It is promulgated that Comptroller Lawrence has finally decided not to overrule the Attorney General and Secretary of the Treasury, and that the money due the subsidized railroads from the Government must be paid when the account is for service over lines not fully built by subsidies. This decision will result in the settlement monthly of the accounts of these branch roads for current service, and an estimate in the next deficiency bill for an appropriation by Congress to pay the back dues to the railroads. Some of these claims date back to 1868. This decision yields every point claimed by the roads in their suit and

Preparing for the Next Campaign.

The Republicans are already beginington next September. The basis of every twenty-five thousand of the colevery State where there are not less than ten thousand negroes, and one for every other State It has been esti-mated that this will make a Convention composed of about three hundred delegates. It is understood that this Convention will be an organized ex-pression of discontent, and the call, which is signed by those who claim to be representatives of the negro race, is made with this object in view. These negroes bring the following spe-

1. Negro labor at the South is not fairly remunerated. The Southern negro is not protected by law in the collection of money due him.

2. In most parts of the country the negro does not have a fair show in the public schools.

3. The negro is not protected in his civil rights, notwithstanding the laws passed by Congress. 4. His political rights are ignored. Six and a half millions of people are without representation in Congress. 5. The negro does not get his share of executive protection and encourage-

Now, if there was any truth in the above statements, it would be a matter which would demand attention. We refer to it not for the purpose of entering into any defense of the white people of the South in their treatment of the negro, but to show to what straits the Republicans are put to manufacture material for a political aware that the statement of grievances J. Toney, a well-to-do citizen of Kansas is diabolically false, yet the "forty city, recently killed himself by taking acres and a mule" is no longer effect-ive and they must look to another source for the purpose of creating dissatisfaction among the negroes who are disposed to make an honest living by co-operating with the white people of the South. The Republicans have become very much alarmed by the small their own detriment. They certainly will not longer permit themselves to be allied against the white people of the South. If such should be the case they alone will be the sufferers. We do not write this to insist upon their ignoring this Convention, as it is a matter of indifference so far as politics is concerned. They can have no voice in the Electoral College if they do this, and we speak only for their own good. The day has not yet arrived when this Government is to be turned over to the negro race, and they can depend upon it the white men will shape their own affairs. - Columbus (Ga.) Sun.

Our Party Prospects. The Democratic party was never better, its foes never worse armed for con-flict. The only advantage its enemies have consists in their tenure of plunder and power; the first has corrupted the morals, the latter the forms and facts of free government. Twenty-three years of absolutism has begotten political debauchery and the Republic becomes a despotism. A gilded class of plutocrats shapes legislation, sways the Senate, corrupts the House, pollutes the bench. A richly pensioned nobility dances about the White House, while only subsistence is doled out to the true heroes of battles. The public domain, won by toils and sacrifices of common soldiers in Mexico and by the statecraft of Jefferson, is taken from the people and transferred to half a hundred Huntingtons and Dillons, while revenue and banking systems, fastened upon popular industry, breed myriads of tramps and beggars on the one hand and a gorgeous aristocracy on the other. Splendor and opulence crown the governing class; rags and penury the toilers in mills and mines and fields. twenty years of absolutism pseudo Republicanism has instituted in free America every vice of society and Government that distinguishes hoariest despotism of the old world. Even Africans, given the ballot that the supremacy of the party in power might be continued and perpetual, con-fess the vices of their self-styled benefactors and white men, as never before, are aroused to a sense of danger impending over their liberties and their ights as industrial and political factors. ization and imperialism by secessionism, new moves backward toward federalism, as distinguished from consolida-tion on the one hand and disintegra-tion on the other, and in the surely original union of free States, as insti-selves is their right. If at any time they govern themselves unwisely it is their misfortune. Their present task-masters must and will be uncrowned.

