VOLUME THIRTY-EIGHT

GOLDTHWAITE, MILLS COUNTY, TEXAS, FRIDAY, JUNE 3, 1932.

NUMBER FORTY

BASKET PICNIC

There will be a basket picnic and an all day speaking in the Fair grounds in Goldthwaite next Thursday, June 9, at which time E. R. Eudaly, extension dairy specialist of A. & M. college, will be here and address those interested in dairying. He will give advice and information that will be valuable and all should hear him. At this time all candidates present will be given an opportunity to announce and the candidates for representative are especially invited to be present. Let's make it a great occasion and everybody attend and carry a basketful of dinner.

A FINE RAIN

Saturday night and Sunday morning one of the most beneficial rains of the year fell here. Crops were just beginning to need it and it fell just right, with just enough of it to do good and no harm. About an inch and a quarter fell here and it seems to have been pretty general the country over. Farmers in some sections say this rain will carry the corn almost to maturity, if no more falls until time for the filling out of the grains. Anyway, this was a dandy good rain and was ample for the time.

MARRIED AT MULLIN

Jack Long and Miss Melvina Fox drove over to Mullin Saturday evening and were united in marriage by Rev. L. J. Vann. After their marriage they returned to Goldthwaite, where they will make their home. Their friends had expected the marriage for some time and were not surprised, except as to the place, and are glad to extend congratulations and good wishes to them. The groom was reared in Big Valley and has made his home in this city for several years, where he is in the employ of the Gulf Refining Co. The bride is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Fox and was reared in this city. Both parties have many friends here and elsewhere.

BOARD OF EQUALIZATION

DOWN ON THE FARM

By O.G.H.

The first word of the above caption expresses it. Wool and mohair, oats, wheat, cattle, hogs—all "down." And in line with other farm products, milk is "down." However, the lump sum now being paid for wool is little more, if as much as the total annual amount paid to farmers for dairy products.

Wool and mohair pays once or twice a year. The old cow pays 24 times a year. We are not peeping around the corner for anything now; but thinking men expect dairy products to recover first.

At any rate this is a good time to plant temporary pastures; give better care to the cows you have and trade for some more good or better ones; breed to better bulls, and look straight ahead.

Fifteen cents will buy enough sudan seed to plant an acre and that acre will support a cow until frost comes. It is the best and most economical pasture known in west Texas.

Mr. E. R. Eudaly, dairy specialist will meet the dairymen at Goldthwaite June 9. He is a most interesting and instructive speaker and has spent much time with dairymen this year. He can tell you what and how the other fellow is doing. And some of them are doing pretty well. Already some of the leading milk producers have promised me to attend this meeting. Let your motto be: "Make the best better." Mr. Eudaly will tell you how.

Looks like a good year for turkey growers. They can feed on the army worm of insects. Watch for chiggers and lice.

We have never seen so many fine gardens. Some vegetables are being injured by bugs and lice, but people are realizing that we must live at home if we live at all. Sub-irrigation by means of garden till will keep vegetables growing throughout the dry season.

Mills county is producing a sufficient crop of berries to supply herself. The crop this year is enormous. And did you ever see such a crop of grapes.

HARDBOILED

The Eagle must of necessity be "hardboiled" in regard to free publicity, especially as to candidates for state offices. Realizing fully that the emoluments of the office are not sufficient to justify a candidate to announce in every newspaper in the state or even pay for a small amount of publicity in each, it is nevertheless a fact that a newspaper can not undertake to make the publications free, hence the only fair way is to refuse all of them. In cases where Mills county has some special interest in a candidate the rule has been violated to some extent, but taken as a whole the free publicity does not "get over." Not that we dislike the candidates personally or oppose them in their desires to serve the people, but the Eagle can no more afford to put out this publicity free than the candidates can afford to pay for it. So there you are.

It is not unusual for some of the manufacturers and others engaged in "big business" to send out a lot of propaganda for free publication and the same rule is applied to their articles.

WRECK AT FORT WORTH

Walter Weatherby and his mother, Mrs. A. C. Weatherby, were called to Fort Worth Wednesday by a message telling of the serious injury there of Mr. F. N. Brooker, in an automobile wreck. It was stated he had but small chance for recovery, but was still alive yesterday morning. He is Mrs. Weatherby's only brother.

MISSIONARY SOCIETY

The Woman's Missionary Society will not meet Monday for business session, but will meet second Monday in connection with Voice program and social. PRESIDENT.

BAPTIST CHURCH

We have been asked to fill a pulpit in another town and preach on this subject: "What Is Wrong With the Church?" The church was not more than a year old until that question was asked, and it has been asked ever since, and people of all walks of life have tried to answer it. As far as the church, it is all right. We may have a few people within its membership that are not right. The outstanding question mostly discussed by every one is "worldliness" is the trouble. What is worldliness? Is it sin? The church that has invited me to speak wants card playing, dancing, movie going, mixed bathing and things like these discussed. They need to be discussed and the evils that may be derived from them need to be discussed, and most every one thinks that those things are the only things that keeps a church from being perfect, but what about these fellows that have sprouted wings? And they are not angels wings Selah.

"Why beholdest the mote in thy brother's eye, but considerest not the beam in thine own eye?" Or why say to my brother: "Let me pull the mote out thine eye," when there is a beam in my own eye? Thou hypocrite, "get the beam out of thine own eye, then you can see how to get the mote out of thy brother's eye." Let him that is without fault cast the first stone.

A good woman asked us the other day what she would have to do in order that she might see her name in the Eagle. Sister, just stay away from the Baptist church Sunday and your name will appear in the next issue. We have on a campaign for Sunday and we want to be able to report the largest Sunday school in the history of our church. This is Tuesday and we made seven calls Monday in different homes and urged every one to be present, and we are going to continue until Friday night visiting and urging you to come. Let every loyal member of our Sunday school and those that are not regulars urge some one to come. Let's have great crowds.

The pastor is going to speak at both services Sunday to young people. We urge that all of our young folk attend both services. Morning subject: "The Boy and His Dinner." Evening: "The Fortifications on the Frontiers." Our Sunday schools are not accomplishing what they ought to unless we can have people who attend Sunday school stay for church. It's true that occasionally circumstances are such that teacher nor pupil can stay, but too many teachers and too many students ease their conscience by just running into Sunday school for a few minutes and then go away thinking that they have really done what God requires of them. If a Sunday school does not strengthen the church, then we had better do away with it. And I do not mean by that the Sunday school should run the church. It's an organization within the church and should be controlled by the church, and when the day comes that the Sunday school controls the church we had just as well write "finis" on the doors of our churches.

If anyone wants yards cleaned, gardens worked or any plumbing done, why we would like to furnish you the name of a man who is a member of the Baptist church, hardly ever comes to church, but a mighty good payer, and therefore, he is in good standing. This gentleman does the work himself on yards and gardens, but he has a four legged animal that does the plumbing. He guarantees this animal can go thru any fence, open any crib door and root up everything planted in the garden before a man can get him back into the pen.

Another Mills county boy makes good. This time it is Charlie Roberts, who graduates tonight from Randolph college, Cisco, Texas. Charlie, according to his mother, worked and paid for every cent of his training for the past two years. This means that Charlie will make good. When any boy or girl works

THREE "L" CLUB ORGANIZE

A delightful hike and creek wading last Sunday evening led to the organization of the Three "L" Club.

The club room was situated in one of nature's most picturesque spots. The roof was the sky itself aided by the dark green leafy branches of the elm trees. In front of us a crystal stream serenely wound its way thru the hog pasture in which we were sitting.

Mordine Brown was elected president of the society, Ollie Mae Featherston, vice president; Christine Simpson, secretary, Morine Brown, treasurer; Ila Fay Featherston, reporter. These officers with Izzetta Featherston compose the charter members.

