

LINKS AND EMBLEMS GIVEN TO FIFTEEN ATHLETES OF CHS

BOYS HONORED FOR GOOD WORK IN THREE FIELDS OF SPORT; EMBLEM TO BE EXCLUSIVE FOR CHS

Establishing a precedent which is planned to become a tradition in Colorado High school, the athletic council this week awarded watch fobs and chains to 15 boys who have done outstanding work in three athletic fields, football, basketball, and track, during recent years.

The awards were made through Coach Jack Christian, who designed the emblem, an exclusive one for Colorado High school. The emblem is a raised wolf's head in gold with the name of the school above and below it and the year beside it.

Links for football, basketball, track, are attached between the chain and the emblem. The athletic council furnished all links earned this year, but the boys were required to pay for links for back years. Hereafter links will be furnished by the council as earned.

Charles Carter received a chain and emblem with five links, three in football, one in basketball, and one as football captain. Van King received three in football, Joe Smallwood two in football, Rudell Glover one in track and one in football, Jack Smith one track and one football, Ernest Smith one basketball and one football, Boone Jackson two footballs, Tommy Chadwick one football and one basketball, Burl Ballard one football and one basketball, and the following one in football: Curtis Woods, J. W. Hodges, Glen Churchill, Duff Chesney, Dale Simpson, and Quinton Hamrick.

Coach Christian personally presented a chain and emblem to Clifford Greener, who lettered in football last year and who has acted as manager for the Wolves this year.

School officials hope that later they can add links for other phases of work, thus giving outstanding students something of value to keep and use for years after graduation. Heretofore the council has given only sweaters, and these to boys who had played their final football for the high school.

FAMILY'S BELONGINGS DESTROYED IN FLAMES SATURDAY AFTERNOON

Practically all the belongings of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Sheridan and their two small children were destroyed by flames which razed a four-room frame house about a mile northwest of Colorado Saturday afternoon around 5 o'clock.

The Colorado fire truck made a run to the scene, the fire being plainly visible from downtown Colorado, but the house was beyond saving when the truck arrived. A windmill and tower were also destroyed by the flames.

Mrs. Morrison bought the house about 20 years ago from C. G. Gay. It was built years before by Dr. B. F. Dulaney.

THIN-BLOODED CITIZENS WELCOME CLOUDS EVEN IF GROUND HOG STORY 'OUT'

Thin-blooded Coloradans, who shiver at the very breath of winter, were thankful for Wednesday's clouds, even tho the press of the state clamored with stories that made light of traditional "ground-hog day."

Only once or twice during the day was there even the thinnest of sunshine, ground-hog believers point out. If Mr. Ground-hog ventured out during those fleeting periods, then he's a contrary so and so and nobody wants to believe in him, anyway.

For the more skeptical-minded here's a typical disillusioning story from a daily paper:

"February 2nd isn't really Ground-hog day. The day is Candlemas Day, a name given to it early in the Christian era. In a churchly sense it commemorates the presentation of the Christ child in the temple and the purification of the mother. But somehow the day got mixed with weather forecasting. A fair day and much winter to come and vice versa."

"The ground-hog isn't a ground-hog. He's a common woodchuck and too often confused with the European hedgehog."

"The ground-hog may come out of his hibernation anytime before, on, or after February 2. It all depends on how fat he is, how cold, how hungry, or the bad air in the burrow or perhaps even on the activity of his endocrine glands."

"As a matter of fact, science has found out that the woodchuck does not arouse himself until the latter half of February, and often not until early March. The earliest date on record for his appearance is February 7, and that was in North Carolina. Moreover, he may hibernate even in summer."

"Finally, if the ground-hog were a ground-hog and he did come out February 2 to see his shadow, you wouldn't know any more about the weather."

NEARLY $125 RAISED HERE FOR FIGHT ON INFANTILE PARALYSIS

Nearly $125 has been sent from Mitchell county to the National Foundation against infantile paralysis as a result of the president's birthday celebrations held here Saturday night.

Harry Ratliff, county celebrations chairman, said Wednesday that officials of the association have assured them will be apportioned to hospitals for crippled children, and that Scottish Rite in Dallas, where Colorado has heretofore sent most of her birthday funds, will receive a greater percentage through this method of distribution than it would get through contributions from the counties themselves.

It is expected that apportionment to Texas hospitals this year will be increased because of the 656 cases of infantile paralysis in the state last summer.

By far the greater part of Mitchell county's money was raised through the dance at the Legion hut, which was crowded to capacity. According to those attending, the music was excellent and the hut more beautiful than on any recent occasion. Decoration was in charge of the Colorado Floral company.

DR. COX WARNS ON TRICHINOSIS

AUSTIN.—Trichinosis is a disease caused by eating raw or partly cooked pork which contains the trichina worm. This disease caused several deaths and an undetermined amount of illness in Texas in 1937," states Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

Definite symptoms and signs of illness are associated with trichinosis. In the beginning there are abdominal pains, nausea, vomiting and diarrhea, lasting about a week. Migration of the embryos in the blood stream causes fever and severe muscle soreness, especially in the diaphragm and the muscles of the arms and legs. The third stage, during which cysts surround the larvae in the muscles, is the critical one. If infection is severe, there may be edema, or swelling of the eyelids and elsewhere, marked loss of weight, weakness and delirium.

The prevention of trichinosis depends primarily upon the thorough cooking of all pork. Most cases follow the indigestion of weiners, sausage or other pork products, eaten in raw or partly cooked form. The hazard of this disease is greater in connection with home butchering, unless safeguards are exercised. Rats should be exterminated because they play an important part in the spread of infection among swine. Prolonged refrigeration, as carried out under federal supervision, destroys trichina larvae. Thorough cooking and the use of meat which bears the stamp of federal inspection are safeguards against trichinosis.

WORDS FOR WINTER
If in this frost and spreading cold I can remember April's sun,
The scent of flowers, and the way A spider's silver snare was spun,
I can believe the splendid tale Of life that springs where life went down:
The fern that lifts its emerald Among the garden stalks of brown,
Reminds me that what yields to sleep Is given earth—but not to keep.
—By Eleanor Alletta Chaffee in The Progressive Farmer.

PORTIONS OF BIG SPRING'S HISTORY OF INTEREST HERE

Portions of the history of Big Spring which John R. Hutto is writing for the Big Spring Daily Herald will prove of much interest to history-minded Coloradans because some of these historical facts touch on this immediate vicinity.

Here is a part of the first article in Hutto's series:

The first authentic history we have of the spring (Big Spring) is found in the reports of Captain R. B. Marcy, the father-in-law of Gen. George B. McClellan, who discovered it on October 3, 1849. Captain Marcy, who traveled Texas with a small group of about 20 soldiers and a few Indian guides under the orders of the War Department, logged his entire trip. From his report we read the following:

"October 3. Leaving the Salt Lake this morning, our bearing was N. 71 E. for eight miles where we reached the border of the high plain . . . here we could see the low bluffs in the direction we were marching, near which our guide informed us we could find a fine spring of water. Fourteen and a half miles of travel over a beautiful road brought us to the spring which we found flowing from a deep chasm in the limestone rocks into an immense reservoir of some fifty feet in depth."

"It is interesting to note that the route pursued by Capt. Marcy in 1849 and followed in part by Capt. Pope's survey in 1854 was followed by numerous emigrants who went to California during the early fifties. It was known as the Marcy Trail, crossed the Pecos below Toyah creek passed through the sand hills in the vicinity of Monahans, thence to Mustangs springs in Martin county, by Big Spring and Moss Springs in Howard county, through Rattlesnake gap, crossed the Colorado north of the present Colorado city, thence by Phantom Hill in Jones county, by Belknap in Young county and on to Preston on the Red River."

"Captain Pope reports to the War Department as follows:

"Camp No. 31, Friday, March 31, 1854—left camp at five minutes till seven o'clock a.m. and moved in the direction of the Big Spring over a rolling prairie. On our route today there is a great quantity of mesquite which becomes particularly abundant as we approach the Big Spring. These springs, surrounded by masses of limestone rock, are situated in a basin or reservoir of the same geological character about sixty feet wide, and to all appearance, about thirty feet deep. The water is excellent. On exploring the rock eminence of the vicinity, we found quantities of the mussel species imbedded in the rock. It is one of the best camps we have stopped at."

"Captain Charles L. Tapiain makes the following interesting report: 'Sunday and Monday, March 26 and 27, 1854. About half a mile above this point is a deep chasm spoken of by Capt. Marcy as 'The Big Spring of the Colorado'. Near them are whole ledges of petrified oyster shells. The rock is principally lime and sand stone. The spring is at least 15 or 20 feet deep and 20 yards wide. . . . We have not lately come upon any Indian tracks."

Range-Land Authority Urges That More Attention Be Given To Care Of Pastures

Coming as it does from a county noted for the amount of terraced range and farm land within its boundaries, this article which T. H. Roench, Fisher county agricultural agent, wrote for a recent edition of the Abilene Reporter-News should prove of interest to Mitchell county farmers and ranchmen:

A successful ranchman, to a large extent, is one who practices a definite plan of ranch management, with other necessary details pertaining to his enterprise.

Personally, I believe the reason ranchmen get into "hot water" all too often is that the pasture on which livestock is carried does not get the due consideration, with the present day changes, which include over-stocking and the natural conditions. Overstocking is easier to control but natural conditions which include the grasses, weeds, water, soil erosion and season rainfall require time and effort, except in the matter of rainfall.

Ranch lands in many cases are similar to cultivated lands in that they are now submarginal, while in former years they afforded good grazing. This condition was brought about in more ways than one; namely, through over-grazing which killed out the native grasses and weeds; through erosion, the replacement of obnoxious weeds and shrubs instead of palatable plants; and then our ranches are of smaller acreage now than they formerly were, which means that more individuals are attempting ranching, thus chances for errors in good ranch management increase.

Since these problems are here, what are some definite practices that the present day ranchmen of West Texas can do?

1. Mixed Grazing Profitable. While cattle and sheep graze mostly on the same plants, sheep may utilize many weeds that cattle have not touched, while cattle can better utilize the coarser grasses. Needle grass which can be utilized by cattle, can ruin sheep grazing as an example. Goats eat browse with little competition from either cattle or sheep.
2. Should Seeding Be Tried? Native grasses are ordinarily better adapted than any of the new introductions. Buffalo, gramma and mesquite are unequalled as yet for West Texas. Their seeds are difficult to harvest, and to date seeds of these are not commercially sold and the plan is to save good native seed where possible and use this method of re-seeding. The latter method of replenishing grasses will require a deferred grazing practice plan so as to give the new plants a chance.

HEALTH EXAMINATIONS
FOR 1,150 COLORADO
STUDENTS THIS WEEK

Sponsored by the Self Culture club and with all doctors of Colorado cooperating, health examinations were given to 1,150 Colorado school children this week.

