COTTONWOOD FALLS, KANSAS, THURSDAY, DECEMBER 8, 1881.

NUMBER 9.

TIMELY TOPICS

CABINET speculation is dull. Possibly because every thing is settled.

THERE are fifteen iron steamers now under construction on the Delaware.

THERE is talk of starting a cheese factory at Kirwin, by eastern capitalists.

EDWIN BOOTH only wants $35,000 for playing three weeks in San Francisco.

THE favorite method of the hour for killing men is for a locomotive to run down a hand car. It rather beats the toy pistol.

A RUSSIAN journal tells its readers that President Arthur is an Irishman who was driven from his country by English misrule.

MR. WILLIAM C. WELLMAN, formerly editor of the Penny Paper, Cincinnati, has been fined $100 and committed to the work house for thirty days.

"WHAT a fine protuberant forehead your baby has, Mrs. Jones. Did he get it from his father?" "No," replied Mrs. Jones, "he got it from a fall down stairs."

PRESIDENT GARFIELD'S inebriety is to be honored in London by the founding of a home for working girls to be called "Garfield house." A lady has given $1,250 to a committee for this purpose.

"JIM" Keene, the stock broker, was once a stationary peddler in San Francisco. He saved a little money and put in the Savage mine just as it was being "pooled," and he thereby cleared nearly $1,000,000.

THREE new war ships which England is about to add to her fleet will make heavy demand on her treasury. For the steel faced armor of the Collingwood nearly $400,000 will be required, and the revised estimates provide for the hulls of the Colossus and the Majestic the total sum of $2,500,000.

THE Atlanta correspondent of the Louisville Courier-Journal writes that General Sherman's "exceeding affability of manner is doing much to wipe out all animosity toward the alien general of 1861. Many old soldiers came up and shook hands with him to-day when they resisted him to the death."

A DES MOINES dispatch says: "The Des Moines Northwestern Narrow gauge railway has passed into the possession of the Wabash. The track is completed to Jefferson, Green county, and the road is under contract for building to the line of the state, via Spirit Lake, to be completed in May next."

THE educational system of Bengal is evidently in sad need of changes. Returns show that in a total of 8,567 European and Eurasian children of school going age, exclusive of Calcutta, more than 4,000 receive no education at all. Were Calcutta included, it is said another 1,000 children growing up in abject ignorance would be added to this melancholy showing.

Bristol furnishes a remarkable exception to London and Liverpool in the matter of church attendance, which not only has not fallen off there in late years, but has actually increased by a considerable per cent. Bristol has a population of 210,000 souls, and its churches number about 200. The two services held on a recent Sunday the attendance was 116,918 persons—early one third of whom were present at churches which belong to the Established church.

THE Erie Railway company has purchased the Blossburg Coal company and Tioga railroad. The coal property embraces over 40,000 acres of valuable coal lands with mines fully developed, probably one of the most valuable bituminous coal properties in the country. The Tioga railroad connects the main line of the Erie at Elmira with the mines at Blossburg. Mr. Vanderbilt has recently made large purchases of coal lands adjoining this property, and it is said, would have been glad to have taken this property also, but Mr. Jewett had the inside track and secured the purchase in the interests of his company.

RAILROAD men are not likely to be much annoyed over the prospective competition of the Canada Pacific road, when it has been demonstrated that true economy of management will require the erection of a snow shed 2,100 miles long to protect the track in winter. In addition to the ordinary snow fall of five to ten feet the road will have to contend with such eccentricities of weather as that recently reported from Winnipeg, where the west bound express was impeded by a sudden overflow from Lake Manitoba, caused by a terrific gale; and while the locomotive was lying immovable, with fires extinguished, the water froze about the train and reduced it to the condition and usefulness of a relic of the glacial epoch.

NEWS IN A NUT SHELL.

EVENTS OF THE PAST WEEK FROM ALL OVER THE WORLD.

The Cream of the Two Hemispheres Carefully Condensed and Classified—An Interesting Budget of Personal and Miscellaneous Information.

Washington.

THE grand jury at Washington indicted William Jones for a deadly assault on Gaitan.

DEPUTY ATTORNEY LILLY, who was accused of accepting money for obtaining certain services for mail contractors, has been discharged from arrest.

O. GUYEAU, a cousin of the assassin, a veterinary surgeon at Battle Creek, Michigan, has been summoned to Washington as a witness. The doctor thinks the prisoner has for some time been insane, but should receive full punishment for his crime.

Personal and Political.

In conducting the canvass for the speakership of the house, Mr. Keizer has boasted that he has sixty votes in a basket, to deliver to whom he pleases, and has also paroled out nearly all the leading candidates.

Mrs. GARFIELD receives from thirty to sixty important begging letters daily. She has placed the literary estate of her husband in the hands of Colonel Rockwell, Joseph Rudolph, administrator, has appointed General Swain his attorney and financial agent to settle all claims.

General Foreign Notes.

A PASSENGER train from Edinburgh collided with a freight near Tayport, killing four persons and injuring eight.

The members of the bucket shop firm of Loupkins & C. O., have disappeared from Montreal, where they had recently opened three branches.

The East.

A CATAMOUNT weighing 182 pounds, and measuring nine feet from nose to tip of tail, was killed at Bernard, Vermont, by two hunters.