With what degree of earnestness the people contemplate these facts and necessities, and how thoroughly the spirit and purposes of our fathers, who, in fighting for colonial independence, fought for perfect local and individual freedom, is reproduced, is illustrated in the eagerness with which the reproduction in these pages of Jeffersonian phi-losophy is accepted by the press of the country. The press and people are recurring, as never before in our time, to first principles; as never before, since Jefferson's theories were molded into facts and forms of republican institutions and republican freedom, do the people study these facts and accept this philosophy. To those who have reached maturity since 1860 it is a new revelation; to the aged the reproduction of delightful visions of the past realized in their youth. The whole country discovers in propositions enunciated by the Democratic party the overthrow of a detestable oligarchy and restoration of the republic of our fathers .- American Register.

Republican Presidential Designs.

From present indications there will be a triangular fight for the Republican nomination for President between James G. Blaine, John A. Logan and George F. Edmunds, with a compromise candidate like Joseph R. Hawley, or Walter Q. Gresham or Robert T. Lincoln as the possible outcome. It has been said by some of Mr. Blaine's friends that he will not permit his name to go before the nominating Convention, but that is probably only "one of the ways that are dark and the tricks that are vain" to which that desperate politician is wont to resort to accomplish his ends. The fact is that Blaine's chances for nomination are better now than they have ever been, not that his personal popularity is greater than formerly, but because the forces within the Republican party which opposed him successfully in 1876 and 1880 are demoralized and scattered. Neither Logan nor Edmunds as a candidate of the Stalwart wing of the party can reunite the dissolved and distracted elements which supported Grant in 1880. Blaine will make inroads upon the former Grant strength as against any opponent except Grant himself. Logan's illiteracy and coarseness are hanged in 1837 for participation in the rebellion.

Another encyclical letter, it is said, will shortly be issued by the Pope to the faithfull of all parts of the world, denouncing fully to keep the boat above the current,

Alternative to many of the leading Grant the lessons taught time and again are amply sufficient to show them that the Kepublican party only desires to military hero. Between these two,
Blaine, with his magnetic character and affensive to many of the leading Grant but was unsuccessful, and the whole party went over the dam with the boat. The folof all kinds of promises from the Redifficulty to push ahead and make himlowing were drowned: Nellie Beard, aged publican party, none of which have self the victor. Neither of them nor been kept. They have been cheated both of them nor muster the strength against the Halfbreed favorite in any of the Middle States which he was obliged to en-counter in 1880. As Blaine has long desired the Presidency, and as there is no reason for believing that his ambition in that direction has cooled, it is not likely that he will deliberately throw away the best opportunity he has ever had to make himself the Republican nominee.

But the singular fatality which has attended Mr. Blaine's candidacy for President may overtake him again. The very fact that he will probably, as heretofore, lead the other candidates in the outset, will have a tendency to unite his opponents in the end on some new can-didate to be brought forward in the nick of time. Thus the story of Cincinnati, repeated at Chicago, may be told again in 1884. Even now candidates are being groomed for the emergency by the enemies of Blaine. Two of these are members of President Arthur's Cabinet. Secretary Lincoln, however, will hardly prove available. Logan will have the Illinois delegation well in hand, and he is not the man to sacrifice his own future to State pride. But Postmaster-General Gresham may serve the purpose of the anti-Blaine men. He is a Stalwart of the Stalwarts, and, withal, is posing as a reformer. He will be able to control the delegation of his own State, and would most likely become the legatee of both Logan and Edmunds. The influence of the Administration would probably be exerted in his behalf, especially in the South. It would therefore not be at all surprising if the next Republican candidate for President should hail from the State of Indiana. But it matters not whence he comes or what his name, he is destined to certain and inevitabl defeat .- Harrisburg (Pa.) Patriot.

Feeding for Milk.