Doctors taking part were Drs. H. G. Whitmore, J. P. Johnson, J. M. Crymes, T. J. Ratliff, W. S. Rhode, and Oscar Rhode.

The examinations, which included eye, ear, nose and throat tests, required all of Wednesday and half of Thursday.

ONE FARMER'S VIEW OF CROP CONTROL

We suggest putting allotments on a strict percentage basis. The government knows what percentage of cultivated land it will require under average conditions to yield a sufficient quantity of any crop.

Take cotton, for example, and 100 acres as a unit for consideration. Say it requires 40 per cent of tillable land in the Cotton Belt to produce a 10,000,000-bale crop. Let the farmer plant his 40 acres and make much or little. Let him sell it without restriction. If he plants more than his allotment make it impossible for him to sell the excess until the next crop is made, and reduce his permitted acreage enough to cover his previous excess acreage.

This will prevent a lot of unfair practice and at the same time be some inducement to fertilize and build up the soil, and also improve the grade of cotton instead of putting a premium on laziness and inefficiency.—Robert H. Porter, in The Progressive Farmer.

TO SHOW AT FT. WORTH
FORT WORTH.—Livestock exhibitors who have been showing at the Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show for many years will return with entries for the 1938 Show, set for March 11 to 20, Manager John B. Davis announced.

Among the veteran exhibitors who have made entries this year are John E. Painter and Sons of Roggen, Colo., and John Heinz and Sons of Henry, Neb. The Painter entry was three carloads of registered Hereford bulls. Heinz and Sons entered one carload of Hereford bulls.

Entries, arriving on every mail, have come from four states: Texas, Oklahoma, Nebraska and Colorado.

SAVE $10.95 A YEAR ON EACH MULE

On an average, in the Cotton Belt, corn probably costs 1 1/2 cents a pound, or 84 cents a bushel. Allowing $30 a ton or 1 1/2 cents a pound for cottonseed meal when two pounds of cottonseed meal is substituted for four pounds of corn in a mule's ration, there is a saving of 3 cents a day per mule, $10.95 a year, or a saving of $109.50 in feeding ten mules for a year in the feed bill alone, or a saving in the feeding of 6,000,000 horses and mules of $65,700,000.—Dr. Tait Butler in The Progressive Farmer.

GEN. LEE'S JOKE

Have you thought of Robert E. Lee as a man who thoroughly enjoyed a good joke? One cold evening he invited a group of young officers in to partake of a two-gallon jug of some "very fine stuff" sent by a friend. Ceremoniously Lee filled their cups—with buttermilk.—The Progressive Farmer.

J. C. Kellam, State Youth Director, said that local officials of 38 Tarrant county schools selected students from 373 applications to work on 220 part-time School Aid jobs allotted to these schools by the National Youth Administration. These students are employed part-time at a wage not exceeding $6.00 a month.

BROTHER OF TWO COLORADO
WOMEN DIED THURSDAY ON FARM NEAR HERE

Funeral services are to be held at the Christian church in Seymour Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock for Sam Johnson Harvey, 35, who died at Colorado Thursday morning. Harvey was the brother of two Colorado women, Mrs. Ed Durham and Mrs. L. E. Jordan.

In ill health for the past four years, Harvey had been in Colorado for three years before his death. The afternoon before his death he had been sent to the Jack Doss farm west of Colorado in the hope that farm life would improve his health. He died at the farm at 4 o'clock Thursday morning.

He was born in Baylor county and lived for years in Seymour. He has three children, W. S., 12, Emma Frances, 9, and Patsy Ruth, 7, who live in the L. E. Jordan home here. Address of his wife, Mrs. Maude Harvey, is not definitely known, though she is believed to be somewhere in the valley.

Survivors in addition to his wife and children are three brothers, Will Harvey, O. S. Harvey, and C. T. Harvey, all of Seymour; and five sisters, Mrs. Durham and Mrs. Jordan of Colorado, Mrs. Albert Melcar of Garciaville, Mrs. S. A. LaRue of Austin, and Mrs. D. A. Shackelford of Troup.

Kiker & Son have charge of funeral arrangements and will carry the body to Seymour Friday.

Texas Christian University received a total of 766 applications for its allotted quota of 65 NYA College Aid jobs. J. C. Kellam, State Youth Director, has been advised. Youths selected by college officials for these jobs are assigned to clerical assistance, departmental service, ground and building maintenance, laboratory assistance, library work, and recreation work.

SEVEN WELLS
Years have etched in strange engravings
On the face of living stone,
Clearly carved the well spaced foot-prints
Buffalo of Ages gone,
Savage men have left their spear heads,
In the shifting sands about,
Carved initials of the present,
Near a timeworn fading route,
Notwithstanding wind and water,
In an effort to erase,
Polished, etched, its rugged face,
Savage wells, carved out by water,
As it whirled some sharp-edged stone,
Baffled, cut a forked channel,
While the years were moving on.

GOVERNMENT PROGRAMS
SHOW 1937 DEFICITS

WASHINGTON.—The treasury revealed today that the social security and railroad retirement programs cost, up to January 1, $294,681,343 more than the income from the taxes imposed to finance them.

The total expenditures were given as $960,975,659 and receipts $666,294,316.

An official treasury statement—the first of a monthly series on these new federal undertakings—emphasized, however, that such a condition was not to be considered permanent.

Social security taxes, the statement said, were designed primarily to build up a reserve for old age pension benefits whereas in the initial stages they have been applied widely to other uses, chiefly grants to states to aid in getting their security programs started. Such grants accounted for about half the reported expenditures.

The treasury statement gave this breakdown of income from social security and rail retirement taxes:

Old age taxes, $516,935,123; unemployment, $380,645,373; railroad retirement, $63,661,554; unclassified, $2,900,760.

Here is how the money was spent: grants to states, $325,727,255; investments for old age reserves and railroad retirement account, $606,000,000; unclassified, $1,442,820; Administrative, $28,436,410.41.

Stoneroad Issues Appeal For Funds To Be Used By Red Cross In Stricken China

An appeal for funds to be used for the relief of millions of suffering men, women, and children in China was made today by T. W. Stoneroad, Jr., chairman of the Mitchell County Red Cross Chapter, who announced that at the suggestion of President Roosevelt, chapters throughout the country were joining in the appeal.

"In asking our community to assist in raising this fund," Mr. Stoneroad said, "there is little need to emphasize appalling conditions existing around Shanghai and other cities, inasmuch as newspapers, newsreels, and radio have vividly pictured conditions that exist."

He said that this money would be allocated to relief agencies and hospitals already existing, and that a committee of American business men in China, appointed by the American Ambassador, Nelson T. Johnson, would be formed to distribute the fund. No personnel will be sent from the United States.

"In addition to the urgent need for food, shelter, and warm clothing, one of the great needs in China at the present time is for medical assistance," Mr. Stoneroad said. "Great danger exists that epidemics may break out."

Admiral Cary T. Grayson, national Red Cross chairman, said American officials in China had informed him that 650,000 sick and homeless persons were crowding the International Settlement and Greater Shanghai at the present time, with many times that number scattered throughout coastal and interior cities, towns, and villages that have been devastated.

The national chairman also pointed out that lack of adequate housing facilities for the homeless was aggravating the health problem, and that existing public shelters had long been over-crowded, resulting in thousands of homeless being forced to huddle under straw matting shelters without sufficient protection from snows and cold rains sweeping over the country.

Alleys and doorways in the towns and cities were crowded with bewildered men, women, and children, Americans on the scene reported, and since railway services had been disrupted there was no way to evacuate them to other areas.

An offer of assistance to the Japanese Red Cross was made last August by the International Red Cross Committee at Geneva, Mr. Stoneroad said, but it had replied that they were able to care for their own needs.

"The Red Cross has become an international symbol of mercy," Mr. Stoneroad said, "and there is great need for our cooperation at this time. I am sure that our appeal will meet with a generous response, and that we who live in such a fortunate land will assist the suffering and homeless thousands in China."

'Indebtedness' Subject Of Archdeacon Heyes At All Saints' Sunday Evening

"Indebtedness" was the sermon subject which Archdeacon J. W. Heyes used in the evening service at All Saints' Episcopal church Sunday.

After urging self-analysis to reveal how much of one's self that is really worth while can be attributed to one's own efforts, Archdeacon Heyes said:

"The average individual lives his life without creating so much as a ripple on the sea of human existence. He receives more than he gives. He is molded more often than he dreams of, and he seldom molds anyone else.

"Why do people think so much about themselves? Of what avail is our self-opinion? Such silly mental attitudes arise out of sheer egotism and selfishness. . . . Our bid for praise is often the scurrying of the little that is 'me' into the forefront lest I be lost in the vast whole which circumstances have contributed to make up all that constitutes my entire life. What pitiful creatures we humans are! Our ego is small and so we strive to hide our measurements in flamboyant gestures. Why will we not look at ourselves? Stop your egotism; render unto all their dues.

"I submit to you that the life which owes little to humanity and God is the big life. They are the folks whom Ruskin looks on as kings in life's treasures. And it is a pity that the folks who owe much to life can never quite see the isolation of the rare soul which owes little, if anything. One must live a big life before society becomes in debt to it."

KNITTERS OF COLORADO AND OTHER PLACES USE ONE-SIXTH WOOL OUTPUT

If you're one of Colorado's growing army of knitters, then you belong to a class that is responsible for the consumption of one-sixth of Texas' annual wool output, according to the following item:

The state planning board, figuring Texas produced half the nation's raw wool, recently had its research men take a look into the yarn market and found out a few things about knitting.

Board experts say one sixth of the state's annual average output of 60,000,000 pounds of wool is consumed by knitters—a fireside pastime which underwent a rebirth in the World War.

A resolve to put wool sweaters, mittens and socks on every soldier in the A. E. F. caused an epidemic that placed yarn into every home, needles into every easy chair and dropped stitches into the national consciousness.

"The war stopped," the researchers reported, "but the knitting needles and needles kept clicking until 1922 when 10,000,000 pounds of wool were used—an all-time high for yarn-consumption in America.

"Knitting interfered with pleasure in the hectic pre-depression era and the craze died until Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt walked into congressional galleries with a knitting bag under her arm and calmly plied her needles while congress hammered out legislation. And again the nation began to knit."

Planning board authorities say 10,000,000 persons, a twelfth of the population, were following the example of the first lady in 1936.

That knitting is by no means purely a feminine occupation was one of the findings of researchers. A short time ago, they said, England hailed a new monarch whose mother taught him to knit and King Leopold of Belgium "can turn out a necktie with the best of them."

They found the art an ancient one with Scots Highlanders and said the former Prince of Wales took up knitting years ago out of patriotic consideration for Australian wool.