For mascots the club unanimously chose the two dogs which accompanied them on the hike, Sheppe Brown and Ferdinand Featherston.

The name, Three "L" (live, learn and laugh) was selected for the club.

The purpose of this organization is to provide for its members more wholesome recreation and to inspire a deeper friendship. IP.

their way through school, most of the time you will hear from them. Boys and girls that go to school for recreation and spend money for their vocation, generally spend all their money and receive no education.

Come on down to the Baptist church Sunday and we will tell you boys and girls just how and what you ought to do. You won't do it, but it won't hurt you to hear it. PASTOR

FAMILY REUNION AND BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION

On last Thursday, May 26, there was quite a pleasant surprise in store for the aged couple, Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Gerald, of Goldthwaite. They arose that morning and prepared to spend the day in the usual way. About nine o'clock a daughter and her family arrived. Grandmother slipped into the kitchen and added a few more potatoes to her dinner. In a short while a son and his family arrived and following them sons and daughters, grandchildren and great grandchildren came trooping in from everywhere. Grandmother, for once in her life, forgot her dinner and Granddad forgot to worry as to whether or not he had ordered enough bread.

The children of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald had planned to surprise their parents with a family reunion in commemoration of the birthdays of the old couple. The day was spent with them and in partaking of a basket dinner, which had been prepared by the children. By eleven o'clock all were either present or accounted for and the family went to Fair Park, where the dinner was spread under the tabernacle. The table was a long one and was loaded with everything good to eat from fried chicken to angel food cake and iced tea. The two beautiful birthday cakes were baked by Mrs. Roy Gerald of Shive and Mrs. A. L. Smith of Winters. Elder Clem W. Hoover of the Church of Christ, in his sincere manner, offered thanks unto God for the happy gathering and for the bountiful table, after which all became very busy eating and talking.

Mr. and Mrs. Gerald have ten living children—six sons and four daughters—twenty-six grandchildren and eleven great grandchildren. Those present at the reunion were: Ed, Tom, and Pat Gerald of Canyon, Roy Gerald and wife of Hamilton, A. L. Smith and wife and daughter of Winters, Mrs. J. W. Burney and daughter of Evant, Pope Gerald and wife and two sons of Star, C. N. Batchelor and wife and daughter of Goldthwaite, Dewey Gerald and wife and three sons of Priddy, Mrs. George Loyd and son of Winters, Mrs. Woody Burney of Evant, Mrs. J. W. Burney, Jr., and children of Evant, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hiller and four children of Hamilton. One daughter, Mrs. W. D. Hunter of Floresville, Texas, was unable to be present. Visitors present were: J. C. Wells of McGirk, Mrs. Bud Crews and daughter of Hamilton, Mrs. J. W. Bryan and granddaughter of Pottsville, Mrs. A. Hunter of Evant, Elder Clem W. Hoover and daughter, Lucile, of Goldthwaite, and Mr. and Mrs. Steve Weathers of Goldthwaite.

T. S. Gerald is one of the few surviving Confederate veterans. He was born in Amite county, Mississippi, May 25, 1848. He ran away from home at the age of fifteen and joined Lay's cavalry regiment in which he served under both Scott and Forest at different times. He was captured at Tickfau bridge in Mississippi and imprisoned on Ship Island in the Gulf of Mexico. He was paroled at Vicksburg at the close of the war. He had three brothers and six uncles in the war. The three brothers and four of the uncles were killed in the conflict.

Mr. Gerald came to Texas first in 1852, at the age of four. His mother died at Port Lavaca, Texas, and the family returned to Mississippi. He came to Texas the second time in 1868, settling in McLennan county. He has since lived in Coryell, Hamilton and Mills counties, having moved to Mills county in 1913. Mrs. Gerald is a native Texan, having been born in Gonzales county, Texas, in 1855. She was the daughter of J. T. Bateman, a colonial settler in Texas. The Bateman family moved to Coryell county in the late sixties. Mr. and Mrs. Gerald were married in Coryell county, August 1, 1872.

These old people can remember when the Indians still made an occasional raid into this section of the country, and can recall many of the outstanding characters of pioneer days, including some of the outlaws who troubled the country in those days, such as Warren Lawless and John Wesley Hardin. Truly they have seen the country changed from a lawless wilderness to the civilized community it is today. But outlaws and Indians have always been the exception and not the rule, for they say, all along the way, they have been favored with their full share of friends and always with the best neighbors in the world. A GUEST.

EBONY

Bro. J. B. Jones preached Sunday morning and at night to good audiences at the Church of Christ. Eddy Weems of Abilene Christian college will do the preaching. Everybody invited to attend.

A wonderful amount of reading matter can be secured at a mighty little cost in the Eagle's Magazine offer. It seems unreasonable that the rate can be made, but the magazine publishers offer it and the Eagle passes it on to its readers.

BONUS FIGHT NOT OVER

If World War veterans have lost their fight for full payment of adjusted compensation certificates they do not know it.

Although strong pressure has been brought to bear to block passage of the Patman bill, the veterans have not given up the fight. If anything, they are more determined than ever that the government shall discharge its obligations to those whose patriotism and willingness to sacrifice their all in a moment of world distress is unquestioned. The rank and file of the ex-soldiers, many of whom have neither food, money nor shelter, are a little too determined, leaders fear.

Congressman Wright Patman, mindful that there is still a possibility of securing passage of his measure before congress adjourns, is exhausting every means to secure a vote on the bill. And the veterans are encouraging and supporting him as strongly today as they were three months ago. They realize that if the bonus is paid it will be necessary to get into politics, and to employ political devices in furtherance of their cause. This they are doing—and in a large way.

Unanimous endorsement of the veterans' efforts by the state convention of Democrats recently was brought about largely through the efforts of a veterans' political organization.

"It was a signal victory the veterans won when the convention put the influence of the Democracy of Texas behind them in their fight for the bonus," the Houston Post, most persistent champion of the ex-soldiers' fight for bonus payment among the larger dailies, commented. "The convention's action was also a splendid vindication of the course of Congressman Wright Patman of Texas, who has been leading the fight in congress for adjusted compensation payment. The resolution adopted by the convention is the answer of Texas Democracy to the charge that Patman—and veterans favoring bonus payments—are unpatriotic."

Despite Wall Street propaganda and Treasury Department innuendoes, the belief held by many that two billions of dollars cash suddenly thrown into business channels would stimulate industry and aid materially in the country's economic recovery has not been dissipated. The bonus fight is not won. Neither is it lost, the veterans say. — Editorial Digest.

MINIATURE ENGINES
Fit to find a place in some Lilliputian city, five tiny steam engines, all of which can be set side by side in a 6-inch box, chug and puff in the workshop of Walter Leffingwell, Rockford, Ill., jeweler. These flea-power machines are the result of 35 years of pains-taking effort on the part of Leffingwell, who used watchmakers instruments for tools in pursuing his hobby.

The smallest of the engines is but three-quarters of an inch in height, with the stroke of its valve one thirty-second of an inch long. It is so built that the owner can take it apart for repairs. None are more than an inch and a half high, while four of them have perfectly designed 'D' valves. The other one is the first made by Leffingwell 35 years ago. This one still runs smoothly.

One of the smallest of the five will run either forward or backward, and at top speed averages approximately 7000 revolutions a minute, its maker contends.

The engines, although steam machines, are run with compressed air because the vapor from hot water has a tendency to rust the delicate workings of the tiny works.

Leffingwell conceived the idea of making his miniature engines, when he saw another machine in Racine, Wis., when he was a young man. It was advertised as the smallest steam engine in the world, but the jeweler determined to make one smaller. He says he has succeeded in building the tiniest in existence.

THE DIVIDING LINE

You may have accumulated sufficient money and income-producing investments to insure your family against worry about the necessities and many of the luxuries of life.