THE tinners of Keizer, Stiefel & Co. at Allegheny, Pennsylvania, valued at $100,000, was destroyed by fire. Huge piles of tin bars will be in flames for a week to come. There is insurance of $75,000 in foreign and home companies.

A SUIT in regard to the Wilson patents for canning meats, in which Chicago capital to the amount of $1,000,000 is involved, was decided by Justice Drummond adversely to the patentees. It being found that the inventions lacked the novelty required to make them valid.

The West.

ENGINEERS at Eagle are surrounding the Rio Grande for a railroad bridge.

RAILROAD attorneys at Leavenworth say the southwestern road has been purchased by the Santa Fe, thus cutting off the Rock Island.

THE National Sunday School union of the Methodist church is holding its nineteenth annual session at Indianapolis with Rev. S. M. Freeman of New York, in the chair.

THE steamboat Peninah sold liquor from her bar at an Indian reservation in Montana and was condemned in the United States court, and will be sold at auction by the marshal at Bismarck.

THE recent announcement that Gould and Huntington had pooled their roads in the southwest from the Missouri to the Pacific, stirred the directors of the Atlantic and Pacific road to resolve that work be pushed vigorously between the Colorado river and San Francisco.

A STATIONER at Springfield, Illinois, discovered that for two years his bill had been regularly robbed by a school supply agent named W. S. Raney, who had the privilege of the store. The latter confessed the theft of $2,000, and made restitution by donating a house and lot to his victim.

J. M. GARRISON is charged by his neighbors with burning his cheese factory at Winfield, Illinois. A rope with which to lynch him had been provided, when the sheriff took him in custody. The building was worth $5,000, and Garrison states that $4,000 in currency was burned in the fire.

An ugly spirit is developing among the coal miners in St. Clair county, Illinois. The Collinsville strikers marched on the pits at Bickner on Thanksgiving day with drawn revolvers, but were driven off by the sheriff from Bickerville. A second riot was made before daylight of the next day, and similarly suppressed. The main supply for the St. Louis water works is excavated at Birkner.

THREE, the forger, captured in Chicago, voluntarily accompanied Sheriff Blackman to Kenosha. He states that he is indebted to friends in the sum of $30,000, and expects to be sent to the penitentiary for life; that he wandered about the streets night and day for a month, and did not sleep one hour in twenty-four. No money was found on his person. Detective Amstern of Chicago, received a check for $500 for the capture of the criminal.

The South.

THE postoffice at Little Rock is still in charge of Special Agent Cameron. R. A. Edgerton and Jefferson Bot-ford are the candidates for the position.

SEVEN Kentuckians holding grave yard insurance policies for $30,000 on persons recently deceased, are at Harrisburgh with an attorney, engaged in the effort to collect something.

A Vivid Improvement on the Waltz.

It is said that the first time Sitting Bull attended a white man's party he made a break for the door the moment a waltz was struck up. He afterwards explained that he supposed an alarm of fire had been given, and that each brave was trying to carry out a squaw. This reminds us of the king of the Oude, who after a visit to England, invented what he flattered himself was a vivid improvement on the waltz of the period. Instead of the interested parties shuffling their feet around in the present melancholy fashion he had a couple mounted on hardware trucks and dragged around in eccentric circles by attendants. He said that as now practiced by Europeans the amusement was neither good dancing nor good hugging, and for his part he preferred to put in his full time at the latter amusement.

If you are coughing or not, but feel the presence of a cold in the system, use Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup and feel immediate relief. Price 25 cents a bottle.

THE LAND TO WHICH WE GO.

(Springfield Republican.)

The land to which we go,
The beautiful, the dread,
With all its peace our spirits know,
And all that's sung and said,
Of countless wonders it may show
We ween and bow the head.

The land to which we go,
If faith had other eyes,
If death aside its mask would throw,
And grief would hush her sighs—
But this is doubt; enough we know,
And God is very wise.

The land to which we go,
Its splendor round us lies;
I've seen its golden sunlight glow
Deep in my baby's eyes,
And on my mother's brow of snow
With tender radiance rise.

FOR THE LITTLE ONES.

Old Hannibal, and How Prue Went to the Review.
(William O. Stoddard.)

"No, mother," said Colonel Dunway to his wife, at the breakfast table, "I shall ride the black colt on parade to-day. Hannibal is too fat and too old."

"Too old? He and Barry are just of an age."

"And Barry's only a little colt yet? Well you may bring him and Prue out to the grand review in the afternoon, but I guess I'll ride the black this morning. You can put Hannibal in the carry-all. Perhaps he'd like to take a look again at a regiment of troops in line."

Barry and Prue listened with all their ears. They knew there would be a grand parade of soldiers that day, and they were proud that their father was to wear a uniform, and ride a horse, and give orders to some of the men.

"Prue," said Barry, "father's going to spect them."

"In-spect them," whispered Prue, correcting him. "Nobody else knows now."

That night he, for Colonel Dunway had been in office of the regular army, and was now colonel of a regiment of militia; but there was one thing he had said that puzzled Barry and Prue dreadfully.

"Barry," said Prue, after breakfast, "is Nibble old?"

"Father says he is."

