

THE GOLDTHWAITE EAGLE

VOLUME THIRTY-EIGHT

GOLDTHWAITE, MILLS COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, MAY 27, 1932

NUMBER THIRTY-NINE

HIGH SCHOOL CLOSING

Commencement exercises for the Goldthwaite High school were conducted in the Junior High school auditorium last Friday night and the large and well seated auditorium was crowded to standing room with the relatives and friends of the twenty-seven graduates. The exercises were opened at 8:30 by a song by the class, and after the invocation by Rev. G. C. Ivins the salutatorian, Miss Letha Ola Burks, and the valedictorian, Miss Tessie Swanger, made very appropriate speeches to their class members and the audience. The commencement sermon was delivered by Dr. G. C. Schurman, pastor of the First Christian church of Brownwood, a very able speaker who was at his best on this occasion and held his audience in wrapped attention, clothing his thoughts in beautiful language, using most apt illustrations and offering the class of graduates advice of a constructive nature. Those who heard him agree that no finer commencement sermon was ever delivered to a graduating class here than he delivered on this occasion.

Prof. R. H. Mayfield delivered to the honor students certificates of scholarships and then Mr. W. A. Bayley, of the Board of Trustees, delivered the diplomas to the graduates, calling each by name as they passed across the stage.

As a closing number on the program, Judge E. B. Anderson delivered the Self Culture Club loving cup to the two honor students of the seventh grade, Misses Aileen Martin and Sarah Myrtle Fairman.

Thus came to a close the final exercises of one of the most successful terms of school in Goldthwaite's history.

A BAD WRECK

An automobile in which J. D. Brim, Jr., Walter Glenn Saylor, Misses Lucile Bledsoe and Myrnell Johnson were riding last Saturday night was wrecked just north of the city limits, on the Mullin road. Young Brim was driving and he remained in the car, but the other three were thrown out. The young ladies were bruised and scratched some and Brim suffered a cut in the shoulder, while Walter Glenn Saylor was badly hurt, his hip being thrown out of place. He was carried to the hospital in Brownwood, where an X-ray picture was made of the injury and the hip put back in place. He is still in the hospital, but is getting along nicely and will soon be fully recovered.

A SERIOUS CHARGE

Perry Cloud and Venton Luster, two farmers of the Ebony community, were arrested this week on the charge of having burglarized a private residence in their community. The place burglarized was robbed of meat, canned goods and other articles of considerable value, most of which was recovered by the officers. Cloud was arrested at his home and Luster was taken into custody at Brownwood and both were brought to jail at this place. They were granted bond in the sum of $750, but had not made the bond up to the time the Eagle was put to press.

WOOL COMING IN

Something near a half million pounds of wool has been brought to this market, either for sale or storage, and probably as much more will be brought in by the time shearing is over. There has been a good turn out of wool this season, because of the light winter, good pasturage and continued rains. The sheep have fared well and there has been very little loss from any cause. The price of wool is not as high as we all would like, yet the spring clip has put a good deal of money in circulation.

DOWN ON THE FARM

By O. G. H.

Mr. Editor, your printer made my references to "Blackhead" in turkeys read "Blockhead" in turkeys. Now it is well known that turkeys sometimes have "black head," but often turkey growers have "blockhead." The symptoms are neglect of poulters during the growing season. Growers having "blockhead" do not feed a balanced ration, nor do they control lice, mites and chiggers.

The appearance of grasshoppers in great numbers is reported from many parts of Texas. Get ready to fight them for they will invade growing crops as soon as the grass and weeds dry up in the pastures. Poison bran mash will do the work.

Plant lice are now doing great damage to vegetable and flower gardens. Applications of nicotine preparations used according to directions will control sucking insects. Arsenate of lead will control biting insects and Bordeaux mixture will control black rot on grapes. Combination sprays should be used for two or more pests to save time.

The county agent will secure blue prints for trench silos, self-feeders and creepers.

Already four citizens of Comanche county have heard the voice of the people and are willing to make the sacrifice and go to the legislature to represent Comanche and Mills counties.

Mills county farmers should interest themselves in this contest. Questions of vital interest to agriculture will come before the next session and farmers should have a care when selecting a representative.

COTTON GROWING FINE

Reports say the cotton crop is looking fine. The acreage is unusually small in this county.

BAPTIST CHURCH

We have had a number of invitations out for lunch and dinner the last few days. Marvin Rudd even sent his wife to the pastorium to tell us that the chicken Dorothy Nell said was in the pen growing for the preacher was grown and ready to be served. These fellows knew that I have been going to see a dentist for the past few days and knew that I could not eat chicken soup, much less chicken pie. We have them all booked and dated—Marvin Rudd for the first Sunday in August, when our visiting preacher and his family will be with us for our annual revival.

We had a pleasant visit with Mr. Wallace Leverett the other day and he gave us some information that might be encouraging to some and we pass it on: "When 'Ma' becomes governor cotton will be forty cents a pound, wool fifty and mohair sixty. No taxes to pay and gasoline will be free. When 'Ma' moves back into the governor's mansion I am going to move back to the Leverett farm and take it easy."

Max Harrison made his "debut" this week in one of our political conventions. This convention was held in Mineral Wells, where crazy water flows as free as the air we breathe. Max can not understand why a person would buy this "moonshine" liquor to make them crazy when they could just drive over to where he has been and get all the crazy water they want, without price and without violating any law.

We were at the graduating exercises the other night, when a number of our young men and women received their high school diplomas. Doubtless this will be the last time these youngsters will ever be gathered together on an occasion of this kind. Some of you will go on to higher institutions of learning, while some will never enter another school room as a student. Regardless of whether you ever go to school any more or not, as far as your high school is concerned you have gone out into the school of life, never to return. You are going to make life just what you want it to be. A life that will be a blessing or a life that will be a curse. Just remember that this flapper and jelly-bean life will come to naught. Many feel that there is no place for the young man and woman of today with the conditions existing as they are, but do not let anyone deceive you. Tomorrow a new sun will rise and we will be in a new day and the boy and the girl that has prepared themselves today will be ready for the task of tomorrow. My prayer is that you may be worthy of the education, which has been furnished you by our state and by the sacrifices of our citizenship, especially your parents. May you have that self mastery, that lofty ideal and goal in life, and above all, that appreciation of others, which will make your names blessed.

This has been, so far, a good month for us. Six additions to the church and splendid crowds at every service. Next Sunday is "Memorial" Sunday. Let's have the best services so far this month. More at Sunday school and larger crowds at the preaching services. We will speak Sunday morning on an appropriate subject for the day. Let everyone take notice and let everyone take notice and come.

Remember the fifth Sunday meeting begins tonight at Midway, going through Sunday. Dr. Prince of Brownwood, speaks Saturday at 11 a. m. Let every Baptist as well as others attend part of these services at least.

A GOOD SHOW

The Standley Players have been here this week and are giving some good performances. Their tent is located on the McGirk lot, corner of West Fourth and Reynolds streets, and is attracting large audiences.

CONVENTION HIGHLIGHTS

A report from Houston says the Texas Democrats Wednesday were on record as favoring a vote by states on repeal of the Volstead prohibition law, as a result of action taken just before Tuesday midnight, when the state convention was brought to a close with disorder prevailing. It was the first time since Texas adopted statutory prohibition in 1918 that Democrats had indicated anti-prohibition sentiment.

The Star-Telegram gives a summary of the important doings of the convention. Here they are:

Voted 851 to 561 for submission of the dry law question to the states.

Pledged Texas' 46 votes in the national convention at Chicago to Speaker John N. Garner, making him a serious contender for the presidential nomination since he already had California's 44.

Instructed the delegation to the national session to stay with Garner until he releases them.

Ordered delegates to vote as a unit on all questions.

Elected Congressman Rayburn of Bonham, personal friend of Garner and his national campaign director, temporary chairman and keynoter.

Moved to keep negroes out of the primaries, this action having been taken in view of a supreme court decision, which held the executive committee alone did not have the right, under Texas statutes, to bar negroes.

Re-elected Jed C. Adams of Dallas, national committeeman over A. J. Wirtz, Seguin, former state senator.

Decided to send 184 delegates to the national convention and 184 alternates to cast the state's 46 votes.

Indorsed the immediate payment of the soldier bonus.

