FROM WASHINGTON.

The agricultural appropriation bill, appropriating $44,750, has passed the Senate.

A SPECIAL from Washington states that the members from the silver mining States have consulted as to the best means of preventing the stoppage of coinage of silver dollars. The silver State men have agreed that they will antagonize the interests of the national banks if attempts are made to stop the coinage of silver, and will propose as a substitute for withdrawing silver certificates the withdrawal of bank notes and to substitute gold and silver certificates. The Coinage Committee has decided to make a square issue against the banks if an attempt is made to interfere with the silver interests.

The Senate Committee on Foreign Relations have agreed to report certain amendments to the House anti-Chinese bill instead of reporting a new bill. This is done to facilitate the passage of the measure by avoiding having two different bills.

The local police of Washington are busy in search for a six-year-old child of Mrs. W. W. Dickinson, of Wisconsin. The boy was abducted in November last and traced to Monassas, Va., where he was seen dressed as a girl and cared for by a wood chopper. His clothing were found there and identified. A conductor says the child was brought to Washington on his train recently. There is a $3,000 reward offered.

The House Committee on civil service reform to which was referred the several bills to enlarge the scope of the Agricultural Department, has virtually agreed upon a substitute for the bill which provides for the Department of Industries and four Bureaus, one of which is to be designated as the Bureau of Agriculture. The bill provides for a Secretary, who shall be a Cabinet Officer and four heads of Bureaus.

AMONG the claims passed by the Committee on Expenses of President Garfield, are $50,000 to Mrs. Garfield, less the amount paid to the President on account of his salary; $25,000 to Dr. Bliss; $10,000 each to Drs. Agnew and Hamilton; $10,000 each to Mrs. Boynton, Heyburn and Susan Edson.

THE Coronator at Washington is busy with the fragments of two men who persisted in breaking a rifle shell with an ax. Their names were George Phillips and John Stewart.

SECRETARY LINCOLN has appointed a Board of Engineers to report whether the dock line in the harbor of Chicago will interfere with the improvements. At the present time there are seven dredges at work near the new breakwater.

THE House Committee on Commerce have decided upon $800,000 as the sum to be inserted in the appropriation for the improvement of the Missouri River.

THE President has sent the following nominations to the Senate: Alphonzo Taft, Ohio, to be Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary of the United States to Austria; Wm. L. Dayton, of New Jersey, to be Minister Resident of the United States to the Netherlands; Nicholas Fish, of New York, to be Minister Resident to Belgium; John M. Francis, New York, to be Charge d'Affaires to Portugal; J. P. Wickham, of Pennsylvania, to be Charge d'Affaires to Denmark; Adam Badeau, of New York, to be Consul General at Havana; Harry L. Slaight, of New York, to be Consul at Prescott.

THE Senate Committee on Appropriations agreed to report the House joint resolution appropriating $465,000 deficiency for the Government Printing Office. Public Printer Rounds and his assistants were before the committee and explained that the money was actually needed to enable any printing to be done.

THE President sent a message to Congress suggesting that the boundary between the United States and Mexico be defined from the Pacific Ocean to the Rio Grande by permanent monuments.

THE reserve fund now in the United States Treasury amounts to over $13,000,000 and will, in the opinion of Secretary Folger, justify a bond call to the amount of $30,000,000 before the end of April.

THE President has transmitted a message to Congress recommending favorable action on the proposed appropriation of $2,000,000 for restoring the Mississippi levees.

THE House Committee on canals of the Illinois Legislature, agreed, by a vote of 100 to two to report to the House the Whiting bill already passed by the Senate, ceding the Illinois and Michigan Canal to the United States. The bill provides for ceding the canal virtually without condition.

THE EAST.

CYRUS W. FIELD has received from James Gordon Bennett $14,180, the amount of contributions through the New York Herald for the Garfield fund.

A BOILER exploded at the Suawar River Paper Mill, Claremont, N. H., wrecking the mill and killing W. E. Whitney, machine feeder; damage $20,000.

THE WEST.