PICKED UP ALONG THE NEWS PATH

Tragedy has come to the Bob Fee household. . . . If you ever lost a beloved dog when you were a kid, then you'll know that "tragedy" is no exaggeration when you learn that Bobby and Ronny have lost their little cocker spaniel, Dawn, doubly treasured because she was a Christmas gift from their Grandmother C. H. Fee of Cisco. . . . Dawn disappeared Wednesday afternoon from the Fee home while the family was away for a few minutes. . . . Ronny, who is sick, cried all night, and Bobby, who isn't sick but feels that way right now, has implicit faith that if Dawn's disappearance is advertised in The Record she'll be returned. . . . He points out that Dawn, being an unusual cocker spaniel, has "big ears and big feet," the ears being a darker tan than the body. . . . Anybody knowing where Dawn is can make two brown-eyed little boys extremely happy, to say nothing of earning a reward for themselves, by seeing that she gets back home. . . .

Does anybody recall a Sanford Webber, said to have ranched near Colorado some 40 years ago? . . . Some tourists were inquiring about him at The Record office the other day, and several old-timers whom we contacted couldn't recall the name. . . .

They say that Diminsky Dockery can almost do an Edgar Bergen for the Charlie McCarthy over at the Keybrook. . . .

When a "crasher" told Floyd Quinney at the birthday dance Saturday night that he was "an Associated Press man here to cover the ball," Floyd is said to have replied: "Give me a dollar and a half and you can cover everything here."

February: Groundhogs. . . . Bright spring dress prints and perky new hats in show windows. . . . A few balmy days that can now be considered forecasters of spring rather than "weather breeders," as the same kind of days were called in December and January. . . . Valentine—and who'll stand alongside me and confess to being old enough to remember when "boughten" ones were rare and treasured? . . . Washington's Birthday, which never reminds me of cherry trees but always reminds me of that certain sandstormy Washington's Birthday some 15 or 16 years ago when school let out and transported itself in a body to one of Mitchell county's discovery oil wells—the Morrison No. 2. I think it was. . . . It was to have been "shot" or something that day, but somehow wasn't, to the best of my memory. . . . And what a sandstorm that was! Everybody's "ear puffs" turned wrong-side-out as they breezed along in Model T touring cars. . . .

When these people who have "gone to market" this week get home I'm going to find out just what going to market means, or know the reason why. . . . Oh, I've a vague idea, of course, but I've often wondered how they make their selections at all in the hectic place that the Dallas and Fort Worth markets must be when buyers get in from all over the state. . . . Colorado's represented there this week by the A. K. Treadaways of the Thornhill store, Mrs. Harry Ragan of Max Berman's, the H. I. Bermans of the Ben Franklin store, and Nat Thomas of the Thomas Dry goods. . . .

Excuse us, please, but we've just got to hand another bouquet to John E. Watson after hearing his praises sung by members of the school board, who elected him for his ninth year as superintendent of Colorado schools Tuesday night. . . . Remember when all school superintendents were "Professors"? Well, then; here's a posey for "Professor" Watson. . . . When he begins that ninth year he will have been superintendent here longer than anybody else has ever been. . . . Unless my history is failing me sadly. . . .

FUNERAL HELD JAN. 14 IN VERNON FOR FORMER MISS GRACE WILLIAMS

Funeral services were held on Friday, Jan. 14, at the First Methodist church in Vernon for Mrs. A. C. Rogers, remembered by many Coloradans as Grace Williams, who lived here a number of years ago.

Mrs. Rogers had been an invalid for several years. The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Williams, now deceased, she was born at Coleman on March 5, 1894. The Williams family lived here while she was growing up. She was graduated from Colorado High school.

In 1916 she was married to Dr. Rogers. One son, Travis, was born to them. They lived at Odell before moving to Vernon.

Besides her husband and son, who is now a student in the University of Texas, Mrs. Williams is survived by two sisters, Mrs. J. R. Banner of Merkel and Mrs. H. A. Welter of Fresno, Calif., and two brothers, R. O. Williams of Los Angeles, Calif., and Jim Williams of the U. S. navy.

ROGERS RAMBLINGS

"Accuse not nature she has done her part: do thou but thine."

Due to cold weather, "unruly" roads, illness in various families, and other handicaps our attendance for Sunday school was very small last Sunday. We are sincerely hoping that our faithful members, some new members, and visitors will be in Sunday with us. Don't forget people that Sunday school begins at 10 o'clock. Please be here. "Better late than never," but if we (each one) assume this atmosphere then when would our services begin and end? Or would they?

Singing!! We had a fine crowd at singing Sunday considering the weather. A few visitors, each of whom we hope will return. We want you to feel at home among our group and we want you with us at every possible chance. Don't believe in gossip! If you've heard about our singing before, whether good or bad, come and see what gossip has done for you. If our entertainment doesn't please the first time, try it again—"practice makes perfect you know."

What are these Seniors doing!!! They are slowly turning nothing into something—yes, sir something big too, and we aren't joking about it. You just watch in the papers, in the store windows, in the cars, in the streets; feel it in the air; see in the movies; here it is in his talk and hers! Folks will hear about, or you've heard about from now until then. Your voices will tell about it; you'll probably sing about it; and will you talk about it? We should say so, in more ways than one. That makes no difference folks, watch for it because its soon going to be here—we hope! When it arrives bringing with it news that will startle the universe. "Dracula" and "Frankenstein" will be absolutely things of the past. Their casts will appear in your minds as amateurs after you've seen and listened to this thrilling drama that is coming, "Phantom Bells." Plenty of comedy to outwit the "Three Stooges" or the "Marx Brothers" will be supplied, also. Watch for the time!! Don't miss it!

Posters announcing the seventh annual pilgrimage of the Natchez (Mississippi) Garden club are of special interest in Colorado because a former Coloradoan, Mrs. Sam Geisenberger (Louise Wulfjen), is one of the leaders in that club.

Mrs. Geisenberger was formerly president of the club and still holds office. Incidentally, she is to be a week-end visitor here in the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Wulfjen.

Mr. and Mrs. Charters returned from there Wednesday. Dr. Lindley was getting ready to go to Odessa to open his new hospital when stricken.

FISHING WITHOUT BAIT?

Yes

For Your Food Business!

Week-end prices are often "bait prices," for the purpose of getting the food buyer into a store with the hopes of selling other items at prices marked too high.

What is A "Loss-Leader?"

A "loss-leader" special is an article priced to the public below the dealer's cost. In other words, it is a "bait" special on which the dealer takes a loss.

The one and only reason a merchant can have for quoting any item below its cost to him is to lure people into his store. Obviously, the loss sustained on "bait" items must be made up by charging higher prices on other merchandise.

Safeway believes in a low pricing policy—a low price on every item . . . every day in the week. We know a visit to our store—and a comparison of prices and quality throughout the store—will do more to convince you that Safeway saves you money on quality foods than pages of prices. For that reason we urge you to Shop Safeway before you buy.

Lay Powell, Colorado Cattleman, Given Write-up In Special Hereford Edition

When the special Hereford edition of the Abilene Reporter-News was published recently, Lay Powell, Colorado cattleman, was given the following write-up:

If there is one Colorado cowboy who can be called more typical than the others, then that one must be Lay Powell, whose been in the cattle business for 22 years, and who has in his own words, "bought the red hills out of about every herd from Okechka to Fort Worth."

Besides being a typical cowboy, Lay Powell is definitely a character. He rarely sees without three horses. He dips a twinkle in his eye and a few thin strands of beard. He wears a hat with an upturned brim and a pair of spurs. He is a man of few words, but when he speaks, he has much to say. He is a man of action, and at all times with a brevity which is almost classical. His dry wit often has become town talk.

Crimes call him secretary of the law. The origin of that nickname is quite clear, although the fact that Powell is secretary of the Colorado Cattle Raisers' Association is a more recent thing. He is a man of many talents. He is a man of many talents. He is a man of many talents.

Lay Powell was born in Boulder county and lived there until he was 22. He later went to Colorado and bought the range. He has been in the cattle business for 22 years. He has a herd of 1000 head of cattle. He has a herd of 1000 head of cattle.

He was once 12 when he bought his first cattle with money earned by working for four bits a day. He bought and trafficking in acquired others as the years went on, and when he decided to move west he had a herd of 1000 head of cattle. He has a herd of 1000 head of cattle.

In Sterling county he had leased 12,000 acres from the state and the H. A. T. C. Cattle Company. He had leased on that land for a time and about five years after his arrival he bought all 12,000 acres. That land is now a part of the Hereford range, having been sold by Powell in 1909 to W. F. and E. P. Elwood.

He before he bought that land Powell had married. The bride was Mattie Thomas of Sterling county. The ceremony was held in 1909. In 1909 Powell bought more land, this time 1,200 acres from the late W. N. Warner. This land is now in the hands of the Colorado Cattle Raisers' Association.

Rural Boys And Girls, Brought In By Bus, Are 'Taking' High Schools Of The County

They are filling the high school honor rolls of Colorado Springs and Westbrook. They are being elected to the highest places in student organizations, and they are walking off with many a popularity contest.

Yet their parents have likely never lived neighbors to anybody in the towns where they are going to school, and when the average town reader sees their names in school news items he thinks, "I don't seem to know half the people here anymore."

They are Mitchell county's rural boys and girls who have been boarding yellow buses in place of going to the "little red schoolhouse" during the past few years and who have come to town in such numbers that they are outnumbering town pupils in every high school in the county except Colorado's.

A check-up of transportation lists in the office of Roy Davis Coles county superintendent, reveals that rural students outnumber home district students in Westbrook High school two to one and that they compose 60% of Loraine High school's student body. They lack but 10% composing half of Colorado High school.

This year there are 18 school buses in operation in the county. In the gray dawn of these winter mornings they start their winding ways over the country roads and highways of Mitchell county. At least one of them passes within two miles of each boy and girl of high school age in the county. Mitchell county's more successful citizens of tomorrow got their start trucking three and four miles each day in blizzards and rain to get a rudimentary high school education in a little country schoolhouse.

And rural educations, even if administered in the same one-room schoolhouses which were used yesterday, are no longer rudimentary. With high school pupils off their hands, rural teachers can now devote all their time to elementary subjects and do more than justice by them.

The longest bus route in Mitchell county is that of the bus serving Hyman and Spade, carrying high school pupils to Westbrook. This bus travels about 40 miles each way, making 80 miles each day. The first pupils which it picks up must be ready shortly after 7:15, since the one-way trip requires about 1 1/2 hours.

That's much earlier, however, than the majority of the rural students in the county have to be ready to go. Seventy-five per cent of the students are picked up after 8 o'clock.

All high school students in rural sections of the county ride the buses, and 75% of the elementary pupils board them to ride to their own district school. Buses are required to go within at least 2 1/2 miles of all students eligible for and desiring transportation.

