Jameson of First Methodist church announced that during the week he had addressed letters to 20 Lions in the district urging their support of Pond.

DRIVE TO ACQUIRE GENERAL HOSPITAL STARTED BY C-C OFFICIALS AND PHYSICIANS

Such An Institution Should Be Available Public, Prexy States In Call For County Wide Conference Here

The most important problem confronting the citizenship of this city and county today is adequate hospitalization through the operation of a general hospital, at which "all of our doctors and those from any point might have access to give their patients the medical and surgical attention required," President Chas. C. Thompson of the chamber of commerce stated during an address at the CC luncheon club Tuesday noon.

"I am offering you this proposal without criticism of Dr. C. L. Root or anybody else," Thompson continued. "Move inaugurated by this organization, in cooperation with practically all doctors of this county, at a recent conference at the chamber of commerce, carries with it the support of Dr. Root and we are to have his sincere cooperation in drive to realize this objective."

Thompson recalled that "too many of our people are going to points outside the borders of Mitchell county for hospitalization. Communities in adjoining counties, some of them not as large as Colorado, are providing hospital facilities considerably larger than those offered here, a fact that should be definitely relegated to the past."

The CC president announced that mass meeting would be held at the chamber of commerce office Tuesday evening beginning at 8 o'clock to which all interested citizens are urged to be present. At this meeting it is hoped that plan looking definitely to the ends desired will be mapped.

Thompson suggested that it would probably be the better plan to organize a joint-stock company with sufficient capital to either purchase hospital plant already in operation here or build another. "If each public spirited citizen will come in and contribute even a small amount the project will be assured of success from its inception," he declared.

The speaker referred to county election several months ago in which proposal to vote bonds and establish a county-city hospital was defeated. "The people of this county might authorize such an issue now, and again, they might not."

The following program is to be observed at mass meeting Tuesday evening: "Need of an Open Hospital," C. C. Thompson; "Financing a Corporation," Joe H. Smoot, vice president of City National bank; "Maintenance of a Hospital," Dr. C. L. Root, chief surgeon at Root hospital; "Ways and Means," J. H. Greene, manager of the chamber of commerce.

LEGAL BEER ADVOCATES IN DECISIVE DEFEAT TUESDAY AS BALLOT VERDICT GIVEN

'Drys' Win By 311 Majority In County Poli; M'Kenzie Only Precinct To Favor Legal Beverage Sales

For the third consecutive time in four years advocates of light wine and beer sales in Mitchell county have gone down in defeat. Verdict written at the ballot box Tuesday, however, was the most decisive victory for dry adherents since the initial county-wide election was held in 1934.

Out of a total of 1,271 votes registered at 12 boxes, the dries won by the majority of 311. Only one box, McKenzie, went into the wet column and the lead there was attained by the margin of only one vote. 791 ballots were marked against the sales and 480 for.

Colorado precincts, that during elections of other years gave majorities in favor of legalizing the sales, slipped into the dry roster Tuesday by the lead of nine votes. Box No. 1, voting at the court house, polled 288 for and 286 against. Box 12, Legion building, gave the dries a lead of 11 votes, 48 to 59. Local victory for dry crusaders was nine.

Westbrook voted 28 for and 51 against; Spade, 7 for and 20 against; Landers, 11 for and 12 against; Cuthbert, 5 for and 31 against; Carr, 2 for and 16 against; Loraine, 60 for and 266 against; Iatan, 5 for and 7 against; Buford, 15 for and 26 against; Hyman 7 for and 14 against.

In first county-wide election held on April 21, 1934, the dries won by the marginal lead of only 75 votes out of 1,704 polled. In Colorado the vote was 571 in favor of legalizing beer to 292 against.

On February 29, 1936 another referendum vote on the question was held and again the county electorate turned thumbs down on the proposition. 1,676 votes were polled in that election with the dries boasting their lead to 140. Colorado voted 529 for the proposal and 312 against.

In precinct election held June 1, 1935 the sales were legalized in one of the lightest votes to be polled at Colorado and Buford. The vote was 300 for authorization of the sales to 192 against. Occasion of his delay in starting the return trip was due to fact he met up with so many friends. "As I start to my car to go, I see another Mitchell county citizen that I just want to exchange greetings with, Colorado will always be home to me."