THE funeral of Mayor R. W. Stubbs, who was shot at Polk City, La., was largely attended, the procession being over a mile in length. The parties arrested, charged with the shooting, were guarded by the vigilantes until evening, when they were reluctantly surrendered to the officers, who took them to Des Moines. After they had taken the oaths the train, placed a man at each brake with a revolver, opened the switch, and declared the prisoners should not be taken away. One of them was taken from the cars, and efforts made to get all, when a traveling man named Reade, representing Oberne, Hosick & Co., of Des Moines, mounted a barrel and delivered an eloquent plea for law and justice to take their course. It served to quell the excitement; and the train was permitted to depart. The prisoners were placed in the County Jail in Des Moines. Their names are John Owin, Job West and Charlie Derricksen.

A MAN named Thompson was recently going to his home near Gray's Summit, from Steelville, Mo., when he was accosted by two tramps, who pretended to be hunting for work. Just as the man was starting on the scoundrels attacked him, knocking him down and rifling his pockets of $475. With this booty the plunderers made for the woods and have not been apprehended at the latest accounts.

AARON SALBORN, assistant bookkeeper for Kendall & Emery of Kansas City, embezzled $400 belonging to his employers and has gone to Chicago.

A DISPATCH from Denver says: The sensation of Colorado, politically and socially, is the suit instituted in the District Court by Mrs. Augusta C. Tabor as wife against Governor H. A. A. Tabor, charging him with desertion, and praying for the recovery of $50,000 per year for her support and maintenance. The complaint alleges that the Governor has failed to support Mrs. Tabor. In his defense it is said that two years ago he gave Mrs. Tabor $100,000, which she had judiciously invested in real estate in the city. With a portion of that amount she purchased an interest in the Windsor Hotel, and the return from this investment the last year was $14,000. In the complaint the Governor's riches are estimated by schedule as amounting to $9,300,000, including the Matchless Mine, $1,000,000, the Henrietta, Maid of Erin and Waterloo mines, $1,000,000, interest in the Bull, Domingo and Robinson mines $1,000,000, and the Tabor Opera House block, valued at $800,000.

THE Mayor of Brownsville, Mo., has issued an appeal for aid on behalf of the sufferers by the recent cyclone.

THE business portion of Lake City, Minn., has been nearly swept away by fire. The losses aggregate between $300,000 and $400,000. Some seventy firms and individuals were burned out.

THE DEADLY CYCLONE.

Its Ravages at Brownsville, Montrose, Carrollton and Other Missouri Towns—A Number of Persons Killed and Maimed—Great Destruction of Property.

At 4:30 p. m., on the 18th, a tornado or cyclone struck the town of Brownsville, Saline County, Mo., twenty-three miles from Sedalia, demolishing the greater part of the town, and killing and injuring many persons. From an eye-witness, who was himself knocked down and injured by flying debris, the following particulars were obtained:

"About 4:30 p. m., as I was standing on a street corner talking to a couple of gentlemen, I saw a black cloud coming from the northwest. It was a very peculiar cloud, with the sun shining behind it. It was raining at the time, and I just had time to remark the unusual character and appearance of the cloud, when I saw the shingles begin to fly off the roofs of houses. I at once divined the cause, and knew that a tornado was coming. I threw myself down in a gutter and caught hold of a wooden trough which was fortunately at hand. The tornado broke in all its fury, and the noise of the crashing and falling buildings was terrific. The tornado lasted about a minute. The whole business portion of the town is destroyed—about fifty buildings in all, I should think. Six persons are known to be killed. Many are injured and many are still missing. The killed are: Mr. Meyer, of the firm of Clause & Meyer; James Miller; John Scruggs, a farmer; E. T. Arthur, representing the firm of Dithridge & Co., Fort Pitt Glass Works, Pittsburgh, Penn., who was visiting Sweet Springs for his health; Richard Ferguson; and an unknown man, who died some thirty minutes after being taken from the ruins.

