CONFEDERATE REUNION

Arrangements Completed—Good Program for Entertainment of Visitors—Big Crowd Expected

All is in readiness for the 28th annual Confederate Reunion which begins next Wednesday at the Confederate park in Goldthwaite and continues for three full days and nights. It will be a time of pleasure and enjoyment for those who attend and nothing has been left undone to make the occasion one to be long remembered in the county.

Associated with the Confederate Veterans in their annual celebration are the W. O. W. and the Farmers Union and these organizations have arranged appropriate programs for the entertainment of the people on the respective days allotted to them. Of course the old soldiers will have right-of-way at all times for their speakers and meetings.

Governor J. E. Ferguson is expected to be present and deliver an address on the afternoon of Friday, July 23.

There will be plenty of amusement and entertainments for all who come. Chief among the attractions will be daily flights and evolutions of a new model airship. This is a guaranteed event and for those who have never seen anything of the kind it will be well worth the sacrifice to attend the reunion and see the aeroplane in operation.

Every preparation has been made for the comfort and convenience of visitors and it is hoped the people will arrange to attend the reunion during the entire three days and help do honor to the grand old heroes of the confederacy.

Following is the program as outlined for the three days:

Addresses by visiting members. Closing ode.

At the electric theater on the grounds the W. O. W. Encampment at Galveston will be shown in which the Woodmen will be seen in drill contests and marching through the main streets of the city, etc.

REDUCED RAILROAD RATES FOR REUNION

The Santa Fe company will issue round-trip tickets from nearby points at reduced rates during the reunion, as shown by the following letter to Mr. M. E. Ebers, acting agent at Goldthwaite:

Galveston, July 13, 1915.

Dear Sir:

In reply to your favor of the 11th inst., take pleasure in advising that account of the 28th Annual Confederate Reunion to be held in Goldthwaite July 21st to 23rd inclusive, we will arrange for our agents at Lampasas, Brady, Brownwood and intermediates to sell round trip tickets to Goldthwaite on July 21st and 22nd, with final return limit of July 24th at a fare and one-third for the round trip, and you may so advise party in charge of transportation arrangements.

Yours truly,
W. S. KEENAN,

BARN BURNED

About 8:30 o'clock Monday morning a barn on W. M. Johnston's lot east of the Farmers Exchange lumber yard was discovered to be on fire and in a short time was totally destroyed with its contents, consisting of about thirty bales of hay and other feedstuff. Had the wind, which was blowing strongly, been from the south-east instead of the south-west, in all probability the lumber yard would have been burned and possibly the Eagle office.

The damage done by the fire was not of great extent, but it serves as another reminder that Goldthwaite, for a town its size, has most inadequate facilities for fighting the fire demon, and it is to be hoped that the people of the town will give their solid support to the city council in the efforts they are presently making to secure a system of waterworks as a means of fire protection as well as for domestic purposes.

Misses Belle Warren and Carrie Alvis of Big Valley left Monday to spend some time at Galveston and enjoy the invigorating breezes from the gulf and other pleasures of that delightful summer resort.

Miss Jewel Yarborough left Monday for her home in Lampasas county after a short visit with her brother, O. H. Yarborough, and family in this city. She had been on an extended visit to relatives and friends in West Texas and stopped off here while en route home.

Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Burks and family of Brownwood are here on a visit to relatives. They, with Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Burks and family and Mrs. W. C. Dew went Monday to the Dew ranch on the bayou to spend some time camping and fishing. Mr. Charlie Burks was formerly engaged in the dry goods business in this city and has a host of friends here who are always glad to meet with him.

Maurice and Marion Stephens visited in Lometa the first of the week.

TRAGIC DEATH AT TEMPLE

Falls Upon Scissors and Dies Almost Instantly

Temple, Texas, July 16.—While gathering flowers for an entertainment to be given at her home yesterday morning, Mrs. Luther Talley, 703 North First street, met almost instant death when she fell upon the blunt blade of the scissors which she was using on the lawn. Life was extinct within two minutes after the prong of the shears had penetrated her side, severing one of the large arteries of the heart.

Mrs. Talley at about 6 o'clock in the morning was gathering daisies to be used for decorative purposes in her home on the occasion of an entertainment to be given yesterday morning in honor of Miss Ruth Grundy of Abilene. A cry from Mrs. Talley's small six-months-old child in the house caused her suddenly to stop gathering the beautiful flowers and ran towards the porch. A lawn mower in her path was the cause of her falling to the ground. She fell upon the scissors she carried as she answered the cry of her baby, one of the blades penetrating her left side into the region of the heart. Death resulted within two minutes after the accident occurred.—Temple Telegram.