Schools which have suspended operation in their own district since the coming of bus transportation still receive their money—salary and transportation aid, and tuition aid—from the state just as they would if they were in operation. This pays their expenses in their new locations. Culbert is one rural school which no longer operates, its high school pupils coming to Colorado and its elementary pupils taking their choice of Fairview, Rogers or Horns Chapel. Shepherd is another all its pupils coming to Colorado.

Thus with nearly a score of yellow school buses as their instruments, Mitchell county schools are erasing a line about which some people used to say a great deal, others little according to the amount of common sense they had—the line which once ran between town boys and girls and country boys and girls.

SOCIAL SECURITY QUESTION NO. 4

Editor's Note: This is one of a series of questions and answers being published by this newspaper for the benefit of employees, workers and others affected by the Social Security Act.

QUESTION: What forms are required under the Social Security Act, and where and by whom should they be filed?

ANSWER: Every employee who is not 65 years of age or more and who is in an occupation covered by the Act must file an application on Form SS-4 Application for Employee's Identification Number, and submit such application to the nearest Social Security Board office. Also, every employer in a covered occupation who employs one or more individuals who are under 65 years of age is required to fill out Form SS-4 Application for Employer's Identification Number. Such employees also are required to submit monthly to the Collector of Internal Revenue, Form SS-1, Employer's Return under Title VIII of the Act together with the remittance called for in this form.

In addition, such employers must submit to the Bureau of Internal Revenue Forms SS-2 and SS-2a which are informational returns. The next informational returns will be filed in January, 1938, will cover the period July 1 to December 31, 1937, and will show the amount of taxable wages paid to each employee during the period. No remittance accompanies these returns. If an employee dies or attains the age of 65, his employer will file within fifteen days Form SS-3 which shows the amount of wages paid to the employee during the informational period.

All employers of one or more are also required to make one original report on employees, regardless of their ages to the Texas Unemployment Compensation Commission, Austin, Texas; however, only those employers who employ eight or more workers, regardless of their ages, must make monthly reports and contributions on wages of their employees to the Texas Unemployment Compensation Commission. Quarterly pay-roll reports are also required to be filed by each subject employer.

Employers of eight or more, in addition, are required to make an

Dr. Raliff—'A Country Doctor And Proud Of It'—And Mrs. Raliff Wed Forty Years

A "country doctor and proud of it" is the way Dr. T. J. Raliff of Colorado describes himself. Dr. Raliff and his wife recently celebrated their fortieth wedding anniversary with a dinner at which Colorado relatives were guests.

For nearly 32 years the name of Dr. Raliff has been prominent in the medical history of Colorado and Mitchell county. In addition to his activities in the county, he has served as president of the Mid-West Texas Medical Association, going out of office in 1935. He was city and county health officer from 1914 until 1928, and at present is city health officer.

Certain facts about his birth in Glory, Texas, 10 miles south of Paris, Lamar county, on Nov. 16, 1868, are almost of the "believe-it-or-not" variety. He was the sixteenth child in the Raliff family, born on the thirty-second anniversary of his father's first marriage. The father, Robert Raliff, was married three times. Dr. Raliff being the fifth child of his third marriage. There were 22 children in all, growing up together in a huge, two-story farm home.

Dr. Raliff's early education was received in a one-room school three miles from his home. He had to start before sunup each morning in the winter time to get across the creek bottom in time for school. When he finished all the little school had to offer, he stood examination for a state teachers' certificate and taught the school for one year. His salary was $40 per month for teaching 87 pupils "all there was to teach."

His teaching certificate admitted him to the St. Louis College of Physicians and Surgeons in St. Louis in September, 1893. He finished the course there in three years, although he wasn't graduated until March 17, 1897, because he stayed out one year to practice in Glory. His license to practice was issued on June 4, 1895, before he practiced in Glory. An older brother, Dr. J. D. Raliff, now of Seymour, finished at the St. Louis college in 1900.

Operations for appendicitis were still new when Dr. Raliff was in college, the first authentic appendectomy having been performed by a Dr. McBurney of New York in 1889. Dr. J. A. Close, dean of the college which Dr. Raliff attended had been one of the first hundred appendicitis patients of Dr. McBurney. Dr. Raliff vividly remembers one time when he was eavesdropping in the hall of the hospital which the college maintained and heard Dr. Close decide that a certain patient had appendicitis on the sole conclusion that "his symptoms are just like mine were."

Back to Glory went Dr. Raliff when he finished school to take up the practice of medicine in earnest. In all kinds of weather and at all hours of the day and night he went by horseback and by foot to homes all over the little East Texas settlement. There were few roads in the blacklands in those days, and horseback was the only mode of travel for a man who was called on a moment's notice to the most remote farm homes.

When the black mud was too deep for safety on horseback Dr. Raliff hung his saddlebags across his shoulders, donned heavy overshoes, and walked the fence rows where vegetation kept him from sinking deep in the mud. Traveling by horseback along the deeply-mudded paths at such times was dangerous to both man and beast for there were deep holes where a horse could break a leg and throw his rider, and there were often fence wires down in the mud.

Malaria and pneumonia were the most frequent illnesses. A good supply of quinine was always in Dr. Raliff's saddlebags, for every patient, suffering from pneumonia, malaria, or otherwise had to have quinine because of the active or latent malaria in his system. Calomel and a few rudimentary instruments, such as knives and needles, were also in the bags. The only sterilizing agent known was boiling water—still, Dr. Raliff says, the best there is.

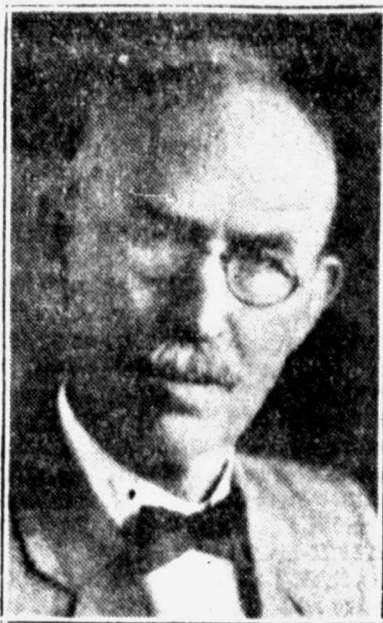

In December after his return to Glory from college Dr. Raliff married Fannie Kirkpatrick, whom he had known practically all his life, her stepmother being his aunt. Fannie Kirkpatrick was born near Frankfort, Kentucky, the daughter of W. J. Kirkpatrick. Her family came to Texas when she was three years old, settling at Glory. Mr. Kirkpatrick was a farmer, stockman, and woodworker. Fannie went to school near Glory, although to a different school than that attended by Dr. Raliff.

After finishing school she attended the Sam Houston normal at Huntsville and then, like Dr. Raliff, returned to Glory to teach the school she had attended. After a year of teaching she became postmistress at Glory for two years, the postoffice being in the store of the late S. C. Raliff.

The courtship of Dr. Raliff and Fannie Kirkpatrick began when she was sixteen. Ten years later, on December 29, 1897, it ended in their marriage at the Glory Baptist church. It was a sunset ceremony and was the Raliffs' recall, rather "an affair" for the place and the times.

An incident of true story-book caliber happened as they drove up at the Kirkpatrick home for a reception following the wedding. Just as Dr. Raliff helped his bride of a few minutes from the buggy an excited expectant father dashed up with an urgent summons for the doctor.

'COUNTRY DOCTOR'

Dr. and Mrs. T. J. Raliff, who recently celebrated their 40th wedding anniversary.

In the movies and stories of today the expert young doctor would doubtless have left his new bride alone to dash off on the trail of duty. But Dr. Raliff was a practical young man and proved it by pointing out to the expectant father that there were plenty other available doctors, that he was just married, that there was about to be a reception, and that he intended to be a bridegroom for a few hours unless a matter of life and death came up.

The Raliffs continued living at Glory for 10 years. Two sons were born to them—Lester, now of Odessa, and Kirk, now of Phoenix, Arizona. In 1905 Dr. Raliff left his wife and babies and went to the New Orleans Polyclinic to take a postgraduate course in surgery. It was when he came back home to an unusually desolate season of rain, red bugs, black mud, and malaria that he decided to seek a new home.

In quest of the new home he went on several trips by train up the Fort Worth and Denver as far as Vernon, where a blizzard turned him back; from Wichita Falls to Seymour, where the railroad stopped them; back to Fort Worth and down the Santa Fe to San Angelo, back to Fort Worth again and westward along the T. & P. as far as Big Spring, from Big Spring to Gail by coach, then back to Colorado.

He decided on Colorado because it needed another doctor. There were only four here at the time—Dr. N. J. Phenix, Dr. P. C. Coleman, Dr. W. R. Smith, and Dr. R. B. Homan. Dr. Homan, suffering ill health at the time was fixing to leave; he later established the Homan sanitarium at El Paso, and it was he who advised Dr. Raliff to come here. Doctors here at that time had to serve a vast territory to the north, there being no railroads between this section and Amarillo.

The Raliffs arrived in Colorado on March 7, 1906. They lived for 9 years in a house which later sheltered another doctor—the late Dr. R. E. Lee. Dr. Raliff opened his office on May 1, but his first Mitchell county case was early in April when he delivered a baby at the John DeMoss farm east of Colorado.

The first surgical case which Dr. Raliff handled in Colorado was an appendectomy for a girl named Dora Barnes. For the operation he fitted up a room in the third story of the old St. James hotel. Dr. Phenix assisted him, and Dr. Coleman gave the anesthetic. The girl had a ruptured appendix, but she lived.

For several years after coming here Dr. Raliff traveled by buggy. He still has the fur cap, coat, and gloves which he wore when facing stinging north winds in an open buggy. When cars came in, he was the first doctor to buy a new one, although Dr. Phenix had a second-hand, two-cylinder Buick which he never drove. Dr. Raliff's first car, bought in August, 1911, was an Overland touring car. It "baked" with him many a time, he recalls, deep sand and high centers being the main trouble, but he never wanted his buggy back.

Dr. Raliff has taken two post-graduate courses since coming to Colorado. One was in serology at Detroit, Michigan, in 1915 and the other in surgery at Chicago in the same year.

He prizes an appointment by President Wilson in 1917 as a first lieutenant in the medical reserve corps, and likes to remember that he was secretary and examiner for the Mitchell county draft board all during the war. One of the Raliff sons, Lester, served as a corporal in the Rainbow division during the war, being overseas 22 months. Dr. Kirk Raliff of Arizona is a first lieutenant with the dental reserve corps. He serves all CCC camps in northern Arizona.

Dr. Raliff is a Mason, a member of the Woodmen of the World, and a deacon in the Baptist church, where he sings in the choir each Sunday that his practice will permit. Mrs. Raliff is an active church worker. She is first vice-president of the Mitchell County Medical Auxiliary, and was in federated club work for 45 years.