Mr. Smith, a lumberman, who was engaged in his duties about the lumber yard, had his back broken, and is in a very dangerous and critical condition. Miller and Meyer were killed right near where I threw myself down. The whole business portion of Brownsville, as I said, is demolished. The brick block, in which the City Hotel is situated, is a ruin, a mere pile of bricks and broken timber. Many men are in the ruins. Mr. Arthur was standing in C. M. Kelly's drug store, talking with Mr. Kelly and his clerk. Mr. Kelly's leg was broken, and when the ruins were cleared away sufficiently to admit of the body of Arthur being taken out, it was found lying across Mr. Kelly and the clerk, the latter of whom was not seriously hurt."

The above statement is that of Captain Harry Demuth. He received two severe cuts on the head from flying timbers. On his arrival in Sedalia he was almost unrecognizable on account of the dust ground into his skin and clothing.

THE DEATH LIST.

The following is a correct list of the killed, as far as known:

Matthew Williams was found in front of Wilson's store, covered up with debris. He was forty-two years old, was married, and was the father of six children. He lived in Liberty Township, Saline County, and had come to town to do some trading. His head and legs were mashed in a horrible manner.

George Payne, a farmer, living in Pettis County, six miles south of Brownsville. He had also come to town to trade. He was found in front of Ellis' grocery store on Main street. He was fifty years old, married and had a family.

Ed. T. Arthur, Pittsburg, Pennsylvania. He had been visiting Sweet Springs for the past three weeks for his health. He met his death in Kelley's drug store, where he was standing engaged in conversation with the clerk when the tornado struck. His skull was cracked in a horrible manner. He was twenty-two years old and single.

James Miller, twenty-three years old. He lived in Brownsville and was a laborer. His parents reside in Sedalia. He was knocked down on the street, and his body was found in front of Wilson's store on Lexington avenue.

Allen Scruggs, aged twenty-two, a farmer living two and a half miles north of Brownsville. He was single. He was found in front of Wilson's store, also, with a huge piece of timber lying across his breast. He died thirty minutes after being found.

C. C. White, City Marshal, elected only a few weeks ago. He was married and leaves a wife and one child. His body had not yet been found, so far as known, at 3 o'clock to-day (19th). There is no doubt, however, of his tragic end, as he was in the midst of the disaster when it came upon the devoted town, and has not since been seen.

Richard Ferguson, aged nineteen, was a clerk in the dry goods store of Meyer & Duesing. He was in the store of his employers, on Main street, and perished in the ruins when the building fell. He was unmarried.

Claus Meyer of the firm of Meyer & Duesing, mentioned above. He was thirty years old, married, and leaves a wife and two children. He met his fate inside the building when the structure fell.

Twenty-eight brick business buildings were completely wrecked. The section house, which was about one hundred yards from the depot, was blown across the track and ground to atoms. Mrs. John Nealpin and six children were occupants of the structure at the time, and they were carried with it, and suffered injury more or less. Mrs. Nealpin's right arm was broken, the scalp lacerated in several places and the shoulder dislocated.

The list of injured numbers twenty-one, but all, it is believed, will recover.

LIST OF THE INJURED.

The following is a list of the injured: Richard Hickman, right leg injured. He is a well-known citizen and a candidate for Sheriff of Saline County.

Perry Wilson, broken leg.

John Wilson, of M. T. Wilson & Co., injured in the shoulder.

Mrs. J. L. Edwards, mother of the wife of the proprietor of the City Hotel, William Walton, hurt, but not seriously.

Mrs. Gordon, of Lexington, slightly hurt.

C. M. Kelley, left leg broken and injured internally.

William Steers, badly bruised.

John Tankin, slightly bruised.

John Owens, injured, but not seriously.

William Spurgeon, badly bruised.

John L. Buckner, slightly injured.

A little son of John Rembert bruised in a terrible manner.

Schooling Chaplin, clerk for C. M. Kelley, badly bruised, only escaping death by dodging under the counter.

Taylor Wilson, slightly bruised. This man made one of the most miraculous escapes on record.

Miss Cora Rice, ten years old, left arm broken.

Miss Bettie Rice, fourteen years old, foot crushed.

George T. Rice, father of the above, badly bruised.

Washington Rembert, badly bruised.

Miss Tobie Steers, injured slightly.

Mrs. W. P. Walton went down in the wreck of the City Hotel, but received only slight injuries. She had her little boy baby in her arms at the time, but he was unhurt.