Mrs. Talley was well known in Goldthwaite, where she has frequently visited, as Miss Edith Grundy, and was a cousin of Miss Mary Lou Grundy of this city. Her tragic death has shocked all who knew her and the hearts of her friends are filled with the most poignant grief at the sad fatality.

SIGHTS WORTH SEEING

Places of Interest Visited by the Editors.

I wrote you last week from San Diego, where we were attending the State Fair of California, but since that time we have visited so many places and have seen so much that I scarcely know how to begin and I feel sure that I will have equally as hard a time in finding an ending place, for I believe I could write a book on many of the places and scenes.

Coming from San Diego to San Francisco, we were entertained at Santa Cruz by the Commercial Organization of that city with a delightful breakfast on the beach Monday morning. After breakfast we heard some good speeches by the citizens of that place and by members of our own party.

Our next stop was in the forest for a look at the big trees. These trees of redwood are wonderful to see and must be seen to be fully appreciated. When one realizes that one tree converted into lumber would supply the necessary material for two of the largest residences in Goldthwaite, an idea of their magnitude can be gained.

When we reached San Jose a delegation of the Business Men's Club met us and escorted us to waiting cars which carried us to one of the city's parks for a short stay. When we returned from the park we found that the first section of our train had gone, leaving 235 of us in San Jose, while our baggage and other belongings hurried on to San Francisco. The difficulty was overcome by securing passage on the second section of the train and an order from the railroad people had the baggage cared for in the train, until the belated and much perturbed passengers arrived. We all felt that the Southern Pacific Company should have given more consideration to the large number of passengers than to have allowed them to be left thru a misunderstanding.

We reached San Francisco Monday night and made our first visit to the great Panama-Pacific exposition Tuesday. The management had made every arrangement for our pleasure and convenience, even to the extent of having men board the train and present us with admission tickets and give assurance of good will for the editors and their families.

The National Editorial Association met here in conjunction with the International Press Congress, having adjourned in Los Angeles to meet here and conclude the business of the session. Texas was signally honored in this association by the selection of one of the members from that State, Mr. Lee J. Roundtree of Georgetown, as president. The next meeting of the association is to be held in New York state in 1916.

The International Congress was attended by more than 1,000 delegates representing 29 countries and four territories or colonial possessions. The Eagle editor was a member of this congress by courtesy of Hon. Jas. E. Ferguson, governor of Texas, who gave him an appointment as delegate from that great State, and the sessions were both delightful and helpful to me. The last session was held Saturday morning, when an adjournment was had to meet in 1918 in Sidney, Australia. Hon. Walter Williams, dean of the college of Journalism in connection with the University of Missouri was made president of this organization.

On Thursday the visiting newspaper people were taken on board the battleship Oregon for a cruise around the bay by courtesy of the Secretary of the Navy, who issued a special order for the entertainment. On board the vessel we met Ted Appleby, who is a sailor and is on duty on the Oregon, which is spending some time at this port. We enjoyed his kindness in showing us over the vessel, and we felt we were indeed fortunate in having a friend on board.

Thursday night an entertainment was given the visiting newspaper people in the Oregon building at the Fair Ground and during the afternoon of that day the ladies and such of the gentlemen as cared to attend the receptions given at the Chinese, Japanese and Netherlands buildings were delightfully entertained.

On Friday the National Editorial Association and the International Press Congress were entertained at Oakland by the Commercial Organization of that city with a luncheon at the Oakland hotel, one of the finest hosteries on the Pacific coast. After dinner we were accompanied in cars to Berkeley, for a visit to the University of California, which is said to be the second largest institution of the kind in America.

I could write on and on about these things, but fear the readers are not as much interested in the subject as I have become.

We are to leave here Tuesday noon for Salt Lake, Utah, and from there will go to Denver, Colorado Springs and other points. We expect to be at home the latter part of next week, and you can be sure we will be mighty glad to be back among our neighbors and friends in Mills county.

THE EDITOR.

