

BID FOR HISTORICAL CONVENTION, MOVE AGAINST CITY PEDDLERS, APPROVAL OF FAT STOCK SHOW VOTED BY CC DIRECTORS

Issuance of an invitation to the West Texas Historical Association to hold its next convention at Colorado, approval of the plans for the Colorado Fat Stock Show, adoption of a peddlers' ordinance for submission to the city council for passage, and a number of other matters of business were transacted by the board of directors of the Colorado chamber of commerce in their monthly meeting Monday night.

A resolution was passed commending the young men of Colorado for their civic-mindedness in organizing a junior chamber of commerce and pledging the cooperation of the senior organization to the efforts and enterprises of the junior group. Charles Root, president of the junior chamber of commerce, was present and explained the activities of his organization.

Reports by various committee chairmen showed that the activities of the Colorado chamber of commerce are moving along in a progressive way and that most of the projects adopted for operation at the last annual membership meeting will soon be under way.

Ben Baskin, member of the agricultural and livestock committee, reported on the soil erosion and water control hearing at Big Spring on January 25 held under the auspices of the soil conservation service of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. He stated that considerable evidence was presented by counties in the Colorado River watershed for the need of an effective soil and water conservation program under federal direction and assistance.

A membership report submitted by Manager Carl A. Blasig showed that the Colorado chamber of commerce has 154 members in good standing. Another membership drive will be held next Friday to get additional members.

The Colorado Fat Stock show, in which calves, pigs and lambs fed by the 4-H club boys and the vocational agriculture boys of Mitchell county will compete for prizes, was authorized by the directors to be held on April 11 under the auspices of the agricultural and livestock committee and their subcommittees appointed for the purpose of staging this show. The value of such a show was commended in talks by a number of the directors.

The board of directors of the West Texas Historical Society were invited to hold their next meeting, which will be held in May, in Colorado. The attendance at this meeting will include about fifty of the leading historians in West Texas.

A peddlers' ordinance making it a misdemeanor for any itinerant vendor or solicitor to enter any residential premises without the invitation of the owners or occupants of the residences was adopted upon suggestion of the better business committee. Under the terms of this ordinance peddlers violating this provision would be subject to prosecution and a fine. It was made clear, however, that this ordinance would in no way affect farmers peddling for sale their own produce. A committee consisting of W. W. Whipkey, Dr. W. S. Rhode, J. W. Randle and Earl Bibby was appointed by President Truett Barber to submit this ordinance to the city council for passage.

A letter was read from Congressman George Mahon advising that the rumor that an appropriation has already been made for a veterans' hospital in West Texas is not true. Congressman Mahon stated, however, that he hoped that an appropriation for the construction of such an institution for West Texas would be authorized by Congress since it is badly needed. Congressman Mahon is the author of one of the bills introduced in Congress for the construction of a veterans' hospital.

NEARLY 3 INCHES OF RAIN GIVES COUNTY ITS 'BOTTOM SEASON'

PREDICTED BLIZZARD NOT ON HAND THURSDAY NOON; FRUIT NOT BELIEVED TO SUFFER FROM COLD

The "bottom season" that Mitchell county farmers talk about from the time one crop is harvested until another is in the ground came generously this week as soaking rains blanketed all the county between Monday night and Thursday morning.

Rainfall measured from 2.68 inches in Colorado to something over 3 inches in some sections, according to unofficial reports. Skies were still overcast Thursday noon and mist was falling at intervals.

The hardest rain fell late Monday and Tuesday morning, reaching a total of 2.15 by 7:30 Tuesday morning. The reading between that time and Wednesday morning was .25 inches. The remaining .28 fell Wednesday and before dawn Thursday.

Taking to heart the warnings they read in state papers, Coloradoans were prepared for a freeze Wednesday night and expected to find the wet world an ice-encrusted one Thursday morning.

The temperature did fall considerably Wednesday, and before dawn Thursday there were a few hours of severe cold, comparatively speaking as sleet fell to the accompaniment of thunder and lightning.

But the world was still wet rather than icy Thursday at daylight, and at mid-morning the coldness seemed to be tapering off.

It was not believed Thursday morning that early-blooming fruit trees had been appreciably damaged by the lowered temperatures. A hard freeze would be required, some authorities said, to ruin the fruit buds as long as the weather is so wet.

RETURNS FROM MEETINGS

Mrs. J. G. Merritt, conference secretary for the Northwest Texas Methodist Missionary society, returned Friday midnight after attending training day meetings at Tulla, Floydada, Amarillo, Dalhart, and Shamrock during the week.

SIX-POINT SAFETY CAMPAIGN PLANNED BY JUNIOR CC BODY

COMMITTEES TO CARRY OUT FIRST MAJOR OBJECTIVE OF NEW ORGANIZATION NAMED BY ROOT

A six-point drive for traffic safety was adopted by Colorado's newly-organized junior chamber of commerce as its first major objective when members of the chamber met in regular session Tuesday night.

Charles Root, president, talked on the need for immediate safety measures. He named the following committees to carry on the six-point drive:

Public information—Tom J. Goss, Jr., Porter Richardson, Jimmy Cook, and Gene Smith;

Cooperation with police—Pete Warren, Eddie Pylant, J. C. Garrett, and Geo. Shelton;

Hazard survey committee—Willie Landau, John Hale, Robert Stell, Regal Porter, and James Lupton;

High school patrol—F. C. Shillingburg, Dr. J. D. Williams, Jr., Robert Coffman, and Charles Crocker;

Railroad—Harold Bennett, Earl Cyper, and Fred Cravy;

Contests—Clyde Young, Hubert Moore, Harold Manis, and Marvin Jackson.

Several members spoke on the safety aims of the organization. Many of them were strongly in favor of the placing of warning lights at railroad crossings, especially at the one which leads from the main part of town into South-Corridor.

A constitution was adopted by the organization. B. F. King was elected to collect fines. The membership committee was urged to invite all eligible young men between the ages of 18 and 30 to become members.

REAL 'DETECTIVE' WORK INVOLVED IN SPEEDY CAPTURE OF TWO CHARGED WITH WAREHOUSE ROBBERY HERE ON SATURDAY

Real "detective" work was involved in the speedy capture Saturday of two men who are now in Mitchell county jail charged with burglarizing the state highway warehouse in East Colorado some time Friday night or early Saturday morning.

In the words of Dick Hickman, chief of police, it was "one time when fingerprints were as good as finger prints."

Hickman was called to the warehouse about 7:45 Saturday morning, as soon as it was discovered that the warehouse had been entered and robbed. A truck had been stripped of two tires. Five gallons of oil, forty gallons of gas, and a "tarp" were also missing.

There was nothing to go on but fingerprints. One by one, Hickman eliminated the fingerprints of all employees or others who had been about the warehouse on legitimate business. Two prints were left, and they were peculiarly marked, with metal taps on the heels and rubber ridge marks on the sole. Hickman turned buckets over these two to preserve them, and came back to town on business.

While he was gone George C. Burns of Sweetwater, highway section foreman for Nolan and Mitchell counties, Raymond McClure of Colorado and other highway employees went over to the tourist camp of Buddy Gann, just across the highway. Around a cabin and garage there they found footprints corresponding with those Hickman had covered.

From Gann they got the license number of the car which had been kept in that garage that night and brought it to town to the police office. They even knew, from Gann, something of the appearance of the car's two occupants, and the names under which they were traveling.

Sheriff Dick Gregory and Constable Jack DeLaney broadcast the car license number and a description of its occupants. A few hours later the car was spotted and stopped on the highway near El Paso by El Paso authorities. It bore a Florida license, though it had been stolen in Marshall, and was therefore comparatively easy to spot.

The two men in it gave their names as Virgil Williams and Boyd Moncus. They still had the tires and tarp when arrested. Gregory and DeLaney went after them Sunday and they are now in Mitchell county jail under burglary charges pending investigation by the Mitchell county grand jury when court convenes next week. One is middle-aged, the other about 23. Both are said to be from Georgia.

DISTRICT COURT TO CONVENE MONDAY FOR 4-WEEKS TERM

FEW CASES CARRIED OVER FROM PREVIOUS TERMS; BURGALARIES DUE TO BE INVESTIGATED

With several cases pending on both the civil and criminal dockets in spite of few carry-overs from previous terms, Mitchell county 32nd district court will be convened Monday morning for a four-weeks session.

The grand jury panel for the term includes M. L. Adrian, Luther Anderson, D. J. Barber, E. R. Bibby, J. Z. Bodine, Sam Bullock, Gus Chesney, E. R. Uzzle, Bruce Hart, Hugh Hallmark, E. L. Terry, A. W. Redwine, C. A. Wallace, Allen Beaty, R. Y. Hammond, and B. A. Wynne.

Among criminal charges pending investigation by the grand jury are those against Virgil Williams and Boyd Moncus, now lodged in the Mitchell county jail after their capture in El Paso Saturday. They were arrested after the theft of tires, gas, oil, and other equipment from the State Highway warehouse here last Friday night or early Saturday morning.

Also being held in the Mitchell county jail for grand jury investigation are two youths, Orville and Cleo Dumas, who were arrested after rooms at the Barcroft hotel had been ransacked several weeks ago.

One of the few criminal cases carried over from last term is that of the State vs. C. M. Hargroves of San Antonio, charged with selling securities without a license.

Cases on the civil docket in the office of J. H. Ballard, district clerk, include the following: Tom Smartt vs. a mutual insurance company in Dallas for payment of a life insurance policy; B. H. Gregory vs. Baird's Bakery in Fort Worth for damages in a car wreck several months ago; Jas. E. Ross of Baird vs. J. W. Byrd of Westbrook for damages in a car wreck last summer; John H. Arnett et al vs. Sam C. Wilkes et al, suit for damages in the amount of $13,657.69, plus $2,500 attorney's fee.

SEVEN PERSONS ESCAPE SERIOUS INJURY AS TWO CARS CRASH WEDNESDAY

Seven persons miraculously escaped serious injury when their cars were practically demolished in a collision on Highway One at the roadside park east of Colorado shortly after noon Wednesday.

John Morgan Hale, Joe Hale, and the latter's daughter, Dorothy, all of Colorado, were in Joe Hale's car. John Morgan Hale was driving and the car was coming out of the park into the highway when the crash occurred. None of them was injured. They were returning from a trip to Sweetwater.