Because you thus provided, you think very little of the man who has not accomplished as much, and class him as a failure.

But while you acquired a competence were you strictly honest?

Was your conscience somewhat elastic when you saw a possibility of piling up money faster?

Have you operated on the principle that if the other fellow did not have brains enough to forestall your plans and your undertakings, he deserved to be worsted by you?

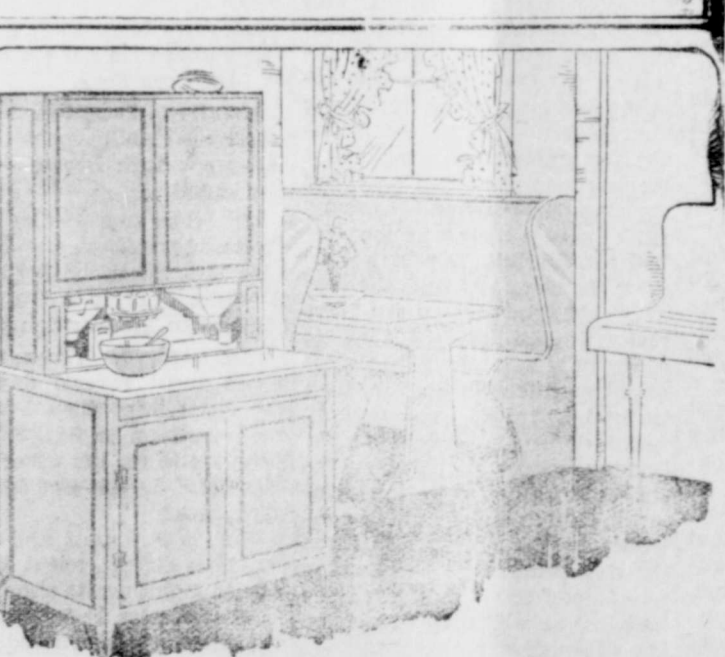

There is a very fine line, sometimes, between strictly honest business methods and those that are dishonest.

Be careful not to go beyond the dividing line in your quest for money or its equivalent.

Some of the men you now class as failures might have had as much as you if they had desired to follow your ruthless course in business affairs.

They may pity you as you pity them. They have an untroubled conscience, something they know you can not have.—Houston Chronicle.

BEAUTY in the HOME

Hues For a Cheerful Kitchen

By KATHARINE CRUMBAUGH
IF we all went to Nature for hints on decoration, results would often be much more satisfying. The green and trees are in deeper shades of color, distance makes things grow lighter and the sky is lightest of all. So we should have our floors the darkest, the walls next and the ceilings lightest. The larger trees and bushes are in the darkest colors of all, greens, dark reds and browns. These may represent the furniture just as the flowers, which are brightest and most outstanding, may give a hint for the accent of colors in the room that is being decorated, a lesson direct from Nature to keep the most brilliant colors in small quantities.

Take, for instance, a kitchen with a southern exposure. The floor may be painted a dark green, the walls a lighter seafoam green and the ceiling the lightest green of all. The kitchen cabinet may be colored jade green which is a stronger color than the wall tone but not so strong as the floor. Bright mandarin red will do well for the trim or accent color. Or the kitchen cabinet may be in mandarin red and the trim in jade green, though, if the large place is done in a strong color like red, we must quiet things down by painting the breakfast nook in jade. If all the furniture were in red it would seem to rush at one as soon as the door were opened but by using the red in the right proportion, harmony is secured just as a red line woven in and out of a rug sparkles and attracts more than if the rug were pure red itself.

CONDITIONS AND PROSPECTS

Cotton is doing fairly well throughout the Santa Fe states, which produce that crop. The acreage has been reduced.

The cotton crop is late in Texas on account of the backward spring. Chopping is in progress in many counties. Minor damage has been done by insects, and boll weevils are increasing in a few localities. Acreage reduction is about 15 per cent.

Early planted cotton in Oklahoma is growing rapidly and planting still is in progress under favorable soil conditions. Slight acreage reduction.

Arizona and New Mexico have near normal acreages of cotton in good condition. Louisiana and California have reduced their acreage considerable; condition satisfactory.

Apparently there is no danger of a shortage of water for irrigation, as winter snow in most mountain states was heavy.

Vegetable districts report good crops made and in the making. There are more home gardens than usual—in many localities more than in world war times.

Texas should have close to 35,000,000 bushels of wheat, as conditions here have been satisfactory until the last two or three weeks. Moisture now is needed. The latest official estimate is 31,000,000 bushels compared with the 5-year average of 23,000,000 bushels.

While prospects for pastures over a large part of the southwest are not so bright as they were, due to deficient moisture, livestock generally is in good condition. Spring rains were later and lighter than usual. Grass made a good start in most places, but more than normal rainfall from now on will be necessary to keep it in good condition. The Texas moisture situation is better than usual at this time of year. The blue-stem pastures of Kansas are taking care of a near-record number of cattle, and a full yield will be required there to meet the demand. However, no serious shortage has been reported anywhere to date. A good deal of damage was done to pastures by the dry weather of 1930, and many sections have not yet recuperated.

Winter losses in livestock were light. Indications are that more cattle, hogs and sheep will be found on farms next fall and winter than for several years, due to the low prices of at which stock can be purchased for feeding, and the quantity of feed which should be available from the new crops, with favorable weather conditions. The slack caused by the abandonment of wheat acreage will be taken up by feed crops.

From the territory covered by this report large quantities of feed were shipped last winter to the douth and grasshopper-ridden states of the north-west, and as a result the carry-over is light. Arizona is one of the few states of the country with a feed carry-over. This is due to the excellence of the pasture of that state, making it unnecessary to bring sheep into the valleys for feeding.—Santa Fe Bulletin.

A JAPANESE VIEWPOINT
There was a curious note in the dispatches from Tokio describing the funeral of Premier Inukai, who was assassinated last Sunday. The populace, it is said, was rather apathetic and there was little manifestation of horror over the assassination. The premier is the subject of pity, but his death, according to the observers, is generally regarded as a just retribution for the corruption and filthiness of political parties.

Premier Inukai belonged to a system, not very deeply rooted among the Japanese, which has recently fallen into disrepute. He was the most prominent symbol of that system which the Japanese blame for most of their woes. In a way, the feeling seems to be he deserved the fate which overtook him. If he had held a similar position in a Western country, the manner of his death might have contributed considerably to his fame.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

BUYING NEVER CEASES

Dealers who have no inducements either in the way of price or in the way of quality or service or utility, may lighten up on their advertising. They can take what business drifts into their places, if any, and consider that they saved money by not advertising. But if they have merchandise the people are able to buy, need to buy and wish to buy, it is profitable to make it known. There is no better way under heaven to disseminate facts concerning goods or concerning bargains, than by newspaper publication. People who now have money—of whom there are many, although they are not making a big show of it—are requiring full value. Those who have no money will have some eventually. Advertising is profitable for the present and the future, for those who are not buying today or this month will be buying tomorrow or next month. The cumulative effect of good advertising carries over from hard times to good times. Ask those who continue in business through all manner of disturbances and depressions. Where there are people there must be buying. The public has an irreducible minimum of wants, and they supply them. The favored stores are the well-known stores. This is a fact as unavoidable as that the favored aspirant for office is the well known candidate. After a candidate has had a bit of experience in trying to get acquainted he never discounts the value of publicity. Every business house is a candidate.—State Press in Dallas News.

LAWS AND LOTTERY

It is against the postal laws for a newspaper to carry any advertising or news item relative to any raffle, game of chance, drawing of prizes by lucky numbers, etc., regardless of whether or not there is any monetary consideration involved. This applies not only to propositions for personal gain, but to collection of funds for charity or semi-charitable purposes.—Pittsburg Gazette.