'Singing Convention Day' This Year Won't Be Quite The Same With W. L. Doss, Sr., Ill

"Singing convention day," which comes Sunday in Colorado, may not be quite the same this year as it has been in the past thirty-odd years of its existence.

The reason is this: W. L. Doss, Sr., Colorado pioneer whose name has become synonymous with singing conventions in Mitchell county, probably won't be able to take the active part in Sunday's program that he has taken in all convention programs of the past.

Ill health continues to keep Mr. Doss confined to his home. Some days he is able to be out for a few hours. He's resting an unusual lot this week in the hope that he'll be able to attend the convention Sunday.

"Maybe I can at least go and sit out in a car and listen," he has told members of his family.

W. W. Porter, president of the convention this year, has expressed the hope that Mr. Doss will be able to lead the vast convention throng at the tabernacle in his favorite hymn, "On Jordan's Stormy Banks." If he isn't, then this number will be sung anyway and dedicated to him. It's been dedicated to him time and again at various singing gatherings over the county.

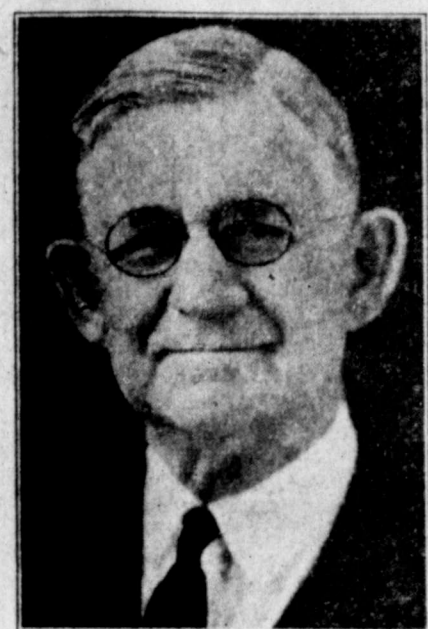

At present Mr. Doss is active vice-president of the Mitchell county singing convention. He's held the office of president time without number since the convention was organized some 35 years ago. He's never been off of the roster in some official capacity.

Singing and singing conventions have always been beloved by Mr. Doss. As a young man he taught singing schools back in Parker county. He came to Parker county after having been born and reared in Tuscaloosa, Alabama. His elder brother, John L. Doss, operated a grocery store in Weatherford, Parker county, for several years, but Mr. Doss never worked in the store. He taught school—and singing.

The story of how the Doss brothers came to Colorado back in 1884 and established a drug store business in 1885 is known by all honest-to-goodness Coloradans. They established separate stores about 1906 and are still operating them.

The store of W. L. Doss, Sr., has ever been a gathering place and headquarters for singers of Mitchell county and West Texas. It still is, when Mr. Doss is able to be there. Moody Richardson, president of Mitchell county's East Side Singing convention, and George Sweatt, president of the West Side convention, frequently confer with Mr. Doss on plans for their organizations. Mr. Doss has always attended every singing convention he possibly could in the county, whether sectional or county-wide.

Perhaps Mr. Doss little dreamed when he guided the organization of a county-wide singing convention to meet in Colorado every spring that he was helping to start something that was to become an integral, traditional feature of local history.

W. L. Doss, Sr., who may be prevented by illness from taking usual leading part in county singing convention.

Everybody "comes to town" on singing convention day in Colorado. Cars are parked thickly for blocks in the vicinity of the roomy, cool, old union tabernacle. The benches in that tabernacle are always filled, and those who can't get inside throng around the doors.

Before the swift days of automobiles it was a day when folks from the far south end of the county met relatives and friends from the far north end for perhaps the first time since the last singing convention day. Perhaps that's still true to some extent.

The coming of the day always stirs up a lot of memories of "things that used to be." Until about ten years ago "dinner on the ground" was a big feature of the day. Long tables were built in the hot May sun over on the south side of the old red brick courthouses. They were loaded down with fried chicken, cakes, pies—all the bounteous good things which housewives of yesterday could prepare.

And there'd be huge tin tanks of ice water in the shade of the courthouse with tin cups hanging handily for thirsty babies and grownups.