The four men in the other car were traveling east. The car belonged to J. A. Clements of Big Spring, who was accompanied by his brother, W. L. Clements, also of Big Spring, and George Parker and Henry Orr of Stanton.

Orr received a nose injury which kept him in a Colorado hospital for several hours until hemorrhaging could be stopped. W. L. Clements suffered the loss of four teeth. Others in the Clements car received minor abrasions about the face.

J. A. and W. L. Clements are said to be brothers of Mrs. Cal C. Wright, wife of the Rev. Cal C. Wright, formerly Methodist pastor here and now presiding elder at Vernon.

Among Grand Lodge officials who are slated to be present are Lee Lockwood of Waco, Deputy Grand Master; Leo Hart of Gilmer, Grand Senior Warden; and Sam B. Cantej, Jr., of Fort Worth, Grand Junior Warden. Also present will be Jim White of Colorado, member of the committee on work.

Joe Pond of Big Spring has been named as general program chairman.

NAMES OF TWO MINORS WHO PROWLED IN HOMES HERE BEING WITHHELD

Names of two Colorado minors whose connection with recent house prowling activities here has been established were withheld this week by Dick Hickman, chief of police. "Because," he said, "they're just kids, and we're trying to talk them straight instead of arresting them—this time."

A part of the loot which these boys and others are said to have taken from six Colorado homes week before last has been recovered, according to Chief Hickman. The other boys have not as yet been definitely identified.

The prowlers entered the homes of W. E. Seward, Sefton Pickens, Charles Landau, Philip Berman, Ray Richardson, and B. E. Haston. Little of value was missed from any of the homes except the Haston home, where a watch was said to have been taken.

Four boys who were held in the Sweetwater jail last week in connection with housebreakings there were thought for a time to have been connected with the prowling here. They, however, have been turned over to Cleburne authorities on burglary charges.

Youth Picked Up As He Runs From Alley Turns Out To Be Under Indictment Here

A 15-year-old boy who was picked up by Dick Hickman, chief of police, Tuesday afternoon when Hickman saw him dart out of a residential alley in a suspicious manner is being held in Mitchell county jail to stand trial on a burglary indictment which was returned against him during last term of court.

The boy is James Monroe Pendergraft, whose home is said to be in Dallas. He is on parole from the reformatory at Gatesville, having been sent there from Dallas.

The indictment against him here grew out of the robbery of the Jim Ledbetter home several months ago. Two pistols and other articles were taken. Indicted with him on the same charges was Herman Whitley of Colorado.

Whitley stood trial and received 5 years suspended sentence. His whereabouts at present are unknown. Whitley and Pendergraft became acquainted, it is said, while both were in the reformatory at Gatesville. Whitley went to the reformatory several years ago on charges of robbing Berry-Fee Lumber yard, Rockwell Lumber yard, and other places here.

When Pendergraft was picked up by Hickman Tuesday his pockets were found to be full of plunder—two fountain pens, two rings, three pocketbooks containing Oklahoma and Colorado sales tax coins. No one has claimed or reported the loss of any of these articles yet. Hickman says. The boy was running out of the alley behind the R. P. Price home when Hickman, who had never seen him before, picked him up. Pendergraft had not been arrested when indicted here at the last term of court.

The youth has admitted to officers that he was in town while recent house plunderings were going on. Officers are working on a theory that he might have been connected with these.

GARRARD HARGROVE'S DEATH IN SHANGHAI ON JAN. 31 DUE TO CEREBRAL HEMORRHAGE, ACCORDING TO LETTER RECEIVED BY MOTHER

After eleven days of anxious waiting for details about the death of her son, Garrard Hargrove, in Shanghai, China, on Jan. 31, Mrs. R. P. Hargrove received a letter early this week stating that he died of a cerebral hemorrhage.

Before receiving the letter Mrs. Hargrove had known only that her son was dead, having been so informed by a message from the navy department in Washington on February 4. The message said only that Hargrove had died on Jan. 31.

According to the letter, Hargrove was buried in the Hungjiao Road cemetery in Shanghai, the service being non-military although Hargrove was a member of the naval reserves. His wife, Katherine Merrigoli Hargrove, directed the funeral arrangements.

When talking about the letter Tuesday, Mrs. Hargrove recalled that her son had a severe bronchial cough when he last visited her during the latter months of 1936 and the early weeks of 1937. His cough improved a great deal in the Texas climate, but his mother feels that it grew worse when he returned to Shanghai, and she believes it probably contributed to his death. Hargrove went back to Shanghai in mid-February last year.

He and his wife had operated a cafe in the International Settlement of Shanghai since his retirement from active naval service in December, 1933. He wrote his mother before his death that they "lost everything" during the recent fighting in Shanghai.

Up until he joined the navy in 1917 Hargrove had spent practically all his life in Mitchell county. He was born near Proctor in Comanche county on Nov. 14, 1896, being 41 years of age at his death. His parents moved to southern Mitchell county in December, 1897. He attended school at Spade, and later was in Clarendon college for three years before the war.

When the war ended Hargrove remained in the navy, being stationed with the Asiatic fleet. He had seen 16 years of active service when he was transferred from the regular navy to the naval reserves in 1933. He played on the Asiatic fleet football team several years.

Hargrove had frankly said many times that he did not like to live in Shanghai, but that he lived there because he could make "a better living." He was making plans to retire from business when the war broke in Shanghai, his mother says. See GARRARD HARGROVE Page 3

Lorraine Man And Stamford Girl Wed

The marriage of James Marshall of Lorraine to Vera Carlson of Stamford on Saturday night was recounted as follows in a Stamford story appearing in the Abilene Reporter-News on Sunday:

"Vera Carlson, daughter of Mrs. Gust Carlson of this city, became the bride of James Marshall, son of Mrs. Jim Marshall of Lorraine, in an evening ceremony at the Carlson home Saturday, at 8:30 p.m.

"Only members of the immediate families witnessed the ceremony performed by Rev. Hugo Haterius, Lutheran pastor, at the bridal couple stood before an improvised archway of fernery flanked by white tapers in floor candelabra.

"White moire taffeta fashioned the bride's dress, made on princess lines. Her flowers were white carnation in satin holder with white satin streamers. She wore the wedding slippers of her mother and a flower in her hair that had adorned the coat lapel of her father in her parents' ceremony of 1895.

"Following the marriage, a bridal dinner was held at the Stamford Inn for the wedding party: Mrs. Jim Marshall of Lorraine, Mrs. L. K. Long of McCamey, Mrs. Forest Porter of Colorado, sister of the groom; Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Carlson of San Antonio, Mrs. Gust Carlson, Leonard Carlson, Mrs. Elsie Carlson, Mr. and Mrs. Hugo Haterius and their daughters, and the bride and bridegroom.

"Mrs. Marshall and her husband left for a honeymoon trip to Del Rio, after which they will be at home in Stamford.

"The bride is a graduate of Stamford high school and attended business college in Austin. For several years she has been employed by the local gas company. Mr. Marshall is a graduate of Lorraine schools, and is employed at a Stamford grocery firm.

"Mrs. Marshall was honored at a gift-party early this week when Grace Moudy, Gladys Newquist and Mrs. Elsie Carlson entertained with seven-five guests registering in the bride's book."

WOMEN IN THE STUDY CLUBS

Self Culture

Prominent women of the present day were subjects for discussions at the Self Culture club meeting with Mrs. H. G. Whitmore Friday.

Three women who were to have had part on the program were absent, Mrs. E. B. Willbanks and Mrs. C. P. Gary because of illness, Mrs. W. D. McClure because of the death of Mr. McClure's father, thus eliminating their discussions of Eleanor Roosevelt, Amelia Earhart, and Osa Johnson.

Mrs. Charlie Shell discussed Pearl Buck and Mrs. Lee Lavender talked on Eleanor A. Bliss.

During the business session a report was given on the health examinations which the club sponsored in Colorado schools week before last. Over 1,300 children were examined and slips were sent to parents telling each child's defects. A follow-up examination is to be conducted later on.

The club is sponsoring dental examinations in schools of the county next week.

The club's meeting this Friday will be with Mrs. Gale Billings.

Zetagathian

The opera "Faust" was given in song and story when the Zetagathians met Friday at the Butler camp home of Mrs. Dick Thompson.

With Mrs. D. W. Haralson as leader, members responded to roll call with names of favorite operas.

An introduction to the opera "Faust" was read by Mrs. Wylie Kinard. Excerpts from the opera were sung by Mrs. N. H. White, Jr., with Mrs. Farris Lipps as her accompanist.

A salad course, open face sandwiches, coconut macaroons, and iced tea were served after the program. Mrs. H. V. Wheeler is to entertain next.

1921 Study Club

Decision to sponsor the observance of National Music week in Colorado was voted by the 1921 Study club at its "Music Appreciation" program with Mrs. W. L. Doss, Jr., Friday.

National Music week will be in May. Mrs. Johnny Rector led the program, the first topic of which was "Getting Joy Out of Music" by Mrs.

W. W. Rhode. Mrs. Rector told of "The Amazing Career of Ignace Jan Paderewski." Mrs. W. C. Hooks played Paderewski's "Melodie," Op. 16, No. 2, as a piano solo.

The club decided that its course of study next year shall include modern novels and plays and better English drills. Named on the year-book committee were Mrs. C. C. Thompson, Mrs. Ed Jones, Sr., Mrs. Carl Blasig, and Mrs. N. H. White, Jr.

The next meeting will be an anniversary party at the home of Mrs. Rhode.

Hesperian

A study of Canada was begun at the meeting of the Hesperian club with Mrs. J. W. Randle Friday afternoon. Mrs. Ed Majors was leader.

After roll call, which was answered with the names of men and women of Canada, topics were given as follows: "Canada from Colonial Rule to Dominion," Mrs. Nat Thomas; "Discussion of Political Parties in Canada," Mrs. E. H. Winn; "Significant Political Developments Since 1930," given by Mrs. S. H. Millwee for Mrs. Otto Jones; "Review of Canada's Rapid Growth," Mrs. Majors.

A donation of $1 to the Minnie Cunningham scholarship fund was voted. Further discussion of next year's course of study was made.

Miss Ella Simmons was a guest. Next hostess will be Mrs. Jimmy Payne.

Shakespeare

A handkerchief shower for Mrs. T. W. Stoneroad, Jr. club member who will leave soon to live in Lubbock, featured the meeting of the Shakespeare club with Mrs. J. M. Thomas Friday.