THE PROPERTY DESTROYED.

The following is a list of the property destroyed, as near as it is possible to give it at this time. In the majority of cases the destruction was complete: Robinson's drug store, Brownsville Savings Bank, Miss Jennie Achemeyer's millinery store, City Hotel, Bellamy's grain warehouse, Star Mills, Hartman's saloon (under City Hotel), Briles & Gode's grocery store, Wood's clothing store, W. D. Rembert's hardware store, C. M. Kelley's drug store, J. T. Wilson's general merchandise store, Hass' clothing store, Lamkin's grocery store, McGinnis' restaurant, Smith's grocery store, Weekly & Smith's furniture store, New York millinery store (just opened by the Misses Harris), B. T. Bellamy's boot and shoe store, Olympic Hall, A. P. Millene's store, Mrs. McConnell's millinery store, Persinger's livery stable, Mrs. Merrill's residence, Mrs. White's residence, Captain Miller's residence, Freeburg's barber shop, Steer's harness shop, the residences of James Houston, Rev. Mr. Wells and Mr. Wilcox, Shaw's carpenter shop, McGinnis' old store room, Brownsville Hotel, Cox's residence, Ray's residence, Meyer & Duesing's general merchandise store, A. C. Andrew's general merchandise store, T. S. Elsen's grocery store, A. S. Rembert's hardware store, Mat Buehard's blacksmith shop, Jesse Jackson's new residence, Mrs. Harris' residence, the new saw mill, Mrs. Lauchlin's residence, Dr. Petole's residence, W. D. Remnant's warehouse, Russell & Deaty's livery stable, J. C. Lamkin's two-story residence, Dr. West's residence, a two-story frame house belonging to John G. Allen of Sedalia, Mr. Walleit's residence, Mr. Shewick's residence, William Weybright's residence, the public school building, which was vacant at the time of the disaster, and the old court house. Many of the above buildings contained large and valuable stocks of goods which are generally entirely ruined and rendered worthless.

SCENES OF THE WRECK.

A special to the Kansas City Times, 19th, says: The appearance of the devastated town of Brownsville, heretofore a thriving little city of 2,500 inhabitants, is such as defies description. The tornado first struck at the corner of Main and Spring streets, in the northwest part of the town. It then took a southeast sag and generally southeast course through the entire town. The whole place, with the exception of a few houses, has the appearance of being twisted and driven into every imaginable shape, as one might throw many decks of cards to the winds. At the corner of Main and Miller streets, three houses were shattered to splinters. At Smith's lumber yard the wind made a clean sweep, blowing the lumber through the town in the most appalling manner, and taking up an iron safe and blowing it a block and a half away. The blast next darted to the roof of the Central Hotel, tearing it off. It then scooped down upon a building on the other side of the street and turned it around as a locomotive turns on a turn table. On Locust street a building was taken from its foundation and completely reversed. At the corner of Lexington and Spring streets an agricultural implement establishment was demolished and three horses were killed by the flying machines. Dr. Parsons' residences were next visited and shattered to ribbons. The next two houses on the same side of the street were passed over, and the remaining five reduced to the pulpy mass of ruins. Between Spring and Miller streets three houses were devastated, and the Central Hotel on the other side of the street unroofed. The City Hotel, in which structure the unfortunate young Ed. Arthur lost his life, was almost split in two, the wind taking off one side and scooping off the top rooms. The wind dived like a porpoise through the village, carrying destruction and consternation wherever it struck. It finally passed through, having been about thirty seconds in doing its work, and went out through the open field destroying many farm houses and killing mercilessly. When the half minute was gone, Brownsville, as it had been, was no more. The streets were filled with fragments of house roofs, broken bricks, plaster, mortar, lathing, lumber, dead horses, furniture, household goods, groceries, tin ware, merchandise of all kinds, and the bodies of the killed. It was one of those scenes which neither mind nor tongue can conceive or name. Like all such scenes of terror and despair it offered many instances of heroism. C. M. Kelley, who was crushed in his drug store, and over whose form the dead body of Ed. J. Arthur was found, quietly assisted the crowd of terror-stricken, though his leg was broken, and it is now said that he will die of his injuries, saying nothing, but with the determination of the warrior on the battle field.