"Dr. Barnes is old, and he's fat?"

"But his head's bare."

"Nibble isn't bald, no he isn't gray either."

"Mrs. Dunway had told the exact truth about Hannibal, or Nibble, as the children called him. He and Barry were just of an age, and had been mere 2 year old colts when he was a baby in her cradle.

It was after that that Colonel Dunway had taken Hannibal with him to the army, and brought him home again.

He had been a war horse, the colonel said, and so it would not do to turn him into a plough horse, and the consequence was that Nibble did not have enough work to do, and he grew fat too fast.

Yet he and Barry were on 2 years old apiece. That made eight years between them; and if you add 7 years for Prue, it would only have been thirty-two, and everybody knows that is not very old, if you had given them all to Hannibal.

Barry and Prue would have given him almost anything they had, for he was a great friend and comrade of theirs.

"Prue," said Barry, "let's go out to the barn. I've got an apple."

"He can have my apple."

"What there was left of it that meant, for Prue's little white teeth had been at work on that bun."

That had been a troubled morning for Hannibal. Before he had finished his breakfast a party of men rode by the house, and one of them was playing on a bugle. He had set Hannibal's mind at work upon army matters and war; so when Barry and Prue came to see him, he was all in a tremble. He smelled of the apple, and he looked at the bun, but he was all.

"He's getting old," said Barry.

"And fat," added Prue.

"Tell you what, Prue, let's take him out into the lot. I know mother 'll let us."

That was likely, for Mrs. Dunway always felt safer about them if Nibble were kept from company.

"I'll get on his back," Prue said.

"And I'll lead him. Wait till I fix the halter."

was in the road now, and he seemed disposed to keep Barry from again getting hold of the halter.

"Oh, dear," said Barry, "the parade ground's down there."

Hannibal knew that by the music, and he was almost trotting now.

In fact, he was looking younger and younger, somehow, every minute, and Barry felt more and more as if he ought to have hold of the halter instead of merely running alongside and shouting to Prue.

The regiment was drawing up on the great bare field, where the review was to be that afternoon, and they looked splendidly. Colonel Dunway was saying so as he sat in front of them, on his handsome black colt, and a number of other officers, who are riding with him, said the same, and so did the ladies who were keeping them company.

Just then the bugle sounded again from the head of the column, and Prue had to hold on hard, for Hannibal suddenly began to canter and to snuff the music with a loud, clear whinny of delight.

Barry was half out of breath with running, but he kept up with the other two, and in a moment more Hannibal halted proudly arching his neck and treading daintily upon the grass right in front of the regiment.

"I declare," exclaimed Colonel Dunway, "the old fellow has come to review the troops."

"So has Prue," said one of the officers. Barry hardly knew whether to laugh or to cry, but the soldiers suddenly broke out in a grand hurrah.

They were cheering Prue and her war horse, and Colonel Dunway himself was compelled to let the "three children" stay and keep the place Hannibal chose for them at the head of the regiment.

There was plenty of apples for Nibble that day.

"Female Complaints."
Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.: Dear Sir—I was sick for six years, and could scarcely walk about the house. My breath was short, and I suffered from pain in my chest and stomach all the time; also from palpitation and an internal fever, or burning sensation, and experienced frequent smothering or choking sensations. I also suffered from pain low down across my bowels, and in my back, and was much reduced in flesh. I have used your "Golden Medical Discovery" and "Favorite Prescription," and feel that I am well.

Very respectfully,
DELLAH B. McILLAIN, Arlington, Ga.

SKILL IN THE WORKSHOP.—To do good work the mechanic must have good health. If long hours of confinement in close rooms have enfeebled his hand or dimmed his sight, let him at once, and before some organic trouble appears, take plenty of Hop Bitters. His system will be rejuvenated, his eyes will be cleared, his blood become clear, and the whole constitution be built up to a higher working condition.

Locomotives and the Electric Light.

It is apparent that before long the headlights of locomotives will be supplied by electricity, and experiments have already been made in this direction. Thus in last March the Austrian Prince Rodolphe Railway company began a series of experiments. For this purpose a small steam engine and dynamo machine were mounted on the boiler of the locomotive; the lamp was movable, and could be turned in any direction by the engine driver. After a number of trials with different lamps it was found that those on the Sedlaczek system gave the best results, the light remaining steady and unaffected by vibration. The road was perfectly illuminated for 500 yards ahead of the lamp.

An Obvious Reason.
(Salt Lake Tribune.)

Yesterday morning a man with a load of fowls, country produce, etc., stopped in front of the house of a prominent citizen, and the good wife came out to inspect the display.

"Guess I'll take those two wild ducks to-morrow's dinner."

"Guess you had better take something else, madam," said the produce man. "I met your husband on the road this morning with a wagon, two horses, three dogs, and 100 rounds of cartridges, making for the big duck slough."

"Oh, indeed; the poor man!" replied the lady. "You had better give me four ducks; he may want some when he gets home."

For weak lungs, spitting of blood, shortness of breath, consumption, night sweats, and all lingering coughs, Dr. Pierce's "Golden Medical Discovery" is a sovereign remedy. Superior to cod liver oil. By druggists.

THE FARMER'S COLUMN.

Containing Useful Knowledge for the Husbandman.