Mrs. Frank Lupton led the lesson on "Twelfth Night." It was decided that next year's course of study will include "King John" and "Timon of Athens."

Mrs. J. H. Greene of Big Spring, an honorary member, was present. Mrs. Jamie Morgan was a guest at the social hour. Mrs. Joe Smoot is to be hostess this week.

Standard

Six members answered roll call when the Standard club met with Mrs. Y. D. McMurry Friday, these being Mesdames P. C. Coleman, J. A.

Mitchell county's latest wildcat attempt, the Standard of Texas No. 1 W. P. Foster, 1,650 feet from the west and north lines of section 44-39-1n, T&P, was abandoned as a failure Saturday. After encountering a slight show estimated at eight gallons of oil and 12 of water at 2,182 feet in hard lime, it drilled to 3,090 feet where it had a hole full of sulphur water.

EVERY SCHOOL CHILD IN COUNTY GETTING DENTAL EXAMINATION THIS WEEK

Every school child in Mitchell county, and they number between 2600 and 2700, is receiving a free dental examination this week.

These dental examinations are being given under the sponsorship of the Self Culture club of Colorado, and it is the first time that county-wide examinations have been attempted.

Examinations are being made by Dr. W. B. May, Dr. R. D. Bridgford, and Dr. M. B. Nail. They completed examination of Colorado school children Wednesday and Thursday. All Westbrook students and a few from Carr were examined Tuesday, and 140 pupils at Buford, which includes Little Sulphur and Longfellow, were examined Wednesday morning.

Pupils were brought in from Horn's Chapel, Valley View, Seven Wells, and Payne for examinations in the Colorado schools Wednesday afternoon.

The dentists were at Loraine Thursday morning, giving attention to students from Loraine, Landers, Bauman, Silver, and Lone Star.

Roy Davis Coles, county superintendent, has been arranging for buses to bring rural elementary children to Colorado, Loraine, and Westbrook for the examinations. The rural high school students are, of course, already at these schools. Bus arrangements have been considerably handicapped by the rains.

Slips on all pupils examined will be sent to parents. According to those who have dealt with dental examinations before, parents are much better about responding to dental needs of their children than to needs checked in general health examinations.

The two, Paul Sloan and Noel Baker, are the only two left free of the five prisoners who escaped the Sulphur Springs jail Tuesday night. Last definite trace of the two was found in Big Spring, where a men's clothing store was robbed Friday night. They were rumored late Saturday to have been in Hobbs, N. M.

PICKED UP ALONG THE NEWS PATH

Right now I think the meanest man in town is Harry Ratliff, bragging right in front of me that he knows a "swell, simply swell" news story, but "can't" tell it. . . . That's torture with a trace of malice, and there ought to be a law against it. . . . He says he'll have to "dig about 10 more feet" before he'll know all the "dope" himself. . . . Now you can guess awhile—I'm tired.

Photography is the hobby of Archdeacon J. W. Hayes of All Saints' Episcopal church. . . . He has made a beautiful picture of the altar of All Saints—I mention that because it's the only piece of his work I've seen so far.

The scramble which several otherwise dignified matrons of Colorado staged for a piece of that sale linen at J. C. Penney's Friday afternoon made even the scammers laugh at themselves. . . . It was strongly reminiscent of those sale-day fight cartoons you've seen, only, of course, there weren't any fights. . . . (Commercial voice on the side: It pays to advertise.)

One of the best-read men in Colorado is probably N. H. White, Jr. . . . Not only does he read widely and well, but he has a knack for passing his reading on to others via book reviews and such, being quite in demand as a reviewer these days. . . . Besides all this he writes unusually well. He is the guiding literary mind behind Col-Tex's well-written little publication, The Safetygram.

A flash-back on Colorado life of half a century ago from the 50-years-ago column of Sunday's Dallas News: "On the occasion of her first anniversary, little Bessie Smoot of Colorado City was honored on Feb. 4 with a birthday dinner given by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Smoot. Guests for the occasion were Mr. Scott, Mrs. I. B. Jennings, Mrs. W. B. Hatch, Judge Jennings, Cora Lee and Bessie Jennings, John Robinson and Mrs. Winfield Scott." Bessie was the sister of Joe Smoot, active vice-president of the City National bank. . . . She died at the age of 10 or thereabouts.

Four out of five—at least that was the percentage while he was visiting in his former haunts at The Record office last Friday—greeted Ben Smith, Pecos CC manager, something like this: "Well, now that you've been to Missouri I guess you'll have to be shown." . . . I was one of the four, and I thought myself quite original, or something, until I heard the other three do it. . . .

Somebody (when you remember that Harry Ratliff was present you'll know who without my telling) pulled a good one on Charley Farris, retiring city sanitarian, at the city council meeting Monday night. . . . While applications for the park superintendent's job, rendered vacant by W. R. Charters' appointment to succeed Farris, were being read, an application signed "Charley Farris" was slipped into the pile and read to the council. . . . Charley Farris demanded to know "who done it" and the whole council had a good laugh. . . .

This column had something last week I believe, about Elizabeth Arnett, niece of three Coloradans—Mrs. J. G. Merritt, Mrs. T. W. Stoner, and John Arnett. . . . Here's something else about her, clipped from the Abilene Reporter-News this week: "Elizabeth Arnett, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Arnett of Lamesa and former student at Texas Technological college, won acclaim in Dallas last week in her portrayal of the role of Terry Randall in the production of "Stage Door" which was staged by the Dallas Little Theater school. Charles Cullum, Dallas dramatic critic, wrote, "Miss Arnett is the best student actress this reviewer has seen since the Little Theater's drama inception." Miss Arnett is a niece of Mrs. G. Granville Johnson of Abilene."

Once more Coloradans have an opportunity for recalling that they knew Dixon Decter "when" . . . This time the Denver university professor, who recently widened his fame with "Saga of American Society," has an article in the March Cosmopolitan magazine. . . . It's called "Snobs and Aristocrats," and I think I would have found it good reading even if I couldn't remember the author in just-below-the-knee pants giving his valedictory address as an honor graduate of Colorado High school. . . .

A fancy card-menu from L. J. Taylor, who has been treated to a trip to Mexico City by the Philco radio company because he happens to know how to sell radios. . . . It was written at 12 noon Friday in San Luis Potosi. . . . "How," L. J. demands of the boys, "is this, anyway?"

Overheard from J. L. Bowen Tuesday morning: "This rain ought to put a valentine on everybody's face." . . . They say Benton Temperton has received 167 cards and letters since he entered the veterans' hospital in Ft. Bayard, New Mexico, for major surgery nearly a month ago. . . .

Took a "sneak" preview of the John Nicholson water colors which Rod Merritt is to exhibit at Jones & Russell from 1 to 8 p.m. Friday. . . . Even to my untrained eye they're lovely—I can even almost like the more modernistic studies, which, for me, is "simplin'." . . . Nicholson, who is fast becoming famous for these very water colors, calls both Abilene and Chicago home. . . . If you've kept up with art pages in Texas papers during recent years you've undoubtedly read about him. . . . He had an exhibit at the Texas Centennial and the Pan-American exhibition in Dallas, and has exhibited often in Abilene. . . . Some of the pictures Rod has for exhibit were done at the art institute in Chicago, some at Ft. Davis, and others in New Orleans. . . .

FARM WORK SHEETS
MORE IMPORTANT AS
NEW BILL PASSED

FAILURE TO SIGN SHEET FOR
1937 WILL MEAN TAXES ON WHEAT AND COTTON IN 1938, BASKIN POINTS OUT

Importance of the signing of a 1937 work sheet by every farmer in Mitchell county was re-emphasized by B. J. Baskin, county farm agent, Thursday morning after the new 1938 farm bill had been signed by President Roosevelt.

"Farms not covered by a 1937 work sheet," Baskin said, "will be taxed 2 cents per pound on all cotton sold off that farm in 1938. Farmers are being given until 5 p.m. Saturday, Feb. 19, to fill out a 1937 work sheet, which establishes acreage quotas for cotton, wheat, rice and tobacco, each farm will be given a certain amount of these products to market tax free. If your farm isn't signed up by the above-mentioned time, or before county quotas are established, you will not get to market any cotton without paying a 2-cent tax, or any wheat without paying a 15-cent tax."

"The county agent's office is making every effort to get a work sheet on every foot of land in cultivation in Mitchell county," Baskin continued. "If anyone knows of a farm in Mitchell county that is not signed up, please tell the owner or operator of that farm what it means to him to get that place signed up for 1938."

Baskin has promised this newspaper a further explanation of the new bill as it will apply to or affect Mitchell county for next week's issue.

Colorado Wolves Go To Abilene This Week-End For District 5 Cage Games

The Colorado Wolves will go to Abilene this week-end to represent Mitchell county in the basketball meet for district 5 of the Interscholastic League.

Accompanying the Wolves on the trip will be Coach Jack Christian and Robert Coffman, basketball director of the Mitchell county independent Interscholastic League.

The Wolves defeated Westbrook last week 25-24 in a fast, thrilling game to capture the independent championship of the county. They were to have met Lone Star, rural champion, Friday night, but Lone Star defaulted by non-appearance.

Abilene's unbeaten Eagles are tagged as favorites to capture the district championship.

Abilene enters the district play-off with one of the finest seasons records of any team in recent years. The Eagles have played 19 games, winning all of them. Abilene won two invitation tournaments—at Colorado and at Abilene Christian college.

Hamlin's Pied Pipers, defending district champions, are making preparations to enter the meet despite eligibility troubles. One of the Hamlin players, Bill Scott, has been protested on a charge of violating the transfer rule.

Other county champions to participate are Foreman, Howard county, district runners-up last year; Colorado, Mitchell county; Snyder, Scurry county; Roby, Fisher county; and Ovalo, Taylor county. Winners in Nolan, Borden, Stonewall and Kent counties also are eligible to compete for the title.

WINNING STREAK OF CHS FACULTY HOLDS AS JUNIORS DOWNED

The winning streak which the faculty cage team of Colorado High school began when it defeated the seniors, who had previously won the inter-class tournament, was continued as the faculty downed the Juniors Monday afternoon 21-18.

Four minutes before the game ended the Juniors were leading 18-13. The final score was 21-18 for the faculty.

