

COTTON CHOPPING MAKES BIG CUT IN COUNTY WPA ROLLS

EXPENSES FOR MAY ARE STILL UP, HOWEVER, BECAUSE OF BURIAL, HOSPITAL COSTS

Cotton chopping time has brought a cut of nearly 50% to Mitchell county's WPA rolls, according to Mrs. Bonnie Burt who has charge of the Mitchell county welfare and relief office. County relief expenses for May, however, did not diminish because $74.55 in burial and hospital costs came in on the May total. Mrs. Burt's report shows.

Only about 47 men eligible for WPA work are left on the rolls now that cotton chopping has gotten fully underway. Mrs. Burt says. Fifteen large families moved out to do farm work last week.

State and district WPA and relief officials have repeatedly taken note of the fact that Mitchell county's relief enrollees get out and get work when there is work to be had. Mrs. Burt says. Also, Mitchell county has a lesser percentage of relief enrollees, based on population, than most surrounding counties. The highest enrollment for the past year has been 64. One adjoining county has 400 men on its rolls. Colorado City has 42 women eligible for sewing room employment, whereas the same adjoining county has 100.

Men who leave the WPA rolls to accept farm work will be eligible to return when the work plays out, Mrs. Burt emphasizes. When cotton chopping is completed in the near future, it will be about feed-head time, and a number of those who have gone to the farms do not plan to seek WPA work again before the first of the year. There will be a lapse of about six weeks between feed-head time and harvest time, however, when the rolls will go up again.

Mitchell county has only about 10 persons who are on direct relief—that is, they are unable to work but must have regular aid.

During April as well as May, county relief and welfare costs were boosted by hospital and burial expenses. Medicine, groceries, funerals and hospitals cost the city and county $252.70 in April as compared with $237.50 in May. Surplus commodities distributed by the Texas Relief commission totaled $1,701.07 in April, $965.75 in May.

Lenorah Cook, who teaches English in Colorado City high school, said in answer to questioning that they saw the royal party twice as they looped by the capitol building. She is enthusiastic about the queen's beauty, graciousness, and lovely clothes. She says that King George has the roughest of complexions and is much more masculine in appearance and much more at ease than his pictures indicate.

PERMIAN BASIN CELEBRATION TO BE HELD HERE IN JULY IS PUBLICIZED IN JUNE ISSUE OF WEST TEXAS TODAY

More than a page of publicity on the Permian basin celebration which Colorado City is to sponsor in mid-July is given in the June issue of West Texas Today, official magazine of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

The article appears under the by-line of H. B. Spence, chamber of commerce manager, and is accompanied by a picture of the discovery well and R. J. Wallace, chairman of the celebration committee.

It reads as follows: Let's acquaint ourselves with the location of the Permian Basin, and how it got its name. The word "Permian" is a geological word, meaning an age of formation, characterized by the series of strata in the carboniferous by rocks and red sandstone and shale, by the enlargement of land area and the formation of mountains and the appearance of reptiles, a preceding age to the Pennsylvanian age. Geology reveals that thousands and thousands of years ago the Permian Basin was really a great body of water that covered the greater portion of West Texas and a large portion of New Mexico.

Today geologists unhesitatingly term the Permian Basin the greatest oil reserve in the world. Should we publicize this fact, and should we be proud of our Permian Basin and celebrate the discovery of this liquid gold that has built villages and cities, made millionaires out of paupers? Yes, I say we should. I think every man connected with the oil business, every land owner in this vast area, and every business man should join together and organize in such a unanimous manner that we would be a power of national recognition and able to demand our rights before governing bodies. Since the discovery of this liquid gold, the Permian area has grown by leaps and bounds, and today is one of the wealthiest areas in the world, with still greater possibilities than any other known section. I believe that we should have an annual celebration on the anniversary of the discovery that is materially responsible for the rapid growth and the untold wealth of this vast area that today we are proud and anxious to boast of as our home.

On June 16, 1920, a group of oil men, business men, women and children gathered in Mitchell county, around the derrick of the Morrison No. 1, just a few miles from Colorado City, anxiously awaiting the shooting of what they hoped to be an oil well. These people had gathered there, curious to watch the shooting of a well, with very little hopes of ever seeing the liquid gold gush forth. The reason I say this is because geologists and petroleum magazines had termed this area the graveyard of oil men's hopes. Were they surprised! The shot was lowered, a rumbling sound, and suddenly the curious crowd was running for shelter, clothes drenched with oil, and it seemed there was oil everywhere. That, folks, was the discovery of oil in the Permian Basin.

To give credit where credit is due, we must give a great portion of the credit to our own attorney, L. W. Sandusky. He has always been noted for his courage in uncovering evidence and proving that there is, when others say there is not. Back in 1916, in face of all the facts that geologists and petroleum magazines had termed all the territory in this section now known as the Permian Basin was worthless as far as oil was concerned, Mr. Sandusky had compiled all geological reports made by the geologists who had worked this entire area and yet he firmly disapproved their theory. A Professor Udden, in a report which Mr. Sandusky held in his survey had found what is termed the Marathon Fold and Edwards Plateau. The Marathon Fold may be termed geologically an underground prong of the Arbuckle Mountains, which is known to laymen as the divide.

This divide is a strip of land you pass over between Loraine and Sweetwater. Mr. Sandusky eventually interested the Seaman Oil Company in blocking 90 acres of leases on the west flank of the Marathon or what we may call the shore line of the once Permian Sea. This land was blocked under terms of the contract with Seaman, a deposit of 25c per acre was escrowed in the bank, and Seaman was given a 60 day period in which to secure a geological report on the plot, and if the same showed structures, to start the drilling of two wells thereon within 60 days, or forfeit the escrow to the various land owners. The escrow was forfeited, and returned to the land owners "about a year later."