One of the most enjoyable occasions which Dr. Raliff has had in recent years was a reunion of all the living children of Robert Raliff in Paris last May. There are ten left—the nine children by Robert Raliff's third wife and one of their half-sisters, Mrs. Abbie Piper of Harold, Texas. The other nine are Dr. J. D. Raliff of Seymour, M. C. Raliff of Colorado, Judge John L. Raliff of Lubbock, Geo. C. Raliff of Hartford, Ark., Sheriff Jas. H. Raliff of Lamar county, Mrs. Molly Ludwick of Paris, Mrs. Mattie Dewese of Paris, Miss Ula Raliff of Paris, and Dr. Raliff of Colorado.

Still Coughing?

No matter how many medicines you have tried for your cough, chest cold, or bronchial irritation, you can get relief now with Creomulsion. Serious trouble may be brewing and you cannot afford to take a chance with any remedy less potent than Creomulsion, which goes right to the seat of the trouble and aids nature to soothe and heal the inflamed mucous membranes and to loosen and expel the germ-laden phlegm.

Even if other remedies have failed, don't be discouraged, try Creomulsion. Your druggist is authorized to refund your money if you are not thoroughly satisfied with the benefits obtained from the very first bottle. Creomulsion is one word—not two, and it has no hyphen in it. Ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

Further Reports

—on banking show added indications of strength and stability.

OUR previous advertisement in this series described the fine progress in American Banking as reported by both state and national bank supervisory officials.

Another particularly significant item, recently issued by U. S. Reconstruction Finance Corporation at Washington, D. C., stated that the banks and trust companies which had borrowed money from it have repaid 89% of their loans. The R. F. C. was organized in 1932 to aid banks in meeting the abnormal demands of the times. Since that time about 7,500 banking institutions have received from advances of $1,900,000,000 and have returned more than $1,600,000,000. This has been made possible through the strengthening of their own financial conditions and the return of public confidence and stability.

This bank is an integral part of the nation's sound and serviceable banking structure.

WOMEN IN THE STUDY CLUBS

1921 Study Club

"Art in the Home" was studied when the 1921 Study club met Friday with Mrs. R. P. Price as hostess and Mrs. Van Boston as leader. "Value of the Study of Interior Decoration to the Housewife" was Mrs. J. T. Pritchett's topic, which opened the program. Mrs. R. P. Price had the subjects, "Side Lights on Color in Decoration," and Mrs. A. R. Norred talked on "Picture Arrangement." The club voted to sponsor Ruth Hardison in the best-dressed girl contest of the Home Economics department of Colorado High school. Mrs. Ed Jones, Sr., outlined plans for an all-day federation institute some time soon. Mrs. P. K. Mackey, who is going to live in Lubbock for the next few months while her daughter, Mary Frances, goes to Texas Tech, was granted a leave of absence. The club made a $5 donation to the Big Bend park fund. The next meeting is to be with Mrs. J. M. Doss. Zelagathian The famous Russian play "Tovarich" was reviewed and discussed at the Zelagathian club meeting with Mrs. Jenks Powell Friday afternoon. Review of the play, which was translated from the Russian by Robert Sherwood, was given by Mrs. Thompson of Butler camp. Mrs. D. W. Haralson was leader for the afternoon. Reports from all standing committees were heard during the business hour. Refreshments after the lesson included salad, individual cherry pie, and coffee. Mrs. Sherrod Smith will be the next hostess.

Self Culture

A safety program was led by Mrs. Lee Phenix when the Self Culture club met with Mrs. E. B. Willbanks Friday. Lessons derived from a personal accident were outlined during roll call. Mrs. Lee Lavender discussed "Fatal Foolishness," Mrs. H. G. Whitmore "For Safety's Sake," and Mrs. A. F. King "Teaching Safety to School Children." A parliamentary drill closed the lesson. Mrs. Willbanks served cake with orange sauce, ice cream and coffee. The club's next meeting will be with Mrs. Phenix at the C. P. Gary home.

Hesperian

Another lesson on Great Britain was the Hesperian club's study Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Nat Thomas. Miss Gladys Miller was lesson leader, presiding as roll call was conducted on "Men and Women of England" and while topics were given as follows: "The Church of England's Place in British Life," Mrs. S. H. Millwee; "English Art and Architecture," Mrs. F. C. Shillingsburg; "English Literature From the Beginning to the Norman Conquest," Mrs. J. W. Randle; "English Literature from the Norman Conquest to the Reformation Under Henry VIII," Mrs. J. D. Williams, Jr.; "English Literature from the Reformation to the Present Time," Miss Gladys Miller. Discussion of possible study courses for next year took up most of the business hour. The next meeting will be with Mrs. E. H. Winn.

Standard

Naming of Mrs. Hubert Smith and Mrs. Homer Hutchinson on the year book committee for next year featured the business part of the Standard club's meeting with Mrs. R. B. Terrell Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. Lee Jones. With Mrs. P. C. Coleman leading, Mrs. Hutchinson gave a paper comparing "Merry Wives of Windsor" with other comedies by Shakespeare. Refreshments were served to Mesdames Coleman, C. M. Adams, R. D. Buchanan, J. A. Buchanan, Terrell, Jones, and Hutchinson. Elizabeth Terrell will be hostess for the next meeting.

Shakespeare

The first lesson in Shakespeare's "Twelfth Night" was studied at the Shakespeare club meeting with Mrs. W. R. Motley Friday. Mrs. John Arnett was leader. Current events were lesson topics in addition to the play. The club voted to sponsor Blanche Motley in the best-dressed girl contest of the Colorado High school home economics department. The club adjourned after refreshments, and will meet this Friday with Mrs. Thos. R. Smith.

HOME-MADE BREAD HAS DISTINCT FLAVOR

Bread tastes best when it has just been taken out of the oven, when it has that distinct "home flavor." So for that reason why not treat the family occasionally with home-made loaves?

You will get best results if you use an earthen mixing bowl, as it retains warmth better than thinner bowls. Do not measure the flour until it has been sifted once, and then remember to re-sift it twice as the sifting lightens the flour and separates the grains. The ingredients needed are the following:

1 1/2 cup of Quaker Oats
2 teaspoonsful of salt
1/2 cup of sugar
2 cups of boiling water
1 cake yeast
1/4 cup lukewarm water
5 cups of Quaker flour

Pour boiling water over Quaker Oats, mixed with salt and sugar. When this is lukewarm, add yeast dissolved in lukewarm water, then add the sifted flour. Knead slightly and let rise in a warm place for about two hours. Knead, form into two loaves, put in pans, let rise and bake about 50 minutes.

TEXAS WPA MATERIALS IN 1937 COST $7,829,902

SAN ANTONIO—Materials, supplies and equipment for use on Works Progress Administration projects in Texas were purchased at a total cost of $7,829,902 during the calendar year 1937, it was disclosed by Stearns S. Tucker, deputy state administrator.

Purchases of textile for use in WPA sewing rooms, cement to be used in construction work, and lumber products were items upon which the largest amounts of money were spent.

All purchases for WPA projects are made through the Procurement Division of the United States Treasury. Such purchases are made locally wherever possible, Tucker said.

Purchases for the twelve months of 1937 were listed as follows in Tucker's report:

Lumber and its products, $821,139; paints and varnishes, $39,149; sand and gravel, $461,964; crushed stone, $258,386; cement, $955,248; concrete products, $164,428; brick, hollow tile, and other clay products, $242,727; stone and glass products, $164,427; structural and reinforcing steel, $469,794; cast iron pipe fittings, $360,175; plumbing, equipment and supplies, $23,490; other iron and steel products, $274,046; paving materials and mixtures, $579,413; petroleum products, $47,979; office supplies and equipment, $70,469; textiles, $2,599,528; chemicals and explosives, $88,214; tires and rubber goods, $3,914; non-ferrous metals, $46,979; miscellaneous, $164,428.

EDITORIAL
TIMES HAVE CHANGED
When this writer was a boy he liked going to the patent medicine shows. The shows in that day were good. We all went and enjoyed ourselves. What has become of the old opera houses? What is now known in Colorado as the "Terry Place" was Colorado's old opera house twenty-five years ago. The movies have spoiled us, not only for the impromptu stage but for the metropolitan playhouse. Grand opera has to be good these days or we shrug our shoulders and reduce our patronage. In a thousand towns, embellished movie houses now adorn lots where livery stables flourished in other years. The new medium shows us life as it might be lived if all the world were a movie. We get glimpses of foreign lands, of ancient palaces, of grandiose kings and weeping princesses. We have been made conscious of beauty, not only beauty in the form of actresses but beauty in nature. All the actresses are not beautiful but those not beautiful wear beautiful clothes. We are given to see beauty in its bath, and we go home feeling cleansed. We behold virtue under trial and witness its triumph. All this contributes to our culture. We forget the overripe tomatoes, and retire happy in the recollection of seeing police gauging upon gangsters.

This writer remembers back in the early 80's more than 50 years ago when eggs were 8c a dozen, butter 30c a pound, milk was 5c a quart, the butcher gave away liver and treated the kids with bologna, the hired girl received $2.00 a week and did the washing. Women concealed their ankles and did not powder and paint, smoke or vote or play poker. Men wore whiskers and boots, chewed tobacco, spat on the sidewalk and eused, beer was 5c and the lunch free. Laborers worked ten hours a day and never went on strike. The check grafter was unknown. A kerosene hanging lamp and a stereoscope in the parlor were luxuries. No one was ever operated on for appendicitis or had his tonsils removed. Microbes were unheard of. Folks lived to a good, ripe old age and every year walked miles to wish their friends a Merry Christmas.

YOUTH NOT SO BAD
In these days when we see column after column daily filled with accounts of youthful criminals, when we meet brazen, drinking youth by the carloads, we get the worst sort of blues and feel that the land is headed for the devil's range in a hurry.

Well, for a change, try looking at the young people in the quiet ways, off the front page and the concrete ribbons. On inside columns of one recent paper were two brief accounts which throw a brilliant light on our growing crop of men and women.

A dispatch from Kansas City told of nearly twenty thousand Texas country boys who last year had a part in the activities of the Future armers of America. These boys are not merely students of vocational agriculture but each one is actively engaged in making a commercial success of the things taught in his classes. Perhaps more important is the training and practice in leadership and citizenship.

This work has grown quietly into a mighty force for the making of character and for an economic assurance which outweighs any sort of static security.

The other item was the decision of four graduates of a Christian university romantic enough to light the vision of youth, idealistic enough to warm the dreams of age.

You probably read it—the plan of the Keys quadruplets, 1937 graduates of Baylor University, to capitalize the public interest in themselves—for the sake of orphan children of their section.

When we find boys of the wild out age seriously applying themselves toward the improvement of their father's industry and widely publicized young women laying their career on the altar for humanity, well, with Paul at Appi Forum, we can thank God and take courage.

POETRY
This column is not much given to poetry but here is a good one sent in by Wm. H. Harrison from Washington, D. C.