A week or two since we published an article from Mr. John Harris relative to the flattering yields he had obtained from the early orange cane. We find in a late number of the Rural World the following letter from a gentleman in Iowa, which is equally as complimentary to the variety as the communication of Mr. Harris:

Owing to unfavorable weather I was unable to plant until about the May 20. I planted in shallow marks and barrowed it in. The weather became dry and warm, but nearly all the seed grew; in fact, all grew that got into moist dirt when planted. It was plowed twice and hoed once. Owing to circumstances, it became necessary to work it as soon as it could possibly be done. The first week in September found the bulk of it in the milk and soft dough, but little of it being ripe enough for seed. I at first boiled it to the same degree (according to the eye) as other kinds of cane in other years, and when it became cool I found it much too thick. I planted one acre and the yield was eighty gallons of the clearest and richest syrup that I ever saw. What I had to spare went like hot cakes at 60 cents a gallon of eleven pounds. We have thirty gallons left that is almost solid sugar; had to unhead the barrel to get it. The crop is very light here; many pieces amounting to nothing, and others giving a very light yield. Mine was the best that I know of. The low price of glucosirups prevent soring sirup from bringing what it ought; still I am offered 65 cents for what I have left, and I could sell several barrels like mine at that or even more.

To this letter, Mr. Isaac Hedges of St. Louis, who has been disseminating the seed, responds:

Your samples are first class and speaks well for your efforts, and especially in view of such unripe cane. It is an additional evidence of the superiority of the Orange cane. I have just visited some crops in Ohio, one of which was well ripe in September, and the juice marked twelve degrees B., although grown on a rich dark soil. The other crop was on a thin gravel and clay soil and late planted, yet the juice made a light, pleasant sirup from cane, quite unripe. I found in the yard a pile of Amber, the stalks quite small and dry as compared to the Orange. It appears that the Orange is best for Ohio, as well as your state. It will do better when more fully acclimated. The lot first referred to was from seed grown the year before by Ely Guess, Carroll county, Ohio, whose crop yielded over 300 gallons per acre. Your success in obtaining a stand from the same seed which others claimed to be faulty, is an evidence that the Early Orange is reliable.

If Mr. Seth Kenney would give the Pioneer Press readers his opinion of the Early Orange it would be acceptable to very many parties interested in sorghum culture.

A Grass Diet for Pigs.

How to grow pigs, so that fat and lean shall alternate the same as in cattle is a problem which a writer in the Home Weekly attempts to meet as follows: It is, he says, quite possible to do it. The greatest obstacle to it is the general method adopted in feeding pigs. They are fed on food merely adapted to lay fat on and with scant proportion of albuminoids to grow the muscles or lean meat. Pigs have thus been grown and fattened for so long a time that they seem to have taken on only lean meat enough to hold the body together. Except when on grass the pig is plied almost wholly with corn, which is excessively rich in starch and fat. Some breeds have become so constituted that they will get fat on grass. The pig, in its natural state, does not get excessively fat, but is nearly as lean as a beef animal. If young animals are fed on nitrogeneous food, such as skimmed milk and grass, they will be found to grow rapidly, extend the frame and muscular system, and having only fat enough to round out the body to comely shape. Pigs should always be full fed, but this does not necessarily mean cramming with corn, which merely piles on fat till the young pig becomes diseased. It is in this mode of feeding for so many hundred generations that has transformed our swine into lumps of fat, with a few strings of muscle to tie the ball together. To reverse this work of impropper feeding will take some time, but it can and must be done. Witness the change from those overgrown fat hogs which were bragged of years ago, but are now seldom seen because the market does not call for them. We do not undervalue corn, which is the best fattening food the American farmer possesses, but we should be glad to have them avoid its too free use in feeding pigs, and substitute a more nitrogeneous food, such as oats, peas, bran or middlings, a little oil meal, decorticated cotton seed meal, rye, bran or barley—any of these. Corn may be fed sparingly, with clover or skim milk. Our Canadian neighbors can raise fat and lean pork with grass, peas, barley and corn. We must have a grass diet for pigs generally, and with this grain may be fed. Farmers sometimes forget that the pig is a grass eating animal as much as the horse, and needs fibrous food to keep him healthy. Nicely cured clover is relished by pigs in winter, especially when raised on grass. If you want fat and lean pork a strictly corn diet must be reserved to the last stage of feeding, simply to harden the pork; yet a little corn may be fed all through the life of the pig, only giving more nitrogeneous foods with it. Pork grown in this way is relished by most people and will always find a ready local market.

The Abolition of Petticoats.

It would appear that the doctrine of woman's emancipation from the trammels of feminine dress, promulgated with considerable vigor by the matrons of the United States have recently been enthusiastically adopted by an association of German women, which under the significant title of "Clothing League for the Abolition of Petticoats," recently held its first meeting in a concert room of the Brunne strasse, Berlin. A chairwoman having been duly elected, the proceedings were opened by an eloquent speech setting forth the inconveniences and disadvantages, from a sanitary point of view, of the flowing garment hitherto deemed appropriate wear of civilized females. This discourse pronounced it to be a sacred duty of every member of the association, to discard with the utmost promptitude such objectionable raiment, typical of all the disabilities wrongfully ascribed to women by her oppressor—man—to assume in its stead a "dualistic covering for the legs, as well as for the arms." This daring programme of action was hailed with acclamations of approval by all save one, a Frau Peters, who courageously stood up for the de no longer petticoat, upon the ground that it was far more becoming than trousers to members of the female sex. Her protesting voice, however, was drowned in a storm of indignant clamor, and a resolution embodying the sentiments previously enunciated carried by an overwhelming majority of the fair ladies.