ROY GREATHOUSE DEAD

Roy F. Greathouse died at 10:30 o'clock Tuesday night in the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Greathouse, in this city, after an illness of only ten days. Typhoid fever was the cause of death. His remains were laid to rest Wednesday morning in the Odd Fellows cemetery in the presence of a large concourse of grief-stricken friends and relatives and with the beautifully solemn and impressive funeral rites of the W. O. W., of which organization he was an honored member.

The announcement of his death was a great shock to his friends, many of whom had not even heard of his illness when the announcement was made. He was 23 years of age and previous to his illness was the engineer at the electric light plant in this city. He came here with his parents some five years ago from Mabank, Texas, where he was born and raised.

In the death of Roy Greathouse the city has lost one of its finest young men—a young man of high ideals and lofty principles—none knew him but to be drawn to him and admire his character. A father, mother, three brothers and two sisters are left to mourn his loss and to them and other relatives the heartfelt sympathy of the entire community goes out in their sad bereavement.

ROCK SPRINGS

Editor Eagle: I will send in some of the happenings of late.

Mr. Bob Hammett was quite sick with appendicitis the first of the week, but is now greatly improved.

Sunday was our regular singing day. We had Prof. Fagan of Comanche with us. Prof. Fagan is a fine singer and we were very glad to have him with us.

Our pastor, Bro. White, left for Star Monday to begin a meeting.

Mrs. Terril Warburton and baby of Yoakum, Miss Fredia Northington and sister, Mrs. I. V. Sneed, of Fort Worth, are visiting at the home of Mr. Chas. Stark this week.

Mrs. Austin Cooke is visiting her mother, Mrs. Cannon, and sister, Mrs. Costly, of Indian Gap. Mrs. Cannon has been in a serious state of health for some time and we are grieved to say that she seems to be growing worse.

Mrs. Eva Smith of San Saba is visiting her sister, Mrs. Traynor.

Our protracted meeting will begin Friday night, July 16. Everybody invited to attend. JENNY LIND.

100 CARS OF GRAIN SHIPPED

By the close of this week's business 100 carloads or more of oats and wheat will have been shipped from Goldthwaite since the 19th of June. This is a remarkably good showing when we take into consideration the fact that immense quantities of grain have been stored. Many farmers over the county, foreseeing the large yield, have been busy the last few weeks building granaries in order to hold their grain, otherwise the shipments from this center would have been much heavier.

Miss Laura Smith returned Tuesday night from a visit to relatives and friends in Cleburne and other points.

The petition asking for the election contained 527 signatures. The last local option election held in Wichita was in 1907 when the county voted wet by 52.

After having been put through a mysterious oriental process which hardened it to the consistency of flint, the mummified body of a wealthy Chinese resident of Pittsburg, Pa., was shipped to Hongkong, China, one day this week. The China man died six weeks ago and it cost $3,000 to prepare his body for the long journey and ship it.

Great preparations are being made for the dry farming congress which meets at Eagle Pass, August 17, for a three days session. This is one of the most important organizations of the farmers of the state and the success of its meetings is being pressed with all the force of the department of agriculture. Eagle Pass is getting ready to do its "proudest" in receiving delegates from all over the state, and others interested in dry farming.

Don't judge a man by his clothes. God made one and the tailor made the other. Don't judge a man by his family, for Cain was of a good family. Don't judge a man by his failures in life, for many a man fails because he is too honest to succeed. Don't judge a man by the house he lives in, for the lizard and the rat often inhabit the grander structure. When a man dies they who survive ask what property he has left behind, the angel who bends over the dying man asks what good deeds he has sent before him.—Ex.

"If you buy out of town, and our neighbors buy out of town, what in the thunder becomes of our town? Think it over"—is a little squib that caught our eye in a show window this week. It applies to the farmer buying from the mail order house, to the merchant buying feed and country produce to resell it here, when our farmers have such stuff they must ship away to find a market for. It requires co-operation all along the line to make the best community possible out of any place. If we want the other fellow to tickle us, we must be willing to tickle him. It is no use to be the lowest market, where ever it may be, for what we buy, we may expect the other fellow to hunt the lowest market for what he buys. Community pride and patriotism, and community too, go to the dogs. Think it over.—Ex.