TIRED
I'm tired—oh, so tired—of the whole new deal
Of the juggler's smile; the Barker's spiel;
Of the mushy speech and the loud bassoon;
And tiredest of all of our leader's croon.

Tired of taxes on my ham and eggs;
Tired of "payoffs" to political yeggs;
Tired of Jim Farley's stamps on my mail;
Tired of any shirt with its tax-shortened tail.

I'm tired of the farmers goose-stepping to laws;
Of millions of itching job-holders' paws;
Of "fireside talks" over commandeered mikes;
Of passing more laws to stimulate strikes.

I'm tired of the hourly-increasing debt;
Of millions of promises, still to be met;
Of eating and sleeping by Government plan;
Of calmly forgetting the "forgotten man."

I'm tired of every new brain trust thought;
Of the Ship of State—now a pleasure yacht;
I'm tired of cheating the court by stealth;
And terribly tired of sharing my wealth.

I'm tired of Eleanor on Page No. 1;
Of royal "in-law" and favorite son;
I'm tired of "Sistie" and "Buzzie" Dall;
I'm simply—completely—fed up with it all.

Here is a letter from our old friend H. L. Baker about our article last week on Baptism:

BAPTISM
The Georgetown Sun in last week's Colorado Record had quite a say on Baptism and the scriptures he used prove right the opposite if properly read and understood. The last part of verse 16 in Mark 16 simply means if we don't believe the first part of the verse with other Bible truths we will be damned. Next he did some translation. Translate the word for in Acts 2:38, because of. No reputable translator so renders the word. He next takes 1 Peter 3:21. Without help it would be impossible to misunderstand the lesson that Peter taught. The figure eight rules were sailed by water. The water now sails us by rendering complete obedience as the Eight did. As clear as the noonday sun. Next he takes up the jailer in Acts 16:30. Words could not make it any easier understood that Paul taught the jailer, as the lord instructed in the commission given in Matthew 28:19, "Go ye therefore and teach all nations baptizing them in the name of the father and of the Son and of the Holy Ghost."

Now read Acts 16:30 to 34 and it is easy to see how the jailer was taught. Yes, Uncle Fred. We can ride the train but the railroad has the right to say on what terms we can ride. Then if our behavior is in keeping with their terms we will reach our destination.

No Paul did not advise the jailer to join a church. No New Testament writer or teacher ever did that. No person ever left his teacher in the New Testament, until he was baptized and nobody ever rejoiced before baptism. Paul tells the Galatians they are in Christ and states how they got in Christ, Galatians 3:27. The same Paul tells the Ephesians that there is only one lord, one faith, one Baptism, Ephesians 4:5. I know of no promise in the Bible short of obedience to God's word.

AN INDEX AS TO CHARACTER
It might not be an altogether incorrect standard to judge one character by his appreciation of the beauties of nature and art. It is at least an index to character and personality. One does not have to be an astronomer to walk out into the moonlight and gaze upward at the most magnificent of all spectacles. That blue concave canopy of astral glory is a challenge to man's faculties that make him superior to the birds of the air and beasts of the field. Yet even some of these denizens of woodland and meadow seem to have derived their beauty from their surroundings.

The resemblance in color of the squirrel's and the rabbit's coats reflects their environment, while at the same time making their discovery more difficult by their enemies, including man. The glint of the bird's wing in the sunshine impels exclamations of pleasure as one watches its graceful maneuvers in the air. The delicate tracery of design and color on the butterfly's wings evidence the far reaching penetration of beauty throughout the creation.

This thought recalls probably the oft-quoted lines of Gray's immortal "Elegy Written in a Country Churchyard":
Full many a gem of purest ray serene
The dark unfathomed caves of ocean bear
Full many a flower is born to blush unseen
And waste its sweetness on the desert air.

MAN'S SUPERIORITY
The natural admiration man has for the glories and magnificence of nature's handiwork constitute one of the most decisive evidences of his more excellent attributes over those of the lower animals. The wild beast roams about in the forests and jungles, but give no heed to the flowers and plants that surround them. Amphibians live in both land and water but fail to appreciate the beauties of either, or those in the sky above them. The frog sits on a water lily pad and croaks his raucous nocturnal notes without being conscious of the lily's flower, or the soft rays of the moon which gives mellow radiance to the landscape that surrounds the pond in which the lily grows and which he makes his habitat.

Thus it is seen that man's superiority to the beasts and birds, reptiles and insects, must be gauged in large measure by his ability to appreciate and admire the beauties of nature, including that of some of the lower creatures which are not conscious of those of the landscape or of their own. In this lack of appreciation for their own attractiveness they are also different from men and women. If a woman is comely, she knows it, if the man is handsome he is quite conscious of it.

It is certainly regrettable that all men and women do not have this ability to recognize and admire all that is appealing to man's highest sense, including the recognition of jewels of thought which can be dug out of the mines in the form of books as well as hearing them in spoken words.

THE LOWLY BLACKSMITH
In my boyhood days it was one of my greatest pleasures to visit the country blacksmith shop and watch him sharpen the plow points.

The blacksmith has been an honored member of society ever since Tubal Cain. Tubal was a regular blacksmith, whereas Vulcan, who preceded him, was a Greek myth. Tubal Cain was the son of Cain, who slew his brother Abel, and ran away into the land of Nod. Tubal had a brother named Jubal, who became a musician. While Tubal was busy shoeing horses and beating raw iron into prounging hooks Jubal was holding concerts and promoting culture. He should not be condemned for that, but the blacksmiths of this world have contributed more to culture than the musicians. Blacksmiths helped to establish culture by providing civilization with the means to keep going. Civilization develops the arts, but artisans develop civilization.

According to Brewster's Dictionary of Phrase and Fable the legend that a horseshoe brings good luck is supposed to have originated with St. Dunstan, who was noted for his skill in shoeing horses. One day Satan himself is said to have appeared and demanded that his "single hoof" should be shod. St. Dunstan, recognizing his customer, tied him tightly to the wall and proceeded to do as he was bid, but purposely inflicted so much pain that his satanic majesty begged for mercy. Thereupon St. Dunstan released his captive after having extracted from him a promise that he would never enter a place where a horseshoe was displayed. Thus reads the legend. And so, for many centuries, observes a writer in the New York Herald Tribune, the horseshoe has been looked upon as a charm against evil and a bringer of good fortune.

It is to be regretted that St. Dunstan didn't keep Old Nick chained to the wall when he had the rascal in his power.

The perfect and complete atonement for sin is obtained through the blood of Jesus Christ once offered, and through that alone. I commit my soul into the hands of my Savior, in full confidence that having redeemed it and washed it in His most precious blood, He will present it faultless before the throne of my Heavenly Father; and I entreat my children to maintain and defend, at all hazards, and at any cost of personal sacrifice, the blessed doctrine of the complete atonement for sin through the blood of Jesus Christ, once offered, and through that alone.

IT CAN BE DONE
Here is a puzzle, can you solve it?
A train consisting of one engine and two cars met another train consisting of one engine and two cars on a single track. Between them was a turntable that could turn no more than two units at a time, that is one engine, one car, two engines, two cars, or one engine and one car. How were they able to pass each other and proceed in the same relative positions as when they met.

NYA GETS WORK FOR OVER 800 YOUTH
AUSTIN—Private employment was obtained during December 1937 for more than 800 Texas youths through the four Junior Placement offices operated in Texas by the Texas State Employment Service and the National Youth Administration and through the efforts of the NYA staff. J. C. Kellam, Texas Youth Director, said that more than 7,000 placements of youths between the ages of 16 and 21 had been made during the year.

The four Junior Placement offices in Houston, Dallas, Fort Worth, and San Antonio reported that 393 boys and 329 girls between the ages of 16 and 21 were placed in private employment during December. National Youth Administration officials reported that 101 youths assigned to NYA Work Projects in other Texas cities had also accepted private employment during the month.

Services of Junior Placement offices are available without cost to all youths who need jobs or seek counsel regarding employment.

Magic Ability of Rev. Haley Put To Further Use In Paying Way At Revival

His use of magic "tricks" in making his sermons more understandable and more interesting has already brought a certain amount of fame to the Rev. A. L. Haley, pastor of First Christian church at Colorado, but now this cheerful, energetic little minister is putting his ability as a "magician" and entertainer to an even more tangible use in his preaching profession.

The Rev. Mr. Haley is newly home from conducting a revival at Brownfield, Texas—a revival which would have been almost impossible from the point of finances had the Rev. Mr. Haley not put his talents to work to pay his way while holding it. The Brownfield Christian church had but 15 members when he went there and had not had regular preaching in five years.

To pay his expenses while conducting the revival, the Rev. Mr. Haley gave entertainments at the surrounding rural schools, one entertainment each day, since he held preaching

SUBSIDY PAYMENT IS CALLED 'OBLIGATORY'

WASHINGTON—Senator Connally (D-Tex.) said recently the three-cent subsidy payment for the 1937 cotton crop had been authorized and should be made to producers regardless of the terms of any farm legislation during this session of congress.

Connally said he had received numerous inquiries whether the payment would be made in the event the present farm bill should fail to pass.

"The provision authorizing this payment was proposed by me in a joint resolution and was incorporated in the third deficiency bill," he said.

"A definite moral obligation has been incurred by the government to make these payments. If any doubt arises as to the completion of payments, I shall immediately offer any legislation necessary to direct that they be made forthwith, and I am convinced that the congress would recognize its obligation and pass such legislation at once."

Mr. and Mrs. Dell Barber made a trip to Big Spring Saturday.

COTTON PRODUCTS COST LESS THAN SUBSTITUTES

AUSTIN—Demand for raw cotton, in the final analysis, results from the facts that it can be made into commodities which satisfy wants, and that the products made from cotton are cheaper than satisfactory substitutes made from other materials. It was declared by Dr. A. B. Cox, director of the Bureau of Business Research of The University of Texas and internationally known cotton economist.

"This suggests that the huge demand for cotton has been built on its desirable qualities as a raw material for manufacture, and because of its cheapness," Dr. Cox said.

"Raw cotton itself is used for manufacture and for nothing else. Almost 100 per cent of the raw cotton must be spun into yarn before it is usable, and a large per cent of the yarn must be woven into cloth. Since this is the case, it is a universal custom to measure the demand for cotton by the volume of cotton spinning mill consumption. All spinning mills do not use the same amount of cotton per spindle, as that is determined largely by the fineness of yarn made and the hours per day the mill is operated. In the main, however, locations of the cotton spinning spindles of the world locate, the world's demand for raw cotton.

"Demand in foreign markets for United States cotton fell tremendously during the depression and as yet is showing no signs of recovery. Average exports of cotton from the United States during the five years ending August 1, 1929, were 8,514,000 bales, compared with an average of 5,494,000 bales during the last three years. Where has this loss in foreign demand occurred? During the five years ending August 1, 1929, Europe took an average of 6,858,000 bales of United States cotton; Asia, 1,330,000 bales, and all other countries, 326,000. During the three years ending August 1, 1937, Europe took an average of 3,512,000 bales of United States cotton; Asia, 1,571,000, and all other countries, 321,000 bales.