But "dinner on the ground" is now a thing of the past. Too many people came to eat dinner without bringing anything, so the practice was abandoned. Many families and groups still bring their own basket dinners, however, and spread them at Ruddyck park and in other convenient places. This practice is encouraged by W. W. Porter and other convention officials.

When "Doss Day" was held by the Colorado chamber of commerce luncheon club recently to honor W. L. Doss, Sr., and John L. Doss, a prominent Mitchell countian paid this tribute to W. L. Doss, Sr., and his work with the county singing convention:

"Mr. Doss and the Mitchell county singing convention have united the rural and the town people of Mitchell county as nothing else has ever done."

Possessing a good tenor voice, Mr. Doss has sung all his life. Many Coloradans recall the singing groups that used to include him and the late Mrs. M. K. Jackson and Allen Payne, now of Slaton, and others.

Among those who have served as president of the Mitchell county singing convention in between Mr. Doss' terms of office are Judge A. J. Coe, Jesse Bullock (now of Fort Worth), Claude Womack, T. H. Westbrook (now of Sweetwater), T. J. Riden of Lorraine, Sam Scott, and Mr. Porter. The late M. A. Berry was one of the framers of the convention's by-laws.

The only time when the convention has failed to meet in the years of its

JURIST CATALOGUES FREE PRESS AS EFFECTIVE AID IN PROGRESS OF RELIGION

The Missionary Is Pioneer In Christianity's Strides, Chief Justice Leslie Tells Colorado Methodists

Freedom of the press that by constituted law is given the people of America has through the generations been an effective agency in progress of Christianity, both at home and in the foreign fields to which our churches have sent missionaries, Chief Justice W. P. Leslie of Eastland told Colorado Methodists Friday evening as he spoke on program of the "Bishops' Crusade."

"The missionary is a pioneer in establishing the Christian religion and it is only where he has gone to tell the story of the Christ that people are free and given those personal liberties guaranteeing that they may worship God as their conscience dictates," Justice Leslie said. "And it is only in such countries, where the light of Christ's salvation shines, that a free press has survived."

The speaker referred to conditions in Germany, Russia and other nations in which the church and the press have been muzzled. "If I were speaking in Germany tonight I would dare not make reference to the Hebrew people. In Russia is depicted one of the most tragic aspects that this enlightened age has to endure. These children are being sent to school and taught that religion is nothing but a sham and they must not permit its influences to enter their lives."

Recalling that the largest standing armies in history of the world were being mobilized by major nations of Europe and that "they stand today ready to grab at each other's throat," Justice Leslie declared that the missionary spirit was more appropriate now than on that eventful day when John Wesley stood at his father's tomb and declared that the world was his parish.

He pictured the course of missions as sponsored by Methodist and other Christian churches of America as one of the biggest programs the adherents of Christianity had ever undertaken and concluded with the assurance that world peace will not be guaranteed until arrival of the day when the cross of Christ shall be lifted higher than armament and personal greed around the world.

The meeting was called to order by Mrs. J. G. Merritt, who presented the pastor, Rev. C. E. Jameson, for the Scripture reading and prayer, and Justice Leslie for his address. After the program, given in the church auditorium, had been concluded those attending were invited into the Sunday school building for a social hour. Sandwiches and punch were served by ladies of the church.

The banquet program was given as Colorado Methodists' contribution to program throughout Southern Methodistism to raise $185,000 to clear deficit in the missionary fund. An even $100 was netted here.

DRUGGIST TO CLOSE 13 YEARS IN BUSINESS TO TAKE SECRETARY POST

J. F. Merritt is soon to leave his place as one of the owners and managers of Alcevo Drug Company, an institution with which he has been actively connected during the past 13 years. Merritt is scheduled to be sworn in as city secretary May 1.

As the business man leaves, his place in the drug store the place will be under management of J. M. Doss, associated with the incoming city official during the past 13 years.

J. Lee Jones, veteran county and city official, is to retire from Colorado post as secretary as Merritt is administered the oath of office.

GAITED HORSES STABLED AT MIDLAND BY OWNERS

Two five-gaited horses owned by the Diamond M ranch in Scurry county were on exhibition here Tuesday morning. The animals were being moved from Abilene to Midland by owners where they are to be stabled and trained for entry in events at the Midland Downs.

