The Merry Wives and husbands were recipients of the delightful hospitality of Mesdames and Messrs. Roy Rowntree and Charles Frizzell at the beautifully decorated home of Mr. and Mrs. Rowntree. Beautiful snapdragons, carnation and sweet-peas graced the rooms, where a delicious two-course dinner was served.

Miss Georgia Frizzell scored high for guest. Cuts went to Mesdames Burch, Kelly Saylor, Bob Steen, Jr., D. A. Trent, Walter Fairman and Mr. Claud Burch.

MOHAIR MEETING AT JUNCTION

The State Warehousemen's Association of Texas met at Junction, Texas, March 25, to try to arrive at a way in which to dispose of the spring clip of mohair, amounting to something like six million pounds.

After much discussion, a committee composed of Mr. Schreiner of Kerrville, Mr. Belcher of Del Rio and Mr. Horner of Uvalde were appointed to confer with the Farm Board or any others interested.

From reports, there seems to be a surplus of twenty million pounds in Boston, and no demand whatever for fine mohair, eighty per cent of which is produced in Texas.

Lucius Stephens of Lometa, J. A. Hester and G. H. Frizzell of Goldthwaite attended the meeting and state that the growers were urged to place the mohair in the warehouses ready for shipment. Then if the market is procured it will be ready to move.

BENEFIT ENTERTAINMENT

The Art and Civic Club entertained several tables at a benefit 42 party and tea on Wednesday afternoon at the showroom of the Texas-Louisiana Power Company, the proceeds to be used for the construction of sidewalks at the public schools.

The spacious room was decorated with a profusion of lilac, redbud and wild plum blossoms, and sprays of lilac were used as plate favors, when fruit punch and cakes were served. Mrs. J. D. Lindsay won the prize for high score at 42 and Mrs. Walter Fairman second high, Mrs. R. L. Armstrong the consolation, Mrs. Virgil Jackson of Lometa high score for out of town guests and Mrs. Tom Toland out high for tea guests.

Members of the Club wish to thank Mr. Smith and Mrs. Summy for the use of the Texas-Louisiana showroom, as well as for their assistance, and the merchants whose generous contributions of their wares helped make the benefit a success.

WINS THIRD PLACE

A one-act play in the contest for the district was produced at Brownwood last Monday. The high school of Goldthwaite was represented by Max Harrison, Fairman Marshall, Horace McNutt and Woody Saylor. Miss Love Gatlin accompanied them. Goldthwaite play won third place in the district, Comanche won first place and Coleman second place.

REMOVE THE HAZARD

The state fire marshal has sent out an appeal to all insurance agents and fire marshals to co-operate in abolishing all fire hazards throughout the state. Vacant buildings are the source of much fire loss and great care is urged in removing rubbish and other dangerous surroundings. L. R. Conroy, city fire marshal, will be glad to hear from any citizen who knows of a fire hazard of any character in the town.

KICKED BY A MULE

M. C. Morris was kicked by a mule last Saturday afternoon, while loading mules at Del Rio, and his condition was quite serious for a time. The mule's hoof struck him on the neck at the base of the skull and the wonder is that he was not instantly killed. He was brought home and is resting as well as could be expected and it is believed he will soon be able to be about and suffer no permanent results from the injury.

BONUS LEGISLATION

Several proposals for full cash payment of the soldier bonus have been put forward. They are to be considered by the ways and means committee as the first order of business in April. The bill by Representative Patman, Democrat, Texas, to issue $2,200,000,000 in currency and a proposition to replace the certificates with rediscountable bonds to mature in 1945 are slated for the first consideration, says a dispatch from Washington.

Patman said there is sufficient gold held by the Federal Reserve to back the currency and based his proposition on the same principle of the Glass-Steagall bill, which permits the Federal Reserve to accept government obligations for rediscount purposes.

The Texan predicted that if the ways and means committee did not report a cash bonus measure, enough petitioners could be obtained to force it to a vote on the floor.

"The demand of civic and business organizations for full payment of the bonus is sufficient to assure its passage by the house," he said.

BAPTIST CHURCH

Allen Ross, who has been a citizen of our town for a number of years and recently moved to the ranch, has entered upon a political career, having already been elected as road overseer, and we predict for him a colorful career, provided he gravels that road from the highway to his ranch.

We missed G. W. Jackson and wife last Sunday at our regular services, and they missed a well prepared dinner at the home of Judge and Mrs. E. B. Anderson. However, by Brother Jackson not being present, gave the pastor an opportunity to have two desserts and we never miss any opportunity of doing good.

As many of his friends already know, Mr. Phil H. Clements has been confined to his room for a number of weeks at the home of his son Earl Clements. We had the pleasure of visiting him one day last week and found out that he was one of the early settlers of this community, coming here with his young bride in 1877 from Indiana, settling in the community, known as Williams Ranch. This was before Mills county was organized and was a part of Brown county. At this time Goldthwaite was not born, but later on she came into existence and Mr. Clements moving here has watched her from birth to her present growth. We doubt if there is another man in the county that has served his community in a public way longer than the man of whom we are writing. Beginning his public career as road overseer, then serving his precinct as commissioner for 6 years, county judge for two years, school trustee for 12 years, postmaster of Goldthwaite for eight years, representative from Mills county to the state legislature for six years and at present door-keeper for the house of representatives. Out of the 55 years he has resided in this community, aside from road overseer, he has served his people 40 years—a record that can hardly be surpassed. The writer and the many friends of Mr. Clements are looking forward to the time when he can be on the streets again shaking hands with his many friends, serving his community in that loyal manner in which he has always been in the town.

Mrs. Walter Fairman and Mrs. Holland Fairman called the pastor on the phone and notified him that they were sending several dozen eggs to B. O. H. for him. We are very grateful to these good ladies for their kindness. We have promised our wife that the money that we were supposed to pay for eggs would go to help pay for her an "up town" permanent. The reason we said an "up town" permanent is, a gentleman said to the writer the other day that it would take 75 dozen eggs to pay for his wife an "up town" and 150 dozen for a "down town" permanent. We asked the gentleman why the difference. He said "I do not know. The only thing I know is that we have not got a laying hen in the yard." Regardless, several dozen eggs were sent the orphans and we bespeak for those who had charge of the affair their appreciation for your help.

The pastor does not want to divulge any secrets, but it looks like he is going to have to do that very thing if some of our folk don't take to coming to church on Sunday night. We do not mean that we do not have good crowds, for we do. But some of you members who are not coming on Sunday night ought to come. Now just be honest. Don't you feel just a little "bad" when you stay at home on Sunday night and play cards or 42?

Let's improve our next Sunday night crowd. Services will begin at 7:45 p. m.

G. C. IVINS, Pastor.

STAR SCHOOL NEWS

The County Meet will be in full swing by the time this is seen in print. A part of the league work at Star is somewhat handicapped on account of contestants being ill. The league is a fine organization for the schools, and in the opinion of this writer some of the outstanding qualities of citizenship and character-building can be taught and instilled in the boys and girls. Every boy and girl should enter some of the league events, for it affords an opportunity to demonstrate his or her ability.