That certain cows have the ability to produce an extra quality of milk cannot be doubted. But breed alone is not into the stomach, we make a fundamental mistake. Yet this error is not un-commonly entertained. This among other ways, is shown by the question, which is sometimes put to us. Does food flavor the milk? We have heard that question argued with a great deal of vigor on both sides, and with the part flavor to the milk, which must necessarily partake, in a large measure, of the character of the food. If the food than the most of us imagine. A breed or a variation of a breed, can be largely made principally or partly from feeding. For instance, we begin to feed especially for milk! The animal thus fed is used for breeding purposes, and the offspring in time is used for breeding. Now there is no question that in time the feeding and the selection will show strong milking characteristics in the descendants of the original animal. Darwin refers to many cases of this character, and some of our Amercan writers give instances of a similar character. One of whom we now think cites the case of a very ordinary milker that produced heifer calves which were also nothing but ordinary milkers. The cow after awhile was fed specially for milk, and besides becomng a good milker herself, produced heifer calves that also became excellent milkers.

We must come to the conclusion, therefore, that to enable a cow to do her best both as to milk production by herself and also in the character of her offspring, we must feed well, and even There are other important questions connected with high feeding which will necessarily press upon us for solution. One is, Will not high feeding so shorten the life of the animal that it will prove really unprofitable in the end? There is no doubt that feeding may be so high as to injure the animal. Or, perhaps, it would be more correct to say that the general treatment of the eow may be of such character as to injure her. If she is shut up, with no opportunity for exercise, she would be injured. But that result would be more attributable to the confinement than to the feeding, although they cannot be wholly separated. And if the animal is kept very fat she would no doubt be injured, for we do not need a fat cow to produce milk. In fact we want a cow that will convert the food given her into milk and not into fat. But cows have been high fed for fourteen years and done well all the time. And there is a prominent instance of a large herd of cows being fed highly for seven or eight years, without the least detriment to their health and usefulness. If high feeding is done judiciously there is not much danger of it proving hurtful, and very much of the evil which is attributed to high feeding ought to be charged to injudicious feeding. No animal can be injured by feeding, however much or whatever it may eat, if the system properly utilizes it, and judi-cious feeding will insure that the sys-tem gets nothing or any more than it can utilize.—Western Rural.

Chewing-Gum.

"A dozen sticks of chewing-gum, please," said a portly, gray-haired man as he stepped into a confectionery store on Third avenue. A bystander recognized him as a leading West Side merchant, and, as he departed with his purchase, said:

"That is a singular habit for Mr. to encourage in his children, said a re-"Children! That man is a bachelor.

and one of the best known club men in New York." . "For whom does he buy chewing-gum, then? "For himself. He is a dyspeptic, or was, for he claims that chewing-gum relieves him from the unpleasant effects of that disease. He is one of my regular patrons. "Is he the only dyspeptic who buys

"Oh, no. There are several, to say nothing of actors and singers. Why, one of the best known actresses in America chews gum persistently when off the stage—not for amusement, you understand, but for its beneficial effect upon her voice, which is always clear and full. She relates with great satisfaction that one evening, while playing to a full house, she discovered, while facing her listeners in the most important act in the play, where she rises to a height of passion that is simply magnificent, that a piece of gum of generous proportions was in her mouth, with no opportunity to remove it.

" I never was more warmly applauded in my life," she says, 'and I never spoke the lines better; but I am sure people in the orchestra chairs must have noticed a singular protuberance in one of my cheeks.

