A Washington special states that renewed interest has been created in the Star Route affair by the denial received from Messrs. Brewster Cameron and Henry A. Bowen of having in any manner approached or offered to bribe Foreman Dickson to convict the defendants. Both gentlemen will soon lay the matter before the Attorney General, and it is stated that their version of the alleged transaction will show that Mr. Dickson made the first advances by wanting to know what it would benefit him to vote for a conviction.

The couple had recently removed from Clay County, and Mrs. White was temporarily living with her aunt, Mrs. Dr. Watson, having left her husband on account of his ill treatment. White had been drinking hard for several days, and on the night of the tragedy followed his wife to her aunt's house and begged her to come back and live with him again, which she refused to do. He at once pulled out a revolver and enacted the bloody scene heretofore described. He was about 35; she 28.

Reports from the chief corn growing States of the West and South show the condition of the crop to be generally good and the average planted larger than last year. In Kentucky, Tennessee, Texas, Missouri, Kansas and Nebraska more land was put into corn than ever before. The prospects in those States are in the main very good. In Texas the crop is made, and were it not that most planters were engaged in picking cotton, the crop would now be harvested and moving to market. In Kentucky and Tennessee the crop is all out of danger. Early frosts in the more northern States may have the effect of shortening the yield. Illinois makes the poorest report of all, both as regards acreage and condition, but the State will probably have a fair crop.

Frank H. Fall, the lawyer whose name has been mentioned in connection with "fixing the Star Route jury," denies that he ever attempted to influence any jurors to vote for the Government, or that he was authorized to do so by the Government. James Manzy, a young law student of Atchison attended a series of religious revivals in that city, presided over by Mrs. Sarah Robinson, of Indianapolis. They had such an effect upon him that his mind became weak, and he attempted to deliver an address from the pulpit. He is now lying in the city prison, threatening the lives of all who approach, and has gashed his hands in a fearful manner by knocking out window lights with his fists.

The thickest and best seam of coal in Kansas is said to be the Cherokee bed, found in Cherokee, Crawford and Labette counties. It extends from the Indian Territory, entering the State near Chetopa and running across the Southeast part of Crawford county. Like other strata, it dips to the Northwest, but how far it extends in that direction is unknown, as the same peculiarities in the deposits have been noticed as those existing in the Fort Scott seam. How the "Voluntary Contributions" Are Spent.

Jay Hubbell's recent circular, prodding the delinquents, is a sign of desperate weakness after all his boasts that the "voluntary contributions" were coming in better this year than during the Presidential campaign. Strange as it may seem, the most determined resistance to this blackmailing is found among Stalwart subordinates at Washington. They are protected by their politics, and are not in awe of Hubbell. Some of them are bold enough to denounce the assessment system as infamous. Others maintain that this being an off year they should not be called upon for the party tax. They are disinclined to give money to elect members of Congress in whom they feel no interest, and who, if sent to the House of Representatives, might displace them.

The Half Breed clerks, all those who are suspected of being Democrats, the neutrals, and the needy without influence, are the victims of the assessment system. It disgraces the public service and is a standing reproach to the Administration. It is made worse this year for the helpless clerks, because the State Committees are demanding contributions in addition to the exactions of the Congressional Committee.

Mahone exacts five per cent. from all the Virginia officeholders. Refusal to pay is followed by instantaneous dismissal. Mahone's order to that effect is law in all the departments. No matter how loyal a Republican the recusant may be, or how excellent an officer he is, if he fails to answer the highwayman's call, removal is the penalty.

Don Cameron's State Committee ask for two per cent. from the Pennsylvania officeholders, without distinction of sex, or as between soldiers and civilians. How hard these exactions fall on those least able to bear them is illustrated by the case of a clerk with $1,000 a year and a family of five children to support. He received Hubbell's circular and borrowed $20 to pay the assessment from one of the Shylocks that prey on the poor. Hardly had he paid Hubbell, before a circular came from Don Cameron's committee, calling for $20. Unable to meet this second demand, he went to Hubbell's headquarters, disclosed his poverty, and asked that half of the extorted money should be sent to Pennsylvania in his name. He was told that the Congressional Committee had no connection with State committees, and he was advised to "pay up at any sacrifice."

It is alleged that Hubbell has made some bad investments in the South, which have provoked much indignation among old-fashioned Republicans. He and other managers have devoted much energy and no little money to breaking up the solid South, expecting to gain a sufficient number of members to control the next House of Representatives.

Among Hubbell's enterprises was a plan to carry North Carolina by Democratic defection. It was known that several Bourbons, who had failed to get office from their own friends, were in market, and had frequently visited Washington to an exact terms from the Democrats, or, as an alternative, to sell out to the Republicans. It appears that Hubbell was caught in this trap. Two thousand dollars were transferred from the contribution box into the pocket of one of the North Carolina men, who put the most good, and left the "movement" to shift for itself.