Confidence in one's neighbors is a great factor for progress in agriculture and industrial independence. When the people of a neighborhood decide that they will have certain benefits and improvements and each has confidence in the other, financial difficulties, short crops and other obstacles can not prevent such people from accomplishing desired results. As soon as the sentiment shows that each has confidence in the other, then the work will progress and results are almost sure. The difficulties that keep back many districts and neighborhoods usually come from a lack of confidence. The fact that some of the people are not in accord with the movement and exert their influence to destroy the confidence of their neighbors causes most failures. But while every man may not be won over to any laudable enterprise, a majority may be generally and this insures confidence in the work without which it could not be done.—Farm and Ranch.

AN EXPLANATION OF AMENDMENTS TO BE VOTED ON THE 24TH OF JULY

It is important that the voters of Texas be enlightened on the proposed amendments to the Constitution to be voted on the 24th day of July.

Senate Joint Resolution No. 3 increases the Supreme Court from three to five members. In other words, two members will be added by the adoption of this amendment, and their salaries increased from $4,000 to $5,000 a year.

House Joint Resolution No. 9 provides that the commissioner's court of each county in this State shall have the power when a majority of the qualified voters of such county shall vote to create such a fund, to create a fund to be known as a Students' Loan Fund, for the purpose of enabling students of the public free schools of said county to borrow money to be used in their education for the purpose of graduating from the county public schools and after graduation to continue their education in any higher institution of learning, such fund to be created and administered by the commissioner's court of each county as may be provided by law. The legislature may authorize an additional ad valorem tax to be levied and collected within such county for the purpose of raising said Students' Loan Fund, said tax not to exceed in any one year 20 cents on the 100 dollars valuation of the property subject to taxation; provided that a majority of qualified taxpaying voters of the county voting at an election to be held for that purpose shall vote for such tax.

Resolution No. 3 authorizes the levy of a special road tax not to exceed 50 cents on the 100 dollars worth of property in any county, or subdivision of a county, by a majority vote of the qualified voters of said county or subdivision of the county.

Senate Joint Resolution No. 18 provides for bonds for public improvements, such as levies, drainage, roads and other improvements.

House Joint Resolution No. 1 authorizes a qualified voter to vote for State officers, or any proposition, submitted to the voters of the State, in a precinct other than his home precinct, under certain conditions. This amendment also provides that a qualified voter must be a citizen of the United States in accordance with the Federal naturalization laws.

Joint Resolution No. 34 provides for the complete separation of the A. & M. College from the University and continues the former an independent college. It places each of these institutions under its own governing board. It provides for an equitable division of the lands set apart for the University of Texas and its branches. It provides that the College of Industrial Arts for white girls, located at Denton, shall be recognized as an independent college of the first class and given its own governing board, and its domicile permanently fixed at Denton.

It removes the inhibition against the appropriation by the Legislature for buildings at the University. This amendment has been demanded by every Democratic platform since 1910, by both the Republican conventions in 1914, by the Texas Farmers' Congress, the Farmers' Union, the Farmers' Institutes and the Bankers' Convention, and by every candidate for Governor since 1910.

It provides for no bonds. It lays no burdens whatever in the way of additional taxes upon the people. It will allay all enmity and discord now existing between the two schools and will forever settle all differences between them.

TRAVELING MAN'S EXPERIENCE

"In the summer of 1888 I had a very severe attack of cholera morbus. Two physicians worked over me from four a. m. to 6 p. m., without giving me any relief and then told me they did not expect me to live; that I had best telegraph for my family. Instead of doing so, I gave the hotel porter fifty cents and told him to buy me a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and take no substitute. I took a double dose according to the directions and went to sleep after the second dose. At five o'clock the next morning I was called by my order and took a train for my next stopping point, a well man but feeling rather shaky from the severity of the attack," writes H. W. Ireland, Louisville, Ky. Obtainable everywhere. (adv)

HUMILITY IS OBEDIENCE TO THE FIRST

commandment, "Thou shalt have no other gods before me." Egotism is violation of it. Humility says, "I will do the best I can." Egotism says, like a demagogue running for office, "Why, nobody can do this thing like I can. I'm simply great at anything I undertake. Nobody can fill this office like me. I'm the only man in the race fit for it. Elect ME, and you'll be safe." Humility is devoid of vanity, egotism, false pride and selfishness, and therefore of hypocrisy and deceit. La Rochefoucauld says, "The truest mark of great qualities is being without envy." And it is only one with true humility who is without envy. He is not so anxious to do great things as he is to do things in a great way. Egotism causes the heartburnings which come to those in various professions who are envious and jealous of each other; who begrudge the applause and success of their fellows, because they are selfish and want it all for themselves. Bitterness and bickerings among friends result from egotism and the ambition to be considered great. As Shakespeare says of ambition, "By this sin fell the angels." A holy reverence for God, a sweet and unshakable faith in Him, and a living hope in His infinite mercy are the basis of true humility. "Blessed are the meek for they shall inherit the earth."—Dallas News.