FIRE LOSS LOW IN STATE DURING YEAR

AUSTIN—Texas experienced the second lowest fire loss year in its history during 1937. Marvin Hall, State fire insurance commissioner, announced recently. An unofficial check of the Commission's records show that only the 1935 total of $6,008,363 was below the total during the past twelve months of approximately $6,400,000.

"When contrasted with the losses of former years," Commissioner Hall explained, "the 1937 losses are surprisingly small. The 1931 losses amounted to $17,565,457, the 1930 losses to $17,225,417, and the 1929 losses to $15,664,858. Such a large decrease in so few years definitely reflects great progress in fire prevention and control."

Since he took office on January 4, 1937, Hall has been a leader in fire prevention activities. His policies in this respect are largely responsible for the low loss record of the past year.

According to Hall, for the first six months of 1937 the losses dipped under any other six-month period on record, but an increase in fires over the State generally from July to December pushed the year's total up to right above that of 1935.

"Such a low fire loss as that of the past twelve months means a direct saving to the people of this State of approximately $2,000,000, as the fire record of each city and town plays an important part in the determination of the cost of insurance," Hall said. "In addition to this fact, the low loss reflects a period of prosperity, not a business recession; the records of this Department show that high fire losses invariably go hand in hand with times of depression.

"The 1937 record is a compliment to the efficiency of Texas firemen, and proves what can be done when the people of this State cooperate in an effort to reduce wasteful loss of life and property through fires. The aim of the Fire Insurance Department is to help Texas citizens set an all-time record low in 1938."

WESTBROOK SCHOOL NEWS

Editor—Elizabeth Young. Reporters—Senior—Florene Davis. Junior—Iris Costin.

Sophomore—Ruby Jo Fortune. Freshman—Elzan Castleman. Seventh Grade—Leon Moore.

THE SEVENTH GRADE Mrs. Cope started teaching the seventh grade history Monday. This subject was taught last semester by Miss McMurry.

Some of the seventh graders have started taking woodwork after mid-term. The agriculture teacher, Mr. Cox is teaching it. Those seventh graders who do not take woodwork study agriculture in the eight grade study hall.

Elizabeth Main was absent Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday. She was visiting her sister in Strawn, Texas. The seventh grade girls played basketball with Carr Friday and won by the score of 8 to 10.

Some of the seventh graders have started practicing their declamation. Miss McMurry has charge of it. Since Mrs. Cope got a boy by the collar in the study hall for frowning the seventh grade has been all smiles.

rene is from Colorado. We are very glad to have them. Monday afternoon, when the puppet show was here most of the freshmen enjoyed it. Some of them even told Jackie "Hello."

Friday Mr. Fowler promised us a test in Science on Monday. When Monday came some of the boys had gone to a ball game, but he gave it to the ones that were here anyway (for which we didn't make very much).

SOPHOMORE REPORT

No report was handed in last week on account of sickness. I had a slight cold, and so I remained at home to do my suffering. (Although some people won't believe it).

The sophomores have been working very hard on the play we will soon give. The name is "A Ready Made Family!" It is comical all the way through, and we expect to give you lots of laughs. Some of the lines you will hear are—Gracie: (Slaps Henry's cheeks) If you're ripe—you go punk! And if you're green you go punk! (Slaps Henry's face resoundingly) listen—he goes punk! Henry: Good gosh—And so the play goes on, just as comical.

Scandal! Florence seems to be revealing everyone else's boy friend, but why doesn't she reveal her own (or does she have one)?

The seniors have been teasing Rena Oliver and Billy Waters about something.

We are ashamed of the way some of the sophomores celebrated the President's Birthday Ball, but we'll not mention any names. One came back with the report that she saw her boy friend at the dance with another girl. My, my, my, what is this younger generation coming to?

SENIOR NEWS Melba Harris spent the week-end in Coahoma.

Billy Waters has returned from Fort Worth where he took his father for medical treatment.

Billy Waters and Rena Oliver's names were on the blackboard in the senior room all day Monday. No one seemed to care enough to erase; we are now wondering if they are really "that way."

THE SENIORS ENJOYED THE health puppet show that was given Monday afternoon.

OUT OF: THE NEWS BOX Rena Oliver has been studying the racial question. From all reports she watched every person in Colorado over the week-end, in order that she might learn more about the characteristics of the "other colors."

We might add that she is to impersonate a negro in the sophomore play.

Mr. Hood: Iris, will you answer the question, please.

Mr. Hood: You don't seem to know anything anymore, Iris, what is the matter with you?

We wonder what it is too. Could it be something about half pint buckets or not.

SENIOR BOYS WIN CONSOLATION AT GARDEN CITY From all reports the senior boys somewhat redeemed themselves in the eyes of everybody as they fought their way to a cup this week-end at Garden City. After the first game which they lost to Lakeview by 16 points, 12 to 28, they made an unbroken march toward consolation, defeating in turn Courtney and Garden City by scores of 22-23 and 14-15.

Westbrook High school is very proud of the senior boys and fully appreciate the fact that Consolation is a grand accomplishment in a tournament of that type.

The junior girls won their game from Carr, 8 to 10, Friday afternoon. The Carr girls return the game Tuesday of this week.

The boys start playing in the county interscholastic meet Tuesday.

PUPPET SHOW GIVEN MONDAY The students of Westbrook and surrounding communities were entertained Monday afternoon by the puppet show presented by the County Dental Association. Students of Carr and Conaway came over at 1:45 to see the educational feature. From all reports, everyone enjoyed it very much, and appreciated the display of remarkable talent.

COLORADO HAS INTEREST IN BROWNFIELD FUGITIVE

Two things gave Coloradoans an interest in a Brownfield News story on the escape and recapture of Howard Atchison, 32, last week.

One of these was the fact that Atchison is wanted in Colorado on a forgery charge, the other that the car he stole in making his getaway belonged to Rex Headstream, cousin of Dean Headstream of Colorado.

The Brownfield News story follows: "Howard Atchison, 32, who escaped from the Terry county jail last Wednesday afternoon when workmen who were repairing the building left doors unlocked, was captured near Anadarko, Oklahoma, by officers there, after a description of him had been issued by Sheriff C. D. Gore of this place.

"He had previously escaped from a prison road camp in Oklahoma while serving a term there. He was arrested with three other persons when halted for reckless driving by highway officers.

"He was returned to the McAlester penitentiary. Sheriff Gore left for McAlester penitentiary to arrange for his return, or to satisfy Oklahoma authorities, and to obtain the car stolen from Rex Headstream at this place, and in which the prisoner was driving when captured.

"The car was a 1936 model Chevrolet which was standing empty at the curb when the prisoner made good his escape.

"Forty-six years in sentences have been assessed against the man in this state alone, and other sentences are hanging over him in Oklahoma and New Mexico."

SENIOR CLATTER
 After a series of class meetings, the two favorite girls and the two favorite boys were elected by the class. They are Frances Cooper, Betty Hodge, Dale Simpson, and Joe Lee. Their pictures will appear in the "Senior Memory Book."

The senior president, Quinton Hamrick, is back in school this week after having scarlet fever.
 The senior English classes are taking a course on manners. The effect of the first lesson was shown Tuesday by smiles, greetings, and salutations.

The class had a meeting in the auditorium Tuesday at ten minutes until twelve with Quinton Hamrick in charge. The problem of making money was discussed. The seniors are entering into the basketball games which are between the classes, wholeheartedly. A Varsity Show, a Spanish banquet in Mexican town, and a rummage sale are planned in the near future.

JUNIORS SHOW GREAT INTEREST

The Junior class smashed a sensational victory over the Sophomore team in the first game of the Inter-Class Tourney. Although the game was the main interest, the contest for the gate receipts caused great excitement. During the tournament the class which has the largest number out to all four games will receive one-half of all the money their class paid at the gate, the remainder of the proceeds going to the Junior class which is sponsoring the tournament. These proceeds are to benefit the annual Junior-Senior banquet. The Junior class gave full support to its winning team by sitting together on the north benches and giving numerous encouraging yells for the team, the coach, and the class. The boys who played hard to win were Thomas Chadwick, Curtis Wood, Sam Richardson, Jimmie Harrison, Dick Jones, Robert Lacy, J. T. Williams and Alvin Smith. Sam Richardson was high point man. The Junior class is proud of this team and it is determined they will play the faculty. The Sophs beat the Juniors on the gate receipts by only a small amount, the Sophs totaling $5.15 and the Juniors $5.10. Mr. Christian immediately put up his plea again the following day to the Juniors to attend the entire tournament so the class could win the entire gate receipts, for stated Mr. Christian, "We can't afford not to win!"

JUNIORS AT WORK

The Juniors have begun their second semester with quite an interesting attitude. In English they must have "thematics" or get it. The geometry classes are running in circles and chemistry is really beginning to be mixed up. Bookkeeping is still bookkeeping but well— isn't that enough? Typing seems to be getting more complicated than ever for it was overheard a certain Junior boy to say he didn't know he did have so many fingers. Public speaking is getting to be so public that the loudest in school. Although this attitude seems rather crazy, it is the truth but the Juniors are a hardy group and much to the disappointment of the teachers they think their health will hold out.

SOPHOMORE NEWS

Among soph entries in the Best Dressed Girl contest are Ann Axtell, Virginia Cockrell, Billie Arnold, Ruth Griffith, Inez Rogers, and Nina K. Quinney.
 First year Spanish students have been having an exciting time in class, with tests arranged in puzzle form. It's like taking castor oil in orange juice—it looks different but the taste is still there. Yet there are those who say the puzzling tests are fun—and easy as pie.
 Beulah has added a couple of new titles to her ever-growing list—she succeeds Doris Wynne as president of the Homemakers Club, and is secretary-treasurer of the newly-formed tennis club.

It is reported that Soph Dook Cox made seven of Colorado's eight points in a game played in the Snyder tournament.
 All C. H. S. needs now is a Camera club. It there a photographer on the campus?
 Several Sophs made the typing honor roll for the first semester, among them being Harvey Cook, Billie Chaney, Charles Hill, and Doris Doss.
 Cora Mae Bodine was gallivanting in Austin the first of the week.
 Harvey Cook has passed the final test and is now the third Eagle Scout in Colorado's history.
 Who is Buster's heat wave now? Jeannie for Band Sweetie.
 The Sophs lost to the Juniors 25-18 in the interclass tournament and met the fish in game Tuesday to decide third and last place winners (or is it losers?)

Glimpsed at the President's Ball were Jeanie, Harriet Ann, Harry Eta, Buzzy, and Buster.