Demonstrated its mood on the prohibition question by leaving Senator Sheppard off the list of delegates-at-large, but placed his colleague, Tom Connally, on the list.

NEFF RESIGNS

Pat M. Neff submitted his resignation Wednesday as a member of the Texas railroad commission to Governor Sterling. It will become effective at noon on June 4.

Governor Sterling immediately announced the appointment of Ernest O. Thompson of Amarillo to succeed Neff. Thompson will take office at noon on the date of Neff's resignation becomes effective.

Neff resigned to take over the presidency of Baylor University, to which he was elected several weeks ago.

Candidates for the office in the first primary must file their names with the state executive committee by June 6.

Thompson announced he would withdraw as a candidate for the position of congressman-at-large and would seek an elective term on the commission. He planned to start an immediate campaign for the nomination at the primary election. The appointee has been very active as mayor of Amarillo in seeking adjustments of rates charged by public utilities.

A GOOD GRAIN CROP

Prospects are for a heavy small grain crop in Mills county. The grain is already beginning to ripen and early harvesting will begin soon and by the middle of June harvesting will be in full swing. While the price is not what we would all like to see, the fact that supplies of all kinds are much cheaper than in former years makes a big difference in the returns from the crop.

MOUNT OLIVE

This gay reporter has been enjoying farm life to the fullest extent the past few days. Careless weeds, Johnson grass and cockleburrs have been my chief source of amusement. However, the chiggers haven't kept me from gossiping, so here goes.

Mr. and Mrs. Otis Aldredge and family have returned to spend their early vacation with the mountain folk.

The young folk enjoyed a party at Tully Lee's Saturday night.

Our singing was well attended Sunday afternoon. We will have another singing Sunday afternoon. Remember—punctuality is the life of a successful singing class. We will begin singing at 2:30 p. m.

Everybody except Miss Marion caught their quota of fish. After they had fished all day, a delightful fish fry was enjoyed by all. Next, ice cream was served, afterwards a few went in bathing, while the rest played bridge. Mr. Gody stayed quite late and his friends were sorry that his visit had to be brief. He returned home Tuesday morning via the Rio Grande Valley.

ANOTHER TRANS-ATLANTIC RECORD

Amelia Earhart Putnam, the first woman ever to fly the Atlantic alone, landed Saturday afternoon in a field of green countryside of North Ireland, after a hazardous flight in which she conquered fog and storm and the even more dangerous menace of fire.

Four hours after she put out from Harbor Grace, Newfoundland, she saw flames spitting from her exhaust, but she did not turn back. "I thought it safer to go ahead," she said.

Saturday night she slept in the farmhouse of Robert Gallagher, owner of the field in which she landed. Sunday she proceeded to Croydon, England, in a borrowed airplane, leaving her own red and gold monoplane to be crated up and shipped home.

Flying on the fifth anniversary of the successful conclusion of Charles A. Lindbergh's New York to Paris hop, she put her name just under his on the roll of transatlantic honors, for Col. Lindbergh is the only other person in the world who has made a solo transatlantic flight.

Mrs. Putnam made approximately 2000 miles in 14 hours and 54 minutes, giving her the best time record of any of the transatlantic fliers. She was headed for Paris, when she took off from Harbor Grace, but she encountered too much trouble to make it possible to go any farther — almost too much to get to Ireland.

"About four hours after leaving Newfoundland," she said, "I noticed flames from the exhaust and became very uneasy. But it would have taken four hours to get back and I thought it safer to go ahead."

"My next trouble was a leak in the gasoline tank and all the time I was worried whether the fuel would last out the trip."

"To add to my troubles, I encountered heavy weather and the storm curtailed my speed."

"I saw land at about the middle of Ireland—probably it was Galway—and then flew north. I next saw a railroad line and followed that to Londonderry, and I finally landed in the field."

"All I had to eat on the trip was some tomato juice. The only clothes I have with me are the flying suit on my back and the only money I have is $20 that was handed to me as I was leaving. I haven't even a check to sign."

Mrs. Putnam revealed that she almost met disaster when she landed. Her plane came to rest within a few yards of a farmer's cottage, and she, very tired and half blinded by the continuous strain on her eyes did not see the house until the ship stopped.

The arrival of the slim, blond 33-year-old airwoman was so unexpected that even the Londonderry police had a hard time finding her when they learned she had put their community in the all-time log of big aviation feats.

TRAINING SESSION

A training session for scoutmasters and assistants and troop committeemen will be held in San Saba Monday night, May 30. Lometa, Lampasas, Goldthwaite, Richland Springs and San Saba are in this set-up. BIRTHDAY PARTY

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Mahan of Moline entertained their little daughters, Masie and Nellie, with a birthday party Monday afternoon.

Children each gave Masie an anniversary present. They thank each other in their own little sweet way.

After games were played the children were called into the dining room, where there was a table with two little white cakes with pink candles—one with 5 which belonged to Masie, and one with 3 for Nellie. There was a pretty bouquet of honeysuckle and roses in the center of the table. After the candles were blown out lemonade and cake was served to the following: Frankie, Odas and Mildred Adams; Mary Alice and Joe Fox, Jr.; Nelda and Ruth Brown, Wilba Dean Underwood, Printiss, Shirley and June Tubbs, Wilma, Era Mae Milton, Ernest, Ina and Gene Hairston, Fay Brandon, Christine, Evelyn, and Ruth Soules, Bobbie and Billie Duncan. The children all said they had a good time and wished for Masie and Nellie many more happy birthdays.

LOOKING TO THE FARE

In years to come, the far places of the world will mean almost as much, from the commercial standpoint, to millions of Americans as do their home towns and states.

Ten per cent of our total trade depends on overseas markets. And that ten per cent, as John S. Carson, vice-president of the American and Foreign Power company, recently pointed out, marks the difference between profit and loss in the grand balance sheet of American business. The fact that so many of our industries are swimming in red ink is the direct result of the tremendous drop in the volume of our foreign trade that has occurred during the past year or two.

In 1928 our total export trade according to President Hoover, provided the livelihood for 2,400,000 families. Since then our exports have dropped over 50 per cent. This means that 1,200,000 families, including some three million individuals, have suffered. Their buying power has dropped—they are no longer able to do their part in keeping the industrial machine in motion. Their misfortune has thus been felt directly or indirectly, in millions of other families.

Unprejudiced minds are looking across the seas, knowing that in the modern world, isolation means industrial suicide—that employment for millions of our fellow citizens is dependent on the markets of distant lands.

FOOL-PROOF ROADS

In the Connecticut Motorist for April, J. E. Pennybacker considers the subject of "fool-proof roads."

The fool-proof road is simply one which does not contribute to the death or injury of the motorist or pedestrian, or to property damage. It is a road, which to the greatest possible degree, mitigates the potential effects of human carelessness.

Such a road demands ample width. It requires absolutely clear vision at all important intersections. It must have adequately surfaced shoulders, and avoid sharp curves. It must be of a color which eliminates sun glare. And, perhaps, most important, it must achieve the highest standards of "skid-proof" construction.

The United States has not many roads which live up to these specifications. But modern materials and construction technique have made it possible to build fine, safe highways, even in remote areas, at a very modest cost. The proper banking of curves and placing of guard rails will reduce the accident hazard. It is cheaper in the long run, entirely aside from the question of accidents, to build full-width roads, than to build half-width and add to them afterward.

INSURANCE AGAINST FIRE DISASTER

The community which provides itself with cheap or inadequate fire equipment, from a mistaken idea of economy, is courting disaster.

First class, fire fighting equipment is as necessary to a town as a good water supply. The money it costs is often returned over and over again to the community, by extinguishing a single fire, which would otherwise have gotten beyond control. Goldthwaite has shown wisdom in this particular.

Reduced 30 Lbs. Never Felt Better

Safe Way to Lose Fat

Take the case of Miss Madeline Crowley, for instance, who lives in Little Rock, Ark. Just read her letter:

"I have used Kruschen Salts for one year—when I started I weighed 140 pounds—now I weigh 110 pounds and never felt better in my life."

That's the big reason a host of men and women take Kruschen to lose weight—as the fat goes you gain in health—skin clears—eyes grow bright—activity replaces indolence.