Playing for the Juniors were Curtis Woods, Thomas E. Chadwick, Jimmy Harrison, Dick Lowe Jones, Sam Richardson, and Jackrabbit (Alvin) Smith.

WESTBROOK METHODIST CHURCH

We had a very fine and profitable day here on last Sunday. We had with us Rev. S. H. Yocum, our pastor, who preached for us at the 11 o'clock hour using for his subject, "The Kingdom of God," which was endorsed by all who heard him.

We had with us from Bailey Chapel Bro. R. M. Jones, Tom Jackson, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Decker, Mr. and Mrs. R. T. Reese, Mr. and Mrs. McQuerry, Mr. and Mrs. Seaman. All enjoyed a good day together.

Then we were called to go down into the basement for a special service. We found the table groaning under the heavy load furnished by our good and faithful women of Westbrook. Such a dinner as we enjoyed and a fine fellowship together, everyone eating and talking at ease, except the Elder who seemed to be too busy just then for much talking. All had an enjoyable time together.

Then after lunch we went into the business of our quarterly conference which was well attended. We also had a good afternoon talk by the Elder that was enjoyed by all.

Now folks let me ask you who church members of the church. Let's make more interest in your church work. So come all of you and help build our roll up to where it should be. For anything less than 100% is not enough. Now this means, if you have not been coming, be in your places on next Sunday morning.

Sincerely, YOUR PASTOR,

BUFFET DINNER

Mrs. Van Horn, Jean Spurgeon and Lois Richards entertained the Westbrook faculty Saturday night, February 12, with a buffet dinner at the Ocala cafe. A well served contest caused much merriment. Finally when Miss Kent, the victor, number of the faculty carried off the prize.

After dinner the guests and hostesses visited in the Ira D. Lauderdale home last Friday. Mrs. Benton Templeton and daughter of Colorado spent Sunday visiting in the J. M. Templeton home. Mrs. Joe Williams and son of Garden City visited Mr. and Mrs. Walter King Friday.

Mrs. Alvin Bell and son of Abilene visited friends here Monday. Mrs. Wyman and Pauline Calhoun of Roscoe visited the Van Boston's Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Basil Hudson and son Bobbie of Buford visited Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Gressett Sunday. Buy quality meat at Ramsey's and Dawson's.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Nix visited relatives in Denton last week. Mrs. Marvin Dorn and Mrs. Walter King attended the Daughters of the King 28th birthday party Saturday evening at the home of Mrs. Rube Hart in Colorado.

Cletus Brewer of Merkel visited his mother, Mrs. Jewel Brewer, here this past week. Rev. and Mrs. R. B. Walden were in Brownfield to attend the funeral of their niece last week.

WESTBROOK SCHOOL NEWS Editor—Elizabeth Young. Fish Reporter—Elzan Castleman. Soph Reporter—Van Boston. Junior Reporter—Weldon Strange. Senior Reporter—Fionelle Davis. Seventh Grade Reporter—Leon Moore.

Vocational Agriculture Reporter—John Hines. The other day we had a test in junior business training. Most everyone made good grades, that showed everyone they did study. Monday morning nearly all of the girls received and gave valentines. We didn't have a box but some gave them anyway. Some said, "I'm going to give valentines all my life."

Francis says she doesn't like the rain, as she had to wade in it to come to school. All of the Fish and I guess the others are not so pleased with the new rules. However, all that we can do about it is to obey them.

Please patronize the sophomores and come to see "Ready Made Family," their class play Friday the 18th.

SOPHOMORE REPORT Yea, its still me, to your sorrow and mine; but as no one else wants the job, hang on. The sophomores have announced their play for Friday, the 18th. We, as presenters, want your attendance (and money).

So much fun hasn't been our pleasure in English II this past week. If you think extemporaneous speaking and writing themes is something to be enjoyed, just try them. Those demerits received in class are nothing pleasant for one's thoughts either.

Have you ever known the feeling of yawning down your back? I have! How about the rest of you woodwork craftsmen? In Algebra I, we are doing what the professor calls "common, simple 7th grade math." I believe I find myself, not alone in preferring "hard old 9th grade stuff." Go easy, Mr. Lauderdale. After all, we are nothing but sophs, not seventh graders.

My, my, its strange what varied subjects our study of Ancient History delves in. Friday, we tried our hand at singing "folk songs." Monday, we had a discussion on Astronomy, with illustrations on the board by Mr. Hood. Tuesday, we gave our opinions on the tender feelings between a certain lass and lassie, both enrolled in history, but absent at that time.

These special features are daily presented to us. I know I don't study much, but as yet, I haven't found: The song we were singing, the charts on astronomy, or Ruby Jo's or John Bob's names. Theima, what page are they on?

Oh, gosh, they'll be charging me space if I don't stop soon. I did have a lot more to blab, but I suppose you would like to read something more than the sophomore report. Maybe the jokes on me. Probably many of the people who started quit reading a long time ago.

For more campus mush and tiring quotations, see: Sophomore report. Time—when the Record comes out. Place—in Colorado Record under the Westbrook School News.—Van.

For more fun than you've ever had at the W. H. S. auditorium at 8 o'clock to see "Ready Made Family."

THE SEVENTH GRADE Supervisors taught our room Tuesday evening. Mrs. Lambert taught Wednesday on account of Mrs. Cope being ill.

The seventh graders have started practicing dialogues in Reading class. Miss McMurry is coaching them. The seventh grade pupils were dismissed a while Friday evening to watch a game of basketball but some of them didn't watch so all of us had to go to our room.

The seventh grade girls have started practicing indoor baseball. We wish to welcome the new student, Oley Barker, from Midland who started to Westbrook, Monday.

JUNIOR BOYS WIN COUNTY CHAMPIONSHIP The last game of basketball was played last week as the Westbrook Junior boys defeated the Conway rural winners 20-7 in a comparatively easy game at Westbrook. This completes the season with several worthy accomplishments by each team. The senior boys won a cup and the senior girls won a cup. These tells a story of strength and growth in public service.

Our previous advertisement pointed out that 63,000,000 depositors have entrusted some 46 billion dollars in their banks. The latest official nationwide figures show how the banks are employing these deposits through sound conservative loans and investments:

Bank loans on farm lands and city real estate, 8 1/2 billion dollars; loans to individuals and business concerns, 11 1/2 billion dollars; investments in direct Federal government loans, 12 billion dollars; in obligations of various government recovery corporations, 2 1/2 billion dollars; investments in state and municipal bonds, 3 1/2 billion dollars; in American corporate securities, 5 1/2 billion dollars.

This bank feels that American banking as a whole is fully measuring up to its duties in the public services it is rendering.

The City National Bank

cupps will be presented to the school in assembly soon.

With the coming of the warm days we see several annual signs of spring. The tennis players begin fussing for the court to be fixed up. The volleyball players begin their practice. And, Interscholastic League work begins.

OUT OF THE NEWS BOX Harold Berry, the tallest boy in high school, was caught in study hall reading "Tiny Tim."

The seventh grade girls, Joan and Bessie, have a big secret. They say it starts with C and B. How about Cox's cigarettes, and Bookroom balloons.

From all reports the freshman girls aren't behaving very well. Here's one that says that two of them are spending all their time in Coahoma and Big Spring. Now, Frances, those knees weren't skinned at a party, how about the skating rink? Or your arm either, Valerie.

This one warns Louis and Dollie to stay away from Sweetwater, and quit acting like babies and riding "troley horses." Be grown up, isn't Westbrook good enough for you?

SENIOR NEWS The seniors have paid their deposits on their invitations and cards. They had a class meeting last Wednesday and selected the class song, motto, and flower.

Juanita Ruddiek has been very ill, but is now able to be back in school. The seniors were to have a Valentine party at Lecroy Clifton's house Monday night, but it rained too much for anyone to go. Don't be surprised, Lecroy, if all of them drop in to see you one night during the future.

We noticed Neal McCullough's name linked with Billy Waters' sophomore girl's name this week. Billy, what are you going to do about that? (Incidentally, the lucky girl is Rena.) Many seniors were absent Tuesday because of the rain.

Quite a few of the seniors enjoyed the party at Mr. and Mrs. Cox's house Friday night. Next week is six weeks exams again! Everyone study hard and do your best.

THE JUNIOR NEWS The junior reporter was almost late with the Junior news this week, but the motto can be, in this case, "Better late than never."

The following members of our class received basketball sweaters, girls— Iris Costin, Nita Bess Daniels, and Oleta Dockery; boys—Sidney Jones and A. G. Board. The sweaters are pretty, and we are proud of the members of the class that received them.

The puniors were to have a Valentine party Monday night at Geraldine Eikenbergs, but because of illness in her family our plans were given up. The juniors are going to order their class play this week, and we are going to start work on it in the near future.

Don't forget the Sophomore play Friday night. The Sophs are going to present "Ready Made Family." Admission 10c and 20c.

HOME FROM HOSPITAL R. R. Trotter was brought home Sunday from the Sweetwater hospital where he underwent an appendectomy a week before. A Kiker & Son ambulance was used to bring him home.

Freshman Poems On Colorado Make Up First Issue Of 'Just Fishin' For Present Year

The first issue of "Just Fishin'" which the freshman class of Colorado High school has put out this year is to be distributed Friday.

The issue is composed entirely of freshman poems dealing with Colorado. A map showing the location of Mitchell county and of Colorado in the county is on the mimeographed cover, along with a poem, "Colorado," by Waddell Strain. The poem follows:

The city came in covered wagons. Today it sits peacefully

Over cotton and rangeland; Today it sits silently And grows older.

Fifteen pages are included in the little booklet. It was compiled with Juan Mason as faculty sponsor and the following on its staff: Editors-in-chief, Phyllis Berman, Mary Irene Price, and Jo Nell Thorpe; business manager, Ruth McQuerry; joke editor, Joye Levens; art editor, John DeGarmo.

Older readers will be impressed with the originality of the poems and with the unusual and lovely thoughts glimpsed here and there in their lines. For instance, an excerpt from Catherine Nall's "The River" reads:

"A muddy river that threads the plains And drops through ageless hills Holds our town in the crook of its arm."

Tonnie Ruth Grant describes "Christmas in Colorado" thus:

"Red and green lights Are strung through the town

Like small beads sparkling On a blue gown."

The only personal tribute in the book is to the memory of Dr. C. L. Root. This poem was written by Pauline Robinson.

