MILLS COUNTY BASKET BALL TOURNAMENT

On Friday afternoon, February the 10th, the preliminary games of the Mills County Basketball tournament were played. After drawing for opponents, the games and their scores were as follows:

FRIDAY

Mullin boys, 14; Star boys 11. Mullin girls, 12; Prairie 19. G'waite girls 17; Star 18. G'waite boys, 28; Mt. Olive 11. Prairie girls, 17; Trigger Mt. 5.

SATURDAY

Star girls, 28; Prairie, 4. Mullin boys, 17; G'waite, 14.

DEBATE IN ENGLISH IV.

On last Friday, February 10, the sections in English IV were the attentive audiences of interesting debates. The question under discussion was, Resolved that moving pictures are harmful to the people of our state. In Section One, the negative team, composed of Tom Clark Graves and J. E. Bohannon, Jr., were victorious over the affirmative team consisting of Essie Mae Brim and Leona Taylor. In Section Two, the affirmative team, Granvil Barnett and Clarence Cave, defeated the negative team, Rachel Johnson and Garetta Little. There have been two debates in English IV class, both of which were interesting.

—SENIOR REPORTER.

CHAPEL PROGRAMS

Friday—Miss Gatlin. The student body enjoyed a debate by the winning teams of the modern history class. The subject for debate was—Resolved that Capital Punishment should be abolished. Maadia Wilson and Katie Poer were speakers for the affirmative, while Robert Brown and Edward Dalton upheld the negative side of the opinion. Some very lively and convincing arguments were introduced by both sides. The rebuttals were especially interesting. The judges, Miss Wright, Mr. Stinger, and Tom Clark Graves were unanimous in favor of the negative speakers.

DRAMAS

In English 10 the following assignment to be made into a drama was given:
Characters: William Penn and a modern school girl.
Place: A moving picture theatre.
Situation: William Penn has reluctantly accompanied the girl to a moving picture show.
The following drama was selected on account of its originality and interest:

THE HORRIFIED UNCLE

By Leota Simpson

Characters:
William Penn, a Quaker.

Nell Robins, his niece who is a modern girl.

Place:
Modern Theatre.
Time:
Evening.

William Penn (enters the theatre with his niece): This is against my faith, Nell! Thou art following the mass of people and that always leads to destruction.

Nell: But uncle, everybody goes and I just know you'll enjoy it. One of my friends said that the picture was real good.

Penn (speaks with irony): I suppose it will be good—especially morally good.

Nell (pays no attention to his words and continues to talk joyously): Oh Uncle, aren't those ushers cute? And, Gee! Don't you honestly feel great sitting here? And oh look! The show's going to begin.

Penn (amazed) Nell! Thou dost not use proper words in thine conversation.

Nell: Why Uncle, I don't talk half as bad as most people do.

Penn: There, I have corrected thee once for following the majority.

Nell: Sorry, Uncle.

Penn (reads from screen): "Pathe News"! What dost that mean, my friends?

Nell: Oh that's just the latest news, Uncle.

(Both remain silent until after the comedy has started.)

Penn: (reapproachfully): Nell, why art thou so unladlike as to laugh at such vulgar things.

Nell (notices his set and stone-like face): Uncle, don't look like a spinx, and please be quite—Didn't you see what that fat man did? (laughs again).

Penn: This is enough. Let us go.

Nell: Dear me, no! The show has just begun.

Penn: My niece! Dost thou not know how to respect thine elders. Thou wilt soon be lost if thou dost not change.

Nell (watches the show and does not hear her uncle): Gee! This is exciting! I hope that old mean guy gets killed soon.

Penn (speaks sternly and solemnly): I believe that thou art possessed with devils.

Nell (carelessly): Can't help it.

Penn (very angry): I have always been friend to every one; even the Indians are my friends, but I must leave for I feel guilty in thine presence. (These words are heard by the people near Nell. She, feeling very mortified, quickly arises and pushes her uncle through the door before the lights are turned on.)