Take one-half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—cut down on fatty meats, potatoes and sweets—a jar of Kruschen that costs but a trifle lasts 4 weeks—get it at Hudson Bros. or any druggist in the world—but for your health's sake demand and get Kruschen Salts.

GARNER'S AID PLAN

Prepared to seek early action on his $2,100,000,000 relief program, Speaker John N. Garner of the house, has directed legislative counsel to place the program in bill form.

Garner said that he would not introduce the bill himself. The program is expected to be divided between three committees.

The relief program, which embraces $100,000,000 to be used by the president for direct relief, $1,000,000,000 to be administered by the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and $1,000,000,000 for federal public work, may be pushed through the house next week.

Explaining the plan, Garner said the public works program was a one-year plan, and could be elaborated upon in the next session, if necessary.

He criticized the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for passing by "the great middle corporate class" in administering the affairs of the $2,000,000,000 organization.

Under present legal restrictions, he said, the corporation had loaned to railroads and other big institutions and to tenant farms, but ignored the smaller fellow.

"It has skipped the great corporate class," he said, adding that congress intended that the corporation would provide employment.

Under his own relief plan, he said, all restrictions on loans would be removed. The corporation would have power to make loans to cities and states for public works and to corporations which might provide jobs.

BILIOUS

"I have used Black-Draught... and have not found anything that could take its place. I take Black-Draught for biliousness. When I get bilious, I have a nervous headache and a nervous, trembling feeling that unfits me for my work. After I take a few doses of Black-Draught, I get all right. When I begin to get bilious, I feel tired and run-down, and then the headache and trembling. But Black-Draught relieves all this."—H. C. Hendrix, Honorville, Ga.

Colorful Gliders for Summer Living

GAY and summery, for garden, indoor porch, veranda, terrace or sun parlor, the modern glider has a decorative gift to bring to lawn or yard as well as offering easy comfort untroubled by sun, wind, or weather. The ball-bearing steel frame and sliding metal arms are finished in green enamel and the cushions, either single or three seat wide, are covered with fabric in various bright and cheery colors, alluring against the green of the lawn and shrubbery and unaffected by the passing showers, for they are waterproof and may be wiped off and dried quickly when wet by rain or dew.

Colors riot delightfully in these gliders as they often do in the gay outdoors and lacquered furniture to be found on the modern lawn. Some of the cushions are in board patterns in green and red, blue and white, and are in plain or caracul grain, green with red boxing, red with black, black with black green with red, or an under-sea pattern in green with sea vegetation and fish on both seats and back cushions.

In the choice of lawn furniture or fittings for the unprotected terrace, there are a few important things to consider. The first, of course, is comfort. No furniture is any good merely because it looks well. Then care should be taken that the glider and chairs and tables are resistant to rain and sun because accidents will happen and the summer shower, like the winter snow, can be very destructive of fragile materials. And, finally, out-of-doors is a place of bright lights and vivid hues. It is well to choose the furniture for such places with a lively eye for color. Such a combination means many hours of out-door pleasure during the warm months.

Decorative Doors That Fold Like Curtains

Decorative folding doors are the newest things to seize the imagination of modern home decorators and designers as solving the problem of how to close off adjoining rooms or divide big rooms into smaller ones in a way agreeable to the color plan. And for wide doorways they are found particularly advantageous. These folding doors resemble draperies more than anything else, and being covered with fabricoid, they can be colored to harmonize with the surroundings and blend with my color scheme.

For home use, these doors are made with neither top nor bottom track and yet fold securely into a small space near the door jam and are further blinged so that they may be swung at right angles if desired, readily taking the place of both doors and draperies. The framework of these doors is steel and is covered with felt upon which is imposed the fabricoid which may be of any tone, either with a design, or plain, and may be wiped with a damp cloth as often as necessary to keep it clean. This makes an unusually sound resistant door. The ways in which a housewife with imagination may decorate such a door are endless, either with sprayed designs or with colors agreeable to the wall paper. The fact that the door looks a good deal like a curtain when opened, and certainly takes up no more room, is attractive to many women who are embarrassed by the space taken up by open doors. And the fact that they can be washed without removing them is another of their appealing qualities. Builders are increasingly specifying this type of door in new houses and many of them are being used in old ones where they are found to have not only a decorative but a very practical appearance.

THE STILL SMALL VOICE
(Ila Fay Featherston)

As I gaze out upon the autumn,
On the exquisite tinted leaves
"I would that my tongue could utter
The thoughts that arise in me."
The thoughts of adoration,
Of wonderment and all,
Of love for the Great Creator,
I stand and gaze with awe.
I feast upon its riches,
Of beauty rare untold,
Of hills and valleys, covered
With treasures, ages old.
Treasures of beauty and nature
Treasures, no, not gold,
Treasures everlasting,
That don't decay or mould.
As I gaze out on these treasures
Seeming lifeless in the sun,
But for the gentle breezes,
Swaying softly to and from.
A still small voice comes slowly Speaks in tender soothing tones,
"There's a meaning in this
glory,
Yea, a lesson here is shown."
"These are yours, my worthy fellow,
Yours to do just what you may,
God grant you'll gain an inspiration,
To take with you on your way."

UP AND DOING
(Ila Fay Featherston)

Do today without delay
The things you know are good.
Do and say without delay,
The things your know you should.
Sow good deeds and not the weeds
Love and joy impart.
Sow the seeds which bear good deeds
To every human heart.
Love and live that you may give
To those who are sore oppressed;
For them live and to them give
You will attain the best.

I hope as I journey on my way
With me they'll continue to

Chicago, Convention Champion of 1932

Chicago Stadium in which the Democratic National Convention will be held. Melvin A. Traylor, member of the Civic Committee which obtained the Convention for Chicago.

CHICAGO has jumped into a long lead over other cities in the race for winning convention assignments. Getting the two great assemblages of Democrats and Republicans in June puts Chicago well in the lead and gives the "Windy City" an opportunity to stage these colorful affairs as a certain primer to the "Century of Progress" which will be a headline attraction in 1933. Already the convention pot is boiling merrily as committees of prominent business men are organizing to receive thousands of visitors in Chicago during June. One of the leaders who has helped to bring the blue ribbon convention assignments to Chicago is Melvin A. Traylor, president of the First National Bank and a business man with a flair for tackling big jobs. Mr. Traylor, a native of Kentucky, has achieved national and international

AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT RATE INCREASES

Motor vehicle fatalities are rising again! Last year the reckless, incompetent or irresponsible driver was responsible for almost 35,000 unnecessary deaths. This ghastly, nationwide massacre is destined to be not only repeated, but made worse in 1932 unless something stops the present trend.

During the first two months of the year, 4,800 people were killed by automobiles, against 4,300 in same period in 1931, or an increase of more than 10 per cent.

That automobile deaths can be prevented is shown by the record of individual towns. Lowell, Mass., with over 100,000 population, went through the two-month period without a single traffic fatality. Fine records were likewise made by St. Paul, Boston and St. Louis. But their work was offset by those other towns and cities in which safe driving was apparently the exception, not the rule.

At the time the statistics were made up, there were ten months left of 1932 in which to reduce or increase the accident record. The majority of drivers are competent and courteous—probably less than 10 per cent cause the accidents. Either those 10 per cent must be cured, by the weight of public opinion or the force of law, or they must be prevented from using the public streets and highways.

A $17.50 vase purchased by Alfred I. DuPont, on a chance visit to a curio shop in Cairo, Egypt, has been found to contain ancient coins worth thousands of dollars. Du Pont made known Saturday. He purchased the vase on a tour last year and its contents, a curious piece of mineral formation about eight inches in circumference, went with the bargain. On his return to America Du Pont had a chemist break open the formation. He found a collection of gold and silver coins which, from the best information obtainable, are believed to be coins of the time of Ptolemy, 300 B.C. The vase was said to have been found in excavations near the tomb of an ancient Egyptian ruler. The formation inside was believed to have resulted from chemical action about the coins and dirt in the long years the vase was buried.

fame in finance and business by his distinguished service in Chicago, Texas and throughout the Middle West. He was one of the delegation headed by E. N. Hurley and Mayor Carmack of Chicago who went to Washington and clinched their bid for the National Democratic Convention with a fund of $200,000. Chicago has exceptional facilities for entertaining both Republican and Democratic conventions within a single month. Already the engineers are at work with blue prints to arrange the interior of the huge Chicago Stadium where both conventions will be held. The assembling of both conventions promises to be a great spectacle, for the arena where delegates will be seated will accommodate between 8,000 and 10,000. Circling the arena are 10,000 seats where guests and visitors may be accommodated.