Nearly every phase of Colorado and the life that goes on within it is reflected in the other poem subjects which students selected as follows:

"My Town—Colorado," Edna Davidson; "Shinners," Joe Henry Smoot;

"The Old Salt Works," Jo Nell Thorpe;

"A Tower to the North," Marian Britton;

"The Court-house," Henry Feather; "Colorado Remembers," Emmett Whitehead; "Saturday in Colorado," Leatrice Towery; "Sandstorm," Imogene Duffer; "Stock Yards," J. C. Davis; "Tolling On," Dorothy Farquhar; "What We Have," Betty Lou Whipkey; "A Millionaire's Home," Mildred Hinsley.

"Colorado" was chosen as the title for poems by Sterling Rogers, Joyce Campbell, Edna Davidson, Joy Levens, Lillie Busbee, Waddell Strain, Clayton Henderson, Melba Lois Mize, Margaret Henderson, Stewart Cooper, Richard Elliott, and Catherine Nall.

MORE ABOUT BAPTISM

Last week our friend Jno. A. Thompson took up most of this column with what he calls evidence, showing that all his sins were washed away in Baptism and that Jesus Christ had nothing to do with it. This week we submit this, closing the argument in this column. No more from friend or foe will be published.

Those who teach that salvation from sin is obtained through the act of baptism quote with some degree of triumph Gal. 3:26. It reads as follows: "For ye are all the children of God by faith in Christ Jesus. For as many of you as have been baptized into Christ have put on Christ."

They use the last clause of the passage to prove their position because it has in it the word baptism. They claim that the expression "baptized into Christ" means salvation from sin.

But notice the first sentence states a complete and joyful truth. "Ye are all children of God." How? By baptism? No! But "by faith in Christ Jesus." We read in I John 5:1, "Whosoever believeth in the Son of God."

After being born into the family of God we should put on the family uniform, which is baptism. So we are to "put on Christ in baptism" after having been born of God by faith. Paul, speaking to those already saved in Rom. 13:14, says, "Put ye on the Lord Jesus Christ, and make not provision for the flesh, to fulfill the lust thereof."

Baptism is the clothing put on the child after it has been born. How ridiculous would be the idea of clothing the child before it was born, or in order that it may be born!

Certainly to be "baptized into Christ," does not mean to be literally baptized into Him. We are literally baptized in water, therefore, it can only be a symbol or figure of our spiritual union with Christ as God's children by faith.

Paul tells us in Rom. 6:5 that baptism is a "likeness" of Christ's death, burial and resurrection. It cannot therefore, be that which procures salvation.

BOY SCOUTS, FFA AND 4-H CLUBS

The single units of the F.F.A. are called chapters, and the organization has a form of initiation, similar in some respects to that of a lodge, as does the Grange, or Patrons of Husbandry, one of the oldest agricultural organizations in this country. Chapters of Future Farmers of America, the national organization of farm boys studying vocational agriculture, are composed of boys enrolled in high school classes of vocational agriculture.

Vocational agriculture (also vocation Home Economics, now called vocation Home-Making) is a part of the public school system of the United States.

Girls taking Home-Making are organized into chapters of Future Homemakers of America. Last year there were about 17,000 members in Texas of the F.H.M.A. and 147,000 in the United States.

The 4-H clubs are not a part of the public school system of the United States while the F.F.A. chapters are. A 4-H club member may or may not be attending school.

In the Future Farmers of America manual is found this statement: "The Future Farmers of America must help to make life worth while by great, satisfying purposes in the lives of the plain people, which will find their expression through efficient labor for livelihood, the love of learning and the willing service of humanity."

To the rural youth of Texas who are seeking to prepare and to perfect themselves for service through these organizations is addressed this motto as embodying the true vocational spirit:

Learning to do, Doing to learn;
Earning to live, Living to serve.

The splendid aims of these great youth organizations, the sincere determination of their members to attain them, the nature of their magnificent and magnitudinous work, and the far reaching effects to follow both the efforts to attain the objects and purposes they have set for themselves and the consummation of them, make their work both economic and altruistic.

The world must eat food and wear clothes. Agriculture supplies these. The Texas State Fair at Dallas is making great preparation for these young people at the fair this fall. The association is doing a wise and well merited thing when it makes ready for the young men and women of Texas and the great Southwest an attractive, comfortable and permanent dormitory to be occupied by them while attending the Great State Fair of Texas, which they have assisted in making the best in America.

Amusement is one thing, life's necessities are another. Amusement is essential but dispensable, necessities are essential and indispensable. They are not supplied by the capricious performance of the "big apple," the genuflections of the "strip tease" as list, or the tortuous gyrations of the "oriental dancer."

LOOKING IN THE FUTURE

When the radio was made practicable it was thought that the ultimate of man's inventive genius had been reached, and up to the present it is the marvel of marvels. But now they are as numerous as telephones, which were the miracles of a few decades ago. There was no automobile fifty years ago, and the phonograph was considered about the limit.

It is likely that within much less than half a century the farmer's house as well as that of the city dweller, will be equipped with mechanical means for entertainment that far surpass what we have at present, as wonderful as they are. Probably within a decade we shall have the radio combined with television. Both are accomplished facts now.

Many households will possess combined radios, television instruments and moving picture machines. The man far from the city will have as good service with these miracle-machines as the man in town. His family can listen to lectures by scientists and other famous men. They will be able to sit in their homes and watch a theatrical performance, hear the voices of the actors and see their actions.

Who calls Arkansas slow? Just recently a farmer near Paragould attached his radio to his cultivator and had music with his plowing. Why not?

There will be little need to visit one's neighbors and friends, for it will be possible then with this super-marvelous machine to sit in one's living room and look into the faces, hear the voices and note the movements of neighbors and friends, as if they were present. You doubt this? Well look back a hundred years and it will not be so hard to believe.

Are the things mentioned here thought impossible? They do not seem so much so as seemed those we have accomplished since the Battle of San Jacinto was fought.

My mother went from earth to Heaven when I was 15 years old and left 5 of us boys, penniless, homeless and helpless orphans. She was a good mother and even at this late date I offer to her memory this tribute.

MOTHER

Mother had hair like darkening silk, and it rippled when she combed it. She used to play catch ball with us boys and run races with her plump-legged small daughter! Nights before bedtime she gathered her brood around the yellow lamp and read aloud the plebian classics of the day. "The Youth's Companion," "John Halifax Gentleman," "Tales of the Alhambra," and the melodious Ruskin. We went to cold beds, our ears tingling with brave words, the darkness bright with pageantry.

She helped us build a camp in the woods, and ate burned bacon and drank muddy coffee as our guest. She exiled us to the barn as punishment, and brought us buttered bread and forgave us. She consumed with straight face and appreciative words the dreadful delicacies we prepared for her, and took with dignity and grace the trivial gifts we children brought her. Not tender, but impetuous; not patient, but eager; sweet, stormy and gay in turn, she was our mother.

She made pokes when we moved into the little log house with its lean-to kitchen, and chinked the cracks with strips of paper. We used to think she liked it. Once when I had worn the thin soles off of my shoes I said to her, "We're not poor, are we?" and she began to laugh, stirring milk and meal in the cracked bowl, and answered, "Of course not. We're middle class." We all believed her. She loved yellow roses and clean rooms, kittens, walks in the woods, music and ripe fruits.

She was our Mother.

EXPRESSION ON RECESSION
BY ONE WITH OBSESSION

This depression being considered in part oppression may seek to find expression without regard to confession or transgression while congress is in session. There may have to be suppression with severe impression resulting in casualty procession to prevent progression, aggression undue accession and possession. Then, with no choice of egress or digression, but with compression; there may result another depression! Retrogression.

Perhaps may relieve some poor man's indigestion with its peculiarity of having used the letter "s" 64 times.

KNOW YOUR BIBLE

While on earth Christ did not always answer the petitioner's requests or prayers in the affirmative. When he commanded the unclean spirits to come out of the naked, violent man of Gadara, the unclean spirits asked permission to enter a nearby herd of swine. Christ granted their request, and when the unclean spirits entered the two thousand swine, the hogs were so disgusted with such associates that they committed suicide by running violently down the hill and were swallowed up in the sea. When the hog owners were informed of the loss of their swine, they came out of the city and requested Christ to leave their country. The plea was granted. The man of Gadara, clothed and in his right mind asked to accompany Christ upon his departure from the land of the Gadarenes. His petition was denied. He was told to go to his people and let them see the changed man that he was. Other striking instances could be mentioned.

ADVERTISING

From one of our exchanges we clip the following:
A superstitious subscriber wrote to an editor saying that he had found a spider in his paper and asking whether it was sign of good or bad luck. The editor wrote this answer and printed it: "Old Subscriber—Finding a spider in your paper was neither good luck nor bad for you. The spider was merely looking over our paper to see which merchant is not advertising so that he can go to that store, spin his web across the door and lead a life of undisturbed peace afterward."

This is an old gag often used. The whole story is to be doubted. It is an exaggeration, to say the least. Spiders may bark but spiders can't read. Even if they could read they would be poor customers for storekeepers. A spider's main duty in life is to spin webs. The webs are not much good after being spun, but the spiders like to spin them. Spiders, it is conceded, are industrious and thoughtful workmen. The webs they spin are characterized by delicacy of texture and tensile strength. The lovely lacework designed and executed by the spider is for the purpose of trapping foolish insects. Such insects are the meat and drink of the spider, the proprietor of the web. By spinning webs the spider lives and thrives. He is a worker, not a drone. He is dignified by his ability to work out his own destiny. But he can't read a newspaper. He does not find the non-advertiser's store a quiet, hospitable locus for his web. But it is because he seeks places where flies are plentiful and men seldom intrude. A non-advertising store is excellent for that dual purpose. The spider, being subtle as well as industrious, finds such stores, although we can scarcely believe he gets his bearings from the newspapers. We must not be too credulous.

OUR LITTLE BROWN BROTHERS

To The Columnist:
The writer has been interrogated during the last few weeks in regard to the natives of the Philippine Islands.

If the Columnist considers this letter worthy of space, he may pass it to the readers of The Record.

I wish to say before I proceed further that some reports coming from the Philippines are about half stated, or otherwise dangerously bogged in error. After living with these natives more than two years, I don't feel that I am egotistical when I claim to know something about these people and their country. The Philippine group of islands has thirty-five dialects or tribes. The range of intelligence extends from the cannibal to the mentally well poised who comprise the ruling minority. We will make no further mention of the men who eat each other.