GOLDTHWAITE LOSES FINALS IN CLOSE FIGHT

On Saturday afternoon the final basketball game for the boys was played between Goldthwaite and Mullin, at Fair Park. From the very beginning both teams played hard and fast because they knew that it was their last chance and that it was up to them to gain the fight.

Goldthwaite made the first goal and stayed ahead until the third quarter. At the end of the third quarter the score was 14 to 14. This, of course, showed that the teams were evenly matched and that there was going to be a very little difference in the scores at the end of the contest.

In the last quarter Barton McPhearson was taken out of the game on account of personal fouls. Many of the Goldthwaite players made fouls which helped Mullin to win the game. A large per cent of their points were made from free throws, and if it had not been for these, Goldthwaite would have won the game. In the last quarter luck seemed to be against Goldthwaite, as they never made a single point during that period. Mullin made three points, the final score being 17 to 14 in favor of Mullin. Even though Goldthwaite did not win the game, they demonstrated their ability as basketball players and Mullin really earned their way to the championship of the county.

VALENTINE DAY —ITS ORIGIN

In the middle ages an aggressive Roman emperor issued an order that no marriage ceremonies should be performed by the priests. In this way he wished to abolish marriage; for his soldiers when they were, unwilling to leave home.

But a good father took pity on the young people and married them secretly. When the heartless emperor learned of this violation, he seized the dear old man and cast him into prison, where he died several months later.

He was afterwards declared a saint by the Roman Catholic Church, and the young people celebrated his birthday by exchanging lovely gifts. Many of the young people married on this day.

Today St. Valentine's Day is observed by the exchanging of pretty lace paper valentine and heartshaped boxes of candy. It is made the occasion of many parties.—PAULINE DALTON.

STAR WINS OVER GOLDTHWAITE

Last Friday afternoon the Star girls and the Goldthwaite girls staged one of the best basketball games of the season. The first field goal was made by Goldthwaite in the first few minutes of the game. When the game was half over, the scores were tied. At the end of the third quarter the Goldthwaite girls were two points ahead of the Star team. The game was a close struggle until the last when Star made a perfect field goal, making the score 17 and 18 in Star's favor. Although the Goldthwaite girls were defeated they proved to us their ability as players, when opposed by the champions of the county.

ROCK SPRINGS

(Intended for last week)

Sunday school was quite small Sunday morning as some were still quarantined and others went visiting.

Abijah Stark and family and Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Webb went to town to church Sunday night.

Cecil Lawson and wife moved to the Roper farm on last week. Walter Weatherby now owns the Roper place.

Mrs. B. D. Forehand didn't teach Monday. She and the pupils wanted to go to town and see the demonstration train. They reported seeing some wonderful and instructive sights on the train.

Mrs. Orby Woody visited in the Sam Self home Tuesday afternoon.

J. O. McClary took his wife to Ranger Sunday for a two weeks visit. Mr. Stark and wife went as far as Gorman, where their daughter, Mrs. Geo Harmet lives.

J. T. Stark looked very lonely Sunday morning as he was all alone.

Cecil Lawson and wife visited Miss Edith McWhorter Sunday at Center Point.

Grady Tullos was out with our hunters Saturday night.

Little Herbert Stark was hurt last week by a cow. At this writing he is doing well.

Dan Holland and family of Goldthwaite, spent Sunday in the Circle home.

Bud Forehand and wife and Lany Ellis and family spent Sunday in the Forehand home.

Jno. W. Roberts and wife and grandson, Beryl Vann, Sunday afternoon to see about the gossip factory.

Misses Forehand and Ellis called on Miss Nellie D. Cooke Sunday afternoon.

R. C. Webb and wife spent Sunday afternoon with Ben Forehand and family.

Orby Woody was in our midst Tuesday night looking for a lost man or child, Mr. Oscar Gatlin. We can't decide which he is—man or child.

Several of the farmers and their families went to town on last Monday afternoon.

Miss Johnnie Belle Circle spent Sunday night and Monday with her sister, Mrs. Dan Holland of Goldthwaite.