The faculty game is eagerly awaited. From the lineup it is seen that the pros will give the interclass winners quite a tussle. The game promises to be an exciting encounter, so save your pennies.
 Why was Freddie's face so pink when she was accidentally called Jimmy in one of her classes?
 Mr. Mason was ill last week.
 Earnest Porter's secret "passion" must be Sonia Henie—he has seen "Thin Ice" five times.

FRESHMAN NEWS
 The Freshmen had a class meeting after assembly on Monday. They decided that they would all try to go to the ball games and get some money in their treasury. If they receive half the money for having the largest attendance at the ball games, they want to go on a picnic or have some other outdoor affair.
 Another class meeting took place after assembly on Wednesday. The Fish found that they only took in $3.40 and if they expect to win this contest, decided they would have to do better. Several "pep" talks were made by the different members of the class. Another pep leader, for the class, was elected. She is Imogene Hamer, who is to assist Joyce Levens, our former leader. As a result of this meeting the freshmen led in gate receipts at $6.80.

NOTICE
 All students, drop your pennies in the little box marked Louise Pritchett for Band Sweetheart. The Lions Club is having the four candidates to luncheon Friday. Along with the speeches are to be made from the visitors, James Wulfjen is to play a trumpet number accompanied by J. T. Williamson.
 The most popular magazine in the library this week is the "Scholastic."
 The Seniors are becoming interested in the practical things of life. Their assignments for the past week have been on the subject, "Boy dates Girl." Each student makes himself a personal rule book, in which are the rules of courtesy he needs to know.
 These magazines tell one how to act on many different occasions. When one wants information about things like this, the magazines are in the library.
 Several books of etiquette are to be ordered. The titles will be listed later.
 Ruth Hardison.
 IN AND OUT OF C. H. S.

It seems that some high school students turned the muddy streets into a carnival last week-end when the downpour was so immense. One twist of a wheel sent a car going round and round and taking fancy curves. I don't really know whether this was considered a merry-go-round, or a trolley. Anyway, they seemed to find it fun. "Some people have a taste for roughness."
 I don't believe the Palace theatre will ever be the same. Last week a "female party" was given for Doris Wynne. All these girls went to the show and virtually "tore up" a grand time was had by all, even though some of the people in the show could have gladly shut their sweet little mouths for them.
 Isn't it queer that we can always go back to old prophets and find that their sayings fit right in with our life of today. Is it coincidental or what is it that caused a certain fire prevention poster to be so scarily over?
 A skier is someone who slips and slides on a snow covered hill on the proverbial barrel staves.
 What became of the intelligent man who said, "Many are cold, but few are frozen?"
 Is it true that John Farquhar is having "double trouble?"
 It appears that the President's Ball was a hot spot for the dancers of C. H. S. last Saturday night.
 Why was it that riding pants and boots were in such great demand last Friday afternoon. Was someone going on a weiner roast? No one ever wants them for horseback riding so it must've been.
 These football boys are so bloomin' proud of their new jackets that they're downright stingy with them. However, girls, have patience, maybe before long they'll have pity on you when you're cold and let you wear them.

INTER-SCHOLASTIC LEAGUE

This year those Colorado high school students who are entering the Inter-scholastic League contests are entering with the will to win. This year the Director General is Mr. Foster, Director of Athletics is Coach Christian, Director of Debate is Mr. Cline, Director of Declamation is Mr. Glover and Director of Spelling is Mr. Mason.
 District basketball meet will be held in Abilene on February 18 and 19. A championship trophy will be awarded to the winner, runner-up and winner of third place. Gold basketballs will be awarded to the players of the all-district team.
 On April 8th and 9th all events of the district will take place except junior tennis, playground ball and girls volleyball which will be held on April 16.

Mary Aileen Mickley. MEETINGS
 The Howl Staff met Tuesday afternoon in Miss Barrett's room for assignments for the coming magazine. Friday morning in Mr. Cline's room, the Staff met again to work on write ups for both the Howl and Magazine.
 Louise Dockery.

WEDNESDAY ASSEMBLY
 For our speaker Wednesday, it was a privilege to have Mr. Woodie Holden, minister of the Church of Christ here. Mr. Holden was introduced by Frances Merle Cooper. The speaker gave an interesting sermon on the verse of Scripture: "And he grew in wisdom and stature and in favor with God and man." The high school students and teachers enjoyed the program very much.
 Marjorie Burgess.

ASSEMBLY NEWS
 There has been a little change in the high school assembly programs. In the future, students of the public speaking class will introduce speakers and make announcements. Each student of the class will have a chance to take part on an assembly program.
 On Monday, the Senior lettermen in football received their "Red and Black" Wolves jackets. These jackets were presented by Coach Christian to the following seniors: Quinton Hamrick, Charles Carter, Van King, Ernest Smith, Glenn Churchill, Boone Jackson, Dale Simpson, and Joe Smallwood.
 Then Mr. Shillingburg presented the Aggie Sweetheart sweater to Dorothy Morrison. Hurrah for Dorothy! After announcements were made, the assembly was dismissed.
 Marjorie Burgess.

FUTURE HOME MAKERS
 This week has been filled with industry and enthusiasm because each class is becoming organized and accustomed to its work for this semester. The sewing classes have taken up colors, material, and dress lines. These are fundamentals in the construction of a dress and are being studied extensively. There is only one cooking class this semester, but it has great possibilities and has made many plans for the future. Food elements and food principles are their first problems.
 The Homemaking club regretted the loss of their able president, Doris Wynne. At a recent meeting, her resignation was accepted and Beulah Robinson became president through a popular vote. A parliamentary drill was also conducted by Nancy Price. The club, with the cooperation of the F. F. A. chapter, is working prodigiously to raise funds for the Fat Stock Show trip.
 Freddie Watson.

THE CHEMISTRY OF MAN

A man weighing 140 pounds contains enough fat for seven cakes of soap, carbon for 9,000 pencils, phosphorus to make 2,200 match heads, magnesium for one dose of salts, iron to make one medium-sized nail, sufficient lime to whitewash a chicken coop, enough sulphur to rid one dog of fleas, and water to fill a 10-gallon barrel.

ENTERTAINMENT MONDAY

The world famous Cowboy Band from Hardin-Simmons University in Abilene will give a program Monday, February 7th at 9 a.m. in the high school auditorium. This band has traveled extensively through the United States and abroad.
 The Seniors have charge of selling tickets which are ten and twenty-five cents.
 Mary A. Mickley.

WOLVES DEFEAT MUSTANGS

In the last home game to be played in the double round-robin of 6-B basketball teams, Colorado defeated Sweetwater 21-17. The encounter was fast and exciting, one of the best games played by the Wolves to date. Thomas Chadwick was high point man, ringing up ten points. Colorado has one game yet to play in the 6-B district tourney. The often postponed game with Merkel at Merkel is definitely to be played soon.
COUNTY TOURNEY BEGINS
 Tuesday the county play of Inter-scholastic basketball entries was begun at Colorado. Four teams, Westbrook, Colorado, Lorraine, and Roscoe, are entered in the senior division. Winner of the playoff will advance to the district meet. Three schools are entering junior teams, these being Westbrook, Colorado, Junior High, and Colorado High. Three games were played Tuesday night.

FAST PLAY IN INTERCLASS TOURNEY

Defeating the freshmen in last Thursday's game, the seniors earned the right to meet the Juniors this Thursday for the school title. Third and fourth places were decided Tuesday when the sophomores engaged the freshmen. Winner of the junior-senior tussle will meet the faculty team probably Tuesday of next week. However, the date has not been definitely decided upon.
TENNIS COURT RECONDITIONED
 The tennis court has been cleaned, the backstops repaired, and a new net put into use. Mr. Wheeler and his aides have the appreciation of the entire student body for this service.
 Catherine Slagle.

TENNIS CLUB FORMED

A group of students met Monday to organize a Tennis Club. The club is sponsored by Mr. Wheeler, and anyone, he states, may join, regardless of ability or classification. Club dues are twenty-five cents for the remainder of the school year. Money

WOLVES DEFEATED IN SNYDER TOURNEY

Colorado Wolves advanced to the semi-finals by virtue of defeating Post 28-8 in the first round of the Snyder Invitation Tournament. In this game the Wolves almost ran over a slower team, keeping the Post club from scoring for almost two quarters. The Colorado basketballers were defeated by the Snyder Tigers in the semi-finals, the scoreboard reading 22-8. Dook Cox swished the meshes for seven of Colorado's points.

Here Monday, February 7th, High School Auditorium, 9 A. M.

The famed Hardin-Simmons University Cowboy Band, from Abilene, Texas, representing in traditions, costumes and music, the immortal spirit of the cowboy of the Southwest, will play a concert here in Colorado on Monday, February 7 at 9 a.m. it was announced today.

The band's program, to be given while on tour to a major engagement at Phoenix, Arizona, will be at the high school auditorium under the sponsorship of the Senior class. Proceeds of the concert will be devoted to Senior yearbook fund.

The band, now in its fifteenth year, is widely traveled, covering almost 300,000 miles the past decade, during which it has twice toured Europe, played for royalty, and has been in demand for conventions, inaugurations, concerts and expositions.

The Cowboy Band was the official band for the Pan-American Exposition at Dallas, in 1936 and 1937, and is the designated band of the Confederacy. It has been featured at Madison Square Garden, New York's Zigfield Theatre, and the London Palladium.

Will Rogers was one of its admirers, was a generous contributor of funds for the H-SU band's musical library, and was made an honorary member. To honor him as a friend the band returned from an engagement in the Republic of Mexico to play at the dedication of the Will Rogers Memorial Shrine, at Colorado Springs, Colo., last fall.
 Marion B. McClure is the director of this colorful group. G. B. Sanderfer, its manager, visited here today to complete plans for the appearance of this colorful musical troupe from Hardin-Simmons.

DENTAL PUPPET SHOW WITNESSED BY 2,000 STUDENTS OF COUNTY

Around 2,000 schoolchildren of Mitchell county witnessed the five showings of the Morrey-Towse Dental Health Puppet show in the county Monday.

The show, which has been touring continuously since it first won notice during the World's Fair in Chicago, was brought here under sponsorship of the State Department of Health. It was presented by Miss Ruth Snow and Wilson R. Conenewett, both highly trained in dramatics and puppetry. Three of Mitchell county's five showings were held Monday morning, two in the Junior High school auditorium here and one in the Lorraine auditorium. Approximately 700 pupils and parents witnessed the shows here, and about 500 saw the Lorraine show.

Shows were held at Buford and at Westbrook in the afternoon. At these and the other two schools, a number of school children were brought by bus from surrounding rural schools for the show.
 Dr. R. D. Bridgford and Dr. W. B. May, Colorado dentists, and Roy Davis Coles, county superintendent of schools, accompanied the show on its tour of the county. The show was taken from here to Big Spring, having played in Abilene before coming here. About 550,000 Texas school children have witnessed it during the time it has been on tour.