WE'RE FOR GREGG

The Santa Anna News and other papers in Brown and Coleman counties announce the candidacy of J. J. Gregg for representative to the legislature and the Eagle is for him strong. Mr. Gregg is the editor of the Santa Anna News and also devotes some of his time to farming, thereby having an insight into the needs of the business men and the farmers. He is a man of ability and strong personality and if the people of his district send him to the legislature — and they will—they can be sure he will be heard from early and often. He is a man of sound judgment and mature thinking, with the courage of his convictions and a will to bring things to pass. He was a citizen of Goldthwaite in the long ago and if the people of his district will allow proxy votes we will send him a full box from this place.

TRUCK LAW SUSTAINED

The Texas law regulating the size and weight of loads of commercial motor vehicles, which may use its highways was sustained by the supreme court of the United States Monday.

In May, 1931, the Texas legislature enacted a law prescribing the size of commercial motor vehicles which might operate over its highways and limited the load transported on trucks to 7,000 pounds.

Ed Sproles and others operating motor vehicles over the state highways, some as common carriers and others as private carriers, challenged the validity of the regulations and contended their vehicles could not be lawfully operated under the law.

A district court sustained the law, but granted a temporary order preventing enforcement of the load limit until the supreme court would review the case.

In an opinion read by Chief Justice Hughes the court held that in exercising its authority over its highways the state is not limited to the raising of revenue for maintenance and reconstruction, or to regulations as to the manner in which vehicles shall be operated, but may also prevent the wear and hazards due to excessive size of vehicles and weight of load.

"Limitations of size and weight are manifestly subjects within the broad range of legislative discretion," it said.

"In the absence of national legislation especially covering the subject of interstate commerce, the state may rightly prescribe uniform regulations adapted to promote safety upon its highways and the conservation of their use, applicable alike to vehicles moving in interstate commerce and those of its own citizens.

THE SCARECROW IN FINANCE

Fear works havoc in finance. Not lack of money, but lack of faith puts business on the skids. Banks fear frozen assets and depositors fear failures.

Fear is the boarding fiend. A dollar will buy almost as much again as it would a year or two back; but it has been afraid to venture. Fear makes folks jumpy.

Fear made the big way. Fear keeps nations armed to the teeth and stands in the way of reduction of armaments. Mind is the hardest thing in the world to disarm. When countries shiver in their boots, they spend billions annually.

We pay pitifully small sums for the institutions that take away fear—the school and church. When people know what makes the window rattle they cease to be nervous. Specters are driven from the cellars and ghosts from the attics by knowledge.

More books and less gunpowder would help.

Ghosts are scarecrows, phantom men made of broomsticks and super-annuated rags.

We are afraid of the failure, of disease, of attacks in the night, of bankruptcy, of hunger, of the poorhouse, of war. We borrow trouble and have enough of our own.

Even crows roost on scarecrows.—Los Angeles Times.

The 1931 death rate for Texas was given as approximately nine persons for each 1000 population in a report of the bureau of vital statistics released Saturday.

George Cylvannus Moler, 81, emeritus professor of physics at Cornell University, whose invention of the first commercial dynamo in the western hemisphere illuminated the Cornell campus with electricity when the great cities of the world were still using flickering gas jets, died Friday at the home of his daughter in Trenton, N. J. He was credited with having taken the first X-ray photographs, after news of the discovery of the X-ray was cabled from abroad.

WAGE LAW VAGUE

Attack on the constitutional-ity of a state labor law requiring contractors on public works to pay the current wage scale in the locality of the project, was made before a three-judge federal court in Austin by contractors erecting buildings at the University of Texas.

The contractors contended the law was too vague and indefinite since no definition could be applied to the terms "locality" and "current wage scale" and that delegation of power by the legislature to the labor commissioner to determine the current wage scale was invalid.

State Labor Commissioner R. B. Gragg attempted to force the contractors to pay a current wage scale. A temporary injunction restraining him from proceeding against the contractors was secured by them in federal court. The hearing was on application to make the injunction permanent.

Maurice Cheek, assistant attorney general, argued that reasonable construction of the contested terms made them understandable by a person of average intelligence. He also asserted the legislature had authority to delegate power to the labor commissioner to prosecute violations of the labor laws, when based on findings of fact.

Gragg held a hearing early in April, at which he determined University contractors were not paying the current wage scale. Cheek stated that no attack was made by the contractors that Gragg's findings were not correct, but they sought to restrain him from enforcing the findings by declaring the terms of the law under which they were made were vague and indefinite.

Women of Turkey have finally taken up their Western sisters' idea of reducing Plumpness is no longer a feminine attraction there, and the campaign to retain "that girlish figure" and to reduce the waist line is growing. Dancing, tennis and walking are very popular, and once languid ladies who spent their days resting on pillows are taking brisk walks.

BEAUTY in the HOME

Period and Contemporary Furnishings May Blend

ONE of the most usual complaints about the increasing vogue for modern American, or so called contemporary, decorations and furniture is that the modern will not "go with" the old. That is, if one has period chairs or other furnishings they cannot be used, if the room is to be decorated with modern fabrics after the contemporary fashion. This is true to only a very slight extent. The placing of furniture in a room done in the modern manner requires some artistic sense but, if it is done judiciously, the result is very attractive, and a perfect harmony can be secured.

The above picture is a good example of the blending of the old and the new and is taken from the hall of an apartment recently decorated by Pierre Barbe, the Paris architect and decorator. In this case the treatment of the walls, which are finished in deep shades of dark mahogany color, the lighting and the carpets are thoroughly modern. At the same time, many of the pieces of old furniture were used, some of them arm chairs of the Louis XV period, and because of the simplicity of their design and the charm of their coloring they fit as well as if they were made for the room.

Here the dark tone of the ducced walls which are made into panels by the use of metal strips is set off by a light grey carpet and the gray of the arm chair. More and more, modern lacquers, textiles and rubberized fabrics are making their way into the best furnished homes. They need not supersede all of the old but can be, by the use of a little artistic sense and consideration, made to give delightful backgrounds and decorations to rooms where old American or period furniture is used, either because of its inherent beauty or because of family tradition.

Given a good piece of furniture, of almost any period, and it will not be out of keeping if properly placed and the latest and most delightful of sophisticated color schemes and fabric combinations can be enjoyed without fear of displeasing your taste.

ANNOUNCEMENT

To the Taxpayers and Other
Voters of Comanche and Mills
Counties:

Having been solicited by George W. Rollins and on the resignation of Hon. Homer C. DeWolfe, who was in the race, I have decided to become a candidate for the office of representative from Comanche and Mills counties.

I was born and reared on the farm. Have been in Texas twenty-four years and lived in Comanche county about twenty years. During this time I have had daily contact with the farmers and other working people.
For four years I worked in the harvest fields and ginned cotton, in the black lands. During my time of residence in DeLeon I have been employed about eight-teen years as fireman and engineer on the M. K. & T. railroad, and a part of my time, for the past two years, I have been employed by the Humble Pipe Line company.

While working on the Katy I was for six years Legislative Representative for the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen. This work carried me to all parts of the state and often into other states and my contacts with the different sections and people of Texas, as well as other states, has given me a practical insight into the political needs of the people, especially the people upon whose shoulders fall the heaviest burdens at this time, and that is the working class of people in all walks of life.

I am not trying to revolutionize the entire state government.
That would be too much of a job for me, but I realize that our chief concern should be, and mine will be, if elected, to lower the taxes of the people of this district. I favor a reduction in poll tax and rigid economy in the operation of state government. My chief concern will be to help enact such measures that might come up that would affect the welfare of the taxpayers of this district, with equal rights to all and special privileges to none.

I will appreciate a careful consideration of my candidacy.
GEORGE W. ROLLINS,

A Weatherford banker and delegate from Parker county to the State Democratic convention at Houston attended the convention wearing a summer suit which has brought him considerable fame. He plucked the cotton from his fields, paid a ginner 35 cents to gin it, spun the threads himself on an old family spinning wheel and painstakingly wove them into cloth on a loom which was brought from Kentucky when his family migrated to Texas in 1882. The only additional cost of the suit was the amount which he paid to a tailor to make it. The experiment, he remarked, might be regarded as a contribution to the many suggestions for getting on in the world in this day of unemployment and depression.