Clyde Bates and family of Amarilla, Texas, are visiting their parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. McNutt.

R. C. Webb and wife sit until bedtime Monday night with Mr. and Mrs. Sam Self.

Mrs. Geo. Hamitt of Gorman came home with her parents Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Stark Sunday for a visit.

J. T. Robertson and wife and Billie went to church at Lake Merritt Sunday and they took dinner with Charley Brown and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Arlie Davis were called to Brownwood last week. Her sister, Mrs. Williams, had an operation.

Mrs. Woodie Traylor and daughter spent the afternoon Tuesday with Mrs. Cecil Lawson.

Mrs. Jno. W. Roberts and Beryl Vann Roberts visited Mrs. J. T. Roberts and Billie Tuesday afternoon.

M. C. Collier of Lake Merritt is helping Mr. Lawson to build a fence on the Weatherby farm.

Busy Bee certainly did enjoy the radio sermon Sunday afternoon. It is certainly nice to sit in your home and hear these sermons. The Old Rugged Cross and other songs were so pretty. And another thing—in this way you miss the collection hat.

Last Sunday there were four men in the adult class at Sunday school. Come on women and let's beat the men next Sunday.

NASH

You can see why NASH was the STYLE CENTER of the New York Motor Show

At the New York Motor Show, and every Show since, Nash has captured Motor Show interest by its charming exhibit of motor car style.

One of the new style-cars presented by Nash is portrayed above—the Advanced Six Coupe. It's a charming car, in the newest mode, with side-carried wire wheels and tires, and trunk rack at the rear.

There is smart distinctiveness in its low-slung lines, luxury in its coachcraft. The exterior is done in black and ivory, in the new Nash deep-lustre finish. The interior is upholstered in mohair velvet, finest of fine fabrics. Knurled and straight-grain walnut and walnut finish panelings add still more style and beauty. Cushions are form-fitted, deep tufted and buttoned in the custom manner.

Here at moderate price, is true fine-car atmosphere, usually more costly.

It will pay you to see this and the other models of Nash before you decide which car to buy. Come in any time.

THE PIRATE ATTACKS THE ROMAN SHIPS. 'I AM GOLT HAR GOLT HAR THE TERRIBLE! WHAT FEAR I OF ROME?'

THE LONG LINE OF ROMAN SHIPS LED BY THE FLAG SHIP OF THE COMMANDER, ARRIUS

ESTHER, THE DAUGHTER OF SIMONIDES, WHOSE LOVELY VISION HE HAD ENSHRINED AND THE COARSE SIGHTS AND SCENES OF THE GALLEYS 'HELL OF WOE.'