The Republicans of Virginia, who gave character to the party, feel outraged at being cast aside by the Administration for a jobber like Mahone, who to-morrow would betray the President for a higher price, and who despises the negro, except as the slave of his purposes. The tissue ballot, which the Republicans first introduced in Florida, was adopted by Mahone in Petersburg as a weapon to fight the Republicans with when he was a Bourbon. His following is getting small by degrees and beautifully less, and when the spoils are distributed, there will be nothing left of him but a played-out trafficker, who profited by his opportunity, and who deceived all that trusted him.

The Republicans of Mississippi rebel at the adoption of Chalmers as an Administration candidate for Congress. For sixteen years he had been denounced as the author of the massacre of the Union soldiers at Fort Pillow. He was held up as the incarnation of infamy and all that was horrible in the rebellion. He was charged with polluting the ballot box at three Congressional elections, and with cheating a negro majority of ten thousand out of its rights. He was ejected from his seat at the last session, and now, by a bargain made through William E. Chandler, he is suddenly purged of all these crimes, and is the chosen candidate of the Administration for Congress in the Second District of Mississippi!

George W. Jones, the Greenbacker from Texas, is the Administration candidate for Governor in that State. An alliance is made with the Greenbackers in Missouri, and with the bolters in Tennessee. Wherever a rotten Democrat can be found, or a sorehead who is in the market, the machine managers at Washington adopt him in preference to a sound Republican. Tens of thousands of the money levied on poor men and women by Jay Hubbell have been expended in this way for the profit of seedy adventurers who hardly had a title to their own votes.—Washington Cor. N. Y. Sun.

The Republican and Democratic Policies Contrasted.

Mr. Blaine is not in the habit of paying compliments to the Democratic party and he never indulges in it at all when he can avoid it; but sometimes his exuberant temperament gets the better of him, and he blurts out the truth without intending to. In his recent Portland speech, in a rhetorical crisis, he said: "Why, since Maine was a State, never from that hour to this in the sixty-two years that have intervened has the feeling between the North and the South been as cordial and fraternal as it is to-night."

The ex-Secretary intended this as an illustration of the benignity of Republican statesmanship; but let us see how much credit the Republican party is entitled to for it.

Mr. Blaine could not have made the remark at any day or hour during the eight years of the Grant Administration. He could not have made it till after the beginning of the Hayes Administration. Why? Simply because down to the beginning of the Hayes Administration, the South was under the rule of carpet-baggers (many of them from Mr. Blaine's own State) and barbarians, backed by Republican authority at Washington. Official life in the South was a reign of ignorance and venality enforced, and supported by the bayonets. It was a dismal and most unhappy period, when the Scotts, Moseses, Kelloggs, Ameses and Packards held sway in the South—when South Carolina, Georgia and Louisiana were plundered by venal Republican Governors and Legislators; when Legislatures were dispersed by bayonets; when double State Governments were an almost constant spectacle, and when disorder, strife and battles between the whites and blacks kept the whole land in a state of uneasiness and alarm. When Mr. Hayes came into the Executive Office all this was changed, because Southern Senators and Representatives in Congress plainly told Mr. Hayes that he should never enter the White House till he gave a solemn pledge to change it. Mr. Hayes gave the pledge, and, let us say to his credit, faithfully kept it. He abandoned the Republican policy in the South and substituted for it the policy dictated by the Southern Democrats, and in an instant all was peace. Strife and disorder ceased; Legislatures and Governors chosen by the people were peacefully inaugurated; fraudulent Governors and carpet-baggers fled, the antagonism between the races subsided; the army was sent about its business, and fraternal relations between the North and the South have been growing stronger from that day to this. Mr. Blaine's allusion to those fraternal relations, so different from the state of things that prevailed under Grant, is rather unfortunate for him, for they were brought about against Mr. Blaine's vehement protest and opposition. When Mr. Hayes abandoned the Republican policy of army rule that had been maintained all through the Grant Administration and adopted the Democratic policy of local self-government demanded by the Southern Senators and Representatives, Mr. Blaine openly assailed the change in the Senate, and denounced the Hayes Administration for making it. He has lived to see the error of his course, but instead of admitting it, like a candid man, he has the effrontery to come forward and claim that the beneficent condition now existing at the South is the fruit of a Republican policy!—St. Louis Republican.

A Bad Practice.

The President appropriates the United States steamer Despatch to his personal use in traveling by sea. That vessel is at his beck and call like a private carriage on land. As in duty bound, she broke down to keep up the fair fame of our magnificent navy.

The Secretary of the Navy appropriates the United States steamer Tallapoosa for his personal use on a pleasure excursion, which is ingeniously described as "inspection of navy yards." He began by inspecting the voters at Norfolk, who are ordered to support Mahone. He inspected the voters at League Island and Philadelphia, who are ordered to sustain Don Cameron in Pennsylvania and Secor Robeson in New Jersey. He inspected the voters at Brooklyn, who are ordered to stand by the President ticket. He will inspect the voters at Kittery in behalf of Blaine. And if there were a yard in Mississippi, the enterprising Secretary would run down there to inspect the voters for Fort Pillow Chalmers, with whom he has formed a political partnership.

Mr. Folger appropriates to his personal use the revenue cut Grant for a trip from New York to Washington, and his first Assistant appropriates her on the return voyage.