High Lights Around the High School

Mr. Gerald has organized two indoor baseball teams of senior girls. After the track meet the boys will be organized into teams for local competition. Too, the second-year class enjoy listening to the first-year class working on the short plays. PAY, IF YOU SPEND

Representative Rainey, Democratic floor leader, painted a lark picture before the house in defending the sales tax feature of the revenue bill under discussion. The government's daily receipts are running below its expenditures; the national debt is steadily increasing along with the inevitable interest charges; the continuance of such a policy means an unbalanced budget and national bankruptcy. Mr. Rainey then added, "If we don't balance this budget we are going to have the biggest panic any nation ever had in the history of this world."

Mr. Rainey is rather given to exaggeration in the heat of debate and no one really expects that the United States is headed toward a great panic. Yet he is entirely right in his emphasis on the necessity of balancing the national budget. In times of general prosperity that may not seem altogether essential, but when a world depression is on, budgets must be balanced, as Great Britain found to its cost and as Japan is now finding out. Nations that spend prodigally, with little thought of ultimate payment, soon run against a stone wall. What goes out of the treasury should first come in. Promises to pay in the form of bonded indebtedness have natural limits that show in market quotations, even of United States bonds.

Just what solution Congress will reach is still a matter of debate, and protracted debate at that. It may be a sales tax, it may be nuisance taxes, but it must be taxes and plenty of them. Citizens must make up their minds that they must bear the burden of still heavier taxation, at a time when they least can bear it. It will teach us economy, retrenchment, fewer unnecessary appropriations, and a more thoughtful attitude toward our national budget.

States, municipalities, counties and many, many individuals need to learn the same lesson. Persons, like nations, must live within their income. Few political sons have wealthy fathers to forgive the past and kill the fattened calf.—Dallas News.

The State of Texas

To the Sheriff or any Constable of Mills County, Greeting:
You are hereby commanded to summon John E. Bohannon, by making publication of this Citation once in each week for four successive weeks previous to the return day hereof, in some newspaper published in your county, to appear at the next regular term of the District Court of Mills county, to be holden at the court house thereof, in Goldthwaite, Texas, on the first Monday in May, A. D. 1932, the same being the 2nd day of May, A. D. 1932, then and there to answer a petition filed in said court on the 21st day of March, A. D. 1932, in a suit numbered on the docket of said court No. 2364, wherein Mary Bohannon is plaintiff and John E. Bohannon, is defendant, and said petition alleging that plaintiff has resided in Mills county for more than a year, and more than six months immediately preceding filing of suit. That defendant's residence is unknown. That plaintiff and defendant were married Oct. 27, 1908, and lived and cohabited together until Jan. 1st, 1925, and have lived together until July 1, 1931. That plaintiff was a true and loyal wife, diligent, frugal, painstaking, kind and loving to defendant. That about 15 years ago defendant began a course of unkind, harsh, cruel and inhuman treatment of plaintiff, which rendered their further living together as husband and wife insupportable. That he has a violent temper and would curse and abuse her, threaten to knock her down, and call her all kinds of vile and opprobrious epithets. That he would often strike her. That since 1925 plaintiff has not condoned any of such acts of cruelty of defendant. That plaintiff and defendant have no community property. That they have four children, all of whom are over 16 years of age, except Vernon Bohannon, of whom plaintiff now has care and custody. Plaintiff says that she is the right and proper person to have the care and custody of said child.
Plaintiff prays for citation and that on a final hearing she have judgment granting her a divorce from defendant, that she be given care, custody and control of the minor, Vernon Bohannon; that she recover her attorney's fees and all costs herein expended, and for such other and further relief to which she may be entitled.
Herein fail not, but have before said court, at its aforesaid next regular term, this writ with your return thereon, showing how you have executed the same.
Given under my hand and the seal of said court, at office in Goldthwaite, Texas, this the 25th day of March, A. D. 1932.

NEW KIND OF MUSIC

A piano able to play like a flute, an English horn, a trumpet, a bassoon, an organ or any one of a dozen or so other musical instruments was demonstrated for the first time in public before a recent meeting of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers, in New York City, by its inventor, Benjamin Miessner of Short Hills, N. J. The secret, Mr. Miessner explained, is that the original vibrations of the piano strings set up when these are struck by the hammers, are converted into electric vibrations like those in a radio receiver and then are amplified and played over a loud speaker. The piano itself emits almost no sound, all the music coming through the electric system. By means of electric controls, also resembling those of a radio receiver, the continuing vibrations of the strings after they have been struck may be amplified more and more as the original vibration dies away, thus producing sustained, continuous tones like those of organs or similar instruments. Louder tones than those possible from an ordinary piano can be produced by using increased electric amplification. Finally, special electric circuits called filters may be used to change the overtones or harmonics present, thus altering the character of the piano to resemble that of a horn, a flute or another instrument. Electric music produced by this and other means promises a whole new branch of the musical arts, it was predicted.

THE STAR SCHOOL IN THE EIGHTIES

By E. G. Kingsbury

Looking over my old books and papers I chanced to find the record book of a school my brother-in-law, J. W. Warren, and my sister taught at Star. I think in the late 80's, giving the names of those in attendance then, and thinking likely that many would enjoy reading over the school-room memories of over forty years ago, I am passing the names in for publication in the Eagle.

Many are gone, here and there. Some are dead, some forgotten and yet many with their kith and kin, children and grandchildren live near the old stand and are still able to recall the days — "When You and I Were Young, Maggie" — and when "Tige's Great Grandma Was a Pup."

- The list of names follows:
- | | | |
|-------------------|-----------------|------------------|
| Decie Smith | Annie Smith, | Robert Campbell |
| Lola Causey | Myrtle Fifer | Randolph Boren |
| Luckie Smith | Amber Fifer | Joe Paschal |
| Levy Causey | Maud Smith | John Campbell |
| Ula Smith | Zadie Street | Robt. Saterfield |
| Lorena Adams | Callie Soules | Ura Saterfield |
| Pearl Payne | Ula Payne | Emory Pringle |
| Lula Pringle | Lula Saterfield | Emma Whitley |
| Mabel Saterfield | Mary Fowler | Mamie Payne |
| Parmarion Childre | Walter Campbell | Ola Long |
| Bertie Fowler | Childre | Eddie Harper |
| Fannie Street | Childre | Zula Redford |
| Meddie Street | Childre | Pearl Redford |
| Cinda Street | Childre | Richard Griffin |
| Eva Whitley | Childre | Lee Witty |
| Jennie Boren | Childre | Love Witty |
| Lula Whitley | Childre | Usurler Griffin |
| Ula Long | Childre | Angie Payne |
| Sallie Bradley | Childre | Marshall Street |
| Emma Street | Childre | Robt. Slaughter |
| Ella Slaughter | Childre | Jim Henry |
| Ida Childre | Childre | Claud Saterfield |
| Sophia Childre | Childre | Owen Adams |
| Ida Renfro | Childre | Walter Henry |
| Jocie Adams | Childre | Eugene Fluce |
| Sallie Paschal | Childre | Tom Henry |

Some of the names were so dim I could not read them, yet this is nearly all and the list will tell again the school days of many yet hanging around and will remind them of those scattered to the four winds of this world and the next. Mostly they have done well, stayed out of the "pen" and mostly they have married and reared a bunch of children too large for the ordinary person to hover. Here is luck to the living and rest to the dead.