The teacher of the public schools saw the storm approaching, and quietly and unceremoniously dismissed his schools in time to save many precious young lives. The building was shattered to atoms, but not one of the scholars was hurt.

In addition to the dead given in last night's dispatch, William Parsons, son of the Dr. Parsons mentioned above, died to-day. A man named Perry Wilson was nearly dead at last accounts, and is now probably a corpse. The killed and wounded will foot up to nearly a total of 300. Whole families were bruised, cut and mangled in a most cruel manner. The wife and baby of A. Mayhert were blown out of the house into the yard and were slightly injured. Many such instances are related. As yet everything is excitement in Brownsville. The loss to property is immense, nearly every thing of value in the shape of business property and merchandise in the town being destroyed. The sufferers are being cared for by the few houses were left standing over their heads in a most generous and sympathetic manner. The whole number of business houses destroyed is fifty-two. The two elevators and the stock yards are a total wreck. The school house, which came so near being the death trap of so many children, is a mere heap of timber.

George Rice's big hotel, a regular country hotel, very roomy and spacious, was riddled. His wife and eight children were in the building at the time, and, strange to say, all escaped uninjured, except one of the little girls, whose leg and arm were broken. The whole family were blown about the premises promiscuously.

Everywhere are homeless, homeless and beggarly families, suffering from their wounds more than from a sense of their individual loss in worldly goods. A pall rests over Brownsville. Here it is that gay throng in the summer season leave for Sweet Springs, a mile away to the south. To very many people throughout the State the little devastated town is thus known. Brownsville was not a county seat, and was one of those towns which did nearly come to a standstill in the way of growth. But it held many substantial and busy citizens, some of whom were on the highway to fortune. It is now doubtful if she will ever recover from the blow which she has suffered at the Sweet Springs Hotel property was uninjured, and the cottages and buildings likewise escaped.

THE Tornado at Montrose.

The storm was first seen about 4:10, approaching from the southwest. It was apparently going in a northeasterly direction, and looked like the smoke of a locomotive. The roaring was terrific, as were the effects of the cyclone. The Christian Church was completely demolished. The Baptist Church was reduced to a mere heap of splinters. A butcher shop belonging to Henry Coleman, unoccupied, is a total wreck. The chimneys of the new house of J. H. Vickers was blown off. Montrose Billiard Hall, a new structure belonging to William Gregg, was utterly wrecked. John Payne's house, a mile and a half north of town is a total wreck. Mrs. Payne was cut about the face and neck. A two-story house belonging to George Dunn, a lawyer, and occupied by a family named Miller, was blown down and scattered, with furniture, stove, bedding, etc., all over the prairie. Mrs. Miller, with her baby, took refuge at a neighbor's, when she saw the storm approaching, and no one was left in the house. Fragments of this house were blown into the new Methodist parsonage, tearing a large hole in the gable end. Charles Fenimore's barn was demolished. Willis Custer's two-story dwelling was carried four feet off its foundation and the windows were all broken in. Dr. J. B. Mackey's new drug store was tipped over. Damage slight. Dr. C. H. Watkins' new office was badly damaged. A plank sidewalk was driven against this building, and one plank was driven into it. A brick building belonging to Watkins and Carter, occupied by Leonard & Berger as a hardware store, had all the glass in the windows broken. D. B. Watt's photographic gallery was blown all over the country. Nothing is left but the ground on which it stood. J. M. Murfield, keeper of a confectionery store, was cut in the head by flying glass. A brick building belonging to J. G. Thornton was completely unroofed. The school house known as the Farmers' Institute, a thirty-by-four wood building, a story and a half high, very substantial, three and a half miles from Montrose, was entirely wrecked. There were at the time twenty-five children in the building, besides the teacher. None were killed, but a large number were hurt. John D. Farr's two boys are injured. The oldest one, it is feared, is hurt internally, while the younger one was only slightly injured. One boy, name unknown to your correspondent, suffered a fracture of his skull, and it is feared that his injuries are fatal. He is eight years old.