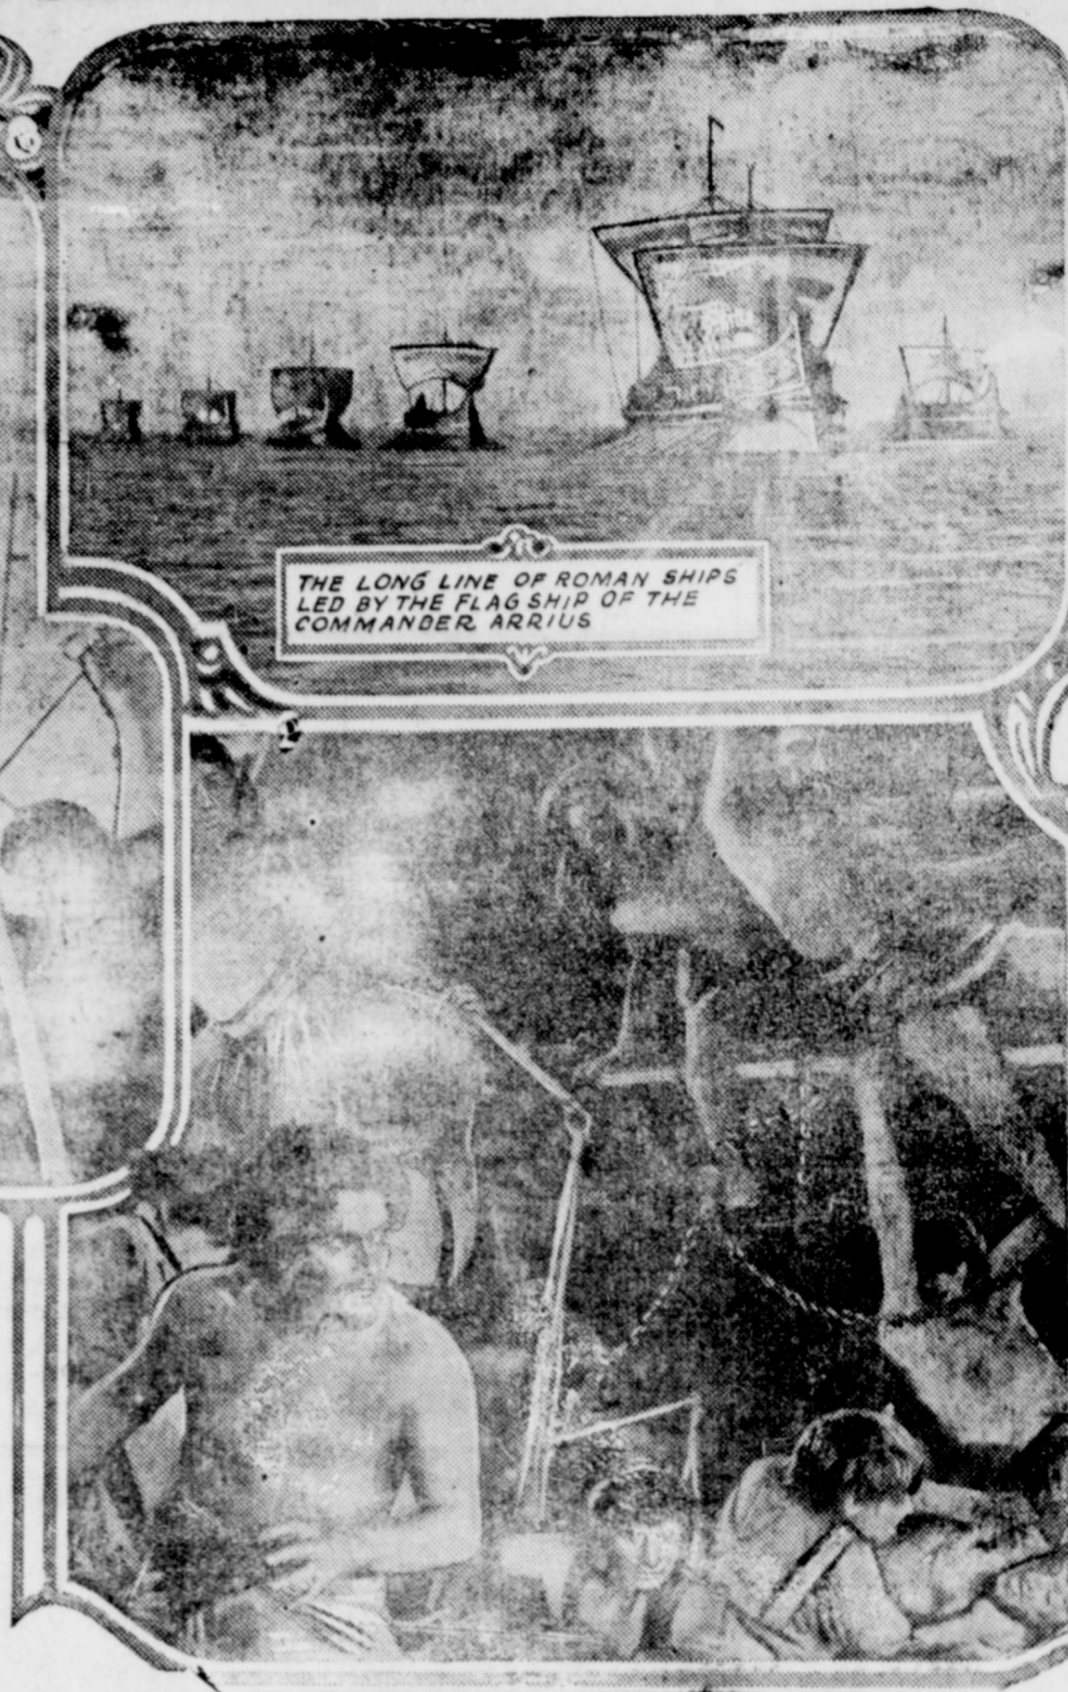

COMBAT THRILLS IN "BEN-HUR"