TEXAS LEGAL LIMITATIONS

The statutes of limitation, beyond which legal action cannot be taken, are far-reaching in Texas, both on the civil and criminal sides of the law. Murder is the only offense for which there is no statute of limitations. Murderers may be brought to the bar of justice at any time after the deed is committed. Many have been tried in the state on murder charges as much as 30 years old.

Criminal assault carries the shortest criminal statute limitation, that of one year. Treason carries the longest time for the statute of limitations to take effect, the limit being 20 years. This exceeds any time the defendant may have been outside the United States.

In all statute of limitation cases any time spent outside the state of Texas does not count toward the limitation. The limit for prosecuting ordinary misdemeanors is two years; ordinary felony cases, three years. However, in cases of theft, burglary arson and robbery the limit is five years. The longest time for the statute to take effect in common crime is ten years for forgery.

When a person goes into possession of property without a deed, and holds that possession openly and publicly for ten years, the statute of limitation takes effect. Twenty years is set in the case of minors to meet any limitations. A recent law sets 25 years as the time for curing everything. The statutes of limitations does not begin to affect the rights of minors, however, until they have become of age. Defendants in suits involving the statute of limitations have to plead rights under the statute when they defend themselves, or the law will not obtain in their case, no matter how many years have elapsed.—Exchange.

Making a Living Room Liveable

By KATHARINE CRUMBAUGH

THERE are a lot of living rooms in this world that only need one thing. They need something to make them liveable. They have good furniture, and carpets or rugs; good tables and lamps; everything is good. But the room is terrible. Nearly always the trouble is color. With repainting of the woodwork and walls, most of these rooms become really "living" rooms.

A typical one came to my attention recently. It was a northeastern room, which meant that it received very little sun. The furniture chiefly consisted of a taupe couch and two large overstuffed chairs of the same brown. There was a secretary-bookcase, radio and gateleg table, all of brown, a small end table and coffee table in black lacquer. The wall paint was tan and the woodwork the same. The rug was large and brown. It gave the visitor an acute feeling of sin and remorse.

Now, what that room needed, as most rooms need, was a little judicious color. The predominating brown should lead to repainting the walls in a light buff, with plenty of sunshine in it, or even a cream which sheds a lighter glow over the place. The ceiling should, of course, be a couple of shades lighter than the walls. The woodwork should depend in color on several things. If the room is small, stick to the wall color. If the trim is ordinary or common looking, don't emphasize with contrast. And if the ceiling is low, contrasting color on the woodwork will make it seem lower. In this room a deep ivory would do very well.

The brown overstuffing, of course, cannot be painted but some gay flowered chintz for the chairs, leaving the couch as it was, and the same flowered chintz for draperies would make the place alive and inviting. Pick up the red in the flower of this chintz and use it as a guide to paint the end table and the coffee table. Put the coffee table with its bright note right in front of the couch where it will be useful as well as ornamental. Do the dark green cushions in a gay cherry red. Put a good coat of floor varnish or maybe only a coat of wax on the floor. Then the depressing monotony of the room is gone and a new charm appears.

Meat thieves are plying their trade in different parts of Comanche county, according to local officers, who state that thefts were reported last week from three different communities. The thieves seem to be following a system and make a raid when the citizens are attending some community function.

Motor car service one day and a mixed train service the next will be installed by the cotton belt railway if approved by the railway commission, a group of officials of the company told a meeting of Comanche business men held in Mayor J. R. Eanes' office Wednesday evening to ascertain whether or not the citizens of Comanche would object to such a change.

Mr. Templeton was working for Mr. Snell on another farm and did not know of her death until informed late in the day. A physician was called and pronounced death as a result of heart trouble.—News.

LAMPASAS

The infant son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Elder died Sunday afternoon and the remains were taken to Goldthwaite Monday for burial.

Lampasas friends regret to learn that Judge Walter Acker is quite ill with influenza at the Confederate home in Austin. Some Lampasas friends were in Austin Friday, but were not permitted to see him at that time.

The arrangements are being completed for the annual banquet of the Chamber of Commerce, which will be held at 8:00 o'clock the evening of April 7. The banquet will be served by the ladies of the Episcopal church.

QUIT WHINING!

We are prone to think times pretty hard, but let us stop a moment and consider:

Following the war of the revolution paper money in the United States declined to zero. By 1780 gold stood at a premium of 4000 per cent. Merchants were making from 100 to 300 per cent profit as true profiteers. Taxation was unbearable and state debts grew to staggering proportions.

In 1801 John Quincy Adams, made a study of the then infant industries, and found that many girls were working for 25 cents a day. A man signed a contract for $5 a week for himself, $2 for his 16-year-old son, $1.50 for his 13-year-old son, and $1.25 for his 13-year-old daughter.

In 1873, we find that 89 railroads went into the hands of the receiver. Nearly 300 of our 700 iron and steel plants were closed down. Between 1873 and 1878 more than 47,000 commercial houses failed.—Austin American.

POOR RICHARD ON TAXES

Poor Richard's friends will recall that there was once a public auction, at which those waiting were conversing on the badness of the times.

And one of the company called to a plain, clean old man, with white locks, "Pray, Father Abraham, what think you of the times? Won't these heavy taxes quite ruin the city? How shall we ever be able to pay them?" Father Abraham stood up and replied:

"Friends and neighbors, the taxes are indeed very heavy, and if those laid on by the government were the only ones we had to pay, we might more easily discharge them, but we have many others, and much more grievous to some of us. We are taxed twice as much by our idleness, three times as much by our pride, and four times as much by our folly, and from these taxes the commissioners can not ease or deliver us by allowing an abatement. However, let us harken to good advice, and something may be done for us, as Poor Richard says, 'God helps them that help themselves.'—New York Times.

SOUND TAX REDUCTION

There is room, and plenty of it for sound tax reduction by government. But in some quarters there seems to be a misunderstanding of the question. Nothing must be done that will in any way imperil the legitimate operation of government, or cause it to fail in meeting its liabilities. If that should happen, the inevitable result would be panic—and there is no telling where it would end. It is manifestly impossible for government to cut costs to the degree of manufacturing businesses, which can adjust overhead to demand for their products.

What government can do is to eliminate waste, duplication of effort, the general inefficiency prevalent in many departments. Doing this would improve, rather than damage, the operation of government—and it would be a boon to the taxpayer, who is already struggling under severe burdens.

owned and operated the Sterling Drug Store. W. H. (Uncle Billie) Gibbons, pioneer citizen and vanchman of San Saba county, passed away suddenly at Fort Worth last Friday night about 9:30. He had attended the cattlemen's convention in El Paso and was returning home by way of Fort Worth, where he had extensive business interests. He had talked with J. R. Taylor in the hotel lobby about 6:30 and was apparently in his usual good health. However, he retired early and about 9:30 called the hotel office to send a doctor to his room, that he was sick. When the doctor arrived death had already come. He had laid down across the bed and passed away peacefully and without a struggle.—News.