Other Devastations.

The cyclone seems to have skipped and bounded along after leaving Brownsville, until it passed east of Finney's creek, some four miles southwest of Marshall, where it again descended to the earth and made a devastating track across the magnificent section of farming country south and southeast of Marshall. It struck but few houses or barns in the course, but such as came in its way were leveled to the earth, and in some cases the timbers and debris were carried a long distance. Although a good many persons were more or less hurt, none were killed. Among the sufferers in losses sustained were: C. A. Kirtley, losses leveled to the ground and one calf taken up and borne so far away that it has not been found. The residence of the two Messrs. Audins, leveled to the ground. A school house ditto and the house of William Britt blown off its foundation. After crossing Salt Fork Creek, east of Marshall, there were no damages by the cyclone further than the unroofing of Mr. Brown's house, four miles east of here, and the leveling of fences, etc.

At Appleton City, St. Clair County, the damage was slight, the principal loss being in broken glass. At Clinton, Henry County the hail did much damage in breaking glass, but no other loss is reported.

—Colonel Rockwell's daughter Lulu is reported engaged to marry Harry Garfield, son of the late President.

—Mr. Charles L. Williams has been postmaster at Nacoochee, Ga., for fifty-one years, and has never been too ill during the time to make out his monthly report.

—A popular Presbyterian clergyman of Pittsburgh, Pa., the Rev. Mr. Donehoo, says that a decent Sunday paper is a necessity to an intellectual community.—N. Y. Post.

—President Polk's grave is in the yard of the house at Nashville, called "Polk Place," and his widow has kept his sleeping-room, his books and writing materials in order, just as he left them, with her own hands.

—Prof. J. J. Sylvester, of Johns Hopkins University, and a grave man of science, whom the late Prof. Pierce pronounced to be the best mathematician in the country, is now discovered to be a poet of not a little ability.

—The wife of Sergeant Mason is described as rather tall and slender, between twenty-five and thirty years of age, with dark hair, blue eyes, and with a gentle and modest air. She is not handsome, but has a very pleasant face.

—Says Governor Cullom, of Illinois: "I have been made poor in public life. When I first entered as a congressman, I was, for a young man, considered well off. Had I been close and lived like a hog, I might be in good shape now financially."

—Sir Sydney Waterloo, Member of Parliament for Gravesend and formerly Lord Mayor of London, was married at the British embassy in Paris recently to Miss Hamilton, of San Francisco. The Rev. Mr. Ayr, a Presbyterian minister of Napa City, Cal., officiated.

—The Long Island Historical Society has received from George L. Seney, of Brooklyn, two great works, which have an additional claim to interest because presented by Louis Philippe to Mr. Standish Standish. One is the "Cabinet du Roi," forty-seven volumes, folio; the other Taylor and Nodier's "Voyages Pittoresques et Romantiques de l'Annam France," twenty-seven volumes folio. The cost of these is said to have been $25,000.

—Mr. Longfellow's titles were Master of Arts, from Bowdoin; Doctor of Laws, Harvard, 1839; Cambridge, England, 1868; and Bowdoin, 1871; Doctor of Common Law, Oxford, 1859. —Sunset Cox calls this the "oecometric age." True, and how it does blow off steam when some of its sons get to vaporizing.—Buffalo Express.

—A mother advised her daughter, who was going to a party, to oil her hair, and fainted away when that candid dame replied: "Oh, no, ma; it is so apt to spoil the gentlemen's vests."

—Congress has a bill to punish persons who use profane language in any post-office. If the postmaster is any sort of a man he will step out on the street to be talked to.—Detroit Free Press.

—"What pretty children, and how much they look alike," says C during a first visit at a friend's house. "They are twins," his friend explains. "What, both of 'em?" exclaims C, greatly interested.

—"The number of bones in man," we are told, "is 240." Just after partaking of a shad breakfast the number may be increased to 250—if the man doesn't choke to death on the fourth bone.—Hawkeye.

—An Irishman (twin brother to the one who swore "By the powers, he'd hever go into the water till he could swim") once putting on a new pair of boots, remarked: "Sure and sartin, I'll never be able to git on these infernal boots till I've worn 'em at laist a wuk."