THE dash and sian of the American attack in pictures never found more appropriate use than in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer spectacle of "Ben-Hur." A Sea Fight, the equivalent of a Roman naval war, is visualized in fifteen minutes packed with thrills. Just a few of the incidents—

Evolution of two fleets of titanic vessels aggregating 100 vessels. Chaining of the doomed slaves in the Roman flagship, poignantly contrasted with the escape of the unshackled Ben-Hur. Ramming and boarding of the Roman vessels. Onslaught of the pirate Goltzar and his men, bearing on their pikes the heads of slain Roman soldiers. The Romans' stout defense by Greek fire, ballistics, javelins, spears, pikes and ultimately the very pins and blocks of the ship. The firing of the flagship, the fate of the doomed oarsmen, the leaps of hundreds of the badly scathed fighters into the sea, the rescue of the commander-in-chief by the sole slave that escaped, the parade of the Romans after their general victory, the thrilling salutation to the returned commander Arrius whose orders won the action though his individual ship went down.

This great sequence was made in the Mediterranean Sea during the Italian filming of the "Ben-Hur" company, organized by Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer in arrangement with A. L. Erlanger, G. B. Dillingham and P. Ziegfeld, Jr.

HEIR and successor of the kingly line of picture spectacles that includes "Birth of a Nation," "Way Down East," "Four Horsemen," "The Covered Wagon," and "The Big Parade," the $4,000,000 motion picture version of "Ben-Hur" is coming soon to this city. Yes, "Ben-Hur" actually cost $4,000,000!

If one wonders how such a vast sum could possibly be expended, one has only to recall the embrace of the antique Greco-Roman world in Lew Wallace's book; Jerusalem, Antioch, Rome, sea battles, Circus Maximus chariot racing, the tents of Araby, the Judean oppression, the Nativity and the Crucifixion. The generalissimo of the work was Fred Niblo, a director of real organizing genius.

Some of the finest acting in current pictures is to be enjoyed in "Ben-Hur." Among the distinguished players are Ramon Novarro, Francis X. Bushman, May McAvoy, Kathleen Key, Carmel Myers, Claire McDowell, Betty Bronson, Nigel de Bruiler, Frank Currier and Mitchell Lewis.

In the adjoining scene is Ramon Novarro as the escaping slave Ben-Hur, while in the oval above this column appears May McAvoy as Esther.

I suppose everyone enjoyed the little rain we had Saturday night or morning and we only hope that it will come another one before long.

The oats are looking pretty since the rain, the grass is also green.

Folks are getting ready for corn planting in this community.

We have not had Sunday school in some time. We are going to have the lesson Sunday if nothing happens.

Mrs. Higgins and Mrs. Armstrong, and daughter, Irene, spent the day Monday in the McMurray home.

Everybody who attended the party at Clyde Featherston's Friday night certainly can't say they didn't have a good time for Edgar Simpson gave them all a nice Valentine, lots of candy to eat, any kind of game they would play, and lots of music. So we are wishing for them to give us another one soon, and have a good time like we did Friday night.

Miss Irene Armstrong spent the night with Irene McMurray one night last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Duke Wilkey and family spent Sunday afternoon with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Varnell in the Kelly community.

Mrs. Hap Arrowood and children spent the day, Saturday, with Mr. and Mrs. Slick Wilkey and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Cook are the proud parents of a big boy. Mr. and Mrs. Cook live in the Moline community.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Collier and daughter were at Mr. and Mrs. J. G. McMurray's Friday morning after berry sprouts.