Six students at the University of Texas are candidates for the Ph. D. degree, the highest conferred by the university. Last week tornadoes in Alabama and nearby states took the lives of over 350 people. This week another tornado appeared in the same region and added several more victims to the list. Damage amounting to millions of dollars, 2,500 wounded and 8,000 homeless resulted from the storms.

A firm of American engineers working in Russia has been withdrawn from that country, after working for three years designing factories and assembly plants. Up until this year the Americans received their pay in American dollars. Now the Russians want to pay them in Russian rubles. So the Americans quit.

Easter Sunday in New York the usual Easter parade of well dressed men and women took place on Fifth Avenue. Then another parade slouched up. It was composed of down and outers from the bowery led by Mr. Zero, eccentric philanthropist. Their ragged clothes contrasted sharply with the finery of the church goers.

Governor Franklin D. Roosevelt of New York won another presidential primary last week, that of Georgia. His opponent there had announced that he represented Speaker Garner of Texas. Roosevelt is now far in the lead of all the other Democratic aspirants, having defeated Al Smith in New Hampshire, Bill Murray in North Dakota and now Garner in Georgia. The New York man already had pledges from Alaska, Washington and Minnesota and Massachusetts is practically sure to go for him under the direction of Mayor Curley of Boston.

ADVERTISER GIVEN PROOF

O. H. Yarborough, dry goods merchant, has received at least one sure proof that his advertisements in the Eagle are read and also that the Eagle has a wide circulation. A few days ago he received a letter from a party in San Francisco relative to some article advertised in the Eagle in a February issue.

If the advertisements are read in San Francisco surely they are also read nearer home. A convincing argument in favor of newspaper advertising is the fact that the biggest advertisers are always the leading business people of a community, or the other way around—the leading business people are always the biggest advertisers. Doubtless Mr. Yarborough is now more thoroughly convinced than ever that people read newspaper advertisements and he is one of the biggest advertisers in Goldthwaite.

The Dean of Wales wore the symbolical towel of the Lord High Almoner, the Lord High Steward and the Lord High Bailiff, who attend services in the Abbey only when the king is present, were in the procession.

The King and Queen sat together behind the altar rail. The sixty-seven men and sixty-seven women, who had been selected to receive the gift filed before them. There was one man and one woman for each year of the king's age.

To each of them the monarch handed a little red pouch containing fifty shilling in place of the provisions distributed centuries ago. Then he gave to each a white pouch containing the Maundy money in specially minted coins.

This ceremony is a survival of the times when the king used to wash the feet of twelve poor men in commemoration of the washing of the apostles' feet by Jesus.

All that remains of the original ritual is the distribution of the Maundy money. Nowadays most of the coins are sold to collectors by those who receive them from the king.

HE ISN'T STOPPED YET

On the day before the presidential primary in Georgia the Atlanta Journal said editorially: "Here he (Roosevelt) is known as a neighbor, as one who had adopted the state as his second home and who has lost no chance to serve its welfare and proclaim abroad its advantages and virtues. It is therefore, to be expected that the vote for him in Wednesday's primary will attest, not only the confidence of Georgians in Democracy's man of the hour, but their loyalty to a nationally famous fellow-citizen."

The essential thing, the Atlanta editorial concluded, was "that the vote for Roosevelt shall be great enough to send its message reverberating around the nation." It was plenty big and reverberates in a manner that ought to please the most ardent Roosevelt man. To date Roosevelt has not been stopped and every primary test has come out substantially as predicted for him. The Georgia poll, however, is the first that indicates real Roosevelt strength, as it is probably the only state so far recorded which will go Democratic in November.

Roosevelt thus far has met no formidable opposition. You may argue from that he has not been tested or you may argue that the absence of opposition is itself a criterion. From the viewpoint of the South-west the availability of the man is greater than his ability, but politicians favor availability first. Outside of Georgia it is politicians' support that has obtained him his delegates thus far. Georgia is for him, politicians or no politicians.—Dallas News.

KING OF ENGLAND REVIVES OLD CUSTOM

For the first time since the reign of James II, the King of England presided in person Thursday at the traditional distribution of the Maundy Thursday pence to the poor in Westminster Abbey, a dispatch from London says.

It is an old custom, which originally included the distribution of money and provisions to the needy. Not for 200 years has a king taken part in person.

King George and Queen Mary went to the abbey together Thursday with a procession of ecclesiastical and court dignitaries.

The Dean of Wales wore the symbolical towel of the Lord High Almoner, the Lord High Steward and the Lord High Bailiff, who attend services in the Abbey only when the king is present, were in the procession.

The King and Queen sat together behind the altar rail. The sixty-seven men and sixty-seven women, who had been selected to receive the gift filed before them. There was one man and one woman for each year of the king's age.

BEAUTY in the HOME

Crisp Curtains for the Sleeping Room

HOME furnishings with a distinct period feeling, bugbears to the housewife, who never is quite sure whether they "go" well with the rest of a room, are not so embarrassing as one might think, as is delightfully illustrated in this sleeping room which combines the French Provincial and early American spirit.

The permandy curtains, a most important adjunct to any room, furnish the note to which the remainder of the apartment is tuned. They are ecru marquisette in a bel-marque finish which is a chemical treatment of the yarn that gives it the necessary crispness and permanently seals the fiber in the yarn so that it is not necessary in laundering to use starch. Vat colors, fast to light and water, are used in dyeing, and the curtains carry out the light cream color of the Provincial wall paper which has a small pattern of blue and orange dots. No drapes are used but such a window might well have over-drapes as well.

The furniture is of French design in maple and the lamp with which the furniture from the south of France, American contemporary, Colonial accessories and a touch of color from the Kentucky mountains all go to help. Mixing one's periods doesn't matter; on the contrary, sometimes it helps.

HIGHER PRICES EXPECTED

Chicago, March 27.
Higher prices for wheat, corn and cotton are guaranteed by the International Harvester Co.,
by an offer to this year's purchasers of certain important crop-producing and harvesting machines. The higher prices guaranteed are 70 cents a bushel, Chicago, for wheat; 50 cents a bushel, Chicago, for corn, and 8½ cents a pound, New Orleans, for cotton.

George A. Ranney, vice president in charge of sales, said today: "We are convinced that the reluctance of farmers to buy implements needed for the economical production and harvesting of their wheat, corn and cotton crops is due to the present unsatisfactory prices of these commodities, and we believe that if they were assured of higher prices for their products they would not hesitate to purchase the new cost-reducing machines that they need."

"In order to meet this situation, and to evidence our faith that prices of farm products must soon improve, we are now offering growers of wheat, corn and cotton assurance of higher prices with which to pay notes given hereafter and maturing this year for purchases of certain machines most vitally needed in making and gathering
these crops."

"The list of machines to which this offer applies includes farm tractors, harvester-threshers or combines, windrow-harvesters and stationary threshers.
The higher prices which these new terms guarantee are 70 cents a bushel, Chicago, for No. 2 hard wheat; 50 cents a bushel, Chicago, for No. 2 yellow corn, and 8½ cents a pound, New Orleans,
for middling cotton."