A liquor truck driver's fear that he would be arrested led to the capture early this week by state highway patrolmen, of a truck loaded with liquors in Austin. The chief of the state highway patrol said he believed the liquor was being sent from Temple to San Antonio.
The truck was stopped by highway patrolmen, who were checking weights of trucks being operated on the state highway.
When first hailed, the driver refused to stop. He was pursued several blocks and ordered to turn around and return to the weighing station. Preceded by the patrolmen, the driver started back, but suddenly stopped, jumped and ran. He was believed to have escaped into the Colorado river bottoms. State police said the liquor would be turned over to federal authorities.

MUST NAME PLACE

Democratic candidates for congress-at-large must run for places one, two and three in the July primary as ordered by the state Democratic executive committee, the state supreme court ruled Wednesday.

The court, answering a certified question from the fourth court of civil appeals at San Antonio, held that the committee
"did have the right, power and authority to adopt and enforce the method prescribed in its resolution of March 9 (which designated three numerical places) for the nomination of candidates for congressman at large from this state."

The ruling was made on an appeal by Clinton G. Brown and other members of the committee from a mandamus, filed by Mrs.
Ida Darden of Fort Worth, seeking to compel them to accept her candidacy without place designation.

It was her contention that all candidates should be in one ballot section, and the highest six in the first primary election be certified as candidates for the second primary and the highest three in that election be the nominees.

Failure of the state legislature to redistrict the state, after the last census makes it necessary to elect three congressmen at large in Texas this year.

SMITH CARAWAY

PASSED AWAY

Mr. K. S. Caraway died at his home in this city Wednesday morning, after a long illness and his remains were laid to rest in the cemetery here yesterday morning at 10 o'clock, services being held at the cemetery and attended by a large number of sorrowing relatives and friends.

Mr. Caraway was a pioneer citizen of this county. A good many years ago he moved to Stonewall county, where he lived a number of years and then moved back to this place, where he continued to reside. He was known to all of the old settlers and most everybody else and all who knew him held him in high esteem. He was an upright, honorable man and one who was of a friendly turn, ever ready to do a kindness to those who needed his help.

He leaves his wife, three daughters and three sons, all grown and a number of grandchildren and other relatives. His daughters are Mrs. J. J. Meador and Mrs. J. V. Cockrum, both of this city; Mrs. H. A. Carter of Dallas. His sons are B. K., E. L. and Tom, the latter living in Nevada and was unable to be here for the funeral.

The bereaved family can be sure of the sincere sympathy of all who know of their bereavement.

IRAQ IS RATHER FREE

The Arabian Kingdom of Iraq is set up as an independent nation by the League of Nations council, which declares the British mandate at an end. Bagdad, the fabled city, the dream city of old stories, the great and luxurious capital of a rich and mighty empire of the long ago, becomes now the capital of the newest of new states. Iraq has a king and a capital ready made, which is an initial advantage for any new born nation.

It is not without stipulations that Geneva relieves Great Britain of the mandate and hands the country over to the Iraqi monarchy. Iraq must maintain the financial obligations incurred under the mandate. She must respect existing international commitments. She must provide absolute equality for racial minorities as well as for all religions. It should not be difficult.
If Iraq is not left absolutely to her own devices she may be called somewhat more than rather free.

The petroleum wealth of Iraq is important, and under efficient European development it will prove a source of wealth to this Arabian kingdom. Iraq will not attain the golden glory of the old days of the califate, but, all things considered, it will be a much better land. Life will be safer if less luxurious, and an Arabian people will have its long desired chance to stand on an equality with the most self-respecting. As for Great Britain, one does not doubt her happiness in ridding herself of the Iraq responsibility.— Cleveland Plain Dealer.

RELIEF BILL REPORTED

Senate Democrats pushed their $2,300,000,000 unemployment relief bill forward this week despite President Hoover's emphatic opposition to its provision for a $500,000,000 public works bond issue.

The bill was formally introduced after receiving the unanimous approval of the combined Democratic steering and policy committees. It was referred to the Banking Committee.

Chairman Norbeck announced that committee would begin consideration of the bill next Wednesday and probably hold brief hearings at which administration officials would be called.

At the same time Speaker Garner said his $2,100,000,000 policy program had been drafted into a bill and would be introduced at once.

Republicans on both sides of the Capitol waited for the Democratic bills, determined if possible to reach a compromise acceptable to the president.

The Democratic bill, which was presented to the Senate by Chairman Wagner of the subcommittee which drafted it, provides in addition to the bond issue an increased capitalization of $1,500,000,000 for the Reconstruction Corporation for loans on self-liquidating projects and $300,000,000 for direct relief loans to states.

Senator Robinson, Arkansas,
the Democratic leader, who helped to frame the bill, said he would not agree to a recess for the convention in June unless the bill was acted upon.

THE DRIVER'S BANE

Mental lapses are a far more important cause of automobile accidents than is commonly believed. While the reports of accidents may give physical causes, such as reckless driving, wrong side of the road, "cutting in, etc., those may only be symptoms of a disturbed mental state, asserts Dr. H. J. Stack of the National Bureau of Casualty and Surety Underwriters, who says:

"Extreme hurry or worry causing intense preoccupation, fatigue, elation, or excitement,
or slowed down reaction as a result of the indulgence in alcohol or other narcotics may be behind an accident. Many of these mental conditions are within our control."

1. Take a short rest or let someone else drive the car when you have been driving for a long period at night.

2. Be especially alert when hurrying to work so that you can keep your mind on your driving.

3. The best place for the confirmed back-seat driver is at home.

4. Don't day dream when driving a car or crossing the street.

LEAP YEAR OBSERVED

A large number of girls took up the role as wooc's Saturday night, when Miss Merle Lockridge entertained her friends with a leap year party.

At an early hour young men, escorted by pretty maidens, began to arrive at Miss Lockridge's home. Then various games were enjoyed by all.

Perhaps the greatest feature of the evening was the fortune teller, who had arrived at the party, just to tell each what the future held in store for them. Each not only had their future read, but received a picture of their future mate.

It was then announced that there was a person present who would answer any question that anyone wished to ask if they would write it down. Without looking at the written question Miss Blanche Burkett told what the question was and answered it to the amazement of those present.

A popularity contest followed and the most popular girl and boy at the party were presented with a prize. Miss Lillian Doris Fletcher and Hoyt Williams received the prizes for this contest.

At last the girls had their chance, when each was given the privilege of proposing to their chosen one. Some were accepted, while the more bashful swains refused.

Finally the boys were given a chance to tell the maiden who invited him why she would not make him a good wife. Some did not have any reason, but thought she would.

All too soon it was time for the maidens to escort their victims home, but each left feeling that they had indeed a good time, and the boys declared they would not mind going to a leap year party often.

Bob Reynolds, one of Trigger Mountain's young farmers, was in Mullin Monday looking for goobers to plant. He says he wants to try and raise everything good to eat. This being leap year we might add just a little tip to the girls. Bob is of a marriageable age and mind.

During the past two weeks the sheep men through this section have been very busy shearing their sheep and some are storing their wool and others are putting it on the market. The clip has been very satisfactory this year, having had a fine winter and spring for the sheep. Grass and weeds have been good most of the time. However, the slump in price has certainly put a crimp in the sale of the wool. However, the most of the wool will be sold or consigned within the next thirty days.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Brown of Brownwood spent the week end here with relatives and went over to Glen Rose, where Mrs. Brown intends to spend some time for her health.

L. C. Atkinson of Ridge was here one day during the past week. He says that he is figuring very strongly on going into the business if he can find some bees and some gums to put them in. Lewis says he believes in diversification.

Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Goodwin and children accompanied by some neighbors of Blanket spent a few days during the past week fishing on the Peacan bayou. John Burkett of Mullin accompanied them and reports a splendid catch of fish and a good time in general.

Mrs. Linn will remain here with her daughter, Mrs. Scott, until June 4, after which she will visit in Santa Barbara, California.