Some attended the Sock Supper at Moline Saturday night. Mr. and Mrs. Johnnie McMurray sit until bedtime in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Hunt and family.

They had a Valentine box supper at the school house on Tuesday afternoon.

Clem Howard, Howard Petrey and Monroe visited Ray McMurray Sunday.

Subject:
TWO MIRACLES OF POWER
Mark 4:35 to 5:20

The Lesson Text:

Authorized Version. — (35) And the same day, when the even was come, he saith unto them, Let us pass over unto the other side. (36) And when they had sent away the multitude, they took him even as he was with them in the ship. And there were with him also other little ships. (37) And there arose a great storm of wind, and the waves beat into the ship, so that it was now full. (38) And he was in the hinder part of the ship, asleep on a pillow: and they awake him, and say unto him, Master, carest thou not that we perish? (39) And he arose, and rebuked the wind, and said unto the sea, Peace, be still. And the wind ceased, and there was a great calm. (40) And he said unto them, Why are ye so fearful? how is it that ye have no faith? (41) And they feared exceedingly, and said one to another, What manner of man is this, that even the wind and the sea obey him?

(Ch. 5.) —(15) And they came to Jesus, and see him that was possessed with the devil, and had the legion, sitting, and clothed, and in his right mind: and they were afraid. (16) and they that saw it told them how it befell to him that was possessed with the devil, and also concerning the swine. (17) And they began to pray him that he might depart out of their coasts. (18) And when he was come into the ship, he that was possessed with the devil prayed him that he might be with him. (19) Howbeit Jesus suffered him not, but saith unto him, Go home to thy friends, and tell them how great things the Lord hath done for thee, and hath compassion on thee. The Lesson Story:

Jesus was worn out with the day's work. It was not the mere act of teaching or of healing that wearied him; it was the unceasing drain upon his sympathies. If you have a great heart, a boundless compassion for the suffering and sorrowing, and such a love for souls that it almost kills you to see sinful men and women plunging wildly down to ruin, and if you have ever spent whole weeks in a benighted community doing relief work in the midst of an epidemic, then you can form some faint idea of the weariness of Jesus. At the end of every hard day he must have been utterly exhausted, not only in body, but in mind and spirit.

The disciples saw that he was utterly spent and when he turned to them and proposed that they go to the other side of the lake they immediately "took him as he was"—apparently took him by the arms on either side and hurried him out of the crowd to their little boat.

While they were making their way across the water a sudden storm, for which the lake was noted, swept down upon the little fleet, filling the boats with water and the hearts of the disciples with terror. The Master, worn out with the day's toils, had fallen into a deep sleep and the disciples hastened to him. "Master, we perish," cried one. "Master, carest thou not that we perish," cried another. "Save, Lord, we perish," cried others. The Master opened his eyes, rose to his feet, calmly looked out upon the tempest, and then said to the wind as he would have spoken to a dog at his feet, "Down!" And turn the great billows, he said: "Be still!" And then turning to his disciples, he said: "Why are you fearful? How is it that you cannot trust me?" And as he turned away the men in the boat looked into each others' faces and in trembling whispers said: "What sort of man is this that even the waves should obey his voice?"