Many business men do not seem to understand how strong the lottery law has been made and how careful the officers—especially the federal officers—are concerning its enforcement. It is a violation of the law to even tell of the outcome of a drawing of any character and the giving of a present or even a lower price to the person of any number of persons who first enter a building or make any other demonstration has been held to be a lottery. It is not necessary that a price be put on the article involved in order of make it a lottery, neither does the fact that there is no financial consideration serve as an excuse. Many drawings and lottery schemes escape a penalty, but those who operate them are simply lucky. Another thing about these lottery schemes: When the authorities bring a charge against those offering any character of chance the penalty is severe enough to impress it indelibly on their minds. The Eagle has passed a lot of business in time gone by rather than take a chance of becoming involved in a lottery charge and in most cases the business men have appreciated the good advice and protection given them by the paper.

THE CHANGING WORLD

Some fish can travel faster than an express train, estimates showing that the mackerel frequently attains a sixty or seventy mile an hour pace. The tarpon's speed is estimated at eighty miles per hour.

Storage tanks for conserving steam have been constructed in Sweden to equalize the load of producing plants. Steam manufactured in slack periods is stored in the reservoirs to carry the heavy burden of rush hours.

A Chicago manufacturer has made a mechanical cotton harvester that will gather the crop as fast as sixty men could do the work. The machine passes over the plants and uses revolving cogs, which pick the cotton bolls as it passes over the stalks.

Automobile headlights which automatically dim themselves at the approach of another car, is a recent development designed to relieve the driver. The system is controlled by a light sensitive plate which reacts to the glare of oncoming headlights and switches the circuit from bright to dim.

Non-breakable lenses for eyeglasses have been developed by a Chicago eye specialist, thru a secret process. The non-breakable lens looks the same and possesses exactly the same vision-correcting ability as the ordinary breakable eyeglass, but protects the eye from any possibility of injury from flying slivers. Safety glass for automobiles started the inventor on his researches.

Automobiles in France more than ten years old will be destroyed by government agents under a plan approved recently by the national automobile chamber of commerce. A fund would be created for this purpose by a tax of about $5-40 on every new car sold, enabling the destruction of 45,000 cars a year, according to estimates.

Wind-tunnel tests, similar to those given aircraft, are being applied to automobiles in order to show the wind resistance and other factors of various designs. Small models of the cars are suspended inside the tunnel, the results being obtained by accurate gauges that register the pressure and by an interesting "map" arrangement that shows the course of the air currents.

"Wingless" chickens are the objective of experiments being conducted by Dr. D. C. Warren, of Kansas State college, who hopes to develop fowls that can not fly over low fences or gates, thus making it easier to handle and care for them. Using chickens from a flock in which the wingless trait has persisted for nearly twenty years, he is crossing these birds with those of another breed in order to study possibilities of the peculiar trait being inherited. Although termed wingless, these birds are really only flightless.

Among the latest death-dealing inventions for use in time of war is a "winged" bullet that can pierce armor plate half an inch thick at a thirty-yard range. The bullet has two circular wings or fins of soft metal running around it. These fins are compressed as the bullet forces its passage down the narrowing barrel of the rifle. The effect is that pressure is maintained at full intensity until the bullet reaches the muzzle, producing the extraordinarily high bullet velocity of 5,000 feet per second.

Pilots gave little thought to birds when airplanes were slow, but now that they have become the fastest of man's conveyances, birds have become a menace. Two recent "freak" accidents have been reported as the result of collisions in the air with hawks, crows, buzzards or kites. One of these was caused at an altitude of only thirty feet, when a kite struck the plane, tearing off a propeller blade and turning the plane over in a field. A British army officer in India was flying at about 1,500 feet when a sudden vibration decided him to make a rapid, but careful landing. He found his ship had struck a bird.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

CLOSED BANKS REOPENING

One more indication of the nation's confidence in its future economic well-being is the fact that for the past month bank reopenings have exceeded suspensions. Since January, 1931, more than 350 banks have opened their doors throughout the nation, an encouraging tendency and one which is attributed in large part to the activities of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

From all 'sectors' of the battle front the news of victories is relayed. Up in Michigan they are planning to reorganize 41 banks whose united capital exceeds $20,000,000. In Mississippi the state superintendent of banking has reopened 43 of 75 banks closed during the past two years in that southern commonwealth. Only one closing has been reported from Arkansas since the Reconstruction Finance Corporation began to function. In October of last year bank failures totaled 522. In April of 1932 they numbered only 16.

It is an encouraging record and one which convinces the nation that courage and co-operation can unite to save what is admittedly a disagreeable situation. Various plans of reorganization are being used in various states, but all call for harmonious effort among stockholders so that their losses may be limited or eradicated entirely. In Michigan a bank is permitted to reopen its doors after 85 per cent of the depositors have signed agreements which pledge them to leave a share of their deposits with the bank. In other states depositors agree to waive a certain percentage of their claims for the time being.

The task of reviving those small banks which found themselves unable to weather the financial storms of the past three years is one which is difficult but far from impossible as the people of America follow sane leadership in the restoration of national confidence. The situation has already greatly improved and promises to show still further progress in the near future as the credit facilities of the nation are expanded under the direction of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.—Houston Chronicle.

DISCRIMINATION

Texas' constitution provides no machinery whereby the state may control the fixing of general property tax is to be levied. That right is reserved to county boards of equalization. The state does fix its ad valorem tax rate, after the comptroller presents the Automatic Tax Board with the sum total of assessed valuations against which the levy is to be made. However, the constitution prohibits a rate higher than 75c.

No uniformity in methods of fixing values prevails amongst the two hundred and fifty odd counties of the state. Some counties assess at sixty per cent of the true value; others at fifty; some at forty, and some even less than that. This defect in statute law has resulted for many years in instances of obvious inequity. Some counties contribute to the cost of state government more than they should; others contribute less. In 1933, these inequities will be more pronounced, for the reason that some counties are reducing established values by ten and fifteen and twenty per cent, while others, prevented from indulging the practice because of bond obligations, will continue valuations that were high even three and four years ago.

The full rendition law does not mean that citizens pay higher taxes, because rates can be reduced to any extent justified by local requirements. Upon the other hand it does mean that each of the state's counties would pay proportionately and uniformly for the benefits of state government. This year, more than ever, common fairness would seem to dictate enforcement of a statute that is the only readily available means for equitably distributing among its citizens the burden of state taxation.—Public Opinion.

RUSSIA WARNS JAPAN

Advice from Moscow, Russia, says that the government organ Izvestia Monday charged certain Japanese elements with seeking an invasion of Eastern Siberia to "facilitate Japan's preparations for war against the United States, by making available for the Japanese military machine the rich natural resources of Asiatic Russia." In a sharp warning to Japan not to try to lay her hands on

CYCLONE NEAR BRADY

Brady citizens were eye-witnesses to an awe-inspiring spectacle Thursday afternoon shortly before 4:00 o'clock, watching the forming of a cyclone in the heavy clouds that overcast the skies to the northeast, then seeing the long trailing whirlwind dropping down from the sky like a long, floating black ribbon; then lift and apparently break, only once more to drop to the earth in a widening pillar of black smoke and dust.

According to reports, the cyclone struck at the Clarence Virdell place, eight miles north-east of Brady, and which was recently leased by C. B. Whitehead. Narrowly missing the house, and also two windmills, it came to earth about 200 yards northwest of the barn, which it completely demolished, sweeping in a southeasterly direction, uprooting giant liveoaks, and sweeping the ground clean as a bone. After proceeding something like 600 or 700 yards and wiping out a path varying from 30 to 75 yards in width, it appears to have halted, swirling about here for several minutes, then turning almost due west, and after proceeding for about 100 yards, it lifted. While no trees were uprooted where it first came to a halt, the trees were stripped of leaves, the limbs twisted and the ground swept clean as with a broom.