The Rev. Josiah Tyler, D. D., and daughter have sailed for the Zulu mission, Natal, South Africa, although Dr. Tyler's health is not improved, as he had hoped, by his journey to his native land. He has seen over thirty years in South Africa.

CONCLUSION OF THE TRIAL OF C. C. WATSON IN 'SQUIRE ROBESON'S COURT, ON THE CHARGE OF PROCURING AN ABORTION, AND THE DEFENDANT HELD TO ANSWER.

Continuation of Mrs. Brown's cross examination: In saying we will see about it, I meant Mr. Watson should keep his mouth shut about me, and I intended him to understand the same thing; then left the store and returned in about 25 or 30 minutes and inquired at the store door for W. C. Thomas, the Deputy Sheriff, having been to the Court-house in the mean time; had not then made the complaint; when I had this talk with Mr. Watson I was a little excited; I meant I was going to see if I could not put Mr. Watson where he could not talk about me; I sent for Mr. Thomas, by George Coleman; do not know that Mr. Watson sent for him for me; Mr. Thomas came to me from the corner of Mr. Ferry's store alone; did not hear Mr. Watson ask Jesse Kellogg to go to the billiard hall and tell Mr. Thomas a lady wanted to see him; came to the Court-house with Mr. Thomas, but did not file the complaint that night; made it next day; my parents or brother did not through me, know of my intention to make the complaint; do not know when they first knew of my making the complaint; neither my parents nor my brother have counseled me to abandon or to proceed with this matter since I made the complaint; I am pursuing it as of my own motion; I am influenced in my action in this matter by no one; I have been married once, to David Brown, in 1874, in Emporia, Lyon county, Kansas, against the will of my father, but not that of mother; my home and domestic life, prior to marriage, had not been pleasant; two children were born to me by David Brown; the oldest child will be six years old next month; he was not a man of any considerable means, when I was married to him; was not compelled, outside of ordinary household duties, to assist him in making a living; up to the last time I saw him he yielded me a proper support as a husband; I resided with him as his wife in Joplin, Mo.; saw him last about three years ago last March; the children were then alone; have been in Caldwell, Kansas; yesterday, I stated to the court I had never been there; stayed there three or four days—one or two days at the Leland Hotel, and the rest of the time at Robert Brown's, my brother in law; do not know if he was married; he had a woman he called his wife; he was not in any business when I was there; there was an other woman about the house; after returning to Cottonwood Falls I understood Robt. Brown was keeping a house of ill fame; he kept me locked up about a day and a half while there; because he thought I was not in a fit condition to go away; he used no force to compel me to stay there; after leaving Cottonwood Falls, and before going to Caldwell, I went to Emporia, from there to Newton, from there to Wyandotte, and from there to Caldwell; it was about a week or so over a month after leaving Cottonwood Falls, before I reached Caldwell; in Emporia I saw the gentlemen who keeps the clothing store there, and Otto D. Rasmussen and all the gentlemen in Mr. Newman's store; did not see O. C. Pratt in any of the places named, after becoming with child; went to Newton to see if I could be confined, because I thought I was going to; was very sick when I went to Wyandotte; went there to see a physician; saw one; don't recollect his name; I told what was the matter with me, and asked him to help me to get rid of it; he did nothing in the matter; saw another physician; stayed there about two weeks; he told me I had taken enough medicine to kill me; saw him but once; I wanted him finish the work that had already been begun on me, that is, I wanted him to assist me in procuring an abortion on me; gave my name there as Mary Brown, of Cottonwood Falls;

Re-direct examination.—Mr. J.