On going ashore Jesus was met by two demoniacs, who made their homes in the tombs near-by. The men were naked, furious, demon-possessed lunatics, of almost superhuman strength, whom nobody could bind, and who were the terror of the whole country, so that no one dared to pass that way alone. They had recognized Jesus at a distance, and had rushed down to meet him as they had often rushed to meet those whom they would tear in pieces. But to the astonishment of all, the moment they reached the Master they threw themselves at his feet in an attitude of worship. "Come out of him," said Jesus, speaking to the demon in the foremost man. "What do you want with me, Jesus, Son of the Most High God?" cried the man, with that strange consciousness of the divinity of Jesus which seems to have come to all demoniacs when they approached him. "What is your name?" asked Jesus. "My name," he said, "is Legion; for there are many of us"; and he began to beg of him not to send the demons away to the bottomless pit. "Send us anywhere but there," he screamed; "anywhere—even into those swine feeding yonder!" "Very well," said the Master; "go into those swine." And they left the men—left both men—and entered into the hogs, and the hogs, becoming panic stricken, dashed through the hedge bordering the beach and down the steep graven beyond and into the water, where they were drowned. Naturally the swinekeepers ran at once to tell the owners, and in a few moments the whole village had turned out to see what had happened. When they came and saw the men who had been the terror of the neighborhood "sitting and clothed" and in their right minds, they were so frightened that they began to beg Jesus to leave the country—some fearing that they, too, might lose their swine, but all trembling in the presence of the superhuman power. As Jesus was going away the restored men begged that they might be allowed to go with him, but the Master insisted that they should return home and tell their own people what the Lord had done for them.

IN MEMORY OF MRS. A. A. KARNES

"Can she be dead whose spiritual influence is upon the world?" No. It is not death when the spirit that has animated its clay tabernacle is released and the messengers of God bear it to its heavenly missions. Therefore we will not write in the language of the world, but in the words of Divine Revelation, "Fell asleep."

January 23, at Snyder, Texas, our beloved sister, Jessie McGaha Karnes, wife of A. A. Karnes, formerly of Mills

County, "fell asleep." She found the Pearl of great price by faith in Christ and united with the Baptist church at an early age. She was married to A. A. Karnes May 27, 1916. To this union was born two little girls. From the early years of her young womanhood her life had been devoted to the service of Christ. In the varied relations of wife, mother, friends and church member, she was an earnest follower of Him she had taken for her exemplar and day by day she manifested the transforming power of the spirit, proving to the world the truth of the profession she had made, and the triumph of her departure was the glorious seal to the testimony of her patient trusting felt deeply by her family and life. Her removal is a deep loss by those who loved her and knew her best. The sorrowing husband and children will miss her wise counsel, her patient example, her tender sympathy, and constant aid. May they be supported by the spirit of all consolation and strengthened to walk in the path she trod.

and at last be received to join her in the everlasting habitations.

While we mourn the loss of our beloved Jessie we are assured that with her all is well. The Savior's loving voice has spoken to her, "Well done, my good and faithful servant."

It is true that those who knew Jessie best loved her most and are glad to join the writer in offering consolation to the bereaved ones.

WILLIAM MASSIE DE FENDS BANKERS ASS'N.

Fort Worth, Texas.—The Texas bankers' Association's bandit policy of paying $5000.00 for every robber killed while in the act of robbing a bank and no reward for live bandits captured is vigorously defended by Mr. William M. Massie, president of Texas Bankers Association in an article appearing in the February number of Bunker's Monthly, a Texas magazine published at Fort Worth.

Following the killing of a number of bandits by peace officers, while attempting to stage daylight holdups of Texas banks, and the alleged "planting" and killing of several Mexicans in what is charged was a fake bank robbery for the purpose of securing the bankers' association reward, a tremendous furor over the propriety of placing a price on human life and the article is attracting wide attention.

"The Texas Bankers Association is determined to make bank robbery unhealthy in Texas," Massie declares in his article. "We expect to make it more difficult to rob a bank in Texas and get away alive than anywhere in the country. Affirming that the decision to pay for dead robbers was made necessary by a "situation which was growing more intolerable every day," Massie said:

"During the past eight years there have been 140 successful bank robberies in Texas, in which the robbers got away with $564,065, and during the same period only thirty one convictions of persons charged with bank robbery! And a number of those convicted were soon at liberty and free to commit more bank robberies, some pardoned, some escaped.

Pointing out that the great majority of present day bank robberies are by day light bandits usually of the generation, Massie declares flatly, "There is only one way to stop a daylight bank robbery after it gets started and that is to shoot the robber and shoot to kill.

Results of the new policy already have far exceeded his expectations the bankers association declares.