"Then, again, there are several well known singers who use gum for the same purpose. But the bulk of the trade is with children, who, since the invention of the 'everlasting gum,' get an indefinite amount of consolation from "Our gum is manufactured from the sap of a Mexican tree, whose fruit is pretty well known as the sapodilla or sapota," said the head of a manufactory in Murray street which supplies more than half the chewing-gum sold in this country. "It's popularity is probably due to the fact that its consistency is not changed by use, Here are our principal styles," and he exhibited several packages, richly ornamented and resembling the elaborate boxes in which ladies' stationery is frequently sold. One box was composed of small, round sticks, tightly wrapped in tin-foil; an be doubted. But breed alone is not sufficient. Unless we appreciate the fact that milk is made of the food taken of the tion. Still another kind was mixed with licorice and recommended for colds. "Of adult gum-chewers," said the manufacturer, "we probably have more among our patrons than all the retail confectionery stores in the city, since this class of customers have a natural knowledge, too, that such things as dislike to buying chewing gum over a turnips, if fed too generously will imactors, singers, dyspeptics and reformed tobacco chewers-who buy chewing gum a box at a time. A very and a well-known singer in a leading great deal more depends upon feeding Brooklyn choir is one of our regular patrons. Several actors and actresses buy of us regularly. The President of the Union National Bank in Wall street cured himself of the tobacco habit by the use of gum, and many others have same. Some use the gum mixed with tobacco, and gradually diminish the amount of the latter. Others use the gum for the real or imaginary relief it gives to other troubles. A man in Vesey street, who had a tumor in one of his cheeks, keeps the nerves quiet by chewing gum. But the principal patrons are, of course, the children. The large markets for chewing gum, outside of New York City, which consumes an immense amount, are in the West and Southwest. The gum is handled by four classes of jobbers-confectioners, wholesale grocers, druggists and fancy goods and notion men.

"The staple classes of chewing gum re about six," said a clerk who handles the gum trade of one of the largest grocery houses in the city. "There is everlasting gum—gum mastic, paraffine gum, spruce gum, taffy tolu and the old-fashioned snapping gum. I give you the names by which they are known to the children. The spruce gum is manufactured in New England, the largest manufactory being at Porland, Me., but the new gums have largely driven it from the market and we have very little demand for it. There is more of the everlasting or rubber gum sold than of all the other varieties together."-N. Y. Sun.

Undertakers' Enormous Profits. Coffins are made by the wholesale and turned out by the thousand every month. Other articles of funeral furniture are manufactured in the same way. There are large shops for the manufacture of shrouds, and the manufacturer sells to the undertaker. He usually is the same man who makes coffins and coffin-trimmings, and everything he sells to the undertaker is, as a rule, sold for half of the retail price, and often for less than that amount; so that the undertaker makes his sales on the basis of a large margin. The least costly shroud, that retails for $2,25, costs the undertaker not more than ninety cents. Nor is this enormous profit confined to the shrouds. In all that they purchase from these manufacturers, from the coffin to the most insignificant trapping of the grave, there is a gain in the retail of at least fifty per bent, and often more. There is one firm in this city that never has less than 5,000 coffins in stock, varying in price from $10 to $400, and even more. - N. Y. World.

A Shocking Affair.

Old Mr. Middlerib got tired of baving the mischievous boys in the neighbor-hood sneak up, yank his front door bell half way across the street and then run like a deer for the nearest corner. he attached a powerful battery to the inside knob, made connections with a zinc plate on the door step, and waited for the boy to come along and close the circuit. But the boy had had fun enough for that day, and didn't come back for any more. Mr. Middlerib grew tired waiting, and at last forgot all about the whole matter. It probably would not have occurred to him again that day, had not the minister made his pastoral call that afternoon. The dominie gave the bell one gentle, ecclesiastical pull, then he jumped into the air so high that he looked in at the transom, yelled like a wild Indian, his hat shot off, he fired his umbrella through a side light, and, moaning piteously, sank down in a morning piteously, sank down in a case. And yet it is demonstrated that it has been and can be cured, even after it has heard the row but couldn't see the tabjust contributed a notable article on this lean rang out from a side window; "Pull it again will ye, ye flat-footed limb of the imp! The Cancer Hospital at Aurora, Ill., (only forty miles from Chicago), a handsome, commodious structure, beautifully situated, is an institution where the treatment of cancerous and scrofulous diseases is made a specialty. It is presided over by Dr. Pond, who, in addition to being a regular graduate of one of the leading medical colleges of the country, has given years of study to Cancer and kindred affecmedical colleges of the country, has given years of study to Cancer and kindred affections. That he has been unusually successful is attested by the hundreds of remarkable cures effected since the Institute was established in 1872. Somebody's Child.