W. Ferry, Mr. C. C. Watson, Mr. A. W. Harris, Mr. F. P. Cochran, and plenty have visited me in my room since I made the complaint; plenty of others, but not concerning this case; Mr. Ferry asked me what I would take to not have this matter all scandalized over the county; I told him I did not want anything; Mr. Harris had not much to say to me that day; Mrs. Hinckley sent a note for me to come over to her hotel, that she wanted to see me; I went over there; and saw Mr. Harris; Mr. Harris told me I had committed myself, and as a friend he came to tell me about it; Mr. Watson was with Mr. Harris the first time he visited me at my room in the Union Hotel; and Mr. Cochran was with him the second time; Mr. Watson wanted to know if I would not take $100 and let the case drop; Mr. Cochran wanted to know if I would not take something reasonable, and said if I would, the Justice said he would tear the case from the docket; it was Mr. and Mrs. Watson was trying to buy me to marry James Watson; they offered to fix me up in house-keeping if I would marry him; Mrs. Hinckley thought I was in trouble again and wanted me to marry him and put it on to him; Mr. Watson gave the same reason; at the time Mr. Harris had the conversation with me at Mrs. Hinckley's he laid his hand on me and tried to kiss me; he told me I had left myself liable to go to the penitentiary, and if I would let the thing drop he would make the thing all right; I left Cottonwood Falls, in June, 1880, when I went to Emporia and the other places heretofore named; I went at the instance of C. C. Watson, and he paid my expenses; at Newton I saw C. C. Watson, and he gave me about $35 or $40 there, telling me to take that and not to come home until this thing was over with; I went to Wyandotte, at his advice; he told me to see a doctor there, and see if I could not have this abortion completed I stopped at Mrs. Ann Deckers, in Wichita, I think, about a month and a half; received a communication from C. C. Watson while I was there, and he called to see me, and gave me money to pay my board bill, telling me that he would send me more to pay my doctor's bill, and that I should come home after I was well; after leaving Wichita, in the latter part of August, 1880, I came home to Cottonwood Falls; in the latter part of March or fore part of April, 1880, I went to Chicago with Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Watson, he paying my expenses; I went to see what could be done about my case; stayed there about a week; went to see four or five doctors and a midwife while there; went from there to Bloomington, Ill., accompanied by C. C. Watson; went to see a physician in Bloomington; C. C. Watson paid my expenses there; came to Cottonwood Falls, from Bloomington; it was in February, 1880, that I discovered I was with child; went to my father's house, for a few days, after coming from Bloomington; from there I went to C. C. Watson's, about the middle of April; before I took the trip to Chicago Mr. C. C. Watson suggested to me that I had better take medicine to produce an abortion; he gave me about five or six bottles of medicine; I think I took the biggest portion of each bottle, and it was at his house, Mr. and Mrs. Watson being present part of the time; I felt quite badly after taking a bottle of the medicine; it was in Chase county, Kansas, that I took the medicine; I was in Wichita about August 10, 1880, and gave birth to a child, of which C. C. Watson was the father, and which died a few days afterwards; after leaving Wichita, and on returning to Chase county, I stayed about three weeks with my parents, on Fox creek; I went from there to C. C. Watson's; it took about $30 to carry me to Wichita, taking into consideration the other places I visited before getting there; I went to Mr. Dick, or O. C. Pratt's the day before I made this complaint, to see him about a letter Mr. Watson had opened, belonging to me, from him.

Cross examination.—While in Wichita, I told Mrs. Ann Decker I was married to J. W. Ferry, a merchant of Cottonwood Falls; I told her I had trouble with him, but not that he whipped me; do not recollect telling her that we had trouble about the marriage certificate, and that I did not want any children by him; if I had such a conversation with Mrs. Decker, it was false; went to see Dr. Owens in Wichita, and he made an examination of me, at his request, with a view to ascertaining my then condition; I saw one doctor in Bloomington, one in Wyandotte, and one in Wichita; I told Dr. Owens my name was Mary Brown; I changed my name to Mary Ferry after I went to Ann Decker's; I did not offer to compromise the differences between me and Mr. Watson for $1,000; I was in Wellington two or three days; saw Dr. Owens the second year after I was married; if I ever saw a man named Lloyd, it was at Joplin, Missouri, while he boarded at our house; when I went to see Dr. Owens, in Wichita, I wanted him to procure an abortion on me; when I saw Jim Hurley, formerly of Cottonwood Falls, in Caldwell, I was at liberty; Bob Brown let me loose of his own accord; from there I went to Wellington; told Ann Decker I had been in that house of ill fame in Caldwell; did not tell her I had been stopping with a man named Brown; the day I went to O. C. Pratt's, with Mr. and Mrs. Sington, we did not talk about this case at all, it was the letter business; was not in a house of ill fame in Caldwell, that is, I did not know it at the time; did tell Mrs. Decker that I went down to the store of James Ferry, dressed in a new brown dress, and asked him if I did not look pretty, and wanted him to acknowledge me as his wife, and he told me I would have to wait until he got his pension, and we had a quarrel over the marriage certificate, but not that he whipped me, all of which was false; I may have told Mrs. Decker that he gave me a marriage ring costing about $25, but that I had lost it; if so, it was false; at his request, and prior to this, I did show a large plain gold ring, with the word "Jim" inscribed in it, to one or two ladies in Cottonwood Falls, telling them it was my engagement ring with him, which was false; Dr. Owens was present at my delivery; when Mrs. Decker came here to see me about the balance of my board bill, I told C. C. Watson about it, and he said it had been paid, and gave me an old pistol, which I put in my pocket, he telling me to scare her away with it; I went to his house with the pistol in my pocket and told Mrs. Watson about it, and she told Mrs. Decker I was mad and had a pistol, and that she had better leave.

Dr. Owens sworn.—When Mrs. Brown first came to see me she told me she wished me to help her to procure an abortion; examined her about three days afterwards and found she was further gone than she stated, and would soon be confined; about three weeks afterwards was called to see her, found her in labor, and the child was born; it was what is termed a dry birth; I would judge it was an eight months' child; according to my experience, a child born under those circumstances can not live long; according to my opinion, a teaspoonful of the oil of tansy will produce death; I never use it in my practice; at the advance stage of the child when it was born an abortion might be produced by mechanical means but not by drugs; it is very seldom an abortion is produced by drugs; the child was perfect, and I saw no indication upon it of drugs having been administered to its mother.