"On notes maturing in 1932, given hereafter in payment for the machines listed and representing not more than 40 per cent of the purchase price, there will be endorsed the equivalent number of bushels of wheat or corn or pounds of cotton computed at the prices named. If the average market quotation for the 5-day period prior to and including the maturity date of the note is less than the price named, the purchaser will be credited with an amount representing the price differential multiplied by the number of bushels or pounds endorsed on the note.

"For example, if the note due in 1932 amounts to $420, it will require 600 bushels of wheat at 70 cents, Chicago, to meet the obligation. Should the price of wheat at maturity be less than 70 cents, say 60 cents per bushel,
Chicago, the purchaser's note will be accordingly reduced $60.
"I take this opportunity of reiterating what the company said in its recent annual report for 1931—that the present abnormally low prices of farm products could not long prevail; also that only a slight improvement in prices for farm products would have an important effect in correcting the vicious circle into which all business has been forced in the period through which we are now passing."

WHALE-LIKE BOAT

TO BE GIVEN TEST

At Potsdam, Germany, Nicholas Bellin, 28-year-old engineer has built a boat resembling a whale with an airplane motor atop the tail, which he says he believes can span the ocean between Liverpool and New York in less than three days.

The craft is equipped with a 276-horsepower motor, which Bellin said would give it a speed of 62 miles an hour. After testing the boat this spring, he said, he would attempt a trip around the world, traveling east. He estimated it would take him 150 days.

RUSSIAN EXHIBITION ASKS FOR THE EAGLE

A letter from the All Nations Press Exhibition in Tiflis, Georgia, Soviet Russia, has been received by the Eagle in which copies of the Eagle are requested for display in the newspaper section of the exhibit. Represented will be papers printed in 181 different languages from 249 separate countries.

After being shown in Tiflis, the exhibition will be taken to many other countries.

Although written in English, the invitation is quaintly worded, apparently because of a too literal translation from the Russian. For example it says:

"The exhibition's programme is: the Press of all people, all times, all countries. The life of the Press, the Press in the life. The Press and the life. History, Technics, Statistics, Machinery, Illustrations. Graphics of to day. Reclames. Every kind of the Press. The Book. The Newspaper. Modern Printings.

"The Exhibition aims to show the historical development of your Press and you shall much oblige us, by sending us its old copies of past years."

ROCK SPRINGS

Our Easter Sunday wasn't so cold, but blustery. There were twelve present at Sunday school. There was a big crowd at B. Y. P. U. Sunday night. Let's see how many can be present at Sunday school next Sunday morning with a good lesson. We elected officers for the B. Y. P. U. Sunday night. Lendon Davis, president; Woody Traylor, vice president; Minnie Hill, recording secretary and treasurer, Mrs. J. M. Traylor, corresponding secretary; Group captains, Alice Shipman, Johnnie Belle Circle; pianist, Mrs. J. W. Roberts; choir director, Miss Johnnie Belle Circle.

Several from here attended the singing at Center Point Sunday afternoon. These singings get better every time.

Sunday was Charley Frank Davis' second birthday. His mother prepared a nice dinner for him and invited his grandfather and grandmother Davis and grandfather and grandmother Stark.

Last Friday afternoon there were quite a few visitors attended the Easter egg hunt at the school house. It was fun to see the children hunt the eggs. The grownups enjoyed the afternoon, too. Mrs. Daniel found the prize egg. She was tickled when she saw it, but before she got through picking it out of a bunch of prickly peas, she was not so tickled. Her prize was an Easter rabbit.

Mr. and Mrs. Landy Ellis are very proud of their grandson, Bennie Bob Long, who has come to live in Goldthwaite with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Loy Long. I believe I've told the most important news, so now I'll tell you who went visiting since my last letter.

Those who visited Mmes. Laird and Faulkner last Wednesday were Mrs. Jim Daily from Big Spring, Mrs. Earl Davis and son, Miss Bernice Perry and Mrs. Townsend Perry from Center Point.

Mrs. Ruth Chambers and Edward Scott from Abilene and Mrs. C. H. Ford and Shirley Nickols from town sat until bed time with Mrs. Nickols and Homer Doggett and wife last Thursday night.

Marvin Spinks and family attended church and singing at Center Point Sunday. They dined with his parents.

Mrs. Lillian Miller spent Sunday with the Traylor family.

Mrs. W. A. Daniel and children went to Big Valley to church Sunday. They visited her brother, Hugh Dennard, and family at the noon hour. Herbert Cooke made a pop call in the Nickols home Monday night.

Mrs. Jeff Tyler spent Monday afternoon with Mrs. Ballard.

E. L. Pass visited his family in town the first of the week.

E. D. Roberson and family went to Big Valley Sunday to church.

Gus Roush and family visited with Mrs. Ruth Chambers in the Nickols home last Wednesday night.

Jim Traylor has been on the sick list lately.

Some from here went to Albert Hunt's in town to a party Saturday night. All reported a good time.

Jack Robertson and his girl friend, Miss Ruth Bogus, from San Saba county, spent Sunday with his parents.

Philip Nickols visited his grandfather, Mr. P. H. Clements, Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hunt and daughters and Zula Ervin from town attended B. Y. P. U. Sunday night.

Jesse Lowe and wife must enjoy the singings, as they are always present here the second Sunday with their dinner and Sunday afternoon they went to Center Point.

Lewis Truit has been helping M. R. Circle plant corn this week.

There was a surprise 42 party at Ray Davis' Saturday night. Some were surprised that they didn't know about it.

James Nickols helped the Ford boys from Seallorn shear

HERNDON WILSON MARRIAGE

One of the outstanding events of the week was the marriage of Miss MaAida Wilson, attractive daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Em Wilson, to Hugh Warren Herndon, son of Mr. and Mrs. H. Herndon, on Tuesday evening at 8 o'clock.

The wedding ceremony took place at the home of the bride's parents, 917 Lexington Drive, in the presence of about 75 invited guests, friends and relatives of the bride and groom. Rev. T. A. Binsford, pastor of the Central Baptist church, performed the ceremony.

Miss Maude North sang, "I Love You Truly." She was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Adiel Lockhart, sister of the bride. Ray Chandler sang, "Sunshine in Rainbow Valley," accompanied by Mrs. Chandler. Mrs. Lockhart played Lohengrin's wedding march.

Attendants to the bride and groom were Miss Maude North and Joe Peterson, who stood with them in front of an improvised altar of sweetheart roses and pink carnations.

The bride wore a blue crepe sports suit of white with white. Miss North also wore a sports suit of white with contrasting accessories and corsage of rosebuds. The bride's bouquet was of pink sweetheart roses.

A reception was held following the ceremony. The bride's cake adorned the center of the table. Miss Norma Grace Carver and Miss Ruth Cannon presided at the punch bowl, while Mrs. Garrett served cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Herndon left Tuesday evening for San Marcos, where they will attend the Southwest Texas State Teachers' College. — Corpus Christi Press.

TWO STONES, ONE BIRD

The Lawrence (Kan.) Journal-World cites an example of the habit of government in using two stones for every shot at a bird.