A peculiar feature of the hail to the east of Brady was that it came up almost to the east city limits. No hail fell in the business section, nor in the major part of the residential section.—Brady Standard.

A suburban filling station operator at Houston was tied to his station door with a cord by a robber, who rifled the cash register Friday at noon and escaped with $35.

Siberia, the editorial pronouncement called attention to "recent demands in certain sections of the Japanese press for war against Soviet Russia."

Declaring the resources of Manchuria first were sought, Izvestia said intelligent Japanese public opinion could not be relieved of responsibility for the silence in the face of such a campaign, "which might lead to the sending of millions of people to a bloody slaughter."

THE "WOMAN VIEW"

A nation-wide survey of the sentiment of women on issues and problems of the day, conducted by a national woman's magazine, establishes the liveliness of women's interest, although it does not appear that they are more successful than their husbands, brothers and sons in finding what is wrong or how to remedy matters.

On economic subjects, there would appear to be little difference in the judgments of men and women as revealed in this survey. Women like men, put foremost a better distribution of wealth and production of products. In taxation the women are for placing the heavier burden on the rich, which is an idea appealing as well to many men. Many of the women are on the farms, but have little belief in governmental benefits to agriculture. They are as strong for economy and efficiency in government as are men. Also they are critical of courts and judges in their relation to public respect for law.

On questions relating to foreign affairs the women participating in this expression of sentiment are notably not narrowly nationalistic. It would appear, as was suspected, that on such subjects such women's organizations as the D. A. R. do not represent the feelings of women in general. They protest against existing high tariffs as straggling to world trade. They agree that great economic developments in transportation and communication make it impossible for the United States to be or remain isolated. They are for disarmament.

All this as might have been expected, which causes wonder as to the purpose of the magazine's survey. The idea that women as a class thought differently and voted differently from men has been so well exploded in countless tests since woman suffrage that any further "surveys" confined to one sex are unnecessary.—Star-Telegram.

Leading Coif Designers Find New Style One That Stimulates Personality

INFLUENCE of the Second Empire, with its flair for curls and colorful ornamentation so flattering to the coiffure, has just been demonstrated by the Fall creations of the Coiffure Guild composed of the leading New York hair designers in connection with the recent American Beauty Congress at the Hotel Astor. Exhibition of some fifty coiffure styles, many of them on living models, stressed the fact that longer hair is needed for the new mode, and that the new style trend is one which should be adapted to the personality of the user. M. Dumas, well known designer of beautiful coiffures, emphasized the fact that flippant curls and waves are now the style, yet sophistication must vie with femininity in the way they are dressed. He favors combs and ornaments rather close fitting and placed low on the sides and back of the head for evening "Ornamenta," he said, "must be chosen, not so much for conspicuous color, as for good proportion and their relation to the make-up." He approves neat plastic curls, avoiding fluffiness. Charles of the Ritz sponsors a semi-bob, three or four inches long at the back and shorter on the sides. "The extreme bob," he says, "is out and, while the natural hair smartly dressed is always good taste, combs and ornaments of the neat, chic sort are delightful for the evening mode particularly when matching some piece of costume jewelry."

American Beauty wears curls and ornaments

Paul of Fifth Avenue, beauty expert, speaks out for individuality in the coiffure, the longer hair of the present style leading itself well to individual treatment. He likes little plastic curls at the back of the head and rolls on the sides as well as a small roll at the nape of the neck. "I like the use of combs and such ornaments for the evening coiffure," he says, and finds in combs, clips and barrettes an additional way for even the most conservative to give an impression of individuality in their hair dressing. Martin from Vienna, demonstrated before the Congress the importance of suiting the coiffure to the individual, and showed waves looser and looser, starting farther from the part and ending in tighter curls. The best permanent wave, he believes, should make the ends of the hair curler than the top. This hair stylist finds the modish hat having much effect on the coiffure and thinks the matter would be smartly settled if the lady took her hat to the hair-dresser and had the hair suited to the hat. "The comb or ornament," Martin finds, "may well be a detail contributing to the final smartness of the ensemble." Such accessories, however, he warns, must never smack of extravagance but emphasize the beauty of the hair itself.

MORE FARM LOANS ADVOCATED

The Jones bill authorizing the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to allocate additional loans to agriculture and increase the limit of the loans from $400 to $2000 was reported favorably by the house agriculture committee this week, after members of Governor Ross Sterling's special committee testified before the group on behalf of the measure. The members of the Texas committee, J. E. McDonald, commissioner of agriculture; Leon Goodman, mayor of Midland, and A. P. Barrett of Fort Worth, together with Col. Albert Wood of New Mexico, were present and vigorously urged further extension of credit facilities to agriculture and to the stock raising industry in particular. J. W. Carpenter of Dallas, who is also a member of the special committee, was unable to reach Washington in time to appear before the committee, but a telegram from him endorsing the legislation was read by Rep. Marvin Jones of Amarillo, chairman of the house committee and author of the bill. The Texans declared their opposition to any further appropriations at this time, but insisted that agriculture should receive its just benefit of money already available to the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. They pointed out that of the $200,000,000 set aside by law for crop production loans, only $63,000,000 has been distributed and further loans already discontinued. Larger farmers and stock raisers were unable to gain aid and unless they receive further credit within the next several months many of them will be "wiped out," they declared. The Texans will call upon the federal farm board and will confer with directors of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation. They are also scheduled to be heard by the house banking and currency committee on the joint resolution introduced by Representative Luther Johnson of Texas, expressing the will of congress that the Reconstruction Finance Corporation liberalize its loan policy with regard to agriculture and extend credit to the stock raising industry.

PLACING RESPONSIBILITY

How often does a motorist have to prove himself a menace to public safety before being deprived of the power to endanger the lives of others? The question is pertinent in view of a recent tragic happening in Massachusetts. The 22-year-old driver of one of two colliding automobiles has behind him a long record of highway traffic violations, his license having been twice revoked in four years. In the present case, in which the two occupants of the other vehicle were killed, a passenger in the car driven by the young man asserts he had been pushing the machine along at sixty-five miles an hour until urged to slow down, and officials report that it was his car that was on the wrong side of the traffic lane. In the sad circumstances it may remain impossible to adjudge where all the fault lay, but the Registrar of Motor Vehicles is quoted as saying that so long as he is in office this particular license will be permanently revoked. The decision will seem to many a belated one. The majority of automobile drivers are law abiding. Too many are not. In the state of Massachusetts alone the suspension and revoking of operators' licenses frequently exceeds a thousand a week. Sterner penalties would act not only as a deterrent to traffic rule violation, but would make the highways safe for the pedestrian and the careful motorist. Reading the account of the disaster in question many will have asked themselves, "Where does the ultimate responsibility for it lie? With the driver of unenviable record or with the state that set him free to jeopardize public safety after unmistakable exhibitions of reckless irresponsibility?" — Christian Science Monitor.

Fairman Company of this city sold and delivered a thresher to parties at Crosscut, Brown county, yesterday. Grain is being harvested very rapidly and the threshers will soon be in full operation. Mason & Cooke sell gas, oil, accessories, West Side square.

CUTTING EXPENSES

Tax burdens will only be reduced in one way—by reducing outgo. No matter how the tax leviers may talk of soaking the rich, the taxes collected come in the long run from the consumer and the rich are only a small part of the consuming public. When the candidates for the legislature come to you asking your vote and promising tax reduction—as most of them will do—ask them for specific ways they have in mind for this reduction. Unless that plan be for lessening of the money paid out by government, and unless they can tell you just what government bureau or agency or office or whatnot they will give their efforts to abolishing, you can set it down that their talk of tax reduction is empty talk. An Austin newspaper some time ago published the fact under large headlines that Austin was prosperous above other cities. Among the things cited were the university was spending some millions on building construction, that all departments of state were functioning and that business was "as usual," to use the trite phrase. Naturally Austin would be prosperous, with officials and employees getting the same salaries they have always gotten, with bureaus established at almost every session of the legislature. These employees are paid with tax money, and the more prosperous Austin is from this source the poorer will be the people of the rural districts be from paying the taxes. Tax reduction is a reduction of expenditures and unless the people are willing to forego some of the luxuries, in the way of duplicating agencies in practically every department of education and government, they should stop talking of tax relief.—Paris Morning News.