Mr. Sandusky was not satisfied with his fighting ability to prove where there is a will there is a way, contacted Harry Miles, who was in charge of an office maintained by the Humble Oil Company. Miles believed as Mr. Sandusky, and stated that he would drill on any location in the Permian area that Ralph Seigler, a geologist, would recommend. Seigler came to Colorado City in December, 1918, and after about 90 days' work, recommended two locations in Mitchell county, one the Landers block. See PERMIAN BASIN, Page 3

Death made the first break in the circle of 14 R. F. Terry children when Jim Terry, 60, succumbed suddenly Monday afternoon at the farm where he lived with his brother, John Terry, south of Westbrook.

Mr. Terry had been working in the field Monday morning and complained of not feeling well when he came in at noon. He asked his brother, John, for some "heart medicine" but there was none in the house. He succumbed about 3 o'clock.

His brothers and sisters recalled after his death that he was a great lover of and a great favorite with children, and that he was responsible for their having had many childhood trinkets and pleasures they might otherwise have had to do without.

Survivors of Mr. Terry include his mother, Mrs. Narcia Terry of Colorado City, widow of R. F. Terry who died several years ago, and the following brothers and sisters: John Terry of near Westbrook; I. W. Terry, F. L. PERMIAN BASIN four miles southeast of Colorado City, the other the Morrison block, about nine and one-half miles southwest of Colorado City.

Before the drilling operations were completed, the Humble Oil Company sold a 51 per cent interest to the Carter Oil Company in April, 1919, and the personnel and operation were changed. In September, 1919, S. S. Owen, then engaged in assisting the American Underwriters to organize an oil company, made a contract with Sandusky for drilling the Morrison well. The spot was selected on the location and the well was spudded February 8, 1920, began to show oil in June, and was drilled to a total depth of 2,563 feet with 163 feet of oil bearing lime, being shot with 840 quarts of nitro. This well was finished in a 10" hole, first casing being 20", the shot was made July 16, 1920, and as stated above, with approximately 10,000 people, including many of the "there is no oil there" oil fraternities, looking on. This was the beginning of commercial oil in the great Permian Basin, which has transformed a desert into an everliving and progressive empire of wealth and happiness second to none in the world.

A special celebration committee has been appointed by the Colorado City Chamber of Commerce. The committee is headed by R. J. Wallace, widely known oil man. Members of this committee have contacted and have corresponded with a number of outstanding dignitaries of the oil industry, getting their opinion on such a celebration. All have answered in a favorable and most encouraging manner. The committee has been working hard to formulate plans that will provide an outstanding entertainment program and also bring about the organization of the Permian area that they feel will be most beneficial in the future building of this great empire. The committee has adopted the following plans: a two-day celebration, an outstanding and clean entertainment program, a banquet and barbecue, business sessions for the purpose of forming a permanent organization that would be powerful enough for international recognition before governing bodies, round-table discussion of the oil industry, election of officers of the Permian organization; each city in the Permian area to have a representation of three directors—one oil man, one land owner and one business man. The directors will select the next celebration city. The speaker programs will be filled by some of the outstanding individuals of the great oil industry.

I join the celebration committee, the oil fraternities and the loyal citizens of the Permian Basin in extending to each and every individual interested in the welfare of this widely known area a most cordial invitation to attend the first annual anniversary celebration of the discovery of oil in the Permian Basin.

Not a Department Store—Just its EQUIPPED, STOCKED and MANNED to keep your car running right and looking good

Did you ever stop to think how many different kinds of merchandise are required to keep that modern miracle, an automobile, running right and looking good? Gasoline and motor oil, of course—they're essentials; but how many more! . . . You get a spot on the upholstery which must be removed; you need a cleaner — and a polish — for the paint; tires, tubes and such accessories as fan-belts, windshield wiper blades, dustcaps and the like; batteries, battery cables, spark plugs; repair and testing equipment; a long list of special lubricants . . . And you yourself: on a trip you want an insect-repellent and a sunburn lotion; there's a hurry call from home to fetch a bottle of furniture polish, a can of household oil . . . We've provided them all for you at your Humble Service Station . . . Next time you see the Humble sign, get out and ask the salesman to show you around; see for yourself how well equipped with facilities and products the station is . . . Then you'll understand that our invitation to stop for service where you see the Humble sign is truly a phrase with meaning!

FARM BENEFITS GAIN BUT INCOME SLUMPS

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The Bureau of Agricultural Economics estimated Sunday the American farmers

had a gross income in 1938 of $9,220,000,000 billions— from farm production and government subsidies. This compared with $10,350,000,000 (billions) estimated for 1937, $5,562,000,000 (billions) for 1932—the lowest for what the bureau called the depression period—and $12,791,000,000 (billions) for 1929.

The 1938 income included $7,538,000,000 (billions) cash from farm marketings, $462,000,000 from government benefit payments, and $1,200,000,000 (billions) worth of products retained for farm consumption.

The bureau said the greater portion of the decline in gross income from 1927 to 1938 was due to a decrease in receipts from crops, particularly from grains, fruits, vegetables and cotton. The gross income from all crops declined 18 per cent, while that from livestock and livestock products dropped less than 9 per cent.

Government benefit payments, on the other hand, were 31 per cent larger in 1938.

McDONALD'S ELECTRIC CONTROL BEST IN NATION, EXPERTS SAY

AUSTIN.—Electricity is the obedient genie of McDonald Observatory's "Aladdin" who operates the 75-ton telescope in star-gazing from the top of Mt. Locke.

And the electrical equipment at the world's newest and second largest observatory is second to none in the nation, engineers have reported to University of Texas officials, joint sponsors of the plant.

Coursing through five and one-half miles of wiring and controlled by 137 push-buttons, electricity operates the telescope, revolves the 125-ton dome, and opens the dome window. Key points of operation are located in a master switchboard, two table controls, and four portable "match box" control panels.