The common error I am after has reference to dog-eaters. The Negritos, a midget race, is compelled from time to time to eat fat dogs because of no other meat being obtainable. The reader may wonder why they eat fat puppies.

These unfortunate Negritos are "booted" from place to place by other tribes who dislike them. As they travel along on barefoot, the faithful dog is to impediment to their progress. When they finally locate a resting place the fat puppies are hot and tired and require no attention except feeding.

Dog meat is not their choice but they can live on it. Pigs do not fit in their economy, as they have no place to live except by permission of other tribes.

During one visit to the jungle where I spent fourteen days with different tribes I learned through an interpreter many interesting facts in reference to their view-point on life. They live in caves and bamboo shacks and are able to perform simple work in the rice fields. They are inclined to be sullen probably because of so much "booting." As they pursue life devoid of any objective, or the shadow of a home their suffering is intense. More than once I witnessed the pathetic scene of a family with small children winding their way over a mountain just going. The death rate among infants is appalling. Their greatest sin is ignorance. They are extremely superstitious suspicious and doubtful, having no organized religion or politics. The writer was not able to obtain an estimate of the number of these poor people.

When one speaks of the Philippines as dog-eaters he or she does so without a smattering of understanding. I saw natives refuse to eat rice that passed through a separator. They believed it to be contaminated with an "evil spirit."

It is hoped that these few remarks will clear up erroneous notions about our "little brown brothers."

"SUBMARINE D-1"
Palace—Friday and Saturday
February 18 and 19

Although in story treatment it follows the prescribed formula of scores of preceding pictures based on the various branches of the armed service, this latest film version of naval life boasts several new and definite assets which contrive to assure its success as an entertainment and box-office winner. Its cast is unusually well-chosen and competent, and the accurate depiction of the operations and functions of submarines will prove exceptionally engrossing and educational, without being over-technical to a degree where it detracts from the smooth-flowing action of a plausible sea saga. Enough romance and laughs to please all patrons. Lloyd Bacon's direction is distinguished.

Players are: Pat O'Brien, George Brent, Wayne Morris, Frank McHugh, Doris Weston, Ronald Reagan.

"WELLS FARGO"

Palace—Saturday Midnite, Feb. 19
Sunday and Monday, Feb. 20 and 21

While there has been an abundance of so-called epics announced for current production schedules, Producer-Director Frank Lloyd has delivered one in fact. Motivating the feature on the processional developments of the nation's transportation systems during the nineteenth century, he has built a sweeping saga of the winning and building of the west—a picture destined to ride to record grosses and to win tremendous audience appreciation. It has something for every type of theatre-goer—action aplenty, authenticity of historical background, a well-modulated comedy relief, thanks to Bob Burns, and a touchingly human romance. The large cast is highly competent, with Joel McCrea and Frances Dee standing out in the leads.

Players are: Joel McCrea, Bob Burns, Frances Dee, Lloyd Nolan, Henry O'Neill, Mary Nash, Ralph Morgan, John Mack Brown.

"LOVE IS A HEADACHE"

Palace—Tuesday and Wednesday
February 22 and 23

Another of those surprising "B" pictures which by virtue of excellent direction, story and acting, wins an "A" rating at the boxoffice. Laughs, of the farcical variety, fly thick and fast until the last flicker, with Franchot Tone, Ted Healy and Jessie Ralph contributing. A pair of neatly drawn performances are turned in by two juveniles, Mickey Rooney and Virginia Weidler, as the tough tenement kids. Tone plays the part of a Broadway columnist who starts a drive to find a home for a pair of kids orphaned in an accident. Gladys George, a publicity loving actress, adopts the kids for the news value. Tone's opposition to her makes it necessary that she have a husband before the adoption becomes legal—so she marries him. Richard Thorp directed.

Players are: Gladys George, Franchot Tone, Ted Healy, Mickey Rooney, Frank Jones, Jessie Ralph, Virginia Weidler.

"MIDNIGHT MADONNA"

Palace—Thursday Only, Feb. 24

Thoroughly steeped in hokum and heart-throbs, this is obviously geared for mass consumption, basing its appeal on the debut of a little four-year-old actress, Kitty Clancy, whose natural ability and unspoiled screen presence strikes a refreshing note and bestows her immediate popularity. Around her has been woven a yarn that has been well-soaked in the tried-and-true mother-love tradition which should do adequate business on the sentimental end of a dueler. Warren William, in a colorful role as a cheap gambler who aids young Kitty and her mother, Mady Correll, to regain their rightful inheritance, is up to his usual competent standard. Miss Correll, who makes her first screen appearance, shows talent. James Flood directed.

Players are: Warren William, Kitty Clancy, Mady Correll, Edward Ellis, Jonathan Hale, Robert Baldwin, Frank Reicher.

The Junior class has co-operated with its sponsors in a campaign to raise money for the benefit of the annual Junior-Senior banquet. The Junior class has made approximately $80.00 on the Interclass basketball games, faculty games and pencil selling campaign which has gone on deposit in the account of Seniors of 1939.

In the class tournament the class ran a close second, but it was not satisfied with this; so Thomas Chadwick by the entire Junior class challenged the faculty team. The game was played Monday at 2:30. The Juniors tried hard but the faculty team won, 21 to 18. The Juniors have been teased for their strong intentions of winning, but it must be said they gave the faculty team a hard tussle.

SENIOR NEWS

If you've been wondering why the Seniors have been lagging behind in the news of that important class, it's because we've lost our star reporter, Doris Wynne! But we'll struggle along.

The Seniors are all in a "stew" about those newly arrived photographs taken for the annual. Some of them were heard to say "Do I look like that?" Oh, well, I guess we'll live through the ordeal, even if we never look like anything. The Seniors had a rummage sale the other day but much to their anguish the sales were few and far between. Every Senior was wandering around asking of another, "Have you got any rags, any bones today?" Well better luck next time. If you see any hay seed in our hair you'll know that we have been on a hay-ride. This grand event would have "come off" last Monday night had the weather not have been so messy, but who wants to ride on wet hay?

We have been ordering our invitations this week, an outstanding event of the senior year. These invitations Complete line of office supplies at the Record office.

WOLVES INDEPENDENT COUNTY CHAMPS

Tuesday, February the 8th, the Colorado basketball team met Westbrook in the play-off for the county Inter-scholastic League championship. The game was fast and well-played, and was the best game played by the Wolves during the basketball season. The lead changed hands in this game nine times, and the score was tied at six different times. Curtis Wood, high point man of the game, was removed from play because of personal fouls. The scoreboard reading was 25-24 at the end of the game, making the Colorado Wolves county independent school basketball champions. To win the county title, the team engaged the rural champs in a game Friday night.

Players were high in their praise of the game and the opposing team, one player stating that they had won from the best team they had ever played.

COMMERCIAL DEPT. NOTES

The typewriting students under the able supervision of Mr. Wheeler are gaining in speed and accuracy. The following students have made exceptional progress: . . . Freddie Ruth Blackwell, 46 11/15 words per minute; Ruth McQuerry, 46 6/15 words per minute; Mary Price, 35 words per minute. The shorthand students are taking dictation now at forty words per minute, and are transcribing at twenty-five words per minute. Doris Hammond while reading short hand notes the other day came upon a peculiar looking shorthand character. Upon being told by the teacher that it was an adjective that described Curtis Wood, Doris immediately pronounced that character "worthless" and continued reading.

Mr. Brazil, on the day after Valentine (we wonder if that had anything to do with it) gave those students who were exempt in bookkeeping the first semester very nice pencils. In the first period class only girls were exempt. IN AND OUT OF C. H. S. I've heard it said that "mirrors tell the tale," but when it comes to what you see being stamped on paper, that's where most of us must duck. Some of the bunch that thought themselves the second Robert Taylor or Joan Crawford ducked their heads and ran, last Monday. But the like of picture exchanging, I never saw it! Everyone wanted a picture of everyone else. Many high school sub-debs donned frocks and their fanciest dance-step last Saturday evening. Virginia Whipkey gave a formal dance at the Country Club serving punch (no, you sots, it wasn't spiked) and candy hearts.

And speaking of hearts, I'll bet many did a flip-flop on Valentine. The boys tripped around scattering their rays of sunshine to the love-ly girls. From all observation, some of the teachers had a tete-a-tete with Mr. Cupid. She calls me sugar plum. Sugar plum sounds kinda dumb, but it doesn't sound dumb, when it comes from the one I love. She calls me lollypop. Lollypop means "You're a sucker." There seems to have been a cog in the wheel of the Beulah and Dick affair last Saturday. What was it? I wouldn't be knowing; ask them. Theda Howell gave a lovely party in her home, last Friday evening. Why was dominoes the principal attraction of the evening? Why does Boone Jackson think he looks like Robert Taylor? (You've been kidding him girls). Here's a little something that sounds rather "fishy" to me. "Is the fish man here today?" "How shod I know? Am I my brothers kipper?" "No, but I've been herring things about you!" "Yeh, that's the halibut." "Yes, Sir, salmons 'ben talking about you." "Did I clam they weren't?" "Yeh, well, I octopus your face in."

"I'll call my father and chase you out of here." "Trot' him out, I'm not afraid." "Where, I'd better go then." Thomas Earl Chadwick: "Don't bother me, I'm writing to my girl." Mr. Pratt: "But, why are you writing so slow?" Tommy: "She can't read very fast."

It was rumored last week-end that Doris Flo was moving from Colorado. Maybe that was the cause for the tortured look on Jack's face until she reassured him that she wasn't. GOSSIPY GOSSIPER Buzzy Majors of the Soph class and Mary E. Seth of the Senior class are one very happy couple on the campus. Would a Valentine box of candy from Buzzy have anything to do with it? Talk about prospering love matches!!! Look at Betty Hodges and George Mallard. Why won't Dorothy Morrison give C. H. S. boys a tumble? Maybe it's because some of the older boys around town give her a tumble. We hear that John Colson was the life of Theda Howell's party last Friday night. Has Chick Carter gone high hat to the girls since he got a new car? DOING MUCH BETTER The Choral Club is doing very good work. The members have improved greatly over the first semester's work. Another new song had been added to their list, "Come to

KIRSCHBAUM GIVES POINTERS ON NEW 1938 REFRIGERATOR

FAIRBANKS-MORSE UNIT HAS WITHSTOOD ALL THE TESTS GIVEN IT

Morris Kirschbaum, of the Kirschbaum Department store, local distributor for the Fairbanks-Morse Conservador Electric refrigerator, has this to say of the new 1938 product offered the public: "For more than a century, the Fairbanks-Morse name has stood for quality—value. Today, the refrigerator bearing that name is new in design, convenience and operating economy. This entirely new refrigerator upholds the Fairbanks-Morse tradition in every respect. You can have no doubts when you select a Fairbanks-Morse refrigerator. . . . You know that your selection will still be giving satisfaction—still be modern, long, long years after you have forgotten the purchase date. . . . The Conservador gives you an extra refrigerator in your kitchen—all the benefits of a larger model, because of its greater food storage facilities. And, the foods for which you most often go to your refrigerator are always right at your finger tips when you have this most desirable feature of modern refrigeration. . . . New reserve power. A husky unit designed to provide ample reserve power, without the penalty of increased operating costs—that actually costs much less to operate under both normal and extreme conditions. . . . Self sealing crisper. Crisp, tasty vegetables may now be removed without disturbing the rest of the foods, without letting the cold air out of the main food compartment—It is different—new—convenient. . . . Double sealed door. New in design, proved in performance, this new door keeps more cold in—keeps more heat out. . . . another feature that adds to the operating economy of the new Fairbanks-Morse refrigerator. . . . Meta Given, formerly food editor of the Chicago Tribune, but who now operates her own experimental kitchens, was asked to test the new Fairbanks-Morse in her own way. Miss Given is not connected with any Fairbanks-Morse organization and after repeated tests made the following statement: "After repeated and thorough testing in our kitchens, we find that your Fairbanks-Morse Conservador refrigerator provides 26% more quickly usable storage space than other refrigerators. This increased convenience and efficiency is obtained by Conservador, which, I understand, is a feature obtainable only on the Fairbanks-Morse refrigerator."

Shirley Kiker, Albert Melton, Marie Phillips, and Gerald Montgomery. The chairman no more than got started until there were a dozen demanding attention. "I rise to a point of order." Motions were made, seconded, amended, and laid on the table. Between these someone was always rising to a request for information. It was all very amusing and instructive.

Marie Phillips. HOME-MAKING NEWS This week the home economics classes have been filled with activity. The Foods I class has turned aside from cooking breakfasts to study a special Valentine unit. They have been making cookies and candies and wrapping heart-shaped boxes. The first year sewing classes completed their slips last Friday. In most cases the outcome was satisfactory. The second year class has begun the study of silk, wool, and rayon dresses. Home project units are to be started soon.

Nancy Price. F.F.A. NEWS At the meeting of the F.F.A. club last Wednesday, the members decided to give the Future Homemakers Club a party. They set the date for next Friday, Feb. 18, at 7:30. The members of the program committee are Duff Chesney, Lee Brown, and Raymond Fuller. The refreshment committee consists of Rudel Glover, the chairman, H. W. Venus, and J. W. Hamilton.

The officers have been working hard toward the chapter conducting contest which is to be held Thursday at Roscoe, the district meeting place. Almost everyone has paid for the annual F.F.A. Banquet which this year will be held at the Colorado Hotel Coffee Shop Friday night, Feb. 25.

Corley Rogers. HOWL NEWS The publication of the Howl magazine was received with much enthusiasm. A good sale was made. This first issue had its mistakes, but the staff intends to make the next one as nearly perfect as possible. The staff wishes to promise material that the student body wants and, as a whole, a magazine that will please. Members of staff had charge of subscriptions. Catherine Slagle and Ruth Elliott collected from the Seniors; Mary Aileen Mickley from the Sophomores; Virginia Whipkey from the Juniors; and Geneva Campbell from the Freshmen.

draw opponents Friday morning. Mr. Christian states that if the team draws a bye or wins its first game, the boys will remain overnight Friday. The team members are working out each day this week in preparation for the meet. The Abilene Eagles are favored to win the district meet and enter the State contest in Austin.

Catherine Slagle. FACULTY STILL TOPS The faculty again proved its supremacy over student teams by downing Monday a stubborn junior quintet. The faculty was challenged in assembly last week by the boys on the junior team after the teachers had defeated the seniors, winners of the inter-class tourney. Both the Juniors and faculty were confident of winning before game time, with the Juniors being favored by the student prophets. The game was fast, rough, and the score was tied almost constantly. The scoreboard read 11-11 at the half, and 21-18 at the final whistle.

Lineups: Juniors: Chadwick, Richardson, Woods, Jones, Harrison; Smith. Faculty: Wheeler, Christian, Coffman, Pratt and Shillingburg. Catherine Slagle.

WOLVES COUNTY CAGE CHAMPS Friday night the Wolves had a hard game with the rural basketball champions of the county. Mr. Christian stated that the game was one of the hardest engagements of his team to date, and was won by a very close score. The boys are resting up this week after this tough entanglement, and will not play another game until they go to Abilene for the district Interscholastic Meet.

Seriously, the Wolves are county basketball champions by virtue of a default by the winner of the rural county title.

Catherine Slagle. "PARDS" SOCIETY The "Pards" Society, organized to better the fellowship and social life between the boys of Colorado High school, met on Wednesday night, Feb. 2, at the home of Sam Majors, the father of Buzz Majors. Officers were elected. Howard Lewis, the son of D. H. Lewis, superintendent of the Shell camp, was elected president, and George Mallard, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben J. Baskin, received vice-president by acclamation. Dale Simpson was elected secretary and Sam Richardson was elected treasurer. Business was immediately begun and a private dance was given at the Country Club the Friday following.

Mrs. Doss and Mrs. Oscar Jones chaperoned sixteen couples present. It is the ideal of the "Pards" society to help unify the boys of Colorado High school.

Mr. and Mrs. Ben Smith of Pecos, stopped in Stanton last week, enroute to Colorado. Mrs. Smith will remain in Colorado with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lay Powell, while her husband goes on to Missouri. Mr. Smith is secretary of the Pecos chamber of commerce and is on his way to Missouri to endeavor to interest farmers at Greenville, Mo., to settle on land along the Red Bluff Dam project. The government has condemned farm lands, depriving some 800 farm families of their farms through condemnation in connection with a flood construction project, and it's among these families that Mr. Smith hopes to interest in buying lands along the Red Bluff Dam. He will be gone two weeks on the trip.—Stanton Reporter.

Joe Pond, governor of Lions' District 2-T, was a visitor in Floydada and Amarillo, this week. He addressed a ladies' night meeting at Floydada and met with ions officials at Amarillo.—Big Spring Weekly News.

Rev. and Mrs. W. C. Hinds returned Thursday from a trip to Dallas and Fort Worth where they had been since Monday. Mrs. Hinds visited their children in Fort Worth while Mr. Hinds attended the series of Fondran lectures given at Southern Methodist University by Bishop Edmund Holt Hughes of Washington, D. C.—Midland Reporter-Telegram.

Mrs. Bill Dehlinger, Jr., a recent bride, was complimented Friday evening with a shower at the home of Mrs. R. H. Miller. . . . Those sending gifts included Mrs. C. N. Stubblefield and Mrs. Leonard Alexander of Colorado.—Big Spring Daily Herald.

Mrs. W. E. Wirtz and son of Colorado were here Friday afternoon visiting friends. She was before her marriage Pauline Edwards of Sweetwater.—Sweetwater Reporter.

GAY, GRACIOUS LIFE OF 50 YEARS AGO RECALLED BY MRS. P. C. COLEMAN, WHO USED TO BE LUCY HAM, TEXAS 'BELLE'

The gay, gracious, and entirely "proper" living which prevailed in the upper strata of Texas society a half century ago is vividly remembered by Mrs. P. C. Coleman, who as the "beautiful Lucy Ham of Tyler and Galveston," was in the center of that living.

It must be said in the beginning that Mrs. Coleman objects strenuously to being recalled in print as the "beautiful Lucy Ham" and a "Texas belle." But one can learn from reading Texas newspapers of 50 years ago and from talking to those who remember Lucy Ham that both these terms are true ones.

Mrs. Coleman

The truth is that at 82 she is still a beauty, though she meets all such compliments with an impatient "Nonsense!" and a toss of her snow-white head. She moves gracefully, quickly, quite unlike an 80-year-old person is generally supposed to move, and her conversation is spirited today as it must have been in her girlhood.

Her husband, the late Dr. P. C. Coleman, came to Colorado early in 1882 and remained to become one of the outstanding pioneers of not only Colorado but also West Texas. The story of how a sheltered, East Texas society belle came to visit a cousin in the wide-open, rip-roaring cowtown that was Colorado in 1884 and met the young doctor whom she was later to marry reads like a book.

Lucy Ham was born in Tyler, Texas, home of three Texas governors and one minister to a foreign country, on April 8, 1855. She was the second daughter of Frederick Jordan Ham and Lucinda Wells Ham. Mr. Ham had come to Texas nearly 10 years before, just after the Republic of Texas had been admitted to the union. He worked as a public surveyor for the state government in laying off counties.

In his capacity as surveyor Mr. Ham bought land in many different counties. He was the original owner of Jordan Saline, now Grand Saline, which was even then a great salt-producing center. Mr. Ham died when Lucy Ham was but 18 months old, and Jordan Saline was sold by his widow to a man named Richardson, who paid for it in gold because Mrs. Ham had the foresight to refuse Confederate money. Jordan Saline furnished much salt to Confederate soldiers during the Civil War.

The memories which Mrs. Coleman would have had of her father had he lived are centered instead about the late Stephen Reeves, lawyer friend of her father who was guardian of the Ham family after Mr. Ham's death. An indication of the ability and care which he exercised in caring for the Ham estate is the fact that he brought the estate through the turbulent, ruinous days of the Civil War without the loss of anything except the negro slaves.

Little Lucy Ham and her sister, Belle, grew up in Tyler. The sister was later Mrs. J. S. Grinnan, who died in Terrell in 1894. The only clear memory which Mrs. Coleman has of the Civil War is of one day when she was carried out to a stockade north of Tyler and held up so she could see the Yankee soldiers imprisoned within the stockade.

The two sisters attended a private school under the late Prof. J. T. Hatfield, there being no public schools in those days. Prof. Hatfield later became widely known as an educator, being superintendent of schools at Dallas, Corsicana, and other places.