A SAD MISSION

Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Miller were called to Austin Monday morning to attend the funeral of Mrs. Miller's sister, Mrs. B. L. Dillingham, who died at her home in that city Sunday night of heart trouble. She had been in ill health for a long time, but seemed to be improving and her death was a decided shock to the family. Her funeral was held Tuesday morning at ten o'clock in the City Cemetery in Austin. Mrs. Dillingham lived near Goldthwaite in the early days of the town's history. Mr. Dillingham owned a shoe store here and also owned the Bulls Springs ranch and lived there for several years. The family moved from here to Austin, where Mr. Dillingham again engaged in the shoe business and is still so engaged. Mrs. Dillingham has frequently visited in her sister's home here and was known to quite a few in this city, all of whom deeply sympathize with the bereaved sister and other relatives.

SEVERE INJURIES FROM DIVE

Jack Barcroft, 20, Route 1, Comanche, is in a serious condition in Central Texas hospital, suffering from what physicians described as a fracture of the fifth phrosacic vertebra, received about 1 o'clock Tuesday afternoon, when he dived in a swimming hole and struck his head on the bottom. The youth probably owes his life to a friend, J. C. Davenport, about the same age, who was also at the swimming hole, and pulled him out after the accident. Friends of the youth at the hospital today said he would have drowned if Davenport had not been there. Barcroft, who had been working in the field during the morning, was going in swimming in Indian creek, a stream near his home, before he went back to work after noon. Physicians at the hospital today said Barcroft, who reached the hospital about 9 o'clock Tuesday night, is in a serious condition and they believe his chances for recovery are slim. His body below the fractured vertebra is paralyzed, but he is conscious. Doctors were to operate this afternoon in an effort to save his life.—Brownwood Bulletin.

AUNT ANN'S HEALTH PARAGRAPHS

Now with the return of summer comes the return of flies and mosquitoes. And with all our efforts to destroy them, hundreds and thousands just insist on remaining to carry on for the good of the race. But I notice flies and mosquitoes seldom hurt a person if they keep their body in ship-shape condition. With all these green vegetables you see at every turn and the sunshine that comes pouring down all day, I'm afraid a lot of flies and mosquitoes are going to fall short of their "high calling" this year. Suntan, according to fashion leaders, isn't stylish anymore. But it is just as healthy as ever. And what good would it do to have a dress made in up-to-the-minute lines if you're so doubled up with rheumatism you can't stick your nose out of the door, or are so sick with malaria you are flat of your back in bed? And I have never seen a germ yet sunshine wouldn't kill. My advice at the birth of the summer season is to get plenty of sunshine, eat plenty of fresh vegetables and invest in a few fly swatters, oil on the top of stagnant water still kills mosquitoes, I notice. And don't forget that lots of sleep does more than enhance your beauty and to drink quarts and quarts of good clean water. Yours for a healthy summer.

Miss Loraine Bledsoe is visiting relatives in San Angelo. Mrs. Kent Dori of Gary, Ind. is visiting her sister, Mrs. Bert Galloway.

Reports say Mr. Phil H. Clements' condition is not improving, although he is resting well. His friends are hoping for his recovery.

... building at Smithville, built in 1895, was burned Friday night.

Wind, hail and lightning did considerable damage in the neighborhood of Kaufman Friday. There was also a storm at the same time, which did much damage in Arkansas.

The Texas attorney general's department has protested to the Interstate Commerce Commission against proposed acquisition of the Chicago, Rock Island and Gulf railroad by the Chicago, Rock Island and Pacific.

One handit was killed, another wounded and the girl bookkeeper for the bank at Morris, Okla., was critically wounded during the robbery of the bank. The town marshal appeared on the scene of the robbery and was shot in the arm by the handits.

A dispatch from Jalapa, state of Vera Cruz, Mexico, Friday said the state legislature had passed a public utility expropriation law giving the state the power to seize, under condemnation proceedings, any private property needed for public purposes. The law specifically permits the state to take over commercial houses, farms, industries and industrial plants, city or rural property or transportation routes.

A London report says J. Rutherford Chalmers, 27, leaves Friday that his great uncle, John Rutherford, had left him an inheritance of more than $1,500,000 on condition that he adopt the great uncle's surname. Sir John, a prosperous Lancashire brewer, owned Skelton, the horse which won the St. Leger stakes in 1925. The Aga Khan offered him $500,000 for the horse, but he would not take it.

Establishment of a billion-dollar fund to guarantee bank deposits was approved by the lower house of congress Friday. Without a record vote the Stearns bank deposit guaranty bill was passed, despite administrative opposition, many house Republicans voting with Democrats. Half of the guarantee fund would come from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and the remainder from other sources.

A protest against compulsory vaccination as adopted recently by the Fort Worth Board of Education, was made by a representative of the Anti-Vaccination League of that city in a statement Friday. The statement reads in part: "Unless this order is immediately rescinded, a legal preparation and gains will be made to even prevent the opening of school in September of this year if necessary to forestall this damnable outrage on our people."

Farm aid spokesmen voiced confidence Friday night that a vote would be had in the senate on agricultural relief measures before congress adjourns. Although there was an attempt for an agreement to vote block, Chairman McNary of the Agriculture Committee, sponsor of a threefold farm relief program, told newspaper men he thought a decision would be reached on that proposal before the session ends. Senator Nye (Rep.) of North Dakota, who sought unsuccessfully for an agreement for a vote, said he predicted that "ultimately" it would be granted.

A NEGLECTED RESPONSIBILITY

In two months, July 23, the first primary will be held in Texas, to be followed five weeks later by the second primary, Aug. 27. Naturally attention will be centered on the candidates for the governorship and other important state offices, and for membership in the National Congress.

Yet to Texas, at the present time, the really important decisions to be made at the primaries are the choices for the membership of the Legislature and county offices. The Legislature of Texas has most important powers, compared to which the office of governor is insignificant. Its members will have before them perplexing problems respecting governmental reorganization in state and county, and they must give intelligent consideration to the burning questions of taxation, efficient economy and to the improvement of the harsh living standards of most of the farmers in Texas. Farmers are the backbone of the state's population and their present poverty and misery is a disgrace to Texas. Measures must be devised to raise the standard of living among them and for that purpose thinkers and doers are needed in the Legislature, not demagogic talkers. * * * Voters should consider with the greatest care their choices for the Legislature and for county administration. Legislative pay is now ample sufficient to attract honorable and intelligent citizens, so that patriotic voters in every legislative district and in every county should carefully select their best and put these in power, charged with the duty of serving the best interests of state and people.

If Democracy is to have any meaning at all in Texas, citizens must cease grouching and select those who as representatives of their constituencies will truly work for the promotion of the welfare of all citizens. In doing so, they should pay special attention to the improvement of the farmers of Texas—the best asset of the state. —Dallas News.

DANGERS OF DUTY ON OIL

In some quarters where the inclusion of import duties in the pending revenue bill would not be favored otherwise, there is a disposition to accept the proposal of a belief that it would help to stabilize the industry. Nothing could be further from the truth. On the contrary, such a levy would aggravate conditions now existing and raise a further barrier to our foreign trade without materially adding to the national revenue.

The oil industry is international and its problem is equally large in scope, with the United States having the greatest stake. Solution of the difficulties from over-production and ruthless competition is in co-operation rather than tariff protection. In the first place, a tax on imports would not restrict the domestic flow and that is one thing vitally needed. Neither would it bring about increased consumption here, because the oil from abroad is used largely for marine purposes and just that much business would be given elsewhere.