The State here rested its case, and Dr. Owens was put on the stand for the defense; but as the substance of his testimony is embraced in the foregoing, we will not here repeat it, further than he said Mrs. Brown told him she had been married to J. W. Ferry long enough to have a nine months' child by him.

Dr. W. H. Carter, being sworn, stated nearly about the same thing as Dr. Owens, in regard to dry births, and the effects of medicines, except that he thinks the oil of tansy a stronger medicine than Dr. Owens had stated; he said both U. S. Dispensaries give the dose of the oil of tansy from 3 to 10 drops; a teaspoonful is 60 drops, and it would produce instantaneous death; do not think oil of tansy will pro-

ODD ABUSE OF A GENTLEMAN.

His Hat Used to Breed Chickens in and His Eye Pecked. On October 21, among a party in Bradley's saloon, across the street from the court house in Paterson, the question arose as to the possibility of raising chickens by a new process.

At this moment the attention of Dr. Haymes, one of the party, and a gentleman well known and highly esteemed in Paterson, was diverted to an adjoining room by ex-Alderman Bowering, who is supposed to have been concerned in a plot which was subsequently carried out.

At this moment Dr. Haymes returned to his companions, and, noticing his hat in what he supposed to be jeopardy, he attempted to snatch it from the table and extinguish the flames.

Dr. Haymes engaged for his counsel ex-Judge Millard and Mr. Henry E. Samuels. His representation of the case to them was such that he placed the damages at $2,000.

Dr. Haymes, who is an Englishman by birth, assured him that it meant "bummer" or "gin pig," the dictionary told Mr. Samuels that it meant one who is "slow, lazy or lean," and in "Oliver Twist," as is well known, "swipes" is the expression employed by the Jew Fagin to denote pocket handkerchiefs, which his pupils used to abstract from the pockets of absent minded old gentlemen.

On Friday one of the defendants in the case, being authorized by the others, offered to compromise the suit by a payment of $10. This offer was made by Mr. Wesley Buckley, son of ex-mayor and Senator Buckley, who had been a personal friend of the plaintiff.

The trial will be held some time during the coming week. The defendants, well known in Paterson and in political circles elsewhere, are Jacob H. Blauvelt, city clerk; Robert Burke, deputy sheriff, John Bowering, ex-alderman; Charles M. King, assistant surrogate; John Smith and Theodore Schoonmaker, first and second deed clerks in the county clerk's office; Robert Vanderberg, news agent; C. C. Van Hanten, a belt manufacturer, and James Bradley, proprietor of the saloon in which the alleged assault occurred.

Zebulon M. Ward, D. B. English, R. F. Stevens, Monson Force, L. V. Harold, W. J. St. Lawrence, Francis Scott and De Witt C. Bolton. Dr. Haymes was a candidate for coroner before the nominating convention, and was defeated by only six votes.

Farming in Dakota.

"Yes, sir," resumed the Dakota man, as the crowd of agriculturists drew back from the bar, and seated themselves around a little table, "yes, sir, we do things on rather a sizable scale. I've seen a man on one of our big farms start out in the spring and plow a straight furrow until fall. Then he turned round and harvested back."

"Carry my grub with him?" asked a Brooklyn farmer, who raises cabbages on the outskirts. "No, sir. They follow him up with a steam hotel and have relays of men to change plows for him. We have some big farms up there, gentlemen. A friend of mine owned one on which he had to give a mortgage, and I pledge you my word, the mortgage was due on one end before they could get it recorded at the other. You see it was laid off in counties."

"There was a murmur of astonishment, and the Dakota man continued: "I got a letter from a man who lives in my orchard just before I left home, and it had been three weeks getting to the dwelling house, though it traveled day and night."

"Distances are pretty wide up there, ain't they?" inquired a New Utrecht agriculturist. "Reasonably, reasonably," replied the Dakota man. "And the worst of it is, it breaks up families so. Two years ago I saw a whole family prostrated with grief. Women yelling, children howling, and dogs barking. One of my men had his camp truck packed on seven, four mule teams, and he was around bidding every body good-by."

"Where was he going?" asked a Gravesend man. "He was going half way across the farm to feed the pigs," replied the Dakota man. "Did he ever get back to his family?" "It is time for him yet," returned the Dakota gentleman. "Up there we send young married couples to milk the cows, and their children bring home the milk."

"I understand you have fine mines up that way," ventured a Jamaica turnip planter. "Yes, but we only use the quartz for fencing," said the Dakota man, testing the blade of his knife with his thumb, preparatory to whetting it on his boot. "It won't pay to crush it, because we can make more money on wheat. I put in $9,000 townships of wheat last spring."

"How many acres would that be?" "We don't count by acres. We count by townships and counties. My yield was $63,000,000 on wheat alone, and I'm thinking of breaking up from $0 to 100 more counties next season."

"How do you get the help for such extensive operations?" asked the New Utrecht man. "Oh, labor is cheap," replied the Dakota man. "You can get all you want for from $20 to $47 a day. In fact I never paid over $38."