Thirty-three electric motors do all the work. Semi-diesel generators provide the current for them and for the plant's light and heat.

Smallest of the group, a one-third horsepower motor, operates the 75-ton instrument, driving it to a hair's breadth focus. This tiny motor-driven right ascension control is used to counteract the effect of the earth's rotation and to hold the 82-inch mirror in constant focus.

Driven by a 10-horsepower motor, the 125-ton steel dome revolves on locomotive wheels.

Refrigeration is also provided electrically. The spectragraph room at the end of the telescope's massive axis, where the spectrum is analyzed, has a constant temperature. And even the photographic supplies are cooled electrically.

PASTURES PLUS PROTEIN FINISH CATTLE CHEAPLY

FEEDING ON GRASS HAS PROVED ECONOMICAL IN COTTON BELT

"He can market his cattle earlier in the season than when finished on grass alone, and cattle can be fed with much less trouble than they can in drylot in winter. Also, the fertilizer value of the feed is put back on the land where it belongs without any labor involved in hauling manure."

This quotation from a Southern livestock leader gives some of the reasons for the increasing practice of finishing cattle on pastures in the South, where grass is plentiful and cottonseed meal, or cake, are an economical source of protein. Additional evidence of the value of supplemental feeding is furnished by the Alabama Experiment Station results of average daily gains of 2.47 pounds by steers receiving 4 to 5 pounds of cottonseed meal daily per head, compared with gains of only 1.92 pounds by those on pasture alone. Alabama reported that feeding meal proved profitable five out of six years of the tests.

Where steers were to go into the dry lot for finishing, feeding 5 pounds of cottonseed cake, daily per head, to steers on Sudan grazing saved about 30 days of the finishing period at the Beeville, Texas, sub-station.

Tennessee, Louisiana, and other southern states have reported excellent results from this practical, labor-saving method of feeding cattle that show its value in a large part of the Cotton Belt.

Cattle markets also reflect the value of this feeding method in their quotations, with premiums for cattle fed on grass. One Southern market has averaged over $1.00 per hundred pounds premium for cattle fed grain and cotton, seed meal on pasture compared with cattle on grass alone. Also typical is the following comment at a market of the Middle West:

"Several droves of strictly good to choice quality western range steers sold at $9.00 per hundred down. One load of heavy Nebraska rangers said to have had cottonseed cake one the range brought $10.40."

Along with the advantages of the longer grazing season in the south is that of an economical supply feeding on the grass practical. Cottonseed meal or cake is available in the Cotton Belt at a cost that often is less than that of grain, and its economy and efficiency have demonstrated the value of feeding cake or meal, with or without grain, on pasture. In addition, to its protein, meal or cake has a productive, or fattening, value that is important in finishing on grass.

Finishing on the grass is but one of the many practicable methods of livestock production that have been discussed in this series of articles. These methods, efficiently utilizing the south's feed resources, point the way toward a more permanent, prosperous agriculture which, under sound leadership by agricultural and livestock agencies, promises to make the south a "Land of Cotton—And of Livestock."

CRUTCHER, PALMER, AND OTHER ORCHARD OWNERS ARE MAKING LORRAINE THE 'CLYDE' OF MITCHELL COUNTY, REPORTS INDICATE

Tales of bounteous blackberry yields on the L. E. Crutcher farm at Loraine and of cherry-plums thriving there and on the C. A. Palmer farm indicate that Loraine is well on its way to becoming the "Clyde" of Mitchell county.

Crutcher owns 75 acres of land at the western edge of Loraine, having 10 acres devoted to blackberries and dewberries and five set out in varieties of plum trees, both wild and domestic.

He has pioneered in the grafting of different varieties of fruit trees, being especially successful in the grafting of a domestic variety of plum onto the root of a wild plum. He uses nothing but a pocket knife, string, and tire tape. This is said to produce a plant having the vitality and strength of the wild plum and the delicious fruit of the domestic plum.

Crutcher also started the crossing of cherry trees and plum trees, producing a fruit which he calls the cherry plum.

C. A. Palmer, who lives south of Loraine, has been successfully emulating Crutcher in the crossing of plums and cherries. W. W. Porter brought back some fruit-laden twigs from one of Palmer's 118 cherry-plum trees this week. The fruit is just ripening. The ripened portion is a deep, dull wine color. The fruit is the size of small plums, being dull apple-green in color when not ripened. It grows in clusters like cherries, however.

The blackberry harvest on the Crutcher farm always draws a steady stream of buyers from all over Mitchell and adjoining counties. Crutcher is said to credit his farm success of recent years largely to his work with fruits and melons. He has put two sons through college, both of them having excellent records. Leon received his master's degree from Louisiana State university this spring and William got his B.A. from Texas Tech, Lubbock. Both boys have helped Crutcher with his farming and fruit raising during summers when they were not in school.

Crutcher always has a good harvest of melons, including water melons, muskmelons, and cantaloupes. He says that good melon crops can be made with practically no rain after the first of June.

(Editor's Note: Acknowledgment is made to Farm News column of J. W. King, Jr., in the Mitchell County News for information used on L. E. Crutcher.)

BODINE BULL BOASTS SAME BREEDING AS COWS WHICH RATE NATIONAL RECOGNITION

A story and pictures carried by the Fort Worth Star-Telegram this week on the Shelton Brothers dairy herd of Brownwood proved to be of special interest to Jim Bodine, Buford dairyman.

Progress Ming Toy Owl, herd bull of the Shelton Brothers, recently won national recognition by qualifying for the silver medal award of the American Jersey Cattle club, national organization of Jersey breeders. Three of the four Jersey cows which established the butterfat production records on which the bull won this honor have the same breeding as Bodine's herd bull, Premier Benedictine Prince.

The Bodine bull's dam was Dreaming Cleo Ann. The name Cleo is included in the registration titles of three of the winning cows.