It points out that there are county officials to enforce laws locally, including the annual purchase of automobile license tags. Taxpayers pay the salaries of these local officials, and it is the presumption that they in turn perform their duties.

But the Journal-World reports that it required three employees of the state highway department, who are also paid salaries and expenses, to make the rounds with two local deputy sheriffs and bring in offenders, persons who after nearly three months had not changed their license plates.

"The custom is growing up," says the Kansas newspaper, "of expecting a special set of state officers to appear to enforce each particular law designed to provide revenue for the state." —Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Miss Waldine Traylor went to Brownwood Monday morning with Miss Love Gatlin to the track meet. She was in a one act play. She spent the night with Miss Gatlin.

Claud Smith and wife had company from town Sunday, but I didn't find out who or how many.

Mrs. Bess Laird and children from town and other relatives from Mullin enjoyed an Easter egg hunt Sunday afternoon with Claud Laird and family.

HURT IN CAR WRECK

Diek Tullos, 12 year old grandson of Mr. and Mrs. Jim McGarrity, sustained very painful cuts about his face and head Sunday afternoon, when a car driven by Rev. A. R. Watson was wrecked on highway 10, a short distance north of Rochelle. Mrs. McGarrity and her father, Mr. Watson, were severely shaken up and bruised, but not seriously injured.

The party had spent the week end at Eden and were returning home when the accident occurred. The steering mechanism became locked or otherwise unmanageable, so that Mr. Watson, who was driving the car, could not control it and the machine ran across a ditch and crashed against a tree. Young Tullos was injured by broken glass from the windshield, but is resting well today in Central Texas hospital, to which he was taken for treatment. Between 30 and 40 stitches were taken in his face to close the numerous cuts. The car was badly damaged. — Brownwood Bulletin.

The brother of the young man was killed on the Mullin and Brownwood road by falling from a truck some months ago. His mother was killed recently when she fell down the stairs in the Brownwood court house a few weeks ago. His grandfather, Rev. A. R. Watson, who was driving the car when he was injured, is also well known here, having lived at Mullin a number of years and served as pastor of several churches in the county.

BROWNWOOD WOMAN SUES GOVERNOR

Governor Sterling and his son-in-law, Wyatt C. Hedrick, Fort Worth architect, Monday were named as defendants in a suit to collect a $65,000 promissory note. The suit was filed in Forty-eighth District Court.

Plaintiffs are F. O. Rogers, Pulaski county, Ark., and Mrs. J. A. Austin, Brown county, Texas, who set forth in their petition that on Jan. 30, 1930, the defendants delivered the promissory note, securing it with 250 shares of Fort Worth Properties Corporation stock.

The petition states the note was made payable to Rogers, as agent for Mrs. Austin. Interest on the note up to April 9, last year has been paid, it says.

The petitioners are asking foreclosure of the lien on the stock, which was put up by Hedrick.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

CITY ELECTION

An election is to be held in this city on April 5, the terms of Mayor Bodkin, Aldermen Rahl and Sullivan and Attorney Bowman expiring at that time, hence it will be necessary to either reelect these gentlemen or choose their successors.

HEROES OF SCIENCE

The tragic death of a young scientist, who had distinguished himself in cancer research work and who, it was thought, was at the very threshold of momentous discoveries by means of which cancer might be ameliorated or eliminated, is a blow to the entire world. Whether his notes are sufficiently elaborate to enable other workers to take up the task where death stopped him, or whether his path will have to be retraced for perhaps years before his farthest position is reached, we know that other researchers will accomplish all he has accomplished and will then go on to newer discoveries helpful to humanity. The world's greatest heroes did not die on the battlefield. To our mind the greatest heroes the world has ever known are those obscure and all but forgotten heroes who died in research efforts to understand and to stamp out disease. If you would care for a story, the heroism of the actors in which would thrill you through and through, get and read "The Microbe Hunters." —Houston Post.

SIX FLAGS HAVE WAVED OVER TEXAS

The first flag that was flown over Texas was that of France, brought by the explorer LaSalle. He came down the Mississippi river to the Gulf of Mexico. On New Year's Day, 1665, he sailed into Matagorda Bay and there established a short-lived colony. A quarter of a century later the Spaniards planted a mission at San Antonio. Twenty-five presidios or forts, with the accompanying missions, were founded on Texas soil during one hundred years of Spanish occupation, but they didn't thrive.

Next Mexican rule was substituted, with little results, and at the end of fifteen years the Texans revolted and established a republic, with the Lone Star for their emblem. The flag gave Texas its popular name of the "Lone Star State." The republic lasted nearly ten years. Another change of flags occurred when, in the Civil War, Texas joined the Confederacy. —Exchange.

WHAT IS THE SAFEST INVESTMENT

What investment can we make whose safety, increase in value, and stability in the face of any conceivable business depression, is guaranteed?

The answer to many, will be, "None." But there is such an investment and we hear of it every day—life insurance.

Every legal reserve life insurance company offers the investor, in effect, a chance to place his money in the hands of a concern operating under the most stringent laws, and with gigantic reserve funds, whose sole purpose is to protect his investment. In turn, the concern reinvests his money in securities of proven excellence, distributing it over an extremely wide number of issues. He can pay this money in very small monthly or quarterly or yearly installments — yet, in case he suddenly dies, his heirs will receive the entire amount he has contracted for, even though it is 20 or 50 or 100 times what he has actually paid.

No other investment, obviously, does so much. No other investment offers so high a degree of safety—and no other, makes it possible for a person to "buy" exactly as large or small an estate as he needs. Further, a life insurance policy always has a definite, unvarying market value, either as security for a loan or in case it is necessary to turn it into cash before maturity.

There are the reasons why life insurance sales have been so comparatively high during the depression—and why, at present, the volume of business done by the companies is steadily growing.

EDUCATION AND TOLERANCE

You are well educated, but what has your education done for you?

Are you a bigger, broader person, mentally and morally? Are you more tolerant?

Are you less prone to censure those who lack education because of not having an opportunity to go to school, or are you an educated snob?

Are you understanding when it comes to dealing with those who have broken some laws, due to poor environment, or are you measuring all by the same yardstick?

Are you unforgiving and heartless in your opinions?

Do you treat unfortunates who have never had a kind word in their lives as if they were utterly devoid of good impulses?

Many a man whom you would scorn would have done more with an education if he had been permitted to have your opportunities.

Shielded at every turn in your young life, what if you should be tested. Would you be strong enough to keep going straight.—Houston Chronicle.

BEAUTY in the HOME

Period and Contemporary Furnishings May Blend

ONE of the most usual complaints about the increasing vogue for modern American, or so called contemporary, decorations and furniture is that the modern will not "go with" the old. That is, if one has period chairs or other furnishings they cannot be used, if the room is to be decorated with modern fabrics after the contemporary fashion. This is true to only a very slight extent. The placing of furniture in a room done in the modern manner requires some artistic sense but, if it is done judiciously, the result is very attractive, and a perfect harmony can be secured.

The above picture is a good example of the blending of the old and the new and is taken from the hall of an apartment recently decorated by Pierre Barthe, the Paris architect and decorator. In this case the treatment of the walls, which are finished in duco of a rich mahogany color, the fighting of the panels are thoroughly modern. At the same time, many old pieces of old furniture were used, some of them arm chairs of the Louis XV period, and because of the simplicity of their design and the charm of their coloring they fit as well as if they were made for the room.