Few people you meet now around Mullin that isn't boasting about their good gardens. This means that another canning season has arrived and that we are going to feed ourselves for another year in spite of the depression. But after all, where can be found a better county than good old Mills. We can raise most anything that will grow on the farm and a better stock country can not be found and the best people on earth—how can the depression outwit a combination like that?

JURORS ARE RESPONSIBLE

Most of the flaws in criminal justice are due to the mistakes of jurors, said Guy A. Thompson, president of the American Bar Association, in his Mineral Wells address to the Texas Bar Association. That is true, and, being true, it seems to argue that the jury system ought either to be abandoned or revised.

It does not comport with the genius of American government to abolish the jury system altogether. There is something in our national tradition, apparently, which demands that a defendant be accorded the rights of that system. But it is plain that the service of the Texas juror is made unnecessarily distasteful, the method of selecting him for that service is slow, illogical and sometimes degrading, and the decisions asked of him are clearly beyond the powers of the untrained man.

The lawyer in this state who examines a prospective juror frequently handles him as if he were a criminal or at least a person bent upon perverting justice. Once he is in the box he is treated as if he were a simpleton—he actually is in all too many instances, owing to the habit of weeding out the readers of current newspapers. But, aside from these abuses, the law itself imposes on him the duty of determining expert questions of sanity, for example, and of adjusting the degree of punishment to the magnitude of the crime, although the juror may be unfamiliar with what punishment similar crimes have earned. Finally, the law burdens the juror with the essentially judicial duty of extending mercy in suspended sentence cases with no rule save impulse to guide him.

The law errs in not itself respecting the dignity of jury duty and in not forcing lawyers to respect it. The law errs in not taking the qualifying of jurors largely out of the hands of lawyers. It errs most of all in not limiting the issue to be decided by the jury to the single one of guilt or innocence of a specific offense.—Dallas News.

Mrs. Kelly Saylor has been in Brownwood this week, at the bedside of her son, who suffered a dislocated hip in an auto accident last Saturday night.

"CYCLONE" IS HIS NAME

"Cyclone" legally became a part of the name of J. H. Davis, Sulphur Springs political leader, in district court in Greenville Wednesday. He is a former congressman. Davis, known widely as "Cyclone" Davis, is a candidate for congressman-at-large. He took court action to have the name made legal in order to get it on the ticket. He was nicknamed "Cyclone" years ago, after a debate with a Kentucky politician.

DOMESTIC POTASH DEVELOPMENTS

The Sheppard bill enacted by congress in 1926 was designed to encourage the expansion of a domestic potash industry capable of meeting the requirements of the $25,000,000 American market for this indispensable chemical. That measure provided for an annual expenditure of $100,000 over a period of five years by the departments of the interior and commerce for financing surveys, test drillings and development of the potash resources of Texas and New Mexico.

About 90 per cent of the potash used in this country goes into fertilizers and from 88 to 95 per cent of domestic needs has been supplied heretofore by the Franco-German Syndicate, or chiefly by the Kali-Syndikat of Germany. A preliminary report of the Bureau of Mines indicates, however, that the development work of the government has yielded tangible results, although production is largely in the hands of private companies. At any rate, the domestic output of potash in 1931 amounted to 133,920 short tons, an increase of 26 1/2 per cent over 1930, while importations decreased 41 per cent during the same period to 578,657 short tons. Ironically enough, however, the major portion of last year's domestic production was accounted for by the American subsidiary of a British box and potash firm, whose mines are located near Carlshad, N. M.

The policy of the foreign syndicate in holding prices at steady and unchanged levels without regard to general business conditions has no doubt also aided the recent expansion in the domestic industry. During the last year, for instance, the prices of all fertilizer materials have declined 14.5 per cent, and mixed fertilizers 14 per cent, while the prices charged for foreign potash have remained practically unchanged, barring larger discounts to buyers for early shipment. — New York Journal of Commerce.

TRANSPORTATION FOR THE FARMER

Perhaps the most pronounced progress of our time has been made in the direction of improved transportation. Good roads and better and cheaper cars to use them, have caused miraculous changes in the business and social lives of the American people.

Of all classes of citizens, the farmer has been the least benefited in this. Most farmers have cars and trucks. But few farmers have access to roads that are usable at all times of the year, or that permit the greatest possible efficiency in transport at any season. The rough road, the road that becomes one long series of mudholes in winter, the road that goes to pieces under snow or a good hard rain—these are still characteristic, speaking generally, of rural America.

A few states have done fine work in building good farm-to-market roads. They have realized that the best main highway in the world is of no use to the farmer if his home is five or ten miles away on an impassable dirt road. They have, consequently, done much in recent years to provide secondary roads suitable for all types of travel, and passable at all times, connecting the small village and the farm with the outside world.

These roads cost little, in comparison to the cost of high-type highways. Five thousand dollars a mile or less will provide asphaltic type surfaces which will withstand all but the heaviest traffic. A few hundred dollars a year will ordinarily keep them in first-class condition. The benefits they bring farmers and small town business men are inestimable greater than their cost. No state can afford to let its farmers languish in the mud nowadays—every state can, by careful road planning, build good secondary arteries without inflating the tax bill.

Instead of leaving the pollenization of flowers to insects or the wind, some growers are now using spray guns. Orchardists and tomato growers gather the pollen with a miniature vacuum siphon, a vibrating needle loosening the pollen dust.

THE TAX FLOOD

A reasonable return to prosperity cannot take place as long as business must first absorb the astonishingly rapid increase in governmental expenditures in our nation, according to President Joe H. Gill of the Florida Power and Light Company.

"The situation has reached the point where further increases in cost of government cannot be absorbed and it is my feeling that the return to prosperity will be long, hard, uphill climb for America under the constant drain of its resources to the extent that is required today for the support of governmental activities."

The San Francisco Chronicle makes this biting statement about the tax farce being staged in Congress: "Instead of quibbling over a program for the saving of mere millions in governmental expenses, congress should try for economy of a billion."

"Governmental expenditures for 1932 are just a shade below $4,000,000,000. A reduction of 25 per cent would save a billion. Millions of individuals have had to cut their personal budgets 25 per cent in the last three years."

Senator Capper of Kansas hit the tax question with a sledge hammer when he proposed that whenever a body of citizens petition congress for measures involving large appropriations for special services to a limited territory, they include with their petition a statement like this: "And in order to raise the money thus called for, we request that you assess us a tax necessary to meet the expenditure."

Senator Capper is right in proposing that those who seek special favors at the hands of government, be prepared to pay for expenditures secured instead of loading the burden onto the general taxpayer who, in the majority of cases, receives little or no benefit from such projects, although he is now taxed staggering sums to pay for them.

A recent press dispatch stated that work on Boulder Dam might be delayed due to insufficient appropriations. There are millions of over-burdened taxpayers who wonder just why any money need be spent on Boulder Dam at this time.

Another news story states that construction projects are being urged on the Columbia river, which will require some $360,000,000 of public funds for flood control, power and reclamation projects. The records do not indicate that the Columbia is given to floods of a serious nature. There is already more farm land available for cultivation than there is any need for, without adding to the oversupply by irrigating desert wastes and, so far as power development is concerned, there seems to be no shortage whatever in the territory that could be served by the Columbia river.

How can we look for anything but tax increases, let alone tax reductions, if projects not demanded by the public at large are forced onto the helpless taxpayer?

According to recent estimates the government is spending seven million dollars more each day than it receives in revenues. This amounts to $5000 a minute. If it continues until the end of the fiscal year, the federal budget will miss balancing by the sum of $2,000,000,000.

Nothing could better show the nature and importance of the tax problem in this country. Increased governmental expenditures can result in only two things—higher taxes and bonded indebtedness, or the failure of American credit.

Government retrenchment is essential to American progress. The bureaus and commissions must be pruned if the United States is not to become one of the nations—like England and Australia—which are being slowly taxed to death.—Industrial News-Review.

Because he had orders never to leave his post while on duty, a sentry at St. James' Palace, London, England, helplessly watched four men in evening dress and opera hats stage a smash-and-grab raid on a fashionable tobacco store.