Not only does Bodine's herd bull boast similar breeding to the record-winning cows but he is also a descendant of the prize herd bull, Benedictine Ruler, which the Sheltons owned before Progress Ming Toy Owl. Benedictine Ruler won the national silver award when even younger than Progress Ming Toy Owl.

POISON DRINK FATAL TO ERNEST CLEPPER, WORLD WAR VETERAN

Downing half of the contents of an 8-ounce bottle of carbonic acid before companions could stop him, Ernest Clepper, 44, World War veteran, succumbed at Roath hospital in Colorado City at 1:30 Friday morning.

Clepper drank the poison shortly before 11 o'clock while sitting on the porch of the home of Mrs. G. P. Stewart, Sr., near Cuthbert talking to his wife, the former Oma Stewart, and her brother, G. P. Stewart, Jr. According to members of the family, the Cleppers had recently been estranged. He had returned to Mitchell county five days before his death after a stay in New Mexico.

Stewart and Mrs. Clepper knocked the bottle from Clepper's hand when he had drunk only half of its contents and rushed him to the hospital. He died three hours later, his death occurring on the day before the first anniversary of the death of Mrs. Clepper's father, G. P. Stewart, Sr., from the effects of a shotgun discharge which he sustained while sitting alone in his car. Stewart said before he died that the discharge was accidental.

Clepper was born October 1, 1894, in Palo Pinto county and was reared an orphan, spending much of his boyhood in Coke county. He enlisted in the army in July, 1918, from Roswell, N. M., serving in Company C, 117 machine gun battalion. He served in France from October until December, 1918. Since that time he had lived in Mitchell county off and on. He was married here on March 10, 1937, to Oma Stewart. He had been in ill health and unable to work since 1934, according to friends.

Survivors in addition to Mrs. Clepper are three sisters, Mrs. Mattie Mauzey of Blackwell, Mrs. Hattie Scarborough of Long Beach, Calif., and Mrs. Mary Gordon of Fort Worth, one brother, James Clepper of Colorado City.

Funeral services were held from Kiker & Son chapel at 6 o'clock Friday evening with Rev. C. M. Epps of First Methodist church officiating. The American Legion had charge. Burial was in the Colorado City cemetery, with Kiker & Son making arrangements.

JEANETTE MacDONALD PLAYS FIRST SOLO STARRING ROLE IN "BROADWAY SERENADE"

Singing Star Has Modern Role In Lavish Musical

JEANETTE MacDONALD TO PALACE SCREEN FRIDAY AND SATURDAY

Taking full advantage of the versatility of its star, "Broadway Serenade," starring Jeanette MacDonald, comes to the Palace theatre Friday and Saturday. The new musical, which traces the struggles of a young singer and her husband in their fight for stardom, offers music lovers the full scope of Miss MacDonald's voice.

The melodies include everything from grand opera to semi-classical and popular selections.

Appearing opposite the singing star is Lew Ayres, whose ace performances in recent film hits won for him the male lead in this picture. Ayres, a musician and composer in real life, plays a parallel role as Jimmy Seymour, Miss MacDonald's husband.

Frank Morgan once again lends his unique comedy to the role of a

Broadway producer, Ian Hunter forms the necessary third point of the film's love triangle, and Al Shean, famous old vaudevillian, gives an interesting characterization as Herman, elderly concert cellist who be-friends both Miss MacDonald and Ayres.

The story is woven about the lives of Ayres and Miss MacDonald, as husband and wife who combine to form a piano and song team performing at cheap nightclubs. Ayres' temper costs them their job. On returning home he discovers he has won a scholarship to study in Italy, but the funds are insufficient to provide passage for his wife. Determining to sell his prize song, the two visit the office of producer Cornelius Collier, played by Frank Morgan.

Miss MacDonald sings, but through an accident it is not her husband's song. She gets a job with the show and he remains behind. When she rises to stardom her name is coupled with that of the wealthy "angel" of the production. Ayres misunderstands and there is a divorce. All ends, however, on a harmonious note when Morgan purchases one of Ayres' musical shows in which to star Miss MacDonald.

The picture was produced by Robert Z. Leonard.

NEWT MILLER HERE

Newt Miller, former employe of the Col-Tex refinery and now a resident of Alba, was here during the weekend to take his daughter, Mrs. Hester Lee, back to Alba for a visit with him and Mrs. Miller. Miller is now working for F. R. Bount, who built the first salt works in Texas on the hills southwest of Colorado City some 45 years ago. Blount has just finished a plant for the making of "Brickettes" from coal that is too fine for fuel otherwise and Miller is working in this plant. He brought several of the brickettes with him to show friends here.

"ONLY ANGELS HAVE WINGS" STARS GRANT AND ARTHUR

TROPIC ROMANCE FILLED WITH AIR ADVENTURE

One year of preparation and three months of filming represented time well spent, according to the enthusiastic reception given Columbia's Howard Hawks production, "Only Angels Have Wings," wherever it has been shown. The film, which stars Cary Grant and Jean Arthur together for the first time, comes to the Palace theatre Saturday midnight, Sunday and Monday, June 17, 18 and 19. Also in the cast are Thomas Mitchell, Rita Hayworth and Richard Barthelmess, who is said to make a splendid screen comeback after an absence of more than three years.

"Only Angels Have Wings" has been hailed not only as a great film, but as an outstanding example of what may be done by the film industry when every phase of production, casting and story combine to provide perfect entertainment.

Columbia is particularly proud of one of the most pretentious presentations of the season. Lavish sets; awe-inspiring, pulse-quickening views of scenic grandeur; spectacular sequences, all represent extraordinary at by Grant, who has gathered a group of reckless, restless pilots to carry the mail over the fog-covered Andes. Jean Arthur, the girl, falls in love with Grant. Her love is not reciprocated because the flier feels that women and the sky do not belong together.