Here the dark tone of the ducoed walls which are made into panels by the use of metal strips is set off by a light grey carpet and the gray of the arm chair. More and more, modern lacquers, textiles and rubberized fabrics are making their way into the best furnished homes. They need not supersede all of the old but can be, by the use of a little artistic sense and consideration, made to give delightful backgrounds and decorations to rooms where old American or period furniture is used, either because of its inherent beauty or because of family tradition.

Given a good piece of furniture, of almost any period, and it will not be out of keeping if properly placed and the latest and most delightful of sophisticated color schemes and fabric combinations can be enjoyed without fear of displaying poor taste.

WHY I GO TO CHURCH

I go to church because I want my children to go to church. I want them to know something more of this life than business, sports and selfish amusement. I know of only one institution that will teach them that they are divine.

The church will interfere with their pleasures at times, but their mother and I sometimes have to do that and we hope that they will love us none the less for it. The church will mystify and puzzle and seem irksome now and then, but all things that are worthwhile demand something of us in sacrifice. I believe that the church and the things it stands for are necessary to our well-being.

I go to church and help to support it, not only because I think I need it, but also because I think the church needs me. If all of us who give money thought our duty ended there, the church would die. It exists not on dollars, but on men and women.

So I attend church when I can, and do for the church what I can, because I believe in it. It has been my source of inspiration and strength and comfort. It is still the mother of our great sons and daughters.—Edgar A. Guest.

SHIP'S WHISKERS

The curious habit of some American ships to grow grass whiskers on one side, but none on the other is reported by employees of the Dollar Line, most of whose ships are used in regular trips around the world in a westerly direction, from New York through the Panama Canal to the Pacific Coast, then across the Pacific to the Orient, around India and through the Suez Canal to Europe and finally across the Atlantic to touch once more at New York to begin another world circle. Whenever these ships are dry-docked, it is reported, they are found to have thick growths of green, grass-like seaweed on their port or left sides, but little or none of this growth on the right or starboard sides. This mysterious difference is no mystery, however, to the botanists; the first clue to the solution being provided by the fact that the green growth never extends entirely to the bottom of the ship but covers a belt only four or five yards wide just below the water line. The explanation of the one-sided growth of this weed is sunlight. Because of the nature of their round-the-world service, the left sides of these ships face almost always toward the south. Their right sides face north and receive, therefore, much less sunlight than the southern sides, since the ship's route lies almost entirely in the northern hemisphere and has the sun mostly to the south of it. Green seaweeds, like green plants on land, require plenty of light for life and growth. Accordingly, these weeds grow chiefly on the sunlit southern sides of the ships and but little on the more dimly illuminated northern sides.

FASHION GOES IN HIGH IN WAISTS, NECKS, HATS

Latest news from the fashion planners indicate that fashion has gone in high, setting new records for waistline, neckline and hat-line.

The tendency, as whimsically summarized by Woman's Home Companion, is this:

"Waistlines, after years of struggle to get back to normal are apparently not satisfied now that they have arrived. Already they are making obvious attempts to conquer new heights. The result of course, is affecting fashion from head to foot, as though the whole silhouette had undergone a face-lifting treatment. Now the ideal figure seems to be a goddess with beautifully erect shoulders, a narrow waist, no hips at all and long slim legs.

"The fact that clothes are doing their best to mold everybody into this figure explains a lot of things. It explains why hats cling to the side of the head and stretch upward, why necklines are closer to the throat, jackets cut off, sleeves wider, skirts straighter and many other things which must be taken up in detail."

HARD TIMES AND FUN

Say, did you ever cut down a big burr oak tree, saw the body of it into twenty-inch lengths, bolt them up and with a free rive these bolt into boards to cover a house, barn or shed? Did you ever plow with a bull tongue on a Georgia stock and have to go up and down a middle seven times in order to clean it of vegetation? Did you ever break new land with a 10-inch walking plow among elm stumps and have a root fly off the wing of the plow and bark you on the shin? Did you ever go out on a cold, frosty morning with an ax to cut pecan sprouts and have one biff you on the ear? Boy, didn't that hurt? Did you ever sell cotton for 3c per pound, oats for 12c and corn for 15c per bushel? Did you ever see the time when you only had mush and sweetmilk for supper, had cornbread three times a day, except on Sunday morning you had biscuit for breakfast? If you have never done these things, you have not seen hard times.

A fellow told me Saturday, Feb. 27, that he had saved up until two years ago some $800 and was practically out of debt, took a notion he wanted an automobile, spent his money for one and now was in debt and could not maintain the car he bought with his savings. Then ask who was to blame? Certainly not the dealer who sold him and when we come to think about it he was to blame himself. There is no use knocking when a man is down.

Now, some old time fun: Did you ever cut down a cottonwood tree about three feet in diameter in the middle of the night just to see your dog and a coon fight? Did you ever twist a cotton tail rabbit out of a hollow tree? Did you ever come in the middle of the night and have to pull off all your clothes and hang them on a wire fence, just because you had come into close contact with a polecat? Did you ever tie a tom cat's tail and a possum together, throw them over a limb and watch them fight? Did you ever step out of the back door at night into a toy wagon and turn two or three somersaults? Did you ever get up in the middle of the night and hunt for paregoric without any light, run over a rocking chair or step on a rusty tack? If you have never done these things you never had any old time fun? Who wants to go back to these good old times? Not me!

T. E. HAMILTON, Star, Texas.

ON THE RIGHT TRACK

Tom Connally, junior senator from Texas, has introduced a bill providing for a 10 per cent salary cut for government employees receiving over $5000 per year and five per cent reduction of federal salaries between $2000 and $5000.

This is a step in the right direction. In practically every field of endeavor, salaries and wages have been reduced by 10 per cent or more except among the favored thousands of federal and other governmental employees. Taxpayers, who see taxes increasing alarmingly while their resources from which the taxes must be paid have shrunk a half or even more, have little faith in the lawmaker who is trying to save the nation and his own salary at the same time.

But Senator Connally is too gentle with the pruning knife. His bill would reduce his own salary from $10,000 to $9,000. Until seven years ago our congressmen managed to struggle along on a salary of $7,500 a year to which, of course, is added mileage of 20c per mile and various allowances for secretarial assistance. The main argument for increasing the salaries of our congressmen was that it would induce better men to run for office, but the same familiar faces are still in the seats of the mighty.

Nothing would do more to convince the voters of this country that its representatives and senators in congress are in sympathy with the plight of their constituents than the restoration of the old salary schedule. Then with their own incomes drastically reduced, the members would be able to go about the business of achieving real public economies with real appreciation of the necessity. Just such a bill has since been presented by Congressman Thomas L. Blanton, representative from this district. Labeled as the "Back to Normalcy Act," his bill would return all government salaries to the level of 1923, except those of not more than $2200, which are to be exempt. His bill further provides that no governmental bureau or institution supervised by the government shall pay a salary in excess of $7500 per annum.