New York would be the first to feel adversely a duty on oil. According to a report of the Bureau of Mines, 4,480,000 barrels were imported during March, and more than half were entered at this port. If the steamship companies in the Atlantic trade are faced with a tax of 1-2 cent a gallon as now proposed, they will arrange to refuel their vessels at foreign ports. The supply comes principally from Colombia and Venezuela, and could be shipped to Europe at practically the same cost as to New York. That would injure our foreign trade without helping one iota in the consumption of domestic oil.

Stabilization of the oil industry must be undertaken from an international angle, and control of world output by agreement is the logical step. The benefit to the United States from such a course would far outweigh any advantage which might accrue from an import duty. —New York Journal of Commerce.

TEXANS TO REQUEST EXTENSION OF FARM AID

Austin, Texas, June 1.—Requests for extension and liberalization of federal government relief for agriculture, especially applicable to the southwestern area, will be made by a delegation of leading agriculturists and industrialists of Texas and New Mexico, who are in Washington this week.

The delegation consisted of John W. Carpenter of Dallas, John E. Owens of Dallas, Leon Goodman of Midland, A. P. Barrett of Fort Worth and J.E. McDonald, Texas commissioner of agriculture, who comprise the governor's contact committee. In Washington they will join Col. Albert T. Wood of Artesia, N. M., chairman of the contact committee of that state. The delegation represents the tri-state region of Texas, New Mexico and Arizona.

Continuance of the Dallas office of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for emergency crop loans and funds to be available for livestock financing in helping the cattlemen and farmers bring livestock and feed together are the principal objects sought by the delegation.

"We are firmly opposed to agriculture being cut off from the benefits of funds appropriated by congress or relief as long as the finance corporation is helping other industries," Commissioner McDonald said. "We are asking no special favors, but are insisting that agriculture be not discriminated against and that farmers receive just as much consideration and financial aid over just as long period as any other industry and commerce."

"If the tri-state region of Texas, New Mexico and Arizona is to receive from available funds a proportion relative to its livestock and agricultural production it is entitled to more than $12,000,000. To date it has borrowed only $4,000,000 and the other $8,000,000 is needed for emergencies and getting feed crops to livestock."

Encouraged by commendation given his back-to-the-farm plan by prominent Texans during a recent trip to Dallas, where he conferred with leaders in preparation for the Washington trip, Commissioner McDonald said he would discuss the unemployment situation in

IMPORTANCE OF LABOR

Labor cost comprises practically all of every constructive operation. Labor with bare hands lifts the surface ore, labor transports it to the smelter, labor transforms it into iron, labor shapes the iron into a pick that digs the coal that fires the furnace that makes the steam that saws the tree, and labor felled. Labor stacks the lumber that labor cuts from the tree, and labor loads it on a car, labor hauls it to a yard, labor piles it on a wagon, labor weaves it into a house. Labor is the whole cost from raw material to finished product. There is no true definition of labor that does not include supervision, bookkeeping, management. The money used in the project from start to finish is labor transmuted into tokens, for labor mints the coins, prints the paper, engraves the pictures which constitute and characterize money. From these suggestions we discover how superlatively important is the labor factor in world economy. There are no bad times when labor is generally employed. There are no good times when labor is largely unemployed. Our leaders in authority must not suppose prosperity can be fertilized with grandiose schemes for subsidizing idleness. Prosperity can not be coaxed by stump speeches. Prosperity can be won by making possible the steady employment of waged labor, on works which multiply labor. —State Press in Dallas News.

The southwest with federal officials and urge a study and investigation of the plan to return unemployed in industrial centers to farms.

"By those who have studied and investigated it, the plan is being accepted as the most practical means by which unemployment may be permanently reduced," Commissioner McDonald said.

Proposed by the Commissioner last fall, the plan is being given an increasing amount of consideration and thought at the present time.

The plan calls for a federal appropriation of funds for a revolving fund, which would be replenished by the issuance of currency based upon the bonds, which, secured by property, would be given by the person established on a farm.

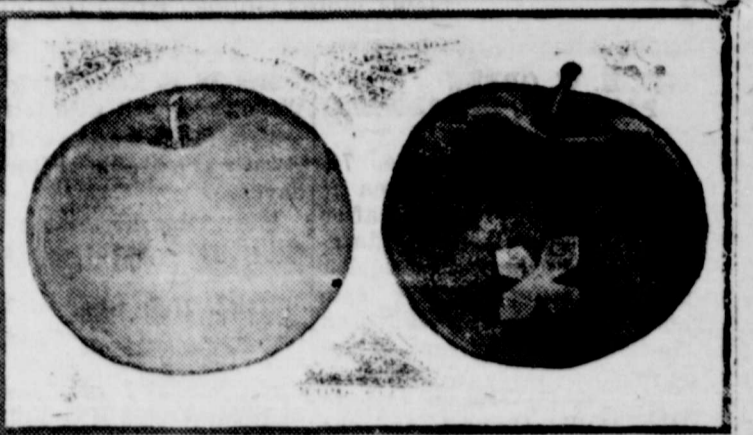

SHORTENING THE WORKING DAY

A general shortening of the hours of labor in all branches of industry may come about as one result of the present business depression. An increasing number of large business concerns are operating on a five-day week. There is a great deal of discussion among business men of the possibility of making the six hour day the standard. A bill has been introduced in congress for the reduction of the working day on government work, with a corresponding reduction in compensation to each worker, and for the adoption of a general five-day week in all industries. We do not expect very much to come out of that, because we have given up expecting congress to do anything to bring about the millennium. But we hear encouraging reports from industries that have adopted the shorter day and the shorter week, and it wouldn't surprise us to see this movement grow very rapidly.

Of course, the earnings of workers are necessarily less, individually, when they work shorter hours, but it takes more workers to operate the business and, on the whole, it seems a better thing for the nation at large to have everybody earning something than to have a few earning big pay and a lot earning nothing. Fewer people are going to be able to buy luxuries in the next few years than were able to buy them in the few years preceding the big slump. But even if everybody earned twenty-five per cent less for the next ten years than they did in the years from 1920 to 1930, our average income and buying power would still be much higher than that of the people of any other nation in the world. And if the five-day week and the six-hour day will result in putting everybody back to work, then we are for it.—Stephenville Empire Tribune.

Scientists Make The Apple Blush

Boyce Thompson Institute for Plant Research, Yonkers, New York. Left: A green or untreated apple. Right: Apple exposed to mercury arc (blue, violet and ultra-violet) for 40 hours. The cross was made by covering that section with paper during exposure.

PAINTING the lily has always been considered a waste of time, but rouging the apple is another story. The peach that blushes or the red-checked apple have a commercial advantage over their green sisters. The green-colored apple may be of equal deliciousness within, but it does not sell itself as does red fruit. Then too, Nature reddens fruit unevenly, according to how the sunlight strikes it.

At the Boyce Thompson Institute for Plant Research, you may see McIntosh apples of a beautiful red color, produced from green fruit in from forty to ninety-six hours. It is hardly fair to call this an artificial make-up, however. It is the sun's own method under control. By turning the blue, violet and ultra-violet rays of a mercury lamp on the green fruit, using a filter of some special glass (Pyrex or Correx), you speed up the action of the sun and at the same time protect the apple from burning or overheating. In other words, the fruit is colored quickly by improving on the sun's method.

Dr. John M. Arthur, in charge of this investigation, has found that only living cells of the apple peel will respond to this treatment. If the peel is too old or crushed, no color results. The best results, in the latitude of New York, come from picking the apples at August 25, when forty hours' exposure will color them. Picked as late of September 14, they needed ninety-six hours' exposure to the light. The skin cells are growing older and don't blush so readily. A temperature of fifteen degrees C (fifty-nine degrees F.) proved best. Apples are usually picked partly green and ripened in storage; picked dead ripe they would spoil before marketing. So this plan does not mean that you get a green apple looking deceptively ripe; not at all: you get your apple ripened as usual but given the red color by the sun's own method's before it is stored.