During one of the treacherous fogs which make flying in this spot an additional hazard, one of the pilots crashes and is killed. The Dutchman replaces him with Barthelmess, seen as a renegade aviator who bailed out during a test flight and allowed his mechanic to crash to death. The mechanic's brother, Thomas Mitchell is one of Grant's men. To complicate matters further, Barthelmess is married to Miss Hayworth, the girl who jilted Grant in the States.

"Blondie Meets The Boss" Bumstead Family Sequel

COMEDY IS BASED ON NOTED CARTOON

Blondie, Dagwood and Baby Dump-ling return to the screen of the Ritz theatre on Sunday and Monday in Columbia's "Blondie Meets The Boss," second picturization of the adventures and misadventures of the Bumstead clan, that lovable, irrepressible young family whose foibles are daily to be found in the comicpages of the nation. The new film has been hailed as more lovable and funnier than its predecessor, "Blondie."

Penny Singleton is again to be seen in the role of Blondie, the Chic Young cartoon character which she created for the screen. Arthur Lake, who made the perfect Dagwood, again plays the role of Blondie's blundering husband. As Baby Dumping, Colum-a note characteristic with Dagwood. He has just threatened to resign because his boss has cancelled Dagwood's long-awaited vacation, and the boss has accepted the resignation!

Blondie's efforts to win Dagwood's job back for him result only in her receiving the position herself. As a result, Dagwood minds house, while Blondie rushes to the office every morning.

Dagwood's determination to be the man of the house, and his hilarious escape on and from a fishing trip create complications of the humorous quality expected of the young husband. "Blondie Meets The Boss" reaches its climax in a Jitterbug contest, which Dagwood accidentally wins.

Baby Dumping's antics lend a familiar and characteristic touch to the picture, and Daisy, the dog, has another major role. The supporting cast includes Skinny Ennis and his band, Dorothy Moore, Jonathan Hale, Linda Winters, Joel Dean, Stanley Brown and America's Jitterbug Champions, Ray Hirsch and Patti Lacey.

"Blondie Meets The Boss" is based on Chic Young's famous comic strip feature, Frank Strayer, of "Jones Family" and "Blondie" fame, directed this latest of the Bumstead comedies from a screenplay by Richard Flournoy.

Arthu Lake and Penny Singleton has again cast little Larry Simms, that chubby four-year-old whose performance in "Blondie" was praised by film and cartoon fans everywhere. "Blondie Meets The Boss" opens on

MAY DELIVERIES FOR CHEVROLET ARE UP

DETROIT.—For the first time since 1933, Chevrolet dealers' May deliveries of new passenger cars and trucks this year eclipsed those of April. The announcement was made at company headquarters here this week, in connection with the release of figures showing the month's new deliveries as 77,125 units. This is 34.8 per cent above the total for May a year ago, comparison of the record reveals, and is the second-highest month since the 1939 models' introduction.

The figures show that Chevrolet's sales in the final 10 days of May exceeded those for both the preceding 10-day periods, and that passenger cars and trucks both shared in the advance over corresponding periods of last month and last year.

Truck deliveries for the month were 15,474, as against 11,436 in May 1938.

Used car sales for the month totalled 157,461, a gain of 25.8 per cent over May of last year. The final 10-day period was 6,412 units above the period immediately preceding, and 11,942 units above the period ending May 10, giving the company's retail sales organization a grand total of 234,586 new and used car sales for May.

instance, we start out with a tire built in an efficient factory. This tire is sold directly from factory to each cooperative independent dealer, transported by truck at carload freight rate, no warehousing or handling charge in between. No national advertising—I know this doesn't set so well with you—but think of the millions and millions of dollars spent on tire advertising through magazines, radios, newspapers, etc., that should go into the tire instead. It would take me a very few minutes to cut down one of our tires and show you what I mean by putting some of this saving in the tire itself. This heat resisting cord here is one of the greatest improvements in years."

Q. One more question, Mr. Hicks, please. What is this cooperative buying plan you speak of?

"Well, that's simply a matter of all these several hundred independent dealers pooling their buying and taking the complete output of this factory, bringing the cost to the user closer to the cost at the factory than on any other staple article I know. You would be surprised to know how little that shirt or that suit of clothes you have on would cost you if handled on that basis."

SUNDAY, June 18, brings local observance of the twenty-ninth annual Father's Day, a custom originated at Spokane, Wash., in 1910 by Mrs. John Bruce Dodd, now director of a funeral home. She started it in tribute to her father, a C.A.R. veteran named William J. Smart. Most fathers aren't illustrious, but they're Dad to someone and nothing else counts. Some fathers are famous in their own right. Others, strangely, grow in stature partly through notoriety achieved through their children. Here are five samples:

Joseph P. Kennedy, U. S. ambassador to Britain, millionaire, former SEC chairman and maritime commission chairman, is quite a family man besides. He'll get nine presents this Father's Day.

Eighty-five-year-old Henry Morgenthau was famous years ago as ambassador to Turkey and an international peace worker. Son Henry, now secretary of the treasury, keeps Henry Sr.'s name in the limelight.

START FATHER'S DAY RIGHT BY INVITING DAD AS "GUEST OF HONOR" AT BREAKFAST

June 18 is supposed to belong to father. Why not invite him to a long and leisurely breakfast around noon and plan to give him a regular man's breakfast? Have his favorite newspaper folded by his place, cigars or cigarettes, according to his taste, and a very comfortable chair. Give him a regular time, and try to make him forget all the early morning snatched breakfasts he has eaten before he dashed off to work.

FATHERS

Fathers are useful adjuncts to the household. Some of them are ornamental, but the majority are built along simple lines, looking to efficient and dependable service. They may be had in sizes varying from five to six feet, from 140 to 200 pounds, in weight and in quality, hard, soft, and medium.