BUILDING BACK

World recovery is the only kind of recovery worth the name that is possible. And world recovery will be very, very slow unless the leading nations of the world, co-operating together, do everything possible to remove the obstacles that now stand in the way of world recovery. It is all right, and undoubtedly necessary, that means shall be provided for the government to relieve extreme distress, that some employment shall be afforded by a maximum of public works, and that failure and collapse shall be prevented by the extension of government credit wherever this is possible. But what is needed is to get rid of the distress, unemployment, and business loss by restoring the trade of the world. We need measures calculated to start us on the road to recovery—to the ending of the depression. These other measures are designed to make the depression endurable for many of its victims. Unfortunately such measures have become necessary. But we need to make them no longer necessary. And the United States cannot do that alone. Must we wait until all the makeshift palliatives have been tried and found wanting before we can hope for world co-operation? It would seem so. But meantime conditions continue to get worse instead of better. We are paying dearly for the continued attitude of aloofness which the United States is maintaining. And all the world is paying dearly along with us. It is time we attempted to recover together.—Texas Weekly.

THE WAVE OF CRIME

Crime in America may not be as bad as it is sometimes pictured, but it is bad enough, to say the least, "and it is to be borne in mind that the United States has had some very bad advertising in recent years through publication of the exploits of the organized gangsters and racketeers," the Houston Post points out.

As an example of this sort of advertising the Post quotes from an editorial in the London Evening News, which says, "It is for the people of the United States to decide whether, in the name of other children, it will call a halt to a state of things which looks as though it will make the gangsters and thugs the final arbiters of America's destiny." The London paper was referring, of course, to the Lindbergh case, which has aroused world-wide public indignation.

Whether the kidnapers and murderers of Baby Lindbergh will be apprehended and punished remains to be seen, but it is evident that the agencies of law enforcement will leave no straw unturned in the search for the abductors of the little fellow. With federal, state and local authorities tracking down the criminals, kidnaping and possibly all other forms of racketeering, will be dealt a so-called plexus blow. The public has become so aroused over the New Jersey atrocity that nothing short of capture of the thugs responsible for the dastardly crime will satisfy the demand for an America in which a parent will have assurance that his children are protected against fiendish criminals.—Editorial Digest.

WHISKEY DEPOT RAIDED

A whiskey distribution depot in the wholesale district of Temple was unconvoyed by officers early Friday.

Special officer C. R. Johnson of the Santa Fe traced a freight car of whiskey to Temple and located it on a siding back of a warehouse. The building was surrounded and federal officers were summoned. They broke into the locked building and found a truck loaded with 50 cases. Officers said they believed about 100 cases had been carried out previously. They said the whiskey was distributed by truck to other parts of Texas, they believed.

The warehouse was leased six months ago, but the owners said they had not known that it was being used as a whiskey depot.

TEXAS BARBECUE IN WASHINGTON

Political and social Washington forsook the tea table and ate cookies Saturday for an unusual treat.

Approximately 3,000 men journeyed to Chesapeake Beach, a nearby Maryland, for the affair, which was staged under the auspices of the National Press Club. It was largely by and for Texans, and was in the nature of a belated celebration over the elevation of Bascom N. Timmons, a Texan, to the presidency of the club, and that of John N. Garner to the speakership of the house of representatives. Texas friends of both men shipped the beehives from the Lone Star state, and with them an expert barbecue crew.

More than 300 members of the senate and house participated in the affair, along with a notable list of government officials, foreign diplomats, governors of nearby states and the membership of the club.

WOLFF SMITH QUILTS VETS' BUREAU POST

Rep. Blanton yesterday won his long battle to drive William Wolff Smith, general counsel of the Veterans Bureau out of the federal service.

Smith yesterday transmitted his resignation to Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, administrator of veterans' affairs, who promptly accepted and notified the House Military Affairs committee that Smith had resigned, effective at the termination of his annual leave, which he is now taking.

Rep. Blanton has been campaigning against William Wolff Smith for more than ten years. He repeatedly declared that it to be "an outrage" that Smith, who served 13 days in the army just prior to the Armistice, was receiving $187.50 a month for total disability as well as a salary of $9,000 as general counsel. — Washington Herald.

CANTRELL ELECTED AT HONEY GROVE

At a meeting of the school board last Friday evening, W. E. Cantrell of West, Texas, was elected superintendent of the Honey Grove public schools for the ensuing year. Mr. Cantrell has visited Honey Grove several times the past few weeks, and has met a number of our citizens and has made a favorable impression.

For the past nine years Mr. Cantrell has been superintendent of public schools at West, Texas, prior to that time having been connected with schools in Goldthwaite, Lampasas and San Saba and other cities in that section of the state. Mr. Cantrell holds a B. S. degree and also an M. A. degree, having received his education in the North Texas State Teachers college, Baylor University and Southern Methodist University. He has given excellent service in the schools at West, and is leaving that city only because of his desire to move to another section of the state. Mr. Cantrell's family consists only of himself and wife, and they expect to move to Honey Grove shortly after the closing of his present term of school.—Honey Grove Signal-Citizen.

DID NOT KNOW NECK BROKEN

A queer case is reported from Austin. Jack Evans, 18, student at the university of Texas has been suffering three years from a broken neck and didn't know it.

Active in high school and freshman athletics, Evans lately had been complaining of severe headaches and a stiff neck. Unable to obtain relief, he went to Houston for an examination, and a physician there, by means of an x-ray, located the broken vertebra.

Evans then recalled that three years ago he hit his head on a small block of wood while diving. Until lately he had suffered no ill effects.

Evans' neck and shoulders are now encased in a plaster cast, and must so remain for the next several months.

OIL IS FEELING BETTER

Will oil, long the prodigal son of business, lead the procession back to recovery?

This question has been raised many times recently by those who have noted that alone among the commodities the price curve of oil has been swinging steadily up. A year ago, when the Texas rangers and the Oklahoma National Guard were closing wells at the point of the bayonet, some oil was selling at the suicide price of 15c a barrel. Now the dollar oil of Gov. Alfalfa Bill Murray's promise and for which he was roundly jeered, has been attained in a few instances. The current average price in Northern markets is around 85c, against 50c or less a year ago.

Oil is looking up, feeling better and apparently getting ready to go somewhere. Oil leaders arriving for the international conference to be held in New Jersey this week are amazingly cheerful for business men.

The latest expert to see bright hopes is Walter C. Teagle, president of the Standard of New Jersey. His annual report tells of diminished profits in his own company and much operation in red throughout the industry, but a heartening return to business sanity. He says, "Too much emphasis has been placed on the number of gallons produced and sold, too little on earnings per barrel. If the industry does not overload the market it should operate at a profit."

Here is sound merchandising doctrine, which might well be listened to by many who sell other things than oil. It has urged before and too little heeded, especially in the oil industry. Thus at this moment we know of one main street, now sufficiently studded with gasoline stations to meet the probable needs of motorists for some time to come, on which two big new stations are being erected within a few blocks of each other. Some oil men who apparently haven't heard Teagle yet. —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

CANDIDATES MUST RECORD EXPENSES

July 23 is primary election day in Texas and all candidates for office should remember that a complete report covering expenses must be filed periodically, in accordance with the Teyrell election law.

In Georgia the laws are different, but one candidate for county office was careful, during the last campaign, to keep a complete record of all movements and expenses, which he submitted to the local paper at the end of the campaign.

Here is his report: Lost four months and 33 days canvassing; 1,349 hours thinking about the election; 5 acres of cotton; 23 acres of corn; a whole sweet potato crop; 4 sheep; 5 goats; 1 beef, given to barbeques, two front teeth and a considerable quantity of hair in a personal skirmish, Gave away 97 plugs of tobacco, 7 Sunday school books, 2 pairs of suspenders, 4 calico dresses, 7 dolls and 13 baby rattlers.

Shook hands 33,475 times, talked enough to have filled a hundred volumes, kissed 129 babies, kindled 14 kitchen fires, cut three cords of wood, picked 474 pounds of cotton, helped pull seven wagon loads of corn, dug 14 bushels of potatoes, toted 27 buckets of water, put up seven steves, was dog bit four times, watch broken by baby, repair bill $2.

Loaned out three barrels of flour, 50 bushels of meal, 37 pounds of butter, 12 dozen eggs, 3 umbrellas, 13 lead pencils, 1 dictionary, 1 mower blade, 2 hoes, 1 overcoat, 5 boxes of paper collars, none of which was returned.

