endorsement of a depositor on a stranger's check simply as a matter of protection to the bank and its depositors. Cashing a non-depositor's check is, in effect, advancing money without security. You, as an individual, would not consider it good business to give cash to a stranger in exchange for his check. The rules of good banking simply aim to make sure that the bank will carry on the financial business of its customers and its community efficiently and safely.

In accordance with our established policy we are always glad to cash a check for any person who is properly identified and whose check is endorsed by one of our customers.

Bradshaw Banker's Idea For Helping The Blind Brings Gift To Young Coloradoan

A ripple widening quietly outward from a Bradshaw banker's kind thought has brought a prized gift to a Colorado blind man whom that banker has never seen.

Antonio Lomeli, blind Mexican of Colorado, is to receive the Reader's Digest, Braille edition, for a year as a result of that Bradshaw banker's idea. And the same gift will go to a number of other blind persons in Texas.

The banker's name is Ocie Hunt, who is also an insurance broker. The history of his "help the blind" idea was given in a Sunday Abilene Reporter-News article by Max Bentley, staff correspondent.

Mr. Hunt, according to Mr. Bentley's article, is a subscriber to the Reader's Digest. Reading it, he learned about the magazine's Braille edition for the blind and learned that requests from the blind for free subscriptions have far outrun the available funds. Subscriptions cost $10 each and therefore are out of the reach of most blind persons, who are unable to follow gainful employment. That gave Bradshaw his idea—send the Digest's Braille edition to some blind person somewhere.

Subsequent events were outlined thus in the Abilene Reporter-News article:

"On September 27 Hunt wrote to the Texas school for the blind asking for the name of a blind person, preferably residing in West Texas, who would like to receive a subscription to the Reader's Digest in Braille, but who was unable to pay the $10 subscription fee. On the same day he wrote the Digest, announcing his intention of enlarging the plan by taking up a collection among the bank's customers. . . . Hunt's original impulse had been to personally make one $10 subscription for one blind person. . . . Learning how great the demand was, he decided to organize a series of "subscribers' clubs" and charge each member dues of 50 cents a year. Twenty members would buy one subscription and renew it annually. That was and is the plan. . . ."

The Commercial Standard Insurance Co. of Fort Worth became Club No. 1 and is sending the Reader's Digest, Braille edition, to Antonio Lomeli of Colorado. Other clubs are being organized by Mr. Hunt. Each club member will receive an acknowledgment from the blind person receiving the subscription from his club.

Antonio Lomeli, who is 25, attended the state school for the blind about three years ago. He is a familiar sight on Colorado streets, always wearing dark glasses, always smiling, always walking carefully with his hand on the arm of a companion. His features are regular, his appearance always neat and clean. Those who have contacted him report him eager for learning. He makes beautiful tufted bathmats and other articles in spite of his handicap.

Lone Star Twinklings

Lone Star school pupils in primary, third, fourth, fifth and sixth grades culminated the three units that they have been working on for the past few weeks.

The fifth and sixth grades worked up a Colonial unit. In this work they studied about the hardships suffered by the early settlers, their mode of living, and about the Indians. They made a Pilgrim village using willow twigs for building log cabins and church.

The third and fourth grade worked up an Indian unit. They correlated the work with the subjects they study. They built an Indian village and placed in it tepees, dolls, horses, trees and etc. In the sand pan they displayed the landing of the Mayflower with Indians looking on the scene. The room was decorated with pictures and emblems of Indians. As a climax they gave a program and invited the other rooms to attend. Refreshments were bought and served by the pupils.

The primary grades chose "Food" as their subject for study for the month of November. Good and poor foods were studied and all room decorations were relative to food. In order to show where our food comes from, different seeds were planted; animals furnishing food studied, and a grocery store constructed. Finally in keeping with the Thanksgiving theme, "The First Thanksgiving" feast was shown as a sand-table display. This unit of work was terminated with a play "The Thanksgiving Dinner," which parents were invited to see.

Better Catch Your Duck and Look Him Over Before Shooting, Official Avers

Shooting ducks this season—if you shoot the right ducks—is going to be a perplexing diversion for the average Mitchell county hunter and not in the category of sports at all. The hunter will not have a sporting chance.

"About all I can see for a duck hunter to do," one state official said in an article given The Record recently, "is to catch his duck, make sure he isn't a canvasback, red head or one of the other varieties forbidden by law, and then turn him loose and shoot."

Only mallards, teals and a few other varieties will be eligible for shooting and the hunter will have to know what he is shooting before pulling trigger, if he would steer clear of possible court entanglements.

Some old timers have argued that they can identify most of the common varieties of ducks by their manner of flight, but the game warden said he doubted the claim of such unusual proficiency. "Half the fellows about Colorado who go hunting," mused a veteran hunter, "are just as likely to go wrong as right in identifying the duck in flight. They might be able to identify a redhead but not so sure in distinguishing the difference between a canvasback and a mallard."

THE IMPORTANCE OF AIR!

Requirement of food, water and air to sustain life.

Food . . . 3 pounds per day { An adult can exist for approximately 40 days without food

Water . . . 4 pounds per day { An adult can exist for approximately 12 days without water

Air . . . 27 pounds per day { An adult can exist for approximately 10 minutes without air

The air supply of a person is of first importance. Therefore it is a wise precaution to keep the air in the home during winter as pure as the warm oxygen-laden air of summer. A room that is poorly ventilated can be injurious to health. Inadequate fresh air and a lack of pure, warmed air throughout the home make it easy to "catch cold."

A simple method of providing a constant circulation of fresh air is found by keeping a window in each room slightly open. Connecting doors left open between adjoining rooms, when the entire house is adequately heated, provide a natural circulation of pure, warmed air from one room to another.

Never permit the air you breathe to become "stuffy" through lack of pure air circulation. Heat your entire house and provide fresh air ventilation for your health's sake. It's important to you and your family.

Less Crime Noted Over Wide Section Of Lone Star State

Trend To Better Citizenship, As Noted Here, Reflected In Texas, Official Says

Conditions indicating a time of less crime in Mitchell county, as stressed in recent newspaper stories, are being reflected over most of the State, according to Lloyd W. Davidson, of Austin, State's attorney for the court of civil appeals.

With adjournment by the grand jury here recently after returning only three bills of indictment and closing of four weeks session of district court with little business on the criminal docket, local court attaches pointed with pride to the indication that crime was on the wane here.

Davidson, through whose hands pass virtually all appeals from criminal trials in lower courts, is perhaps one of the best informed men in the state on crime conditions.

"The improvement in the crime situation," he said, was due chiefly to rigid enforcement by all agencies. "The department of public safety, under which the state highway patrol and the ranger force were coordinated, has had a most salutary effect," he asserted.

"Vigorous investigation and trial of criminals has been another contributing force."

He credited the activities of department of justice agents with stamping out much crime in the state, particularly that by gangs.

"If there is an organized gang of criminals operating in Texas today," he said, "I have seen no evidence of it."

Governor Allred's clemency policy was listed also as a cause for crime decrease.