RUNNELS COUNTY VOTERS AGAINST BEER AND WINE

Voters of Runnels county Saturday went to the polls and marked their ballots in opposition to proposal that beer and light wines be legalized. Majority against the issue was approximately 500, one of the most decisive defeats rendered advocates of the beverage sales in this section of Texas this year.

During pastorate of the Rev. Dick O'Brien First Baptist congregation have reduced indebtedness on their attractive church plant from $24,500 to $6,500 with never a special collection nor drive having been inaugurated during the five year period. The record Sunday was referred to by the retiring pastor as having been attained only because "there is to be found in the church a group of the finest people that a minister ever had to deal with."

Along with slicing $18,000 from the principal indebtedness against their house of worship, Colorado Baptists paid $12,000 interest during the five year period. Total cash collected through the church treasury for that period was $30,991. While paying off their church debt members of the congregation have met every other financial obligation, the pastor noted.

Highlight in Colorado Baptists' progress toward clearing their church property, as detailed by Rev. Mr. O'Brien from his pulpit Sunday morning, was in gift to the church by Mrs. C. H. Lasky. A few days before she had given the church $8,800 in tribute to life of her husband, prominent banker, property owner and church man who died here several months ago. Her offering raised collection, as listed on the church bulletin board to $8,921.51 for the day.

In tribute to the retiring minister, Rev. C. E. Jameson of First Methodist church, Rev. A. L. Haley of First Christian, and Rev. W. M. Elliott of First Presbyterian, held no services Sunday evening in that they and members of their respective congregations attend final service to be conducted by Rev. Mr. O'Brien. Two of the visiting pastors had part in the worship service and each offered strong tribute to Rev. Mr. O'Brien as a preacher and citizen.

That the people of Colorado have been unusually kind to the pastor and his family was outlined by Rev. Mr. O'Brien during delivery of his sermon address. "If we were following after our own feelings in the matter we would spend the remainder of our days in Colorado," he said. "But I feel that God's voice is calling and thus duty directs that I leave you and go to the other world."

Continued progress for the Baptist church and all other agencies of religious activity in this community were predicted by the minister. He spoke feelingly of his fellowship with other pastors and other men of Colorado.

CHANGES TO OIL-PLATING

In spite of everything, it paid him to take ads seriously, you see, else he might never have tried Oil-Plating. First of all he was impressed by the explanation of Oil-Plating.

Simple enough, if you'll think what happens as Johnny's dirty little hands touch the wallpaper. Anything greasy or oily on his hands becomes quite a permanent part of the paper. You'll say permanent!

In much the same way—forgetting technicalities—Conoco Germ Processed oil forms a lasting attachment for every working part of your engine. A genuine, enduring Oil-Plating is brought about by the Germ Process—patented.

Thus the Germ Process not only multiplies the strength of the usual flowing type of oil-film, but creates Oil-Plating besides. And once Oil-Plating goes on, Conoco Germ Processed oil does not let it come off in minutes, hours, days . . . or miles.

Thus Oil-Plating kills the old fear of starting "dry." Likewise Oil-Plating refuses to let go in all the fury of 5,000 revolutions per minute. That's why your "good old car" or the latest model will stay more like new, with its engine Oil-Plated. And your whole Summer's driving will take less Conoco Germ Processed oil. COMMERCIAL NOTES

Progress in bookkeeping is now moving more rapidly forward as the close of the year approaches. Each student has his or her eye on the large and impressive certificate which is to be offered to those completing the fourth set of books and a certain number of exercises in their workbook.

Plans for the mock trial in Commercial Law are rapidly getting under way. The trial promises to be a fast-moving and colorful episode to those who will have the opportunity to sit in and listen. As far as it is known now, the attorneys for the defendant will be Ed Morrison and Grover Buchanan; while Weldon Nuckolls will represent the plaintiff.

Several law students were absent from class Monday evening. It seems that they were engaged in arguing about a fine point of law relative to strikes and forgot that they had a class. What they were arguing about or why, nobody seemed to know. As we said before they just like to argue.