Given reasonable care, a sound father may be expected to last over a long period of years and in many cases, the same father may serve for a lifetime. Equipped with the proper attachments, father may be applied to a great variety of domestic tasks. A father may be used to freeze ice cream, mow the lawn, wash the dishes on Thursday night, comb the dogs, clean the car, button dresses up the back, and spank the children.

For efficient work much depends upon the way in which the father is handled. Many households find that less is accomplished through rough treatment—leading to stalling and balking—than through the more artful pressure of coaxing, cajoling, pleading, weeping, and flattery.

Those who have had experience with one, know that a father is a labor saver. In the long run and the short one, too, for that matter he may be said to pay for himself as well as for the other members of the family. "Let Father work for you" is the slogan of many a household. He prevents tired backs, nervous strain, rough hands, crows feet, and evidences of vanishing youth.

An important factor in a good father is the low cost of upkeep. He needs no more than a couple of suits of clothes a year, an overcoat every five years, and a few shirts and neckties to keep him in condition. Only on rare occasions is he laid up for major repairs, and when faulty parts are removed—such as the appendix or tonsils—he may be counted upon to keep on functioning without need of replacements.

It is true that an old father, after years of service, is subject to rattles, knocks, squeaks, and bumps, and his finish loses its shine, but even at that he may be good for many more miles. So, considering all these factors, once a year, it seems only a graceful gesture to forget his faults and reward him with a pat on the back or a lump of sugar.

LETTERS FROM READERS GOVERNOR ADVOCATING TAX ON POOR

Governor O'Daniel is so intent upon inflicting a bread-and-butter tax on Texas people he is lashing out with a white fury at the Legislature who refuse to enslave their constituents.

The Governor has two allies to rely upon in this plan, predatory tax-dodging wealth who have never borne their just part of taxation and that element of our citizens who insist upon a pension even if it does oppress the toiling citizenry to meet it. These two elements are supplying the lobby at Austin. Governor O'Daniel should tell the people that the lobby in Austin is backed by predatory questionable element fighting his plans. All of our great patriotic leaders have warned against this tax. President Roosevelt last week denounced it. Governor Alfred denounced it. It is generally branded as a tax on poverty.

Big interests are supporting the Governor's tax plan because in addition to this tax on necessities, his plan goes further in his proposed constitutional amendment and relieves from the tax a tax on skyscrapers, oil fields, pipe lines, railroads, refineries, wharfs, docks, storage tanks, vast ranches and everything of value, in Texas, from a state tax. These interests know when this tax is abolished by constitutional amendment, it will never be restored and we know when it is abolished, to meet government expenses the sales tax will have to be increased to about 5 per cent. If the Governor don't know this some of his real friends should come to his rescue on that point. These friends will advise him to construct a monument to those legislators who are valiantly fighting to save Texas from enslavement. All power to them.

W. S. PARKER, Beaumont.

ONLY ONE CHANGE NEEDED IN PRESENT PENSION LAW

The extent of wrangling and fuss by legislators of present session concerning a constitutional amendment for the purpose of paying old-age assistance is so absurd as to justify the people thinking that many of them are not acting in good faith.

There is no necessity for such an amendment. The people by large majority voted to assist citizens of Texas over 65 years of age who were needy. If an amendment was submitted to a vote to pay all residents over 65 years of age assistance it would be defeated, and, of course, should be. The sole purpose of old-age assistance is to help needy old people. Many over 65 are not needy and need no aid. Some not needy would accept assistance if allowed them, but it would be unjust, a serious wrong, to tax people to assist someone not in need.

All that is needed to provide assistance to the needy old is a brief amendment to the existing old-age assistance law. This law is reasonably sufficient to serve its purpose with the exception of giving the administrators of the law the right to refuse aid to old people who have relatives who might aid in their support. This provision of the law should be eliminated. It might be advisable to substitute a provision that if the relative of the applicant would make a sworn statement that he or she was able and willing to render the aid, it could be refused.

Much injustice has grown out of the administration of the present law by reason of the arbitrary action of those charged with its administration because they thought some relative should aid the applicant.

BUT FARMERS ARE LEAVING THE FARMS

In your column May 13 Lynn Landrum has gone to the farm and gotten the truth, the whole truth, regarding farm tenants. Increase his salary $1,000 a month or more for having the nerve to pit out the truth in such excellent language and logic. Every 10-year-old child should know that FSA and WPA and others are taking farmers off the farms by the thousands, selling their ponies and Georgia stock, and renting two or three rooms in town so as to lean on shovels twelve days a month and loaf the balance of the month. Shame on such manhood!

"Ill fares the land to hastening ills a prey, Where wealth accumulates and men decay."

Why 95 per cent tenants in Texas where land could be bought $6 to $10 per acre last fifty years? Sad to relate, a majority of tenants do not want to be bothered owning a farm.

In your paper a few months ago was reported a farmer who bought a farm and paid for it in three or four years, in Middle West Texas. Put over that sort of information and the perfect knowledge of Lynn Landrum, then, not until then, will something be done for farmers. How long would a bank last, or any other institution, that would loan money to those who have squandered their earnings? (Except our beneficent Uncle Sam.) What is the trouble? Everyone sees and knows it except the high-priced salaried directors of Uncle Samuel. It is a pity FSA directors would go in print stating that farmers are not leaving farms by the thousands.

O. B. JUDSON, Longview, Texas.

A SERMON

"And they said unto me the remnant that are left of the captivity there in the province are in great affliction and reproach: the wall of Jerusalem also is broken down and the gates thereof are burned with fire. And it came to pass when I heard these words that I sat down and wept and mourned certain days and fasted, and prayed before the God of heaven." (Nehemiah 1:3, 4.)

Yes, I feel like weeping like Nehemiah when I see with my own eyes the walls that are broken and being broken down.