My present purpose is to advocate that system of common education which, like the light of heaven, extends its advantages to all; and which will tend to make every citizen of this vast Republic wiser and better, more sensible of the blessings of civil and religious liberty which he enjoys, and more firm and determined in defending them against any attack.—James Buchanan.

A WORD TO VETERANS

Editor Eagle: Will you give me space in your columns to say a few things to our camp and to all who may be interested?

It is but a short time to our Reunion and in arranging for it we have had constantly in mind every member of the Camp and we have done everything that we knew to enable our members and visitors to spend the time agreeably, pleasantly and profitably.

We hope that you will not fail to come. If you do, what we have done for you has been done in vain. It will not be necessary for any of us to leave the grounds after we get there, as complete arrangements have been made for eating, sleeping and everything else in camp. We thought this would be best for us and meet to our liking.

There will be no time during the three days that there will not be something on that will be of interest to us. I would say to all, young and old, that more has been done for your entertainment, improvement and gratification at this reunion than on any previous occasion. It cannot necessarily be expensive for you, as there will be no gate fees, no fees for camping ground or water—it is all free.

We want you to come and help make of it an occasion that we will all enjoy and of which we will be justly proud. Come and be with us.

He has had proper medical attention, is resting easily and will probably be out again in a few days.—Leader.

COMANCHE
Rev. Randolph Clark seems to have a hoodoo after him. He got snake-bit in a local option town two weeks ago, and following on the heels of that, lightning struck his chimney last week and tried to lodge a brick in his hat, but missed its mark, as Bro. Clark never carried a brick that way.—Vanguard

A Rexall Drug Store symbolizes health not disease. It is a pleasant place to visit. Go into a Rexall Drug Store in any town or city and you will feel at home. Try it.

A Rexall Store is a bureau of information. Automobileists know that when I auto into a strange town and want information, I head for the Rexall. It is a part of the duty of every Rexall clerk to give reliable information. If he doesn't know he finds out, and I've had a Rexall clerk say, "I'll go with you and show you."

Whether you buy or not you are welcome in a Rexall.

Rich or poor, high or low, learned or illiterate, no customer is ever grieved or given the smile audible.

Children trade at Rexall Stores with perfect safety, for it is the highest policy always to safeguard the customer's interest.

Knowledge is only a comparative term, and none of us know so very much. But no matter how ignorant a man is, in calling for one thing and meaning another, no Rexall clerk will ever lift an eyebrow in disrespect.

The Rexall idea has grown as the world has grown.

A Rexall Drug Store stands for friendship.

As a Rexall Store is in partnership with every other Rexall, so is a Rexall drug store in partnership with all of its customers.

The interests of the public are the interests of a Rexall Drug Store. Money comes incidentally to service rendered. Ich Dien—"I serve"—could well be on the sign of every Rexall, but better still it is in the heart of every Rexall owner or clerk.

In order to hold its position a Rexall Drug Store must constantly study the wants and needs of the people. It must be abreast of the times.

This is mirrored in the fact that recently the Liggett stores, which are directly owned by the United Drug Company, have eliminated spirituous liquors in every form from its shelves. This was a big money loss, but eventually it means gain—in friendship.

Once the drug store's chief stand-by was booterino.

Just imagine the biggest dealer in drug supplies in the world not handling spirituous liquors at all!

Also, if you please, just imagine the biggest drug store supply-house in the world not selling preparations that contain strychnine, opium, morphine, arsenic or mercury. Rexall remedies are safe. They always benefit, and some times they work remarkable results, but they never poison. Safety first! If you want deadly poisons, there is no use applying to a Liggett druggist.

This is in accordance with the best modern ethical ideas, although strictly speaking, it is not ethics at all. It is simply a matter of business and enlightened self-interest.

In no particular line of human endeavor has a bigger evolution taken place recently than in that of medicine. My father is a doctor. He is ninety-three years of age. He has practiced medicine for seventy years, and he is still practicing.

It is a common thing for the funny men to take a fling at the doctors. Happily, however, the doctor has evolved with the time; and a good doctor is now a totally different sort of man from what he was forty years ago.