The General Electric 4-YEAR SERVICE PLAN is your guarantee of lowest cost refrigeration

THE TRUE COST OF ANY REFRIGERATOR is the purchase price plus what it costs to keep it operating through the years. Refrigeration is a service that must go on day after day, year after year, without care, thought or attention.

Your most important consideration in selecting a refrigerator is the mechanism. It represents 70% of your investment. If the mechanism of your refrigerator fails, you have no refrigeration. Failure of the operating unit means service expense and repair bills... plus the added inconvenience and waste of periodically being without any refrigeration.

General Electric's new Service Plan, extending through four full years, protects every new buyer against all possible failure of the Monitor Top mechanism. Should any failure occur during four years the entire unit will be immediately replaced without charge. No patching or repairing, but a complete new unit installed without cost or delay.

Only the G-E has all mechanism entirely sealed inside the steel walls of the Monitor Top. Air, dirt, dust and moisture... the elements destructive to any mechanism... cannot reach it.

Common sources of trouble in other refrigerators are eliminated in the General Electric design. Fans, belts, stuffing boxes... parts that must be periodically lubricated... are all done away with by the Monitor Top. The G-E requires no attention... not even oiling.

Period Accessories in the Boudoir

PERIOD designs in furniture and decorations and also in the accessories of the toilet table have always been popular for the American bedroom. As the Colonial style has found favor widely as the best note to strike in furnishing a sleeping apartment, and also as the approaching Washington Centennial has given an added interest in early American motifs, some of the most alluring dressing tables now being displayed are equipped with comb, brush, mirror, slipper horn and manure appliances that are really American in form, color, design and inspiration.

Monticello, the home of Jefferson, has given its name to one group of these toilet accessories which seem to reflect the best art ideals of the early colonists and to be particularly restrained and refined in spirit, as were the arts of the early American craftsmen. The shapes are based on the best work of the Colonial diversions and archi-

Rescuing Bread Pudding

How often you have heard the peevish words: "Oh, I hate that old bread pudding!" Here are two ways to rescue bread puddings from such condemnation and make it not a penalty but a delight:

Hawaiian Bread Pudding: Scald two cups milk, add one-half cup sugar, two tablespoons butter, one-half teaspoon salt and one-fourth teaspoon nutmeg, and pour over two cups stale bread (pieces not crumbs), letting it stand until soft and milk taken up by the bread. Add two beaten eggs, and pour into a large shallow baking dish. Lay the drained slices from a No. 2½ can of Hawaiian pineapple over the top, and bake in a slow oven, 350°, for from forty-five minutes to an hour. This serves 4 or 5 very liberally. Serve with the following:

Sauce: Smooth together one-half tablespoon cornstarch, one-third cup sugar and one-fourth cup cold water. Heat the syrup from the pineapple, add, and cook until creamy, stirring constantly. Add two tablespoons lemon juice and a few grains of nutmeg.

Try Whole Wheat Pineapple Pudding: Toast four slices of whole wheat bread, butter and cut into small squares. Place in bottom of a baking dish and pour over the drained fruit from half of a No. 2 can of crushed Hawaiian pineapple. Beat one egg, add four tablespoons sugar, one cup milk and a few grains of nutmeg and pour over. Bake in a slow, 350°, oven for about forty minutes. Serve warm with sauce made by stirring together the pineapple syrup and some heavy cream. This serves six.

SLAVERY IN HUNGARY

Slavery has been an unknown institution in Hungary since before the middle ages, but serious economic difficulties have produced a system of child barter similar to the child slavery system in China. Many of the poorest peasants of eastern Hungary are selling their children for ridiculous sums.

The first public sale of children took place at the market of a village a few days ago. A woman arrived at the fair in a big horse cart loaded with about 20 boys and girls, 6 to 10 years old. They were the children of a group of farm hands who had jobs on far-away estates. It was impossible for them to take their children along, and so they gave them to the woman for sale on commission.

The child monger shouted in the middle of the market place: "Strong boys and girls for sale at the lowest possible price." Many farmers who had none or too few children came to look at the "material" for sale, needing children to do chores.

The children were sold for a very low price. "Strong" boys went for 25 pengos ($3.25), smaller and weaker boys for 20 pengos and girls for 15. All the children were sold in half an hour.

ADVERSITY'S LESSONS FORGOTTEN

A journalist writing in a New York paper offered some pungent comment upon national habits, which too often pave the way to the stress and strain of times of depression. He said:

"Had people been half as anxious to discover and provide for fresh artificial wants, we should have lived within our income and now had a surplus in hand instead of a deficiency to make up. Instead of seeing how far within our income we could live, we have been trying to ascertain how far beyond it we could possibly venture. We must now return to first principles and acknowledge he is the wealthiest who saves most, and that the money we have received is not our own until we have satisfied all just demands accruing from it."

Who is this stern moralist lecturing America upon its financial shortcomings? Is he a contemporary looking back upon the shortcomings of 1929? No, it is Walt Whitman, writing in the Brooklyn Daily Times in 1857. Thus we are reminded, in a study of Whitman as a journalist, which recently appeared in the Saturday Review of Literature, how easily forgotten are the lessons of adversity.—Fort Worth Star-Telegram.

Wary is the mental message that you've got poison in your veins. We need less advice on how to get a job and more on how to hold one. He is a fool who wastes his nerve force in one vast wave of anger. Every man journeys toward a kingdom where he is to be king or vassal. No one envies the pioneer until he begins to gather in his spoils. If uncomfortable under the world's scrutiny, be sure there is something you ought to know about yourself. If some people would cling to the cross just like they cling to their opinions they would never lose their grip on the Lord. If the epitaphs were said over and over again in the home, there would be fewer on the tombstones. Because a man happens to be extravagant with his love is no sign that he will ever come to want. A Fool—the fellow who expects to get something out of life and yet refuses to put anything into it. The element of time enters into everything. Given time, the problem will not only be solved, but slowly and imperceptibly outgrown. We are living in an age when buoyant youth refuses to worship the dust and bones of a musty past. Whether the future years shall profit thereby remains to be seen. The mystery of the great soul is to be found in that dramatic crisis—the moment when the action of brain and heart would be a torment to the common rabble. That man who wilfully neglects his own, or that woman who deliberately refuses the crown of motherhood—these are the shoals upon which the American home is sure to wreck. It has never failed. It cannot fail. Some very poor people have nothing but money. That's the reason why they can't break into some high circles. There are some things money won't buy—brains and character, for instance. MOUNT OLIVE

This star reporter is in a foreign county at this date, but will be back in time for lots of farm work this week. Regardless I am unlike the three wise monkeys; I see all, know all and hear all of my community gossip. I was slightly insulted last week by a neighbor walking over my corn patch. I asked him why he was there and he told me he was hunting bee trees. This was a terrible insult to my cultivated corn patch.

We built an arbor for our convention for this Saturday night and Sunday. Every singer in the county that fails to be present had better have a good alibi, as if he does not, he had better keep away from this reporter.

WILL APPRECIATE SUPPORT

To the Voters of Mills County: It will be impossible for me to make a house-to-house canvass in my campaign for District Clerk, owing to the fact that my husband's condition will not permit of my absence from home for any considerable length of time and the further fact that I am not financially able to make such a campaign. It is very hard for me to provide the necessities for my family and I can not afford any extra expense, yet I need the office and will certainly appreciate the support of the voters, assuring them that if I am elected I will give the best service of which I am capable. Respectfully,

MRS. NETTIE McLEAN.