Wall of prayer—oh, if God's people would only go back to prayer, in a large church recently a preacher asked how many homes still had the prayer altar, and just a few hands went up.

I am afraid the walls of our Christian colleges are falling—crumbling. Just think of Christian colleges giving dances, having dances in our public schools. Many people are still living who were put out of the church because they attended the dance.

What about the walls of our Christian Sabbath? Just the other day I saw an article stating that seven men were arrested for playing baseball on Sunday fifty years ago. Now look around.

Look at the walls of our churches, preachers just begging people to come to church. What does Jesus think of this situation—God's people having to put the church on the defense, and making the church a beggar? But the blessed book said in the last days people would be lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God.

The walls of our government are crumbling, Presidents, Governors, Legislatures and other government officials don't know which way to turn. People are starving and our governments don't know what to do.

Yes, the old devil is laughing us to scorn and the devil will be grieved exceedingly if the preachers will seek the welfare of the children of God, and, like Nehemiah, some might go out and view the walls of our homes, churches, governments, schools broken down, and will sit down and weep, and mourn, fast and pray before the God of heaven, and then like Nehemiah, come before the rulers (congregations) and tell them the distress the old world is in. I believe they will say like the people did in that day, "Let us rise up and build."

Friends it is weeping time, praying time, mourning time. God's people were victorious in that day, and we have the same God today. Let's rebuild.

Keep Cool
Here's Effective help...
Warm water bath
leaves you rested, delightfully refreshed

Wash away hot discomfort this summer. Doctors recommend a constant supply of healthful warm water for bathing as one of the most effective aids in keeping cool. They say cold water shocks the nerves and is bad for children and old people, and has a reaction of actually making you hotter. But a soothing warm bath leaves you delightfully fresh, rested and cool for hours after.

An automatic gas water heater is the most effective and economical way to have a constant, dependable supply of hot water. With one of these modern heaters you have instant hot water without one bit of attention on your part. And because of low gas rate and heater's efficiency hot water costs only about 1/4¢ for each bath.

PICKED UP ALONG THE NEWS PATH

They did something out at Pecos the other day that Fire Chief Ed Majors and Firetruck-driver Jim White will probably approve of very heartily. . . . Members of the Pecos fire department set a big bonfire, sounded an alarm, and then dashed for the scene in realistic fashion. . . . Just as they'd expected, most everybody took right in after the truck. When the scene was reached, members of the fire department proceeded to hand out circulars to everybody who'd trailed them. . . . The circulars were headed "What To Do In Case of Fires," and what came under the heading was a combination of withering sarcasm and wit, all with a strong you-ought-to-be-ashamed undertone. . . . "Whatever you do," the circular read down about mid-way, "don't fail to get to the fire before the firetruck does. (This is imperative) . . . Don't pay any attention to the firemen. If they get in your way, run over them. They are just there through curiosity while your presence is important. In case you . . . find yourself hemmed in by the cars of other idiots, it is wise to suddenly decide you have to leave. . . . This can be easily done by madly backing up a few times until you finally run over the hose. This important move should always be accomplished by continuous blowing of your horn. . . . And before you leave, don't fail to make some snooty comparison of our fire department with one you saw somewhere else."

accident because of the way in which the new traffic lights are being observed—pardon, the way they're not being observed. . . . When the lights were first put in, we thought they were going to mean something, and so, along with scores of other mothers, we taught our child when to go and when not to go in crossing main street where the lights are in operation. . . . Well, we've stopped the lessons for the time being because we don't like the picture of our child starting across main street on a go light and falling in front of a car that hasn't bothered at all about the stop light. . . . Looks like we mothers who'd like to trust the lights will just have to wait until our children are big enough to dodge for themselves in the good old-fashioned, before-traffic-lights way. . . . Aside from all this, our dignity is somewhat involved in this business—our dignity, in fact, becomes practically nil when we stand, caspar-mil-quieto fashion, on the curb and wait for a change of lights that more sophisticated souls aren't worrying about at all. . . .

Pictured in a recent issue of the San Antonio Express was Mrs. Roxylea Melas of San Antonio, who took an active part in the flower show sponsored by the Woman's club in the ballroom of the St. Anthony hotel a few days ago. . . . Mrs. Melas will be remembered here as Roxylea Smith, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Smith, who moved away several years ago.

SMATTERINGS: Fifty years ago C. M. and Felix Mann of Colorado City had been visitors in Dallas, according to an item in the 59-year-old column of Sunday's Dallas News. . . . One of the prettiest yards in town is at the Eddie Moeser home. . . . Eddie Moeser himself does most of the work, which, aided and abetted by a little golf, give him a tan that the postoffice can't wear off. . . . Poisoners got Louise Hardison's beloved dog the other night—there ought to be a law. . . .

Over in Big Spring, where there's to be a rodeo June 23-25, they have a "rodeo jail" for those folks who are stubborn about donning colorful western regalia. . . . "Jimmie" Greene, former Colorado City booster who now boosts for his adopted home town of Big Spring as CC manager, and two other fellows got their pictures "took" in the jail last week to add interest to a front page Big Spring Daily Herald story about the jail in the Sunday paper. . . . The three were photographed once in the jail, and then again when they repented and were freed in the required ten-gallon hats, bandanas, and eyepopping shirts. . . .

Have you ever wondered why there's room for center-parking on Oak street when there isn't on any other street in Colorado City? This street is wider than any other in town by about 20 feet, and the reason is that when Colorado City was laid out Oak street was intended to be main street. . . . In spite of the fact that the courthouse was on that street—in the center of it at one time, in fact—developments of the years soon made Second street the town's main business thoroughfare. . . . The story goes that the late F. M. Burns, pioneer merchant, was the first to break away from Oak street because locations there were selling sky-high. . . . Burns and his business associates bought and built on Second street, where Max Berman's department store now stands, and the eastward trend along Second street was begun. . . . With State Highway One coinciding with Second street today, it's hard to imagine Main street being planned anywhere but where it is. . . . We've often wondered about the unusual width of Oak street, but we never knew the why and wherefore until Dene Headstream, who'd been talking to and learning from Ed Majors, told us the other day. . . .