These public vessels are treated by the President and the Cabinet as personal conveniences. A ship of war is ordered about as the chief of a bureau or a head clerk orders a carriage, or a brougham fraudulently procured as a "wagon" for carrying the mail.

This practice began under Grant and Secor Robeson. It was continued by Hayes and by John Sherman; and we are sorry to see Arthur and Folger following in such footsteps. Nothing better was to be expected from William E. Chandler, who organized the villainy by which the vote of Florida was stolen in 1876.—N. Y. Sun.

The Idaho Springs in Tennessee are thus described: "Within a radius of twenty-five feet are found about six different kinds of water, which are well known for their curative properties. They are the white, black and red sulphur, iron, alum and soda, all used and much liked by the visitors." They are as versatile as a first class soda fountain.

CHASE COUNTY DEMOCRATIC PLATFORM.

Resolved, That we, the Democrats of Chase county, in convention assembled, reaffirm our unswerving adherence to the time-honored traditions of the party, among which are,

First, faithful obedience to the Constitution and the laws of the land;

Second, unalterable opposition to a tariff for protection, insisting, as the Democracy has always done, on a tariff for revenue only;

Third, that gold, silver and greenbacks shall be the only money of the country;

Fourth, opposition to sumptuary legislation; and

Be it further resolved, That, whereas our county expenses are increasing at an alarming rate, we demand of our county officials a more economical administration of the affairs of the county.

WHEREAS, The people living adjacent to herd-law counties are subjected to great annoyance from the incursions of stock from those counties, we, therefore, demand such legislation as will protect the interests of our local stock men.

Resolved, That we pledge ourselves to a faithful support of the State ticket, as nominated August 30, at Emporia.

Two new comets were discovered on the night of the 14th instant, one at Nashville, Tenn., and the other at Rio Janeiro, South America.

It evidently continues to prohibit. The U. S. Revenue Collector for Kansas has issued, during the past year, 1,650 Government licenses for the sale of liquor, 400 more than was issued up to a corresponding date last year.

Ex Gov. Charles Robinson, the Greenback candidate for Governor of this State, has been appointed by the National Free Thinkers' Association on a committee which is to undertake to establish an Infidel University somewhere in the United States.

The Atchison Champion, which is very good Republican authority, says that Geo. W. Glick will receive a majority of 1,500 in that county. The Troy Chief says that he will receive a majority in Doniphan county, while the Leavenworth papers, with unusual liberality, concede that he will have a majority of 3,000 in that county.

The Poultry Monthly for September, published by the Ferris Publishing Company, at Albany, N. Y., subscription $1.25 a year, is on our table. Not a number of this most valuable magazine comes to us from which we do not learn something new about the feathered tribe and pet stock generally. It is a publication that should be in the house of every farmer or other person having poultry or any kind of pet stock.

The Arkansas Valley Democrat says: "There is no State like Kansas, and nothing like a Kansas man or a Kansas editor. A case has just occurred where a paper had been sent to a man 31 years without a single payment; but suddenly he stepped into the office and said he would like to pay his bill that was due, and 'as I might not be round this way soon again, I will pay ten years ahead' and forthwith he handed out $94 in cash." That shows there is still hope for some of our subscribers; and, therefore, we are happy.

The American Agriculturist for October is an unusually attractive and valuable number of this old reliable and family journal. We notice important changes in the new and handsome cover, fine paper and superior finish of the engravings. It is a double number, containing a large Premium List filled with many desirable articles for those who make up clubs. Among the leading contributors are, P. H. Jacobs, on Poultry-keeping, fully illustrated; J. N. Muncy, on Feeding Hogs; Prof. Buckhout, on Bladder Plums; X. A. Willard, on Cold Storage of Butter; Mr. Orange Judd, on Crops and Prices, etc., and D. D. Bishop, on curing corn fodder. Humbugs Exposed is very important. The book contains eighty illustrative engravings, some of which are very beautiful. We have mentioned but a small portion of the valuable reading matter contained in this number. It is published by Orange Judd Co., New York, at $1.50 a year; single number, 15 cents.

TO THE LADIES OF COTTONWOOD FALLS AND VICINITY.

On Thursday, October 5, 1882, I will open at the stand formerly occupied by Mrs. M. A. Pennell, in Cottonwood Falls, an entirely new stock of FASHIONABLE MILLINERY and Fancy Goods, in the very latest styles; all of which will be trimmed and arranged in deference to the tastes and wishes of my patrons. My experience in trimming justifies me in assuring satisfaction to the most fastidious. I have marked my goods at the lowest possible figures, and invite all ladies of this vicinity to call and examine my work and prices, as I will not be excelled or undersold, at Emporia or elsewhere. I have no old goods, but everything in the very latest styles, all purchased in the East within the past few days.

Very respectfully,
E. V. SHAMAN.

DID NOT LIKE IT.

We, as Veterans and G. A. R. boys, feel as though we would enjoy the Re-unions of all old soldiers and sailors; but do not feel under any obligations to make a show of our patriotism before the people of Topeka, for Gov.