—"The illuminated buoy is a wonderful invention," read old Mrs. Pinaphor in her daily paper. "Well," she observed, "I should think he would be. And it is an excellent idea, too; for if the boy is illuminated his mother will have less trouble finding him after dark."

—This is the young cotton speculator. He is wearing crape on his hat. None of his relatives are dead. Why then does he wear crape on his hat? Because he got in front of the cotton market while it was loaded. Did the market go off? Yes, the market went off.—Waif.

—Deacon Jones was happy indeed when he was told that his daughters, the dear girls, had gone to the revival. Their mother didn't tell him that it was a revival of "Pinafore." Possibly she didn't think it necessary. He was happy and the girls were happy; therefore, why say more?—Boston Transcript.

—"What good deed have you done to-day, Johnnie?" said a benevolent father to his heir. "I gave a poor boy a cent, papa," was the good child's answer. "Ah! that was right. And why, my son, did you give him the cent?" "I gave it to him, dear papa, for a good three-cent stamp that he thought was only a piece of green paper."

—"The New York Ledger" says: "We feel grateful to the ladies for the pains they have taken lately to array themselves in the fresh and beautiful garments of spring." It is safe to say that the author of the foregoing paragraph has not been compelled to pay for any of the "fresh and beautiful garments" advertised. All his daughters are boys.—Norristown Herald.

A REMARKABLE BOOK

IS THE

PARLOR ORGAN INSTRUCTION BOOK

For Learning both Secular and Sacred Music on the Reed or Parlor Organ.

By A. N. JOHNSON.

The great West is full of reed organs, but few know how to play them. Why?

"You see," says the teachers, "when a farmer buys a reed organ, as they all do, he naturally wishes his little daughter or son to learn to play such music as is dear, i. e., church, dances, popular songs, school and Sunday school songs, gospel songs and hymns, and he thinks it his duty to see that she or he can play many such scholars, and no book that fits the case."

At the special request of many such teachers this book was prepared, and proves to be just the thing. The author has a special plan for teaching, and things easy, and any child can understand his explanations.

A practical teacher recently invited him to hear the lessons of a number of pupils taught from this book. They were excellent scholars. "I could not produce such results by any other book," said the teacher. Price $1.50, for which copy will be mailed, postage free, to any address by return mail. Better send $1.50 bill and 25 cts. in stamps by registered letter, and our Soap-Bubble Parties.

Among the newest fancies in fashionable society are "soap-bubble parties." They began in New York, and of course, says a Washington correspondent, found ready imitators at the Capital. Like common parties and Germans, they afford an opportunity for the distribution of gifts, which, unless conducted with great delicacy and good taste, quickly degenerate into vulgar ostentation of wealth. At a recent event of this peculiar kind the climax of the evening was reached before eleven o'clock, when a large china punch-bowl filled with soapsuds was placed upon the center table of the rear parlors, the carpets having been prudently screened with linen, ostensibly for greater convenience in dancing. "Long nine" eighteen clay pipes were produced, and all tried to see who could blow the biggest bubble. Three trials were granted each person, but all whose bubbles burst were compelled to desist. There were five judges to estimate the size of the bubbles and to award the prizes, which were old Knickerbocker pipes, plaques and other dainty souvenirs, to the successful blower. The fun was immense, as rosy lips and perfumed mustaches tried their skill upon the "Long nines."

The exclusion of the upper-tendon, to whom no diversion is in good style unless newly discovered by themselves, have dropped lawn-tennis as altogether "too common," and given it the go-by with croquet and other games in which "the head" indulges. Badminton is now the correct thing for ladies de la creme, as it is comparatively new in this country. It is played with battledore and shuttlecock, over a net arranged as in lawn-tennis. It is rather more of a lady's game than tennis proper, as it makes less demand upon the muscles, but depends chiefly upon the agility of the players. The coaching and polo cliques are unanimous in adopting the new game.—Washington Cor. N. Y. Sun.