Doctors have played a big part in the evolution of civilization. Also, they have done a valuable work in literature. Doctors S. Weir Mitchell, John W. Draper, John Brown, Thomas Huxley, Lord Lister, William Harvey, Edward Taylor Still, Austin Flint, Frank Billings, the Mayo Brothers, Roswell Park, Maurice Richardson, all have played big parts in the play we call life.

Against three hundred remedies, the United Drug Company carries over three thousand articles for household and toilet use. Liggett's Chocolates, made from juicy fruits and selected nuts, covered with delicious chocolate. Perfumes from France—distilled from the flowers; toilet soaps from Paris; toilet powders from Vienna; exquisite things from the Orient; high-grade stationery—each and every article being exquisitely packed, plainly labeled and marked, with absolute truth stated in reference to the quality.

Then there is a line of rubber goods and hot-water bottles, unequalled in quality by anything that can be found elsewhere, the world over.

There are a great number of articles today that are regarded as necessities which once were luxuries, or perhaps unthought of; such as tooth brushes, hair brushes, clothes brushes, soaps, dentifrices, pleasant tasting mouth washes, perfumes, toilet waters, hair washes, soda fountain supplies, toilet powders, cosmetics. And, in fact, most of the business of Rexalls is to supply these little trivial necessary nothings that we all need, and without which we are uncomfortable and at a disadvantage.

As we go through life we want to be pleasant and agreeable. Most certainly we do not want to live in such a way that people will wish to side step us when they see us coming. Clear eyes, a good breath, agreeable manners, cheerful habits, a kindly disposition—these are the things, at the last, that make or mar on this little journey through life.

And one thing surely the United Drug Company is doing—it is educating its helpers to be bigger and better men and women. The home office is a school and a university. Here is a place where civil-service reform is no idle theory. The U. D. Co. is a search for talent. Every inducement and opportunity is offered for better work. Just as fast as a boy is able to fit into a better place the lad is moved along, and his pay raised accordingly.

There are committees that study each case where an employee may be at fault, and the erring one is helped in a friendly way, in order that the same mistake may not be repeated. But as for "being shown the door," no such thing ever happens. The "door" shown is the door of Opportunity, not the door of disgrace.

So by this plan, errand-boys evolve into clerks, into salesmen, salesmen into foremen, and foremen into superintendents.

I met one young woman at the U. D. who began work ten years ago pasting labels. Now she is in charge of a department at a good salary. And her case I afterward found was not unusual.

Children and old people always have special consideration in a Rexall Drug Store. If the man is deaf he never gets the tee-hee from a clerk. If he lisps and stutters, nobody knows of it. If he is dull and stupid and speaks the English language imperfectly, it makes no difference—unfailing courtesy and attention are his. No service is too small for a Rexall man to undertake. Anybody can do business fairly well.

Some can do business superbly well; and occasionally there are men who do business so perfectly well that they are without competition in their own particular chosen line of human endeavor. These are the people that grumpy, grouchy, growling competitors often refer to as "the trust."

The Rexall Drug Store reveals genius in the realm of commerce. It is mother-love in trade.

The greatest compliment ever paid to a druggist was when the New York Central Railroad Company invited Louis K. Liggett to open a Rexall Drug Store in the Grand Central Terminal in New York.

There were hundreds of applications for the space, some from highly worthy people.

But the Vanderbilt order had gone out that every store in the Grand Central must be rented only to men trusted and tried, who knew their business through and through, and whose line of goods and attention to customers would reflect credit on everybody concerned. There must be no experiments.

It was decided that the Rexall policy was exactly suited to the patrons of the New York Central lines.

And today it happens that the finest corner of the Grand Central Terminal is occupied by a Rexall Drug Store.

The space is big, roomy, generous. In very truth it is the largest retail drug store in America—or in the world.

As for the stock, it is exactly the same as what you will find in any Rexall Drug Store. And the prices are the same moderate figures to which the Rexall customers are used.

The Grand Central Terminal is not only the finest railroad station in the world, but it is the most elaborate and complete structure ever erected by the genius of man. To describe the Grand Central Terminal baffles words, and makes adjectives look inexpensive.

I know the Kremlin at Moscow, the Palace of Versailles, the Louvre in Paris, but these fade into futility compared with the Grand Central Terminal in New York City.