Somebody's Child.

Somebody's child is dying—dying with the flush of hope on his young face, and somebody's mother thinking of the time when that dear face will be hidden where no ray of hope can brighten it—because there was no cure for consumption. Reader, if the child be your neighbor's, take this comforting word to the mother's heart before it is too late. Tell her that consumption is curable; that men are living to-day whom the physicians pronounced incurable, because one lung had been almost destroyed by the disease. Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" has cured hundreds; surpasses cod liver oil, hypophosphites, and other medicines in curing this disease. Sold by druggists. this disease. Sold by druggists.

A SCIENTIFIC DISCOVERY.

New and Most Important Theory of of the Day.

If any one had informed Queen Elizabeth in her palmiest days that she could have been seated in her palace in London and conversed with Sir Walter Raleigh in his North Carolina home; receiving a reply from him within an hour's time, she would have declared it to be a miracle. And yet, had they lived in the present day, this apparent miracle would most readily have been witnessed and not seem at all strange or unnatural. The truth is, new principles are coming into existence, and the opera-tion of many laws unknown in the past is being fully understood in the present. In being fully understood in the present. In no way does this fact come more forcibly to the mind than in the care and treatment of the human body. Millions of people have died in past ages from some insignificant or easily controlled cause which is thoroughly understood now and readily handled. Consumption during the entire past has been considered an incurable disease. And we it is demonstrated that subject to the Popular Science Monthly. He regards consumption as pulmonary scrofula. The impurities of the blood produce a constant irritation in the lungs. By the kindly services of the dog the pastor was returned to causing death. His theory shows conclusively that consumption is a blood disease. It has its origin primarily in a deranged condition of the kidneys or liver, the only two organs of the body, aside from the lungs, that purify the blood. When the medicine chest, but said his mind was in too shattered a condition to listen to any explanation just then. And as he walked stiffly away Mr. Middlerib admitted that he would have to double his subscription this year, and about half made up hs mind that he would sell two or three half-grown boys to the Keckuk medical college to raise the extra subscription. And he would do it, too, if he could catch the boys.—Burlington Hawkeys.

It is Just as Cheap.

It is just as cheap and a great deal cheaper to keep well than to remain in a state of ill health. You don't see sensible, intelligent women stand back and hug their prejudices when a remedy for relieving fetons.

These are facts of science, and vouched for by all the leading physicians of the day. They show the desirability—nay, the necessity, of keeping these most important organs in perfect condition, not only to in sure health, but also to escape death. It has been fully shown, to the satisfaction of nearly every unprejudiced mind, that Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure is the only known remedy that can cure and keep in health the great blood-purifying organs of the body. It acts directly upon these members, healing all ulcers which keep in health the great blood-purifying organs of the body. It acts directly upon these members, healing all ulcers which may have formed in them and placing them in a condition to purify and not poison the blood. This is no idle statement nor false theory. Mr. W. C. Beach, foreman of the Buffalo, N. Y., Rubber Type Foundry, was given up to die by both physicians and friends. For four years he had a terrible cough, accompanied by night sweats, chills, and all the well known symptoms. He spent a season South and found no relief. He says: "I finally concluded to try Warner's Safe Cure and in three months I gained twenty pounds, recovered my lost energy and my health was fully restored." The list could be prolonged indefinitely but enough has been said to prove to every sufferer from pulmonic troubles, that there is no reason to be discouraged in the least, and that health can be restored. and that health can be restored.

A Remarkable Cure of Scrofula.

William S. Baker, of Lewis, Vigo County, Ind., writes as follows: My son was taken with scrofula in the hip when only two years old. We tried several physicians but the boy got no relief from their treatment. Noticing your SCOVILL'S SARSA-PARILLA AND STILLINGIA, or BLOOD AND LIVER SYRUP, recommended so highly, I bought some of it of you in the year 1862, and continued taking it till the sores finally healed up.