"Drugs & Poisons." Dr. R. V. PIERCE, Buffalo, N. Y.: Dear Sir—My wife had suffered with "female weakness" for nearly three years. At times she could not move, and had such dragging pains. We often saw your "Favorite Prescription" advertised, but supposed, like most patent medicines, it did not amount to anything, but at last concluded to try a bottle, which she did, and she is cured. It is a marked improvement, and two bottles cured her. Yours, etc., A. J. HICKER, Deposit, N. Y.

A DRAPERY-HOUSE advertises lawn-dresses that will wash. Isn't it the business of a laundress to wash?

When you visit leave New York City, save baggage and expressage and carriage hire, and stop at the Grand Union Hotel, nearly opposite the Grand Central Depot, 450 elegant rooms, single and in suits, fitted up at an expense of one million dollars. Rooms reduced to $1 and upward per day, on European plan. Elevators. Restaurant supplied with the best. Horse cars, stages and elevated railroad all depots.

Of course, smoking is worse than chewing, for the old adage says: "Of two evils choose the least."

"Judicial Department," Washington, D. C. I am anxious to introduce Dr. Bull's Compound Syrup, an Indian medicine, having used it myself for several months, and think it one of the finest remedies I ever found. I assure you, it is the only thing that ever relieved me of a protracted cough, brought on by exposure while on the Sioux Commission last year. A. G. BOONE, Agent for Ponca and U. S. Commissioner

The wheel of fortune runs slow, because its fellows are tied.—Whitell Times.

ONE VOICE all over the land goes up from mothers, that says: "My daughters are so feeble and sad, with no strength, all out of breath and life at the least exertion. What can we do for them?" The answer is simple and full of hope. One to four weeks' use of Hop Bitters will make them healthy, rosy, sprightly, and cheerful.

"HANNAB" said Mr. Snalley the other evening as he turned down the light after reading the paper, "do you remember she 'twas Sarah Higworth?" La. yes, Ichabod, I never forgot her. Well, she had a sulking notion after you, didn't she?" Hannab you put that very delicately. I did pay some little attention to her and she seemed to like it. Well, I see by the paper her husband is dead. "Poor thing," in sorry for her."

"Well, you needn't be. He was a low-lived, sneaking, miserable scoundrel as ever lived. The reason, if it had been for him I'd married Sarah myself and lived happy." "Ichabod! Ichabod!" exclaimed his wife. "Haven't I always been a good wife to you. Haven't you always lived happy with me," and the apostrophe burst and flooded the surrounding territory of her face. "Yes, yes. There, there. Why, why. Who'd thought? Why, what have I been saying, anyhow?" and it was about an hour and a half before the reconciliation occurred, but then it was worth the little difficulty.—New Haven Register.

How Very Annoying. When one is invited out to a party dinner, how very annoying to feel such dyspeptic symptoms as retching of the food, belching, heat in the stomach, heartburn, etc. If this ailment, your digestive organs are weak. Nothing assists nature so effectively in giving tone and strength to the stomach, liver and bowels, as that Queen of all vegetable tonics, Dr. Guyot's Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla. It is a certain cure for all kinds of dyspepsia. It also cures nervous weakness. It is kind and friendly to the brain. It makes good food and blood. It cures hysteria, and all excitability, wasting of the muscles, and expels all blood impurities. For brain-workers it is especially beneficial; it checks all tendency to indigestion, such as dizziness, headache, blotches, skin diseases, dimness of vision, loss of memory, cough, catarrh of the bladder, painful urination, dyspepsia, general despondency, etc.

JAMES GORDON BENNETT'S new yacht cost $300,000. It is hardly necessary to state that Mr. Bennett is an editor.—Chicago Tribune.

Mr. CHARLES A. REYNOLDS, of Madison, Ind., writes: "For ten years I have been trying to regain my health. Sometimes I do feel better, but I never stay long. I would take cough medicines and consumption cures, and then my dyspepsia would nearly kill me, and I had to doctor for that. Hearing of Dr. Guyot's Yellow Dock and Sarsaparilla, I bought a bottle, it did me more good than I expected. I am now robust and strong, and have not felt sick for a long time. I feel stronger every day, and every part of my body, and I enjoy most refreshing, dreamless slumber."