It is the last word in engineering—a palace beyond compare, dedicated to the needs of the people.

And in this structure, which is finer far than Pericles ever saw, or Julius Caesar imagined, the Rexall holds a proud place.

And it "belongs." Go into the Grand Central Rexall and see no difference whether you wish to buy or not—walk in and ask the time of day, or for a toothpick, or inquire what time the ten o'clock train goes.

The Grand Central Rexall folks will answer your questions and make you feel at home. They are not "stuck up" by their regal surroundings. They are the same mild-mannered, active, intelligent, happy, healthy, courteous men and women you will see in any Rexall Store. They are here to serve. And they "fade into Grand Central Landscape like larks in a meadow." "Yes," said the New York Central official to me "Yes, we are proud of our Rexall Drug Store, and, what is better, I see that the traveling public appreciate it."

And they certainly do.—From the Philistine.

Cloves Are Dried Buds

The buds of an East Indian tree are picked, dried and then graded according to the percentage of oil they contain—this oil is the source of the clove flavor.

But unless care is taken in grinding, even oily cloves lose much of their flavor. After grinding, the cloves must be protected from evaporation by most careful packing.

You see then that it is not only pure cloves you must insist on, but selected cloves which have been handled throughout the best way to keep them full of the oil which flavors.

That's why we suggest that you insist on White Swan Cloves. Selected from the best grade, ground by our "cool" process to retain flavor and strength and packed in air-tight tins. Your grocer sells White Swan Cloves—the cost is a little more, but the economy is greater because a tin lasts longer.

THE FALL ARMY WORM COMING

Government Warns Farmers to be Prepared to Meet the Attacks of This Destructive Pest.

Washington, D. C., July 14—

The presence of the fall army worm is reported in southern and central Texas and there is every reason to believe that it will work its way northward as the season advances. Farmers in line of its march, therefore, are being warned by specialists in the United States Department of Agriculture to keep a sharp eye upon their crops, especially alfalfa, corn and the sorghums in order to prevent the pest from getting a start upon them. When they first appear the worms are very small and feed beneath matted grass, etc., but they grow rapidly and suddenly migrate in myriads to the corn or sorghum fields. If the ground between the corn is grassy the worms will probably originate there and feed there until partly grown before attacking the corn. There is danger therefore that before the farmer is aware of their presence he will find his corn stripped to bare stalks and his alfalfa to bare stems.

Where a close examination of a corn field shows the presence of the fall army worm actually attacking the corn, the Department of Agriculture recommends dusting the plants with powdered arsenate of lead, using from 3 to 5 pounds per acre, mixed with 2 or 3 times its weight of flour. This precaution is of course, out of the question on forage crops or on corn afterwards to be used for fodder on account of the danger of poisoning stock. In such cases a hundred pounds of wheat bran may be mixed with a couple pounds of either Paris green or powdered arsenate of lead, preferably the former, and the whole mass worked into a stiff dough by the use of 3 to 4 gallons of molasses and the juice of a half dozen oranges or lemons added thereto. It this is sown broadcast on the ground where the worms are at work they will feed upon it and be killed. The worms, it has been found, will come to the poisoned bait from distances of from 5 to 10 inches.

In alfalfa fields the immediate cutting and curing of the alfalfa is advisable as soon as the infestation has been discovered. This will not only save the hay crop but will cut off the food of the fall army worm and check, thereby, the development of another generation which may be many times more destructive than the first. As soon as the hay has been removed from the field, the ground should be rolled with a heavy roller or brush dragged, or the poison bait can be used.

The habit of the moths of descending an inch or two into the ground in order to pass into the pupal state is of great importance in their control. It has been estimated that shallow cultivation will destroy from 50 to 90 per cent of the insects at this time, the efficiency of the measure depending upon the thoroughness with which work is done. In alfalfa the use of the spiked tooth harrow or the alfalfa cultivator is best unless it is known that disking is not injurious to the plants. Cultivation of the ground between the rows of corn has been found to destroy nearly all of the pupae, thereby preventing the development of another generation. Ordinarily, there are from 3 to 4, or even 5 generations of the fall army worm in the course of a year, the damage done increasing as each successive generation spreads to the northward.

When fields are threatened with invasion, but have not as yet become actually infested a deep furrow should be plowed out around the entire circumference of the field. Into this furrow the advancing worms will fall. They may then be killed by dragging a heavy log through the furrow, or, in sections where irrigation is possible, the furrow may be filled with water and a small quantity of kerosene sprinkled over the surface. This will kill the worms almost instantly.