Congressman Blanton has always been active in his efforts to protect the public treasury from the raiders. With this bill he proves his willingness to reduce his own pay by one-fourth. It will be interesting to see how many more patriots there are in congress who will take their stand alongside him.

WHAT WAR DEBTS MEAN

Now that there is real war abroad and pressing debts at home, the talk about war debts has become less passionate.

It is timely, therefore, to calculate coldly the importance of war debts. Let us talk in approximate billions.

The total war debt of about twelve billions in "easy payments" has a cash value of less than eight billions. That is less than half the national debt (federal government only) of about seventeen billions. It is less than 4 per cent of the total of internal debts of all sorts which, according to the Alexander Hamilton Institute, has been estimated at about two hundred billions.

The total of war debt service, both principal and interest is scheduled at only one-quarter billions a year. That is even less than two per cent of the budgeted yearly expenses of national, state and local governments, of about 14 billions. It is less than one-half per cent of our national income of, say, sixty billions and is only about one-quarter of a per cent of the ninety or one hundred billions the national income will approximate in a good year.

Should the war debt service default, it would cost us only $2 a year per capita. That is but a trifle toward what we would stand to gain by straightening out world political and economical relations.

All of which is argument neither for nor against the morality or expediency of payment or cancellation of war debts. For, the less trifling the debt, the less excuse, perhaps, for questioning it.

The point is that war debts are not such a vital consideration that we may credit them with much influence on business conditions in America. It may be amusing to hear our everyday economists handle billions as though they were trifles. But it is none the less sound to interpret them in percentages before trying to weigh their influence.

TEXTILE MANUFACTURING

The ambition of Dr. W. P. Horn, president of Texas Technological college at Lubbock, to enlarge the textile training school in the department of engineering is a laudable one. That is a section of the college to which special attention may well be given.

Training of a corps of young people in Texas capable of being technical leaders in the textile manufacturing industry will be a factor in encouraging the expansion of that industry in this state. As old textile mills reopen and new mills come into Texas, the owners will have the assurance they will not have to look for men and women trained at technical schools in the East in order to get a capable technical personnel. They will find the technical expert right here in Texas waiting to enter their service, just as they will find abundant common labor that is intelligent, capable and loyal.

And, furthermore, Texas youth that has a bent for this sort of work will not have to go to Georgia or Massachusetts or some other distant state to prepare themselves for their career.

As the state producing more cotton than any other, Texas should manufacture more of its chief product. Cotton textile mills should be developed in this state and more of the cotton shipped out in the manufactured form. Texas also is a great wool producing state. The biggest wool market in the world is at San Angelo. More wool should be sent out in the manufactured form. There should be more woolen mills.—Houston Post.

PIATILETKA PLUS POWDER

Margaret Bourke-White, photographer extraordinary of the modern scene, touches a vital spot in the future industrialization plans of Russia, in an account of her last camera expedition to the land of the Soviets. The women are going to have more to say.

Immediately following the revolution possession of a pair of silk stockings marked the highest rung on the feminine social ladder. This was superseded by the enforced quality of the first piatiletka, or five-year plan, in which the height of fashion consisted in a cast-off masculine coat and what odds and ends could be found in the ill-stocked government stores. Style—a bourgeois idea—was exiled. Personal adornment was useless.

Just as experience has forced Communist rulers to make concessions to capitalistic ideas the universal and undying desire of every woman to "look her best" has brought Soviet women to refuse to face the world longer in their husband's old coat and with shiny noses.

Stalin, the "man of steel," broods behind Kremlin walls not on world revolution, but on the means of supplying the female population with snappy clothing and cosmetics. A commissar of fashion has been appointed.

Often in history has a fair face changed the course of empire. It was to be expected that the collective fair faces of modern Russia would wield no less a powerful influence. Their need for a compact will be recognized in the next Piatiletka.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

CHILDREN'S TASTES

Children who refuse to eat wholesome, but unloved foods like spinach or carrots on the ground of disagreeable tastes, which adults consider purely imaginary are supported by a recent statement of a Boston chemical firm concerning taste. Children possess, the firm's experts assert, keener taste senses than adults. Possibly they can taste flavors, disagreeable or otherwise, which adult palates miss. It is also true, the chemists continue, that children as a rule have fewer acquired likes, dislikes or prejudices concerning the tastes of foods, so that they are likely to judge by the real flavor of an article or to accept a new flavor if it is pleasing, even though it may be markedly different from flavors familiar in the past.

Not only is there this difference in taste sense in favor of younger individuals, but different people of the same age are likely to differ among themselves in the sensitivity and even in the character of their taste senses. Just as people may hear differently or see differently and thereby live in different worlds of sound or sights, so they are said to react differently to tastes and thus to have correspondingly different worlds of taste sensations. It is probable the chemists believe, not only that bitterness is one of the tastes which different people perceive in widely different degree, but that these bitter tastes offer a relatively neglected field of improvement of flavors. Many of the most popular flavors, like those of chocolate or of fermented drinks like beer, contain a small bitter component.

BEAUTY in the HOME

A Gracious Livingroom With No Clutter

A TRULY gracious interior is one that refuses to be cluttered and that does not display too much of this and that and ornaments and doodads. In other words, it is colorfully simple, warm, charming but never looks crowded. It is for this reason that the room pictured above is of interest, partaking both of the stern simplicity of the modern art school and the mellowness of the older American tradition.

The couch, chair, and table, designed by Gilbert Rohde, are sturdily built of bentwood with African mahogany veneers on the flat surfaces. Some chairs and couches have deep springy cushions and others use finely woven cane dyed brown to match the wood. The bentwood portions are in beech, smartly finished in colored duco to match the mahogany surfaces, the finish being rubbed to a delightfully luxurious semi-gloss sheen.

The pieces are designed on a "related group" idea, now so popular in the home furnishing field, a styling that permits the selection of any desired number of pieces with the definite assurance that the ensemble will be in perfect taste.

The colored finish used in this group goes well with the mahogany table top just as furniture of all sorts may be used in any room, part of it mahogany and part of it covered with duco of the same shade. Noticeable features of this present group are the four-roll back to the sofa, creating horizontal lines that make the sofa seem longer than it is, and the unique plaid seat covering to both sofa and chair.

Such uncluttered furniture in discrete colors, sitting upon some simple rug with not too much design in its center, always gives the feeling of comfort and hominess to any living room. And that is the one thing that is basically necessary for such a room.

HOOVER FIGHTS BONUS

Without waiting for the so-called bonus bill to be acted on by congress, President Hoover Tuesday issued a statement in which he said he was absolutely opposed to any such legislation. "I do not believe any such legislation can become law," he added.

As President Hoover vetoed the bill last year providing for loans of one-half of the bonus to veterans, and it was then passed over his veto, veterans have taken it for granted that he would fight the proposal to pay the adjusted service certificates in full at the present time.

Congressman Patman of Texas, who is sponsoring one of the present bills for cash payment, now has promised that if the bill is not reported by the ways and means committee of the house, it will be called out by a petition of 145 representatives.

A majority of congressmen are known to favor the bill, but it is not known whether there will be enough to muster the necessary two-thirds majority required to pass it over the president's veto.