Called my opponent a perambulating liar—doctor bill $10. Had five arguments with my wife—result, one flower vase smashed, 1 broom handle broken, 1 dish of hash knocked off the table, 1 shirt bosom ruined, 2 handfuls of whiskers pulled out, 10 cents worth of sticking plaster, besides spending $1,768. —Wills Point Chronicle.

DIVERSIFICATION IN SINGLE SYLLABLES
By Jane Lucy

I have seen one of the new day farms.

Pigs ran in good, strong pens and cows grazed in a wide, green lot. There were hens—lots of them—each with broods of chicks. Green foods, such as peas, beans, squash and beets, grew in long straight rows, and there were fields of grain to be fed to the hogs and cows.

In the midst of it all was a house, spick and span in new, white paint—a home, if I know a home when I see one.

A man and his wife lived there, and a child or two or three; all well, all strong, they were a sight for eyes to see.

They owe no man, they owe no bills; but they do have cash in the bank. When their cash crops go to town, no man takes a part—it all comes back to them.

Each day the store man owes them more than the worth of the goods they buy from him, yet they buy what they need and want when they need and want it. They do not stint or hoard.

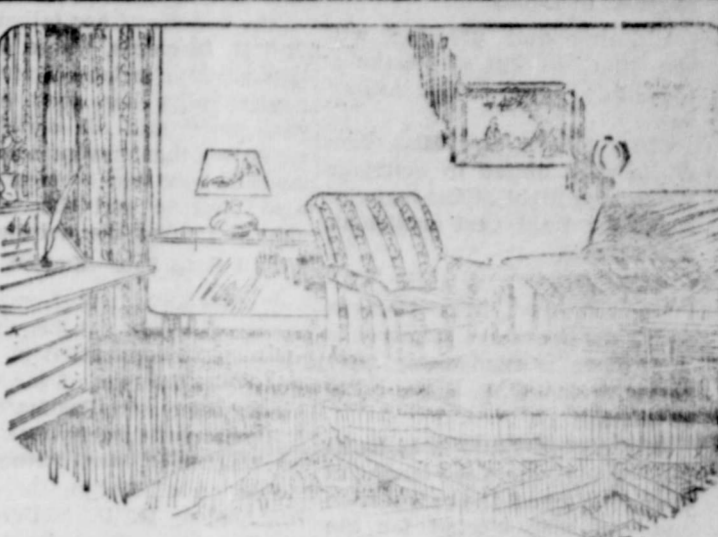

They live like kings, for the most part on eggs and milk and meats and fresh truck grown at home. More than they need for their own use, they sell to the store and less wise men who do not live at home.

They paid their tax when it was due. Their car is all their own. They have no notes, due now or some day to be due to bank or store or friends or kin. They live as free men ought to live in a land so great and rich as this, and they fill the stove of old age now, so that when their time to rest has come, they may rest at ease. They will ask naught in their old age of state, or sons, or friends.

While San Antonio police were taking two negro burglars to police headquarters, other thieves followed them and stole the loot with which the first burglars had been caught. Detectives caught two negroes removing the plumbing fixtures from a house. They took the negroes to police headquarters, leaving their loot in the back yard of the residence. When the officers returned there to make a further investigation they found the fixtures had been stolen by other thieves.

Making a Living Room Liveable

By KATHARINE CRUMBAUGH

THERE are a lot of living rooms in this world that only need one thing. They need something to make them liveable. They have good furniture, and carpets or rugs; good tables and lamps; everything is good. But the room is terrible. Nearly always the trouble is color. With repainting of the woodwork and walls, most of these rooms become really "living" rooms.

A typical one came to my attention recently. It was a northeastern room, which meant that it received very little sun. The furniture chiefly consisted of a tupe couch and two large overstuffed chairs of the same brown. There was a secretary-bookcase, radio and gateleg table, all of brown, a small end table and coffee table in black lacquer. The wall paint was tan and the woodwork the same. The rug was large and brown. It gave the visitor an acute feeling of sin and remorse.

Now, what that room needed, as most rooms need, was a little judicious color. The predominating color of wax on the floor. Then the depressing monotony of the room's walls in a light buff, with plenty of sunshine in it, or even a cream which sheds a lighter glow something. The ceiling should, of course, be a couple of shades lighter than the walls. The woodwork should depend in color on several things. If the room is small, stick to the wall color. If the trim is ordinary or common looking, don't emphasize with contrast. And if the ceiling is low, contrasting color on the woodwork will make it seem lower. In this room a deep ivory would do very well.

The brown overstuffed furniture, cannot be painted but some gay flowered chintz for the chairs, leaving the couch as it was, and the same flowered chintz for draperies would make the place alive and inviting. Pick up the red in the flower of this chintz and use it as a guide to paint the end table and the coffee table. Put the coffee table with its bright note right in front of the couch where it will be useful as well as ornamental. Use the dark green cushions in a gay cherry red. Put a good coat of floor varnish or maybe only a coat of wax on the floor. Then the depressing monotony of the room's walls in a light buff, with plenty of sunshine in it, or even a cream which sheds a lighter glow something. The ceiling should, of course, be a couple of shades lighter than the walls. The woodwork should depend in color on several things. If the room is small, stick to the wall color. If the trim is ordinary or common looking, don't emphasize with contrast. And if the ceiling is low, contrasting color on the woodwork will make it seem lower. In this room a deep ivory would do very well.

IN MEMORY OF A LOVED ONE

To say a word in memory of our friend and once neighbor is not to me a duty only, but a pleasure. In the fullness of life and strength he has been gathered to his rest to await his loved ones.

Death is always, wherever and whenever it occurs, very, very sad, but all deaths do not mean the same to the world. The aged, the young, the infant and just in the prime of life and strength are awed to silence by it and unspeakable sorrow fills our hearts. Such was he, who is the subject of this sketch.

They all loved Russel, especially that dear companion, little boy and daughter, who are so lonely without husband and daddy, but the Lord loved him more and wanted him up there in heaven. It makes us that are grieved so lonely. Heaven is closer and dearer to us than it ever was before. As his little son would say to mother: "Don't cry. Daddy has just gone to heaven," but we older ones can't understand sometimes as a child.

Russel is not dead, he is just sleeping and waiting for the rest to come on. There is a lot to think about death. It is the way one goes to make it easy on the ones who are left in their sorrow. Russel remarked to his dear wife just a few days before taking sick, that he was homesick to come home to see his mother and father and other kinfolk, that he might help them in some way. He was always thinking of the other fellow. He was willing to sacrifice for someone else, but little did he think that he was coming so soon to the last homecoming. We don't just understand why the Lord takes our loved ones, so young and full of life, breaks into our plans. Dear ones had planned to be together and to rear the little boy in the way he should go.

Russel had many friends here and in Dallas, where he had lived just a few years. His home was crowded from time to time with people with their prayers and some other people had gathered at the different churches with their prayer service for his recovery, but the good Lord wanted him, so we had to say "Thy will be done." Russel did not die alone. He had God with him. He told his loved one and nurse he was not afraid to die, but just hated to leave his family so lonely.

Russel Calvin Mullan was born in Van Wert, Ohio, March 27, 1893. Died at his home, 2612 Parnell street, Dallas, Texas, May 2, 1932. He was converted and joined the Methodist church in Ohio at the age of 12 years, moved to Goldthwaite in 1906 with his parents, putting his membership in the Methodist church of Goldthwaite and was a faithful member. The year of 1915 he was married to Miss Zola Lee Fralich of Ohio, who died Dec. 15, 1918, leaving a daughter, Ruth Florence, who has since lived with her grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Mullan. In 1920, he was married to Miss Lucile Baker of Houston. To this union was born one son, Russel Calvin, Jr. Russel was the son of one of our most esteemed families, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Mullan, who are so deeply grieved by his passing away. He loved not only his wife and little son and his daughter, but he had a great love for his parents, brothers and sister. God says those that He loves die young.

We can not go against God's will. Though our cups of sorrow He fills, Though this our prayer, God help us now. Written by request, MRS. HUGH MORELAND.

NOTICE

The continued disregard of traffic regulations such as double parking, especially in front of the picture show and the various churches, fast driving, parking crossways, and driving on the left hand side of the street has become such a nuisance that it will have to be desisted from. We hope this notice will have the desired effect, otherwise we will have to hand out some summonses calling for a visit to the Recorder's office.