The fall army worm, when a full grown caterpillar is about 1 1/2 inches in length. The body is striped on a ground varying in color from a pale yellowish brown to black, more or less streaked and intermixed with dull yellow. On each side there is a broad yellow undulating line more or less strongly mottled with red. When very young, however, the caterpillar is nearly black. The worm will attack almost any form of vegetation that is encountered and owes its name to the fact that except in the extreme South it does not appear until much later in the season than the common army worm, which it closely resembles.

FOR BETTER FARMING
 The State Department of Agriculture is making a supreme effort to take the problems of the farm to the farmers and the farm women by sending into the different counties lecturers to discuss such problems as diversification, soil preservation and cultivation, crop rotation, livestock, dairying, home economics and the like. The attention of the farmers of the county and the public generally is directed to the following letter from the department announcing the itinerary for Mills county:
 Austin, Texas, July 10, 1915.

Dear Sir:
 To "get results" for the farmer this Department must have the active co-operation of, and establish the closest possible relations with the actual farmers and women of the farm homes of the State.
 This can be secured only through community organizations. To this end, and for the purpose of organizing local institutes, H. L. Bentley representing this Department, will lecture at the following places on the dates, and the hours stated below:

Mullin July 22, 8:00 p. m.
 Goldthwaite July 24, 3:00 p. m.
 I extend an invitation to the general public, farmers especially, to hear the discussion of such topics as organization, improvement of farm conditions, diversification, crop rotation, co-operative marketing, and the like. Urge especially the attendance of the ladies.
 Will you kindly lend the State of Texas your aid in securing a good attendance at these meetings?
 Very truly yours,

L. R. Conro has been engaged this week in enlarging the City garage. An extension of ten feet is being added to the west side and when completed will make the building sixty by eighty feet, giving room for the housing of many more automobiles.

Robert Littlepage left for Austin Tuesday night in company with Orury Phillips, the geologist who has been making a geological survey of the Littlepage oil lands. Robert is more optimistic than ever, stating that the prospects are most encouraging.

Messrs. G. A. Walters and J. H. Baker, two of San Saba's prominent citizens who deal in law and real estate, were in Goldthwaite Tuesday boosting the annual fair and encouragement to be held in their live and enterprising city week after next. Mr. Walters made the Eagle an appreciated call and incidentally gave us a metallic handshake. Many people here will remember Mr. Baker as having been at one time district attorney for this district.

A MERCILESS JUDGE

One Who Shows No Favor.

A merciless judge is Father Time. Before him the weak and the wanting go to the wall. Only the truth can stand. For years the following statement from a Goldthwaite resident, has withstood this sternest of all tests.

J. C. Fulton, stone mason, Goldthwaite, says: "Three years ago I was taken down in bed with a severe pain in the small of my back. The kidney secretions were too frequent in passage, painful and unnatural. I decided to try Doan's Kidney Pills, as I had often heard that they were good for kidney trouble, so I got a box from Clements' Drug Store. I noticed improvement in my condition right away and after finishing two boxes, I was able to go back to work. I am never without Doan's Kidney Pills in the house." (Statement given October 24, 1911.)

On April 26, 1915, Mr. Fulton said "I still think well of Doan's Kidney Pills. I have had no need of a kidney medicine since using them."

Price 50c at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Fulton had. Foster Milburn, Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y. (adv)

Said a whiskey flask to a cigaret, "I'd like to make a good sized bet That I can get more scalps than you, Although your victims aren't so few." Said the cigaret to the whiskey flask,

"Well that's as easy as I could ask, For I give kids their downward star'. Then you pitch in and do your part. They come to you with a burning thirst,

But I'm the fellow that see's them first; So most of them should count for me, I'll take the bet; it's a cinch, d'ye see?"

Then the whiskey flask had this to say:

"I never looked at the thing that way; But I must confess you spoke the truth;

'Tis you that tacks the fool's youth You fill h's system with dopey smoke I mould him into a first-class sock;

We work together far too well, To quarrel for even a spell." So the whiskey flask and the cigaret shook hands together, called off the bet,

And away they sauntered side by side Hunting for victims far and wide;

In every corner of the nation, Partners in crime and ruination. So here's our warning on the level, Shun them as you would the devil.