SENIORS TO ABILENE

Last Saturday, April 24, fifty-three Seniors of C. H. S. attended the fourth annual Hardin-Simmons, High School Senior day at Abilene. All of them enjoyed the program given by the university which consisted of four parts. The first part of the program given Saturday morning was put on by the band, the men and women quartets, and the speech department. The second part of the program, the feast prepared by the cafeteria, was enjoyed by every student of the seventy-five schools represented. The third part of the program was set aside for visiting the buildings on the campus. During this time, from 1:30 to 3:30 there were games in the gymnasium of all kinds and there was also a tennis match between Hardin-Simmons and Daniel Baker. At 3:30 came the most interesting feature of the day, the football game between the two Hardin-Simmons teams.

The day was enjoyed by everyone although most of them did return home blistered. The group left on the bus entertained themselves by singing in the way over and back. Everyone was made to feel welcome and it is a day that will not soon be forgotten.

HD REPORTERS HELD SESSION SATURDAY

New reporters are to be elected in June so that the old reporters can train them for another year.

Singing Ass'n

existence was in the war and drought ridden year of 1918, when Mitchell countians "didn't have anything to sing about." The few Mitchell countians who hadn't been sent to war or driven away by the drought didn't have any livestock to get them to town, and certainly very few had cars or anything to run them on.

Standing out in singing convention day memories is the Sunday preceding the cyclone which struck in southern Mitchell county in the early morning hours of Monday, May 14, 1933. Nearly all the more than 20 victims of the catastrophe had been among those at the singing convention the day before their death.

Mr. Dess is now 81. Until the past few months he has led a very active life.

Mr. Clyde White and little daughter, Mary Lynn, of Kermit, spent Sunday with Mrs. White's sister, Mrs. Jim White, and her mother, Mrs. G. D. Bynum.

FOOTBALL BOYS HAVE AN EXTRA STUDY HALL

During the past week the boys reporting for football were given an extra study hall under the supervision of Coach Christian. The reason? Some of the boys are failing in one or more subjects. Coach Christian wants to bring up those low grades to passing marks and higher.

Spring training will start again some day this week. Coach Christian's lumbago which has been bothering him for the last two weeks is much better. He says that he can do better coaching with his back limber.

F. F. A. NEWS

The Colorado Chapter of Future Farmers was represented at the annual A. & M. judging contest, April 19, 1937. There were three teams to go from Colorado, namely: Dairy, Livestock, and Soil Conservation. All reports were not received so the boys do not know whether they won or not.

The boys all had a fine time on the trip. Coming back from A. & M. they came by Austin to see the capitol.

There will be a meeting of the local chapter Wednesday, April 28. All members are urged to be present. The purpose of this meeting is to discuss and plan ways to raise money for the trips that have been made during the past few weeks. Also, the F. F. A. sweetheart contest will come to a close soon. The candidates are: Freshman, Beulah Frances Robinson; the sophomore, Fannie Fae Porter, and the Junior, Katherine Hodges. The one receiving the most votes of money, will be the sweetheart. A boxing carnival and other events on a program will be presented by the F. F. A. boys soon. Watch for the date.

Senior Class Meeting

Friday, April 23, a high school student talked before this year's graduation class.

Sam Venable gave a talk on his school, John Tarleton. He encouraged students to attend his college by telling them the outstanding points of the college, the campus, studies, entertainment, and other subjects.

The Seniors are feeling proud now to have other people thinking and talking about the Seniors' later life in college.

BAND PLANS TRIP

The band played and marched in town Thursday and Friday afternoon before the show which was given for the benefit of the band. The money the band received will be used to help pay their expenses to Lubbock Friday to the contest.

The members of the band had their pictures made Monday afternoon in their uniforms to send to Lubbock so the picture would be in the paper among the other contestants.

The city officials also wish that the high school students would observe the traffic rules of the city.

JUNIORS HAVE CLASS MEETING

On Thursday, April 22, the Juniors had a short class meeting at which Mr. Wilkins gave each a list of the subjects available next year. There are nineteen subjects that the Seniors may choose from next year with credits ranging from one-half to two credits. There was an open discussion on subjects to be given at summer school and the subjects to be available next year.

THE BEGINNING OF LIFE

Some people believe that life begins at certain periods in our lifetimes while others argue that it begins only when we begin it. Perhaps these are both partially true in as much as we do not really live until we put some efforts to enjoy living, and at the period we put something into life we are going to get something out of it.