"Is it cheap?" "No, land is high. Not that it costs any thing, for it don't; but under the laws of the territory, you have got to take so much or none. I was in luck. Had a friend at Yankton who got a bill through the legislature allowing me to take 420,000 square miles, which is the smallest farm there, though it is—"

"Look here," said the barkeeper, as the eastern husbandman stroked out in a lurch to consider the last statement. "Is all this thing you've been telling true?" "Certainly," responded the western man; "at least it is a modification of what I saw in a Dakota paper that was wrapped around a pair of shoes last night. I didn't dare put it as strong as the paper did, for no one believe it. You can state that last round of drinks and I'll say in the morning, I live right here on Myrtle avenue."

Nobody told, for nobody knew. How sweetly the pure little violet grew; How it came through the earth and the frost and the dew, And lifted its head to the heaven so blue.

SILVER CREEK, N. Y., Feb. 6, 1880. GENTS—I have been very low, and have tried every thing, to no advantage. I heard your Hop Bitters recommended by so many, I concluded to give them a trial, and now am around, and constantly improving, and am nearly as strong as ever.

Thousands of ladies to-day cherish grateful remembrances of the help derived from the use of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It positively cures all female complaints. Send to Mrs. Lydia E. Pinkham, 233 Western Avenue, Lynn, Mass., for pamphlets.

A rose colored satin toilet worn at a recent literary entertainment was draped with a costly real Spanish lace overdress, which had been previously worn for years and drawn him out shape. He resorted to every remedy known to physicians, but found no relief until he tried Dr. Jacobs Oil, the bottle of which effected a complete and radical cure.

A VETERAN SEAMAN'S TROUBLE. Editor John Jacob, Chicago, Ill.—I send you this, feeling that the information conveyed will be of material benefit to many of your readers. One of our oldest seamen, Captain C. W. Boynton, the Government Light-house keeper at this point, is probably one of the oldest seamen in America, having sailed twenty years on the salt water. After this forty-six years' service his eyesight failed him and he kept the Light at Chicago until the Government built the Great Point Light house, when he was transferred. While seated in my store this morning the Captain volunteered the following statement: "It is to my regret that I have been afflicted with rheumatism for twenty (20) years, both in my arm and limbs. I am handicapped that I cannot do the least thing for myself, though still limping somewhat when walking. I have tried every medicine, but have not found relief. The following facts, which I might add to numerous similar cases that have come to my notice, I think will be of interest to you."

Mr. Patterson meant that he said. I hereby certify that my boy, 10 years of age, was taken sick with typhoid fever, followed by congestion of the lungs. Dr. Dyer, an eminent physician of this place, stated that he thought the boy would run down, but that he had discovered a cure. Mr. Patterson told me that Coe's Cough Balm was curing similar cases, and advised me to purchase it. When I carried it home my wife laughed at me; but I knew that Mr. Patterson was right, and I determined to try it. Two bottles effectually cured him, so that now he is as tough and healthy as anybody.

Obstinate Case Cured. J. W. Gilliland, a school teacher at Buckner, Mo., had for years suffered from gravel, from which he sought relief in vain, until he used Dr. Dickson's Kidney & Bladder of the Kansas City Surgical Institute, who cured him.

"Rough on Rats." The thing desired found at last. Ask druggists for "Rough on Rats." It clears out rats, mice, roaches, fleas, bed bugs, lice, boxes, and all other vermin.

Mensman's Peptonized Beef Tonic is the only preparation of beef containing its entire nutritious properties. Editorial Approval. Mr. W. J. Melvin, editor Warren (Mass.) Herald, was cured of severe neuralgia by the use of St. Jacobs Oil.

Black jet pokes are worn by matrons and elderly ladies. A handsome poke has a border of small beads and a jotted crown covered with pendant beads. A hand run Spanish lace scarf is draped across the top and ends in strings; a cluster of plumes trim the hat at one side.

MESSES, J. R. BENNETT & CO., Muskegon, Mich., thus speak: St. Jacobs Oil is the best liniment around here. We sell more of it than any other proprietary medicine we have in our store. Our customers are continually praising its effective qualities; and we think that it is the best remedy for rheumatism, neuralgia, etc. we have ever had in stock.—Muskegon (Lower) Daily Journal.

The Illuminator. The existence of good feeling on the part of the French Nation for the people of this country is shown by the presentation of a colored lantern figure to the colony of Liberty. Beauty, truth and usefulness, is combined in this immense work of art, as the bright, shining torch will serve the purpose of a beacon light in the harbor of New York. These are the great work above referred to. It is illustrated here.

with, and represents the Jacob holding in his hand that beacon which will guide aright all sailing upon the sea of life, whose waters abound with shoals and dangers of grief, sorrow and disease. The light it casts is designed to show that St. Jacobs Oil is the true and trusted means of keeping the body in its proper course, and of curing and "righting" it should it be unfortunately cast upon the shoals of rheumatism or other painful ailments. Thousands of grateful ones throughout the world have proved the value and felt the good of this Great German Remedy, and are giving to recommendation the names of just such a remedy. In this connection Mr. John S. Briggs, a well known citizen of New York, holds a certificate of rheumatism in his back. The disease, which had been prevailing upon him for years, and drawn him out shape. He resorted to every remedy known to physicians, but found no relief until he tried St. Jacobs Oil, the bottle of which effected a complete and radical cure. Another case may justly reference:
