

WIND CANS ON THE FARM

Birmingham News prints interesting letter from an farmer:

"Alabama is coming a remedy for the ills is the easiest and so easy that it is actually simple. Nothing of the adverse element can prevent being the richest in the world if they do the following:

1. In the morning in September and go to the barn and their mules home and hay, their hogs and home-raised corn and milk, and carry home one or more sets of milk; sit down and eat of home-raised biscuit shorten-corn, home-raised lard, milk, home-raised syrup or go to work, come to a dinner of potatoes, beans or cooked with home butter, milk, home bread and then made from peaches or blackberries the place.

2. The remedy if the crop is planted the only agricultural that God gave to man, not deteriorate kept in a dry place, get to insect damage and corn, and does to be fed like livestock as long as our farm of tin cans and paper and feed their livestock sacks it will be all business."

Alabama farmer has a conception of what is to improve the condition of the Southern farmer as Grady, and he states hardly less eloquence and the famous Georgia as cans and sacks and animals on farms, farming in the remain a downhill Star-Telegram.

PUT 'EM IN THE COTTON PATCH

The cities and towns of Texas are filled with bums, people who don't work and won't work, and yet there are thousands of acres of cotton that require immediate picking! We have traveled recently more than four hundred miles thru the cotton sections of South Texas and we can say that there are thousands of acres of cotton that should have been gathered weeks ago. If it should happen that we have a hurricane on the Texas coast it would do immeasurable harm and no chances should be taken on losing the cotton that is open by not having it picked.

In times past our municipal authorities exerted themselves to send the floating population to the cotton fields and they should exert themselves along this line again. Why should people be permitted to lay around the cities and towns and beg and steal and complain of hard times and no work when there is plenty of good, healthful work in the open at good wages.

Not long ago a fellow who owned a dollar and a quarter, on being asked why he did not go to the cotton patch, said he could pick 500 pounds a day, but he was waiting for the price of picking to come up to $1.00 per hundred. Plenty like him would rather eke out two or three dollars a week in the city than make 75 cents per hundred, or $3.75 per day picking cotton and with no extra expenses, and cheaper living.

It has been eleven years since a West Indian hurricane hit the coast of Texas. We may have another. The cotton should be picked right now.—Southwestern Resources.

VATICAN

Few people realize that the Vatican, the residence of the Pope at Rome, is the largest and richest palace in the world. It contains 11,000 rooms, chapels and living apartments, of all sizes, including halls. There are 80 grand staircases and 200 smaller ones. Nobody can estimate the value of the treasures stored in this building, but they include all of the gifts of jewels and precious metals which have been made to the successive Popes by devout Catholics for 1,500 years. There are tens of thousands of paintings and art objects each worth a fortune.

"Rockefeller himself could hardly pay for the tapestries and paintings in the Vatican and Henry Ford would be bankrupt before he had half finished, if he started to purchase these treasures at their actual value," says James T. Nichols who recently returned from Rome.—Exchange.

The State Board of Education Monday opened bids for the award of school book contracts worth $1,250,000 and heard at length a protest of West Texas citizens and chambers of commerce against treatment of the state in geographies now in use. The protest of West Texans against the assertion in geographies that West Texas is an arid land, was started by a 19-year-old student, who, on reading in his geography that his county grew no cotton, questioned his teacher concerning it. The matter was aired before the board and referred to the textbook revision committee for further consideration. The board assured those appearing before it that it was their intention to adopt a geography that presented all states and territories to the school child with fairness.

Egyptians are given credit in the meager, recorded history of the wheel, for first developing the idea centuries before the Christian era. Following the development of sleds, the wheel principle was first used by placing rollers under the skids. Another development which embodied the wheel principle was used in construction of the pyramids. Large blocks of stone, with sharp corners, were bundled in small poles and tightly wrapped, so that they could be rolled. Ropes were then placed under the bundle and slaves could move much greater weights. From these beginnings came the idea that rollers could be made part of the sled. The first wheels were probably cylinder-like, but in time wooden or stone rollers were carved out to form an axle in the center, and from this step came individual wheels, crude as they may have been.

CUSTOM CHANGED

When good things are obtainable free of charge there is an awful scramble at the door. When debts shall be canceled by imperial ukase all those who owe and are acquitted of their obligations will regret not having gone in deeper. The Chinese used to make it a rule to pay all their debts at the new year and start over again. It was a fine old Oriental custom. But, like many other customs of that quarter, it is passing away under the pressure of Western ideas. The Western idea is to substitute a lot of credit for a little cash.

In China today, hard times are beating down the characteristic calm of the people. Revolution has sapped the governmental treasury, the bandits have robbed and burned their way across more than one important province. Worse than all, perhaps, the silver money of the people has depreciated by 50 per cent in two years. It is declared that one billion people use the silver standard of value, therefore, when that standard is lowered it lowers their purchasing power. But this phase of it is not as bad as it appears on the surface. Silver has depreciated on account of quantity. If the silver coin of China is worth less now than a year ago, there are more such coins. Give the people peace and they will work out their economic salvation everywhere. Peace mints coins and war

THE WEEVIL'S GONNA GETCHA IF YOU DON'T WATCH OUT!

You better plow your ground this fall, an' throw the stalks all out
An' plant a good clean cover crop ef you know what you're about.
An' you better plant good healthy seed, an' fertilize, an' plow, jest ev'ry day next season that th' weather will allow;
'Cause th' first warm days th' weevil's gonna jump on ev'ry row.

Drum Is Found To Be Basis of Modern Orchestra

BERNARD BARTON

Bernard Barton's Playing of Instrument Gives True Rating

New York City.—Though the drum is ordinarily relegated to the back of the orchestra, there are some super-drummers who bring it to the fore. Bernard Barton, manager of the Weede Meyer Orchestra, is one great musician who is a drummer.

"Though the basis of our music is the African drum, the drum has not been developed as have the other instruments in the band," Barton apologizes for his adored medium. "Yet the tom-tom beat of the drums from tribe to tribe in Africa has made the basis for American jazz. Though we have appropriated, we have done little to elaborate this beat.

"Musicians as a rule do not take the drum seriously and it is only on rare occasions that one gets the musical value out of the instrument. Yet it would not be possible to have a dance orchestra without a drum, although any other instrument might be substituted for it. Drum beats are the teeth of the band."

Mr. Barton has studied the drum in many lands, he says. "In Haiti, natives often drop from exhaustion, trying to keep up with the rhythm of their elongated tom-tom."

"Many of our most popular tunes are real drum numbers and I am surprised that more leaders don't take advantage of the possibilities of the instrument. 'What's the Use?' the fox trot ballad that is played and sung everywhere, is typical of the kind of dance tune that shows no possibilities at their best."

Painful Condition

"When I was just a girl at home," writes Mrs. B. F. Riggan, of Baird, Texas, "I took Cardui for cramping and pains in my side and back, and it helped me at that time."

"After I was married, I found myself in a weak, run-down condition. I suffered a great deal with my back, which was so weak it hurt me to get up or when I would stand on my feet. I fell off in weight."

"A friend of mine, seeing how bad I felt, advised me to take Cardui, which I did. By the time I had taken two bottles, I felt stronger and better than I had in a long time."

A hitch-hiker thought himself lucky when he caught a ride from Austin to Dallas, but the car went into the ditch near Alvarado, when there was a head-on collision with another car, and the hitch-hiker was killed. The driver of the car was not seriously hurt.

A most remarkable case was that of a young lady who died in Oklahoma City Sunday from the effects of witnessing a fatal accident at a grade crossing. A freight train struck an automobile and killed the man driving it. She went home and told her mother that the accident made her sick, soon lapsed into unconsciousness and died. Physicians say the cause of the death was cerebral hemorrhage, the effect of a shock.

A cotton crop of approximately 2,000,000 bales grown in Russian territory is anticipated by the Soviet Government, according to a Moscow dispatch to the New York Times, which will about meet the needs of the Soviet mills. Purchases of American cotton this year have been reduced, owing to the enlarged purchase of tractors and other agricultural machinery, resulting in the textile industry there working about half time.

Assurance was given Sunday by the Federal Reserve Board that ample credit facilities were available for orderly movement of agricultural crops to market. In its monthly review of business and financial conditions the board said ample credit for this purpose was issued through the exceptionally strong position of the Reserve Banks, the prevailing ease in credit conditions, the low level of money rates, and the attitude of the Federal Reserve system.

After tossing swirling flood waters of the Canadian river for ten miles, clinging to wrecked age, Thomas L. Gill, 21, of Amarillo, was rescued early Sunday by Borger firemen, who lowered a rope from a bridge in time to catch Gill's outstretched arms as he floated under the bridge. The flood water had washed out 400 feet of a Rock Island railway bridge, hurling Gill and two other men into the river. The structure is a combination railway and automobile bridge near Sanford, fifteen miles west of Borger.

Politics was responsible for the refusal of the American Legion at its recent Boston convention to go on record for legislation directing immediate payment by the Government of the bonus certificates issued to veterans of the World War, according to Representative Wright Patman of the Texas district, who attended the convention. Mr. Patman was a divisional delegate from north east Texas and served as member of the legislative committee that passed on resolutions pertaining to veteran legislation.

The scheming of A. D. Payne, Amarillo attorney who caused the death of his wife by a dynamite blast, then killed himself with an explosive while in the jail at that place, came to at least partial fulfillment Saturday when his children were paid $12,000 by the insurance company. Payne, in a written confession before his death, said he planned his wife's death and his own in order that their children might have the money from their insurance policies. The payment Saturday was in settlement on the two policies, $10,000 on Payne's life and $5,000 on his wife. The company paid $9,000 on the larger policy and $3,000 on the smaller one.

KONJOLA ENDS NEURITIS AND OTHER AILMENTS

Fort Worth Lady Eagerly Praises New Medicine That Brought Quick Relief—Others Failed

MRS. LOUISE LEE

"My health was in a bad condition for over a year," said Mrs. Louise Lee, 2922 South Main Street, Fort Worth. "I was very nervous and the least noise upset me. I did not sleep well at night. I had neuritis in my shoulders and arms and often found my housework more than I could do. My stomach was weak and food fermented causing heartburn and headaches. My kidneys were affected and my back was stiff and sore all the time."

Konjola certainly gave me the surprise of my life. By the time I had finished the third bottle, my nervous condition had been righted. Neuritis pains and soreness have vanished and there is not a trace of that ailment now. My food agrees with me and I can now eat anything I wish. My kidneys are again normal."

It is just such endorsements as this that the record of Konjola is made up. It is recommended for ailments of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness.

Konjola is sold in Goldthwaite, Texas, at Hudson Bros. Drug Store, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this entire section.

Columbus Day was celebrated in Goldthwaite Monday by the banks taking a holiday.

SYMBOLS OF PROGRESS

Roads, symbols of civilization, have been closely linked with the progress of the United States. The future expansion of farm-to-market highways will mean less congestion in cities and less isolation for the farmer.

Highways are essential to our modern civilization. They are one of the mediums of quick communication upon which our social and industrial existence depends. Their construction in times of depression, as urged by the American Farm Bureau Federation, is one of the best possible means of relieving unemployment. Every dollar spent for roads is turned many times over to the community in the coin of service.

At present especial attention is being given to the construction of surfaced, year-round, farm-to-market roads. In the opinion of experts such roads, which are being built economically with asphaltic road oils, are vitally necessary to the future progress of agriculture. Those states which are now embarking on secondary road building programs are laying the foundation for permanent agricultural prosperity.

ANALYZING CRIME

On Sept. 1, the first governmental bureau for the compilation of statistics on law violators began to function.

The bureau, according to the department of justice, does not represent a new idea. It has long been advocated and has been tried in a smaller way by various police associations, but with little success, due to lack of co-operation between states. Its operation by the government will make it possible to analyze crime statistics in this country and throughout the world.

Such a bureau may prove to be of inestimable value in the fight against crime. In the past we have gone blindly forward without sufficient knowledge on which to base conclusions. It is generally recognized that scientific knowledge is necessary to society if it is to achieve the utmost in efficiency in apprehending and punishing criminals.

OLD AND NEW WHEELS

It can be truthfully stated that American civilization came on wagon wheels. For centuries before, in other countries, explorers and pioneers had made their ways into new lands and used the wheel as the means of moving their burdens. Today we take the wheel in its various forms as a matter of course—but upon it, every railroad train, every grain binder, every wagon depends. Yet only a relatively few years ago, observes the research department of the National Equipment Manufacturers, the inhabitants of North America knew nothing of wheels. They transported their belongings on the backs of horses, or on poles, dragged behind. Although the fact is not mentioned to any extent in history, it is true that when the North American Indian first saw carts and wagons carried on wheels he was intensely fascinated by these contraptions, new to him.

New Freedom of Women Raises Standard of Music

BARNEY RAPP

Night Club Also Marks A Step in Social Advancement

New Haven, Connecticut.—The passing of the dance hall and the advent of the night club marks a step in social advancement which is reflected in the present day music, asserts Barney Rapp, musical director of the Terrace Restaurant here.

"The new freedom of women demanded that all places of amusement be open to them and the standard had to be raised to meet their demands," says Mr. Rapp. "This step also raised the morale of the boys. They are better behaved than they used to be in the so-called dance hall.

"The effect on music has been requests for sweet music of the ballad type instead of the former popular 'hot' tunes. The sweeter the tune and the more the more requests. 'Since Maggie Became Marguerite,' the waltz song asked for by everyone, gets the biggest hand and often I have to play it a half dozen times an evening."

Mr. Rapp is a famous broadcasting artist and his brother is Lou Rapp, former captain of the Yale water polo team and all-American water polo player for three years, who sings with the band.

THE GOLDTHWAITE EAGLE

Reports received in Goldthwaite the early part of the week stated that Mrs. Lowell Smith, nee Gladys Brown, was dangerously sick at her home in Rio Vista. Her mother, Mrs. M. L. Brown, of Brownwood, and other relatives were called to her bedside and later reports announce an improvement, although she is not yet out of danger. The Brown family lived here a good many years ago and have many friends throughout the county.

TOPDRESSING MAY SAVE NEW SEEDINGS

Many new seedings, injured by drouth, may yet be saved by top dressing this fall with manure, according to the New York extension service, which reports also that in certain cases the addition of a phosphorous fertilizer will prove profitable. The research department of the National Association of Farm Equipment Manufacturers finds that where meadows are topdressed it is especially important that a light, even coating be applied, such as is possible only with a mechanical spreader which thoroughly pulverizes the litter. On account of the great expense in seeding alfalfa, clover and grass it is evident that many farmers who are not yet using both lime and manure before planting could do so to insure better stands. That lime creates a favorable environment for the plants and greatly increases the effectiveness of manure is shown in Illinois tests that when used together nearly five times the increase in yield is secured as compared to the use of manure alone.

BALE AND STORE HAY AT PROFIT

Agricultural economists at Ohio State University, believe that two periods of relatively high prices for hay may be expected during the coming season. The first is at the beginning of the season and is reflected now in a strong price for good quality hay. A second period of higher prices is likely in late winter when numerous farmers have exhausted their supplies of hay and roughage, which they now estimate will carry their livestock through until spring pastures appear. Those who will have hay to sell, will in all probability get a higher price in late winter, provided they can not sell now with out endangering their own feeding plans, the research department of the National Association of Farm Equipment Manufacturers suggests. Hay to be marketed in late winter or spring may well be baled now and stored under cover. It will then be in readiness for market at once if the owner decides he has a surplus.

We had a most distinguished visitor in the Valley Sunday night and he left a brand new eleven pound boy with Mr. and Mrs. Wallace, who are visiting the Renfro's.

Mrs. Renfro has just returned from West Texas, where she was visiting relatives.

It is with sincere sympathy and regret that we learned of the death of Mrs. Weaver's father, Mrs. Weaver and daughter, Flora, and sons, Howard and Floyd, have returned from Oklahoma, where they attended the funeral.

Drastic changes are being made in Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ataway's house. You would hardly know it.

Mr. Stark, who it seems, is quite a singer, visited the Swims Tuesday.

Miss Mary Cockrell, who is teaching in Locker, was a visitor in the Cockrell home Saturday and Sunday.

The Colorado River has reached the exact stage of its rampage last week. At least we are glad it hasn't staged, where it is weak.

Our items are rather brief this week, but we just couldn't resist a friendly "Hello!"

FARMER.

DESPICABLE CRIMINALITY

It is hardly necessary to say that every effort should be made to apprehend motorists who flee from the scene of an accident leaving a victim helpless in the road. Such a person offends all sense of decency. He loses such rights as he has; the benefit of extenuating circumstances in the mind of the public. Yet the number of hit-and-run drivers seems to grow constantly and with distressing rapidity.

It is easy to understand that for a moment a motorist might be panic stricken when he realizes that he has struck down a fellow being. But he convicts himself of cowardice who yields to panic and flees from the scene. He is showing lack of, rather than possession of the presence of mind which should be required of all operators of motor vehicles. He is worse than a coward who would leave a man, woman or child in distress, actuated purely by cunning and fear of prosecution or punishment. Only creatures of distressingly mental shortcomings would be guilty of such inhumanity, but unhappily of such creatures there are many. And there is no way of knowing who they are until it is too late.

An appeal to manhood where there is no manhood, is futile. So long as there is a possibility of escaping the consequences of carelessness there will be those who will attempt it. Society's only effective check is by ruthlessly tracking down the malefactors and treating them as dangerous animals.

Your watch must be more than an accurate timepiece. It must be a correct accessory of dress. One watch can not properly serve all purposes. Fashion decrees the pocket watch for formal or semi-formal wear—the strap watch for sports and business.

We're showing right now a wide selection of both types made by the world's most famous makers. Pocket watches in many artistic designs—wrist watches for both men and women. Many authentic styles in cases by Wadsworth—recognized leader in making watches beautiful.

The prices, too, will please you no matter how much or how little you want to spend. Drop in some day soon. You're always welcome just to look around.