Now that we are nearing the time of our graduation from high school, we should make an effort to really live and do something worthwhile. Up until now we have just been drifting along, getting lessons, going to and from school, and living under the rules of the teachers, but after we march down the aisle for the last time and receive our diplomas, we will have to make our own rules to guide and govern ourselves on

Chevrolet Trucks Transport Cattle To U. S. Markets

Livestock Industry Gradually Adopting This Method, As Better Machines Built

The gentle art of driving cattle in to market has undergone an important and far-reaching change, according to a report recently made public by the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

The old way was for the rancher to take his cattle out on the road and ride herd on them with the aid of dogs and horses, driving them along the highway to the market center.

For larger markets, the ranchers would drive their cattle into town and load them on railroad cars. Any way you look at it, a cloud of dust was the almost inevitable accompaniment of the market.

But today the truck has shown itself to be so economical and so effective that it now transports a large percentage of all livestock. The Department of Agriculture report shows that during last year, 56 per cent, or more than half of all cattle; and 67 per cent, or more than two-thirds of all calves, received at the principal markets of the country arrived by truck.

Truck deliveries of hogs represented a greater proportion of total hog receipts than did those for all other kinds of livestock, with more than 70 per cent of all hogs coming to market arriving by truck. The Chicago stockyards was the only major market in the Corn Belt where more hogs came in by rail than by truck in the last two years.

A little more than 30 per cent of the sheep and lambs arriving at major markets last year came by truck. The proportion of truck arrivals was smaller in these categories because of the longer hauls involved, the department's report stated. The vast majority of these shipments, however, originated in truck hauls from the ranch to the freight loading point.

The report declared that the increased use of trucks in moving livestock is the result of manufacturing developments whereby manufacturers have been able to improve their trucks so as to make them more economical and more suitable for hauling livestock than other methods. Improved highways and the greater flexibility of truck hauls is also cited.

Chevrolet has contributed greatly to this movement. More Chevrolet trucks were put into use in the cattle-raising districts last year than those of any other make, sales figures revealed. Approximately 10 per cent of the 205,000 Chevrolet trucks sold last year went into service in the cattle country.

Twenty years ago, arrivals of livestock at market by truck amounted to less than two per cent of the total received at the country's major markets. The gradual introduction of the light truck in special models peculiarly suitable for use by ranchers is credited with the rapid change in methods of cattle transportation that has occurred particularly during the last two years.

EDITORIAL

LOYALTY IS A MATTER OF GOOD BUSINESS

(Sixth article on Buy-at-Home)

Strangers judge a town by its retail stores. Visitors seldom see any part of a town except the business district and their opinion of "just what kind of a place is this?" is formed by what they see of the downtown section. But this is only one of many good reasons why, price and quality being equal, it behooves Colorado citizens to do all of their shopping with Colorado stores.

Every dollar spent away from Colorado for something that could just as easily and just as economically be bought from a Colorado store certainly does not help this city. Neither does it help that twenty-five per cent of our people who depend on merchants of Colorado for a livelihood.

Too many of us too often assume, without actually taking the trouble to investigate, that Colorado stores do not have a particular thing we want, after this, why not find out? Colorado merchants buy in the same markets with merchants of other towns, large or small. Anything sold anywhere can be had right here. If it isn't in stock it can be obtained for you promptly and at no premium in price.

Let us keep Colorado money in this community, all things being equal. Each of us not only get another chance at it when it remains here, but as it passes from hand to hand a certain part of it goes with each transaction into the coffers from which we maintain our streets, build our schools, carry on our machinery of local government and keep our justly proud place in the scheme of things. A country, a state or a community that is forever exporting money becomes impoverished, however abundant its natural resources.

This matter of buying from Colorado stores concerns all of us. We can't escape it. It gets back to the fundamental fact that we could not carry on without our retail institutions. "We will buy from Colorado stores, quality and price being equal," has become a slogan with all civic minded men and their families. Join the movement and share in the benefits.

BUY IT NOW! AND BUY FROM COLORADO MERCHANTS

All over the United States stocks of merchandise are increasing. Retail merchants are stocking up in response to renewed demand. It often happens lately that when a merchant places an order, as for a grock of suits, the manufacturer is unable to fill the order until he makes up the merchandise, and he can't make the merchandise until the mills weave the cloth.