Between the time the reward notices first were posted, late in November, and Jan. 1 three Texas bank robber have been killed in the act, two wounded, the leading member of a well organized gang believed to be responsible for a series of bank robberies over two years time have been gathered up, only one successful bank robbery occurred and one bank robber was sentenced to the electric chair, Massie pointed out. Furthermore, "there has been a great number of arrests on the charge of bank robbery in Texas in the past six weeks

LAW ENFORCEMENT

Governor Moody has recently been giving out press interviews on the subject of law enforcement. This is quite a proper attitude of our governor and evidently should be stressed more by the governors of each state. It's a theme that calls for more vigorous stress by every clear headed writer who notes the magnitude of crime and law violation throughout the land. Governor Moody, however, directs his criticism entirely at the National Administration and the National Prohibition laws. But is this a fair and impartial criticism? Is the national Prohibition law the one law not being enforced? Is the national administration the only administration not enforcing the law? Has a governor any obligations to enforce the supreme law of the land?

In a recent criticism by W. G. McAdoo of Governor Smith's recommendation that the state enforcement of New York be repealed the governor answers Mr. McAdoo with the following quotation from Article 6, Section 2 of the Federal Constitution.

Article 6, Section 2: "This Constitution and the laws of the United States made in pursuance thereof, and all treaties made, or which shall be made, under the authority of the United States, shall be the supreme law of the land; and the judges in every state shall be bound thereby. Anything in the Constitution or laws of any state to the contrary notwithstanding."

"That," the governor said, "disposes of Mr. McAdoo's argument that the provisions of the Volstead Act are not binding upon the State of New York without the additional enactment of a state prohibition enforcement law."

Now, if we accept Governor Smith's construction of the Federal Constitution then Governor Moody is bound by both the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead Law enacted there under for the Federal Constitution clearly so states. This would leave our governor in a peculiar attitude of complaining at the lack of his own enforcement of the prohibition laws made in pursuance of the Federal Constitution.

But let us come closer to home and give the matter of law enforcement a fair, impartial than in the previous two year," Massie concludes. "We are launched upon this policy for an indefinite time."

tial and practical consideration.

Is not Mr. Moody's state infested with bank robbers, stick up men, car thieves, night prowlers and thieves of every kind; murderers, firebugs, bootleggers and illicit distillers? The greatest menace of them all, however, is the bank robber. In this particular robbing enterprise almost every daily newspaper records from one to three. Only a few weeks ago the banking organization of our state met and hypothesized their means and advertised that they would pay $5000 reward for every bank bandit killed in the act of robbing a bank. They found their means continually jeopardized, their lives menaced from the opening to closing time of their business. Is law enforcement in a healthy and normal condition in Mr. Moody's state while such conditions exist? We are taxed to support the government to protect us against such highway robberies. Our taxes are undoubtedly ample for the purposes for which they are imposed. They have more than doubled in the last fourteen years while our protection is really less than at any time since we have been a state.

We have a state prohibition enforcement law. If he contends that he is bound by the Federal Constitution and laws enacted thereunder then he must admit he is bound by the state enforcement acts for he has taken oath to enforce them. Is he enforcing the prohibition laws of his state better than the president of the United States is enforcing the prohibition laws of the nation? Let our own recent observations supply the answer.

In the last violations of that law in our own county, our sheriff skillfully maneuvered the culprit into the Federal Court. The reason given out and generally accepted in our community was that a conviction could not be secured in our state court.

We all remember the woman of the scripture taken in the act of adultery. We remember quite well what the Master said to her accusers. A wonderful standard of judgment was enacted on that occasion; a standard used by the Master to demolish and abolish a most contemptible hypocrisy.

Go out, Governor, you, your judges, your whole brigade of law enforcers and bring in the National Administration for judgment. Make your accusations of lack of proper law enforcement and if you are confronted with the standard of judgment set up by the Master will there be one of you remain to cast a stone at your accused?—A. J. HARRISON.

If your newly-arrived chicks could talk they would say: "Do not feed us until we are 72 hours old. We are supplied with food during this period by the remaining part of the egg yolks which we absorbed into our bodies just before we were hatched.