When Lucy Ham was fifteen she was sent to a girls' finishing school in Staunton, Virginia. Her sister, Belle, had married and, because she was not strong, Mrs. Ham lived with her while Lucy was sent away to school.

Dancing and all the games which young girls were supposed to have over 50 years ago were taught in the finishing school. The dances included ed the ever-popular waltz, the square dance, the schottische, and, for a time, the "Baton Dip." The last-named was gone in swift waltz-time with a sudden, graceful dip you were good at it a dip every few bars.

But the summer-times were the glamorous, happy times. Blue-eyed, dark-haired Lucy Ham was just beginning to live. Each summer her mother and her sister, accompanied by her sister's children, came to the Virginia watering places and had Lucy join them there instead of returning to Texas. Making headquarters at Culpepper, where the people of Belle Ham Grinnan's husband had lived, the group divided its time between the resorts at Warm Springs, White Sulphur, and Rockbridge Alum, all fashionable Virginia vacation spots.

Rockbridge Alum was Lucy Ham's favorite stopping place, because it was near there that cadets from the Virginia Military Institute maintained a summer camp. Smart and handsome in their uniforms and all from the best families, these young men made excellent escorts. Always properly chaperoned by either Mrs. Grinnan or Mrs. L. P. Nelson, sister of Mr. Grinnan, Lucy Ham and her girl friends danced night after night with these cadets or went, very occasionally, buggy riding. One cadet with whom Lucy Ham danced frequently was named Mabry, and later he was a general with the army in Texas.

After three years in the Staunton school, Lucy Ham returned to Texas to live. The Grinnans and her mother had moved to Galveston then, Mr. Grinnan occupying a responsible position with a cotton firm.

In the society set-up of today Lucy Ham would have "come out" about that time. But in those days there was no such thing as a debut. A girl was simply old enough—and attractive enough—to go places, and society furnished the places to go. The social season got underway soon after the holidays and continued until Lent, a Mardi Gras being the final fling before the quiet inactivity of the Lenten season.

The only day-time diversions were sailing and picnicking. No bridge games, very little card-playing of any kind except when older people were to be entertained. Then it was whist. Mrs. Coleman recalls today how nervous she used to be about her whist playing when her brother-in-law would bring some of his supreme court judge friends home for dinner and an evening of whist.

Conversation was an art, one that a girl had to master if she were to be popular, no matter how beautiful she was.

As Lent drew near the social whirl went faster and faster. There were

DOUBLING CAPACITY OF COSDEN REFINERY

AT A COST OF $800,000

To meet the ever-increasing demand for COSDEN HIGHER OCTANE GASOLINE, and to still further protect the uniformity and quality of its products, the Cosden Petroleum Corporation is now building an addition to its refinery at Big Spring, Texas, which will practically double its production output and making other additions and improvements which will involve an expenditure of over $800,000, according to officials of the company, whose offices are in the Electric Building at Fort Worth, Texas.

The above picture shows the engineer's sketch of the new installation and the picture to the left shows the location of the new unit at the Cosden plant.

This installation will increase the output of HIGHER OCTANE GASOLINE by 175,000 gallons per day and will give the refinery sufficient capacity to completely process into gasoline and fuel oil 14,000 barrels of crude per day, and by manufacturing various grades of Diesel and furnace oil will give a flexibility of 17,000 barrels of crude oil per day.

The new unit and the improvements on the old Dubbs unit are expected to be in operation early this year. The installation of the new Dubbs unit constitutes a constant and consistent program of improvement and enlargement which has been followed for the past six years at the Cosden Refinery. Not content with the BEST, the Cosden Petroleum Corporation is constantly searching for something BETTER. Only recently the refinery completed the installation of the newest type hot oil charging pumps which are driven with improved gas engines. This improvement has proven very satisfactory; increasing the capacity of the cracking unit and improving the quality of the product, according to the officials of the Company. Another new installation which has proven very satisfactory is the new continuous treating system which has recently been installed. This system is the design of the Refinery Corporation and has proven very satisfactory in preserving the quality of the gasoline treated. According to the production manager the capacity of the Cosden Refinery is now approximately 17,500,000 gallons per month. With a gasoline output of 2,500,000 gallons; 2,100,000 gallons of furnace oil and 3,000,000 gallons of fuel oil. The Cosden plant regularly produces an average of 250 tons and its payrolls have never been less than $20,000 per month. Its gasoline delivery by truck runs about 2,700,000 gallons per month. It uses 758 tons of coke with an average shipment of 1,800 carloads of gas per month, in addition to the truck delivery.

dances every night—and I could have danced forever," Mrs. Coleman says. One night during a week before Lent she had a very embarrassing experience at a "German" dance because of her tiredness from having attended a dance every night that week. Slipping away from the dancers she went and sat down on a sofa—it was rose pink, she remembers—and put her fan in front of her face for a brief relaxation. She fell asleep and was awakened only when someone came and sat beside her. She looked up hastily, blinking away her sleepiness and met the eyes of her host.

"German" dances were the order of the day. Clubs were organized for these dances, and they were given at private homes. They were more fun than formal dances because couples were given a chance to rest as the figures were executed. Mrs. Coleman still has some of the favors which boys gave the girls as they took them from the sidelines for an intricate whirl about the room. Most of the big dances were given at Artillery Hall.

With considerable laughter Mrs. Coleman recalls the time when 15 couples accepted a captain's invitation to go dancing on a large ship anchored off the Galveston bar. In those days, before the Galveston harbor was deepened, large ships had to anchor about three miles out, so the fifteen couples boarded a cotton tug to go out to the ship. It was a rough three miles, and nature ran its natural course in the matter of seasickness. Men and girls forgot to be gay and charming. Some of them had to lie down on convenient bales of cotton.

Lucy Ham exercised all her self-control and laughed throughout the crossing. Later, dancing on the deck of the ship, soon to be loaded with cotton for Liverpool, England, she confessed to a girl friend that she couldn't have lasted much longer.

While living in Galveston Lucy Ham exchanged visits with a close friend, Ella Dickinson, in Houston. Thus she had access to the outstanding social affairs of both places, as did Miss Dickinson. Miss Dickinson is now Mrs. G. R. Scott of Corpus Christi. Mrs. Coleman recently visited her.

Lucy's mother decided, after several years in Galveston, to build a new home in Tyler. That home is now the parsonage for the First Baptist church of Tyler. The church itself stands on the original site of the house, which was moved back when the church was built. The home was, in the beginning, in the best residential section of Tyler, but in later years the business part of town grew up around it.

One summer after moving back to Tyler Lucy Ham went to visit in Eureka Springs, Arkansas. While there she became ill of mountain fever, and it was not considered advisable for her to return to the hot, malarial climate of her home during the summer. She decided to come to Colorado to visit a cousin, the late Mrs. G. W. Smith, until she could recuperate her strength.

And so, on a summer night in 1884, Lucy Ham came to the young town that was, all unbeknownst at the time, to be her home for more than the next half century.

She was met at the train by the late Judge George W. Smith, and they walked to the Smith home. That walk will never be forgotten by Lucy Ham Coleman. The night-life of a new, booming cattletown was going full blast. Every other place was a saloon, lighted by oil lamps and filled with sprawling, shouting, laughing figures. Pianos tinkled. The stench of liquor filled the air. Oil-burning street lights flickered on rough, earthen streets, on "sidewalks" where sand was ankle deep. Here and there, in front of some particularly enterprising place, was a plank walk. Lucy Ham didn't know which was worse—walking in the sand and getting her shoes filled with it, or walking on the boards and risking a loose one flying up in her face.

Wherever there were people in Colorado at that time—as many as there are today, with not one-twentieth of the dwelling accommodations that the town has now. They lived over stores, in shanties, in hastily-built homes constructed of precious lumber brought from Weatherford.

Lucy Ham's opinion of the town that night was what that of any sheltered, refined girl would have been. But she stayed to learn that there was another side to Colorado—a side composed of professional and business men who possessed a far-sighted, pioneering spirit combined with ability in just the right quantities to mark them for success.

One of these was Dr. Coleman, tall, dark-eyed, handsome, and earnest. He had been in Colorado since early in 1882 and already had a good practice. His coming here had, however, been quite by accident. Unhappy in his old life at Murphreesboro after his first wife died, leaving him with two children, he had started for Texline, the most remote place he knew. He thought that he could "get away from things" there. He stopped over in Colorado to spend the night, was called on a case, and wound up by staying here.

By the time Lucy Ham returned to Tyler in the fall she and the young doctor were close friends. She boarded the train for Tyler, she recalls, on the day when Cleveland's election had just been assured and the whole town was celebrating.

The marriage of Lucy Ham and Dr. Coleman took place in the Tyler Episcopal church on April 21, 1885. They went to Houston to a medical convention on their honeymoon.

Back at home in Colorado, Mrs. Coleman set about constructing a new social life. A different social life this time, one without dances and all the gay frills of her single days. She helped Miss Helen Kennedy (now Mrs. Ed W. Smith, wife of Judge Smith of the court of civil appeals in San Antonio) organize Colorado's first kindergarten, and was a leader in the club sponsoring the kindergarten. She was the first president of Colorado's first—and today its oldest—study club, the Standard. She's still an active member of the club today. After a few years she joined Dr. Coleman in the Presbyterian church, and today she is an active member of that church. She is honorary life-time president of the Mitchell county Medical auxiliary.

Mrs. Coleman is prouder today of the things which came to Dr. Coleman and the things which he achieved than of any honor which has ever come to her. He was president of the Colorado chamber of commerce for 22 years, and was chairman of the West Texas chamber of commerce committee which brought about the establishment of Texas Tech at Lubbock. He was vice-president of the WTCC for some time. He was at one time president of the Texas Medical society. He had been an elder in the Presbyterian church since he was 18 years of age. During his later years he was often called the "grand old man of West Texas." He died in October, 1932.

Three children were born to Dr. and Mrs. Coleman, and all are living. Dr. Reava Coleman, named for Mrs. Coleman's beloved guardian back in Tyler, is on the staff of a government hospital at Washington, D. C. Mrs. Roland Burchard lives in Sacramento, Calif. Mildred Coleman lives with her mother. Mrs. J. Max Thomas of Colorado is Mrs. Coleman's only surviving stepchild. A stepson, Walter Coleman, died several years ago.