This situation has come about following other items of depression, and invariably marks the running tide. We have all gone without socks and handkerchiefs and shirts and suits and furniture and cars and radios and book-satchels for the kids until now we are forced to begin buying. The wheels of commerce all along the line feel the power of renewed demand. Prosperity is coming back. Business always has run in cycles, and a new era of prosperity is before us.

Pay your bills promptly! A good credit record is your greatest asset—Guard it.

The moral is, buy now, before commodity prices go still higher. And buy from Colorado merchants before commodity prices go still higher. Depend on them for a livelihood, while they pay annually into our community coffers tens of thousands of dollars for taxes, licenses, rents, delivery equipment and maintenance, insurance and other items of overhead. Spend here where the money will get back into local circulation and where we will have another chance at it!

If in any instance Colorado Stores fail to have exactly what you want let them get it for you, quality and price being equal. It is plainly just good business and self-preservation.

BOONDUGGLERS

A few weeks ago we wrote that some columnists were boondogglers. State Press in the Dallas News took us to task. Here is part of what we said: "There is something for ambitious writers to consider, whether one shall write in exalted mood or whether he shall write boondogglery. Fame and fortune may await the exalted writers while nothing in particular awaits the boondogglers."

To this State Press replies: "There appears to be a general drift among writers of all classes to noah-nooh the columnists. Why so? Is it because the columnists address larger audiences? Heaven forbid that a slashing genius with a column to command should take reader precedence over magazine and book authors or that he should slyly snook the profoundists who measure all ideas by the academic standard. Some columnists are had sucklers, and some have only a hazy idea of grammatical approach, but those who survive must have, and do have, a certain gift for lucidity and—usually—a full oniver of ideas. Mostly practical ideas, although frequently dressed in semiobscure terms. Columnists may be boondogglers in appearance and in spirit, but as a rule they do not pretend to be Atlases with world weights on their backs. Columnists may dislike to be called delunners, yet they are excellent judges of bunk. They can detect it between the lines or through the eloquence of expounders and exhorters. Of course columnists are not very sensitive, not very acute reasoners. If they were they would abandon columning and get work at sawmills or brick yards or CCC camps."

A WORD ABOUT SCHOOLS

The schools of Colorado are the towns greatest asset. Next to the churches, the schools are worth these thoughts.

How good is your child's school and how shall his school be measured? The school is not the building, the equipment, the course of study and the teaching staff, although all of these factors are important. The real school, the force that affects the children, is not material, but spiritual. It is not to be measured in terms of per cent gained in passing examinations, nor by the number of its graduates, or its show exhibitions. It is justly measured in terms of character of the children it turns out. That judgment is rendered by time. According to their works you shall know them.

The course of study is the tool that the teachers use to create character in their pupils. In that phase of the work, the teacher's character is of chief importance. It is the tolerant, generous, honorable, hard-working teacher, who implants those qualities in his pupils. There are teachers who make such impressions upon their pupils that one recognizes their work as readily as though they had signed it. Their names are written clearly upon the character of their pupils.

In the confusion of today, when so many voices are raised against established orders, it is wise to take account of the quality of the school and the effect of the times upon it. There are many things wrong with the world, it is true, but then that was always so. Times are changing, but they have always changed. Some things have been found good down through the ages. Never have men reached the standard of character they have set for themselves, so that standard must still serve. We will hold fast to that which is good.

Then let us measure the school by what good there is in it. Are the children happy in their school? Happy children are good children and they reflect good teaching. Is the work they do done as well as they are able to do it? Through work is the expression of sincerity, and sincerity is fundamental to beauty of soul, beauty in living, beauty in any phase of life. Do the children set about their daily business cheerfully? A cheerful spirit speaks well for the mental and physical health of the being who expresses it. Cheerful children are going forward to some chosen goal, and forward-going children are growing children. Are the children helpful and cooperative? When a child becomes conscious of his relations to other people and understands that he goes forward in company with his group or fails, he has achieved an understanding of life that will go far toward making him a success in whatever field he chooses for his own.

Where do you place the emphasis when you measure your school? Do you think of the race school? Do you think of the real growth of your child? Ask yourself this question: What character growth is my child making in this school? The right answer will be the just measure of that school where it concerns your child. Nothing else is so important!