Poems by Edna Coe Majors, better known hereabouts as Mrs. Sam Majors, are to appear in one or more of the four major anthologies which Henry Harrison, New York poetry publisher, will issue in the near future. . . . If you see a smallish horse bearing a smaller rider dashing down the street at break-neck speed a la Paul Revere, chances are that when the hoof-pounded dust clears away you'll recognize either Mary Jo Gregory, daughter of Sheriff and Mrs. Dick Gregory, or Bobby May, son of the Bob Mays. . . . A friend has tipped us off to the fact that certain citizens have been making fun of us for always referring to the Ruddick park Friday night crowds as "approximately 5,000." . . . Being a sensitive soul, we'll lay off the 5,000 for awhile, just for contrariness if nothing else, but we do maintain that we've had a passable reason for using the figure so repeatedly. . . . The capacity of the amphitheater is said to be "approximately 5,000." . . . Well, when the amphitheater is full, we still maintain that there are "approximately 5,000" people there. . . .

After three readings we are still trying to figure out whether we're being handed a bouquet or taken for a ride in a certain article from the editorial page of the Scurry County Times. . . . Here's the article, and when you've read it let us know which you think is the case: Colorado's a City Now! By nebulous magic and double-barreled hallyho, the county seat of Mitchell county returned to the name of its three-cornered-pants days. . . . No longer can one become befuddled when a friend remarks, "I've just returned from Colorado." Whether he accents with the homefolks long "a" or the "more sophisticated" swerving "e," one knows immediately that the friend has been to the state of plums, prices, potatoes and Pike's Peak. . . . Conversely, when a neighbor says, "Let's drive over to Colorado City this afternoon," the mind naturally turns to the Promising Oil center of West Texas, the home of humor, hopeful hospitality, haectivity, human humidity—and a refinery Snyder would like to purloin some stygian night. . . . So Colorado's a city again. Dare one assume, as the full fury of the name change is unavailing against typical Mitchell county will power, that the city that the Bankhead built is returning to the swaddling clothes that marked the Colorado City of old? To the old-timers, Colorado City means hospitality to the core; something unsoothing to what a leather stomach; a night-hooded fling of life's little day; the freighter's paradise; the fountain that spread wagonloads of food and raiment to struggling plainmen. . . . But a playwright of a few years back (another second-fiddler, no doubt, in the mind of any self-cultured Colorado-Cityope) had a few words for it: "What's in a name? That which we call a rose By any other name would smell as sweet."

Three red-heads played leading parts when Robert Coffman, formerly of Colorado City, got married in Gallatin, Tenn., the other day, and Robert liked it that way well enough to send back word about it. . . . He's a red-head, you know, and it seems that he has taken unto himself a red-headed wife. . . . Not content with this much red-headedness, he secured a best man, Henry Hogg of Eldorado, Ark., who is also a red-head. . . . A camera shot of Trinity park road taken near Fort Worth by Corley Bozeman of Colorado City was included in the rotogravure section of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram last Sunday. . . .

Original "manuscripts" of two poems by Lexie Dean Robertson, now poet laureate of Texas, are in the possession of J. V. Glover, principal of Colorado City junior high school. . . . Mrs. Robertson was principal of the Rising Star school where Glover got his first teaching experience, and he remembers her as a helpful, kind, sympathetic, jolly, and mischievous person with personality to spare. . . . She wrote her poetry, he recalls, whenever and wherever the inspiration came, be it in the middle of a class or otherwise. . . . One of the originals he has is on the back of an arithmetic paper, the other on the back of a chemistry paper. . . . The former, now widely known as "The Bumblebee and the Rose," was given to him by Mrs. Robertson because she wrote it on an inspiration resulting from something he told her one day at noon. . . . Later, after he had come to Mitchell county, Mrs. Robertson wrote and asked him for a copy of this poem, since she wanted it for an anthology but had no copy of her own. . . . The other original in Glover's possession is "I Am Texas," and he got this because Mrs. Robertson had scribbled it off on the back of one of his chemistry papers. . . .

Headachy, Logy? Headaches, biliousness, bad breath often warn of faulty elimination. She returned the paper to him when she learned that he was practically tearing the school building down in search of it. . . .

Several Colorado Citizens noted the picture of a former Colorado City girl, Faustina Simpson, in Sunday's Dallas News. . . . Miss Simpson was married Saturday to Geo. T. Derrick, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Derrick of Dallas. . . . She is the youngest daughter of C. W. Simpson, pioneer Coloradan who now divides time between Mercedes and Dallas. . . . The Simpsons moved from Colorado City to the valley several years ago. . . .

Appetizing tidbit overheard at the Methodist barbecue Tuesday night as Ford Merritt dished out son-of-a-gun for Ben Smith: "I'm trying to find an appendix for you."

Seems like we'll never learn to keep our Walkers straight. . . . In our time we've given W. S. Walker of Longfellow the initials of practically every Walker in the county except himself. . . . Last week, in writing about his sister's being injured by a maddened cow near Snyder, we got around to giving him the initials of J. W. Walker. . . . If all the Walkers will just be patient and wait their turn, we'll soon get around to using the initials of any whom we may have missed so far. . . . (Incidentally and in parentheses, our apologies to the Walkers whom we've already missed. . . . W. S. Walker—and we do mean W. S.—declares that apologies are due them. . . .)

That was a dirty trick nature played on us last Saturday morning when she stirred up that black dust storm in the northwest, just as if it were springtime and she had a right to such doings. . . .