A SUNDAY THOUGHT

The church has no more subtle enemy than the devout person who expects his church to succeed because of some magic power which God has imparted to it. This is not unlike the attitude a superstitious person may have toward a horseshoe or a rabbit's foot. There is no church apart from its members and the church cannot succeed apart from them. There is no uncertainty about the divine element in the church. We can count on God. But He does not do for us what we can do for ourselves. He gives us knowledge and skill and growth only as we work for them. Go to church Sunday and become a worker together with God.

This writer is planting a garden. When he was a boy most people planted their garden in the moon, now most of them do not plant anywhere. He looked up the scriptures for authority to plant and found 1 Cor. 3:8 to say, "Now he that planteth and he that watereth are one; and every man shall receive his reward according to his labor."

One day this week we asked Postmaster Joe Fraser, we said give me 50 cents worth of stamps. He said what denomination. I said I'm a Baptist what has that to do with the post office?

"It is the amends of a short and troublesome life, that doing good and suffering ill entitles man to a long and better life."—Penn.

My wife is a very systematic woman. She works on the theory that you can find whatever you want when you don't want it by looking where it wouldn't be if you did want it.

TEMPER

When I have lost my temper I have lost my reason, too. I'm never proud of anything that angrily I do. When I have talked in anger and my cheeks are flaming red, I have always uttered something that I wish I hadn't said.

In anger I have never done a kindly deed or wise. But many things for which I felt I should apologize. In looking back across my life and all I've lost or made, I can't recall a single time when fury ever paid.

I have waked up every morning and I've shuddered to review My trail of deeds regrettable that no gentleman would do. I've gained nothing to my credit when my fits of temper end. But I've often gained an enemy, and sometimes lost a friend.

So I struggle to be patient for I've reached a wiser age. I do not want to do a thing or speak a word in rage. I have learned by sad experience that when my temper flies I never do a worthy deed, a decent deed or wise.

PICKED UP ALONG THE NEWS PATH

Though I'm not what you'd call a tactful soul, I do know better than to say that a woman is becoming widely known because of a talented husband or vice versa. . . . But, we parents being as we are, I'm fairly certain that the Joe Jacksons won't mind my saying that they are becoming widely known in Colorado because of their talented young son, Joe Bill. . . .

Joe Bill is, according to those who've heard him read, a "natural." His teacher, Mrs. W. R. Martin, is emphatic about it. . . . He made his first public appearance at the Lions club several months ago, and since then has been appearing quite frequently. . . . He's only five years old—his birthday was in March—and he's as attractive as he is smart. . . . Dark, curly hair, gray eyes. . . . Doesn't go to kindergarten yet. . . .

His mother is the niece of Mrs. T. B. Russell and of Chester Jones. . . . She's nice-looking—brunette by coloring—and very quiet. . . . Her maiden name was Maude Jones, her father being the late J. E. Jones, who lived in Colorado for a time about eight years ago. . . . Mrs. Jackson, however, never lived here until now. . . . She was reared on the Jones ranch near Eldorado in Schleisher county. . . .

When J. Lee Jones, retiring city secretary, leaves with Mrs. Jones on an indefinite trip to "points south" Sunday or Monday, he will be starting on his first real vacation in 39 years. . . . That, if you ask me, is a long time to have stayed "in harness." . . . And there's no one to deny that Mr. Jones has filled his harness conscientiously and capably throughout those 39 years. . . .

Two more weddings of considerable interest became matters of public knowledge this week as invitations were issued for a shower on Thursday honoring Cleo Sheppard, who is to marry William Greene on May 9, and for one on Saturday for Grace Callan, who will marry Horace (Chester) White of the Shell Pipeline company on May 8. . . .

Hollis B. Dossey, aged 24 years, 3 months, 16 days. Walter Harkel McGee, Jr., aged 2 months, 14 days.

Presenting programs at San Angelo, Abilene, Breckenridge, Ranger and Cisco, the choir will travel by special bus. The sixty members will be accompanied by William E. Jones, director of the department of music, and Miss Ruth Andrews, assistant professor of music and director of a dormitory system.

Miss Slaton, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. B. Slaton, has studied under the direction of Mr. Jones all during the year. She is a freshman at the college majoring in home economics.

Mr. and Mrs. Slaton plan to be in Abilene Friday night to hear their daughter sing.
